Bob Neal reported that a swimming party could be scheduled at the Fairmont Plunge, the cost to be 40 cents per person, or at Sutro, where the college could have a separate tank, complete with life-guard, all to itself for 60 cents per person.

The Sutro Baths arrangement was "rail-roaded" through, and President Maury Schwarz instructed Neal to cancel any previous arrangements made with the Fairmont. The party was set for tomorrow night (Thursday).

NO LACK OF ACTIVITY

Apparently intent that students should never want for social activity of some sort, the Committee granted permission to the combined Freshman classes to stage a Frosh Sprawl this coming Friday afternoon in the Galileo Gym, admittance to be 10 cents per person.

An invitation to hold a College Night at the Mark Hopkins hotel on June 12 was officially accepted by the committee.

Provoking the greater part of the discussion at the meeting was the plea of the Women's Athletic Association for an appropriation with which to buy a trophy, to be kept in the college as a "tradition," on which would be inscribed the names of the winners of the all-school mixed doubles tennis tournament, which is now in swing.

Claiming that there was absolutely no money left in the treasury (this will, obviously, mean that the ex-Council will be unable to vote itself the pins about which it talked earlier in the semester), President Schwarz became somewhat violently opposed to any such appropriation.

Schwarz further said that it was a WAA activity, and if the WAA had spent its budget, it was just too bad.

William Rawson, Editor of The Guardsman, opined that, since the whole school was invited to participate in the tournaments, perhaps some consideration might be in order. This suggestion apparently did not meet with general approval.

"NO HELP NEEDED!"

Bernelyn Seymour, who brought up the subject, suggested that it would be a nice "tradition."

"And you know you've been harping quite a bit yourself about the lack of traditions around the school, Maury," she said.

At this juncture, Rawson offered the suggestion that The Guardsman would undertake to help sponsor the tournaments, and would offer the trophy.

A few members of the Council then expressed curiosity as to the paper's financial ability to do so.

"I guess The Guardsman can worry along by itself all right, without anyone else's having to get gray hairs for it," Editor Rawson opined.

Ward Nichols, comptroller, then put in his appearance, and was asked his opinion.

"Rawson knows the financial condition of the paper," Nichols advised, "and if he wants to put up the trophy, I see no reason why he can't."

"CAN'T PREVENT IT!"

Asked if the Executive Council shouldn't first pass on the matter, Nichols replied, after Rawson had first stated that the Executive Committee was not running the paper the slightest bit.

"If Rawson wants to go ahead with the idea, I don't see how the Council can prevent his so doing. Their voted approval or disapproval, however, might possibly carry some influence."

At this point, Schwarz surrendered the floor to Vice President Neal Martin, who said that if the paper were to do this, other activities would Cardinals Play At Soph Formal Rally On Thurs.

Giving a preview of what students will see and hear at the Sophonore Formal Dance to be held May 22 at the Hotel Mark Hopkins, Craig's Cardinals gave an exhibition of their abilities at the assembly held last week at Galileo. The orchestra played a variety of tunes that had the audience applauding enthusiastically after each number.

The formal, under the direction of Neal Martin, vice-president of the Associated Students, will be held in the Room of the Dons with bids priced at $1.50 per couple. The bids are limited to 150, and Martin stresses the importance of getting bids as early as possible.

Those selling the bids include Joe Kissell, Fleming Pope, Neal Martin, George Hagens, Bob Sisco, Edward Schwartz, and Marie McKnight. Tickets may be purchased from them any time up till May 22, if they are still available.

Martin, who took charge of the plans for the formal when elected vice-president by the Executive Council, claims that this dance will be the college's largest and best run affair held so far.

Further Plans Are Made For H.A. Show

At a meeting of the Household Arts Association held on Wednesday, May 6, plans were discussed for their Fashion Tea scheduled for May 29.

Louise Corica, president of the organization, said that no definite plans had been made as yet, but full details will be given in a future issue of The Guardsman.

End of Dictatorship Is Intimated By One Of Candidates, And Boldly Advocated By Other

NEW DEALER

We the students of S. F. J. C. are gradually coming into our own. The past year has been a trying one, and it has been very difficult for executive and social societies to function. Our present and past efficers are to be congratulated heartily for their untiring efforts in promoting the welfare of the school. If elected president, I will endeavor to follow in their footsteps, pledging a NON-PARTISAN aid to all social, service, and athletic societies. I will endeavor to make this next year a stepping stone of a new era, with an abundant amount of social and athletic activities. Yours for a new deal,

Carlyle Caine.

SUTRO SWIM PARTY PLANNED THURSDAY EVENING AT 8

An all-college swimming party will be held tomorrow night, beginning at 8 o'clock, at Sutro Baths, according to plans made by Robert Neal, working under the directions of the Executive Committee.

The admission will be 60 cents for those not bringing their own swimming suits, and 45 cents for those who do, according to Neal.

A special tank has been reserved exclusively for the college, Neal said, with the service of a life guard thrown in, too.

For those who do not wish to swim (as well as those who do), 10 cents will pay for the privilege of dancing, playing ping-pong, or handball, according to plans.

It is rumored that aquatic events, comic and serious, comparable to those staged at the last all-school swimming party held at the Fairmont Plunge will be offered.

The swimming party was originally scheduled for Friday night, but was put ahead one day because of the Frosh Sprawl to be held the following day, Friday.

Members of the Block Letter Society are requested to meet today at 12:30 o'clock.

ANTI-MEDDLER

In answering a request for a statement from the Guardsman, I would like to state that my platform for the coming campaign will be the abolishment of dictatorship in the students' affairs. In the past there has been too much telling the other fellow just what to do.

I wish also to express appreciation for the vast amount of efforts devoted to student activities by the past student administrations, and I promise that I shall also devote the maximum amount of my time, whether I am elected or not.

Sincerely,
Robert Sisco.

Stag Freshman Sprawl Planned On Next Friday

Heralded as its first function of the semester, the Freshman class will sponsor a stag Frosh Sprawl next Friday afternoon, May 15, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, in the women's gymnasium at Galileo.

The principal feature of the event will be that it is entirely stag, according to the class officers, with plenty of women around. The price of admission was set by the Executive Council at 10 cents per person.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by Lon Wirgler's dance band, which is claimed to be popular on the University of California campus.

James Neal and Karnig Khencheljian, class presidents, will head the social committee for the Sprawl, to consist of Marie McKnight, Tyler McIlduff, Daniel Simonetti, Jane Neal, Marge Silk, and Betty Hunt.

Fred Wilkinson and Heleno Wright are making posters to advertise the dance.

Constitution Group Of AWS Will Meet Wednesday, May 20

The Constitutional Committee of the Associated Women Students of the college will present the A. W. S. constitution at a meeting to be held Wednesday, May 20, according to Elizabeth Yates, chairman.

Candidates for next term's A. W. S. officers will be present at this meeting and their petitions, signed by 25 women students, must be turned in to the A. W. S. Council by May 18.

All students are eligible to vote in this election.

ELECTIONS TAKE PLACE FRIDAY AT POWELL, GALILEO

Election of Associated Student Body officers for the Fall semester will take place Friday, May 15, with balloting held on the mezzanine floor of the Extension Building in the morning, and in Room 150, Galileo, in the afternoon.

Robert Sisco and Carlyle Caine are competing for the office of president.

In the race for the vice-presidency, Donna McPherson is unopposed.

Shirley Breyer and Marie McKnight are vying for the corresponding secretaryship, while Caroline Orahood stands unopposed for the office of recording secretary.

Deming Smith and Bob Nelson will face each other on the ballots for the head yell leadership. Both have been assistants this semester.

Sisco, president of the Men's Club, defeated Caine for the office of low sophomore representative earlier in the semester. Caine was a member of the conference winning basketball team, and is the candidate sponsored by the Block S? Society. Both men are San Mateo transfers.

Miss McKnight has served as high freshmen women's representative, is a member of the Social Committee, and head of the date bureau. Miss Breyer is also a member of the Social Committee, and has served under the NYA as secretary to Administrator Edith Pence.

All students are eligible to vote in this election.

144 Students Take Tuberculin Tests; 32 React Positive

Thirty-five women and 109 men students took the tuberculin tests given last week, according to Dr. Alice Potter, who gave the examinations.

Of these, 20 have not yet reported for readings, Dr. Potter said. Of those who have reported, 32 had a positive reaction, the physician reports.

Those showing a positive reaction will have x-rays taken, either by their own doctors, or through arrangements made by the City Department of Health, the school doctor announced.

Local Debating Team Is To Select Council Vice-President

San Francisco Junior College was selected to appoint the vice president and treasurer of the Northern California Forensics Conference Council of Junior Colleges at a conclave held at Menlo Junior College recently.

The appointment will be made soon, according to Wallace Fowler, local debater and president of the Economics Club, who attended the meeting.

SACRAMENTAN PRESIDENT

Billi Langner of Sacramento Junior College was elected president of the conference.

While at Menlo, the local debating team engaged that of Sacramento in a non-decisional fray, on the question of government ownership of all public utilities, in which Eurene Blumenthal and Fowler upheld the negative.

LUNCHEON GUESTS

Isabel Sharrat, chairman of the debate, and Helene Wright, A.W.S. president, accompanied the team.

Following the meeting of the conference, delegates were guests at a luncheon held in the Menlo dining hall.

After the luncheon, the group was conducted on a tour of the Menlo J. C. campus by G. C. Adams, forensics sponsor at Menlo.

The next conference meeting will be held in August, it was announced at the Menlo gathering.

PERPETUAL AWARD IN MIXED DOUBLES RACQUET CONTESTS

Assisting in the inauguration of a new college tradition, The Guardsman is cooperating with the Women's Athletic Association to sponsor the mixed doubles tennis tournament now being held, by providing a perpetual trophy to be awarded each semester.

This award will remain in the college trophy collection, with the names of each year's winners inscribed on it. In addition to this perpetual trophy, the W.A.A. is offering winners of this semester's tournaments individual awards consisting of a pin for the successful woman player and a medal for her partner.

ROUND EXTENDED

Time for the first round has been extended to May 18 to allow the members of the tennis team competing at Stanford to play off their matches.

Campus rumor suggests that the winner will be one of the following teams: Marcella O'Connor and Bill Kennedy, Betty Phillips and Milton Durfee, or the Davis-Heavy combination.

The matches, which will be played off in time for the final awards assembly, may be scheduled for the Palace of Fine Arts courts from 9 to 12 noon, or at any other place by time the contestants choose.

STIMULATES SPIRIT

Tom Wilson, men's tennis coach, expressed the opinion that the interest displayed in the tournament will go far to stimulate college spirit, and that the social contacts effected by the contest will enable the students to become better acquainted with each other.

The following contestants must play off their first round matches:

POLITICIANS, TAKE NOTE!

Promising to offer the best slate of candidates yet presented to the students of this college, elections will be held in the near future. Already, the campus politicians are applying the century-famed smoothing oil, and getting their respective steam-rollers under weigh.

At this writing, the exact platforms of the candidates for the presidency have not yet been definitely known. It is probable, however, that remedies for certain obvious defects that have been prevalent throughout both of the past student administrations will be offered. Further, wise candidates, aware of the trend of thought, will support the ideals of democracy as contrasted with those of miniature, attempted dictatorships.

Through it all, The Guardsman will remain absolutely neutral, supporting neither the one nor the other. The columns of the paper are open to all candidates and their campaign managers for presentation of reasons why they think so and so should be elected.

The editor of The Guardsman offers to set 'em up for anyone who can prove that the paper has shown any preference previous to elections.

WHERE'S THE PERFECT MAN?

Needless to say, a world of perfect beings would be rather dull and uninteresting.

This does not mean, however, that the world would remain just a lovely, lively place if we were to continue in our customary, hectic ways; for, in order to continue under such a condition, that condition must have existed previously.

In this case, the pre-supposition would be that this world is at present a "lovely, lively" place—which, cynic and optimist alike will agree, it just isn't.

Perfection can never be attained, so one need not worry about the future of the world on that score. On the contrary, attempts to reach the heights of perfection will serve to make it far better and far more interesting than would be the case under a policy of passive indifference.

The futility of all words on this subject lies in two common, regrettable human traits: Failure to realize or admit any lack of perfection of self, and, in the improbable event of such admission, lack of sufficient interest to take any steps toward improvement.

[illegible] ng out moral issues; sometimes, they even [illegible] es as well as faults. [illegible] y, "Yes, that's quite right," but shrug, as [illegible] but, of course, that doesn't apply to me."

As Diogenes sought an honest man in vain, so also might one as well dash about with a flashlight in broad daylight seeking a perfect one.

SO THEY THINK THEY'RE GOOD?

Lack of individual spirit around this college has been generally accepted as a regrettable, but true, condition. It has not been expected, however, that group spirit would sink to the same irresponsible level.

Even worse, a startling example of degradation to this category has been offered by a society that has heretofore prided itself upon efficient organization, whole-hearted cooperation, and intense advocation of college spirit and activities. This group, the Block SF Society, proved itself not so dependable as such academic groups as the Economics Club when it came to cooperating with The Guardsman to have photographs taken for the special edition which will be presented with a rotogravure section on June 3.

It seems rather logical to assume that a group sponsoring a candidate for the presidency on the platform of efficient, smooth-running, well-managed government might be able to get its members together for a picture in two attempts. The Economics Club did it, nearly 100 per cent, in only one attempt.

The Rifle and Pistol Club, at least, did not let the photographer down, by the simple expedient of expressing the opinion that it did not consider it worth 25 cents per member to have a picture in the first attempt to establish a permanent record of the college's initial year of existence.

There is no intention of picking on any particular club, when so many have been offenders. It is necessary, however, to mention specific ones as examples, especially when one of these has so long been boastful of its prowess, as above mentioned.

It is regrettable, in a way, that comment of this sort should become necessary at a time like this, for some are apt to construe this editorial as political propaganda directed against the Block SF Society. This is not the case. The paper must first look after its own interests, and it is pure coincidence that this matter should arise at the time of elections. Still, taking things into consideration, it might seem that a group that falls down in a simple matter like this one perhaps might not . . .

Congratulations and thanks are extended to those organizations which have cooperated so willingly and promptly. They shall not be forgotten.

With the exception of the inconvenience caused by the non-cooperating groups, work on the Special Edition is progressing nicely, under the untiring efforts of Kenneth Bixler and Virginia Bornmueller.

More than half of the seniors had uncomplainingly co-[illegible] their pictures taken in Room 401 by [illegible] have not yet so done must do so [illegible] wish their picture to appear with those of the rest of the first graduating class. Although cash on the line is preferred, IOU's will be accepted in cases where immediate payment of the dollar is impossible.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

Haile Selassie's flight from Ethiopia proved a disappointment to many. Newspaper stories carried during the last few days preceding the ultimate triumph of Rome implied, if not boldly quoted, that the Conquered Lion of Judea claimed he would fight to the last, would die before surrendering. Like many monarchs, perhaps he thought that that was what his soldiers should do, but his royal personage, of course, must remain unharmed. Divinity, you know.

Still, he cannot be blamed too much. A living fleer can enjoy life much longer than a dead stayer. Then, too, even if Haile did fail to live up to expectations, so also did his followers cruelly desert, and turn against him. It was enough to make any man give up with bitter disappointment.

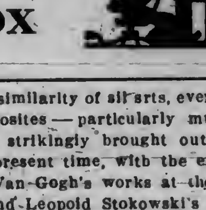
What Next In Advertising?

Modern advertising, with all its ballyhoo and crazy inferences, offers no end of amusement. It would seem that one will surely die of indigestion if one does not smoke a particular brand of cigarettes; will surely die in a traffic accident if using any but a certain brand of tires; and ad infinitum.

The prize of the month, however, goes to the manufacturer of a certain bathroom necessity (necessity, despite Irvin Cobb's specialties), whose advertisement boasted more mileage than ever before (well, it implied it, anyway).

Bay, of Course, Is Invisible?

Berkeley, across the bay, while not a leader in industry, makes up for it by attempting to lead almost everything else. It sponsored Northern California's first citizens' fingerprinting campaign, and is still at work, with offices on nearly every street corner.



Pioneering in the field of directing airplanes, Berkeley has decided to paint its name and a bit of information on the roof of the high school gymnasium to assist pilots. The gym is but two stories high, lying in the shadow of the six-story Board of Education building. If an airplane could see that, isn't it just barely possible that it could see San Francisco Bay, too—or isn't the Bay much of a landmark?

Oh, He Doesn't Count

Headlines screamed about the recent political battle between the Warren Republicans and the Landon Republicans, better known as the Merriam-Hearst Republicans; after the election, Warren's victory was dazzlingly proclaimed.

Some bright person wrote to a local newspaper, asking what about Franklin Roosevelt? He only carried the majority of ALL VOTES CAST, Republican and Democratic combined. Perhaps this should have been mentioned.

The Music Box

The basic similarity of all arts, even though through 'opposites'—particularly music and painting—is strikingly brought out in this city at the present time, with the exhibition of Vincent Van Gogh's works at the Legion of Honor, and Leopold Stokowski's directorship of his Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra at the Civic Auditorium.

Van Gogh's paintings give the impression of an almost infinite search, built on the norm of construction and destruction, the feverish hunt for true intelligence. Stokowski seems to give the feeling of finality in music; Van Gogh, a definite feeling of groping. One offers a concrete world of life, the other a search of life—there is beauty to be found in both.

Stokowski's superb, impressive appearance and performance should satisfy the most theatrically minded person. The music of his orchestra is superbly beautiful, and its augmented orchestral versions of Bach and Sebelius seem to produce a result of silken greatness.

It is interesting to hear comments around the college about music and art. Ruth Jensen, dramatic instructor, remarked: "Nowhere in any modern art except the theater does all art meet. Color, light, literature, all arts are blended by surging rhythm and harmony found in music and dance."

The Republicans cannot win the next election, unless they soon start offering sound solutions, instead of picking to pieces the Democrats.

The ayes have it, so out goes the scandal column

THE RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

I have been reading in the newspapers of the hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the University of London, England. Although the largest institution of higher learning in the British Isles, and proud of its past, London University is not satisfied with itself. It has long been handicapped by the fact that its component colleges are scattered over a huge metropolis without any central edifice to weld them into a unified whole.

From the appearance of conditions today, it appears that the same thing will be written about S.F.J.C. 100 years from now.

HOPEFUL STUDENT.

Note: Are you hopeful that we can exist this way for another 100 years? Or that the situation can be remedied within a century?—Ed.

• • •

Dear Editor:

I agree heartily with the Ram-Horner who disapproved of It Comes Out Here in the last issue. Why have a cat meowing even in a college paper?

Such columns belong in high school papers and shouldn't be tolerated in The Guardsman, which seems to aspire toward higher things in its other write-ups. But print is expensive, so why not put it to better advantage by substituting for It Comes Out Here something more constructive?

A READER.

Dear Editor:

Regarding the column "It Comes Out Here," I agree with you and "Private Life." These would-be "Winchellites" or "Smudge Pot Artists," at least ought to use a little of their literary technique in writing that column or discontinue it entirely.

It is my opinion that this type of "news" is just a little out of place in college. Is it any wonder that outsiders refer to us at J.C. as "prepsters" when they read our delightful little column on the business of others?

JUST A SOPH.

P.S.—Who was it that said, "Oh, Lord, please help me keep my — nose out of other people's business"?

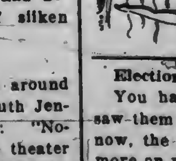
CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Inaugurating a new era in which the theater-going public will turn its attention once more to the living stage, the WPA Federal Theater Project in its first presentation at the Columbia Theater has definitely aroused interest in San Francisco.

Set in a Jesuit monastery, located anywhere in the United States, this well-written play deals with the subject of faith. Two monks wish to rejoin the world and the things each left; one, his music, the other, a girl. The occurrence of a miracle restores their belief in monastic life. Another monk learns that the miracle was not real, but he is not at liberty to divulge this. The faith of a crippled boy gives rise to a true miracle, which restores the monk's shattered faith.

When the presence of an unusual number of gentlemen of the clergy in the audience was noticed, vague misgivings that the ensuing drama might be a little uninteresting for the average audience began arising in this reviewer. These were quickly and entirely dispelled as the play got under way, however, for here were actors with poise, and smoothness, who imbued their characters with personality. They were portraying men who had given their lives to the Jesuit church. The intelligence and the ideals of these human characters could not help making one genuinely interested. The play is not without humor and the amusing parish priest received due appreciation from the audience.



Not only has the Federal Theater Project provided a means whereby professionals of the theater may make use of their talents, but the aim of the project,—to revive interest and keep alive the inimitable charm of the living theater—is certainly well on the road to realization if such quality continues in their productions.

This week the Federal Theater Project players are presenting Lady Say Yes, by Max Dill, at the Columbia.

Attention, we feel, should be called to the readings of Miss Ruth Jensen, dramatics instructor, which are given for the benefit of the class in dramatics, at the Little Theatre, located on the fifth floor at Galileo. Last Friday, May 8, Miss Jensen gave an inspiring dramatic interpretation of Cyrano de Bergerac. This was preceded by several well-written reviews which discussed the play. Readings such as this provide a rare opportunity for dramatic appreciation and enjoyment not to be overlooked.

Pres. Is Ready To Swim; On Vote Advice

Election day is Friday—

You have heard the candidates, and you saw them at the assembly last Monday. Right now, the progress of next semester depends more on you than it ever will again.

After Friday, it will depend largely upon the officers whom you have selected. When you go to vote, then, think not only of your friends, but also of yourselves.

Remember that a candidate should be willing to work for you first before he expects your cooperation. After a year together, you should know who those are who deserve your support, and who, by previous effort, have shown their ability and willingness. Let your feelings of friendship be subjugated by your good judgment when you vote.

If you remember, in my last writing I spoke of swimming. The weather at this writing is even more provoking of thoughts of grassy banks and the "ole swimming 'ole by the turn of the crik."

In a large city, we can't just dash down to the river, yank off our clothes, and splash about dressed only as mother nature originally intended. We can, however, still go swimming, and in the very near future—so near, in fact, that it is tomorrow night when the official, all-school swimming party is scheduled for Sutro Baths. You can get your tickets at Sutro's. See you all there to cool off with me!

To give the ladies a chance to attend where they will not feel that their dignity is impaired, the semi-annual Hi Jinks will be held at the Scottish Rite Temple at Sutter and Van Ness, Thursday, May 28.

With accommodations for at least 1000 people, already we have available 1000 bottles of Coca Cola, 1000 Love Nests, 1000 boxes of cookies, 1000 sticks of gum, plenty of cigarettes for everyone, and more donations still coming.

OUT OF THE HAT

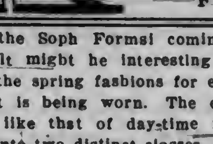
The other day we came across an article written by one of our foremost theorists on the question of world peace which, when summed up, proclaimed that the only way to insure world peace is for every man, woman, and child to refuse to fight or take part in any conflict, even in a war of defense. As we read this, we were reminded of an incident that happened in the East not so very long ago, and which we think proves that this advocater of peace does not know human nature.

It seems that a young soap-box orator was bellowing forth to a crowd of idle listeners, downing this and that, and generally denouncing our social and economic set-up as the cause of his ragged condition. When he got around to the trite subject of peace and war he assumed the most martyred aspect and said, "If we, as an organized body, would fistly refuse to lift a finger against any one of our 'brothers,' regardless of race, color, or creed, regardless of whether it be in self-defense, or for what some call the preservation of liberty; I assure you that we would soon do away with wars."

As he stopped to draw a breath, a young army officer who had been standing nearby elbowed his way through the crowd and tapped the orator on the arm. "Mister," said the officer, "you mean to tell me that if somebody did you a great injustice, such as depriving you of your home or hurting one of your family, you wouldn't try to do anything about it, even if you had to resort to force?"

"No," replied the soapboxer, "if I resorted to force, I would be just as much in the wrong as the one who had offended me."

The army man looked at him a moment and then suddenly he reached up and slapped the "little dove of peace" in the face. At this our little dove jumped from his box and socked the officer with a hefty right to the chin. When they were separated, the army man turned to the crowd and said, "No, he won't fight—like Hell he won't!"



The orator picked up his box and slowly walked away.

If we ever meet up with this great theorist who wrote the article mentioned, we are going to put him to the same test. If he doesn't try to sock us back, we won't believe he is human.

Do not mistake our attitude on the subject of peace. We do not stand for militarism, nor do we favor that terrible thing called war, but we do stand for the maintenance of a military force strong enough to protect American lives and property. This should be our first concern when we elect our country's leaders to office. Let us not risk the destruction of our great country, our American ideals and high standards built by the sweat and blood of our ancestors, by adherence to the asinine preachings of a few weak-kneed hypocrites who have nothing in this world to protect or fight for anyway.

FASHION FLASHES

By FEM

With the Soph Formal coming up very shortly, it might be interesting to take a look at the spring fashions for evening and see what is being worn. The evening silhouette, like that of day-time fashions, is divided into two distinct classes, outfits that are severely tailored and those that are fragilely feminine.

The tailored type is found more generally in the popular dinner suits and cocktail frocks, but most of these are of formal length and feature masculine jackets which, when removed, reveal gowns that typify the more sophisticated phase of evening wear. Black prevails in these suits, but the deadness of stiff taffeta and slick satin is often relieved by touches of bright, printed crepe or crisp, white pique.

The more feminine formals come in a variety of fabrics, the most popular being sheer silk net, usually black, which is worn over hold, vivid prints or bright taffeta slips, and which is often tastefully combined with lace.

Flowing chiffon, plain or printed, is used in the modernized Grecian type of frock with lots and lots of pleats. As summer comes nearer, many cotton formals will be worn, with pique, organdy, glazed chintz, and rayon proving popular.

Skirts for evening wear just clear the floor, and the few trains that are being worn are quite short.

It is very important to wear something in your hair in the evening, whether it be jeweled butterfly combs, silver or gold clusters, feathers, or real or artificial flowers.

Paper Talk

By The Same

We were somewhat disappointed that the satire of our last column went over the heads of most readers. In order to rile anyone, it would seem that we have to cast aspersions, in plain language, as to the legitimacy of the birth of our victims, the animal classifications of their mothers, and invoke the curse of the deities upon them. Put that in the right order, and you might get what we mean.

Keeping our promises, we are now going to elect your officers for the Fall semester. Before we tell you how, we have to admit that the Editor let us get some inside information by permitting us to read all the election dope, as well as his intended editorials. Incidentally, either he has some inside dope, or he is pretty smart, for his guess that abolishment of dictatorships would be in the platforms came true. We happen to know that he wrote his NOTICE TO POLITICIANS editorial before he even saw or heard of the statements of the candidates.

Avoids the Issue

Now we, in our modest way, have ambitions of becoming a great politician. We proved it in our way of getting a new building for you. In typical political fashion, we are going to avoid the big issue as long as we can. So, we shall elect the minor officers first.

Since Donna McPherson doesn't have anyone envying her her aspirations for the social leadership of the college, there isn't much we can do to oppose her. We don't want the job. So, we are going to run in a dark horse, whose identity we won't reveal, but will write in on the ballots—on every ballot as it comes in, if we can get the job of counting them.

Now, nobody can envy anyone a job as secretary, although we might like to have a good looking one for our own private office. Hence, Caroline Orginos we automatically elect to her coveted post of recording secretary.

Looks Out For Self

We hope, however, that she won't be like Miss McPherson, who, after she had won the post, admitted that she found she would have to study typing some more to hold down the job.

Now, we don't know Shirley Breyer, but we do know that Marie McKnight comes from Berkeley, just like the Editor. And we do know that the Editor has a bit of patriotism for the place where the moo-cows keep people awake all night long, just like the roosters do, in that cross-bay hamlet. Now, since we want to see our name in a good place in the editorial masthead next term, we want to keep on the good side of the Editor, so we are going out and campaign for Marie.

As for yell leaders—aw, they're both noisy, this Smith and Nelson combination. We are going to write in a new name on the ballot: NEMO NULLUS.

Well, we've avoided the big issue—electing the president. We don't want to run ourselves (but we may have to run like nobody's business if we antagonize Big Adolph Pedrin's husky cohorts). We expected at least one former San Matean to run, and we were going to vote against him on general principles. But both Bob Sisco and Carlyle Caine are from the Peninsula politician breeder, so we'll just have to overlook that.

Bring on the Beer!

The Editor issued special instructions that the paper was to remain neutral, so, politically and diplomatically, we shall do our best to continue to avoid the issue.

Personally, we think that Caine is just Mr. Pedrin's tool, and so the question might be voting between Sisco and Pedrin. Well, that's all right, because Pedrin might be able to run things ok. But, being rather a timid academic sort, we somewhat dislike the idea of a bunch of athletes (whom we have seen disport themselves in a manner very unbecoming to children, let alone alleged college students) running things.

Now Sisco has been called a tool of Maury Schwarz, but we know that Schwarz won't be here next semester, so that won't count anymore. Further, Sisco belongs to a fraternity, the Iota Chi, so that might be just as bad as an athletic society. At least, though, it confines its nonsense and noise (if any) to off-campus activities.

After all is said and done, we think that we shall vote for Sisco because his father works for a brewery, and we are getting most very, very thirsty, because of the warm weather, and the worry over what might happen if anyone should find out who we are.

RAMBLINGS

TWICE NOW

Swimming is one sport that has had little or no publicity. The men on this team have not had their prowess or names splashed over the page. Yet they have trained rigorously and patiently. Have paid their own way to and from meets. Yes, they deserve plenty of credit, especially the relay team of Herb Brotman, Robert Mowat and Monroe Staley. This medley relay team splashed and churned through the water to swim their 150-yard event in 1:25.2, tying their own record.

Seeing as how this is not a recognized major varsity sport, these fellows are not eligible for blocks. Don't you think these young men deserve some compensation? After all, they have brought you and your school a world record!

WORK-HORSE WILGUS

Away back in July of 1924, George Boehler got himself lots of fame by chucking a double-header for the Oakland ball club. Last week Larry Wilgus went out for the Rams and toiled through a double-header. That was a long afternoon's work, even though he was relieved during the second game.

During the session, big Ed Sweeney (no relation) crawled out of his shell to slap out a homer, two doubles and three singles. Here's hoping he stays out of his shell.

And the same to the rest of the squad. They have the stuff. (But secretly, though, last Wednesday only four players showed up for practice.) Maybe they were out to Larry's Spinach Garden.

RUMORS AND RUNNERS

It is rumored about that Bob Nelson, ace pole vaulter of Montezuma and formerly of Poly, will do his leaping for J.C. next spring. Bob clears 13 feet 6 inches easily, and seems destined to become a leading man in this event.

Whispers have it, too, that Bob Preston, a beautiful runner, is enrolling next spring. It doesn't take much courage to venture that Preston, now galloping for the Winged "O," will be a big gun in the United States before long.

Along with other new comers and this year's team, Russ Sweet should turn out a track machine that will roll over the conference. Russ loses only two men from last year's squad, but both of them good men on any team.

George Dunne, broad jumper, and Walter Bertram, distance runner, are the only graduates. These two fellows were consistent and an inspiration to the team all season.

GRIDDERS GROW GLOOMY

The pigskin toters could smell the green grass—iodine—arnica and liniament. It gave them added zip. Spring practice was to start today. Here was the opportunity for real fun. But the sad words came from the head man that there was no field to practice on! But there is still hope for spring practice, for some have vowed to get a field, and there seem to be reasons to believe they will succeed.

"BULL SESSIONS"

The best part of all athletic competition is the "story-time" that crops up in groups of the participants months after. These gatherings, known far and wide as "Bull Sessions," are all that the name implies. One of the best episodes heard by this department deals with two local football teams. One was the heavy favorite. The other was full of fight, but conceded little chance of winning. Came game time.

The favored team kicked off. They were offside, and the ref blew his whistle. Their big tackle, wearing brand new cleats, stopped quick, and in so doing flopped flat on his face.

One of the opponents looked at him lying on the ground, laughed, turned to his teammates and hollered, "Come on gang—these mugs can't even stand up!"

CONVERSATIONAL STARS

Lots of times one hears a student scoff at the abilities of some students in their certain sports.

Some say: "I can do better than that guy."

Others quote: "Heck, there's a fellow in one of my classes who can do better than he."

Mayhaps it is so. But the fellow who is at least trying to do something on a team, no matter how futile his efforts, is a hundred times more valuable to himself, and to building strength and character for later life, than any "classroom" all-star who revels in "I—me—better than" conversation.

He at least tries. And that is what makes for manhood.

BLOCK SWEATERS O.K.

The Block Society has agreed upon a standard block and sweater. They are, and rightly so, meeting with approval.

But a word to President Pedrin: "You've done swell so far, Adolph, but clean up the mess about awards for double and three-time block winners, captains awards, and most valuable man award. Decide whether to give blankets, pennants or what. It's worth the effort."

Crew Takes Fourth Victory (Beats H. S.)

For the second time in as many weeks, Coach Jack Gaddy's crew defeated that of Lowell High School in a race over one and one-quarter miles of San Francisco Bay by three lengths.

The Ram oarsmen took an early lead, which they managed to maintain without effort during the race.

At the conclusion of the successful race, the jubilant victors threw into the water nearly all of their own crew.

This marks the fourth victory for the local mariners in five races, one defeat having been handed them by Galileo High School's crew.

Men who have been rowing consistently during the season are Bill Schoenfield, Ed Craig, Tom Buchan, Harold Wagstaff, "Red" Waters, Tyler McHugh, Bert Gross, Jennings Smith, Joe Kissel, Dave Leroy, Ed Pardi, Louis Martucci, Ted Mikolovich, Bill Cordano (coxswain), and Dick Wright (pilot).

FAREWELL, OH DREAM!

By Louie Bertolucci

Championship dreams of Lee Elsan's local baseball team were shattered by the Modesto J.C. Pirates when the latter took a double-header series played there April 25 by scores of 13-8 and 6-3.

The Rams literally threw away their chances of victory by committing errors in the field at rather inopportune times.

Larry Wilgus pitched the first game for the locals, allowing only 10 hits. McSweeney, Guisti and Anido led the batters.

Although pitching his best game of the season, Joaquin Martinez was unable to bring victory for the Rams in the second game. He allowed the Modestans but five hits, but poor fielding on the part of his teammates let these five produce six runs.

Slugging Johnny Changals of Modesto batted in the only home run of the series. Guisti and Anido, with two safe hits each, were the only successful Ram batters.

Following are the box scores:

Golfers Don't Have Title Contenders After Final Meets

The elimination of lanky Bob Dumesnil in the semi-final round of the Northern California Junior College Conference golf championship left San Francisco Junior College without a contender for the crown.

Dumesnil, lone Ram golfer to qualify for the match play, met defeat at the hands of Charles Berg, San Matean, after having previously turned back Berg's teammate, Wiet.

The Dumesnil-Wiet watch was a closely contested affair, the lead constantly changing hands, and neither of the golfers enjoyed more than a one up advantage at any time. The San Franciscan held a lead going into the last hole, and secured a par for a half.

Matching Berg stroke for stroke off the tee and to the green, Dumesnil lost almost every hole on the green due to poor putting in the second round. Five down in the first six holes, he made a bid toward a recovery with wins on the seventh and ninth to finish but three down at the turn. The tenth seemed to be all Dumesnil as he was well on in two and his opponent was trapped on his second. Berg exploded to the green and dropped a long curling thirty-footer for a win as Dumesnil three putted. It was this hole that dimmed Bob's hopes for a recovery, and Berg went on to win.

Berg was to meet Anderson of Menlo J. C. in the finals.

Tennis Players Are Defeated In Conference

Milt Durfee and Bill Kennedy, Rams' ranking racqueteers, ran into defeat on two occasions last Saturday, when the annual conference tilts were held. Durfee managed to reach the second round, but was defeated by Stroppini, 7-5, 6-2. Kennedy fared even worse, being eliminated in the first round by Livesay, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

In the doubles, Durfee and Kennedy teamed to defeat rivals up to and including the third round, which was won from Willet and Beckett of Marin, 6-1, 8-10, 6-1.

Durfee was undoubtedly hampered by a nose-bleed in the singles matches, having to halt play in the first set for fifteen minutes before resuming play.

Eisan Taken By Mohr In Tennis

Paul Mohr stepped out of the role of registrar long enough to hand a 6-2, 6-1 defeat to Lee Elsan, baseball mentor, to win the faculty tennis tournament.

Elsan started off fast to take the first two games, but Mohr caught his stride and proceeded to outplay Elsan in every department, losing only one game in the final set.

Mohr continually bothered Elsan with his terrific service, and his forehand was equally as potent to the downfall of Wee Lee.

A two-year perpetual trophy will be presented to Mohr in one of the future assemblies. If he wins next year's tournament he will get it for permanent possession.

Coach Tom Wilson wishes to extend his thanks, through this column, to those who took part in the various tournaments.

Menlo Falls To Ram Ball Nines In Easy Doubles

By Louie Bertolucci

Smacking out a homer, three doubles and two singles in seven trips to the plate, Big Ed McSweeney, center fielder, led the Rams to two victories in a double-header played with the Menlo J.C. baseball team May 4 at Funston Field, with scores of 14-3 and 11-8.

"Iron Man" Larry Wilgus, Ram hurler, vied for honors of the day with McSweeney by pitching all of the first game and five innings of the second, giving away to Joaquin Martinez after he had the game on ice. In 11 innings, Wilgus allowed but six safe blows.

G. McGuire, by dint of spectacular catching of all balls coming in the general direction of first base, also put himself to the fore in the game. At bat he hit three singles and scored three runs.

In the second tilt the Rams trailed 6-0 at the end of the second inning, but came back in the third and fourth to drive in six, and to prevent what at first appeared to be a rather startling upset.

McSweeney drove his homer in the fifth to score three runs and put the game in the bag.

McSweeney, Lucchesi, and Guisti led the batters, although Pitcher Wilgus also slammed out a homer and a double to score twice himself.

MODESTO TAKES TWO FROM RAM, CINCHES TITLE

Rams' Conference Hopes All Shot to Pieces by Double Defeat

By Oscar Bauer

The Rams went down to defeat in both ends of a doubleheader which saw the Modesto J. C. baseball team annex the conference championship for the fourth consecutive year, with the victories over the locals to the tune of 6-2 and 7-5.

Babe Jamme cinched the championship by pitching his usually effective game, as he set the Rams back with only five safeties.

Schrader, Modesto second baseman, smacked one of Larry Wilgus' fast balls for a home run with the bases loaded in the first inning, in which five tallies were marked.

Joaquin Martinez relieved Wilgus in the third inning, and yielded only seven scattered blows and an unearned run.

In the second game, Felix Anido featured a three-run rally in the final inning with a long triple to left field which batted in three runs, but the Pirates already had too long a lead.

Math Studes, Try This on Your Rule!

Here's one for Professors Francis Marsh, Arthur McCarty, Thomas Bass, Louis Berman, and all you men and women who have mathematical minds to rack your brains with for a couple of weeks.

April 9 was a day with a date that had a perfect square, the only day in 180 years, believe it or not.

George Robertson, a mathematician with special ability for solving such problems, and who is now teaching at the University of Alberta, gives us his solution. All you students taking calculus, or analytic geometry, are cordially invited to check up on the solution of Robertson.

Get your pencils ready—here it is: The day in question is April 9. It is a "perfect square."

1936 is 44 squared. Nine is 3 squared; April is the fourth month, which is 2 squared; April 9 is the 100th day of the year, which is 10 squared.

This combination will not occur again for 180 years.

The next time will be (now jot it down and you can solve it yourself next time) on April 9, 2116, and if you don't believe it, figure it out for yourself, or at least take a try at it.

SOCIETY PLANS HIKE

The Pi Mu Gamma Society met Tuesday, May 5, and planned to hike to Mount Tamalpais May 17, according to Frank Cerelli, president of the organization. After the meeting motion pictures of a medical operation were shown.

J. C. Swimmers Tie Interschool Record

Accumulating more medals for themselves and at the same time bringing the San Francisco Junior College to the front in aquatic sports, the swimming trio composed of Bob Mowat, Herb Brotman and Monroe Staley was one of the most exciting features of the Call-Bulletin's swimming championships held at the Fairmont Hotel Plunge last Wednesday night.

The three S.F.J.C. mermen competed in the 150-yard medley race against the strong Olympic Club outfit. The jaysee trio rolled the tank for the 150 yards in 1:25.2—tying their own world interscholastic record, made last week at the Northern California Championships at Berkeley. The S.F.J.C. trio was pushed every inch of the way by the club team but kept its lead throughout the race.

The victory by the jaysee men places them as standouts in this particular event, and possible candidates for the Olympic Games.

Shindiggers Beat Bulldogs By Score of 4-2

Avenging last season's 2-0 defeat, the Ram soccer eleven trounced the powerful San Mateo Bulldogs, 4-2, in a game played May 1.

"The whole team showed a decided improvement over last year, and with a little more practice should be in the pink of condition," concurred Coaches Tom Bass and Tom Wilson.

The first score of the game was made by the Rams by means of a pass from Taylor to Lamble, who made a beautiful shot for the initial point. Barr, Lamble, and Vinson also scored in the game.

Walter Oden and Bob Nelson played bang-up games, as did Ellard Taylor with the aid of Ward and Oberhouse, halves.

Bob Sisco played a good game at the goal position.

Final Decision In Swim Class

Because of the limited time and facilities available for the men's swimming classes of the college, Coach Russ Sweet has announced that aquatic classes will be taught on Mondays and Wednesdays at either 10:45 or 12:35 o'clock at the North Beach playground swimming pool. All men students having classes at another hour will be forced to change their gym programs if they wish to continue under Sweet. If programs cannot be arranged the men will have to take gymnasium at another available hour.

All men students registered in swimming classes are requested to see Sweet as soon as possible to get this matter cleared up.

THE BAT BAG

By Oscar Bauer

Nothing much has been said about ODERO GUISTI, ace third baseman and captain of the team. DEADPAN has been hitting above the .300 numerals since the start of the diamond campaign, and combined with his fielding ability OD seems to be the leading performer of the conference at the third corner. He may graduate to the Valley League ranks this summer and cavort for the Schulken-O'Doul nine. . . . GEORGE McGUIRE'S bright defensive work around the initial sack continues to merit attention. . . . The reason for TONY SCAFANI'S slump on the field and with the willow can be traced to a badly sprained ankle. . . . FELIX ANIDO, BABE LUCCHESI, ODERO GUISTI, BENNY McGUIRE and GEORGE McGUIRE participated in every game of the conference schedule, while LARRY WILGUS missed out in only two tilts.

Style Is Cramped By Lack of Funds

An unexpected budget cut made it impossible for Ram golfers to accept team matches with other colleges on the basis of home and home agreements earlier in the season.

However, anxious to gain the experience afforded by this play, the golfers have expressed a desire to meet San Mateo with each player paying his own expenses. Dutch Conlan has okehed this proposal, and San Mateo is being approached on this matter at present.

FACULTY CLUB MEETS TODAY

Meeting today at 1:45 o'clock in the Faculty Dining room at Galileo, the Faculty Club will discuss plans for their social get-together to be held on May 22.

Election of officers for next semester will also be held.

Students Pursue Elusive Rainbow As Season Opens

The call of the trout was heeded by many S.F.J.C. men students on May 1, and they took advantage of the holiday to go after the elusive fish in scattered parts of Northern California. Some came back with plenty of fish, and others with nothing but those well-known fish stories.

Those going and returning successful were Fred Ichleson, getting his share in Plumas County; Jim McGrure, who captured some nice 15-inchers in the San Lorenzo River, along with Edward Rebsher, Dick Cory and Lambert Mayer, who brought back quite a mess from Purisima Creek in San Mateo County.

Stafford Rep returned from his expedition with one lone trout, but had plenty of hard luck stories to tell.

Sweet Referees At Annual Track Meet

Attired in the newest type of slacks and sport coat, Coach Russell Sweet acted in the capacity of official referee and timekeeper at the San Francisco high schools' annual A.A.A. track and field meet held at Kezar Stadium last Saturday afternoon. Sweet was in charge of selecting the winners of each running event and settled all arguments that arose. The meet was run off smoothly and on time.

Members of the class in Hotel and Restaurant Management were guests on board one of the Grace Lines passenger vessels recently, where they were shown the dining rooms, engineering plants, and galleys.

SACRAMENTANS WIN LAST MEET BY HUGE SCORE

GROUND - LOOPER LOST

Local Cinderburners Take Fourth, with Goose-egg to Menlo

As expected, Sacramento J. C. ran rough-shod over their own stadium, rolling up 65½ points and seven first places to win the conference track meet hands down, May 2. San Mateo tallied 46¾ points and five first places to take second spot, leaving 28¾ points for Modesto, San Francisco, Santa Rosa, Marin, and Menlo, strewn in their wake over which to battle.

After the dust had blown away, and good feelings were once again established among the rival institutes, it was discovered that two records were broken, two tied, and one broken but later revoked.

One of the best races of the day for excitement and fight was the 440-yard grind. Warren of S. F., running the inside lane, showed his heels to the pack up to the last 30 yards, where Calleri of Sacramento put in his bid. The two battled neck and neck—forged away from the "also rans." Then Calleri stepped on his accelerator and passed Warren at the tape. The battle had the sparse crowd standing and cheering.

Dan "Wanta-go-for-a-spin?" Southard was somewhere between Fresno and Sacramento during the meet. He was to land at the airport at noon, but at 5:30 Russ Sweet gave him up as lost.

But "Ground-loop" Dan claims: "I ran out of gas, and the nearest filling station was a cow; but a ship won't fly on milk, so there I was."

San Francisco's point scorers were:

"Whizzer" Warren, who tallied a second place in the 440-yard dash.

George "Napoleon" Dunne, who placed third in the broad jump.

Morris "Jumbo" Jublonsky, who hurled into fourth spot in the discus.

Ty. Barre, erstwhile hurdler, who turned high-jumper and got a tie for third.

The relay team composed of Bob Merlo, James Gilbeau, George Compas and George Warren, grabbed off a third spot.

"WRONG SLANT!"

"You have the wrong slant on the matter," Neal conciliatingly said. "We must keep harmony here, and not try to hurt anyone."

Schwarz brought up the contention that it was not fair for the paper to spend money in this manner, when it was assessing clubs for their pictures to be run in its special edition.

SETTLED, BUT NOT ENDED

Someone correctly replied that the ten dollars or so, involved in the awarding of a trophy would be a mere drop in the bucket compared to the total cost of the paper, and, although the contributions of only one club also were not such as to warrant financial retirement, those of many constituted a sizable fund.

It was finally decided to shelve the matter for a while. Most members of the Council thought that the matter was thus ended, as it was as far as the committee was concerned.

"It was also settled as far as the Guardsman is concerned," Rawson remarked after the meeting. "Settled, but not ended."

NO MONEY, NO CREDIT, SAYS NICHOLS

That students who still owe fees of any sort will not receive any credit for work done this semester until these fees are paid, was the announcement of Ward Nichols, college comptroller, upon presenting the financial standing of the Associated Students organization for publication.

Nichols further warns faculty advisers of various clubs to take care not to exceed budgetary limitations, and requests that bills be turned in as soon as received in order to prevent a carry-over at the end of the semester.

Sandifur Expresses Opinion in Interview

"To develop taste for Beethoven's music, don't try to bridge the gap from jazz in a single step. Instead, hear symphonies and listen to the complete beauty offered, and you will find in its romantic emotional quality, in its rhythm, harmony and orchestral color, a closer relation to the music you champion so highly—jazz." Thus spoke Donald Sandifur of the music department, in reply to the question as to how one should go about developing taste and understanding of the music of symphonies.

Naturally, the next question was, "Doesn't jazz satisfy enough without going into the realm of classical music?"

Smiling, he replied, "Jazz is readily appealing, but it is not adequate to the intelligent, searching mind—a mind that demands something more than just this surface pleasure offered—well, it's sort of like Hershey bars as a steady diet—we all like it, but bread and meat are the things that we need—that we hold onto, and can depend on for sustenance—that is comparable to the Bach, Beethoven and Brahms in music."

"Do you like jazz orchestras at all?"

"My favorite ones are Ray Noble, Duke Ellington, and Glen Gray and Andre Kostalontz," and with that Donald Sandifur expressed some pretty well-shared opinions.

San Mateo Is Invited To Play Day Scheduled On Sat., May 16

As a return invitation for the Play Day held last semester at San Mateo, the W.A.A. has invited San Mateo Junior College to a golf and tennis Play Day on Saturday morning, May 16, at the Palace of Fine Arts. Marin Junior College has also been invited, and will compete in golf.

Bertha Keller, tennis coach, and Caroline Orginas, W.A.A. tennis manager, have chosen nine girls for a first team and five for a second to represent the college in tennis, basing their decisions on improvement, regular play, and interest in W.A.A. affairs.

The girls to play are as follows in order of their rank: first team, Helen Davis, Gloria Stockhousen, Betty Phillips, Diane Bryson, Caroline Orginas, Catherine Pearce, Teneko Amemiya, Anita McKay, and Olive Reed; second team, Emma Jordan, Ethel Clarkson, Marge Silk, Annabelle Tyler, and Nshuko Yamado.

In the doubles matches, Diane Bryson will team with Caroline Orginas; Olive Reed with Teneko Amemiya; and Catherine Pearce with Anita McKay. Helen Davis, Gloria Stockhousen, and Betty Phillips will represent the W.A.A. in singles matches.

Following the completion of the tournaments, the W.A.A. will entertain the San Mateo guests at luncheon on the lawn. Caroline Orginas, chairman, and Arisen Fraziers, Jean Coogan, and Ia Celeber are on the committee in charge of the luncheon entertainment.

Cafeteria Is Visited By Men Prominent In Hostelry Work

Two men prominent in hotel and restaurant activities visited the Galileo-Junior College Restaurant plant last week.

J. J. Schlaepfer, secretary of the San Francisco Restaurant Association, and a member of the advisory committee of the hotel and restaurant course here, was one of the visitors. As his own first training in this type of work was obtained through a hotel school in Switzerland, Schlaepfer finds a particular interest in such courses. He offered valuable suggestions in methods of improvement, according to John Gifford, course coordinator.

The other visitor was George Smith, manager of the Mark Hopkins and Fairmont Hotels, who expressed interest in seeing the combination of theory and practice in what he considers a unique training program. According to Gifford, Smith was impressed with the results being secured with instructional and physical facilities available.

HOTEL ENGINEERS STUDY MARK PLANT

To study methods of analyzing fuel for heating plants, Brandon Watson, instructor in hotel and restaurant engineering, took his class on this subject to the Hotel Mark Hopkins last Monday afternoon.

Previously, the class had been carrying on its studies at the Berkeley Women's City Club, of which Watson is manager.

Next week the class will have its session at another local large hotel to make a study of refrigeration methods, according to Coordinator John Gifford.

Last Saturday, the class visited the American Ice Cream Company's plant in Oakland to study methods of ice cream production and means of judging quality in ice cream selection.

PROSPECTIVE CHOIRMEN SOUGHT

Miss Flossita Badger, an instructor of music, urges all to sign with her before the end of the week who intend to join with the A Cappella Choir or the Men's Glee Club for the coming term.

WARNING TO CLUBS

That clubs not having an official charter from the administration will not be able to have their pictures run in the special rotogravure edition of The Guardsman, which will be published June 3, was the warning from the college office this week.

In order to be granted a charter, organizations must fill out the special application blank provided for this purpose, meeting the requirements set down for them, the office advises.

BETA PHI INITIATES 3; HOLDS BANQUET

Three new members were formally initiated into the local; or Beta, chapter of Beta Phi, junior college fraternity, in ceremonies held at the home of the sponsor, Dr. Franklin C. Sewell. The new members are Art Robinson, Henry Ward, and Douglas Rice.

With President Archibald Cloud, and Henry Soule and Edward Sandys of the college faculty, as guests, the Beta Phi held a banquet at the Veneto Restaurant last Monday evening.

The social fraternity, of which James Neal is president, has announced plans for a sport dance to be held at the Forest Hill Country Club May 29.

PITMAN ADDRESSES SKULL AND BLADE

At the weekly meeting of the Skull and Blade Society, Paul Pitman, faculty adviser, read and approved the constitution and issued a charter application, which the club will file soon.

The gavel presented to the Skull and Blade by an anonymous person will be kept in the college office at Galileo, and any organization will be allowed to use it at any time, according to Ray Brunn, president.

The formal initiation ceremony that was originally set for May 8 has been put ahead one week, and will take place at the Park Presidio Y.M.C.A. The informal part of the ritual also has been carried over a week, to be held May 14 on Powell Street. Bennet McGuire and James Neal will head the informal initiation ceremony.

WOMEN SELL DONUTS IN STUDY (???) HALL

All the talkers, flirters, and the few industrious students who hang out in the Powell street study hall last week were startled to observe three determined members of the Women's Service Club vending those delicious, golden-brown circles called doughnuts.

The first doughnut saleswoman marched ahead nonchalantly, wearing a large overcoat sign with "donut Sale" painted on either side in sickly yellow letters. The other two followed close behind, carrying sticks on which were impaled columns of the ventilated cookies. Those desiring the greasy refreshment procured same for the sum of five cents per pair.

Shades of Cicero! New Chem Lab To Be English Room!

Mysterious is the name for the new chemistry room of Galileo High School. Completed now for some time, this room is unused and completely devoid of material. This is the newest room in the school. Why is it unoccupied? What was it built for, if not to be used?

The answer is that within a month the best chemistry room in Galileo will be filled with smiling English students, who will use the laboratory as the home for learning Bacon, Shakespeare and Swift.

This summer, the room will be used as a stock room until the complete equipment is furnished by the Board of Education. The room will be open for chemistry students in the fall.

A la Carte Menu In Restaurant Now

Featuring food specialties at popular prices, a new a la carte menu was introduced last week as the newest inauguration of the Galileo College Restaurant.

Among the specialties are to be found milk-shakes at 8 cents, and ice cream sodas at 10 cents, with cocktails (of the non-alcoholic sort) at 5 and 10 cents.

Spanish Essay Contest Draws 15 Aspirants

Drawn to its conclusion last Monday, the Spanish to English translation contest sponsored by Thomas Gahbert, Spanish instructor, attracted about 15 entrants, according to reports.

The winner of the translation of El Tiempo y el Espacio (Time and Space) will be announced about June 7, Gabbert said.

The article written by Julio Camba, eminent Spanish journalist, in substance contains a witty dissertation on the worth of punctuality in the guise of time, and location in the role of space. The moral or essence of the essay is found in the closing lines, wherein Camba admits that Spaniards are inferior, not superior, to the requirements of punctuality.

When questioned as to whether the contest would become an annual or semi-annual feature, Gabbert said: "That's hard to say. It's all according to whether any greenbacks grace my pocket next year, and the manner in which this contest is received. I do think that all students with a love for Spanish find it a great deal of fun."

ALLMAN LAUDS VAN GOGH'S EXHIBIT

"His is one of the finest one-man exhibitions of contemporary art," comments Richard Allman, concerning the Van Gogh exhibit now at the Palace of the Legion of Honor. "He is one of Europe's finest colorists—this unappreciated and supersensitive genius who went insane from the strain and privation of his short, tragic career, and finally committed suicide. Every student should avail himself of the opportunity to see his works not one time, but as many times as possible, for this is only the fourth city at which the group has been exhibited, and this only place where admission has been free. People are coming here from all parts of the west coast to see it.

"One should not expect this great artist to be absolutely perfect," Allman warns, "for he only received a very limited amount of instruction. His vigorous manner of painting may seem crude, but he is entirely in a class by himself and cannot be judged according to academic rules.

CAREER TRACKABLE

"Almost the entire history of his artistic career can be traced by the different phases on exhibition," Allman explained. "The works in his early Dutch period are derived from Millet and the period of Genre and Anecdotal paintings. They were before he discovered the brilliant color medium through which he has become famous. Later, he revolted against the slavish copying of nature and went through the phases of cubism, impressionism, neo-impressionism, and pointillism. Then he developed his own brilliant color technique, and his caricaturish, short, nervous strokes in a great variety of color. These heavy strokes, sometimes curved and sometimes straight, give it a certain peaceful rhythm."

Van Gogh was a Dutchman born in the middle nineteenth century who evangelized among the poor Belgian miners, until he decided his religion could be better expressed in painting. He spent his most productive years under the shadow of insanity supported by his loyal brother, Theo. During an attack of insanity, he threatened to cut off the ear of his fellow artist, Gauguin. Then, in a penitent mood, he cut off his own.

COLLECTION VALUABLE

In the collection are 51 oil paintings and 51 drawings which are valued at $5,000,000, and include his Dutch, Paris, Arles, St. Remy, and Auvers periods. The gallery is open daily and on Sundays from 10 A. M. until 5 P. M., and the exhibit will be there until May 29.

A list of lectures to be given in the Little Theater of the Legion building is as follows:

Saturday, May 16th, at 3:30 P. M., "The Ethics of Vincent Van Gogh's Art," by Dr. Alfred Neumeyer.

Sunday, May 17th, at 3:30 P. M., "The Place of Van Gogh in Nineteenth Century Art," by De Berlundina.

Monday, May 18th, at 3:30 P. M., "Landscapes and Still Lifes by Vincent Van Gogh," by Etha Wulff.

Saturday, May 23rd, at 3:30 P. M., "The Scientific Color Approach of Van Gogh and Its Influence," by Lucien Labaudt.

Sunday, May 24th, at 3:30 P. M., "Van Gogh and the Painting of His Time," by Dr. Grace McCann Morley.

Monday, May 25th, at 3:00 P. M., "The Art and Life of Vincent Van Gogh," by Mrs. Joseph M. Bransten.

Each Tuesday and Thursday, at 3 P. M., a general tour of the exhibition by Mrs. Joseph M. Bransten.

Each Wednesday, at 3 P. M., "The Early Period of Vincent Van Gogh," by Etha Wulff.

THE WOMEN'S SPORT PARADE

By ARDELL WHITE

The powers that be at San Mateo J.C. have apparently accepted this college's invitation to a Play Day to be held here May 16. The affair was originally intended to include golf and tennis competition, but the peninsular college has no golf team, so Marin's divot diggers are substituting.

The tennis matches are scheduled for the Palace of Fine Arts, and golf matches will be played off at Ingleside.

Lunch will be served beside the lagoon at the Palace of Fine Arts. Incidentally, members of the tennis teams were chosen on the basis of superior playing and good attendance at classes, so you disappointed gals better start going to class more regularly.

Freshman classes are coming along. One particular group now taking up volleyball has developed some real stars, among them Beth Hillyard, Gloria Swicegood, Margaret Christophe, Lillian Auyong, Josephine Stanley, Ann Barkman, Ellen Cumming and Virginia Egan. So promising is the material that volleyball will probably be offered as a W.A.A. activity next semester.

These volleyball enthusiasts have given their squads such intriguing names as "Dizzy Dynamos" and "TNT's." At present the Dynamos seem to be humming along with more spark than the Explosives.

The baseball season opened with much fanfare last Friday, the first game being held at Fort Mason Field between two W.A.A. groups. Pitching and fielding were poor on both sides, but the batting ability displayed was gratifyingly near the average of the famous Bambino.

Lost! Chameleon Lizard; Two Offers Of Reward Hinted

To those who haven't heard, Betty Gentry, famous by proximity with her vari-colored chameleon lizard, says that her lizard is no longer a member of her family. As a means of variety, the reptile was allowed to wander around the garden of her house . . . the lizard not only wandered around, but also managed to slip in between two blades of grass and hasn't been seen since. Miss Gentry is considering the placement of an ad in the front of her house with the following:

"To anyone who should find my lizard: Please return him to me, as I'm sure my reward will be even more satisfactory than the one Miss Reveal might attempt to offer."

$2640 NYA Payroll Expected by End Of Current Week

An NYA pay roll amounting to $2640 for work done in the month of April will be distributed among 199 college students either at the end of this week or the beginning of the next, according to Edith Pence, NYA director for the college.

The next work period for the month of May closes on May 28, and Miss Pence would like all time reports in on this date to avoid unnecessary delay in distributing checks before the end of the spring semester.

There is still a question whether the NYA will continue to function in the fall as it did this semester, Miss Pence said, and, although not definite, the outlook for temporary college employment looks quite favorable.

Rather than spend money outside the college for campaign propaganda, the Sisco-for-President Committee uses the advertising medium of The Guardsman to reach all students.

Berman Tells Work On Big Telescope

Discussing plans for the erection of a 200-inch reflecting telescope to be located on Mt. Palomar, about 50 miles north of San Diego, Dr. Louis Berman, astronomy instructor, lectured to the East Bay Astronomical Society last week at the Chabot Observatory in Oakland.

"It will be the world's largest telescope and the costliest single instrument of research," said Dr. Berman. "Although the huge mirror has been cast, it has yet to be ground, and the telescope itself will be three or four years in the making," he added. "The 200-inch disc is now being ground to the correct parabolic figure in the optical shops on the campus of the California Institute of Technology."

To finance this venture, the International Education Board gave the California Institute at Pasadena a grant of $6,000,000.

In commenting on the huge mirror, Dr. Berman said:

"The weight of the disc is now 20 tons, and it is made of pyrex glass. It has a ribbed back to lessen its weight, and without which it would weigh 40 tons. Eventually, two tons of glass will be removed and 4000 pounds of carborundum will be required for this process. The mirror will be 1,000,000 times more powerful than the human eye in collecting light, will be capable of revealing 2,500,000,000 stars, and will double the known volume of space."

Dr. Berman illustrated his lecture with slides of the manufacture of the mirror.

Soph Formal Is Ready For Friday Night, Don Room, Mark Hopkins

HAWAIIAN NUMBER RUMORED FEATURE OF LAST BIG AFFAIR

As the climax to this term's social activities, the Sophomore Formal will be held Friday night, May 22, at the Hotel Mark Hopkins' Room of the Dons.

Neal Martin, vice-president of the student body and heading the Social Committee in charge of the formal, has announced that a number of bids are still for sale, but urges those who have not secured their bids to do so at once, because a last minute rush for bids is expected.

"We expect a complete sell-out by Thursday," Martin said. Also, in discussing plans for the dance, he added, "As this is the first formal for the San Francisco Junior College, we are going to make it an 'extra special occasion.' The social committee has been working several weeks in preparation of a program unequaled by any other social activity in the history of the school. Craig's Cardinals, one of the best orchestras in the Bay area, has been engaged, and will add much to the program in the way of special and novelty numbers."

It has been rumored that Martin has secured, as a special attraction, a Hawaiian hula dancer, but when asked to confirm this, he said that he was not at the time in a position to say yes or no. "But," he said, "we will have a surprise attraction in store for you."

STEEL MILL TRIP OFFERED STUDENTS

Students interested in engineering will have the opportunity of inspecting the Pacific Coast Steel Mill next Monday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, according to Thomas Bass, instructor who has completed arrangements for a tour of 50 students through the plant.

All students and faculty members interested are invited, and there will be no cost attached, Bass said. They will, however, have to furnish their own transportation to the mill, which is located near the corner of the Bayshore Highway and Grand Ave. (the main street of South San Francisco), Bass added.

By street car, one should take the Number 40 (Market Street line, terminating at Fifth and Market), and transfer at the South San Francisco Junction to a car which will pass right by the door of the mill, Bass advised.

The Pacific Greyhound lines also pass near the plant according to Bass.

For further information, Bass advised students to see him or any of the engineering instructors, Manuel Jacobs, Louis Berman, Arthur McCarty, and George Smith.

"This trip should be of immeasurable value to engineering majors, and worth the time from the standpoint of interest alone to others," Bass said, in recommending that as many students as possible make the free tour, which will be specially guided by a representative of the milling company.

Noted Educator Will Speak At 10:45 Assembly

David Snedden, Ph. D., Professor Emeritus of Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, will be guest speaker at the assembly to be held in the Extension Building Lecture Hall, this morning at 10:45 o'clock, and again at 11:40. His subject will be either Education and Social Changes or Machines and the Good Life.

For the first assembly, at 10:45, certain classes are to be adjourned so that they may attend the lecture, according to announcement made by Paul Pitman, Assistant to President A. J. Cloud. The same lecture will be repeated at the following assembly at 11:40, in order that the remaining students may be given the opportunity to hear Dr. Snedden. President Cloud will preside.

Dr. Snedden, a native of California, has received the degrees of A. B. from St. Vincent's College and Stanford University, and his A. M. and Ph. D. from Columbia University. His educational experience goes over a number of years, with 19 years as professor of Educational Sociology and Vocational Education in Columbia.

Dr. Snedden has published over 20 books on a variety of educational subjects.

He has lectured before educational organizations, women's clubs, men's public service clubs and other groups in nearly all the states of the union, and has also conducted short courses in the summer schools of more than a dozen states west of the Mississippi River.

Luckmann Awarded Hague Fellowship

Lloyd Luckmann, law instructor, was awarded a Fellowship of the Hague recently, it was learned today.

This award is given to 12 men throughout the world, commending them for their work in jurisprudence.

These 12 men will meet in the Netherlands this summer where they will attend lectures by the leading professors of Europe.

Luckmann, who is journeying to Europe this summer on his honeymoon, will attend the conference and will do research work in England on Civil Service Education.

AWS ELECTIONS WILL BE HELD ON MAY 28

A general meeting of the Associated Women Students of the college will be held Thursday morning, May 28, at 11:40 o'clock, in the third floor lecture hall of the Extension Building. At this meeting the A.W.S. constitution will be read and candidates for office will be presented, with elections following immediately. Each woman will vote before she leaves the hall, thus making it imperative for all women expecting to vote to attend the meeting.

As The Guardman goes to press, the following women have handed in their petitions and indicated their intention to run for office:

President, Helen Davis; vice-president, Hermine King; treasurer, Marygail Konkel; secretary, Barbara Latz; high sophomore representative, Anne Brocoto; low sophomore representative, Pan Spanlding and Joan Smith, and high freshman representative, Elaine Domingons.

Speaking of the lack of spirit shown by women students in the college, Elizabeth Yates, present A.W.S. treasurer, said:

"This term's A.W.S. officers feel very disappointed about the lack of interest shown by the women of the college when it comes to running for A.W.S. offices. While those running are all capable of making very fine officers, it is a shame that there was only one candidate for the majority of positions."

NYA TIME SLIP TO BE HANDED IN AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

All students working under the NYA are requested by Edith Pence, director, to hand in their time reports for the month of May as soon as their full quota of hours is completed for this period.

If all reports are handed in by May 28, it will be possible for those eligible to receive their May checks before the end of the semester, Miss Pence advises.

Last month's pay roll amounted to $2,640, which was paid to 199 San Francisco Junior College Students. This NYA working period ends the student employment for the spring semester, with no news being available on next term's.

STUDENTS VOICE DISAPPROVAL OF RECENT ELECTION

That students of this college in general are dissatisfied with last week's election and the manner in which it was handled is indicated by answers given by a number of them, selected at random, when asked the simple question, What did you think of the elections?

Following are the answers:

RITA RYAN: "Didn't like it."

BUD GARDNER: "Putrid!"

HELEN DAVIS: "NEED MORE CANDIDATES."

BOB LEE: "Election was O. K."

MARGARET KENNEDY: "DID NOT LIKE THIS."

CHARLES HEANEY: "Need more candidates."

ANNA BROCATO: "Not run right."

DON MILLS: "Lousy system."

SHIRLEY BARATH: "Need machine."

JOAN SMITH: "THIS WAS TERRIBLE."

TOM MAUER: "O. K. by me."

EUNICE SKERRITT: "Run all wrong."

GEORGE HAGINS: "Need Ballot machines."

JOHN FITZGERALD: "Leaves a bad taste."

YVONNE JACKSON: "All right."

PAUL FLECHTNER: "Need ballot machine."

AARON RUBINO: "I have suspicions."

JANE NEAL: "Need machine—too much doubt."

FLORENCE MURPHY: "DOWN RIGHT UNETHICAL."

BOB FEX: "Worse than grammar school."

JIM McCANN: "Other schools have machines, why not us?"

ARLINE FRAZIER: "Need Voting machine."

ARDELL WHITE: "Late candidates—No!"

FRED WILKINSON: "It's a farce."

BIRNELYN SEYMOUR: "Like a machine—no chance for doubt."

HELEN MARLOWE: "NO BALLOTS—NO BOX—HOW CAN WE VOTE?

MARY MARLOWE: "NO BALLOTS—NO BOX—HOW CAN WE VOTE?"

DOT PETERSON: "NO BALLOTS—NO BOX—HOW CAN WE VOTE?"

BILL REYNOLDS: "Need a ballot machine."

HENRY HOSKING: "NEED voting machine."

BETTY DEMING: "COUNTING BALLOTS BEFORE ELECTION IS OVER IS PHONEY — THIS WILL WAKE UP THE SCHOOL!"

Commencement Plan Told

With Superintendent of Schools Edwin A. Lee acting in the capacity of presiding official, the first graduation of the San Francisco Junior College will be held on June 12 at 8 o'clock p. m., at the War Memorial Opera House.

The graduates will wear black caps and gowns, and will be seated on the stage during the ceremonies. Two students will be selected for the speech-making early next week by the graduates.

Music will be furnished by the A Cappella Choir under the direction of Flossita Badger, and Inez St. Ledger will present a piano solo.

The entire lower floor of the Opera House, together with the boxes, will be reserved, and each graduating student will receive 16 bids. The balcony will be open to the public and all students are invited to view the first commencement exercises.

Ushers will be provided from the members of the service clubs.

Irregular, to say the least, describes conditions of the elections held last week. What was irregular? Just these things:

1. One man stood right at the election booth, pointing out on the ballots for whom students should vote. Such electioneering should never have been permitted right at the polls. In all state elections, the stipulated legal distance within which no electioneering can take place is 100 feet.

2. Ballots were not available until 3:30 o'clock p.m. for the afternoon polls, and then they were made available, not through any effort of any member of the Election Committee, but through the combined efforts of The Editor, Adolph Pedrin, and Elmore McSweeney, who had to take the matter directly to President Archibald Cloud, in the absence of Assistant Paul Pitman and Dean Edwin C. Browne. Even then, Dean Eugenie Leonard had to take charge of the rest of the election which, fortunately, was carried on directly in her office.

3. The morning ballots were counted, and the count was started, BEFORE the afternoon balloting was made available. Joe Amori, faculty man supposedly in charge of the elections, said that he intended to count the morning ballots BEFORE OPENING THE POLLS FOR THE AFTERNOON!

4. When the ballot box was at last sent down to Room 150, Galileo, where it was originally planned to hold the afternoon voting, it was left there without any member of the Election Committee's being there. It was safe, as it was watched by a dependable member of the faculty, who, incidentally, watched it at the request of the one bringing it down, who promised to return in five minutes. Ten minutes elapsed, while many students waited for the opportunity of voting. Finally, the box had to be taken to President Cloud's office, where Dean Leonard wisely took charge.

5. It was announced that the winners of the election would be told at 3:30 o'clock, when the elections were to have been open all afternoon. Despite an announcement by Dean Leonard that polls would remain open until 5:30 o'clock. Amori closed them at 5 o'clock. This, despite the fact that there were students wanting to vote immediately following the Frosh Sprawl dance, which ended at 5 o'clock.

6. Following the counting of the ballots, they were "DISPOSED OF," according to a member of the Election Committee. In any well-managed election, the ballots are kept in a safe place for several days, just in case a recount should be required.

There have been accusations that the paper is trying to run the college, that all it does is start trouble. The paper is not trying to run the college; it is trying to prevent others from doing so in a wrong, detrimental way.

The Guardsman wants to cooperate to the fullest extent in everything that is legitimate. It does not want to start trouble, and does not do so.

Those who manage things incorrectly and unfairly are the ones who start things. IF THE STUDENTS OF THIS COLLEGE WANT TO CONDONE SUCH THINGS, THEN THE PAPER IS IN THE WRONG. If, however, students would like to see things run correctly, to see the "irregularities" frankly exposed, then they will support The Guardsman instead of condemning it.

No accusations as to dishonesty are made by the paper, DESPITE MANY RUMORS THAT IT DID EXIST. The accusation is made, however, and The Guardsman is ready to prove it to RELIABLE authorities demanding such proof, that last week's election was poorly handled, and that, were it not for a few students who took it upon themselves to see that errors were immediately remedied, FAR MORE SINISTER "IRREGULARITIES" WOULD HAVE TAKEN PLACE.

MACPHERSON IS VICTORIOUS OVER DARK HORSE

With a majority of only 10 votes, Robert Sisco defeated Carlyle Caine for the office of president of the Associated Students in the elections held last Friday, 243-233.

In the vice-presidency race, Donna MacPherson defeated Betty Phillips, last minute "dark-horse" candidate, with 304 tallies to 150 for the latter.

Marie McKnight won the post of corresponding secretary from Shirley Breyer, 301 to 273.

Caroline Orginos, unopposed for the recording secretaryship, polled 405 votes.

Bob Nelson came through with a strong majority to defeat Deming Smith, 301-175, for the head yell leadership.

Written in on the ballots, Tom Mauer and David Levy received five and six votes, respectively, for the presidency, while for the vice-president's office, Jane Knight polled four, Butch McKelvy six, and Pam Spalding, 4.

WANT TO VOTE, BUT WHERE'S THE BOX?

"Houdini-like" is how some students described the elusive ballot box.

Still, to be possessed of magical qualities in the line of the disappearing act, something must first be visible.

But the ballot box wasn't at any time visible to many students, who waited more than an hour to cast a vote last Friday afternoon, but finally gave up and went home in disgust.

The feature of the morning balloting, according to charges, was the hi-power electioneering done right at the voting booth, where the hesitant were allegedly firmly advised just where to put down the "X".

In the afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock 20 students milled about Room 150, where the voting was to have taken place, inquiring for the elusive ballot box.

OH, GA GA, DIMME UH WATTLE!

A huge detriment to the intellectual development of American youth is a too prevalent propensity toward horse-play and childishness. Daily examples in and around this college are so frequent that a sane man almost despairs of life among such 20-year-old children.

A student cannot always be blamed if he finds it necessary to resort to some idle amusement during a particularly uninteresting lecture; but let such amusement be confined solely to him, and let him not take upon himself the task of amusing those sitting next to him! There is always a bare possibility that other students might want to listen to the instructor; or, if they do not, that a neighbor's childishness is far more obnoxious to them than the professor's lecture is barren of spice.

"The futility of all words . . . lies in two common, regrettable human traits: Failure to realize or admit any lack of perfection of self, and, in the improbable event of such admission, lack of sufficient interest to take any steps toward improvement."

COLLEGIANS HAVE MOTHERS, TOO

Little is heard of the mothers of the college students; of the fathers, either, except when money is needed.

Probably more sacrifices are made, and more worrying done, by the college mothers for the students—more than is done by the students themselves.

Last week, Mother's Day was commemorated. Does it seem quite right, however, just to think of one's mother one day out of the year?

No, is the answer. Every day should, in some way or another, be a mother's day. Sentimentalism such as kissing one's mother's goodbye every morning is silly, and, when it has become a habit, is but a meaningless sham.

Acts of pure kindness, however, denoting daily consideration arising purely from the heart in a natural manner mean a great deal to mothers. The trend of many students is to think of mother only when the stomach becomes empty, or when a go-between is sought to put father in a mood receptive for a touch.

In these matters, too, mother seldom, if ever, lets one down. Think of these things, and make every day a Mother's Day in some way or other.

BRING ON COMPLAINTS

Various members of the editorial staff of The Guardsman were the innocent recipients of harsh words and caustic comments as a result of some of the material appearing in last week's issue.

The Editor wishes to take all the blame to himself; those who went around to others connected with the paper saying that they should never have let such and such a thing be printed, went to the wrong persons. They should have come directly to the Editor, for he is the one who sees all copy before publication; he alone can prevent any article's appearing in the columns.

The Editor has no objections to other members of the staff's getting credit, when bouquets instead of brickbats are bandied about, but he does resent anyone else's being blamed for his actions, or for what he could have prevented.

This is not a fishline for credit, but is an invitation for blame. If anyone's feeling were hurt, the editor is sorry; and that is as far as it goes. Those who were reputed to have stated that they were going to kick .... out of the Editor are reminded that he is not particularly hard to find, and that he is, incidentally, still in quite good health—and highly amused.

THINK BEFORE ACTING

A slight degree of comment on this and that matter seems to have pervaded the campus. At last students are beginning to realize that, now and then, something that smacks a little reminiscently of aged fish goes on about them.

Rumors, in themselves, frequently are great sources of trouble—trouble that would not exist if people would learn to use their ears and eyes a little more, and their tongues considerably less.

On the other hand, there is the age-old adage, "Where there is smoke, there must be fire." Some rumors, consequently, bear investigation, so that they may either be spiked or verified.

It is a pleasant thing to see students get a bit riled now and then. It does good to all concerned (even keeps them awake in classes, sometimes), although it does make certain offenders a wee mite uncomfortable until the fire subsides.

Before getting too hot under the collar, however, it is to be recommended that the ired ones stop and think. If they happen to be the victims of rumor or fact, they naturally will think, and think some more, in order to prepare their alibis and excuses.

If, on the other hand, they are the ones upon whom a slight bit of prestidigitation may have been practiced, they should stop and plan their line of action along sensible, constructive lines, if a line of action is recommended.

The ball has started rolling; stop it, or give it added impetus, as you may please.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

If the American public can not make itself to appear silly enough, apparently its delegates to Congress take upon themselves the task of doing it for them.

Hugo Von Eckner has had wonderful success with lighter than air craft. Envious of this, a congressional committee has ordered the Navy Department to recondition immediately the already retired dirigible Los Angeles.

With the loss of the Akron and the Macon, America decided that further experimentation with dirigibles would be too dangerous and costly.

Takes Jealousy To Provide Incentive

When, however, a German reaps such glory from his use of them, America forgets its painful, previous experiences, and decides to try to catch up with Germany.

Not that further experimentation is undesirable, but perhaps could not America have had the courage to continue with its experiments without a two-year stop despite the apparent failures, instead of waiting for jealousy to provide the spurring incentive?

He Got It, And He Will Keep It

Of all international groups, the League of Nations has let itself in for the greatest amount of ridicule since the beginning of that Italo-Ethiopian affair.

Typically unable to do more than talk about Italy's naughtiness, the League did about as much toward preventing what happened as this writer.

Likewise, now that Italy has ostensibly obtained its objective, the League can do more than say Italy is still a bad boy, and as such, must stay in his room until he will talk nicely.

Perhaps, however, the League, afraid that Bad Boy Benito would make too much noise by kicking down the door, just neglected to lock it.

"Don't Blame Us If Things Changed"

Political excuses are now running more and more rampant. So obvious has been the Democratic party's failure to keep its promises of the last campaign, that Boss Farley has had to figure out why.

"It's this way," he said. "A few months after we took office, conditions throughout the country changed in such a way as to make the carrying out of our platform impossible. We can't be blamed for changing conditions, can we?"

Oh, no, Mr. Farley, you cannot be blamed if your party is so inflexible that it cannot adapt itself to conditions, the constant changing of which is a generally accepted thing, and has been for quite some time—at least since Caesar's words, "The old order changeth, etc. . . ."

Book Review

Mrs. Astor's Horse

By STANLEY WALKER

Reviewed by Donald Flash

When a man comes into contact with the oddities that make the news for ten years, the latter part of that time in the capacity of an editor, it is a wonder that he doesn't go off into the hills and become a hermit. Forced to sit on the borderline of the more lunatic part of the world, in which he sees, for instance, the city of New York brush off its tails and high hat, push out its chest and then unanimously elect itself the greatest city in the world, consequently worthy of honoring the world's most famous people by emptying waste paper baskets on their heads; or the family of John Dillinger go into vaudeville on the strength of its relationship with the deceased gangster; or the mayor of Chicago courageously promising to take a smack at George V's nose the minute they met; Stanley Walker becomes a man to be admired, for profiting from his observations, rather than being thrown for a loss. Thus we have a collection of American curiosities thrown together in a book which includes them all from Mrs. Astor, and her gilded, overstuffed magnificence, down to Bernarr Macfadden and his ideas about the "body beautiful." Not to withhold any hint as to its content, the book parades under the name of Mrs. Astor's Horse.

"It would be a mistake to label all the actions described herein as being 'in bad taste'," says Mr. Walker in his author's note, "for in a large part they are merely attempts of well-meaning persons to express their individuality and to escape from what might otherwise have been a humdrum and well-nigh unbearable world."

One may get the feeling that all of these silly actions, which have made the biggest news in the country, "seem to have happened a long time ago," as Walker says when referring to the Hauptmann trial. Walker, nevertheless, has given us, by means of clever phrases, the addition of a little more inside information, a sense of humor, and one more look at the things which we have seen and heard going on around us.

Defends Dirt Col. Reward Offered For A Columnist

THE RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

This little note is to inform the public that we will be willing to pay the price for any information leading to the discovery of the person who has written Paper Talk the last two issues of The Guardsman. The reason for this is not that we have any political score to settle with him, but that we are in such a position as to be slightly embarrassed when anyone puts the question to us, for if anyone should know who this anonymous author is, it is we. But we don't know, and we feel very slighted. Anyone who knows anything, please see us any afternoon in 150, and we will gladly pay any price to find out. Sincerely,

THE WEWANA NOES.

Note: Set a definite price; it may be worth it, cash on delivery.—Ed.

To whom it may concern? (if any).

After glancing through the last issue of the "Guardsman" I wish to vent a long suppressed comment.

With regard to the discontinuance of "It comes out here." Perhaps a few students in this college have never heard or seen the Stanford Daily, which is, by the way, one of the leading college newspapers in the United States. There are two columns, one "our hasher says" and the other college or campus news. These columns are of the same type as the past column "It comes out here." Practically every large college or university has a "dirt column," which draws a great deal of interest. Concerning the crack about Winchell, it might be of interest to some people to know that Winchell's column is one of the most popular columns in the newspapers. The "cranks" are those who fail to "rate" the column.

Why hasn't there been any planned advertising campaigns. All that can be found in the paper is some "patter" about some meetings that may interest a few members of the student body and to the majority of the students it is space filled. There seems to be a trend towards the individual and not to the entire student body as it should.

If the dances were advertised and built up, perhaps there would be a better attendance.

This will probably not be printed, nevertheless, it's a dare!

If I have made any misstatements, I stand to be corrected.

Sincerely yours,
Alex Pellett.

Note: Really, now, I can't see anything so daring about your letter, nor anything that would make its publication particularly unwise (except its weakness in punctuation and grammatical structure). Sure, we've read other college papers. We also read Hearst papers but that doesn't necessarily mean that we should run front page editorials because he does.

Club news is club news, and the college paper is the only medium through which all members can be reached. Even daily papers tell of activities of Podunk Hollow's Chatter and Stitch Society. Do you not perhaps think that committees planning these dances might do a little toward planning their own publicity campaigns?

Thanks for the criticisms. Always glad to get them, whether pro or con.—Ed.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

In contrast to the serious dramatic production The First Legion, a gay musical comedy by Max Dill entitled Lady Say Yes is now being presented by the Federal Theatre Project at the Columbia Federal Theatre, 135 O'Farrell St.

Following a prologue, we find that comedy set in the early '90's at a large party for a group of Civil War officers. With this setting and a slight continuity which binds the acts into a unified piece, the comedy, music, singing, and dancing that is presented offers the theater-goer an evening of good entertainment.

Some of the most outstanding performers of the evening were Willis West and Jessie McIntosh, who made a hit, dancing to the tune of Strolling Thru the Park; and the negro group, which gave, what we consider to be, the high spot of the entertainment. Following one number, the lights on the stage were put out so that only luminous hands could be seen moving in rhythm as the negroes sang. A clever bit of conception.

Two musical numbers, In the Good Old Horse and Buggy Days, and Lady Say Yes, were written for this production by Nat Goldstein.

With good scenery and lighting, a noteworthy Federal Music Project orchestra, and competent direction, in addition to moderate prices, this presentation should win a great number of supporters for the Project.

In a more modest manner the Federal Theatre, at 960 Bush Street, which is a smaller part of the WPA Project, is presenting Morning Hate, a comedy by Elene Wilbur.

The Raisch Stoll Orchestra of the Federal Music Project deserves mention, as its intermission numbers were enjoyed very much.

Two outstanding members of the all-women cast were Marta Golden, who is to be commended for her comedy, and Julia Lloyd, for her poise and capable handling of a small part.

In spite of the fact that this play might easily be mistaken for an amateur production, we feel that this theater movement has a great many possibilities and its efforts are not to be discouraged.

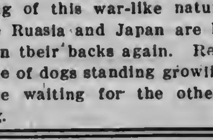
OUT OF THE HAT

By Kenneth Bixler

Putting our present administration and Congress on the spot seems to be quite the pastime of our many social groups—as you have no doubt noticed. In fact, it seems that these organizations are lining up to take turns in raking our officials over the coals. Something like the old game of "three shots at the nigger baby."

One of Father Coughlin's followers gave advance notice in the Chronicle the other day that his organization, the National Union for Social Justice, was going to have its turn soon, stating, "You may bet your sweet life that the National Union for Social Justice is going to put members of Congress on the spot as regards to their record. The Chamber of Commerce, Bankers' Associations, The American Liberty League, and other groups have already put both the Congress and the President 'on the spot.' Do you deny us the same privilege?"

We hope that this organization will not be denied the privilege, but darned if we can see what they are going to get out of it except a lot of free publicity, which we are inclined to think is all they are after.



We read some place that coercion exists in all ages—parents against children, governments against free men, the older generation ever against the new, death against life—an eternal principle. To this the author forgot to add: the under-dog against his oppressor. Probably because he never came across such an example as our own school politics.

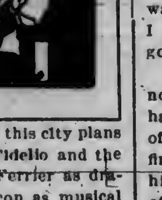
SURPRISE! Bolivia had a bloodless revolution last week. Something new in South American politics or maybe they are just giving the army a long needed vacation.

Speaking of this war-like nature, it now looks like Russia and Japan are letting the fur rise on their backs again. Reminds one of a couple of dogs standing growling at each other, one waiting for the other to start something.

FASHION FLASHES

By FEM

Quicker than you can say "I passed my math final," summer vacation will be upon us and, just as spring usually causes the young man's fancy to turn to love, summer time means thoughts of new clothes to the ladies.



Cotton, as usual, is king during the summer months and crisp pique, crinkly seersuckers, shiny glazed chintz, and natural cotton crash will soon be seen in a variety of styles and colors.

As in spring styles, prints are popular and lots of the smarter cottons feature splashy peasant prints in gay colors. Stripes, checks, and plaids will also be very popular and many clever frocks will combine plain and printed materials.

Strangely enough, light weight wool will take top place among the more popular summer fabrics. This can be made in dozens of clever dress styles from the classic shirt-maker to the newest cowgirl outfits that were inspired by the Texas Centennial and which feature fringed trimming, silk neckerchiefs, and studded leather belts. (This will be good news to the gals who will spend the summer in good old San Francisco where the weather is apt to turn "unusual" without the slightest warning!)

Most important of all, for summer, are the play-time clothes which are so imperative during our vacation, whether it be spent at the seashore, in the mountains, or right here at home. There is so much to say about this type of thing that we've run out of space, so next time we'll go on from here!

The Music Box

The Federal Music Project of this city plans to produce shortly the Opera Fidelio and the Pirates of Penzance with Mr. Ferrier as dramatic director, and Ernest Bacon as musical director. Mrs. J. B. Salinger, the impresario of the group, said anyone with a voice of particular talent may get a hearing either with her or with Mr. Bacon. It is interesting to watch the progress of this group. Their work to date has been very gratifying.

Congratulations are due the A Cappella Choir of this college. Their broadcast over KGO was a national hookup and took place last Saturday. Criticisms were extremely favorable. Credit is due to Miss Flossita Badger for the training of this group.

Paper Talk

By The Same

Ah, woe is us, was it worth it all? With no intention of our own, our debut into college politics was a noisy, but altogether enjoyable affair. In our column preceding last week's, we intended to be serious, and were lightly cast aside. Last time, we wanted to be taken in the spirit of fun which we intended, and were taken too seriously by some, and our character and intentions misinterpreted by others.

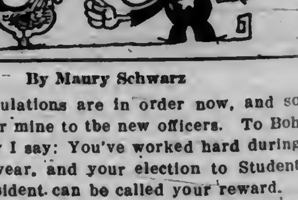
Friendships are valuable acquisitions; yet we saw some broken, we hope only temporarily, through out innocent machinations. Still, friendships so loosely held together may not be so valuable at that, so the losses we have caused others to sustain may not be so large after all.

No Scandal Wanted

We have heard from reliable sources that our column was accused of having more dirt in it than another slightly discussed one.

We are at the same time flattered and annoyed, but since we have no malice in our sweet, innocent little heart, we shall never even think of mentioning a few things, such as how certain officials were selected, or how certain music purveyors were chosen, or other things that our innocent eyes have bewilderedly observed.

Now Let's Go



The selection of the new Superintendent of Schools at last has been made. It has been rumored that the matter of making this selection somewhat postponed some action on the building of the new junior college.

We are very pleased with the decision of the powers that ponder, because we didn't want the job ourselves. We nominated ourselves as mayor, but with the new Super, perhaps our type of politics will be unnecessary now. The Major has already seen things and conditions as they are, so. . . .

Coming Attractions

We have been invited to spend a week-end with The Editor and we think that we shall accept, so that we can tell you all how that misanthropical, sour-sided, lonely cynic lives. We suspect that it's all wrong. Perhaps later, also, we can reveal the secret, outside lives of other infamous people.

Along this line, we should like some day to bare unto you all our own heart and thoughts, about which, up to now, we have been so reticent. We may even fall in love, just to tell you all how it feels. Of course, we always have our secret love, untold even to its object, but . . . oh, next time, or some other. Not now.

By Maury Schwarz

Congratulations are in order now, and so may I offer mine to the new officers. To Bob Sisco, may I say: You've worked hard during the past year, and your election to Student Body President can be called your reward.

I should like to say now that the honor that comes with being the president may be a reward in itself, but the real reward is in getting the chance for which you asked—really to work.

May I offer a little advice, take it or leave it: Try not to make enemies, but above all, don't try to please everyone at the same time; do what you think is right—have at least that much confidence in your ability.

Naturally, a little gloominess comes with the realization that my term as your president is nearly over. But I get much consolation in the fact that I still have many friends, even though often times I let my personal opinions get the better of my diplomacy.

My term was as successful as you think it was; the best that I can say about it is that I tried my best, and hope that my best was good enough.

I'm not through yet, however. Please do not throw me into obscurity yet, for I still have one more chance to bask in the glory of being president. Next Thursday is our final student body function—the semi-annual hi-jinks. I promise it will be the best event of the year, considering the price of admission—free.

On the gala program will be a special attraction—Dean Browne and Joe Amori will put on a comedy affair. Boy, will'l throw the hooks into them—at least one of them, anyway.

A dance will follow the hi-jinks, featuring Markuse's orchestra. Women are invited to the entire affair, which will be held in the Scottish Rite Auditorium.

And so, here's looking forward to next Thursday, and to the last edition, where I can really break down with my final adieu.

On the day of Italy's entry into Addis Ababa, so prevalent were the Italian flags in San Francisco, suspended from various churches and business houses, that one doubted for a while just where one was. And the chatter on the street-cars—it certainly wasn't English!

SUNSET:

Sports are just about "rubbed off" the J.C. calendar. So now the stars, near stars, and lesser lights have really started "hitting the books"—as well as the afternoon shows.

(Nite life will not be mentioned.)

NO "MOHR" TENNIS—

Little Lee "Smack-'em-down" Eisan was drubbed in a tennis match by J. P. Mohr, school registrar.

(Lee should know better than to tangle up with the Conference Head!)

SMOKERS-WITH FIRE:

These fellows who don the leather mitts to give us an evening of entertainment deserve an abundance of credit.

For a fellow to climb through the ropes and stand in the squared circle with a sea of faces staring at him is bad enough—when he gets paid for it. But when they clamor into the "sock-yard" surrounded by their pals and fellow students, to tangle with another classmate they know—well, it takes courage. And those fellows don't pull any "phonie-pats"—they smack. And when they are knocked around and bounced into "Birdieland" for our fun, it takes more than school spirit—it takes guts.

And every round of boxing has been one where earnest endeavor has been expended, The gladiators were sincerely trying. Naturally some did not look "ace-high" at times, but each and every one has been striving for a good ol' fashioned K.O., and the one on the receiving end naturally looks not so hot.

We think that is why the shows have been worth while, well received, and really appreciated.

RASSLERS, TOO:

Wrestling comes in for credit, too, but you must admit that the "grunt-rest-groan" exponents get a little time to rest as they loll on the resined canvas; one with his chin resting in cupped hands on crooked elbows, lying on his stomach, winking at the blonde in the third row, as his opponent settles himself on this guy's back and tries to unscrew his foot at the ankle.

(Or is that called a toe hold?)

"SADDLE" DOWN, LAD:

We got quite a boot out of the erstwhile citizen of this school who suggested we start a polo team. Maybe he was just getting "horsy" on us.

PRODIGALS:

Bob Eltringham and Sam Samuels are returning to roost next fall, as is George Pedrin. Bob (bad-boy of the squad last season) and George are first stringers and valuable men.

BREAK! NO BREAKS:

Lady Luck has kept the athletes under her misty veils throughout our first year. There have been only two cases of broken parts of the bodies of the heroes. George Buckley received a broken nose in football, while last week Levy broke his arm in a soccer game.

GADDY IS CLEVER:

Jack Gaddy said it was impossible to outfit the crew with brooms as someone suggested, so he furnished them with whisk-brooms, and in their last race the lads "whisked away to win by three lengths."

DANGEROUS DAN:

Dan "Ground Loop" Southard, the Rams' own Flying Dutchman . . . (he's a Swede by birth) . . . has been sailing through the stratosphere since he was 14. . . . Has flown across the continent five times. . . . Has been in three crack-ups. . . . One in the desert . . . where he was stranded for two days with broken fingers and concussion. . . . Would rather fly than eat. . . Got a ship and flew Pedrin and Fleming Pope to the Fresno Relays. . . . Took Tyrus Barre on a spin to Santa Cruz recently. . . . Ty has been quite a devoted lover of Mamma Earth since. . . . You can always rest assured that the minute an airplane is mentioned he will query: "Wanna' go for a spin?" . . . Hopes to own his own ship soon. . . . Has witnessed death of four men. . . . All by burning. . . . Has no fear of diving toward the ground at any speed. . . . But gets all jittery when he looks out an open window. . . . Says if he cracks up . . . he would like to plow into the sea. . . . Has had many escapes . . . episodes . . . and escapades.

TRAIL BLAZERS:

We see where Jack Brigham is coming along nicely down on the Farm in spring practice . . . and down the line at Santa Clara . . . Russ Clark showed that he will be heard from . . . and to add . . . They are GOOD academic students as well as athletes.

The bunch lacked the punch at the crucial moments. . . . Errors at inopportune moments by inexperienced players caused the loss of a number of games. . . . It is fitting to say that of the first nine, Odero Guisti was the only one to earn a letter in this pastime in high school. . . . With the return of eight of the first nine men next spring . . . we look forward to bringing baseball supremacy from Modesto to San Francisco.

That . . . soccer, under the able assistance of Coach Bass, has progressed nicely. . . . They have a strong outfit, and will look up to none this coming fall.

That . . . the spring football has been abandoned because of the lack of facilities for accommodating the candidates. . . . However, the inability of securing a practice field was mostly responsible for the disbandment. . . . From the looks of the candidates and the spirit they have shown in answering the call for spring practice . . . it looks like the Rams will have a football aggregation hard to beat. . . . We are pleased to announce the acquirement of "Bernie" Seymour as mascot.

BIG EYE POWERFUL

The Big Eye, the new 200-inch telescope being built by the California Institute of Technology, is 640,000 times as farsighted as our two eyes. To appreciate its vision, one can imagine that one is standing in New York looking at a sign across the street, With the Big Eye one could see that same sign clear across the continent from San Francisco.

SMITH SEZ—

By Deming Smith

With the papers filled with praise and ballyhoo for such San Francisco boys as Joe DiMaggio, Frank Crosetti, and Joe Cuohin, one wonders who the next local boy to break the headlines will be. Players from our own school may some day be recognized from coast to coast as stars in their respective sports.

Football fans will no doubt sing praises for Tom Murphy, last year's first string guard, and George Pedrin, Murphy's running mate. Tom Maur is expected to play for Duke and if in condition, is sure to rate high as a crashing fullback.

It is hard to imagine how Stan Brottman, Bob Mowitt, and Monroe Staley, holders of the 150 yard relay record, will be kept from supremacy in the aquatic world. All three are prospects for the Olympic swimming team.

The great hoax has been exposed and Russ Sweet's and the prospective gridders' fondest dreams smashed. There is to be no spring football practice. Hopes ran high among the members of the team for such practice and they were in ecstasy at the thought of again being surrounded by moleskins and woolens. However, the rude awakening had to arrive and did. Due to the lack of a field and other proper practice accommodations, it will be virtually impossible to hold spring practice.

Always on the look-out for something slightly different, the students attending the swim at Sutro's the other night took rapidly to the game of water basketball.

Dunn Elected As Track Team Capt.

Diminutive George Dunne was elected captain of the 1936 track team. Dunne was a point gatherer all season and an inspiration to the team. Though a quiet fellow, his efforts were realized by fellow members of the team.

The cinder-crunchers and field event exponents are now practicing for the coming P.A.A. junior meet to be held in Kezar Stadium May 23.

A full team will be entered in this fray, with the exception of Walter Bertram, distance ace, who has withdrawn because of an ailing leg which has bothered him since mid-season.

Thursday, May 21, the track team will hold their banquet at Veneto Cafe, at which time The 1937 team captain will be elected.

Yorktown, scene of the last major battle in the Revolutionary War, has grown but little since those early times. The population, as of 1930, stands at the staggering figure of 480.

THE SEASON'S END

By Oscar Bauer

Another athletic campaign has run its course, the boys have already formed a stove-pipe circle and are busy talking about the prospects for next spring.

The baseball season was erratic in every respect and only on several occasions did the Rams combine hard hitting, clean fielding, and steady pitching to overcome the opposition. San Francisco was a contender for the championship during the first half of conference play, but as the season went into the crucial weeks of competition, the Rams were unable to keep their winning pace.

On the opening of the conference schedule, Coaches Lee Eisan and Jack Gaddy were forced to revamp their infield. Bob Fex was brought in from the outfield to fill in the shortstop gap. Dick Holmes later replaced Fex, who returned to his former position. Larry Wilgus, the Iron One, was forced to fill in at the keystone post when Tony Scafani received an ankle injury. Jerome Zavagno, all around man, also did duty at the second base position.

The outfield was the bright spot of the Red and White attack with diminutive Babe Lucchesi leading his mates in hitting with a .413 average, and flanked on the outer defense by Ed McSweeney and Ben McGuire, both well above the .300 mark. The Ram hurling corps, led by Larry Wilgus, flashed its best form during the waning games of the season, but costly miscues on the part of fielders offset the steady mound work.

Joaquin Martinez, chunky southpaw, showed much improvement, overcoming his tendency toward wildness, and gained in effectiveness as the season progressed. Felix Anido also enjoyed the distinction of playing an "iron man" role.

The hustling backstop sparkled in all departments of play and was behind the plate, game in and game out. Captain Guisti and George McGuire were the stars of the infield. Guisti played a steady third base game and as for hitting his .409 average speaks for itself. Mac's work around the initial sack was a revelation. He was great on ground balls, and handled all kinds of throws. Mac batted .303.

San Francisco was unable to win a game in the four tussles with the champion Modesto nine. The locals were more fortunate against San Mateo, winning two contests and dropping two. The double defeat sustained at the hands of Marin, when the Rams were in the midst of the pennant fight, undoubtedly squelched all hopes of overtaking the championship bound Buccaneers. The Red and White swept the series with the Menlo Oaks.

Sport writers of the Guardsmen stole a march on the junior college coaches and held a stove-pipe convention of their own to select an all-conference team. The lucky ones are:

PLAYER	POS.	SCHOOL
Seiber	1b	Modesto
Changala	2b	Modesto
B. Hoffacker	ss	Menlo
Guisti	3b	SAN FRANCISCO
La Franchi	lf	Marin
Piccardo	cf	Modesto
*Creighton	rf	Marin
Anido	c	SAN FRANCISCO
Wilgus	p	SAN FRANCISCO

*As it was impossible to overlook Creighton's sterling pitching and fielding, it was necessary to put the Mariner in the outfield.

Final Standings

	Won	Lost	Perct.
Modesto	13	3	.813
San Mateo	10	6	.611
Marin	9	6	.600

Menlo	0	16	.000

WANT TO SLEEP?

An instructor at San Jose State College demonstrated the art of hypnotism on a student in one of the psychology classes. Looking her victim straight in the eye, she repeated, in a monotone, "You're going to sleep, you're going to sleep." Evidently the experiment was a success, but it seems to us that this San Jose instructor has the wrong idea. A very small amount of observation will disclose that sleeping in class is a common occurrence; therefore, what a boon to society she could render by simply hypnotizing the students into staying awake!

Medley Trio Will Swim at Stanford Olympic Tryouts

Accepting a challenge to swim against a strong Stanford aquatic outfit on May 21 at Palo Alto, the San Francisco Junior College 150-yard medley world record holders, made up of Bob Mowat, backstroke; Herb Brotman, breaststroke, and Monroe Staley, free style, are practicing at the Olympic Club for the assignment.

The swimming meet will be held to secure funds to send coast mermen to the Olympic Games tryouts at New York in July.

The trio hopes to shatter its own inter-scholastic record of 1:25 made at Berkeley last month.

The trio is also looking forward to the Pacific Coast Olympic tryouts held at the Fleishhacker pool in June. These tryouts are held to determine outstanding swimmers on the coast and send them to the finals at New York.

TENNIS MATCHES NOW ENDING 2nd ROUND

With competitors now in the second round, The Guardsman-Women's Athletic Association mixed doubles tournament is in full swing, according to Bertha Keller, tennis instructor.

The team of Dinna Bryson and George Novakoff won its last matches easily, 6-3, 6-3, and was to have met that of Marcella O'Connor and Bill Kennedy yesterday.

Gladys Stockhausen and Bryn Warner were to have played Lucille Jung and William Gee by today.

The team of Florence Ravazzano and Don Joslin won its last match by default, and is scheduled to meet that of Betty Phillips and Milt Durfee next.

Helen Davis and Charles Heaney defeated Anita McKay and J. Charles in their second round, and are now waiting to enter the third.

Miss Keller stresses that all second round matches should be played by May 20 (today).

THE WOMEN'S SPORT PARADE

By ARDELL WHITE

Big news for equestriennes! A horse show will be held soon at the Seventh Avenue stables. Details appear elsewhere in this issue. Outstanding contenders for trophies are Helene Dallman, Ethel Clarkson, Julie De Vincenzi, Eunice Skerritt, Phyllis Bruce, and Jane Neal.

Riding students now await classes in a state of fear and trembling for they are learning to take barriers. Our city health department has reported a marked increase in the number of cases of apoplexy. Could this be partly due to the biweekly spasms of those riding students who are learning to jump? Only time will tell.

Passing on to other and less mysterious things, Miss Keller's W.A.A. baseball group trounced their opponents, Miss Weber's proteges. The next game will take place Saturday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock at Fort Mason Field, and standard seven innings will be played. This being the "morning after"-the soph formal, some of the players may not find themselves as energetic as usual.

Two girls, members of the recreational games class, stand at the top of the four activities of badminton, deck tennis, table tennis, and bandball. Congratulations, Marie Barrett and Edna Assinger!

These novices have something. Barbara Latz, who had never played golf prior to this semester, regularly plays in the low 100's, something few women golfers are able to do. Barbara Root, a more advanced player, usually scores somewhere in the low 90's. I stop counting after 500.

The outing club, casting about for some sylvan retreat in which to forget its worldy cares, has decided to hike Sunday to the mountain theatre play which is annually held somewhere up in them thar hills. The club is sponsoring a contest, the winner of which will receive two tickets to the play. To enter the contest, you must guess: Who is in charge of the play, the number of people who attended last year, what percentage of the audience were hikers, and what percentage were drivers. Drop your entries in the box in Gym A.

WOMEN BEATEN IN TENNIS TOURNEYS BY S.M.J.C. TEAM

Winning five out of six matches, San Mateo Junior College women tennis players met the W. A. A. tennis stars in a Play Day held Saturday morning, May 16, at the Palace of Fine Arts.

Marcella O'Connor played the singles match that brought the W. A. A. its one victory, defeating her opponent, Frances O'Rourke, San Mateo's champion, by a score of 6-1, 6-3.

The scores of the other matches are as follows: Helen Davis (S. F.) defeated by Sigrid Osterhus (S. M.), 5-6, 6-3, 6-4; Betty Phillips, (S. F.), defeated by Winnie Abevathy, (S. M.) 6-3; 6-4; (doubles) Gloria Stockhousen, Caroline Orginas, (S. F.) defeated by Vivian Righetti, Lois Arenty, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4; Diane Bryson, Anita McKay, (S. F.) defeated by Ruth Twomey, Beverly Fors, 9-7, 12-10; Olive Reed, Teneko Ameniya, (S. F.) defeated by Ruth McKay, Jean Saylor, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Bertha Keller, W. A. A. coach, in commenting on the matches, said, "I think the Play Day was very successful from the standpoint of a good time. Our girls learned a great deal from the experience of playing the tournaments. They seemed, however, not to analyze their opponents as soon as the San Mateo players did." She added that she was nevertheless pleased with the large number of deuce sets.

Marcella O'Conner, W. A. A. winner, stated that she enjoyed her match with Miss O'Rourke. "Miss O'Rourke is a very good player," she said, "and I hope to play her again in some future tournaments."

Following the matches, San Mateo was treated to a lunch on the Palace of Fine Arts lawn. The W. A. A. tumblers entertained the guests.

Initiation Changed To Date of May 22 For Skull & Blade

Due to unforeseen circumstances, the formal initiation of new members of the Skull and Blade Society will be set ahead one week and take place at the Park-Presidio Y.M.C.A. The date was originally set for Friday evening, May 15, but will now be held on May 22.

Members of the organization served on the doors of the auditorium during the election speeches, and helped maintain order.

U. C. Chinese Club Wins Over Locals In Return Battle

In a return engagement held at the French Courts, the S.F.J.C. Chinese Club went down to defeat at the hands of the Chinese Club of the University of California early last week. The final score was 39-27 in a wild contest in which Joe Amori acted in the capacity of referee.

After the game, a dance sponsored by the local club was held for both teams.

George Chinn, president, has announced that the society is contemplating an outing late in the semester at Land's End.

Wallace, Ching Lead In Putting Contest Of Conlan's Classes

Inagurating a new form of sporting activity in the golf classes, Coach Dutch Conlan has been conducting a 32-hole putting tournament at Funston Field for gymnasium classes.

Each class has its own individual competition, and the finalists will meet in a championship match.

Par for the 32 holes has been set at 64, with two students trying for medalists with 61s. They were Bob Wallace and George Ching.

As this goes to press, the golfers are in the third round of competition. Those defeated in the second included Stafford Repp, Steve Simon, Jack Steiger and George Ching.

Students Cavort In Water Frolic At Sutro Thursday

Races, diving, and swimming exhibitions were the features of the program at the all-college swimming party held at Sutro Baths last Thursday evening.

Events included candle, pigeon, and balloon races. Most of the men entered into the main event of the evening's entertainment by participating in a game of water basketball. A team led by Tyler McHugh succeeded in downing its opponents, captained by Joe Amori, to the score of 2-0.

Climaxing the festivities, a dance was held on the Tropical Beach.

THE HORN BLOWS

Women Athletes' Field Day Will Be Held Friday, May 29

Marking one of the last affairs of the semester to be given by the Women's Athletic Association, a sport carnival will be held Friday afternoon and evening, May 29, according to Vera Spencer, women's physical education instructor.

The field day will begin at 3 o'clock, when outstanding women riders will compete for trophies at a horse show. The competition will be held at the Seventh Avenue stables. After the horse show, field day participants will adjourn to the Galileo cafeteria to attend a sport dinner. During the banquet, WAA officers and club managers for next semester will be announced.

The rest of the carnival will be held in Gym A, where the following games will be played: basketball, volleyball, badminton, table tennis, deck tennis, and shuffleboard.

Those who wish to take part in the sports carnival may sign up in Gym A this week specifying three preferred activities.

NO MONEY LEFT, BUT MAYBE EX COUNCIL CAN HAVE PINS YET

Awarding of block awards and manager's blocks was passed upon by the Executive Committee at its meeting last week, and purchase of same was authorized.

Faculty members were invited to attend the Soph Formal free of charge, according to the secretary's minutes.

The subject of pins for members of the Executive Committee was mentioned, and President Maury Schwarz appointed a committee to investigate and see if some money for this purpose could not be found.

(At the previous meeting, the Committee turned down the WAA's plea for money for a tennis award, declaring that there was absolutely no money left in the Associated Students' treasury—Ed.).

Continuation Of Public Speaking Course Is Offered

Public Speaking 1b. students will be given a chance to keep on with this course next semester by taking Public Speaking 8a, a new course to be offered by James Hughes to all students completing their speaking requirements this term.

The course will consist of outside speeches with no classroom work and two units will be given. Talks by the students will be given to clubs and societies outside of the scholastic program.

The class will be limited to 15 people, and Hughes advises any one interested to see him as soon as possible and sign up for it.

250 Attend Frosh Sprawl Stag Dance

Proving that afternoon dances are in favor, 250 people attended the Frosh Sprawl held in the women's gym at Galileo last Friday.

James Neal, head of the committee in charge of the dance, said that the affair was also a financial success.

Music for the event was furnished by Lou Wirgler's orchestra, popular dance band on the University of California campus.

Displaying enthusiasm for the coming soccer season, the S.F.J.C. soccerites are attending practices every Tuesday and Thursday at Funston field. Harold Lamble, Jim Fahn, Vin Zuardo, Bob Nelson, and the other veterans predict a successfull season next fall. New candidates for the team are still welcome at the regular Funston practices, according to Coach Tom Bass.

John Stewart Wins Presidency Office Of Shooters' Club

Balloting to decide officers of the fall term of 1936, the Junior College Rifle and Pistol Club convened last Friday, May 15, in Galileo, Room 203, at 1:45.

Succeeding Harold Newman, John N. Stewart was vaulted into the presidency with a vote of confidence. Supporting officers included Walter Fuller, vice-president; Barbara Luce, secretary; Cris Harrett, treasurer, and a board of control consisting of Fred W. Wright and B. Markel.

In an address of appreciation for election, Stewart said:

"Membership in this club now stands at 40 people. Our organization's pins have been selected and will arrive in a few days. To me the outlook for next fall is bright, what with the purchase of new army rifles for firing practice. At any rate, I'll do my best to be a good president."

James S. Hughes, faculty sponsor, will continue in that capacity next fall. Club dues are $1 per semester, which entitles all those in good standing to the benefits of socials, Saturday firing practice, and all other privileges which membership embraces.

STUDENT CLAIMS MACHINE IS NEEDED

Dear Bull:

Students of this institute show by their reaction to the election that they will not tolerate any doubtful means of carrying out an election.

This election is for officers of YOUR student body, who are selected FROM your student body, FOR your student body and BY your student body.

Candidates, defeated or elected, are without a doubt, somewhat taken aback by the reaction of the students, who show that this present system should be aholished.

In other words, voting machines are needed, and electionecring at the polls should be curtailed.

When an electioneer stands next to the halloting hooth and prompts balloters how to cast their votes, is in the least going a little too far.

Entrance of late candidates should be overruled, as was shown by this election.

This system of having the ballot box become an example of the late Houdini's disappearing act is quite amateurish.

When ballots are supposed to remain procurable until 5:30 and the ballots are restricted until 3:30—then allowed once again to be opened until 5:30, but closed again at 5, is quite a system. Or is it a system?

Unique to say the least.

When the election committee appoints some one to come for the ballots and box, why doesn't he do so instead of leaving it up to the press?

It was clearly shown that the VOTING MACHINE is needed, and these are easily procurable. In fact, there are two standing idle in room 150.

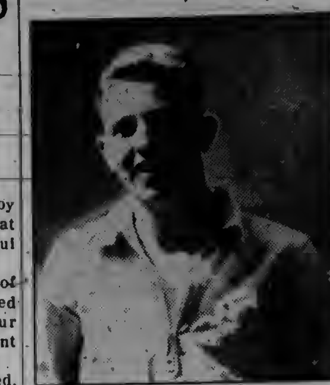
So, instead of dilly-dallying around, let's set a standard of voting once and for all. We might as well get this business set in line with the rest of the school activities.

The election of officers should be of SOME importance.

Sincerely yours,
Bud McSweeney.

Dear Editor:

No greater stench has anything—than politics. The election of Junior College officers has come and gone. Yet so great was the manner and procedure of our politicians, that this election will be long remembered. We have little or no use in our Junior College for petty politicians. Although this grievance can be remedied, it seems that the men and women of our school, like the men and women in any other election, are more than willing to subject themselves to this evil.



Although the election was not run as systematically as it should have been, the officers have been chosen. Regardless for whom you may have voted, and regardless of the petty grievances that existed at the time of the election, it is now your duty to support your new "leaders."

With every student's cooperation, we should soon have a smooth running, systematic student government.

COUNSELOR

Smiling Benny MacGuire, the first student body president for S.F.J.C., intends to spend his summer at a popular watering place. Benny's ability to get along with people and help youngsters enjoy themselves has earned for him a coveted position as counselor at the San Francisco Boys' Camp under the direction of Camp Manager Newbauer.

EUROPE-BOUND

Lee Eisan, former star quarterback for the University of California, and popular S.F.J.C. athletic coach, is all hepped up about a trip to Europe this summer. Lee is anxious to see how the boys perform at the Olympics, and plans to take in Spain, France, and other places where his knowledge of the English language won't be of much help. Lee is bighearted this summer and plans to take his entire family, consisting of his wife and himself.

HUGHES IS COMMANDER

Quick Elmer, The Salts! Big Stink At Staff Meet

Feminine reporters of this newspaper kept the office stooges busy with cries of "Quick, Elmer, the smelling salts," last Wednesday at the weekly staff meeting.

This gathering, which usually is as exciting as a very pale pink tea, took on an atmosphere which made our recent fisticuff tournament look like a meeting of the D.A.R. Aside from the usual group of fourth estaters, there were several guest stars who did their bit to entertain, and how! Several gentlemen politely accused several other gentlemen of being prevaricators and some even went so far as to hint that maybe they weren't even gentlemen!

The main cause of the fireworks was last week's "Paper Talk" column which did more to stir up school spirit than a dozen of Editor Rawson's very best editorials. Everyone in the college was blamed for writing said column, from President Cloud to Pat, the janitor, and those few lucky ones who did know the true identity of the guilty party, sat back with smug smiles and took everything in.

When the smoke had cleared away and the more fervent members had retired to the Galileo court to continue the battle, it was discovered that nothing had been accomplished except that several people had proved they couldn't take it.

Perhaps the most classic crack of the afternoon was made by Adolph Pedrin, who remarked that "Paper Talk" contained more dirt in this one issue than all the "Comes Out Here" columns put together!

LIGHTNING IS MEASURED

The lightning stroke has at last been measured, catalogued and indexed, the work is being done by the Westinghouse Companys experimental station in Sharon, Pa.

It was found that a large lightning stroke found in storms is about four inches in diameter.

In almost every college paper we read, we find a notice of a reverse dance, so it isn't news any more. But it is news when we hear of a regular "old-style" dance where the men take the ladies.

The Guardsman
SAN FRANCISCO JUNIOR COLLEGE

If you miss the Hi-Jinks, you miss the fun

Vol. 2 WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1936 No. 15

Hi-Jinks, Award Rally Thursday In Big Program

Featuring a program of professional and amateur entertainment, the second semi-annual Associated Students Hi-Jinks and awards rally will be held tomorrow evening beginning at 8 o'clock in the Scottish Rite Auditorium located at Sutter Street and Van Ness Avenue.

Admission to the event, at which refreshments, candy, and cigarettes will be free, is open to all students and their friends free according to Maury Schwarz, Associated Students president.

One of the purposes of the event will be to make athletic awards, Schwarz said. Awards will be made for Women's Athletic Association activities, basketball, track, baseball, and boxing and wrestling, according to plans.

The W. A. A.-Guardsman mixed doubles tennis trophy, selected last week, will also be presented as one of the college's first perpetual trophies.

MAGICIAN PLANNED

The opening number planned for the program will be a stage show by Howard Markuse and his orchestra, with vocal selections by Aaron Galant, Johnnie Bertram, and Jack Roche.

Adrienne Hess, saxophone soloist and student here, will play next, Schwarz announced. Charlotte Zier, also a student, will play accordion solos.

In an attempt to add even greater variety to the program, Schwarz is making plans to have the San Francisco Police Department's magician and instrumentalist present.

COLORED MINSTRELS

As one of the evening's high lights, a minstrel show, planned by the colored students of the college, will offer its entertainment, with tap dancing, singing and high comedy, Schwarz said. Among the college stars for this part of the program are Corinne Linwood, Walter Loving, Claud Quina, Bill Wright, and Paul Reed.

Mort Werner, former college student and conductor of the KGGC amateur hour, will present an amateur show offering the best entertainers selected from his radio programs, according to plans.

With another variety of entertainment, Joe Amori, faculty adviser to the Men's Club, and Jim Fahn, head yell leader, will offer a comedy tumbling act.

ANOTHER BROWNE SKIT!

The man claimed as one of the best one-man shows around the college and who reportedly stole the limelight at last year's Hi-Jinks, Assistant Dean Edwin C. Browne, plans to offer one of his famous comedy acts.

Jack Dyson, who has lived among the red men, will give an Indian dance.

Following the Hi-Jinks, Markuse's orchestra will play for a free dance to be held in the auditorium. Dean Eugenie Leonard has sanctioned the attendance of women students at the whole occasion, Schwarz has announced.

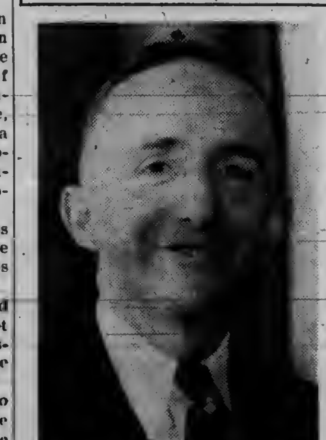
Donations of 1,000 bottles of Coca Cola by the Coca Cola bottling works, 500 Love Nest candy bars by the Euclid Candy Company, cookies by the Sunshine Biscuit Company, candy bars by Bunte's Candy Company, and cigarettes by the Phillip Morris Company will ensure refreshments, sweets and smokes for everybody, Schwarz claims.

"We want to take this opportunity, through The Guardsman, to thank these companies for the generous donations of their products to help make this event a greater success," Schwarz said.

FASHION SHOW TEA TAKES PLACE ON NEXT FRIDAY

Giving women students of the college an opportunity to view the latest summer styles, the Household Arts Association, under the faculty sponsorship of Claire Cuneo, will present a fashion show Friday afternoon, May 29, at 1:40 o'clock in the Galileo auditorium.

Clothes for the show will be furnished by Joseph Magnin and the following Household Arts Association members will be models. Louise Corica, Melba Crisp, Virginia Elliot, Ellen Marie Svane, Beth Hillyard, and Caroline Orginas.



Immediately following the fashion show, refreshments will be served in the Galileo cafeteria by a committee headed by Jo Jordan, composed of Anita De Martini, Olive Reed, Lucille Jung, Clare Mason, Alice Frye, Elsie Krohn, Marge Burke, Marcella O'Conner, Dorothy Densmore, Dorothy Bonocitch, Vera Griffen, Consuella Collins, Pam Spaulding and Tomiko Takahashi.

Louise Corica, Household Arts president, expressed a desire to see every woman student present at this show, saying.

"There is no admission price and the time has been arranged so as not to conflict with classes, so the majority of the women in the college should be able to attend.

"I wish to express my thanks to Laurine Kuhn and Ruth Jensen of the faculty for their help in choosing the models, and to my fellow officers, Evelyn Dybdal, Virginia Elliot, and Corinne Lynwood, for their cooperation."

COMEDIAN

Assistant Dean Edwin C. Browne, renowned not only for his executive ability but also for his thespian accomplishments, is expected to be up to standard and proverbially put the audience in the aisles tomorrow night when he presents one of his noted skits at the Hi-Jinks.

ECONOMICS SOCIETY ASKS FOR CHARTER

Completion and presentation of its constitution in order to get a charter from the college was announced last week by the Economics Honor Society, according to Eugene Cramer, acting president.

The Greek letter name of the society will be Omicron Phi Pi Cramer said.

The purpose of the group, according to the constitution is "to promote high scholarships in economic courses of San Francisco Junior College."

Eligibility to membership is based upon the grade standing of the applicant the constitution says.

Initiation of new members is expected to take place this week, Cramer said, with the exact time and date to be announced tomorrow on the bulletin board.

Following the initiation, Cramer announced, a banquet will be held at which key charms will be presented to the charter members.

The charter members recorded in the constitution are Michael Zarchin, faculty adviser; William Goss, Jannet Henderson, Carl F. Stough, and Ward N. Nichols, faculty members, and students I. M. Zangor, Margaret Ceccotti, Victor Cheslick, Florence Ravazzano, Louise Foster and Cramer.

A.W.S. WILL BALLOT TOMORROW IN A.M.

To vote on their new constitution and to elect candidates for next semester's offices, the Associated Women students will hold a general meeting tomorrow morning at 11:40 o'clock in the third floor lecture hall of the Extension Building, Helene Wright, incumbent president, has announced.

A list of those petitioning to run for office was printed in last week's Guardsman, but in order to make complete ballots, Miss Wright said that the A. W. S. executive council has made the following recommendations:

President, Helen Davis and Beatrice Murphy; vice-president, Hermine King and Jo Jordan; secretary, Barbara Latz and Virginia Elliot; treasurer, Marygail Konkel and Irene Spears; high sophomore representative, Anna Brocoto and Betty Phillips; low sophomore representative, Joan Smith and Pam Spaulding, and high freshman representative, Elaine Dominguez and Dorothy Canavan.

JOHNNY MEETS THE GANG

As an added feature for the second semi-annual Hi-Jinks of the college, President Maury Schwarz has arranged for the appearance of Johnny Morris, Jr., "traveling ambassador of goodwill" for the Philip Morris cigarette company, which is furnishing "smokes" for tomorrow night's occasion.

SO THAT'S WHY THEY ACTED AND LOOKED ODDLY, GROTESQUE

Politely asking their candidates for membership to "assume the angle," the initiation committee of the Skull and Blade Society composed of Benny McGuire, Frank Pedersen, and Ray Brunn "showed off" their victims in a very informal manner on both Powell Street and at Galileo early last week.

The new members, Ed Fredlani, Joe Kissel, Bob Sisco, Peter Jambruno, and Maury Schwarz, were forced to propose to the ladies, sing songs, compete in peanut races, and perform numerous other antics which were backed up by the steady hand of McGuire and his thick paddle. Schwarz paraded about Union Square in a pair of Japanese sandals, jeans, and plenty of lipstick. The smacking of wood against flesh was frequently heard by his followers.

A meeting will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Galileo, according to President Brunn.

Recently returned from the Dartmouth Spring House Party, and present at the University of California Senior Ball last Saturday night, Johnny Jr. says he plans to enjoy himself at the Hi-Jinks, since he feels sure "that all college students will eventually get to be good friends of his."

Willie Gee to Head Chinese Club For Coming Semester

Willie Gee was elected president of the Chinese Club last Thursday evening at a meeting held at the Chinese Y. M. C. A. Ethel Chinn won the position of vice president, Annie Tom that of treasurer, and Lillian Owyong was elected secretary.

Plans for a Memorial Day outing were discussed by the members, and it was decided that they would go on a hiking trip to Rock Springs in Marin County.

Agosti Elected As Leader of Faculty Club in Balloting

Alfred Agosti, science instructor, was elected president of the Faculty Club to succeed Grant F. Marsh at elections held last week, according to returns from the balloting.

Ward Nichols, comptroller, was selected vice-president, Margaret Flournoy secretary, and Paul McKelvey treasurer. Marsh, Edith Pence, and Lloyd Luckmann were named committee members.

Fifty members of the faculty attended a dinner given by the club last Friday evening, at which, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Lee, Dr. Eugenie Leonard, and Major Joseph P. Nourse and Mrs. Nourse were guests of honor.

MAY NYA TIME SLIPS ARE DUE BY AFTERNOON

Time reports for May must be handed into her office not later than today, Edith Pence, NYA administrator, has announced. Failure to do so will make impossible the worker's receiving his pay this semester, Miss Pence warned.

Because of the difficulty of reaching all students on short notice, Miss Pence advises workers to watch carefully for notices regarding the receipt of pay checks by her office.

CONTINUANCE UNKNOWN

While no official word has been received affecting the continuance of the NYA next semester, Miss Pence recommends that students desiring to apply or re-apply file applications with her office immediately.

This semester's NYA checks amounted to approximately $18,331, and a total of 330 students have received aid. In summing up the value of the NYA in the college, Miss Pence says, "The National Youth Administration has met a very definite need during the past year in giving financial assistance to many worthy students, thus enabling them to attend college. More than this, the employment under the NYA has been a good vocational experience for the students who have worked under it. They have found that in order to obtain and keep a position they must have some definite ability or skill to contribute to the job and must maintain satisfactory standards of work.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS TOLD

"Much excellent work has been done by our students under the NYA, thus facilitating procedures in the college offices, in the laboratories, and in the classes.

"Economic conditions warrant a continuance of the NYA in our college, and it is earnestly to be hoped that it will continue to function through the coming year."

HAM'S FRIEND

Mort Werner, former student here, radio amateur hour conductor, and now conducting his own radio store, will feature prize winners from his ex-programs at tomorrow night's Hi-Jinks to be held in the Scottish Rite auditorium.

McHugh New Pres. Men's Association

Tyler McHugh was elected president of the Associated Men Students, defeating Carlyle Caine, at a meeting held last week, to succeed Bob Sisco, incumbent and president-elect of the Associated Student Body.

Eugene Blumenthal, formerly treasurer, was elected vice-president, with Don Mills chosen to fill Blumenthal's former office. Joe Kissel succeeds Eddie Ferdiani as secretary.

Ladies, Gentlemen Smile As Camera Catches Crowd At First Formal Dance

One hundred and fifty couples of San Francisco Junior College, in addition to numerous members of the faculty, acclaimed the Soph Formal, held at the Hotel Mark Hopkins last Friday night, the most successful social event in the history of the college.

"The dance came up to all expectations, and we are sure that every person enjoyed himself," said Neal Martin, head of the committee in charge.

Members of the faculty who were present included President and Mrs. Archibald Cloud, Dean and Mrs. Edwin C. Browne, Dean Eugenie Leonard, Francis G. Marsh, Lloyd Luckmann and his fiancee and others.

At the left is the crowd caught by the camera in the middle of a dance, with many well-known students plainly seen. (We don't know them all, but you might find yourself without our help.)

Engineers to Have Final Meet May 28

LOSE YOUR SLEEP, THEN!

Students in general never seem to learn that trying to do an entire semester's work in one night is a futile pastime. Proof of this will come next week, as students diligently attempt to "cram" for finals.

After it is all over, many will be the pensive reflections that a whole night's work went for naught, when the examination turned out to be something entirely different from that which was anticipated.

It is not recommended that students cast aside all thoughts of study; it is suggested, however, that common sense and moderation be employed. A better outcome will probably result.

IT WAS GOOD, AFTER ALL

Despite forebodings as to the wisdom of such an occasion, the Soph Formal last Friday night proved to be probably the best and most generally enjoyed social event given thus far this semester.

Congratulations and commendations have been expressed elsewhere to those responsible for this success. There were more, however, who materially aided in this success. Chief among these are the students who, by fair means or foul, secured and wore attire appropriate to the occasion.

Women, as a rule, have formal attire that they can make available—on suitable notice—for the various occasions. Men, on the other hand, are not generally so fortunate. It works a hardship, financially and otherwise, to have to wear a tuxedo.

The men, therefore, deserve credit for turning out properly attired almost 100 per cent, for there is nothing that can so knock the proper spirit from an occasion than failure to cooperate by even a minority.

STEP UP, EVERYONE!

Have you spent five minutes' time in some extra-curricular activity?

Then, by all means, come to the next meeting of the Executive Committee and ask to be voted some award, whether it be a nice sweater or a fur-lined spittoon.

And don't be bashful about it. Everyone is doing it. You don't have to be an athlete, even, for nearly every club in the college, either through the Council or independently, has made known its clamor for decorative recognition.

Oh, your club doesn't have to do anything; that isn't at all necessary. All you need is a name. Yes, there is another catch in some cases: you might have to buy your own pin.

But if it is a block, circle, or some other piece of cloth that will bring you that much needed glory and prestige, perhaps the Executive Council will let you buy it with Associated Students' funds. The Committee is becoming so worn out with applicants that by this time they are apt to permit anything, just out of sheer exhaustion.

There is a current move on foot to organize present, past, and future rooters of all games and events that have been, are, or will be on the calendars. As they have made themselves very hoarse and frantic through yelling and other manners of supporting the alma mater, it is expected that they will ask the Executive Committee to furnish them engraved gargle cups, or, perhaps, beer mugs.

This latter group of reported agitators for recognition has as its insignia, to be embossed on the awards, the open mouth. If all the glory-gatherers are successful, the Executive Committee can have decorating its pins the open hand.

THANK YOU, GENTLEMEN!

Conditions under which the students of this college must pass their spare time are undeniably unsatisfactory. Places where one may study, rest, loaf, munch home-made sandwiches, or "shoot the breeze" are, at best, uncomfortable and few.

Despite all this, students still have such respect for the property and comfort of others that they uncomplainingly give up one of their favorite "roosting" places.

Because of the slight and natural boisterousness of students directly under and in front of the Family Club, on the corner of Bush and Powell streets across from the Extension Building, and because of the undesirable blocking of the entrance to the club by a line of students seated across the stairs, it has been found necessary to ask students not to "park" on the window ledges, and to leave the entrance way clear, particularly during the noon hour.

The Family Club has been very gracious about the whole matter. No violent, heated complaint has been registered. The club has merely asked politely that students exercise due respect toward the rights and the private property of others.

Thanks are expressed to those many students who have already respectfully heeded the request. The request is repeated to those who have not yet heard it, with full knowledge that their senses of fairness and consideration will dictate immediate compliance.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

Who's Polled?

Amateur polls and thereafter their predictions are in full swing again, with the American Institute of Public Opinion announcing that the Child Labor Law has found favor well over the half-way mark.

Voting opinions, according to the Institute, were asked of 130,951 voters which group "represented a cross-section of American opinion."

Entirely irrelevant to the opinions currently being polled is the question of how, why, and where the hundred thousand and more are selected. Undoubtedly the Institute has some very fine method, but ballots have never come our way, even to clutter the passage from mail box to ashes. Just for curiosity, we wonder why we are ignored, that is, on which side of the local average of cross-sectioning the Institute thinks we rest.

"Plow That Broke the Plains"

First film to be placed in Congressional archives, "The Plow That Broke the Plains," is still unannounced for presentation, although long ready for it. Apparently the government in going in for cinema production, forgot that production includes more than preparation. Thus without theater or barn in which to show the picture, a year's effort is headed for archives because, for one thing, entering into one part of a business with high-handed enthusiasm and no respect for the amenities of the system inevitably causes a grievance and lack of cooperation in little things so important to the actual delivery of the well-known "goods."

"Inadmissible"

Nazi Ministry of the Interior the other day forbade conferring of a mother's maiden name as a child's first name. The Ministry announced that "the custom was probably introduced by English seafarers and therefore it is un-German and inadmissible." All this time we have been brought up on the idea that Germany once yearned for an outlet to the sea rather than protection from same and its rollicking sea dogs.

Puppet Emperor

Rumors that Manchukuo's "emperor," Pu-Yi, the former Boy-Emperor of China, may find himself thrust back to his throne in the Forbidden City if new diplomats in Japan succeed in their persuasion recall the statement made by the former tutor to Pu-Yi. The tutor, Sir Reginald Johnston, revealed that his charge had solemnly vowed to kill himself should he ever be thrust back on the ancestral throne in the Forbidden City, from which he was peremptorily ousted and whose shrines and tombs and other things sacred were destroyed or stolen by ghoulish bandits. Possibly youthful vows have given way to acceptance of a state that is not without its tranquillity.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Franz Lehar's operetta classic, The Merry Widow, in all its gaiety, is providing a musical treat as well as excellent entertainment to the theater-goer this week at the Curran Theater, 445 Geary Street.

The music of Franz Lehar, fresh and youthful, seemed to be imbued with even greater newness by the direction of Arthur Kay.

The story of The Merry Widow, set in Paris, deals with the efforts of a Marsovian ambassador to marry a wealthy widow to his secretary, that the millions might not be taken out of his almost bankrupt state.

In the role of the Merry Widow, Helen Gahagan attains again all the success she achieved in Cat and the Fiddle and Mary of Scotland.

As the dashing Prince Danilo, John Ehrle was well cast. This role seems to be well suited to his personality. He made the most of every opportunity in which he could inject some pleasing comedy.

Although the operetta gave the two leads little opportunity to display talents for acting, Richard Powell as the ambassador took full advantage of his comedy role to offer a performance that denoted exceptional ability.

The costumes and setting were noteworthy. Colorful and well designed, they created an atmosphere which adds to the spirit of the production.

With only one exception, the plays that open this week are all comedies.

A play that should be of interest to English 1B students is the production of Hamlet, which is being presented at the Little Theater in the Fairmont Hotel. It runs from May 25 to May 30, with a matinee on Saturday.

At the Columbia Federal Theater, Censored by Conrad Seiler is now playing.

Brock Pemberton's Personal Appearance, with Gladys George, opened at the Geary Theater last Monday. The original New York cast is presenting the play here. Leaning on Letty comes to the Alcazar Thursday night with Charlotte Greenwood.

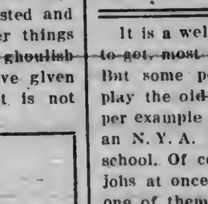
Bullfighters claim that it is not the red that makes the bull mad, but the fact that the cloth is waving.

The favorite dish of the ancient Romans was asparagus, served hot or cold.

OUT OF THE HAT

By Kenneth Bixler

Miss Helen McAfee, newly appointed president of Wellesley College in Ohio, in taking over the office summed up the institution's social difficulty by saying, "We still don't have enough men to go around, and those who do go around, go around too much." Sounds like the promised land, doesn't it? We thought that some of the neglected young men of our college might like to know about this. Maybe they would like to relieve the situation back there. We shall see if arrangements can be made through the Date Bureau.



Sinclair Lewis, the well-known author, refused to have his after-dinner remarks be broadcast at the American Bookseller Association's powwow in New York recently. His reasons were, he said, that he hated to be limited to split-second speaking. (He wanted merely to ramble around a bit.) That is good enough reason for anybody's not wanting to broadcast a speech. In fact, it is a good example for some politicians to heed in the coming presidential campaign. But Mr. Lewis carried his reasons a little further by saying that radio was the enemy of his profession, and of all authors for that matter. It seems that he thinks that radio is keeping people from reading as fast as he can write. We wonder if he ever stopped to think of how much free publicity his books have received from the radio book reviewers, or does he think that he doesn't need it?

We don't like to horn in on local questions concerning our fair city, because we want to be liked by our city fathers, but we can't help thinking that the numerous investigations resulting from the recent Shamrock Club fire resembles the old adage of locking the barn door after the horse is gone.

The height of something or other is the announcement that, in spite of the fact that many people of the United States protested sending representatives to the Olympic Games in Germany, we shall have the largest representation of any of the 52 countries participating.

Just where we heard it we don't remember, but anyway we heard that dancing helps one's posture. With this in mind, we viewed the many couples on the floor at the Soph Formal and got to wondering if crooked backs were considered good posture.

Meditations in a Minor Chord

By Fleming Pope

It is a well-known fact that money is hard to get, most of us getting it the hardest way. But some people just fall into things and play the old game of "all hog or none," as per example of some students who hold down an N. Y. A. job and another one outside of school. Of course, a man who can hold two jobs at once is to be commended, but when one of them corresponds to a relief job, we have our own name for him.

I.O.U.—ever sign one? Very easy to do, isn't it? But, oh! when it comes time to pay, for them it is a different story. People who are so ready to sign their name to a credit slip without thinking about the future date when that credit slip will fall due, should be marked with a black spot on their forehead so that some innocent and trusting friend will not "get taken in."

It seems that some students are depending on this I.O.U. "system" to carry them through college. Is there no honor left among men? Maybe we should go back to the good old days when a failure to pay a debt meant bloodshed.

Incidentally, there are a few I.O.U.'s that are lying on the editor's desk with several prospective graduates' signatures on them for their graduation picture. GET IT?

It just struck us as a bit ironical that while we are in college we try to get out of work, but when we get out of college, we try to get into work, or do you know this already? If you don't, some of you Powell Streeters had better give it a thought.

The sky may meet the water, the mountains may become valleys, maybe not in our day, but we don't feel slighted, because we were fortunate to see a great phenomena at the Soph Formal the other night. As we walked into the Hotel Mark Hopkins the other night, who should be standing there like the house detective but Bill Rawson, editor of The Guardsman, all decked out in his tux an' ever'thing. But to "top it all," when we were leaving, we saw Mr. Rawson don a shining derby and strut out the door. Sober?

Ed. Disappoints Student. Frosh Sprawl Lauded

THE RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

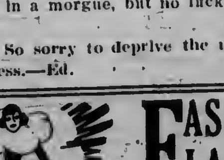
Just a word about the "Frosh Sprawl." Congratulations to Jimmy Neal, Karnig Khenchelian and the committee for putting on such a successful dance at such a low price.

Since everyone seemed to be having such a good time, I have been wondering why the college doesn't have more similar noon-day dances.

SATISFIED AND HOPEFUL.

Note: So glad to know that SOMEONE is satisfied about SOMETHING.—Ed.

Dear Bull:



Some one passed the remark that hell would be popping today. Shucks, man, but nothing has happened. What is the matter with this school?

I really thought by the impressions that I gathered that that fair carcass of yours would be in a morgue, but no luck.

MACK.

Note: So sorry to deprive the morgue of its business.—Ed.

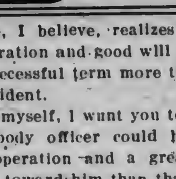
FASHION FLASHES

By FEM

Going on from where we left off last week, we take up summer play-togs.

Most popular of all this year is the Culotte, mentioned briefly in a previous column. These clever divided skirts have been worn for many years in France, but only recently have become popular over here. They come in a variety of fabrics, and can be bought as separate articles, to be worn with blouses and sweaters, or as complete costumes with matching or contrasting shirts. Culottes are grand for golfing, bicycling, sailing, gardening, or for lazy hours on the beach.

Also popular are slacks of sailcloth, gaberdine, or linen, in brilliant and dark shades, as well as many types of shorts. Three-piece play suits are still popular, and come with both wrap-around skirts, and skirts that button on the shorts at the waistline.



Bathing suits have gone feminine on us with slick, shiny, satin, the newest in fabrics. These suits are popular in the dress-maker type, which flatters the figure by featuring boleros, revers, bows, and pleats.

There are still many knits being worn, with rough weaves, such as herringbone, way up in front.

Rubber suits are in again, but have been perfected so they fit much better and are less likely to split in the wrong places.

Beach slippers come with high and low heels, and feature cork soles. The main head coverings are bright colored bandanas.

Pres. Swings Up to Final Finish

By Maury Schwarz

No one, I believe, realizes how essential the cooperation and good will of the students is to a successful term more than the incumbent president.

As for myself, I want you to know that no student body officer could have asked for more cooperation and a greater feeling of good will toward him than that which I have received from everyone during my term.

I also want you to know that I am grateful for it, and if there have been any activities during the past semester that proved successful, you who have taken a part in them are to be congratulated.

There have been many friendships made, and a few, perhaps, a bit closer than mere friendships. To me that represents a happy student body, and if that is true, as I think it is I am satisfied that this term was successful for most of us.

A bit of sentimentality is bound to creep in the last few columns. Far be it from me to apologize; I am thankful that I can still feel that way about everything at the end of my term.

It is the hope of myself and the committee that tomorrow's Hi-Jinks will truly prove to be a genuine final reunion both in spirit and representation. A large representation will certainly help create the spirit.

Congratulations Neal: you and your social committee have started a great tradition, and started it with a great success. The Soph Formal last Friday will be a subject for talk for a long time to come. Mimi Colton comes in for a great deal of credit for that success. She has worked hard with Neal, even though not officially a student any longer.

Until tomorrow night, and then . . .

The population of America was approximately 10 million Indians when the white men arrived.

Paper Talk

By The Same

For various unpublishable reasons we cannot tell you what we promised last week.

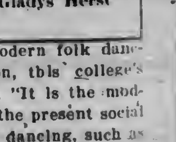
The rigors of the last few weeks have been too much, climaxed with efforts of trying to elbow our way up to a well-known American institution for recuperation purposes at last Friday night's glorious foray on the hill top.

For the first time in a long time we felt almost like a gentleman, and fondly hope that we may have looked like one. As a matter of fact, so many were those who looked like gentlemen that we almost doubted that they could be college students as well.

It Keeps Us Broke

A kind heart is a curse. No doubt of it. We find ourselves broke all the time because of it. Scarcely a day passes that some bedraggled specimen does not approach us with the supplicating query, "Buddy, can you spare me a dime?" And if we have a dime, whether we can spare it or not, we give it to him—with the too frequent result that we have to do some powerful walking, because we no longer have street-car fare.

Now we don't mind giving away nickels and dimes if we have them, but we do hate to hear the stories with which the panhandlers seem to believe they pay for what they get. Far from being interesting, these stories are so commonplace that they become depressing.



It's a Great Town

Being broke, however, helps in our education, for it forces us to see much of this town that we ordinarily wouldn't see, and at the most ungodly times. If you want to get in a philosophical mood, we heartily recommend that you walk up to the top of Telegraph Hill, or sit in the park on top of Nob Hill, or wander through the Lido district, or along some of the wellknown "skidrows" of an evening, late at night, or, even, early in the morning. (Sometimes when we weren't broke at the beginning of the previous evening we do the latter.)

And Apologies

We really offer apologies for the lack of interest this week. It is not that we are disinterested, but that you probably are. It is not that we have nothing to say, but that we are so overcome with philosophical lethargy and indifference that we don't care whether we say it or not.

The Music Box

By Gladys Herst

"Tap-dancing is really modern folk dancing," believes Laurine Kuhn, this college's instructor in modern dance. "It is the modern expression in folk. It is the present social dance of the people. Modern dancing, such as was exhibited in the Dance Festival, recently shown in this city, expresses the emotional feeling of the present time, in that it is the getting away from the traditional. Isadora Duncan was the founder of this. She disregarded traditions and created what she called DANCE."

Newer exponents of dancing are fighting a subtle battle. Conditions today discourage art rather than champion it. Mechanical forms of entertainment are preferred. Within our world people will always endeavor to express themselves, whether in music or other arts. Submerging self-expression is to crush the dreams that make the future of our world livable even if the reality is not always so. Dancing, like all the arts, is taking a stab at the maze of things to be found around us.

The Dance Council of Northern California presented its second annual Dance Festival on May 17 in the Veterans' Auditorium. Its content concerned the history of dancing in California, including Spanish dancing, and combined the dramatic social development of San Francisco.

Eleanor Powell gives the following advice to young aspirants of tap dancing:

"Forget tap dancing if you are not born with a sense of rhythm; forget it if you don't get backing that will last you over a period of years. Your parlor personality might not register in a theater. You can't dance on a dime literally. Dancing is like naturally curly hair—a matter strictly between you and your Maker."

Statistics collected by the American Dancer show that there are enough dancers in the U. S. who are of the tap-dancer caliber to fill a city the size of Philadelphia.

STAMPING THROUGH A FOGGY BRAIN

BY HEM AND HAW, a Collaboration

Like George Bangle's comic strip political mathematician-astronomer, we don't know what we are going to do with the $12,570,000,000 (no cts.) that the Federal Government has given us in the last four years. Also, like him, we sit at the printer's long after all else but one line op and our own selves have gone home, with paper dolls scattered about (and that is the truth, so help us).

You see, we are boys from the farm, and not accustomed to so much money's being handed around. We are taken aback by the big city ways. (Say, you don't have an extra cigarette, do you? We're down to our last butt.)

Argumentation has reached the point where we cannot reach the decision whether to spend the money for the promotion of the Seagull Cemetery or for rehabilitation of the Elephant Washers' Union.

Chief objections to spending the money in such manner is that it would show permanent results (maybe), and this would be absolutely contrary to the government's policy of spending money to teach clodshod fishermen how to dance the tango.

Of course, we cannot go off on our own experiments here. We shall leave that to the administration. Getting back to what we would really like to do (feel this building sway when those machines get to going), one of our advisers has suggested that we build, as monuments to our engineering ingenuity, sky hooks to which errant airplanes may become attached when detached.

SPORTS

GUISTI, LUCCHESI WIN ALL-J.C. HONORS

RAMblings

By Bud McSweeney

CONFERENCE CHAMPS:

This season of sports is over. The games which have been fought, and the meets that have been contested, are today merely "ink ghosts" in the conference record book.

In the future, students of sports will delve into the sacred archives of sportdom's Valhalla and discover that for the spring of 1936:

Sacramento was undisputed lord of track contingents.
San Francisco was king of basketball.
Modesto was ruler of baseball.
San Mateo became title holder of the golfing trophy.
Modesto ruled the tennis world, in singles and doubles.

So with the spreading of the trophies a nice scramble will ensue next year for conference honors.

RAMS: "BATTLING BABES":

Although looked upon as a mere warm up at the start, the Rams showed they were big enough to take care of themselves very handily, even though they haven't celebrated their first anniversary.

The basketball team had no respect for its conference rivals and, as is known, stepped all over them.

The baseballers were right in the thick of the melee the first half, but slipped later in the season.

The track team came through the season far better than many persons thought it would.

The tennis and golfing teams marched along, but couldn't surmount the semi-final barrier.

So, the fellows of the various sports, with a year of experience and a taste of J.C. competition, will herald 1937 with calm determination.

LESSER-LITES GLOW:

And to complete the picture, we find the crew has done well, although they didn't paddle against "big-time," while the soccer crew went through a practice season in nice order.

FORGOTTEN MEN:

With the passing of the show, it is noticed that the athletic mentors have been given little paper space, yet all know the sports they coach.

This is more credit to them than a page of print. They stayed in the background, taught the fellows the finer points of the sport, then let them go out and play their own game and bask in the limelight.

CAPTAINS:

The captains of the various sports, chosen by their teammates, are easily compared to one another in several respects: leadership, spirit, manliness, and character, speaking of course of: Tom "Butch" Murphy of football fame; Ralph "Pretty-boy" Hillsman from the basketball courts; Odero "Lemon" Guisti, and little George "Napoleon" Dunne from the cinder path.

BLOCKS BLOSSOM:

The lads who so proudly display their blocks, but who are not charter members of the society, will have a different expression on their physiognomy this Friday when they are initiated. This is the first "Block Break-in Day," and will be a sight worth viewing, and the same evening is the banquet.

(New members will most likely eat via the buffet.)

While on the subject, initiation reminds us that at the meeting one of the lads suggested that the new members be made to wear their shoes backward, and our old friend Kremesec arose and pleaded their cause by stating, "We shouldn't do that; it would make them too darned uncomfortable!"

DAVID vs. GOLIATH:

After watching big Pete Jambruno initiated into the Skull and Blade by Ben MacGuire, who, if you come right down to argument could, we think, be pulverized by Pete, we are now awaiting the day when little Felix Anido initiates 250-pound Walter Loving into the block society.

ALL CONFERENCE:

Captain Odero Guisti and Babe Lucchesi of diamond fame were voted all-conference timber at the coaches' confab.

Congratulations!

And that makes four men on the highest award list from J.C., the other two being "Red" Lowans and Ralph Hillsman.

THEY EAT 'N' EAT:

The evenings this week will be busy for some of the lads, as the track team banquets Tuesday, the baseball team Wednesday, Hi-jinks Thursday, and the block society dinner Friday.

(So if any of you lassies have some leftovers from Sunday's meal on Monday, please leave your name with Dean Browne so the fellows can make it a five-night outing.)

POINT GATHERERS:

The honor for being high-point gatherers in the major sports rests with: Odero Guisti with a percentage of .415 and with "Babe" Lucchesi with .413 in baseball; Carlyle Cain with 85 points and Lowans with 84 digits, in basketball; "Jumbo" Jublonski with 34 points, and "Whizzer" Warren with 30¾ in track; and Adolph Pedrin and George Clark tied with 18 points for football.

They're easily recognized as stars in their lines.

HI-JINKS JOY:

May we state that the Hi-Jinks tomorrow night will be a gala occasion and a fitting climax to this semester's student functions.

The persons who make this show possible are the same who make it so highly entertaining.

Those behind the scenes that start the ball rolling, get all the scenes, participants, and gifts in readiness, are to be thanked.

Dean Browne, Joe Amori, Maury Schwarz, the Men's Club, entertainers, and all, give their best to make these occasions remembered. And they are.

So to show your appreciation, just occupy a seat in the auditorium. A filled house will say more in congratulatory terms than a million profuse thanks. Nice going, gang, et al.

We'll see you there!

ON TO BERLIN:

With Lady Luck being kind, and lending a small amount of kindness as a reward for its work, the aquatic relay team may spend the summer in Berlin. No matter what club colors they paddle under, we shall broadcast that they are members of our J.C.

(Sure, we're proud of 'em. Aren't we all?)

PRESIDENT BATTLES:

If tomorrow we have a substitute master of ceremonies or our regular M.C. shows up with black eyes, his arm in a sling, a cauliflower ear, or lisps because of the lack of teeth, remember that he got in such condition honorably, for tonight Maury Schwarz battles for the Winged "O" in the 156-pound class at Dreamland Auditorium.

(Here's hoping that Maury doesn't take the name of the edifice to heart.)

RAM SWIM TRIO BEATS STANFORD IN MEDLEY RACE

Proving to be the strongest 150-yard medley swimming trio on the Pacific Coast, Bob Mowat, Herb Brotman and Monroe Staley, college mermen, defeated the Stanford varsity and the Stanford freshmen in the relay last Thursday evening at Palo Alto, but failed by a full second to break their own world's interscholastic record of 1:25.

The Indian varsity is rated as one of the strongest aquatic outfits in Northern California, having come very close to lowering the jaysee record.

Dave Rider, Stanford sophomore, gave onlookers their greatest thrill of the evening when he lowered his own Pacific Association record for the 1500-meter swim by 47 seconds as he churned through the pool in 20:25.7 a full 75 yards in front of his nearest rival.

Failing to annex the world's 50-yard backstroke record for both San Francisco Junior College and the Olympic Club, Mowat, holder of the Pacific Association 50-yard backstroke record, seemed badly off form and missed a new world's record by six-tenths of a second at a benefit swimming meet held at the Fleishhacker pool recently. Mowat, in practice at the club, has broken the record, 30.8, eight times.

Staley placed second in the 100-meter event losing by the margin of two yards to Ward Cox, Olympic Club star and Olympic Games prospect. Staley's loss was attributed to a sprained ankle which has been bindering his practice for the past two weeks. He is the Junior Pacific Association champion for the 100-yard event.

N.C.A.A. Rules On Problem Of J.C.'s

The National Collegiate Athletic association, in its latest effort to standardize eligibility regulations, has ruled that two years of "junior college" competition shall be equivalent to one year of "senior college" competition. The association, in its recent N.C.A.A. bulletin, said:

"Beginning with the academic year 1936-37 competition in championship meets shall be limited to contestants who have had not more than three years of varsity competition. This action is taken with due appreciation of the fact that the junior college problem has not yet been solved, but with the idea that, in general, two years of participation in junior college would count as at least one year in senior college."

RAM TRACKMEN HANG UP SPIKES

With the run-off of last Saturday's P.A.A. meet, the Ram cinder-crunchers hung up their spikes until next Spring, although some of the harriers will don soft shoes for cross-country treks this Fall.

The season was a success, although the Rams failed to break into the win column as much as they would have liked, as it showed they have a powerful squad, but without enough depth to carry out the place points which mean the difference between victory and defeat. With the acquiring of new talent this Fall, these place points may materialize.

Thursday night the team will hold its first annual banquet at Veneto restaurant, feting Coach Russ Sweet and Captain George Dunne. During the festivities the 1937 captain will be elected.

Coaches Agree Unanimously On Odero

By Louie Bertolucci

Climaxing a brilliant season of play, Captain Odero Guisti and Bruno Lucchesi were chosen on the official All-Conference 1936 baseball team, picked by the five conference baseball coaches at their annual meeting last Wednesday at the Whitcomb Hotel.

"Dead-Pan" Guisti was the only unanimous player chosen on the mythical nine. Odero has played steady, unerring ball all season at the third sack besides hitting the ball at a fast clip of over 400. No other player came close to disputing his position on the team.

Bruno "Babe" Lucchesi was also voted as the best outfielder in the conference. Although his selection wasn't unanimous, he received enough votes to win a place in the outfield. Babe has played left-field all season for the Rams, but was moved to center-field on the All-Conference team.

A catcher from Marin, Kleiman, was selected over Felix Anido of San Francisco by a close margin. To complete the battery, John Thompson of Modesto and Bob Creighton of Marin were selected as the two pitchers. The former won 6 and lost 1 this year while Creighton won 6 and lost 2.

Only one member of last years' All-Conference team repeated, that being flashy Frank Seiber of Modesto, who again took the first base position. Slugging Johnny Changala of the championship Modesto team won the second base honors.

Two players tied in the votes for the short-stop selection. Bernie Hoffacker of Menlo and Linde of San Mateo split honors, so both were placed on the squad.

William Lingerfelt of Modesto was placed in right field and Richard LaFranchi of Marin in the left-field spot to complete the first nine.

Larry Wilgus, ace twirler of the Ram nine, was given honorable mention. William Mobley, a first baseman from San Mateo also received honorable mention besides being the leading hitter of the circuit. Mobley hit at the almost unbelievable average of 500.

Certificates for performance in typing and shorthand classes will be distributed by President A. J. Cloud June 5 in the lecture hall of the college. E. V. Krick, cashier of the American Trust Company, will be the guest speaker.

Dino Orlandi and Frederick Cheeseborough, students at the Junior College, are members of Nat Thomas' orchestra and play at the dinner dance held every Saturday night at the Hotel Alameda.

Putters Putting In Last Round Of Gym Tournament

With but four contestants remaining in Coach Dutch Conlan's putting tournament at Funston Field, the golfers this week enter their final round of competition. The four students left undefeated after three rounds of match play are "Mono" Groper, who defeated George Hogan 6 and 5; Ed Bettencourt, who won from medalist Bob Wallace 2 and 1; Howard Capps who won from Al Mink 6 and 5, and Lambert Meyer, who defeated William Corduno 3 and 2.

All of these men are winners of their respective gymnasium class matches.

Block SF Initiates 20 Men On Friday

Initiation of new members will feature Block Letter Day, one of the latest college traditions, to be held May 29, according to Adolph Pedrin, Block Society president, who has announced that over 20 applicants will be put through the entrance rituals.

The initiation committee selected by Pedrin consists of Guido Nicco, Pete Jambruno, Charles Kremesac, Ed McSweeney and Felix Anido.

Following the initiation a banquet will be given in honor of the college's athletic coaches at which all members of the society will attend, Pedrin said.

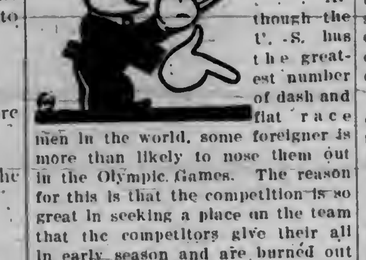
Racqueteers Finish With Second Place Tie in Conference

With the running off of the conference singles and doubles matches, Ram Racqueteers have hung up their equipment until the fall semester, when they will enter practice meets with the San Mateo, Marin, and Modesto teams.

The team finished the conference with a tie for second with San Mateo, Modesto winning with the title.

Milt Durfee, George Novikoff, Bill Kennedy, Rog Rogaway and Bill Cardinal comprised the team, and will receive their block letters at the Hi Jinks tomorrow night.

Swim Classes Get Own Pool At Last



Finally getting his swimming classes settled at the North Beach playground swimming pool, Coach Russell Sweet is giving instruction in the aquatic sport to all men students registered under him.

As the pool did not open till late in April, the classes had difficulty in finding a suitable location for their gymnasium periods.

The classes meet on Mondays and Wednesdays at 10:45 and 1:30 o'clock.

DOLPH DECLARES

By Adolph Pedrin

THAT: . . . Lee Elsan has ambitions of becoming a newspaper correspondent. He seeks a berth as a special correspondent to the Olympic Games.

THAT . . . Although the U. S. has the greatest number of dash and flat race men in the world, some foreigner is more than likely to nose them out in the Olympic Games. The reason for this is that the competition is so great in seeking a place on the team that the competitors give their all in early season and are burned out by the time of the games.

THAT . . . Odero Guisti and Babe Lucceshi, two San Franciscans who were chosen on the All-Conference baseball team, deserve more than congratulations. They are both of the quiet but hard-playing sort. Babe, although overlooked by the majority of the sports columnists played heads up ball all season and was chosen by all coaches as the best outfielder in the conference. Guisti, a third sacker, is practically a seasoned veteran; has played organized baseball for the past six years, is a quick thinker and a consistent hitter. This columnist wishes to congratulate these two athletes. Nothing more could be asked of athletes than these two have shown. They had ability and spirit, they played the game the best way they knew, and played it as sportsmen should. They always had a good word for their teammates, regardless of the circumstances. They are, in my estimation, IDEAL ATHLETES. . . .

THAT . . . Next semester's football team will have the most serious minded athletes imaginable. The veterans have devised a method of keeping every candidate's mind on football, and only on football throughout the season. They are shooting high and have hopes of the championship, but there is no danger of their becoming overconfident under this method.

THAT . . . Your track team will compete in the P. A. A. to be held this Saturday at Kezar Stadium. . . . BE THERE and lend your support.

THAT . . . The lettermen initiation and banquet to be held this Friday will be the first in the history of the college. TRADITION HAS BEGUN. . . .

THAT . . . At a meeting held recently by a group of the better known college women Elmore (BUD) McSweeny, well known track manager, was voted the best looking and most popular man in the COLLEGE. What do you think about it?

MOWAT, BROTMAN SHATTER MARKS

Three world's records were shattered last Saturday afternoon at the Fleishhacker Pool and all three records were broken by two San Francisco Junior College swimmers, Bob Mowat and Herb Brotman.

Bob (Windmill) Mowat, backstroke star, accounted for the first mark when he paddled 50 yards upside down in :29.4, which is one and two-tenths faster than John Hnake, the former record holder, made in the same pool earlier this month.

WOMEN'S SPORT CARNIVAL FRIDAY

Students Demonstrate W. A. A. Activities: Shuffleboard Is One

Shown in picture at left are three San Francisco Junior College coeds who are participating in the newly introduced sport of Shuffleboard, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association. This is one of the many pictures published in one of San Francisco's daily newspapers recently.

Women of this organization have undertaken the development of a varied sports program, including about every sport known, and consequently have received whole-hearted support by the women of the college.

Dancing, Athletics Banquet and Horse Show on Programs

Marking the last affair of the semester to be given by the Women's Athletic Association, a gala sports carnival will be held Friday, May 29, at the St. Francis Riding Academy and at Galileo High School.

The field day will begin at 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the college's most expert horsewomen will compete for high honors in a horse show, which will take place at the St. Francis Academy.

At 6 o'clock, over 100 guests are expected to assemble for the first banquet ever given by the W. A. A. Dr. Eugenie Leonard, dean of women, will be guest speaker. Following her speech, an announcement will be made by the winners of the W. A. A. election held last Monday and Tuesday.

The tap dancing group will then provide entertainment of a lighter nature.

The high spot of the evening will be the presentation of the new W. A. A. song, which the entire company will sing.

At 8 o'clock, all guests will adjourn to the gymnasium for an evening of healthful recreation. Those taking part in the activities in Gym A may play basketball, volleyball, or hit-pin baseball. The games to be played in Gym B are badminton, deck tennis, table tennis, darts, and shuffleboard.

The program will be built around the idea of an "embarquement," or launching of the first year of W.A.A. activity.

All women students of the college are cordially invited to take part in the sports carnival. No charge will be made, except a nominal fee of 35 cents for those attending the banquet.

Banquet Committee chairmen follow: General chairman, Helen Davis; mistress of ceremonies, Parnel Brown; lunch, Frances Coleman; arrangements, Toreko Amemiya; rearrangements, Isabelle Sharrett; invitations, Parnell Brown; decorations, Doris Michels; entertainment, Gil Hollingberry.

Equestriennes Will Cavort At S. Fr. Academy

A part of the Women's Athletic Association's sport carnival, a horse show will be held Friday afternoon, May 29, beginning at 3 o'clock, it has been announced.

Both the advanced class and the beginners' class will participate in the events, according to plans, with the following equestriennes participating: Edith Alpers, Bruna Beanco, Darleen Bridenbecker, Anne Brocato, Parnell Brown, Ethel Clarkson, Marie Cresalia, Helen Dallman, Marjorie Deihl, Jean Foote, Frances McCormick, Jane Neal, Joan Smith, Jule Wessenburg, and Elizabeth Yates.

Cordially inviting spectators, Laurine Kuhn, instructor, said:

"More spirit and enthusiasm will prevail if a large gathering is present. Horses are vain creatures, and like to be viewed by a bevy of admiring spectators."

Speaking of the instruction received by riding students, Miss Kuhn said that a vote of thanks is extended to J. Vandenberg, riding master, for his "thorough and excellent work in training the college equestriennes."

Beta Phi Informal Spring Dance Will Be Held on May 29

Offering its first open affair, the Beta Phi Social Fraternity has announced plans for an informal Spring Dance to be held Friday night, May 29, at the Residence Club, 950 Powell Street, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Bids to the dance will be $1.25 per couple, according to Al Leake, treasurer of the fraternity.

Music will be furnished by the Feather Inn Orchestra, Leake said.

Patrons at the dance will be Dr. Franklin Sewell and Edward Sandys of the college faculty, with Mrs. Sandys acting as patroness, Leake announced.

Special Dancing Numbers Planned In Sport Carnival

With two special numbers and a demonstration of technique, an exhibition of modern dancing will be given as part of the WAA carnival program next Friday in the women's gymnasium, immediately following the sport banquet, according to Vera Spencer, physical education instructor.

Participants will be Patricia Allen, Laura Ames, Frances Coleman, Roberta McClure, Vivian Fisher, Anita Foster, Agnes Kusumine, Dorothy Moore, and June Woo.

The dancing will be done in original costumes designed by Miss Moore, Miss Spencer said.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

By ARDELL WHITE

President—Ruth Johnson, Diana Duncan.

Vice President—June Woo, Parnel Brown.

Secretary—Dorothy Fidiam, Ia Celeher, Isabel Sherrett.

Treasurer—Elvira Erni, Toreka Amemiya.

These are the candidates for W. A. A. offices. The election was held Monday and Tuesday but results will not be announced until the W.A.A. banquet on the twenty-ninth.

Tennis News: Beginners are now being tested on form and position. Betty Phillips is now heading the W. A. A. singles ladder, having defeated Agnes Kusumine. Florence Ravazzano and Jane Ferguson have reached the top of the inexperienced doubles ladder by defeating Beatrice Murphy and Marie Wells.

First team awards will be given out at the W. A. A. banquet. They were designed by Ia Celeher and Doris Michels and are triangular shaped of felt and chenille. The background is red, with a white block S F in the center, and spaces for other awards.

J. C. Players Named All-Conference

The championship Modesto team placed four men on the nine, Marin placed three, San Francisco two and Menlo and San Mateo one each. Several other players received recognition for their play, being given honorable mention consideration. Those men were: Benny McGuire, San Francisco; Bob Burnett, Tom Athey, Marin; George Piccardo, Modesto; and James Ferris, San Mateo.

"Sheepskins" will be sent all men selected on the first nine as official title to the All-Conference honors for 1936.

Commissioner Paul Mohr presided over the meeting with the following coaches present: Leonard Elsan, San Francisco; Jack Gardner, Modesto; Chris Connor, Menlo; Scoop Carlson, Marin; and "Tag" Taggert, San Mateo.

Hamburger, Hot Dog Revolution Here

Installation of a new "broilator," calculated to revolutionize the hamburger and hot-dog industry, has been completed in the "beanery" of the Galileo cafeteria, the management has announced.

"Now the hamburgers come juicy from the broiler, are topped with Coney Island sauce, popped into a bun, and rushed to the customer," Mary Smiley, cafeteria hostess, explained.

Representatives from the Norge Company, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gibson, have been demonstrating the efficiency and operation of the new device, Miss Smiley said.

Perhaps a Record of Sorts Made By Prospective Grads

All students anticipating graduation took less than one full day to be fitted and to pay their fees for caps and gowns, Edith Pence, dean of women announced.

"All of the students came to be fitted as soon as it was possible and we had all 66 of them ready to graduate in the proper dress in one day. That certainly is fine college spirit," Miss Pence said.

Crewmen Seeking Award of Circles

As the main topic for discussion, the subject of voting circle awards to the members of the crew was brought up before the Executive Committee at last week's session by Joe Kissel.

No decision was reached, as voting ended in a tie. The matter was deferred for a later meeting.

WAR IS TALK SUBJECT

Speaking on the topic, "Can We Keep Out of War?" Guy Talbott, western representative of the National Council for Prevention of War, will address the college at an assembly to be held June 4 at 10:45 o'clock at the Extension Building lecture hall.

All students are invited to attend.

BICYCLES, MOLECULES, ACCIDENTS COLUMNS NOTED BY EXCHANGE EDITOR'S CLIPPINGS

Of all the departments of the college paper, a vote taken at Duluth J. C. shows the column entitled "Gab" to be the most popular. This is a mere fact, and no reflection on anyone. In fact, it was written before a certain "coming out" column controversy.

"The Molecule Whirl" is the official name given to a dance sponsored by the chemistry students of the U. of Minn.

Bicycles were the means used to convey the women students from course to course in the progressive dinner given by the W. A. A. of the San Bernardino J. C.

• • •

Three different accidents have occurred on the Los Angeles J. C. campus because of the Ingobike fad which hit the college. The students find it a fast way of getting about.

Work in Summer Resort Unavailable Says Edith Pence

That work at various resorts during the summer vacation will probably be unavailable was announced by Edith Pence, assistant dean of women.

"I have communicated with several summer resorts, and they have sent word that all positions for this year are already filled," Miss Pence said.

Miss Pence further added that she would like to have the names of all students interested in working this summer, in case any position might unexpectedly be open.

HISTORIC FORT

Fort Point, southern end of the Golden Gate bridge, was titled Punta del Cantil Blanco—Point of the Steep White Rock—by Anza, who built a fort there in 1793. Americans replaced it with the old brick-constructed Fort Winfield Scott.

STUDENT EFFICIENCY LAUDED BY ASS'T DEAN'S STATEMENT

As the semester draws to a close, Assistant Dean Edwin C. Browne takes this opportunity to commend students for what he terms their successful accomplishments.

Following is his statement:

"As the end of the year draws to a close, it is with a sincere feeling of appreciation that I review the many things accomplished by the student body and student organizations. The various social functions have been the result of hours of hard work by committee members and with a minimum of friction or lost effort.

"The outstanding impression running through our institution is the keen respect for the efficiency and originality of our students. It is of such material that our future civic and professional leaders will develop.

"We have had a great year. Lack of independent school equipment and traditions has necessitated sacrifices and adjustments that were made happily and without hesitation by our students and faculty.

"Many of us will remember the first assembly at High School of Commerce last August. We remember when Paul Pitman defined the 'Educated Man' as one who could 'adjust' himself to circumstances. You have adjusted—I am personally very proud of you."

Students Inspect Matson Steamers

Visiting galleys, dining salons, engine rooms, and electrical equipment, several members of the Hotel and Restaurant Management class toured the Matson liners Lurline and Mariposa last week.

Those who made the trip included Graham Sullivan, instructor, Mary Smiley, Lawrence Wong, and Stuart Kingsland.

PAY UP, OR SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES, SAYS COMPTROLLER

All students who have not paid their bills to the Registrar by the beginnings of finals week, the fifth, will not be given any credit for this semester's work nor have any records transferred to any other institution, warns Fred N. Nichols, comptroller.

Nichols said further that a record of these students has been received from the Registrars' office, so there will be no outs for anyone.

In order to clear his books by June 15, Nichols asks that the heads of the various clubs and organizations be sure to hand in their bills to date for this semester's work, so that it will not necessitate the carrying over of said bills until next term. This also includes instructors who have collected laboratory fees and have neglected to hand them in to the comptroller's office.

Guardsman Tennis Trophy Will Be Given Tomorrow

All final matches of the Guardsman-Women's Athletic Association mixed doubles tennis tournament must be played off by tomorrow afternoon and trophies will be presented to the winning couple at the semi-annual hi-jinks tomorrow night, according to Bertha Keller, women's physical education instructor.

Probably the successful pair, Miss Keller said, will be one of the following teams: Betty Phillips-Milton Durfee, Helen Davis-Charles Heaney, Marcella O'Connor-Bill Kennedy, or Catherine True-Kenneth Kim.

The trophy, engraved with the names of the two winners, will be presented to them by Bill Rawson, editor of The Guardsman. Two individual awards will also be given: a medal and a pin for the man and woman, respectively.

ASTRONOMERS SEE OPERATION OF SKY PLANT

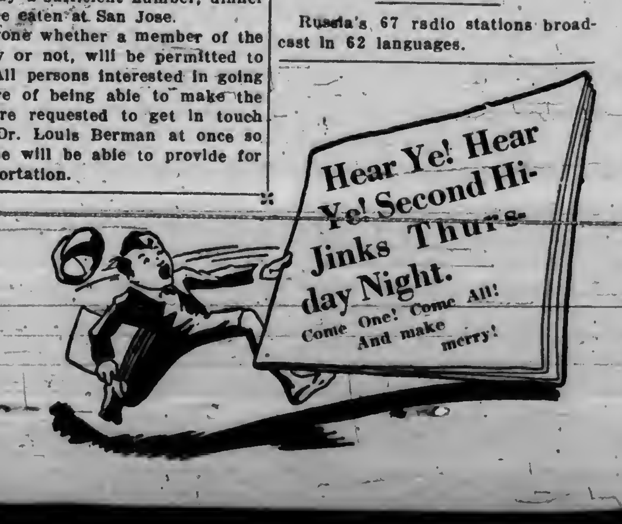
With the Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton as their destination, members of the College Astronomical Society and their friends will leave San Francisco from the northwest corner of Market street and Van Ness avenue Saturday, May 30, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The trip is being made so that members of the society may observe the management and operation of the observatory. Observations of the moon, Jupiter, and other planets will be made with the 36-inch refracting telescope.

Transportation is in charge of members of the society possessing automobiles, and expenses of the 150-mile round trip are to be divided equally among those going.

As there are no eating facilities at Mt. Hamilton, members will be required to bring their lunches. If desired by a sufficient number, dinner may be eaten at San Jose.

Anyone whether a member of the society or not, will be permitted to go. All persons interested in going or sure of being able to make the trip are requested to get in touch with Dr. Louis Berman at once so that he will be able to provide for transportation.



Furnace Top Falls So Trip Is Called Off; Go Saturday

Because the top of the furnace in the rolling mill collapsed, thus impairing operations, the engineering students' trip to the Pacific Coast Steel Mill's plant in South San Francisco scheduled for last Monday night was postponed according to word received by Paul Mohr, registrar.

Those interested in visiting the mill Saturday morning, May 30, are requested to sign up at the Extension Building office, Mohr said, although the number of visitors will be limited at that time, as the plant will be in full operation.

MOHR REVEALS ENTRANCE PLAN FOR NEXT FALL

Information in regard to registration next Fall was revealed yesterday by Paul Mohr, registrar. His announcement is as follows:

All registration will be held in the Galileo High School Building between 2:30 and 5:30 p. m. All students should report to room 260 to pay fees and secure necessary registration forms.

FORMER STUDENTS

Monday, August 24—Former students whose last names begin with letters A-F inclusive.

Tuesday, August 25—Former students whose last names begin with letters G-M, inclusive.

Wednesday, August 26—Former students whose last names begin with letters N-Z, inclusive.

Any student who fails to report on the designated day will pay a late fee of one dollar ($1.00) and will lose preference in choice of classes.

NEW STUDENTS WHO TOOK THE ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS IN JUNE

Wednesday, August 26—Assembly in the auditorium.

Thursday, August 27—Registration in room 260.

ALL OTHER NEW STUDENTS

Monday, August 24—Subject A examination and strong vocational interest test in auditorium.

Tuesday, August 25—College aptitude and high school content examinations in auditorium.

Wednesday, August 26—Assembly in the auditorium.

Friday, August 28—Registration in room 260.

CLOTHES CONTRAST FEATURES SHOWING

Sponsored by the Household Arts Association, a fashion show was presented in the Galileo auditorium last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The highlight of the occasion was the contrast between old-fashioned and modern clothes, both groups being modeled by association members. The costumes were donated by Claire Cuneo, household arts instructor, and the modern clothes came from Joseph Magnin.

The high senior girls of Galileo were invited as guests. Refreshments, consisting of cake and punch, were served after the show. While serving refreshments, women wore clothes they had made in class.

Music was furnished by the Galileo dance orchestra, and Jo Jordan, a member of the association, acted as mistress of ceremonies. The members who modeled were: Louise Corica, Melba Crisp, Virginia Elliot, Ellen Marie Suane, Beth Hillyard, Caroline Orginas, Pam Spalding, Evelyn Dybdal, Dorothy Bonacich, Alice Frye, Lena Woy, Olive Reed, and Marge Burke.

Helen Davis Is Elected Pres. Of Association

Climaxing a general meeting at which the A.W.S. constitution was accepted and candidates introduced, the following women were elected as next semester's A.W.S. officers: President, Helen Davis; vice-president, Hermine King; secretary, Barbara Latz; treasurer, Marygail Konkel; high freshman representative, Elaine Dominguez; low sophomore representative, Pam Spaulding, and high sophomore representative, Betty Phillips.

Miss Davis served as president of the Women's Service Society this semester, and Miss King and Miss Konkel held the positions of vice-president and treasurer in the same organization. Miss Latz and Miss Spaulding held A.W.S. offices this semester, while Miss Dominguez and Miss Phillips have taken an active part in the government of their former schools.

Helene Wright, outgoing A.W.S. president, made the following statement regarding her term of office:

"I sincerely appreciate all the help the women have given me, especially during the series of teas we gave earlier in the semester. In spite of the fact that we have been the victims of much ribbing on the part of Manry Schwarz, we have received many compliments from teachers of other schools who attended our teas and who expressed a hope that they be continued again next year.

"I want to thank Dean Leonard, who has been exceedingly helpful, for her support, and to extend to Helen Davis, president-elect, my most sincere congratulations and the hope that she gets as much cooperation as I have. I want her to know that I am ready and willing to help her in any way that I can."

Certain Students Are Urged to See College Nurse Now

The following S.F.J.C. students are urgently requested to report to Hilda Willard, college nurse at Room 201, Galileo High School, between the hours of 2:30 and 5 p.m. any day except Wednesday and Saturday:

Faculty And Students At Formal Dance

Above are pictured a group of coeds at the dance, all togged out in their formal attire. To the left are Associated Student Body officers with their ladies; left to right are Mimi Colton, George MacDonald, Betty Zeck, Robert Sisco, Manry Schwarz, and Mildred Spiegelman, and Neal Martin.

This affair climaxed social activities for the semester, and was claimed by many as the inauguration of a tradition that will probably live on with the college.

BANQUET FEATURES SPORTS CARNIVAL

With a banquet as the main feature of the day, the Women's Athletic Association's sport carnival held last Friday afternoon and evening climaxed the group's first year of activity.

The program started at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with a horse show held at the San Francisco Riding Academy.

Dean Eugenie Leonard was guest speaker at the banquet. Results of the recent W.A.A. election were disclosed at this gathering, with Ruth Johnson revealed as the new president, Parnel Brown, vice-president; Isabel Sharrett, secretary; Tuneko Amemiya, treasurer, and Ellen Cumming, cheer leader.

During the evening, various indoor athletic events were staged in the Galileo gymnasium.

Guy Talbott will speak on Foment in the Far East at an assembly to be held tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock in the third floor auditorium of the Extension Building, according to word received from Paul Pitman, assistant to President Cloud.

Examinations Schedule Told

That all final examinations will be given in the same rooms as are used for the class period throughout the semester was announced by the administration, with the exception that 12:35 o'clock class examinations will be held at Galileo at 2:30 o'clock.

Following is the final examination schedule for the week of June 8 to 12, inclusive:

Diplomas Will Be Very Latest Model

The newest thing in diplomas has been designed by Paul Schagen, art student, and approximately 87 of them will be distributed at the San Francisco Junior College graduation exercises.

The parchments will be made in book form, and inserted in a leather maroon folder. The lettering will be done in red, mounted on a white background.

AWARDS PRESENTED AT GALA HIGH-JINKS

Varied entertainment and awarding of trophies featured the Hi-Jinks held last Thursday night in the Scottish Rite auditorium.

Winners in tennis matches were were given cups and medals, with the W.A.A.-Guardsman mixed doubles plaque going to Milt Durfee and Betty Phillip.

Recognition to baseball players was given by Jack Gaddy, and to trackmen by Russ Sweet.

Manry Schwarz and Robert Sisco received medals as the outstanding student leaders.

The Men's Club presented its faculty sponsor, Joe Amori, with a wrist watch.

Entertainment was furnished by Howard Markuse and his orchestra, the Skull and Blade Society, Jim Fahn and Amori, Dean Edwin C. Browne, Mort Werner, and the negro students of the college.

Business students are invited to heard E. V. Krick, vice-president of the American Trust Company, speak at 11:40 o'clock Friday morning in the third floor auditorium of the Extension Building.

Marie Wells Is Contest Winner In Translation

Competing in the Spanish essay translation contest of Time and Space, written by Julio Camba, Spanish journalist, Marie Wells received first prize of five dollars for her excellent translation, according to Thomas Gabbert, sponsor of the competition.

"There were times when the committee nearly tore its hair in choosing a winner. Until the last minute, four of the apparently equally good compositions were in the running. The method finally selected to eliminate them was to take them apart word by word, and to analyze them," Gabbert said.

When further questioned as to runners-up, the sponsor replied that among those due for honorable mention were Bill Rawson and Frances McCormick, who did "really fine pieces of translation."

"A contest next year? That's a long way off, but it's mostly up to the students. If they display enough interest, I'll be glad to deposit another five dollars as a prize!"

Final Grades Will Be Available After Monday, June 22

Final grades will be available for distribution on Monday, June 22, or any day thereafter, according to J. Paul Mohr, registrar.

They may be secured by calling at the college office at Galileo between 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m., or by mail providing the student leaves a self-addressed, stamped envelope in the office, Mohr said.

The envelope should be large enough that 4 by 6-inch cards can be enclosed without folding, and should carry 3 cents postage for San Francisco addresses, and 6 cents for out-of-town addresses, Mohr advised.

LIBRARY FINES MUST BE PAID!

Students who owe library fines will not, under any circumstances, receive grades nor any form of record until fines are paid, according to Francis J. Colligan, librarian, and Paul Mohr, registrar. Colligan also said that all books must be returned to the library not later than Friday, June 12, at 1:30 o'clock p. m.

Skull, Blade Vote Today at Galileo

With elections to be held this afternoon at Galileo, nominations were made for next semester's Skull and Blade Society officers at the last meeting.

James Neal and Ed Fredlani are the presidential candidates, while Joe Kissel was unanimously elected secretary.

Tyler McHugh, president-elect of the Men's Club, was voted into the society to replace a graduating member.

STUDENTS NAMED SPEAKERS FOR COMMENCEMENT

Selected on the basis of scholarship standings, Virginia Ranken, representing January graduates, and Walter Bertram of the June group, were chosen to speak at the commencement exercises June 12, 8 o'clock p. m., at the War Memorial Opera House.

Edwin A. Lee, Superintendent of Schools, will be the presiding official, and Paul Cadman, formerly Dean of Men at the University of California, will be the principal speaker.

Music will be furnished by the college A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Flossita Badger, and Inez St. Ledger will present a piano solo.

The balcony of the opera house will be open to the public, but the entire lower floor, together with boxes, will be reserved, and each graduating student will receive 10 bids.

Ushers will be provided by the men's and women's service societies.

LITERARY SOCIETY NEW ORGANIZATION

Organization of a new club, a literary society, took place last Friday evening at the home of Madelon Brodie. Open to all types of discussion, with emphasis on literary topics, the club will be for those who like to write, with the idea of editing some sort of a college publication next term, according to Dorothy Mercer, English instructor, who is one of the faculty sponsors. William Ross, history instructor, is the other faculty sponsor. San Francisco Junior College Forum Club is the suggested name.

Decorations For Rifle Club Arrive

The official pins of the S.F.J.C. Pistol and Rifle Club arrived last Friday, May 29, according to John N. Stewart, newly elected president, in a short interview yesterday.

"Club members are urged to get their emblems before vacation so that the matter can be disposed of by the time the holidays roll around. They can be obtained from either Allen Newman or me."

Questioned as to the final functions of the arms society before the close of school, Stewart said:

"Unless something unusual happens, the Pistol and Rifle Club has folded its wings for the semester. However, by way of mention, the organization sponsored the shooting of Fred Wright, who fired at the National Guard Armory last Friday night in competition in an effort to win the '500 bar' medal of the National Rifle Association. He had to complete his work Friday night or never, for Saturday morning he'd have been too old!"

At the time of publication the official results were not obtainable.

Sub-Editors Scan The Weekly Sheet

Since this picture was taken, Neal Martin succeeded Mimi Colton as vice-president, when the latter left college to take outside employment.

GOODBYE, AND UNTIL NEXT TIME

Like everything mortal, the semester must draw to a close. Unlike the lives of men, it will reopen in the same world.

For some students, the reopening next Fall will mean little or nothing; they will not be returning. To these, we say adios and good luck—we are glad to have had them for a while.

For most, however, we shall be able to extend a hearty welcome next semester. In the meantime, we wish them a pleasant summer.

BE A SUMMER BOOSTER

During the next few months, erstwhile students are bound to meet prospective students, and people will ask about San Francisco Junior College.

Loyalty demands that always a good word be given for the institution. This does not imply that any exaggeration is necessary; the merits of the college are such that they need no embellishment.

As has been said often before, conditions under which students must attend this college are not quite perfect. It must be remembered, however, that the present set-up does have decided values.

This institution has achieved a reputation for sensible liberality, independence, and consideration. The administration and faculty inherently possess these qualities, but they are brought out even more strikingly because of the "here and there" classroom situation.

When ensconced in their own building, students cannot expect to find time for shopping or a show between classes, to have all the advantages of the metropolitan area at their feet, or to find instructors so liberal in the matter of lateness and failure to attend every meeting of a class.

There is, further, more to be learned in college than what is taught in the classrooms. What is learned on the campus is of great value. Now students have as their campus the entire city in general, and some of the most interesting parts in particular. The value of association with each other and with the people surrounding is immense. It is for this that San Francisco Junior College can offer students something distinct, something unrivalled by any other similar institution, even more so at the present than will be possible when the new building is available.

APPRECIATION

Today The Guardsman comes out larger than ever before, with four pages of rotogravure. Few will ever know or appreciate the effort that has been required to do this, not to mention the sacrifice of time made so consistently every week by a few of the staff members.

When one man alone has done an unusual amount of work with no remuneration, modesty and prudence dictate that he say nothing about it. When, however, he can tell of the work of others, he is, perhaps, rendering a service

For this reason, the fact that Elmore McSweeney, Fleming Pope, Virginia Bornmueller, and The Editor, had to go even so far as to work, with practically no letup, from six o'clock one morning until after three the next, to be at work again by 8:30 o'clock the same morning, shall become general knowledge. This was, incidentally, just one of the many times that they consistently devoted so many hours.

There have been others. Most outstanding have been Kenneth Bixler, who supervised the photography for this edition; Ardell White, who so conscientiously has handled Women's Athletic Association news; Florence Murphy, who is known as FEM and who wrote Associated Women Students' news; Paul Green, than whom one could find no better in any junior college for all-around newspaper ability; Lambert Meyer, whose journalistic profiteness is astounding; Ed Scott, who is always on deck for any job, regardless of seeming importance or unimportance; Chason Tucker, the feature writer from Alcatraz; Robert Spencer, not a staff member but always ready to help out in a pinch; and Don Flash, slow but dependable and accurate; and the entire remaining staff in general.

COULDN'T ASK FOR BETTER

The glorious triumvirate. This may the combination of Paul M. Pitman, assistant to President Archibald J. Cloud, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, and President Cloud, himself, be described.

The Guardsman, in particular, owes them a debt of deepest gratitude, for it has been partially through their good judgment, liberality, and helpfulness that the paper has been able to gain whatever reputation may have accrued.

This college seems to be unusually blessed, for the most part, with likeable, efficient faculty members. Not the least of these are Jean Nourse, faculty adviser to the editorial staff, than whom there could be no better with whom to work; and Lloyd Luckmann, faculty adviser to the business staff, the wisdom of whose judgment has been proved time and again.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

By William Rawson

No criticism ever seems to appear directed against the famous Dionne family. Story after story implies what heroes they all must be.

It has been announced that Mrs. Dionne is expecting another child or so soon. On the other hand, we frequently read of the advocacy of birth control by leading doctors.

Although it should be the family's own business, perhaps a little advocation of the application of common sense and discretion might be advisable as a preventive for possible additions of families trying to crash the headlines, and, incidentally, the big money via the mass production route.

Whose idea of justice?

Shades of the Ku Klux Klan. The alleged Black Legion recently uncovered in the East affords interesting thoughts and conjectures. Apparently, its purpose reportedly is to see that justice is done.

What a wonderful guise it is under which to satisfy personal grudges, or to carry on varied types of racketeering. There arises, also, the age-old question of what right has one man to judge a fellow being without any special trolling along the lines of law and justice?

Patience, but why?

At a convent in Quebec a fire has been kept burning consistently for 200 years, despite all trials and tribulations, even when the town was sacked in 1756 by the British general, Wolfe.

There is an example of patience, care, dependability, and devotion. If the keeping of the fire teaches no more than that, it has accomplished something. What else may be accomplished by it must be explained by religious people, not by this writer.

As usual, way behind

The docking of the gigantic liner Queen Mary Monday, forcibly brought home to many Americans the idea that this country is far behind others in marine commerce. Naturally, such enterprises as the Queen Mary and the Normandie are not money makers, but merely advertisers, not only for their respective companies, but also for their respective countries.

Such ships do, nevertheless, indicate marine supremacy. America, with its resources, is far behind all other major powers in this respect. It is doubtful more than fifteen new freighters have been launched under the American Flag in the past fifteen years.

Beginning to awaken

The big talk now prevalent in San Francisco indicates that perhaps this city will wake up, and try not to get too far behind as far as transit is concerned.

The only regrettable part of a new transportation system is that the city will lose some of its original old-fashioned character. Still, we can't see any way that cable cars can be eliminated!

OUT OF THE HAT

By Kenneth Bixler

As we sit down to "pound out" the last column for this semester, we are at a loss as to what to write. For some reason or other, we do not feel like taking leave with anybody as we have been doing in the past. In fact, we are in a peaceful mood. Maybe it is because vacation is so near and we just can't keep our mind on practical things.

We keep thinking of the nice spot we know about up in the mountains where the trout will bite on anything, and our secret swimming hole down in the valley where the water is so cool and the moss-covered banks are so soft to stretch out on when you feel like taking a nice long siesta in the sunshine, and the lovely lake just a little bit beyond, where the canoeing in the early morning is indescribable (or would it sound too effeminate to say heavenly?); and that sugar little cabin on the western shore where we can sit and view "God's own country" for miles around while the aroma of good old ham and eggs, with a sidling of flapjacks, drifts about our nostrils, and that great big open fireplace we sit around in the evening and listen to old Pete, our Indian helper, tell the tales of his people.

And there are the times when we will "feel saddle leather" for a few days' jack trip back into the hills for a bit of hunting and more fishing.

Then there is that swell resort just a few miles down the road where, when we feel in the mood of cutting a rug, we go over for the Saturday night dance. Yes, it's the resort where there are three girls to every fellow—paradise, die. And we will probably meet another beautiful damsel and spend several days swimming and horseback riding with her (and a bit of canoeing). Oh me! and then find out that she is from some place back East and have to put it down "in the book" as another one of those vacation romances. We will go back to our secluded rendezvous and live the life of a hermit for another week.

President bathes in briny tears at parting of ways

By Maury Schwarz

As the semester finally comes to an end, there comes also that feeling of depression usually present at a parting of the ways. As I say goodbye to my friends, then, I hope that the farewell will be as temporary as our vacations.

There have been, naturally, many who have not always agreed with my plans. Regardless of any action which I have taken during the past semester that might have been at variance with opinions of others, the one motive that has guided me was the one you elected me to uphold—the general welfare of the Associated Student Body.

To you fellow students who have had faith and have often had a word of encouragement for me, I am grateful, and I assure you that advantage of your faith was not unduly taken.

I hope that in years to come, as we turn the pages of our book of memories, the page on which this semester is printed will stand out as one bringing to our lips a smile, and to our hearts a feeling of warmth.

Whole-hearted and helpful has been the cooperation received from the faculty, and I want its members to know that I shall never forget it.

Any time and every time that I needed advice, I went to Dean Riggins, and got it. He has proved himself a great sport and a real pal to the men of this college.

The few times that I have had personal dealings with President Cloud, I have always received the answer for which I was asking.

Mr. Pitman was always ready to help smilingly, ever ready with a word of encouragement for every student.

Joe Amori was always ready to take off his coat and pitch in every time there was any work to be done. Without his untiring efforts, I should have been lost many times.

The advice of Mr. Nichols and Mr. Agosti during many uncomfortable predicaments was always appreciated.

Neil Martin, our vice-president, has worked side by side with me all semester. His suggestions and help were invaluable.

Bob Sharp, A.M.S. president, has worked for the welfare of the college since its infancy. If you give him your wholehearted support next semester, you will find it well placed, with never a let-down.

The opinions of Bill Rawson and me have often differed. When, however, there was news to be printed, Bill was on the job. As editor, he did his job very well, and I couldn't have asked for more support from The Guardsman in publicizing our activities this semester than that which he has given. Thanks, Bill; I really know how hard you have worked to put out a fine paper.

In the way of publicity, Tim Gulney deserves thanks for that which our college received in the city papers. Tim gave our athletes and the school a lot of breaks in them. This is the first public thanks he has received.

With this paragraph comes the finis of this column, and with that, a long sigh—not of relief as I originally had expected, but of the realization that it is the end of a lot of pleasant things for me.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Audiences at the Columbia this week are being shocked, startled, and rocked with laughter by the satirical comedy Censored, by Conrad Seiler.

The first act is a drama whose purpose is to clear war for what it really is. The audience is spared very little in this play. The second act follows with a trial of the author, it is decided, by the court, to rewrite the play and at the same time to censor it. The rewritten version appears in act three.

The play deals with censors and censorship, and ridicules the same with a fair degree of success.

In spite of the satire accomplished by showing extremes, the play is burdening many consciences. The primary objection arises from the constant repetition of offending speech.

The audience seemed to find the third act very amusing, and, in spite of its obvious silliness, it was rather clever.

The production as a whole showed many ragged edges. Although it is not without good ideas, this reviewer finds it in questionable taste.

Charlotte Greenwood is the attraction at the Alcazar this week. She lends the final touch to the well-written comedy, Leaning on Letty.

The complications that result when gangsters choose Letty's boarding house as a hideout give rise to the amusing plot of the play.

Miss Greenwood does her usual good job, although her presence is not absolutely required except to make the success of the play assured.

Katherine Cornell will present Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan at the Curran Theatre July 6.

We would like to take this opportunity to express appreciation to the Columbia Wayfarers, Curran and Alcazar Theatres for their cooperation with The Guardsman.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

By Ardell White

Congratulations are in order for the four women's physical education instructors, who, from the seemingly hopeless equipment available and some lickers in which to keep gym clothes, developed an adequate program of activity for 950 women during the college's two semesters.

They ingeniously solved the problem by organizing the low freshman students into fundamental classes, substituting for the usual basketball, volleyball, etc., social games requiring no equipment. Others were organized into sections of tennis, swimming, dancing, and riding, all of which with the exception of dancing, took place outside of the college.

Next semester scholarship requirements for W.A.A. participation and "awards" have been established. They are as follows: for unlimited W.A.A. participation, a C average. Five grade points below a C, only one W.A.A. activity; and ten points below a C, no outside activity.

Until we meet again next Fall, here's wishing you an enjoyable vacation.

FASHION FLASHES

By FEM

Those who were unfortunate enough to be unable to attend the Home Arts Fashion Show last Friday, missed an opportunity to view some very interesting "gay '90" costumes as well as the very latest in summer styles.

It was interesting to note the contrast between the two generations of fashions, and also to discover that some of the old-time dresses would be appropriate for wear today with very little remodeling.

Claire Cuneo, Household Arts Association adviser, looked like a fashion plate herself when she stepped out on the stage to receive the corsage which was presented to her by the women of the organization as a token of their appreciation. Miss Cuneo wore a gay print dress, a white swagger coat, and white accessories.

Paper Talk

By Bill Rawson

As can be readily ascertained from the byline appearing at the head of this column, our identity and that of The Editor are closely associated. Many have already guessed it, and the rest will say "I told you so" whether they surmised correctly or not.

Much criticism will no doubt fall our way because of our writing this column; many will say that we have tried to write everything for the paper, without giving anyone else a chance.

It's true, at that

Such is the truth, in part. We have not only tried to write most of the material appearing in the paper, but also had to do it, for the simple reason that no one else would. It will no doubt be contended that there are many students who would like to write columns, if given the chance.

Again, that is also admittedly true. On the other hand, however, just show us the student who has ability combined with such a degree of responsibility that he will hand in material on time, week after week, with no let-downs. It cannot be done, for the simple reason that the average student has not had sufficient experience in the world to develop within him a sense of responsibility combined with a true realization of the value of time.

Only one whom we trust

We have found through experience that there is only one student in this college upon whom we can depend to get copy in on time, despite whatever other duties may call. That person is The Editor, who, as noted above, is somewhat similar to ourselves.

We have also been accused of high-handed ways. That is also true, Newspaper work demands it. This is, incidentally, not an excuse or apology for what we have done, but is still a high-handed way of telling everyone what is what, and what are you going to do about it?

But the others work

Editorially, we have elsewhere given credit and appreciation for work contributed by others. Perhaps we have left some out. If so, we are sorry.

We do not believe that we have said enough about our photographer, Virginia Bornmueller, she took nearly all the pictures appearing in this issue of the paper, as well as most of those appearing heretofore. Readers may judge from them the extent of her ability. What is appreciated even more is her dependability and promptness, an asset sure to get her a long way in the newspaper world.

Mistakes, we know it

Needless to say, there are a few mistakes in names in this edition, and there are a few pictures not exactly ethically placed. It has all been a push job, pretty much of a one-man affair, except for the invaluable assistance of Bud McSweeney, Fleming Pope, Kenneth Bixler, and Miss Bornmueller.

Because of difficulty of getting people together in one place at the same time, what with their living in various separated parts of town, and even in different towns, some work had to proceed without the knowledge of the others. In order to get it done at all.

Could be late, but no!

With such a set-up, it was inevitable that some pictures be made the wrong size, requiring replacement according to physical characteristics instead of ethical propriety, and that some be placed in whatever room could be found anywhere.

We could have come out a week later, and had a better paper from the artistic standpoint. We are, however, newspaper men, not artists, and time and the dead-line meant more to us than appearance and haggling over details.

We only wish we could

Many will remember that this column was started by Paul Green. The only time that it was ever good was when he wrote it. His were all the columns up to the Easter vacation.

When Green dropped out of college, The Guardsman lost its only really good columnist.

Now for vacation

With the semester's end but a week or so away, again we start thinking of the trout streams of the high Sierra, where we can get away from everyone, never to be troubled with thoughts of copy, pictures, deadlines, or classes (the latter never did trouble us much).

Unlike President Schwarz, we feel no qualms of regret, no gloominess, no tears of parting. To us, the past year has been but another year in our life, slightly more beneficial, perhaps, than many previous ones, yet still only a 365-day period. If we never see some of you again, we shall not feel any more tragic about it than you will if we have stepped out of your sight forever.

With such a parting shot, we say to you all, simply "So long, and until the next time—if there be any."

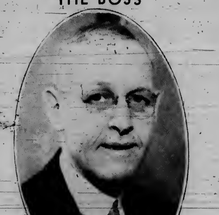
SAN FRANCISCO JUNIOR COLLEGE

IN CELEBRATION OF THE FIRST YEAR •• WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1936 •• THE GUARDSMAN ROTOGRAVURE SECTION

FAREWELL, HI-SOPHS!



GOOD LUCK, EVERYONE!

GENTLEMAN

A friend to all, known by all as a courteous gentleman, Paul Pitman (right), assistant to Pres. Archibald J. Cloud, has been very instrumental in making the college the young success it is today. Needless to say, Pitman will also be a great help in making the institution an even greater, ever growing affair.

THE BOSS

THE BUSY DEAN

Vice-president of the college, Dean of Women, faculty adviser to the Associated Women Students and Women's Service Society, Mrs. Eugene Leonard (at left) has capably and efficiently carried on with her varied activities. To her, also, must go much of the credit for the fine reputation the college has gained since its inauguration.

INDEFATIGABLE

This gentleman, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, is one of those continually "on the go," and who really accomplishes things by direct action. Browne is probably the most popular member of the administration and faculty, and his wisdom often guides the Executive Committee.

TROUBLE SHOOTER

A kind, diplomatic, "square-shooter" is Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college. Always ready and willing to talk to students, Cloud has won the admiration, respect, and devotion of all who have had the pleasure of becoming acquainted with him. Without his competent leadership, the college could not have made the rapid strides forward that it has during its infant year.

THE JOB FINDER

Want a job? Then see Edith Peace, right, NYA administrator for the college, assistant dean of women, faculty adviser to the graduating class, and former instructor in romance languages. She has placed in employment many students otherwise unable to continue their college education.

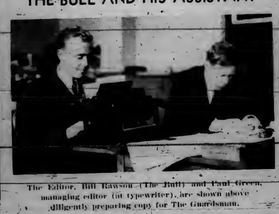
SMILING LEADER

His habitual smile, known to nearly every student, Maury Schwarz (right) is concluding a successful term as head of the Associated Student body. His latest accomplishment was the management of the successful Hi-Jinks held last week.

TENNIS VICTOR

"Thou shalt pass" or "Thou shalt not pass." Paul Mohr, head registrar (pictured left) is the man who decides that for prospective graduates after examining their records. A friend to all students in difficulty over programs, Mohr is also head of the Junior College Conference, and quite a competent tennis player.

THE BANNER IS ACCEPTED AND DISPLAYED



This college banner was donated by the Filipino Students Association. Holding it are Maury Schwarz, Bob Nelson, Jim Fahn, Deming Smith, and Larry Nepomuceno (club president).

THEY FOUNDED TRADITIONS

THE BULL AND HIS ASSISTANT

LEADERS OF COLLEGE CO-EDS

THE COLLEGE SOCIETIES CONVENE

Only Active Co-Eds Are Permitted To Enter This Society

A group consisting of co-eds who have done something worthy of note for the college is the Women's Service Society, the members of which are shown to the left. The three in front are Purnell Brown, Ruth Johnson, and Helene Wright. Behind them are Betty Hyde, Barbara Latz, Beatrice Murphy, Helen Davis, Elaine Dominguez, Arlene Frazier, and Ethel Clarkson.

Standing are Beneda Seymour Hermine King, Jane Neal, Dean Eugenie Leonard (faculty sponsor), Donna McPherson, Elizabeth Yates, Mary Gail Kenkell, and Pam Spalding.

Future Disciples Of Darrow Optimistically Look To The Future

Still At Work For The College

One of the most popular students in the college, Mimi Colton, pictured here, served as corresponding secretary of the Associated Students during the Fall semester of 1935. For the first half of the Spring semester of 1936, Miss Colton served in the capacity of vice-president.

She was succeeded in the latter office by Neal Martin when she had to drop out of college in order to take outside employment.

During her career as vice-president and head of the Social Committee, Mimi successfully managed several social functions, such as the Baby Dance.

As a member of the Executive Committee, she was always present, even at the drawnout sessions required at the beginning of the semester for the drafting of the constitution.

Even after leaving college, Mimi lent her support to the Social Committee in its work, especially in the plans and preparations for the successful Sophomore Formal.

This Filipino Group Donated A Large College Banner

They Planned Many Dances

Planning dances and other events for the benefit of the college—the Social Committee, several members of which are shown in the above photograph, has put in a successful semester's work. Sitting are Eleanor Schaub, Shirley Breyer, Marie McKnight, and Donna McPherson, while Fleming Pope, Neal Martin (chairman), Maury Schwarz (Associated Students president), and Joe Kisel are standing.

Potential Authorities Of Our Future Governmental Problems

Embryonic Medicos Make Impressive Showing In Activities

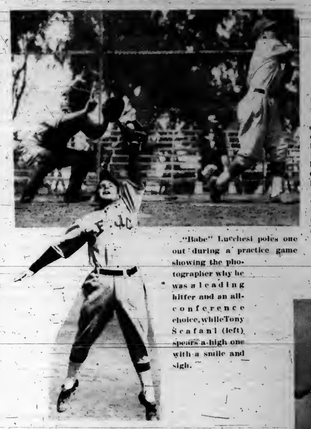
Future Keepers Of The Family Budget

Pictured above are members of the Household Arts Club, which in the middle of the semester held a sport picnic, and last week sponsored a fashion show and tea for all women students of the college. Seated, from left to right, are Dorothy Benjamin, Eileen-Marie Stane, Olive Reed, Margaret Burke, Elsie Krohn, Dorothy Bonacich, Pam Spalding, Corinne Eastwood, Virginia Elliott, and Jo Jordan. Standing, left to right, are Lena Way, Anita De Marzini, Melba Crisp, Louise Curien (president), Lorene Cuneo (faculty adviser), Caroline Orginas, Tomiko Takahashi, Vera Griffin, Evelyn Dybdal, and Clare Mauge.

The Reporters



Guardsman newshawks to the left (seated) are Audrey Kane, Helene Murphy, Gladys Hersh, Virginia Harris, Betty Dendig, and Margaret Cecotti.

Dewing Smith, sports writer, Florence Bavazzano, Lambert (Legeman) Meyer, Ardell (Here-and-there) White, and Howard (Bodyguard) Cupps are standing.

THE "BABE" AND TINY TONY

"Babe" Larchest poles one out during a practice game showing the photographer why he was a leading hitter and an all-conference choice, while Tony Scafani (left) spears a high one with a smile and sigh.

CHAMPION BUILDER

Bringing fame to the college by winning the junior college conference basketball title with his team, Louis "Dutch" Conlan, basketball mentor, is also well known for his abilities as an orator.

VERSATILE COACH

Head of the athletic department, football coach, track mentor, and swimming instructor are just a few of the many jobs Russ Sweet, left, efficiently performs.

ACTION-FORM IN SOFTBALL

REACHING HIGH

Marcella O'Connor (left) is shown reaching for a high drive. She was awarded a medal at the Hi Jinks last Thursday night to reward her for outstanding performances on the tennis court.

PRESIDENT VANQUISHES ALL FOES

TOPS AS TROPHY WINNER

Milt Durfee played fast and hard games of tennis. Became the leading Ram netster and blazed through a season of victories and championships. Was rewarded for his brilliant play at the Hi-Jinks, when he was presented three medals, a cup and the Mixed Doubles championship plaque, which is also co-owned by his partner, Betty Phillips.

FOUGHT IN LEAGUE TILTS

DIAMOND MAN

His baseball team only placed fourth in conference competition, but Lee Elsan developed a squad that won many games, nevertheless. Under his tutelage, several men proved themselves outstanding individuals in the sport, with two winning all-conference honors.

His dynamic personality seemed to be contagious, as before the season ended every member of the squad became imbued with it.

This summer Elsan and his wife will go to Europe to see the Olympic games in Berlin.

GIRLS HAVE EYE FOR EYE

GRIDDERS GROWL—SMEAR STATE

Odero Guisti (No. 18) is shown going out for a pass from Forrest Morrison during the San Francisco State game, which the Ram gridders won, 32 to 18. This victory started a heated rivalry between the two city institutions.

ALL HARBOR CHAMPIONSHIP HOPE

The college soccer team, coached by Tom Bass, had a good season, although not recognized for Fall in the conference. Members above are Ralph Wendlburg, Ellard Taylor, Jim Fahn, Henry Hanson, Vincent Zuaido, Bob Nelson, Pavloff, Bob Zegnes, Buchanan, Oscar Bauer, and Homer Lambie.

NEXT TERM'S LEADER

An assistant cheer exhorter this semester, Bob Nelson (above) was elected to succeed Jim Fahn as head yell leader in the Fall. Here he is, just getting ready to wind up for the "Whispering Ram's" yell.

Small, but of powerful lung and legs—thus may Jim Fahn, above, head yell leader, be described. Present at all college events, Fahn lent support by participation and leadership.

SWEET'S CINDER CRUISERS SEEM SOLEMN

Although the track team won but one conference meet, it scored more points against strong opponents than any other squad. Pictured here, they are: Front row, Ward Allison, Chester Cole, George Warren, James Fahn, Dan Southard, Ernest Lonstalot, and Jack O'Neil.

ASSISTANT YELL LEADER

A good sport, assistant yell leader, and sports columnist for The Guardsman is Deming Smith, shown above in action, giving his habitual smile for the benefit of the photographer.

MEYER IS VICTORIOUS

Lambert Meyer emerged victorious over Al Groeper by a score of 3 and 2 to become the champion of the four golf classes in a tight putting match last Thursday at Funston.

The two finalists eliminated four men in their gymnasium classes to battle their way to the windups.

Army-Navy Society Formed at College

Forty students interested in current military and naval affairs met last Friday at Galileo to form an Army and Navy Society, under the direction of George Sollman.

Members of the faculty present were Francis G. Marsh, James S. Hughes, Carl F. Stough, and Harold Leuenberger.

Previous military training, R.O.T.C. work, or six months' study of naval science will probably be requisites for membership in the new society.

Lois Sullivan, John Tom, Elaine Twomey, and Louis Wax.

It must be remembered that tentative final grades for prospective graduates are not due until Friday, so this list and the pictures are tentative to that degree.

It is also possible that some one may have been left out, in which case the registrar's office and The Guardsman express regrets.

If the print has not already been destroyed, graduates whose pictures appear in The Guardsman may have one copy of the picture by calling in room 150, Galileo, any time after 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Other Grads Are Listed

In addition to the prospective graduates whose pictures apear in The Guardsman, the following have had their petitions for graduation approved:

William Barker, Walter Bertram, Rene Blanquies, Helene Bowman, Walter Brestiani, Jose Candelario, Robert Carlsen, Philip Chinn, Enid Collins, Helene Dallman, Ipo Duldalao, George Dunne, Helen Delehanty, Lillian Dutton, Harry Franklin, Yoneo Futatsuki, Angele Haurat, Ralph Hillsman, Marie Horgan, Shoji Ishii, Ethel Jones, Mary Lamb, Stanley Learner, Annie Lee, Henrietta Leonard, Warren Pamlika, Joy Panas, Carl Peterson, Jr., Bert Rosberg, Robert Rhode, Rousas, Rushdoony, James Sager, Harold Silberstein, Guido Santori, John Sullivan,

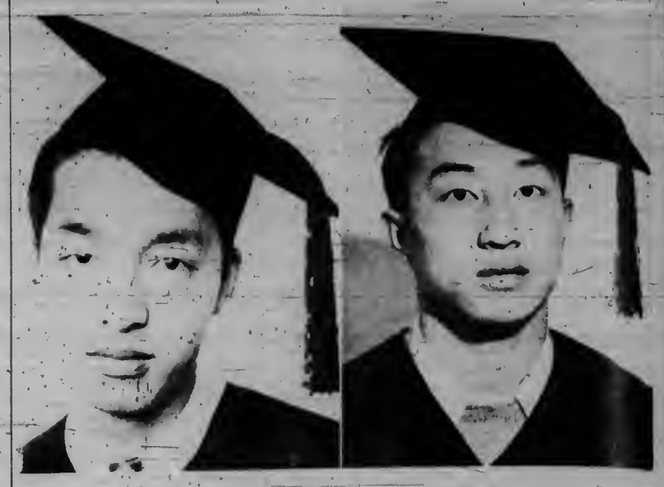
Class Leader

William Weinstock (above) has the distinction of being the president of the first commencement class of San Francisco Junior College. He has been head of the class since its entrance into the college last August.

7 Co-eds to Join Women's Service

Chosen on the basis of service to the school, scholarship, and leadership, Beatrice Murphy, Ruth Johnson, Arlene Frazieres, Parnel Brown, Elaine Dominguez, Barbara Latz, and Betty Hyde will be ushered into the Women's Service Society today at the Western Women's Club.

Bulletin to Be Ready Thurs.



Prepared by John P. Gifford, coordinator in the Hotel and Restaurant Management class, a bulletin of information on the class will be ready for distribution Thursday, it has been announced.

Students interested in taking the course next semester are advised to get in touch with him soon, as enrollment will be limited to 40 persons, Gifford said.

Summer positions for students of the class were announced by Gifford, with Hart Smith going to Brockway, Lake Tahoe; Marcel Franckaerts to the Manx Hotel, San Francisco; and Richard Purdy to the Banque Hotel in Delta, Utah.

Announcement of other positions will be made in the near future.

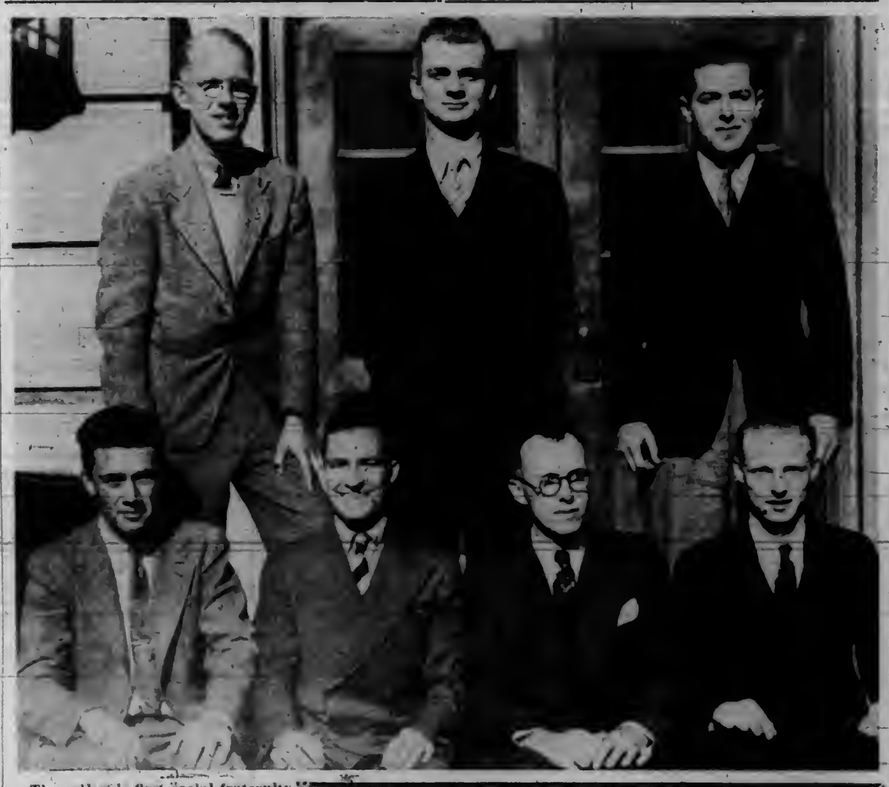
LAWRENCE WONG JOSEPH WONG

He Acts As Double Adviser

ALFRED AGOSTI



Faculty adviser not only to the Executive Committee but also to the first graduating class, Alfred Agosti, left, has earned the respect of students through his valuable, wise judgment and ungrudging donation of time. He helped draft the Associated Students' constitution.

Social Leader

Neal Martin is vice-president of the Associated Students and head of the Social Committee.

Pioneers In Brotherhood Of Students

BOOK STORE TO STAY OPEN

The S.F.J.C. Book Store will remain open one week after the close of college, in order to buy books, or to take them in on trade, with 40 per cent cash, and 50 per cent exchange allowance, to be applied, if desired, on next semester's purchases.

Exec. Council Will Have Party Thurs.

Plans for a party in honor of the incoming and outgoing officers of the college, to be held at the home of Assistant Dean Edwin C. Browne tomorrow night, were discussed at last week's Executive Council meeting. The committee for the affair consists of Marie McKnight, Jane Neal, Bob Neal, Bernelyn Seymore, and Neal Martin.

Other matters brought up, but as yet unsettled, are: The questions of which sports shall be recognized minor sports, what individuals should receive circles, and when they should receive them. A list of men who are eligible for circles will be drawn up by the coaches and presented at this week's meeting of the Council.

One hundred and eighty-one students of the college were found to be in need of medical or dental treatment by the college's medical department.

The Second Lap

We're Going To Meet And Pass The Hurdles, Says President

The camera caught President Archibald J. Cloud (above) in an informal pose, as he was giving his welcoming statement, "The Second Lap," to a Guardsman reporter.

We are on the second lap.

A year ago we started at scratch. The pioneer groups of students got away on a somewhat uneven track in the sense that they had to meet many kinds of physical inconveniences and difficulties. They proved to be of pioneer stock, possessed of strength of purpose, resourcefulness, endurance. The administrative staff and the teaching corps by degrees accustomed themselves to the exceptional conditions under which they had to work, and responded with a generous allowance of time and effort devoted to the upbuilding of the institution and to the welfare of its students, whether in individual cases or in those collective groups associated with college life. So the first hurdles were passed.

The outlook at the opening of the second year is hopeful. Experience has been put to use in ironing out such wrinkles as have been noted in organization of classes and scheduling of courses. The curriculum offerings have been extended and enriched, equipment improved, facilities of instruction enlarged. A building program is definitely under way: the site selected is a beautiful well-located site of some thirty acres; first appropriations of money made, preliminary contour surveys completed.

There are some hurdles ahead on the second lap. Don't mistake that. It will be no bed of roses. That's life, except it be in story books. Together, as a team, we're going to meet and pass these hurdles, too.

Greetings [illegible] to San Francisco Junior College students, whether [illegible] students!

A. J. CLOUD, President.

Women Looking To Athletic Activity

[illegible]

"There are many new sports this semester," Miss Johnson said, "and lots of new equipment. Women will be given an opportunity to take part in fencing and hockey, and there will be classes in swimming at the YWCA for beginners as well as advanced swimmers."

"Individual Enrichment Of Student Makes College Great"

PAUL PITMAN

[illegible] makes a college great? New [illegible] the faculty roster? More students [illegible] the halls? Better material on the [illegible] Improved library facilities? [illegible] In all these things [illegible]. But neither increased enrollment, nor better equipment, nor new [illegible], nor winning football teams, nor [illegible] degrees, nor multiplied courses can make a college great.

No college can become great where the machinery of organization is more important than the student. Only that college becomes great in which individual students are individually enriched. Colleges do not exist to plaster a cultural [illegible] on a thousand students a semester. Rather colleges exist to provide opportunities for young men and women to [illegible] themselves, to toughen their [illegible], to think straight, act de[illegible], and get along with their fellows [illegible] to "grow up" sufficiently to [illegible] man's part in a very real world [illegible] your investment of time, effort [illegible] Junior College presents a wide-open door. May [illegible] never find an officer or instructor of the college too [illegible].

PAUL M. PITMAN,
Assistant to President.

13 Club Officials Listed at College

[illegible] and [illegible] connected with the college [illegible] to Paul Pitman, assistant [illegible] President Archibald J. Cloud [illegible] groups and their respective advisers, as announced by [illegible] as follows:

Women's Athletic Association, Miss [illegible] Spencer; Skull and Blade [illegible] present; Women's Service [illegible], Miss Verrell Weber; Chinese Students' Club, Edward E. Sandys; [illegible] Phi Fraternity, Franklin Sewell; [illegible] Letter Athletic Society, Edwin [illegible]; Pi Mu Gamma (pre-medi[illegible]), Glenn A. Noble; Household Arts [illegible], Miss Claire Cuneo; Filipino Students' Association, Miss Gertrude [illegible]; Hotel and Restaurant Man[illegible] Club, John P. Gifford; Pre[illegible] Society, Lloyd D. Luckmann; [illegible]ese Students' Club, Miss Bel[illegible]; and Omicron Pi Phi, economics [illegible] society, Michael M. Zarchin.

Students interested in any of these organizations should see the faculty adviser of that group, Pitman advised.

Connected With Business

A recent [illegible] students of the Hotel and Restaurant Management [illegible] many of the students of the course are connected with [illegible] themselves or have relations in the hotel business [illegible] actually working in hotels themselves. They are Gene Gabard [illegible] Hotel Cortez Hotel; Jack [illegible] assistant manager El Cortez Hotel; Gertrude Taylor, night manager [illegible] Women's Club; Irene [illegible] Country Club.

Of the other students in the course, three are members of hotel families. [illegible] A. C. Bevan, night clerk at the El [illegible]. These are Louis Aber Jr., whose father manages the Gates Hotel in Los Angeles; Vernon Peak, whose father is the manager of the new Hotel Petaluma; and Trevett A. Wilson Jr., whose uncle manages the Fort Meigs Hotel in Toledo, Ohio.

POLISHING THE OLD APPLE!

1,508 Students Registered by Friday Evening: More Expected

Registration reached 1,508 students by last Friday evening, according to word revealed by the Registrar's office.

Of this number, 1,437 paid their six dollars, and 71 were granted deferred payments, it was announced.

The number of new students has not yet been compiled, the office said.

The registrars said that they expected registration to increase appreciably this week.

The Guardsman photographer managed to catch a group of incoming freshmen co-eds, ready to greet their instructors the first day with nice, red apples.

They are pictured, to the right from the top down: Iola Van Gorder, Meadus Rygel, Paula Hurdman, and Jan Granz.

A welcome addition, eh what, boys?

SERVICE SOCIETY IS AID TO REGISTRATION

Beginning their work the week before college opened for the fall semester, members of the Women's Service Society have given valuable assistance in connection with the handling of registration, according to Verrel Weber, faculty sponsor of the organization.

They have worked as advisers to the entering freshmen, runners for the faculty advisers and sign-up group, and as assistants to the registrars, Miss Weber disclosed.

"Adventures In Education"

EUGENIE LEONARD

Who said, "What price Education"? We who hurry through the city, sit together in classes, study anywhere, know and laugh at the difficulties! We're building a new epoch in the life of the city. Out of hopes and ambitions, dreams and brains, work and knowledge, we are building OUR college. To such an adventure we welcome you! We extend a hand in challenge as well as in friendship,—challenge of the best that is in you,—to build with us a college whose visible image is gallant youth hard at work in the exciting task of becoming an educated man or woman.

EUGENIE A. LEONARD,
Vice-President and Dean of Women.

Registrar Advises January Graduates

Applications from students who expect to graduate in January of 1937 should be turned in immediately according to J. Paul Mohr and Mary [illegible] Gaurd, registrars.

Although the deadline for their [illegible] until September 30, [illegible] office urges prospec[illegible] to submit applications as soon as possible in order to make it possible to adjust programs in the event of deficiencies.

Registrar's Office Moved to Room 262

The registrar's office has been moved to Room 262 at Galileo, and henceforth all business with this office will be conducted from there, it has been announced.

Previously this office was located across the hall from the main college office.

Assistant Dean of Men Edwin C. Browne has moved into Mohr's old office, and will now conduct his business there. He was formerly located in WJ of the old building.

Hotel, Restaurant Classes Are Open

Any member of the Junior College may take any part of the Hotel and Restaurant Management course, but no one who does not complete the entire course will receive a certificate.

This announcement was made by John P. Gifford, coordinator of the Hotel and Management course last week. Students desiring to register for any or all of the courses should see Gifford immediately.

Poor Taste Dance To Inaugurate College Social Activities

"Poor taste" will predominate at the first fall social event of the Associated Students of the college when a costume dance will be held Friday evening, September 4, beginning at 8 o'clock in the Galileo gymnasium, according to plans made by Donna McPherson, student vice-president, and her newly organized Social Committee.

Admission to the dance will be free with Associated Students' cards, Miss McPherson announced, and students must be in costume when presenting cards at the door.

In honor of the incoming freshmen, the committee requests that students wear something that is really in bad taste these days, such as roughneck sweaters and overalls, tuxedo tops and cords, spats and jeans, clashing color combinations, or the like.

Two bids to the Sophomore Formal dance, to be held at the end of the semester, will be awarded to the wearers of the most unique costumes at Friday night's poor taste dance, Miss McPherson has announced.

Dinks will be given to all freshmen upon their entering the dance hall and all will be requested to keep them on their head during the evening, it was said.

Music will be furnished by Charlie Horton and his orchestra, Miss McPherson revealed, with further entertainment being arranged by a committee consisting of Carlyle Cain, Marge Christophe, Bob Neal, Charles [illegible], Joe [illegible], Caroline [illegible] and Bob Sisco.

Social Activity Calendar Will Record Events

Hoping to accomplish the two-fold purpose of giving all social affairs an equal publicity "break" and avoiding the possibility of conflicting dates, the Social Committee of the Associated Students of the San Francisco Junior College has devised a social calendar plan which will be put into action this semester.

According to Eugenie Leonard, Dean of Women and Social Committee advisor, this calendar will be in book form with a separate page for each day of the semester. On this page will be recorded general information on each affair planned, including time, place, and committee heads.

IN DEAN'S OFFICE

"This calendar," said Mrs. Leonard, "will be set up in my office and may be examined at any time.

"All organizations planning any sort of student event, social or otherwise, are requested to secure and fill out [illegible] forms so that their particular event may be recorded. These forms may be secured at my office."

The Guardsman, Associated Student publication, will glean information on future social events from this calendar and those groups not using the book's facilities will not receive publicity for their activities, Mrs. Leonard warns.

FOUR AFFAIRS PLANNED

The Social Committee has planned four affairs for the fall semester, the first of which will be an Oddity or Poor Taste dance to be held September 4. This will be followed by two sport dances held on October [illegible] and December 4. The final social event of the semester will be the Sophomore Formal, which will take place on January [illegible], according to tentative plans.

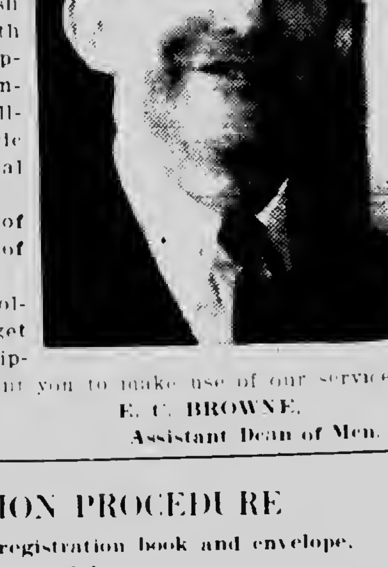
FROSH RECEPTION HELD ON THURSDAY



Attended by students of all classes, a freshman reception was held in the Galileo gymnasium last Thursday afternoon.

Beginning at 1:00 o'clock p.m. directly after the assembly, the dance continued until after 5:00. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cookies were served.

Music was furnished by Howard Marker's orchestra.

The student committee for the dance consisted of Donna McPherson, Marge Christophe, Carlyle Caine, Bill Reynolds, and Adolph Pedrin. Coach Tom Wilson also acted on the committee.

Ass't Dean E. C. Browne Urges Participation In Activities

E. C. BROWNE,
Assistant Dean of Men.

A most cordial welcome is extended to the new and returning students of San Francisco Junior College.

The facilities of the college are for you, and we want you to use them. From time to time opportunities will occur that will entitle you to participate in student body organizations and school activities outside of the classroom. It is my wish that each student affiliate himself with some activity that will give him an opportunity to be of service to his community. The development of a well-rounded individual through scholastic activity and participation in the social programs is greatly to be desired.

If the office of the Assistant Dean of Men can ever be of any service to any of you, do not hesitate to make use of it.

While we are waiting for our new college plant, we are leaning on you to get the best value out of our present equipment. We are all for you, and we want you to make use of our services.

LATE REGISTRATION PROCEDURE

1. Pay fees in Room 200; secure registration book and envelope.
2. Go to Cafeteria and consult faculty adviser.
3. Sign up in classes after faculty adviser has approved trial study list.
4. Make out rest of registration book after signing in all classes.
5. Make out attendance card and file registration book in Faculty Cafeteria.
6. Take Subject A Examination and Vocational Interest Test on Saturday morning, September 5, at 9 o'clock in Room 458, Galileo High School Building; after finishing examination, have picture taken in Room 457.
7. Take College Aptitude Test on Saturday morning, September 19, at 9 o'clock in Room 458, Galileo High School Building.

RETURNING STUDENTS

Same procedure as for entering students, except for tests in No. 6 and No. 7, above.

Clang, Clang! Street Cars Carry Us All To Various Places

From the playful clang of Powell Street cable car [illegible] a turbulent [illegible] of metropolitan activity to the low moan of a Golden Gate foghorn on a wind-swept waterfront, junior college campus over the most unusual campus in the world. The city of San Francisco, no less, becomes a vital part of the college life.

Here the sun rises through a morning mist filtering down between huge buildings in the heart of the city to find students hiking up the hill for morning classes. A cable car rolls past and male students hop off with the greatest of ease, while co-eds cautiously await to descend from the car at the corner.

The sun, at midday, notes a migration of students to the large Galileo High School overlooking the bay.

In addition to the separated morning and afternoon classes, tennis, swimming, and golf classes are likewise scattered to the four winds. As the street car is the universal means of transportation, a few notes of information on the subject are herewith given.

The University Extension Building at 540 Powell is accessible by several different lines. The Powell Street cable cars pass in front of the building; the Sutter cars 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the Market Street Railway run one block below on Sutter. The F car (Municipal) is on Stockton Street one block east of Powell, and transfers may be made to Municipal cars on Market. Other Municipal cars, the B, C and D, run on Geary Street, two blocks below Sutter.

Galileo High School, wherein the afternoon classes are conducted, is located between Van Ness Avenue

OFTEN SAID, BUT STILL TRUE

At the beginning of each semester, it is customary to welcome editorially all new students, and to tell the others that it is a pleasure to have them back.

This can be done simply, with few words; or, on the other hand, it can be done in a flowery, complicated manner, employing many of the powerful, heart-warming expressions so prevalent in the English language.

Regardless of how it is said, the feeling should be, and is, genuine. The college is still growing rapidly; those who have come to grow with it for a year or two are here, not as welcome guests, but as desirable members of the San Francisco Junior College family.

Consider the welcoming done. It is not necessary to wish each and every student a good time, for he will have it. That is one of the few pleasant things that cannot be avoided.

A SHARP EYE AND AN ALERT EAR

When in doubt, ask—but before asking, be sure that the answer is not already in front of you. Constructive, diligent use of the eyes and ears efficiently aids in the prevention of sore throats and hoarseness.

Be not afraid, timid freshman, to cast a discreet inquiry when puzzled. There are always certain problems that the books overlook.

There are also, however, a number of people in this world who would much rather ask questions than seek the answer through the printed word.

The college bulletin, schedule of classes, announcements at assemblies, all convey a quantity of information. In this edition of The Guardsman is to be found information on the location of offices and rooms, street car directions, and other facts worth knowing.

Know your college, know your city, and you are well on the way toward "knowing your way about."

ONLY ON PAPER

Sadly true is the complaint that most clubs in the college, or in any college, are not quite up to par. Usually, students are urged to join some club in order to round out their college lives.

It would hardly be fair, however, to urge a new student to join organizations that exist only on paper. The only benefit that might accrue from such a membership would be the privilege of buying a pin that would mean absolutely nothing.

Despite all this, extra-curricular organizations do have a place in college, and have within their grasps opportunities of achieving notable heights for themselves and for the institution.

If the old students cannot lead the way, then let the new ones forge ahead and let all forms of recommended activity reach that desirable state where each is a benefit to the whole and the whole is highly beneficial to the individual.

REMAIN BODILY INTACT

An injured student, generally speaking, is of benefit neither to himself nor to the college. This, among others, is a plausible reason for remaining bodily intact, which, in turn, necessitates the exercising of care, caution, and safety.

Street cars, the method of transportation employed by most students here, are accessories to one safety hazard. Regrettably that said with caution, their conductors and owners may also now and then be so classified.

Worse than these, however, are those hurry-mad members of the general public who have the peculiar disease that makes them board vehicles on the dead run, while the mode of transit is in motion.

WHAT'S THE RUSH? There's always another one along in a few minutes.

FOR THE STUDENTS' GOOD

Resented by many students, medical examinations are, in reality, an asset. This constitutes a slight reversal of an intimation made editorially in these same columns last semester.

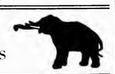
Statistics of last semester's work by the college medical department reveal that a surprisingly large number of students was aided through its services.

If physical examinations were not compulsory, few students would avail themselves of the opportunity. By making such scrutiny necessary, it is possible to see each and every student, often discovering defects unknown to the student himself.

Bearing these facts in mind, students should willingly appear for a medical examination, and appear at the scheduled time in order to get the work finished as soon as possible.

OUT OF THE FOG

By Bob McArthur



Greetings for the new semester, jaysee readers! It's kinda nice to be back after such a "long" summer, isn't it? What's that, Tsk, tsk—such language!

Seriously though, we really get a kick out of starting a new term, fussing over our programs, greeting old friends, and making new ones.

This column would like to take this opportunity to point out to all of you new freshmen the fact that there are a great many worthwhile activities, clubs, and offices in the college which could make use of your particular talents. You have the support and advice of a fine faculty, and the cooperation of an energetic and efficient group of student body officers. Let's see what you can do.

Now that the confusion of registration is over and we are settling into the routine of classes, it is the desire of this writer to try out his newly acquired "sophomore slump." In case you are unaware of the meaning of this phrase, we shall attempt to enlighten you.

According to Jack Barbour, collegiate member of the famed radio serial, One Man's Family, this grotesque but comfortable position enables one to sit through a boring lecture without hearing a word. You may readily see the advantages of this newest scientific achievement, particularly for those of us who like to write letters, prepare lessons for another class, or do any of a host of other things which would be possible were we not being disturbed by the professor's droning voice.

THE BULL SNORTS

Not long ago, we batted out a column of this nature (well, more or less) every day of the week, under a different title. Now we have to do it but once a week, and find ourselves in the doldrums every bit as much as we occasionally did in the daily case.

Under the present facilities, it should be very simple to write a book. Why, however, should we write a book when so many already written ones surround us? Perhaps, however, we could do a more interesting job.

Let's take a look, at random, and see what we have peering down upon us from the venerable depths of the dusty shelves. "Index—Numbers of Wholesale Prices." Simply thrilling! Let's have a look inside it, and see if there is a murder in the first chapter . . . "systematic description . . . is preceded by a critical analysis of the . . . methods employed to measure changes in the level of prices." Yeh-oh-hum. But that was swell—how long have we been sleeping?

What else? "Problems of Modern Industry." Holy smoke! Do we need a book that thick to tell us that there are problems in industry? . . . "Elementary Mathematics"—no, thanks, none today. "The Control of Life" . . . the dickens you say . . . we don't want anyone controlling our life.

"Instinct, Intelligence and Character" . . . whoops, let's stop there. Someone might interpret that as "Maybe, Dubious, and Highly Doubtful."

Spring fever, trout fever, buck fever, city fever . . . it's always something. During the summer, as we're about munching our sourdough biscuits, idly stoking the fire under the soot-blackened coffee pot, batting down the hordes of mosquitoes that zoomed through the openings in the pine trees to attack unprotected portions, we would talk of the hills of San Francisco, of the old days of just wandering up and down them for the pleasure of it.

Now, back in the fog-enshrouded regions a week or so, we think we should like nothing better than piling into the battered, but still faithful, roadster, and heading for the hills again for a bit of deer hunting, once more to discuss the advantages of San Francisco over the evening coup fire.

For a year, we commuted from over yonder. When we moved, we thought that all would be well. No longer would there be the nuisance of crowds, the boredom of riding on slow-moving boats, the long walk when we got to our station.

Strangely enough, already we miss all those things. No longer can we be amused at some drunken stevedore going home at night; no more can we see the world's best harbor from the waters every day; no longer do we see the interesting commuting crowds. Why can we never be satisfied?

The Voice of the President

PRES. BOB SISCO

In keeping with a precedent established by our last president, Maury Schwarz, with the cooperation of the Guardsman I shall attempt to bring to you an inside view of the work of the Ex-Council. Among the information will be found advance notice on our social affairs. I hope you will be able to use the info I dig up.

Our first big social affair will be on the 4th of September. Admission is free with an A.S. card—that's the pink one. Chas. Horton's band will be there, and from advance notices they are considered very good. They have just returned from a two mos. engagement at Boyes Springs. I'm sure you will like their music and enjoy the dance. More complete details will be found elsewhere in the paper.

Donna McPherson, who heads the social committee, has planned some very good events for this semester, among them being a trip to L. A. at a very nominal rate, to see our team slay L.A.J.C.

Don't forget the class elections that are to be held Friday—take part in them, and enjoy your college life more. According to the new constitution, the class presidents shall be the only representatives on the Ex-Council, so when you vote, vote wisely and insure yourselves of an efficient executive organization.

BOB SISCO.

CURTAIN

Wayfarers Civic Repertory Theatre

Playgoers acquainted with the Wayfarers Civic Repertory Theatre at 1749 Clay Street have had the opportunity to witness two splendid productions this summer by the amateur dramatic group. For their bi-monthly presentation last June, Jonah, by Robert Nathan, was selected. This was followed on the 14th of August by a comedy entitled The Fair Helen.

Jonah was a story built around the biblical character made famous by his experience with a whale.

A unique, sophisticated comedy interpretation of the story of Helen of Troy rendered The Fair Helen delightful. Paris, the prince of Troy, as a gift for choosing Venus as the most beautiful goddess, was to receive the love of the most beautiful woman on earth. This was Helen, wife of Menelaus of Sparta, whom Paris subsequently meets, and with whom he flees to Troy. The play concludes in a humorous vein in which Troy is not destroyed, but Helen returns willingly with her doddering spouse when she notices an attractive ship captain. Paris, having spent ten years with Helen, does not seem affected, but merely turns his eye toward a pretty servant.

The acting in both of these plays was not only capable but noteworthy. Jack Thomas, Jerald Kivood, Natalie Park, Patricia Kelly, and Paul Langton, rendered performances which showed exceptional talent and good direction. Amateurishness invariably appeared only among lesser players of the casts.

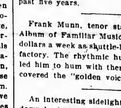
Located in their new playhouse, the Wayfarers have many advantages over their former small theater near the waterfront. Their present arrangement will accommodate approximately 120 persons and the wider stage makes possible larger sets and greater freedom of action for the players.

Upon entering a narrow doorway at the Wayfarers, the visitor ascends a few stairs to find himself in a spacious auditorium. Here may be seen photographs adorning the wall which show scenes from past successes. Then one comes to the auditorium itself which provides spacious, upholstered benches. The stage, 20 to 25 feet wide, is preceded by long terraces, while around the wall are murals depicting famous plays. All work in the theater is done by members of the organization, and their fine artistry deserves all the praise and encouragement that can be given them. This group of artists and dramatists have made a "little theater" which not only gives opportunity to local dramatic talent, but also constitutes an asset to the community.

A lecture is the process by which the notes of the professor become the notes of the student, without passing through the minds of either.—Professor Rathbun, Stanford University, quoted in Life, via Daily Californian.

Just Humans

(TRUE BRIEFS)



Three men stood up to the bar, drinking a variety of mixed liquors. They were good friends, and two were standing treat, as the third was invariably next to broke, but always good company.

A Salvation Army worker came in—a kindly appearing old lady, with her money-basket and the armload of War Cry copies. The bartender, who has a reputation for buying many a drink for his customers, paid no attention to her. Likewise acted the two drink-buyers, who, before the evening was over, spent something like two dollars apiece for a happy feeling.

The "guest" dug down and, with no one's seeing him, fished out a nickel—probably all he had in his pocket—and gave it to the lady.

Like many an old story, this one has a moral. The men with the money gladly, almost automatically and unconsciously, buy any number of drinks, at two-bits a shot for their friends. Yet they cannot see giving a mere nickel to a legitimate solicitor for charity.

One of man's greatest inconsistencies lies in the manner of spending his money. He will strike up an acquaintanceship with a stranger, happily buy him a drink. Now the stranger may be much more hungry than he is thirsty, and food far more beneficial to him than liquor, but let him suggest a sandwich instead of a beer, and the whole demeanor of the "treater" automatically changes. Brass-rail psychology takes its toll, and bent knee conviviality is lost.

FASHION FLASHES

By FEM

Gazing into the crystal ball of fashion, we can see a very dark future for those wishing to be smartly dressed this fall.

News from Paris, New York, and even local fashion shows, reveals that black will be the very last word in everything from the simplest sportswear to the most exotic evening attire.

Black is tops in suits, coats, dresses and hats. Persian Lamb, that black, curly fur slightly reminiscent of Aunt Mary's pet poodle, will be worn everywhere. It will be used for edging those clever tunic suits and for trimming the new wide shoulder coats.

For evening wear, black will be most prevalent in shiny, lacquered satin, deep piled velvet, and stiff sheers.

We must not get the idea, however, that black will be entirely unrelieved. While there is none of the bright clear colors of spring and summer, there are touches of new, rich shades. Copper rust, coronation red, wine, several new greens, and, most important, blue. A violet toned shade known as Tudor blue is especially effective when combined with black. This will be seen in hats, blouses, bags, and scarfs, to say nothing of complete outfits.

Paillettes (last season's sequins) and beaded embroidery will be seen on most evening dresses, while starched, white lace combined with stiff, black velvet will lead the parade of cocktail and dinner gowns.

On the whole, there have been many radical changes in the fashion whirl. Skirts are shorter and coats flare. Daytime necklines are higher but evening necklines are much lower. Tops of sleeves are fuller as are the flared skirts of the smart tunic silhouette. Hats are dizzier than ever, with high peaked crowns, narrow brims, and lots of feather trimmings.

Here and There

Helen Hayes, star of the "New Penny," after the height of understatement an excerpt from a letter she received recently: "We listen to your broadcasts every week. Please make another movie soon if it is not too much trouble."

Lowell Thomas, NBC news commentator, estimates that he has received from 200,000 to more than 250,000 letters each day for the past five years.

Frank Munn, tenor star of the American Album of Familiar Music, once earned three dollars a week as shuttle-boy in an embroidery factory. The rhythmic hum of the machines led him to him with them—and thus he discovered the "golden voice."

An interesting sidelight on verdicts handed down in American courts is the fact that 35 per cent of their appealed cases are reversed.

The king of England is not really a king. His coronation is not scheduled to take place until May, 1937.

The G-men are doing such startlingly fine work, why not put them on the trail of our long-missing national wealth?

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

Planning to have its ranks swelled with 1,812,000 men, Germany's army may even get enough women soldiers to go around, according to reports.

At present, it is said that there are more than 12,000 girls in service, with German leaders considering the plausibility of making military service compulsory for females as well as for males.

It might appear that they are trying to make life as pleasant as possible for the men, what with throwing a few thousand women soldiers into the army.

Why not just be done with all trifling, and have the army take over all private residences, so that the soldiers can live at home with their sister militarists?

Is It an Invitation?

Has a linotype operator decided to invite world trouble, or does the government really mean it? Last Friday, in a story telling of the bombing of an American destroyer by a Spanish plane, a local daily said that Secretary of State Hull was preparing a statement in which both sides would be asked to "issue instructions in the strongest terms to prevent another incident of this character."

Really, now, perhaps some other people do not approve of this type of invitation. We shall merely surmise that the line machine dropped the wrong gadget.

Cannibals Way Up North?

Chasing down legends about cannibals with tails on them, who, according to legend, once roamed parts of Alaska, Dr. Froelich G. Rainey of the University of Alaska reported recently that he found evidence that possibly could be construed as a slight indication of the veracity of the tales, although he surmises that the tail stories are no more than tales.

People who know the least about a thing are usually the ones who like to make surmises about it. We, therefore, think of the possibility that once there was a group of natives up there who, forced by starvation, found that human flesh was digestible.

The immediate need once over, perhaps they decided that hunting the other Indians was easier than hunting wild animals, and acted accordingly. The story of cannibals, then, might be true. As for the other part of the legend, we shall just have to skip it until our imagination gets better.

BAY FOG

By Robert McArthur

Slowly the swirling fog
Hastens the end of day,
Obscures the great bridge towers,
Enshrouds the restless bay.

Clammy, creeping wraiths
Dim the brightest light
And, curling by the wharves,
Go searching through the night.

A siren's doleful wail
Is heard across the quay,
Guiding wary tug-boats
Through the mist upon the bay.

There is quite a different spirit on the gridiron this year. Last fall several of the promising candidates were slightly lackadaisical at times and horsed around quite a bit. But now there is grim determination on the part of all men. From the letter-men fighting to keep their starting positions and from the newcomers trying to take their places, comes the competitive blood surging forth that goes to make a battling outfit. And this spirit manifests itself until the will to win is the keynote—and the will-to-win stuff makes championship outfits.

However, there is one word that means nothing to the old gridders—that is, ALL-city-state-country, or whatever it was. They have already learned that fame gained in a prep school is lost upon graduation, and the only way to regain it is to further the ability and doggedness that brought them first glory.

Vasco Vanelli is worried. He lost seven pounds and has wasted away to a mere 262 pounds. Nevertheless, he is still a heavy sleeper.

Adolph Pedrin resigns today as president of the Block Society. Dolph did a good job, with the aid of his fellow officers, who merit a vote of thanks for their efforts.

The gridders get a fair audience at practice during the week, as most of the Marina Junior High kids romp over and watch with mouth open and eyes wide. One little feller opened his eyes so wide his forehead disappeared when he glimpsed Walter Loving, Bill Dolman, and the Telesmanic Bros.

Don't get worried if you see something crashing through the corridors, emitting strange noises. It's only Felix "Dreadnaught" Aiido—four feet eleven inches in three pairs of socks.

To the football team, one tradition is sacred. And that is the first five rows on the right-hand side of the Galileo auditorium. Slightly mussed have a few careless fellows found themselves by slipping into there.

Some of the gridders were playing leap-frog, hop-scotch, follow the leader, and tag the other morning before the coaches arrived. Any out-of-state people who might have viewed this display will always remember them when they buy California oranges, stamped "sunkist."

Charles "Kitler" Kremesec got tired of tossing bent around during the summer, and decided to kill some. However, on his first attempt, the thrust of the knife didn't coincide with the blink of his orbs, and he ran the knife in his leg.

Blink is up and around now after a slight stay in the hospital and passes it off with:

"Many a slip between the calf and the hip."

We wonder if there will be another "Spring" dance this year by those beauties from Caprice Canyon? . . . If this L. A. game will be as wet a reception for us as we gave them? . . . Speaking in terms of rain water, of course. . . . If Eddie Cassino will come back and give the fellows a chance to turn on the laugh valves? . . . If the soccer team will romp off with the title as expected? . . . If Joe Amori can cultivate another mustache like the former? . . . If the faculty is ever going to play the students a game of soft ball?

Fall track will start soon, and the spikesters will work out twice a week. Definite plans for this will be set soon.

Jack Gaddy is going to have a horseshoe pitching contest in his gym classes. The shoes are left over from last year's boxing wars.

We see where Bickerstaff is at California . . . we believe he wandered through our corridors for a while, didn't he?

• • •

Friday the Rams will rub the velvet off their horns and tangle with the Galileo Lions in a short scrimmage at Galileo field. This is not a regular scrimmage but merely a hard workout for both squads.

Nominations for president of the 1940 Olympic Games will come from our own institute, that's the game of Lee Elsan. So if we all back this 160 per cent, he stands a good chance. (He promised to let us be his valet.) Lee has one (count 'em) suit. So it will be a swell job.

There are going to be several bitter games this fall. Foremost will be the battle with the San Mateo Bulldogs, who cancelled their game last fall. The veterans are still harboring vengeance.

Another nice beef will be the San Francisco State game, with the Gators out to retaliate for the drubbing they received. But the Rams will bring home another skin here.

The Marin game will be lots different this time, as the last game was the gridders' first battle under lights, and they were too nervous. Several of the players made glaring errors which will not be seen this time.

The U.S.F. frosh game will be as it was last year—a nice game with plenty of good fight on both sides of the line.

The Salinas game should be a good battle during the first half, but it is thought that the Ram's horns are a little too much for the cowboys' ropes.

A co-ed was espied wandering through halls and pedals with a dazed look on her face. Several of the generous gridders ran to her rescue—she was a pretty lassie.

"Wass matta?" they cried.

"My boy friend said he couldn't go out, as he was in training!" she cooed in a husky voice.

"Woosinamo?" they demanded.

"His name is Buck—"

But she never finished, as all five gridders plopped to the floor without a sound.

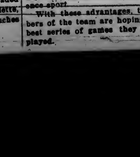
One of our better-known track men pulled a fast pas this summer while deer hunting, though the accident was unavoidable.

The hero espied a buck sneaking up a ridge and fired once, reloaded and fired again, but this time his dog and the deer were like an obstacle, and the bullet dropped the deer and took the tail off the dog three inches from his body.

Can't you imagine a Shepherd dog with no pluute?

SPORTS

RAM GRIDDERS SERIOUS



THESE RAMS ARE READY TO BUTT TOWARD THE GOAL

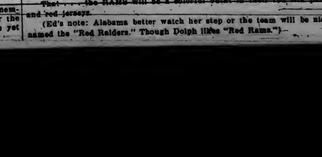
Starting practice the first day of registration, these men were selected by Coach Russ Sweet as a tentative lineup. How long they will stay in these positions, in most cases, seems to be somewhat uncertain, as the combination of last year's material and the prospective new material this term is expected to make competition for nearly every post quite keen.

(The names of the above? Sorry, but the sports editor was taken ill unexpectedly, and is not here. The last minute approaches, and no time for a long dash. Just ask any member of the team—he will tell you.)

TOURIST

This is little Lee Elsan, big talk among all who know him since he has returned from the Olympic Games, about which he has much to tell.

Elsan is an assistant football coach, and head mentor for the diamond squad.



OFFICIAL

Paul Mohr, above, is Registrar at the college, and also an official of the Northern California Junior College Conference.

Before coming to San Francisco, Mohr was attached to the administration of Marin Junior College.

MAPPING OUT PLANS

Busy forming their attacks and defenses, the football coaching staff is pictured above as the cameraman sneaked up on it last season.

This picture could very well have been taken this season, as the same coaches are still at it, and, according to all indications, their plans are going to spell FINIS to many a junior college team this fall.

The gentlemen above are, left to right: Lee Elsan, Jack Gaddy, Russ Sweet (head coach), and Louis "Dutch" Conlan. Read about them in the story to the right.

Soccer Now Is In Conference, With Team Optimistic

With many of the old hands returning, local soccer enthusiasts are looking forward to a successful season.

Beset with many difficulties from the very start, way back a year ago August, the shindigers have managed to hold their own, although not accredited a recognized conference sport at this institution.

Coached by Tom Ross (who also teaches mathematics), the team furnished its own transportation and uniforms, establishing for itself a noteworthy reputation against tough opponents.

This season, Russ Sweet, head of the athletic department, has announced the addition of Ross to this department, and soccer as a conference sport.

With these advantages, the members of the team are hoping for the best series of games they have yet played.

DOLPH DECLARES

By Adolph Pedrin

That . . . last year this column predicted that the football season would find the junior college with an abundant amount of material, and a championship team. Staff of that prediction has been fulfilled, for after looking over the candidates, we find they are good enough to bring joy to any coach's heart.

That . . . LAMBY" Allen, former Poly star and a candidate for a backfield spot, is known to the fellers as a sheep in football togs . . . guess ya!

That . . . when George Clarke was asked what 430 pounds divided by two equaled, he promptly answered: "The Telesmanic Brothers."

That . . . the football team has candidates from Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Colorado.

Expansion, I calls it.

That . . . one of the versatile coaches need his track knowledge to its utmost and raced to the altar this summer. He is none other than Tom Wilson. Congratulations, Tom, and also my sympathies to you co-eds.

That . . . John Finnegan is giving his all for the Trojans, while Bob Ettringham will give for the Wolf pack at Nevada. He maketh a good wolf!!!!

That . . . regardless of the returnable veterans, there will be many new faces among the lineup this fall. Among the boys are Roy Rutherford and Sheldon Roache from San Leandro; Jim Wilson from Richmond, and Edward Pierce from Oakland Tech.

That . . . our basketball team is going on a two-week barnstorming trip during December.

That . . . Tony Scafani is the best program maker in the district.

That . . . the RAMS will be a colorful outfit in their red silk pants and red jerseys.

(Ed's note: Alabama better watch her step or the team will be nicknamed the "Red Raiders." Though Dolph likes "Red Rams.").

Meet the Coaches

Sweet Once Dashed Through Century In 9.2 Out at Kezar

RUSS SWEET: Head of the Physical Education department. Graduated from Montana. Was a varsity man in football, baseball, track and basketball. One of the speed-burners of his day; once in Kezar ran the century dash in 9.2, but the officials looked at their watches twice and said it wasn't possible. Former coach at Menlo J.C. and tutored them to a conference championship. Head football mentor, track and swimming coach for the Ram varsities.

"DUTCH" CONLAN: Another St. Mary's man. Former head coach of Commerce. Some of his pep talks are immortal in prepdom's pigskin circles. Carved himself the first niche in our Hall of Fame by coaching the basketball team to title honors. "Dutch" has his LL.B., so if any of you fellows need a barrister, you need not look for outside talent.

LEE ELSAN: "The Little General" of California fame. Played many a bang-up game for the Golden Bears. Lee and Dutch aid the signal callers. The lassies think he is cute—yes, a "cuddly" fellow. Weighs a mere 160 pounds, and knocked two linemen groggy last fall when they tackled him. Coaches baseball during spring.

JACK GADDY: All-coast end from U.S.F. in '23. Coaches flankmen for J.C. Will have charge of the "Flying Lambs" this fall. Coaches boxing classes and is assistant baseball coach.

TOM WILSON: "Pinky" comes from College of Pacific and is the player that set U.S.C., Cal., and S.M.U. on their haunches with his deadly passing. Tom coaches soccer and swimming, as the veterans will be slipping the new men down with quite a vengeance, and as this new timber is plenty touch, it will be doing quite a bit of man-handling on its own part.

The fellows who come through the mill and bear the colors of the colleges on the gridiron will, with just a faint remembrance from Lady Luck, be a tough obstacle to every rival.

WORRIES REDUCED NOW

Runs lost five first-string men in Charlie Oberg, Tom Murphy (captain), Russ Clark, Bob Kurtz, and Bob Ettringham. But their loss will be smoothed over in the next few weeks.

The varsity squad will be cut to 35 men before the regular campaign opens, and those candidates not making the squad will have a team of their own and play their own schedule. This team, known as the "Flying Lambs," closely parallels the Stanford Rooters of U.C.

TOP SPOTS ON TEAM OPEN TO BEST MEN

The golden portals of sportsdom have opened for the return of its king.

The sport that is heralded two months before its arrival has bowed to its public.

King Football is on the throne in all his glory, grandeur and pomp, watching with interest the debut of the San Francisco J.C. as a member of the conference.

RAMS "DARK HORSE"

Russ Sweet and company are firm believers in the adage of "early practice makes early perfection," and practice is being held daily at Funston Field. Though scrimmage is yet to come, the size, weight, agility and talent displayed by the team candidates easily mark the Rams as the dark horse of the race.

VETERANS WORRIED

In the battle for positions between first string men of last year, their understudies and new material, there are but three cinch positions on the team. George Pedrin, Jack Telesmanic, and Charles Kremesec, veteran guards, have grooved into their positions nicely thus far, but still even in their cases lurks the possibility of a yet undiscovered star who may root out any of them.

All other positions on the team are wide open. The man showing the most aggressiveness and fight will get the nod for starting spot.

Adolph Pedrin, Glen Kilen, and Bob Lee, all veteran ends, are finding stiff competition for their flank spots, while Vasco Vanelli, Bill Dolman, and Walter Loving are out for the tackle position.

Pete Jambruno, mainstay at the pivot spot last year, has moved to tackle, and is in the thick of the battle, the reason for the change being in new center material enrolling, and the return of "Tiger" McIlvaine, alternate with Pete last season. Roy Rutherford and "Duke" Worsham are expected to see time at the center spot.

BACKFIELD BATTLE

Last year Russ had a scarcity of backfield material, but his prayers during the summer have been answered.

Fireworks a-plenty will issue from this department as Tony Scafani, Tom Mauer, Odero Gulati, George Clark, and Forrest Morrison see who here the brunt of last year's ball-packing chores, are being pushed around by Glenn Wunderling, Sheldon Roache, Jim Wilson, and Joe Totemanic.

BLOODLESS(?) BATTLE

Scrimmage during the next two weeks will be tough, rough, and slam-bang, as the veterans will be slipping the new men down with quite a vengeance, and as this new timber is plenty touch, it will be doing quite a bit of man-handling on its own part.

The fellows who come through the mill and bear the colors of the colleges on the gridiron will, with just a faint remembrance from Lady Luck, be a tough obstacle to every rival.

Block SF Society Will Meet Today In Initial Session

The Block S. F. Society holds its first meeting of the current semester at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Galileo gym.

Adolph Pedrin, present president of the organization, requests all lettermen to be there, as new officers will be elected and installed.

"Many activities will be sponsored by the letter society this fall, such as assisting the promoting of the excursion trip to the L. A. J. C. game in Los Angeles," said Pedrin. "Now that we have more members, we can uphold our end of aiding the school functions."

Library Rules Outlined For New Students

Hours Are From 11 to 6; Faculty Advisers Available

Located in the Galileo building, the junior college libraries will offer borrowing privileges of approximately 300 new books to students and faculty of the college at the beginning of the spring semester.

Library hours, according to an announcement by Francis J. Colligan, librarian, will be the same as last semester, from 11 o'clock to 6, with clerks on duty during those hours, and members of the faculty in each library to supervise and offer advice to readers.

The following rules are to be observed by students wishing to use the libraries:

1. Students are requested to sign their names and the time whenever they enter the library. Contrary to mistaken rumor, the purpose of this request is by no means to check the actions of individuals, but merely to simplify for the library staff the business of checking the number of students using the library each day, as such information is desired by the San Francisco School Department.

2. Reference and reserve reading room. The south library contains reference material, periodicals, and reserve books. Reference books are on open shelves to be used freely by students and faculty, but may not be taken from the room.

Reserve books are not to be taken from the south reading room except when signed out overnight. To secure a reserve book, the following steps must be covered:

a) Obtain call number of the book from the catalog.

b) Fill out a reserve use slip (properly).

c) Surrender registration card until book is returned.

Reserve books may not be used by any student who does not present his registration card.

Again, as in the request for students to sign names and time when entering the libraries, the procedure to be followed for the use of reserve books is not directed at any check on the individual and his choice of books, but purely resolves itself into a method of checking the circulation of books and thus ordering additional copies where demanded.

Periodicals must be secured in the same manner, but are not to be taken from the south reading room.

3. North reading room. The north reading room contains books that circulate for two-week periods. These books are borrowed by presenting a request slip and registration card. The registration card is not retained by the library in the case of two-week books.

4. Hold-slips. Students who wish books held for them for use at a designated time need only fill out the proper slips provide for that purpose.

5. Fines.

a) On a two-week book that is overdue is imposed a fine of five cents a day.

b) Reserve books which circulate overnight must be returned to the library by 1:30 o'clock the following day. An initial fine of 25 cents is imposed for an overdue reserve book with five cents added for each ensuing two-hour period that the book is overdue. (Time is usually counted only during library hours.)

c) When an overdue reserve book is returned and the fine not paid, the amount is calculated and the registration card kept in the library until the fine is paid. If the fine is not paid by the end of the semester, the student's record will not be released by the registrar's office, and the student will not be permitted future registration until the fine is paid.

THIRTY ACRES OF BEAUTY

Chosen last spring by the Board of Education, the location of the new San Francisco Junior College site is indicated by the arrow on the map above. The cross shows the actual spot where the buildings will stand.

This is the "beautiful, well-located site of some 30 acres" mentioned by President Archibald J. Cloud in his welcoming statement on page one of this issue.

Renovated Lounge Room Greets Coeds In Store Basement

Students Are Requested To Enter by the Alley Door in Back

With a newly renovated social room as a start, the Associated Women Students, under the leadership of Helen Davis, president, plan to do big things this semester.

The bare, drafty room at the book store at 518 Powell, which was formerly used by women of the college as a place to meet between classes, has been transformed, by comfortable chairs, cheerful linoleum, and a heating system, into a cozy lounge. The entire room has been repainted and lounges and a dressing room have been added.

According to Miss Davis, women are requested to enter the room through the alley between the two buildings rather than to cut through the college store.

Speaking of the coming A.W.S. activities, Miss Davis said: "I want to ask the women of the college to take part in all activities possible. This includes not only A.W.S. affairs but also those sponsored by all other organizations of the college."

Social Committee Members Named

sub-committees, selected at a meeting held last Wednesday, have been announced as follows:

Charles Brickley, ways and means; Carlyle Cain, newspaper publicity; Marge Christophe, bids; Joe Kissel, decorations; Bob Neal, favors; Caroline Orgisos, other publicity; Donna McPherson, chairman; and Bob Sisco, ex officio member.

3-Day Holiday Next Week, So No Paper Until September 16

There will be no classes held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week because of the holidays, Paul Mohr, registrar, has announced.

Because of this, The Guardsman will not appear again until September 16, according to the editor.

GREETER

As an additional feature to the Hotel Manager's course, Harry Troupe, (above), secretary-treasurer of the Hotel Greeters of San Francisco, is teaching front office psychology. This course is open to all students, including those outside the hotel course, and is given Monday afternoons from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock in Room 104 at Galileo. Troupe is also connected with the Hotel Bellevue in this city.

Trolley Directions Are Given Students and Polk Street, and between Franklin and Bay streets. It may be reached from the Extension Building by an F car direct; or by transfer from a Geary Street car to an H on Van Ness, and on the Market Street Railway by transfer from a Sutter Street car to a No. 19 on Polk Street.

The shortest route to the Ferry Building from Galileo is by the Municipal F line, transferring at Green Street to an E car.

FOR MEN ONLY!

Music 31A is for men students only, according to Flossita Badger of the music department, and all women who have enrolled in this course will have to make a change in program.

CHOIR RETURNS

Last semester's A Cappella choir is back practically in full force, and, with the new talent that has been added, much is expected of the group this fall, according to Flossita Badger, choir director.

MANY NEW CLASSES IN SUBJECT VARIETY OFFERED THIS TERM

New classes in many subjects are being offered at the college this semester for the first time, according to Mrs. Eugenie Leonard, college vice-president.

SAN FRANCISCO JUNIOR COLLEGE

Like to Travel? Take a Jaunt Toward Salinas

Vol. 3 WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1936 No. 2

TRAIN PLANNED TO CARRY RAM SUPPORTERS SOUTH

Chartered by and for the Associated Students of this college, two special trains will carry Ram gridmen and rooters to Los Angeles for the intersectional strife to be carried on there on the night of October 3, according to present plans being made by Ward Nichols, comptroller, and Pitman, assistant to President Archibald Cloud, and a student committee working with them.

With the entire plan boasting the whole-hearted endorsement of the administration, tentative reservations for two large cars from the Southern Pacific company have been placed.

STAY 3 DAYS

Plans call for leaving San Francisco on Thursday evening, October 1, to arrive in Los Angeles the following morning, where the trains will be "parked" to be used as a hotel during the three-day stay. The return trip will be made Saturday night, arriving home Sunday morning.

From Los Angeles, the San Francisco rooters will travel by electric train to Pasadena, where the game is to be played in the world-famed Rose Bowl.

The total cost of the trip, according to arrangements made thus far, will be in the neighborhood of $12, which would include everything except meals.

SPACE AT PREMIUM

The cars will be booked onto the Sunset Limited, going by way of the coast route, Southern Pacific officials announced.

Already indications are that there will be little trouble in filling the cars, as the football team and coaches will require one, and several students and faculty members have signified their intentions of traveling in the other.

Students planning to make the trip should contact Nichols immediately to insure accommodations, the committee in charge says.

Palace Hotel Has Local College Nite

San Francisco Junior College night will be featured at the Palace Hotel next Friday evening, the hostelry's office has announced, with the arrangements made by Donna McPherson, Associated Student Body vice-president.

Convers will be 50 cents per person and reservations can be made with her or with Joe Kissel, Palace representative, Miss MacPherson said.

THE FINISHING TOUCHES

Co-eds have been busy remodeling the basement of the book store to make a rest room of it. Much of the work was done by Ruth Johnson, shown above with the paint brush, and Helen Davis.

Barbara Lutz is also pictured offering her contribution, although what Ruth is going to do with the combination of paint brush and window-cleaner we really don't quite know.

Backward Traffic System Is Method Of Relieving Crowds

Inaugurating the revival of the traffic system for the Extension Building at 540 Powell, successfully put into operation last year, Paul Pitman begins a campaign this week to re-establish the plan wherein students will KEEP TO THE LEFT ON THE STAIRWAYS.

For a faster and more steady flow of traffic with the least possible congestion, Pitman requests everyone to observe the regulations given here:

The directions for entering the building are specific and require constant observance. Students entering will do so by the mezzanine door, to be found just below the main entrance on Powell Street. Here they will find checking service open to them, which is conducted free of charge. From here the students can ascend to classes on the upper floors, or they may take advantage of the study hall in the basement.

The only exception to the above rule will be that those arriving for 8:00 o'clock classes will be permitted to use the main entrance.

Use of the mezzanine door for entering the building will leave the main entrance free for departing students.

OFFICIALS ELECTED FOR VARIOUS CLASSES

Members of the various classes met last week for the first time and elected their respective officers.

In the high sophomore class, Eddie Schwartz was elected president, Mike Garavin, vice-president, and George Hagens, secretary.

Joe Kissel became the new leader of the low sophomore group, with a re-election necessary to decide the remaining offices.

In the high freshman class, Eugene Blumenthal took the president's post, with Marge Christophe as vice-president, and Don Mills as secretary.

Don Tuttle was elected head of the low freshmen, with Rosalind Kissel as his assistant. Vernon Peck is the new secretary, and Don Lee the treasurer.

Galicia Succeeds De Lima as Pres. of Filipino Club

Presided over by last semester's president, Georgio De Lima, an election of the Filipino Club held last Friday placed in office as the new leader Alfredo Galicia.

Other newly elected officers of the group are Anastacio Subido, vice-president; Pio Dubluluo, secretary; Adela Bagatun, treasurer, and Pelip Lopez, Sergeant-at-arms.

The next meeting of the club has been announced for Friday, September 18, in the Galileo cafeteria.

Japanese Students to Hold Reception

With the intention of acquainting new students with the old, the San Francisco Junior College Japanese Club will hold a reception Saturday, September 19, according to Kazuo Toriola, club president.

The club's other officers are as follows: Kazumi Yamamoto, men's vice-president; Jane Amemiya, women's vice-president; Esther Tani, recording secretary; Teruko Kambe, corresponding secretary, and Hirosbi Kahda, treasurer.

Edward Sandoz, faculty sponsor of the group, suggests that students interested in joining it or in learning further particulars of the planned reception, see him.

Fire Hazard Is Practically Nil At Powell Bldg.

Emptying the entire structure in four minutes, two fire drills were held recently at the Extension Building, one on Wednesday, and the other on Thursday, at peak hours.

Calling attention to the fact that there is practically no danger of fire, inasmuch as even the steam heat is piped from outside the building, Paul Pitman, in charge of the Powell Street edifice during the mornings, stressed that the only danger would be from panic.

"As there are adequate fire escapes, and fire drills have proved that the entire structure can be vacated in a surprisingly short time, there will be no danger in any emergency if all those in the building will acquaint themselves with all the exits," Pitman said.

Pitman pointed out that these exits are located as follows:

From the fourth floor, in addition to the main stairway, there is a fire escape leading down to the floor from the front of the small auditorium. From the third and second floors, there are two escapes on that side, located at both ends, as well as a narrow stairway at the inner side of the third floor auditorium stage.

On the main floor, exit can be made through the stairway in the mezzanine, through the main door, or through doors leading from both of the rooms at the other end of the hall-way.

Exit from the basement can be made at either end.

Enrollment Soars To 1,635 Students

Enrollment of the San Francisco Junior College has reached 1635 students to date, according to Ward M. Nicholls, comptroller. Of these, 1,041 had registered before regular enrollment closed, making an average of 15 students enrolling each day since August 28. This shows an increase of approximately 100 students over last semester.

SIGN SOCIAL EVENTS ON DEAN'S CALENDAR

That all clubs and organizations in the college sign up all possible events on the social calendar in her office is urged by Eugenie Leonard, dean of women, and social committee adviser.

As was announced in the last issue of the Guardsman, mimeographed forms, available in her office, must be secured and filled out by club presidents, so that the event planned may be recorded, she said.

Six Debating Vets Enroll for Speech

Six veterans of last year's debating class were among the 16 students to enroll in the Speech 1A class this semester, Lloyd D. Lackman, instructor, announced yesterday. He also said that academic credit will be given for the course.

MUD, EGGS WILL FLY AS CLASSES KEEP TRADITION

Chances for the little fellow! That's one of the big features of the traditional semi-annual frosh-soph brawl—and if that is not true, after the big fracas those who feel chagrined can take Tyler "Ty" McHugh behind the gym and "work him over" in the mud-hole in which they so recently were inundated.

Beginning at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, and continuing until it is finished, this mammoth affair will in all probability boast the participancy of no football men, who have a fair corner on the local beef trust, because of the gridiron rodeo with the Saligas cowboys the following day, Ty said.

Sponsored by the Men's Club, of which McHugh is president, this gala afternoon boasts the full approval of President Archibald Cloud, who has suspended all classes that ordinarily would take place during the time which the occasion will consume.

Because complete plans were not yet decided at the deadline, a reprint of part of the story carried in the Guardsman last semester about this event which was then inaugurated under the leadership of Bob Sisco, present Associated Students' president, can give as good an idea of the sport to be had as any. Following, slightly abridged and altered, is the program:

On to the brawl, where the low freshmen will take on the combined sophomore classes, leaving the high freshmen, quite chagrined because they have not the opportunity of avenging last semester's debacle, to watch from the side lines!

With participants wrestling and scrapping in good nature and with good intent, the proverbial tie-up will inaugurate activities for the afternoon, with, of course, a tire fight thrown in.

And now the event in which bald men will have the advantage—a nice, clean little egg fight. The best fruit will be taped to the top of each contestant's head, he will be blindfolded, and then tie down, grasping his opponent's left hand with his. Then, with towels in the right hands, they will "have at it," endeavoring to swat each other on

Ten Homes For Women Seeking Work Available

Although there were approximately 200 applicants for NYA positions in this semester, it was only possible to place 195 students, according to Helene Turner, NYA administrator at the college.

"These 195 are receiving salaries ranging from $10 to $20 a month, and the total payroll amounts to $2010. The positions range from busboys in the cafeteria to research workers in the English department," Miss Turner said.

For the benefit of those women who are interested in working in private homes for their room and board, Miss Turner announced that she has ten places.

Beta Phi Frat To Have Banquet with Pres. Cloud Guest

With President Archibald J. Cloud as the guest of honor, the Beta Phi fraternity will hold a banquet at the Veneto next Monday evening, according to the group's president, James Neal.

Neal has announced that the fraternity has secured an apartment at 1930 Jackson Street to serve in the capacity of a "house."

Meeting last Monday in the new house, the Beta Phi took in a few pledges, Neal said, and plans for a dance to be held November 13 were discussed.

FROSH MEET FRIDAY

Meeting for the purpose of discussing plans for activities to be held throughout the semester, the low freshman class will gather Friday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock in the cafeteria, according to Don Fuller, newly elected class president.

The freshmen will also get ready at this meeting for the Sophs' Frosh Brawl, to be held later Friday afternoon, Fuller said.

Board of Education Physical Properties Committee To Confer Soon

By SKIP IRWIN

In the second week of February of last semester, Balboa Park was selected by the Board of Education as a site for the San Francisco Junior College.

It was then estimated that the students of San Francisco Junior College would enter their new building in the spring of 1937. Trouble with unavoidable technicalities, however, has caused practical abandonment of this idea. Tied up by legal strings, the site was not fully transferred to the board until late in the spring semester of this year.

The Ingleside site (Balboa Park), originally deeded to the city for park and recreational purposes, was never used as such; and consequently was transferred to the board for educational purposes.

The plans announced at the time the site was definitely accepted call for buildings of Spanish stucco type, although architectural plans are as yet incomplete.

To discuss plans for the building, a meeting between Major Joseph P. Nourse, superintendent of schools, President Archibald J. Cloud of the junior college, and the Physical Properties Committee of the Board of Education is scheduled for the near future.

The Physical Properties Committee, at a later date, will discuss these plans with the architects.

Ground-breaking exercises were held earlier in the year, and to date there are ditches in which pipes are being laid for plumbing purposes, to show fur activity, with work being done by WPA workers.

The Guardsman wishes to take this opportunity to thank the Board of Education for its whole-hearted efforts in endeavoring to hurry the completion of the new home for the junior college.

Although the accepted college site boasts some 33 acres, the actual location of these acres within Balboa Park appears to be one of the small items yet to be settled between the Park Department and the Board of Education.

Pictured here is a beautiful corner of Balboa Park, showing the gently sloping terrain, the impressive coast Cypress trees which enhance the natural attractiveness of the site, and, in the distance, looming high and majestic, are the impressive hills which lie behind San Francisco.

It may be that this particular spot—typical of the beauty of the entire park—is one on which some junior college edifice will be erected.

SHOW THEM OUR STUFF

With the season's first football game not yet played, it might seem a trifle premature to start talking about attending and supporting the gridiron enterprises.

On October 2, however, there will be a game for which there should be much planning—the game with Los Angeles Junior College.

Last year, the southern contingency had a car-load or so of rooters that came all the way up here with the football team. In the interest of inter-sectional rivalry, we cannot outdo them by chartering airplanes to take us all down to the Rose Bowl to watch the Rams trample all over them.

We can, however, go down there in our own specially chartered trains—two of them. The football team will take up all of one, so that leaves a limited number of reservations for Associated Students, officials, pressmen, and other ardent spectators.

Start saving the pennies, then, and look forward with the thrill of expectation to the time of your life you will have on the train and after you get there.

WHO CONTEMNS

Despise not any man, and do not spurn anything, for there is no man that hath not his hour, nor is there any thing that hath not its place.—Rabbi Ben Azai.

Smugly smirking with contempt, many a burly gridman may look with scornful disdain upon the glass-wearing, perhaps pale and seemingly weakly, academic student and pursuer of the cultural arts.

With an eye to the future, and confident in the knowledge that past surveys have proved that only a small majority of college athletes ever achieve a very noteworthy pinnacle of success after departure from the fields of allegedly higher learning, the scholar is often prone to relegate the gymnast to the lower categories in his mental classifications.

One gets his glory, his reward, at the present, is living in it; the other has his success, his achievements, as something to which to look forward—yet not with genuine certainty.

Obviously true is it that without the academic students, there can be little or no college, and, consequently, no athletics. Equally true, on the other hand, is the fact that without teams on the field of strenuous competition, a public educational institution of general nature cannot achieve a high degree of fame. Without that, it follows, the college can not offer so much to all, and hence loses some of its value to even the strictly non-athletic type.

"He who feels contempt
For any living thing, hath faculties
That he hath never used, and thought with him
Is in its infancy."—Wordsworth.

HAIL FELLOW—WHAT DID HE MEET?

Joe College was a nice fellow, a mingler, well liked by nearly everyone. He dressed well, had a pleasant appearance, and was always witty with whatever the prevalent craze of popular wit happened to be.

Joe played poker with the boys between classes, sometimes winning, sometimes losing, maintaining the usual gambler's average. He got along well with the women, and they were always welcome in his automobile.

At the dances he was always in attendance; in fact, dancing was one of his favorite pastimes. He invariably lent support in a vigorously boisterous manner at the football games, and it was even said that at times he helped create the allegedly collegiate atmosphere with a bottle of his father's rare spirits.

In fact, Joe was typically collegiate in every way that the magazine stories and movies paint the condition; that is, he was collegiate in every manner except studying and attending classes. Apparently those trifling details did not come within his mental picture of what college should constitute.

Yes, he was a hail fellow, well met. What, though, did he meet? In his first two or three semesters at college he met with a quantity of pleasure and what might be termed mild dissipation. At the beginning of his fourth semester, however, he met the college's registrar.

The next thing our hero met was the disapprobation of his father, followed closely by an ultimatum of work or get out.

College did him wrong, no doubt of it. The instructors had no consideration. He was not appreciated. He would no longer honor the institution with his presence.

A few years later, the "hail fellow, well met" was met by a former classmate, one who had not taken the publicized notion of collegiate life so seriously. It was in the straight and narrow that he met Joe, indeed so—a straight and narrow ditch, full of lusty compatriots vigorously making the ditch deeper and longer by means of their physical attributes.

Fortunately, this college is comparatively free from Joe Colleges. OR IS IT?

THE BULL SNORTS

Reams have been written about San Francisco's cable cars. Probably every columnist in the city has at one time or another mentioned them. There is a reason for this, a very good reason.

In the first place, there are probably not 500 men in the world who are qualified gripmen, although in this assumption we may be incorrect. Because of their unique type of employment, these men are different, just as any man closely associated with a trade assumes some of the characteristics peculiar to all men of that trade.

Ah, the Sentiment

The life of a grip-man seems to us far more pleasant than that of a motorman on a regular streetcar. A much smaller vehicle, and thus one to which there can be a more sentimental attachment (if any), his car is pulled up and over the hill, only to coast down the other side. Between the morning and evening rush hours, once he is away from the more central metropolitan area, the cable grabber has more freedom, less annoyance, in his rolling cruise over the hills of San Francisco. He seems to be more of a human being than his fellow car-men who pilot the gargantuans to and from the Ferry Building.

Poor Foot Musicians

The hand operated gong, of course, gives the hill-billy a greater chance to express his individuality than is offered to the operators of the electric trolleys, who must become shufflers and tap-dancers in order to strike up a tune on their foot-operated warning devices.

It is naturally regrettable that so many of the slot-life musicians have habitually lapsed into the "clang clangety-clang-clang . . . wham-wham!" category, which, while having some chance for individual expression when practiced in harmony by approaching cars, or jointly and cooperatively by both grip-man and conductor, does not offer full opportunity for the displayal of talent.

Brass Pounder?

Since moving to a place situated only three stories above a cable line, we have had ample opportunity for observation by ear and by eye. We were surprised to hear, shortly after we had definitely lodged our Lares and Penates, arising from the slotted street below an old familiar signal, "clang-clang-clang-clang . . . clang-clang!" The international high sign of telegraphers and radio-telegraphers! Sometime we hope to ride on a car guided by our —rently brother brass-pounder.

We wonder if he will play chop-sticks on the gong by special request.

WANT TO BUY A GOLD BRICK?

By Fleming Pope

Be careful when you are about to invest your savings! Swindlers are like the ever elusive collar button—undesired at close quarters, yet diligently and angrily pursued once they have departed. Some of the recent frauds which have been perpetrated on the unsuspecting public seem too preposterous to be true.

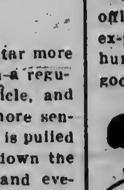
Some of the skeptical population might be enlightened, were they to dip into the court records of 1933 for the State of Massachusetts. Here they would find a tale that would make the Brooklyn Bridge salesmen look like a group of school boys.

Among the more famous cases is the Boston "Gift Family" swindle which was staged by two women, who told a large number of dupes that they could arrange things so that a "Divine Source" would quadruple any amount of money entrusted in their hands. Victims of these two frauds even went so far as to mortgage their homes to provide money with which to supply the gift family. This swindle in two years took the innocents for the sum of more than half a million dollars. When the culprits were finally apprehended, some of the victims refused to testify, so strongly did they believe in the "Divine Source."

Another example of the manner in which some people earn money is aptly illustrated by the Armament Ring case. In the early stages of the World War, that is to say, before the United States was so cunningly taken in, one of the "patriotic" arms and munitions manufacturers of this country sent a representative to the Geneva Peace Conference for the express purpose of seeing that the conference did not make a peace pact. For this, he was to receive $25,000. Upon his return, payment by the arms company was refused. A legal battle ensued, but the case was finally settled out of court.

While most people do not suspect it, there is a legal way to pass counterfeit money, as was proved recently. Acting as a poor hobo, a slicker went to a kindly restaurant owner and asked for a meal. When he had finished the last morsel of food, the ostensible hobo pulled his handkerchief from his pocket, dropping a ten dollar bill as he did so—by accident, of course.

The owner, seeing the money and indignantly thinking he had been "taken in," grabbed the bill, gave the man his change, and threw him out. When, upon finding the money counterfeit, he tried for redress in the courts, he had no case, for the trickster had not passed the bill in the legal sense.



On To Los Angeles

SAYS PRESIDENT SISCO

"On to Los Angeles!" From now until the second of October that's going to be our war cry. It seems that there is an institution down there with something that, in the opinion of our football team, belongs to us. So Mr. Nichols, our comptroller, has made it possible for us to make the trip to Los Angeles and back for a surprisingly low cost. Make all reservations with Mr. Nichols.

Our first dance saw the return of last year's officers, Mimi Colton, Neal Martin, and our ex-president, Maury Schwarz, who, with hundreds of others, enjoyed dancing to the good music of Charlie Horton's band. The band lived up to all advance notices, and everyone had a wonderful time. We are going to have lots more of these dances, so turn out and enjoy an evening with your pals. The freshmen completely outnumbered the Sophs, so come on Sophs, turn out for these affairs.

That reminds me—all candidates for graduation in January should see Mr. Mohr at once to check up on units, grade points, etc. You only have until September 30 to do this, so get started now.

For the benefit of the newly elected class presidents, the first Executive Council meeting will be in the Galileo North Library on Wednesday, September 16 (that's this afternoon) at 4:30 o'clock p.m. Please try to be there.

Bob Sisco.

ROMEO AND JULIET

A Work of Art

Last year A Midsummer Night's Dream marked the beginning of a new era in moving pictures. As a product of this era, the current film, Romeo and Juliet, now showing at the Geary Theatre, has fulfilled the highest hopes we may have held at the time for future film productions. The Warner Brothers' splendid Shakespearean effort pointed to great possibilities in screen advancement, and now Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has taken up the cue and produced no less than a masterpiece.

Romeo and Juliet brings such laurels to the screen that once and for all the artistic worth of the cinema should be recognized.

The immortal story of the "ill-starred lovers" retains its essential form, with but minor adaptations.

Norma Shearer, as Juliet, gives the best performance of her career. Her perfect characterization of the young, innocent, lovely Juliet is flawless.

Leslie Howard also attains one of the high spots of his career as Romeo. He fits into the role of the romantic young lover as though the bard had written it for him.

Supporting Miss Shearer and Mr. Howard is a cast full of big names. John Barrymore as Mercutio shows his usual finesse. Then there are Edna May Oliver, Basil Rathbone, Reginald Denny, Ralph Forbes, C. Aubrey Smith, and Andy Devine, all of whom contribute to make this picture perfect in every detail.

The heart-touching quality of the picture is strong and makes the story as much alive today as it was when it was written.

In fact, everything about this picture was noteworthy, if not perfect. Romeo and Juliet may be summed up in one phrase—a work of art. If this represents what the movie industry can and will put out, what a glorious future awaits it!

OUT OF THE FOG

By Bob McArthur

NIGHTFALL

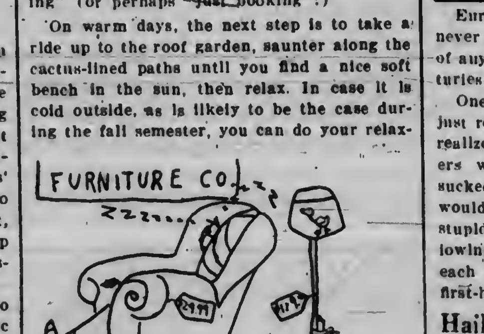
As length'ning shades of even-tide
Cast shadows 'cross the skies,
Lights wink through the gath'ring dusk
Like hosts of blinking eyes.

Then sinking westward in the sea,
The dying sun retreats
Up silent canyons which, in day,
Are busy city streets.

At last the fading rays are gone,
Leaving pale moonlight,
And over all the city lies
The magic of the night.

EDUCATIONALLY SPEAKING

By FEM



San Francisco department stores are slowly but definitely turning into a glorified campus for restless junior college students who find themselves with an hour or two to kill between classes.

In one single establishment, for instance, one may find any number of diversions which may be indulged in without any great outlay of cash.

For exercise, a ride on the streamlined escalators (well, it's fun, anyway!), or perhaps a hike up and down the many stairs. (You could run up and down the aisles, but the rest of the people might object.)

Next a visit to the book department, and it is found (by actual experience) that one may digest at least one best seller a semester by reading a chapter a day while "just looking" (or perhaps "just booking"!)

On warm days, the next step is to take a ride up to the roof garden, saunter along the cactus-lined paths until you find a nice soft bench in the sun, then relax. In case it is cold outside, as is likely to be the case during the fall semester, you can do your relaxing in the furniture department. Many a high-backed easy chair has proved to be a haven for the weary footed student.

All of which goes to show that Bill Rawson's crazy.

◄ PAPER TALK ►

Note: The following are excerpts from a masterpiece of the letter writer's art, done by that friend of many, that master journalist, the originator of the column Paper Talk, Paul Green.

It is hoped that the publication of this will not be deemed a breach of friendship. It would really be wrong to deprive readers of the opportunity of seeing how a master word-manipulator does it.—Editor.

Dear Willum:

The last time I saw you I promised to call you up at your home, but I could not trust the telephone for the deep confidences which run between us, and so am writing. (I wanted to see if this damn typewriter still worked, anyway.)

I guess the first issue of your magnificent obsession is about due to appear, and I would appreciate it very much if you could somehow besmirch the hallowed essence of The Guardsman mailing list with my moniker, so that I would receive a copy each week. If this won't do (wrong verb), send me a bill. I am very much interested in knowing how your new staff shapes up, particularly since I ran into Bixler recently and found that he was working for the Call, in the advertising department (lucky stiff).

Capps is working, temporarily, and says if he goes back to school at all it will be to San Jose State, so you will be in a hell of a predicament, with nobody relying on you for the hourly cigarette for three.

I had cherished hopes of going back to school, but I have almost as little to do at work, and, having enough for smokes, at least, am endeavoring to endure on the petty cash that is begrudgingly apportioned to me each week by my employers. Besides, in later life, when I wonder why I am not successful, I can salve my conscience by saying, "Well, I never had a college education"—whereas if I had gone on with college I would have had to blame myself.

However, I am planning to enter a couple of courses at the Extension—night of course—because I am getting bald and need an excuse.

I guess Fred Wilkinson is still a Ram. Heard of his ineligibility, and am sorry, but think it might be best for him, don't you? Tell him I said, "He couldn't go to college so he went to J.C.—better half a loaf than none at all."

I've been working three months now and having nothing to show for it but an obese stern, a perplexed frown, and a shattered illusion. Such is fate! I'm getting tired of saying, "the clerk," when people ask who this is talking on the phone, but can't do much about it, except execute the simple chores with which I am entrusted at the office. Once the boss let me look up a telephone number for him, though, and it made me feel good to realize I had some responsibility on my shoulders. I guess I'm just a worm without an apple.

By the way—speaking of worms reminds me of books, and books remind me of J. Nourse, and I remember that she loaned me a book last semester for a book report. As you have just thought, I neither made the report nor read the book (Revolt in the Desert) but will make an honest attempt to return it. Hello to her, and tell her I shall return the litter-ture soon.

You know, Willum, if you have trouble with your staff, there is a young chap out there who might be of use to you. One J.... O..., whose poisonous pen produced enough drooling drivel to fill that portion of the waste basket left vacant by W... W...'s irrational ravings. I just know that J... and T... and B... will be of great service to you and you will solicit their services, just as I know that the earth is flat, like B...'s head.

I didn't have time to tell you what a swell job (I thought) the Senior Edition was. No foolin', it was a masterpiece for its type.

Regards to Pope, Murphy, Smith, n'whoever else is still there.

Yours until the revolution,

J. P. GREEN.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

Rearing tall and majestic, with a temple on its top, a stalwart pillar was depicted on the editorial page of a Hearst newspaper on Labor Day. This pillar was labelled "American Federation of Labor", the temple "Rights of Labor", and the murky, crashing waters surrounding it all, "Subversive Forces." This cartoon bore a caption, "Impregnable", and beneath it was a nice little poem which lauded the virtues of the A. F. of L.

It must have hurt the Hearst editors terribly to publish anything extolling the virtues of organized labor. Typically, however, the chance to take a crack at something was not overlooked, for the last two lines of the poem read:

Still stands the Rock to brave the shock
Of Moscow's undertow.

Keep up the verbal putrefaction, and sooner or later we shall mentally vomit.

No Philosophy

America is periled by lack of sufficient air power, said Irvin S. Cobb in a local paper recently, the contention having been inspired by his view of the national air races in Los Angeles.

Cobb has been noted as somewhat of an old-style, humorous philosopher. Like so many of his kind, he loses punch and interest in what he says when he bothers to write about things other than plain human beings. Leave the armament problems to those who make a study of the subject, Irvin, and go back to your "knitting." Then, maybe, we'll again read what you write.

Fun Everywhere

Europe, the old world—still old fashioned, never modernized. The people cannot think of any sport and diversion to replace the centuries old pastime of war.

One would think that if the fighters would just read the histories of their own countries, realize how utterly ridiculous their forefathers were made time and again by being sucked into, or by starting, hostilities, they would become so mortified by their ancestors' stupidity that they would refrain from following in their venerable footsteps. But no—each generation must learn for itself from first-hand experience.

Hail, Messiah!

A new second Messiah is now ballyhooed into prominence. Four years ago, it was Franklin D. Roosevelt who would be the saviour of our country, with his beaming countenance that would benignly smile away the troubles of a nation.

Maybe the great "saviour" didn't quite materialize, for now we have a new one scheduled. If we were at all impressionable, we should feel that we should kneel down and pray to Alf M. Landon, so much is he now lauded here and there as the gentle rain that will settle into fertility the choking dust of the plains.

Somehow, we cannot quite feel that any one mortal can be so much greater and more sanctified than his fellow men that he merits the prayerful, religious, supplicating attitude that he is so frequently publicized as deserving. Chances are that secretly he is getting one swell laugh at the suckers and down-right darned fools that so many are making of themselves by almost worshipping him.

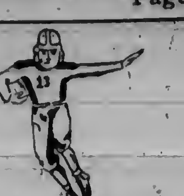
DIARY OF A COLLEGIATE JOURNALIST

By ARDELL WHITE

Friday, Sept. 4.—Today marked my first day at classes. Most of them were routine stuff, but one particularly stands out in my mind as a milestone in my career as an author and journalist par excellence. As copy editor and proof-reader of the "Hickville Union High School Monthly Hick," I felt sure that my experience and ability would greatly aid the editor of The Guardsman, and would, perhaps, elevate that newspaper to a place in the journalistic world almost as high as that of my beloved "Hick." Therefore, I determined to sign up for the paper staff, and duly appeared today. Imagine, Dear Diary, my surprise to find the editor a cynical person who did not seem to appreciate my talent and position. Instead, he sat on the edge of his desk to continually mumble about split infinitives and getting one's stories in on time.



I found that my first assignment is to interview Mr. Oswald T. Tosspot, the college president, no doubt.

Thursday, Sept. 10.—After diligent inquiry, I found today that Mr. Tosspot is the assistant apprentice janitor. Undaunted, I interviewed him (he is from Poisonville, a lovely town not far from Hickville), and wrote an excellent article.

Friday, Sept. 11.—Dear Diary, I am so humiliated! The Guardsman editor, a person named Rawson, had mentioned that the so-called "deadline" was 5:30 p.m. on Friday. However, I attended a matinee that day, and stayed to see the feature twice. It was only 6:15 when I attempted to hand in my story. Dear Diary, I blush to confess it, but this rude Rawson creature threw me bodily (most roughly) out of the room. I shall drop the course Monday.

WEEKLY SPORTS

RED RAMS RAID SALINAS SAT.

CAN THEY DO THIS GOOD WITHOUT CAMERA?

Tony Scafani, sparkplug of the team, hoists one for the cameraman, while Adolph Pedrin, who scored the team's first touchdown last season, seems to be asking: "How's this?" George Clark, flashy halfback, will be doing this many times this coming season, and will turn many of his gallops into score points. Pedrin and Clark, letter men, are possible starters Saturday. Scafani also will see plenty of action.

Battle May Be Climax of Race Started By Coaches During Their Respective Vacations

By Bud McSweeney

September 19 is drawing near and the distance to the corral of the Salinas Cowboys down along the highway seems to have dwindled to a short walk.

No noise thus far has issued from the territory being invaded by the Raiding Rams, nor have any threats, vows, or fears been issued from this port of call.

But the fellows down there have been playing around with a lettuce strike, and the men whose sons are gridders for Salinas will have them whipped into an exquisitely mean mood by game time.

To add to this feeling, our head man optimistically says:

"We haven't heard much about Salinas, but we do know they are 'loaded' and have a crop of good men. Why lots of 'em come from the southern part of the state, and they even have some from far away Oklahoma."

Here the scribe ventured:

"Say, we aren't doing so bad, are you?" as we remember seeing a lad from Great Falls roaming the premises, but then for importation of men, it's the mileage that counts, not the amount of men.

To add more bitterness to this battle it is learned that Salinas has a game with McKinley High School of Hawaii. Now in case you didn't know, our own gridders had a game "in the bag" with this outfit to be played this Fall in Hawaii, but the conference shook its heads and said: "Nay, brethren, nay."

So rest assured that the Rams will slap the cowboys around because of this, just for the principle of the thing.

And the gridders who are going to start this, and have the pleasure of getting the first licks?

Ah, there is THE question.

But then the only way to answer this is by the scrimmages that have been ensuing during the week and the two to come will be the way of determining the starters, and that list will be posted tomorrow.

The battle between the veterans and the new candidates has been nip and tuck, especially in the backfield, where Russ Sweet is baffled. Last year Russ worried because of the lack of backs and this year he has an over abundance, which causes him worse worry as the backs are three deep and plenty good, and tough to boot.

Being tired of knowing he is pacing the floor alone, Sweet issued this ultimatum and the backs will form a parade of worry, too, as they hear:

"This week will decide whether the Frosh backfield or the Soph backfield will start the game," roared Sweet, "and the gang that has the most of the old 'hop-ti-ditty' will get the call."

So that leaves us just where we were at the beginning—still in the dark, but then the pride of the Sophs should aid their cause, and then they hate to sit on the bench after earning a letter, so we will lay our nickle on George Clark, Odero Guisti, Tom Mauer, Tony Scafani and others, for being a member of the old guard it would be short of treason not to do so.

But we know that Wunderling, Wilson, Allen and the others are tender hearted enough to massacre this obstruction to reach their goal.

Of the linemen, little George Pedrin is the only man tabbed as a starter. His aggressiveness, fight and head work have clinched his position at guard. Killer Kremesec and Jack Telesmanic are battling it out for the other starting berth; while at the tackle positions, the battle between Brickley, Jambruno, Vannelli, and Dolman goes merrily along its way. Pete and Bill may worm their way into starting spots if they keep at it as they have, according to Sweet.

The fight for the flank positions has dwindled to Lovings, A. Pedrin, Warren, and Glen Ellen for the time, and the starters will come from this group.

"Tyler McHugh and Roy Rutheford have been sick but are now back in the running for the pivot spot. Rutheford should get the call with McHugh as relief man," says Sweet, and adds, "Brogger and Worsham, who have been right in the thick of the fight, have slipped down because of bad blocking and poor ball handling."

Suits were issued to 36 men Friday, and these men compose the varsity that will run out on the gridiron clad in red, determined to make it two straight wins over their first enemy.

RAMblings •

By BUD McSWEENEY

Forrest Morrison is the first casualty of the Ram gridders, suffering a fractured cheek bone during a scrimmage last week.

Is there any significance to the number that our erstwhile fullback, Tom Mauer, has on his jersey?

• • •

Walter Loving displayed his blocking prowess by slapping three men to the ground with one clip. However, Walt is slightly dismayed over the whole thing, as he took down three of his own men.

Several of the gridders are singing (?) "Empty Saddles," which they claim will be filling the air after the game with the Salinas cowboys.

Dave Shiller, who registered here last spring, is now first string right half for State College. It's his fault!

Jack Gaddy, mentor of the Flying Lambs, uncovered a pair of ends during a scrimmage with the varsity, and rumor has it he won't give them to the head man until he gets a new set of golf sticks.

Ingelhoffer, who was playing ball for the Flying Lambs, has been promoted to the varsity. He was one of the ends discovered, so Jawn had better get that set in a hurry.

Unofficial as yet, but the Letter Society is going to try and sponsor a river cruise up to and back from the Sacramento J. C. game. These fellows are trying hard to put a spirit in this school that will be an example to all others. Back 'em up!

The Men's Club, a worthy organization, gets under way with the staging of the "Froshoph" Brawl. Joe Amori again sponsors, and is keeping things humming.

• • •

Several gridders were pestering a nice bit of feminine pulchritude the other day and upon being asked what she thought of them, she coyly replied:

"They're the rabble of my eye."

We wonder who is going to be appointed custodian of the College banner at our games? Tough to lose it. How 'bout it, Carl?

Pete Jambruno runs around and laughs heartily as he says:

"He was the only locksmith when the raid came, but he made a bolt for the door."

Pete will start playing "Knock-knocks" around November.

Remember: The battle the football team put up for maroon and gold uniforms, and the name Rams? They finally compromised on red and white, while the name Rams was mutual on both sides of the table.

The Boobing a gridder took from his team mates in the middle of a rally when they discovered him in the balcony with a blonde?

The gridders cornering a fellow for saying something about the coach?

Yes, girls, they are soft hearted, down deep, but they don't want you to know it.

The time twenty some odd of them were surrounding a certain party and a Galileo teacher told them what was what? Were they embarrassed???

The Hickory and Jean Society? Now the Letter Society.

The look of amazement and the quick round-up of all gridders to come and gaze, enraptured, when one of the fellows saw Miss Falkner. She still has us (ahem) them at her beck and call, but to have them run an errand for her takes 20 minutes to get it under way, as the first 15 is spent in a battle to see who goes.

This week's fairy story deals with the lad who said he had more school spirit than any other fellow and was much more polite.

"In fact," he sopranoed, "When I speak to the ladies I always answer 'Yesram and Noram.'"

(Good night.)

Runar Stone is a candidate for an end up at State. Last spring Runar scored 25 points single-handed against the Ram cinder cruisers. An old adage goes to waste here:

"History repeats itself."

CARLYLE CAIN TO HEAD THE BLOCK LETTER MEN'S SOCIETY

Carlyle "Dagwood" Cain will head the Block-Letter Society during the current semester, succeeding Adolph Pedrin, who will represent the Letter Society on the Ex Council board.

Cain, active in school affairs, and a stellar light on last spring's championship basketball squad, has started things humming since taking office, and promises that the society will do all in its power to aid the college.

Other returns from the election find Charles "Count" Brickley as treasurer, and Tony "Snuffy" Scafani as secretary.

The regular meeting will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock p.m.

BE A ROOTER FOR RAMS

HERE'S TO THE RAMBLING RAMS

Let's raise our steins and drink a toast,
To spur our warriors down the coast.

We'll ramble through Salinas first,
But just to whet our rising thirst.

Then veering North, near home once more,
We'll drown Marin in their own gore.

Now shout the battle cry anew,
Los Angeles we must subdue.

And charging through with lowered horns,
A Cubskin now our Ram adorns.

Rooty-toot-tooters at home, by heck!
Oh, well, poor State, they're just a wreck.

McFadden's Bulldogs heave in sight,
But Rams smash through in raging might.

Modesto's next, and tireless Rams,
Lower the boom on the valley hams.

Then on upstate our gridders jaunt,
To strip the Oak Leaves bare and gaunt.

With Senators they wipe the street,
Avenging last year's sad defeat.

Returning home triumphant still,
Rams beard the Donlets on their hill.

The pigskin battles now are done,
'Twas Sweet, but next comes Conlan's fun. . .

—BOB MacARTHUR.

WATSONVILLE HIGH LOSES TO THE LAMBS

After a tough first half that was evenly fought, the Flying Lambs unleashed a power attack that carried them 80 yards down the field to score the first touchdown of a grid game in which they were victorious over the Watsonville High School last Saturday.

Later in the game, Bob Fex tossed a 15-yard pass to Lowenthal, who raced 15 yards to the second touchdown, with Whizzer Warren leading the play with effective blocking.

CLARK IS MANAGER

Carl Clark, as assistant football manager, denies the rumor that he holds the position to keep a watchful eye on his brother.

Rams Get Rammed by Galileo's Pet Lion

After scrimmaging steadily for two and a half hours with the Galileo High School football team, the Flying Lambs came out on the short end of a 12-6 score September 4, on the Lion's field.

It was merely a scrimmage and nothing more, with Coach Jack Gaddy substituting and shifting his men around as much as possible, although the Galileo first team played practically throughout the whole contest.

Russo, Lion halfback, opened the scoring with a 6-yard dash into the end-zone after taking a lateral from Castro.

The college eleven came back with six points, when little Felix Anido crossed the goal line in a short off-tackle play for the Lambs.

RAM SOCCER TEAM IN FIRST TILT ON FRIDAY

Harboring hopes of winning the conference race in their first year of competition, the Ram soccer team tangle with Galileo Lions Friday afternoon at Galileo field.

Headed by such men as Bob Zegurn, Bob Nelson, Jimmy Fahn, Bob Vinson, Ellard Taylor, Don Leed, and Walt Odoni all veterans and the bright spots of the team, the Rams will enter the fray determined to start with a bang.

However, Coach Tom Wilson isn't so optimistic as his men and says:

"I know that there are many good soccer players at this college who are not out for the team. This naturally lowers our hopes for a championship, but if they will get in touch with me, I shall try to arrange their programs so that they will be able to come out for the team."

The present squad, composed mostly of veterans, boast an insufficient number to present a winning team when the conference starts in October.

The schedule for the fall has been settled, and the conference battles include:

Marin J. C.—Oct 31—here.
Menlo J. C.—Nov. 7—Menlo.
S. M. J. C.—Nov. 14—here.
Marin J. C.—Nov. 18—Marin.
Menlo J. C.—Nov. 27—here.
S. M. J. C.—Dec. 4—S. M.

Other scheduled games are with Salinas, California Frosh, Stanford Frosh, U. S. F. Frosh, S. F. State varsity, Barbarian A. C., and several of the city high schools.

All games scheduled on week days will start at 4:00 o'clock p.m., while games on Saturdays will start at 10:00 a.m.

Eisan Calls Play As He Performs His Exercises

Getting the call to officiate at the first football game of the 1936 A.A.A. grid season, Coaches Russ Sweet and Lee Eisan called the penalties in the clash between Mission and Balboa. Sweet acted as field judge, while Eisan cavorted around as referee. Big Bob Kleckner from U.S.F. was the third man on the field.

Lee jumped the gun on the other coaches for publicity by getting his picture in one of the daily papers, showing him calling a touchdown.

If you look closely at the picture, however, you will notice it shows Eisan in a very graceful pose that will make the Ballet Russe members green with envy, as he was gallantly balanced on one leg, the other in a crooked position and his arm extended, his head thrown back in a dramatic way, his eyes closed and his back to the play. Yet he called the play right!

Tell us, Lee, how did you do it? You've got something there!

Larger Enrollment Forces Change in Classes

Because of the large enrollment of men students in the golf classes at Funston Field, Coach Jack Gaddy has found it necessary to divide this group of hopeful-potential hole-in-one aces into four different groups. While one group is busy putting on the putting green the other group loosens up muscles in the driving cage.

The other two groups play basketball and toss horse-shoes. However, the men rotate their schedule and as Gaddy states:

"We will conduct a putting and horse-shoe chucking contest between the sections as soon as things are running smoothly."

Last Year's Contest Was Hard-Fought Grid Battle

Last year in the first game of the school's annals the Rams won 12 to 6, with A. Pedrin intercepting a lateral and galloping 45 yards to six points, putting his name at the head of the list for scoring points. Later in the game the Rams broke George Clark into the open and he romped 12 yards to pay dirt and a touchdown that made him number two man on the score sheet of the school's history book of sport.

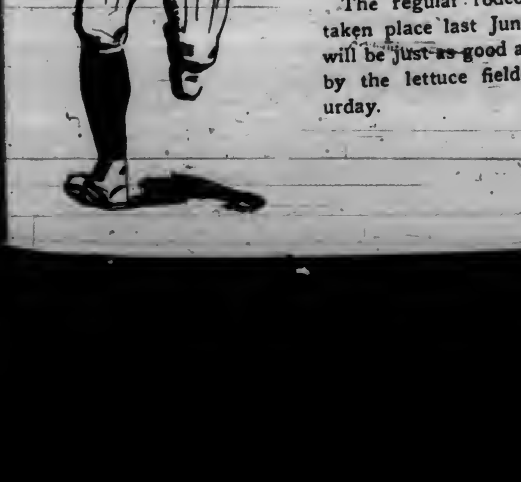
This game will be a corker as the Cowboys are big and rough and like the going hard, and if the teams pick up where they stopped the battle last year the gridiron will smoke from the heat of the conflict.

• DOLPH DECLARES •

By Adolph Pedrin

If you have intentions of going to the Los Angeles game, make your reservation now with Mr. Nichols. The trip expenses were made to fit your pocket book (of course, that means you folks shell out again), so avoid the last-minute rush.

Something should be done about the lack of a school band; half of the stadium noise comes from the brass section. Come on, you swing-men.



Little brother is a good player—just ask him—but never say we didn't warn you when he starts to elucidate.

George Clark is regaining his form, and if he holds up and injuries let him go, watch his smoke!!

All co-eds who are being pestered, the mashers are Bob Fex, Lamby Allen and (we shouldn't tell on this feller because of M.) Carlyle Caine.

The college's first and most ardent rooter was Dean Browne. He is still going strong. Follow him.

DOWN IN SALINAS, THEY HAVE FAR-FAMED RODEOS

Watch the Rams ROUND 'EM UP!

The regular rodeo may have taken place last June, but there will be just as good a show down by the lettuce fields next Saturday.

FEDERAL REPORT REVEALS THAT J. C. IS GROWING AFFAIR

That the junior college is a growing institution in this country was revealed recently through a bulletin issued by the Office of Education, United States Department of the Interior.

Following is the complete bulletin: More than 550 junior colleges are in operation throughout the United States.

According to Dr. Walter J. Greenleaf, Office of Education specialist in higher education, who recently completed a national survey of junior colleges, "junior colleges have developed since 1900, the movement having gained impetus in the past few years."

The junior colleges included in the 554 registered at the Office of Education comprise public high schools that have added junior college divisions, established preparatory schools recognized as junior colleges or offering junior college work, some four-year colleges that have given up their degree-granting privileges to concentrate on the first two years of college work, and newly created junior colleges.

EIGHTY-FOUR IN 1918

Dr. Greenleaf reports that in 1918 there were 84 junior colleges in the United States, principally in California, Missouri, Texas, and Virginia. Thirty-three of these have since closed, seven have merged, four have become senior colleges, and 40 are still listed as junior colleges.

"The junior college is in the experimental stage. We do not know what it should be because we do not know exactly what it is," an Office of Education report of Dr. Greenleaf's survey reveals. In this study a junior college is a separate organization with 25 or more students enrolled in a program that includes the traditional freshman and sophomore college courses. The junior college is variously defined by other agencies.

In Connecticut, "a junior college should aim to meet the needs of the community in which it is located, including preparation for higher institutions of learning." New York specifies that "a college that maintains only the first two years of the four-year course of study may be registered as a junior college."

IN 27 STATES

Twenty-seven states now provide public junior colleges, either by general legislation, special action, or local authority. According to 149 official reports of public junior colleges to the United States Office of Education, 51 were administered as independent units in the public system of education, 64 were administered by a separate executive under the city superintendent of public schools, 29 were administered by a single executive as a part of a high school, and nine were administered otherwise.

More than half of the 190 public junior colleges are located in four states—California, Iowa, Texas, and Oklahoma. Only eight are located in the Eastern Atlantic states, and those are confined to Georgia, North Carolina, and Florida.

Privately controlled junior colleges are those controlled by private enterprises or corporations independent of church or state, and the denominational junior colleges supported and usually controlled by the church. Both types are found in all states except Delaware, Nevada, Rhode Island, and Wyoming, where no junior colleges have been provided, and in Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, and North Dakota, where only public junior colleges are established.

PROPERTY VALUE HIGH

Probably the highest property valuation reported by a junior college is that at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri—$4,098,541. Eleven other junior colleges with property valuations over more than a million dollars include: Blackburn College, Illinois; Ferry Hall, Illinois; Monticello Seminary, Illinois; St. Joseph's College, Indiana; Mount St. Clare Junior College, Iowa; Cumberland College, Kentucky; Nazareth Junior College, Kentucky; Southwest Baptist College, Missouri; William Woods College, Missouri; Packer Collegiate Institute, New York, and Ward-Belmont School, Tennessee.

Closures, mergers, expansions and other additional information on America's junior colleges appear in the U. S. Office of Education Bulletin No. 3 on Junior Colleges, prepared by Dr. Walter J. Greenleaf. The publication is available for 15 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

SEPTEMBER 19 LAST APTITUDE EXAM DATE

That all students who have not taken the college aptitude test should do so on Saturday, September 19, at 9 o'clock a.m. in room 458, Galileo building, has been announced by the college administration. It is also pointed out that Friday, September 18, will be the last day for change of program without fines being assessed.

LAWYERS-TO-BE MEET

Jurisprudence majors and members of the Pre-Legal Society will meet in the small cafeteria at Galileo next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it has been announced.

Additional Books Force Division in College Libraries

With an influx of new books crowding the shelves, a division of college library has been necessary, according to Francis J. Colligan, librarian. Reserve, new books, and newest periodicals will be found in the library on Francisco Street, while all old books and periodicals are to be housed in the room nearest Bay Street, he announced.

All books will be in circulation one week, except those on reserve, which will be placed on the shelves under the strict supervision of instructors, Colligan said.

Both of these libraries are located on the third floor of the Van Ness Avenue building, on the side nearest that street.

Health Conditions Survey to Be Made By Weber's Class

What is believed to be one of the most complete health surveys ever undertaken by a junior college will be made this semester by Miss Verrell A. Weber's civil health class, it was learned yesterday.

Each member of the class will be assigned a certain district in the city, authorized to inspect it, and form a table of statistics showing the health and sanitation conditions existent there, Miss Weber said.

Included in this survey, she revealed, will be the following: housing conditions, sewerage, lighting, ventilation, garbage disposal, grocery store inspection, communications, vital statistics, amusement and recreational facilities, and general aspects of the district as a whole.

Variety of Lost Articles Awaiting Owners in Office

Have you lost anything? The following articles may be claimed by their rightful owners any Tuesday or Thursday after 2:30 o'clock p.m. in room 210, Galileo.

Books: Field book belonging to Floroff, English book belonging to Noel Cady, a Cappella chorus book belonging to Rosella Retallick, Master Chart belonging to W. W. Kirk, anatomy book, "Swiss Family Robinson" from West Portal branch of city library, Spanish book.

Purses and effects as follows: J. Carballo, purse; Helen Anderson, purse; Helen O'Brien, 1 pin, case for glasses, pair glasses, wrist watch, 1 compact, key ring, pair of gloves.

Miscellaneous: two girls' jackets, a shirt, Parker pencil, two Eversharps, 1 fountain pen, a string of rosary beads.

Georgina Mayer, George Kiesser Win Dance Bids

Wearing what were adjudged the most unique costumes, Georgina Mayer and Charles Kiesser won the first prizes of free bids to the Sophomore Formal at the Poor Taste Dance held recently.

Dorothy Chamberlain, winning a complimentary couvert to the Mark Hopkins Hotel, and Frank O'Connor, one to the Palace, took third and fourth prizes, respectively.

Approximately 250 couples attended the dance.

Three New Courses Now on Curriculum

Addition of two courses in languages and one in mathematics to the college curricula was announced last week by Eugenie A. Leonard, vice-president and dean of women.

Following is the information on these courses:

German A—Jensen—1—M.W.F.—303.

Spanish A—Garibaldi—1—M.W.F.—103.

Math B—Amori—9—Daily—406.

Galileo Library Is Opened to College

As an additional facility to college students, the Galileo High School library is now open to them, according to Margaret Girdner, Galileo librarian, who made possible this arrangement.

The college administration has asked its students to show appreciation for this courtesy by waiting until 2:10 o'clock p.m. before entering the high school library.

Circulation privileges will be given, Miss Girdner said, with a limit of one week on books borrowed.

PRE-MEDS MEET

Conducted under the auspices of Glenn Noble, Pi Mu Gamma, the college pre-medical society will hold its first meeting of the current semester at Galileo, September 19. This organization is open to all students taking a pre-medical curriculum.

FROM COLLEGE TO CAMP: SHARPSHOOTERS

Apparently not content with engaging in sharpshooting activities during the college semesters, members of the college Rifle and Pistol Club went almost en masse to the Citizens' Military Training Camp last summer at the Monterey Presidio.

U.C. President To Assume Duties At UCLA Institution

Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, will take over the duties of Ernest Moore, retired vice-president, at the University of California at Los Angeles, this week. During Sproul's absence his office on the Berkeley campus will be filled by Vice-President Monroe Deutch.

The University of California president will remain at the southern institution for one full semester until a man capable of filling Moore's position is chosen.

Continuous Check Service Available

Installation of a regular checking service for clothing and books on the mezzanine floor of the Powell Street building under constant supervision of Mary Thies and Ella Stobener, who will be there from 7:50 o'clock in the morning to 2:10 p.m. every day, has been announced by Paul Pitman, who is in charge of the downtown building.

"This should allay any fears of property losses," said Pitman.

Faculty Ass'n To Meet Today, 4:30

Meeting informally, the College Faculty Association will assemble in room 552, Galileo, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to the faculty bulletin. Those in charge urge all members, new and old, to be present.

Refreshments will be served during the first hour, followed by the business meeting, with the affair expected to be concluded by 6:00 o'clock, the bulletin said.

Iota Chi Gives Pledges Banquet

Giving a banquet September 11 at the Veneto for the new pledges, Iota Chi held its first social function of the current semester.

The fraternity, a social organization, welcomed the following students as pledges: Jim Gibson, Joe Kissel, Bill Cordono, Dick Wright, and John Missmeyer.

The following members were present: Fleming Pope (retiring president), Tyler McHugh, Russell Turver, Eddie Schwarz, Don Mills, Bob Sisco, Jack Conners, and Charles Kieser, the new president.

the bean, to smear juicy, succulent egg yolks all over the adversary's cocoanut.

A good old-fashioned tug-o'-war, of course, will also be featured, with water from the fire-hoses playing continually on both sides. The back breaking game of long horse (also known as sink the ship) as well as seven legged races will also help to fill the afternoon's sport and entertainment.

Even further games and events probably will be hatched by scheming McHugh and his colleagues, aided and abetted by the Men's Club's faculty sponsor, the new mustacheless Joe "Hail Hitler" Amori.

Household Society Will Meet Friday

Discussing plans for the ensuing semester, the Household Arts Society will meet next Friday in room 317, Galileo, at 2:10 o'clock p.m., according to word received from Jo Jordan, president of the group.

Those attending the meeting must be household arts students, Miss Jordan said.

Cafeteria Painted and Remodeled: Add Equipment

The walls and floors of the cafeteria at Galileo have recently been cleaned and painted to insure a more sanitary condition, according to J. Graham Sullivan, manager of the cafeteria.

The kitchen has also been remodeled and the old equipment has been replaced by new and more modern equipment to make quicker and more convenient service possible, Sullivan said.

Service Group To Start Its Rushing

Elected at a banquet held at the end of last semester, officers of the Women's Service Society are making plans for the season's activities.

These officers include Elaine Domenquez, president; Beatrice Murphy, vice-president; Betty Hyde, secretary, and Parnel Brown, treasurer. The first event on their program was a candy sale held last Friday.

Miss Domenquez announced that new members are being considered, and that rushing activities will begin some time next week.

HELP WORK UP THE SPIRIT TO AVENGE MARIN

LOOK ON PAGE 4 FOR LIST OF LOST ARTICLES

FIRST STUDENT RALLY WILL BE HELD THURS. CELEBRATING VICTORY

Celebrating the victory over St. Mary's last Saturday, and anticipating one over Marin next Friday night, a pep-rally assembly will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:45 o'clock in the Galileo auditorium, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, has announced.

Guest sport speakers from the outside are planned for the occasion, Browne said, with arrangements being made by President Archibald C. Cloud and himself.

As a feature of the program, the heretofore somewhat neglected school song will be practiced, Browne disclosed. The four yell leaders, under Head Cheerman Bob Nelson, have been working with Miss Flossita Badger, music instructor, on the song, in order to have everything in first class shape by tomorrow afternoon. Mimeographed copies of the song will be distributed at the rally, Browne said.

GAME PROMOTION

Another football game will also be subject for spirit at the rally, Browne revealed, with part of the program specially devoted to the promotion of the battle with Los Angeles Junior College, to be held Friday night, October 2, in the Victor McLaughlin stadium in Pasadena.

"Every student should attend this, our first general Associated Student Body rally," Browne emphatically declared. "From the standpoint of interest and amusement alone it will be well worth while. The most important reason for attendance, however, should be a genuine desire to cooperate with, and to help support, the activities of the college."

SWEET TO TALK

Russ Sweet, coach of the football varsity, will speak at the rally, mentioning reasons why all students should turn out in support of the team, Browne said.

To show the student body how the college song should be sung, it is planned to have Miss Badger's choir at the occasion.

The yell leaders announce that they will rehearse the students in the series of yells to be used at Marin and subsequent games.

Browne later revealed that an invitation was extended yesterday to Marin Junior College, inviting members of its student body to attend the rally here, with the possibility of the Kentfield officers addressing the local assemblage.

This rally will mark the first meeting of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College this semester.

RALLY AND DANCES ARE DISCUSSED AT EX COUNCIL'S MEET

Plans for a night rally to be held at Robert's Field before the game with San Francisco State were discussed at last week's meeting of the Executive Council.

Adolph Pedrin, Carlyle Cain, and Bob Nelson were directed to work on the plans for the event.

Donna McPherson, chairman of the social committee, outlined tentative social activities to be held during the next two months.

Management of the Sophomore Formal dance was turned over to the upper classmen, under the leadership of their president, Eddie Schwartz.

The next meeting of the Executive Council will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the library, President Bob Sisco has announced.

Sisco has already contacted the State College on the idea of the rally, and announces that he has been promised their full cooperation to make the event a traditional occurrence.

This meeting of the Executive Council marked the first which the newly elected class officers attended.

Transference of the handling of the Sophomore Formal to that class resulted in a drastic reduction of the Social Committee's budget, and that committee is expected to request an additional allotment.

Iota Chi Fraternity is to Hold Raffle During Oct.; Clothes Prizes

Raffle of new, tailor made clothes, for either man or woman, will start early in October, the affair being sponsored by the Iota Chi fraternity, Charlie Kieser, president of the group, has announced.

Tickets will be only five cents apiece, Kieser said, with the sale of them open for three weeks.

If the first prize is won by a man, he revealed, it will be a 55 dollar, tailor made suit from a well-known local establishment. If a woman is winner, the prize will be of the same value, but of feminine design and for feminine wear, he said.

The second prize was announced as a Knox hat.

The Iota Chi meets tonight at Bob Sisco's home at 8 o'clock. New pledges will be taken in at this time, fraternity officers said.

Hotel and Restaurant Students Finding Work

Several members of the hotel and restaurant management division of the Junior college have recently been employed for part time work, according to J. Graham Sullivan, instructor. These are Gene Gahard, who is working in the kitchen of the St. Francis Hotel under Chef Pierre Cretaux; Dick Purdy and Collin Obelard who are at Shiffer's Creamery on Taraval Street; and Vernon Peck who is at a Clinton Cafeteria in down town San Francisco.

DO THEY TIRE OF THE TIRES? MAYBE?

Here, in action, are two of the 38 participants in the Soph-Frosh Brawl held last Friday afternoon, along with a few spectators who seem to enjoy seeing the men writhing about in the rubber hoop. Two free copies of the Guardsman are offered to the person who can identify the pair of legs protruding from the tangle, and, as an additional incentive, it might be possible to get the detective a small section of the rope shown attached thereto.

STRIKE CONDITIONS CAUSE POSTPONMENT OF GAME AT SALINAS

Strike conditions in Salinas compelled definite abandonment of the football game scheduled there last Saturday between San Francisco and Salinas junior colleges.

The game was called off Thursday afternoon, upon receipt of word from John B. Lemos, Salinas Junior College principal, who informed Assistant Dean of Men Edwin C. Browne and Head Coach Russ Sweet that no police protection could be offered their men, and that it was inadvisable to enter the strike area.

Sweet offered to help make it financially possible for Coach Frank Powers of Salinas to bring his men to San Francisco for the game Saturday, but it was later learned that no suitable field was available, so the idea was abandoned.

At the suggestion of Paul Mohr, registrar and conference official, Sweet attempted to schedule a scrimmage with some nearby college freshman or substitute varsity eleven, and was successful in obtaining one with St. Mary's at Moraga last Saturday afternoon through the cooperation of Coach Slip Madigan and the Gael's athletic department.

Household Arts Group Scheduling Tea First

Planning activities for the term, the Household Arts society met in room 317, Galileo last Friday. First of the activities scheduled is a tea for club members only. Tentative plans were made for a weinie roast in October, and a fashion show to close the term.

Officers are Jo Jordan, vice-president; Anita De Martini, secretary; Olive Read, treasurer; and Louise Corica, ex-president.

Los Angeles Entertains Northerner

Los Angeles Junior College is planning to go the limit to entertain its northern brother before, during and after the football game scheduled there October 2 according to all indications.

Miss Flossita Badger, music instructor here, announced receipt of a request from the music department of the southern institution in which copies of the San Francisco college song were sought. The music of this song, the latter said, will be incorporated in that to be played at the dance scheduled in honor of the visitors after the game.

> "A SPLENDID IDEA"
> "I think this trip to Los Angeles is a splendid thing and I hope that plans will be perfected, in order that we may have a car full of young people, sufficient chaperonage to satisfy the parents, and that everyone may have a good time."
> —Dean Eugenie A. Leonard.

Reservations for train space on the special "Los Angeles bound" Ram train are slowly coming in, Ward Nichols, in charge of train arrangements, has announced, with possibilities of a sell-out.

The actual cost of the trip has been computed as not more than 14 dollars for everything except meals, Nichols said.

Ruth Johnson and Bill Rawson are working with Nichols in the promotion of the train trip to Los Angeles.

Rally Plan Scheduled for Ex Council Meeting

Plans for a rally and meeting of the entire associated student body will probably be discussed at this afternoon's meeting of the Executive Council, President Bob Sisco indicated yesterday.

A.W.S. WILL MEET AT CAFETERIA THURSDAY FOR PLAN DISCUSSION

Getting together for the purpose of discussing the semester's activities, the Associated Women Students of the college will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Galileo Cafeteria, according to Helen Davis, A. W. S. president.

Miss Davis urges all women to attend this meeting, particularly the new students.

"It will be their first opportunity to get acquainted with other woman students," she said, "and their first chance actually to take part in student activities."

Speaking of the recently completed recreation room in the basement of the S. F. J. C. student store, Miss Davis requested that all women enter the room through the alley along the side of the building.

The recreation room was officially opened last Wednesday, with both men and women attending the ceremonies. Refreshments consisting of ice-cream and cookies were served.

Ten New Members Join Pi Mu Gamma Society

Pi Mu Gamma, the pre-medical society, has been augmented by ten new members this term, and the new officers are already planning a series of trips and excursions.

These officers are Felix Castagnola, president; Eleanor Roach, vice-president; Virginia Robinson, recording secretary; Dolores Davis, corresponding secretary; and Ed Frediani, publicity manager.

The first field trip of the society will be held soon, and will probably consist of a visit to the morgue.

$525,000 IS VIRTUALLY ASSURED TO CONSTRUCT 'NECESSARY BUILDINGS'

With $675,000 definitely set aside for new structures in the Board of Education's '36/'37 budget, and some $225,000 reserved from the '35/'36 budget, probably an approximate million dollars for improvements is available and the San Francisco Junior College is virtually assured of $525,000 for the construction of "absolutely necessary units" to house students on its new site at Balboa Park.

This information was disclosed by Philip Lee Bush, chairman of the Board's finance committee, in an interview with the Guardsman last Monday.

Speaking of plans as they stand at the present time, Bush said:

"A tentative list of projects to be covered by the above amount was set up together with other projects, contemplating a possible allotment from the United States Government under a PWA grant.

"As soon as it is determined, if, and in what amount, an allotment is made, then the Board of Education will assign the projects to be proceeded with."

With reference to the junior college's share in these plans, Bush continued: "It was determined, however, that out of the definite money available, approximately $525,000 would be set aside for proceeding with the absolutely necessary units of the junior college.

"This practically assures that as soon as preliminary plans are approved, final construction plans will be drawn and the work proceeded with. These tentative plans are now under consideration."

It is the present understanding that these preliminary plans will be approved during the present month (September). Confidential disclosures from other sources indicate that actual, earnest construction could not begin before the first of next year.

Contrary to the prevalent public impression, the section of Balboa Park on which the junior college will be located was definitely deeded to the Board of Education for educational purposes last year, Bush revealed.

A check with the city architect's office disclosed the size of the plot alloted to the junior college at Balboa Park to be 28 acres with 1300 feet on Phelan Avenue and 1350 feet on Ocean Avenue.

With regard to the type of buildings to be erected on the site, Bush said, "The Board's intent is to adhere as closely as possible to the one story units of fire resistant construction, adopting, in general, the Mission style of architecture, subject to modifications necessary to conform to the contour of the land."

(Last semester, the Guardsman printed a copy of the tentative ground plans drawn up by the Board of Education. The full extent of the changes needed can be revealed only after the architect has completed his drafts, it is said.—Ed.)

WANT TO GET PAID? THEN PROCURE TIME SLIPS IMMEDIATELY

"All students working on the NYA must obtain time slips and return them to me, properly filled out, on or before noon, September 26."

This was the emphatic warning of Helene Turner NYA administrator in the college, to those students expecting to receive payment for the first month's work.

Miss Turner also said that she had received a communication from the WPA head, informing her that no one may earn more than $45 over a three month period.

"This means," she explained, "That no student may receive as much as $20 a month unless he is willing to receive $10 the second month and $15 the third, making a total of $45 for the three months."

(Editorial Note: Students seeking NYA employment are reminded that that source of income is only for those strictly in need of financial assistance in order to continue their education, and, further, is designed for the benefit of those who are of college caliber.

Students obtaining other employment, or in some other way removing the necessity for the government work, are requested to withdraw voluntarily from the NYA status, in order to permit more needy students to take their jobs, as available positions are limited.)

Twenty-five Members, Guests, and Pledges Attend First Banquet

Twenty-five members, pledges, and guests of the Beta Phi met at a banquet held by that fraternity last Monday night at the Veneto.

Faculty members present were Franklin Sewell, Edward Sandys, and John Soule, who all offered entertainment with extemporaneous humor.

Pledges present were Alfred Coffman, Juis De Lera, Don Mix, Allen Swope, Bill Power, Gene Munson, Willis Huson, Dick Pitman, George Giubini, and Al High.

Announcement of a fraternity dance to be held November 13 was made at the banquet.

Dining Room Service Is Feature Now at Galileo

Complete dining room service is now in progress in the faculty dining room at Galileo, J. Graham Sullivan, manager, has announced.

Members of the junior college faculty are invited after 12:30 o'clock p. m., with the dining room service continuing until 1:30 o'clock, and cafeteria service until 2:30 o'clock, Sullivan said.

EIGHT SOPHOMORES DO BATTLE WITH 30 FROSH IN TRADITIONAL EVENT

With a horde from the bleachers coming to their assistance in the tug-of-war, eight sophomores battled against 30 freshmen at the semi-annual brawl held at the Galileo field last Friday afternoon, the net result being a tie decision handed down by Tyler McHugh, president of the Men's Club, group sponsoring the event.

A unique feature of the afternoon was the fact that, in the dearth of sophs, women came to salvage the honor of their class and won the six-legged race for the second year aggregation.

The juicy egg battle ended in a tie, the tug of war went to the sophomores (thanks to the grandstanders who grabbed hold of the rope), the jostling event to the sophomores, the sock fight a tie, and the tie-up to the freshmen.

McHugh based his tie decision upon the fact that women, not men, won the six-legged race for the upper class.

Among the sophomores participating in the afternoon's activities were Mike Gararkin, Jimmie Gibson, Frank Nulton, Charlie Doudiat, Sid Farley, Joe Kissel, and Bill Cordano.

The freshmen, headed by their class president, Don Tuttle, were too numerous to mention.

NICHOLS ANNOUNCES BANK OFFICE HOURS

Located in room 260 at Galileo, the college finance office will be open to students from 2:30 to 4:45 o'clock every afternoon except Friday, Ward M. Nichols, comptroller, has announced.

Municipal Railway car tickets, University of San Francisco football game tickets, and tickets to all A.A.A. and high school charity games will be sold, Nichols said. Market Street Railway cards must be procured at car barns, he advised.

Scribe Describes Wind-Swept Balboa Park in His Meandering About the Vast Expanse of Ingleside

Although it is probable that the greater number of students now in attendance at the junior college will never be able to use the facilities planned for the Balboa Park junior college site, any who does will find one similarity in the present and future arrangements. That, namely, is the matter of hills. To be sure, the rolling-hills to be found in the park are not so great or extensive as are those in downtown San Francisco near the college, yet they cannot be overlooked or slighted after one has traversed them on foot.

The vast acreage of Balboa Park lies adjacent to Ocean Avenue and is bounded on the west by Plymouth Avenue and on the east by San Jose Avenue. It can be reached directly by the K Municipal line, and 12 and 26 Market Street lines.

Lying in a valley between Mt. Davidson and distant hills to the south, the site is seemingly protected from the harsh San Francisco elements. This, however, is not true. On the contrary, this valley constitutes an aqueduct through which strong fresh sea-breezes and bits of fog often blow.

If reference is made to the map, published in the first edition of the Guardsman, the following attempt to describe the site and its surroundings may be made clearer. Approaching the park from the east on San Jose Avenue, one sees a vast extent of level lawn over which are scattered oak trees. This belongs to the park and recreation division. It might be stated here that Balboa Park is divided into three distinct divisions: the recreation division, the park division, and the San Francisco Junior College site.

Progressing westward we find this section of the park bounded by a railroad track which cuts through the park.

From here the ground begins an upward sloping of considerable degree. The remnants of the old county jail are to be found in the form of a few piles of bricks and concrete foundations. This wrecking, as well as all work in the park, is being done by the WPA.

Here the terrain veers sharply upward and culminates in a broad peak at the top. The edge of this rather broad summit is bordered by Eucalyptus trees. Standing near a firmly set water tank we may get a sweeping view in a general easterly direction. On the left looms wooded Mt. Davidson, and its massive concrete cross, the highest point in San Francisco. Directly below, the ground slopes downward to the point where we started. Looking across the broad residential section beyond, we might, on a clear day, see a part of the bay. In the southeast corner below us lies a flat stretch of ground which was pictured last week in this publication. According to present plans, this bit of ground will remain part of the park division.

AIR MAIL LETTER TO BROWNE FROM SOUTH INDICATES BIG TIME

That plans for the reception and entertainment of San Francisco Junior College football players and support are going smoothly at the Los Angeles end, and will provide a maximum of interest during the brief stay was practically assured in an air mail letter received by Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men here, from Kenneth M. Kerans, dean of men in the southern institution, late yesterday afternoon.

One of the first points made by Kerans in his letter was that all San Francisco associated students cards will be honored for admission to the game without additional cost.

To give a more comprehensive idea of the manner in which they are planning things, excerpts from the letter are herewith published, (courtesy of Browne):

"Perhaps I had better briefly outline just what we have in mind for the schedule of the day: We shall meet you at the train with a bus to bring your team, coaches, and you to the junior college for a rally. We shall then take the same group to one of the movie studios for the remainder of the morning, returning you whenever you desire for luncheon. . . . After the game, the dinner at the Breakfast Club will not require trans-

APPOINTMENTS FOR EXAMINATIONS HERE

In order to complete a necessary formality, the following groups of men students have been requested by Paul M. Pitman, assistant to President Archibald Cloud, to report on the specified days for physical examinations, or else to call at room 201 between 2:30 and 5 o'clock p. m. to make an appointment:

MEN AND PICTURES

Some men, like pictures, are fitter for a corner than a full light.
—Seneca.

Ah, but Seneca forgot to qualify, to describe, his pictures.

Some pictures are poorly done pieces of attempted art, indicative of nothing worth while. These might well be relegated to the darkest, remotest corners. Aye, they might well be discarded entirely.

Other pictures, however, are of such nature as to deserve, verily demand, conspicuous placement, that the world can admire them, take inspiration, joy, from them.

Who ever saw a Van Gogh, a Rembrandt, a Michael Angelo, purposely hidden from the appreciative eye of the cultural world?

Some men, however, like a master's picture, lie hidden, unrecognized for their worth, for many years. Men, though, have distinct advantage not inherent in such inanimate objects as pictures; for, while like the artist's masterful touch, heredity may contribute much toward the making of genius, the slightest talent, the smallest intellect, may be developed, increased, improved, by man's own will power and ambition.

WHO KNEW NOT WANT, SHOULD NOT ADVISE

Among those people who have spent their entire lives in a field so much removed from direct practicality as education are often to be found those who have never been forced by sheer necessity to test the philosophies they endeavor to teach.

One cannot help admiring Marshall Maslin, syndicated feature columnist, for his outlook on this matter. "I cannot accept praise for my philosophy," he once wrote, "before I know I have earned it . . . I have been happy, I have been well, I have had friends, I have always had a job when I needed one, I have known no great tragedy, no suffering except what I have brought upon myself, I have never known months of illness, I have never been adandoned and friendless, I have far better fortune than the great majority of human beings . . . So far I have had the breaks of luck.

"Can any man who has lived that sort of life, a life that has made no extraordinary demands upon his wisdom or his courage, accept praise for his 'philosophy', blandly, smugly, as though he had properly earned it?"

What more need be said?

OUR THANKS TO THE GAELS

Getting the best work-out they have had this season, the college football men held a snappy scrimmage last Saturday at Moraga against Slip Madigan's second raters.

No one has suggested an editorial expression of thanks, but such is, nevertheless, desirable. It was a splendid act of courtesy and generosity for Madigan and the St. Mary's athletic department to make possible this arrangement at the last minute, when, because of strike conditions in Salinas, the Rams' originally scheduled game there had to be postponed indefinitely.

While speaking of football, a word of praise to the local players is in order. Most of them will admit that last year there was considerable horseplay, and that a few of them were playing not for the team, but for their individual glory.

This year there seems to be a different story. In every practice, even, a genuine spirit prevails, a spirit that means 100 percent team cooperation from each player, a spirit that indicates that each is out on the field for the sheer joy of playing football, win or lose, glory or relatively little recognition.

Boasting such a spirit as that, the college can look forward to a reasonably successful season, a season that can be considered successful regardless of where the Rams are rated when the final conference tally is made.

HAMMER AWAY AT IT

Slowly more definite plans and arrangements for the construction of a college building are being made. Such major enterprises no doubt must move slowly, if only because of their sheer size and importance.

It is a well-known fact that the Board of Education and all concerned with the idea are working as rapidly and efficiently toward the desired end as is physically possible.

Despite this, it might not be a bad idea if every student of this college would write a letter, and have his parents do the same, to the Board, telling his ideas and impressions of the matter as it stands.

Needless to say, most students here will probably not ... ne new building. Only pure selfishness and ... ness, however, could make a student uncon... ...rug his shoulders and pay no attention to the need of the structure.

HAMMER AWAY AT IT, DRIVE THE IDEA PERMANENTLY HOME!

THE BULL SNORTS — BOHEMIAN COFFEE POLITICS

Truly Bohemian is San Francisco. A walk down Powell Street from the top of the hill, going toward Market Street, any night will convince the skeptic of this. Men dressed in everything from full dress to dungarees can be seen, and what a cosmopolitan collection!

It is indeed a great city for the dreamer, the imaginer, the lover of romance that can be conjured by the philosophic, meandering mind. But, darn it, the landlords are not built that way, and a versatile, dreaming imagination will not earn a living, except in the rare cases, where, backed up by considerable talent, it engages in highly prolific production.

Bob Spenser, an ambitious and talented brother newspaper man, is now connected with a rather large weekly sheet across the Bay, and at the same time is still here at college with us. Good luck, Bob, you are doing a nice piece of work.

Another Bob who we feel deserves credit from our standpoint is President Bob Sisco. He always turns in his column to us far in advance of our dead line. On the strength of that virtue alone he should make a good newspaper man. (Ah, how well we remember those brain struggles, those mental anguishes, that Ex-President Maury Schwarz suffered last semester in his attempts to write a column. May State appreciate your unbounded ambition, Maury!)

* * * *

Coffee is an interesting subject. Alongside of our typewriter is a cup of the beverage, although if we hadn't brewed it ourselves, we might have a few doubts as to what actually is in the cup. It looks like a seething sticky brown mess seen in a mud-hole near a geyser or hot spring. Yet we know it must be still drinkable as the batch from which it came has only been re-heated three times today.

You probably think that a cup of coffee is hardly worth writing about do you not? Think again however. Look into your own cup of brew, as though you were looking into the fortune teller's crystal. Can you not see the past, the many times when you have discussed the world's and your own problems with a congenial friend over many cups of coffee in a small restaurant? Can you not see the group of earnest young philosophers with whom you used to ponder nightly on what seemed to you all to be grave matters? Or perhaps, it is that intelligent little girl that you see there, the one whose tastes always seemed to adopt themselves to the condition of your pocket book, but who is now but a dim vague memory.

Whoah, there—we are apt to be giving away secrets. You look in your own coffee cup not in ours.

* * * *

We discussed the political situation with a slightly inebriated lady on Powell Street the other evening or perhaps we should say she did the discussing and we did the listening. he would have us believe that Roosevelt is heading the Socialist Party and that Earl Warren is going to be elected as a Democratic senator. Finally we could stand it no longer so pedantic were her words, and became a bit sarcastic.

"Say, I don't like the way you're poking epithets at me," she indignantly, although perhaps none too coherently, complained.

"Do you know just what an epithet is?" we innocently inquired.

"Sure," she replied, "it's one of those things they stick on tombstones."

There's one for you, Webster.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

Elvira Erni, San Francisco Junior College co-ed, was stopped by the inquiring reporter of a local paper and asked her opinion of San Francisco's beach. Sez Elvira:

"San Francisco's beach is just about perfect, to judge from the comments one hears around the campus after any sunny weekend. I have just one suggestion: Why not put in some extra pedestrian subways to make it easier for people who have to park their cars on the city side of the great highway?" Nice going, gal!

* * * *

The Women's Service Society decided that the teeth of our students must have grown sweeter during the vacation (or maybe it's just the influence of football season—"Sweet"—catch?) anyway, they held a candy sale last Friday instead of feeding the customary doughnuts. President Elaine Dominquez announced that the organization is planning more such sales later, so hang on to that nickel!

* * * *

Have you all met Halene Turner, new NYA director? If not, you should drop around and get acquainted, for she's nice people. Former assistant dean of women at the University of Arizona, Miss Turner has taken over the duties of Edith Pence, who, incidently, is at the new George Washington High School.

* * * *

A certain gal (yes, she goes here) was taken by the boy-friend to a Fisherman's Wharf restaurant for a shrimp cocktail. Upon entering the place, the young man very impressively announced that it was owned by Joe Di Maggio's brother. he was silent for a moment, then, brightly, "Oh you mean Joe Di Maggio, the big FOOTBALL player!" (And she was serious!!

* * * *

What has become of Elizabeth Yates, Pam Spaulding, Bernelyn Seymour, Helene Wright, Arlene Frazier, Ethel Clarkson, and Jane Neal? These women, all prominent in student body activities last semester, seem to be among the missing. We hear rumors of wedding bells for Miss Neal, but Brother Bob, when cornered, won't talk.

* * * *

Our very best hat (the one with the feather) goes off to the women who were responsible for fixing up the A. W. S. social room, down at Powell Street. Opened officially last Friday, with ice cream, cookies, and lots of visitors, this room is indeed something to behold. Brightly painted furniture, plenty of shaded light, gay cratonne curtains in fact, just about everything that goes to make up real comfort. In view of the fact that the room is not meant for a study hall, but as a social room where women may lounge between classes, the A. W. S. is planning to purchase a radio. As the money alloted has been spent for furniture, the women are taking contributions, so save your spare pennies and drop them into the little box in the social hall, or give them to any A. W. S. officer.

PRESIDENT TALKS OF FUTURE EVENTS

By Bob Sisco

The first oficial ex-council meeting was held last Wednesday, at which time we discussed the trip to Los Angeles. To those students fortunate enough to be able to go, twenty dollars will cover all expenses including meals, lodging, entertainment, and admission to the game. Our new rally committee will be headed by Bob Nelson, to be assisted by Dean Browne, Joe Amori, Deming Smith, Jim Fahn, and our new assistant yell leader, Dave Lee. If anyone has any ideas on how and when we can hold rallies, I would greatly appreciate it if he would get in touch with either Bob Nelson or myself.

Eddie Schwartz, our newly elected High Soph president, has started work on this year's Soph Formal, and from advance notices, it looks as thought this semester's affair will surpass any held thus far.

A little advance notice to the men: better start training for this semester's boxing championships, as Ty McHugh has started making arrangements for the bouts, the admission to which will be free with A. S. cards. Sign-ups begin now with either Ty or myself.

BOB.

JUMPING ABOUT

By Fleming Pope

It is high time that something was done to acquaint everyone with the fact that there is a San Francisco Junior College, and that some day, according to present plans, it will be located at Balboa Park.

Last week, we were out there looking over the grounds. No one seemed to be able to tell us just where the building was going to be erected. We did, however, manage to find a place that showed some activity. Asked if that were ground work for the junior college a workman replied;

"Wall, I don't know. This is supposed to be a green house for the World's Fair...Maybe they're going to make a college out of it after the Fair is over."

The English people have at last become conscious of the modern age—that is to say, in the field of divorce. The passsing of a recent British law has made it possible for a man to get a marriage annulment on the grounds of the following if used by the fair sex to win the male's affection: cosmetics, dyes, high heels or casts.

While jumping through a recent Hearst publication, we found, cleverly hidden on the front page, Hearst's wordy editorial in ostensible answer to the president.

A stranger, who, not knowing the Hearst type of publicity (is there such?—if so, the lucky man!) would believe that President R. was employing that allegedly dreaded menace, communism, to devour the American form of government.

Any person or persons in public office should be open to criticism, but when a type of person as Hearst suggests that the President of the U. S. is of such dubious character, one begins to wonder what next.

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

It appears to this writer that in the fast tempo of our daily life, too many of us are overlooking the proper technique one should use in abusing the English language. You'll hear a person say, "this here," and invariably follow it up with "that," when, to be consistent, "this here" should be followed by "that there."

Then there is the matter of the dangling participle; upon close inspection you will note that that the average person will use the dangling participle only every other time, where in any well mis-written article, all the participles will invariably be hanging by a comma.

No one can boast a complete working knowedge of the English-as-it-shouldn't-be-written-language without a full understanding of the split infinitive. The infinitive, in the hands of an experienced writer, may be misused as much as any part of speech in the tongue. To properly split (that was a good one) one's infinitives takes years of practice, in order to gain that ease and lack of self-consciousness which is the mark of the tyro.

The last bit of advice for the three readers of this column (the writer, the editor, and the proof reader) is to make full use of the pun. This devilish little part of speech has wrecked more friendships, and caused more people to go raving mad, than any other device known to literary men. Those of the fourth estate, who continue to thrust these insidious little bits of writing upon their unsuspecting readers, will no doubt reap their just reward in a special Hades for authors. If you will be careful to inject a pun into the conversation at every opportunity, you will notice a growing frigidity in the attitude of your friends, and very shortly even the janitor and elevator-boy will avoid conversing with you.

Diary of a Collegiate Journalist

"What is this?" he crudely demanded.

"This is the Columbia Broadcasting System," I replied, flashing my rapier-like wit.

His face turned the exquisite violet of the Hickville sky at twilight, as he bawled that he was coming in after me. I ignored this with dignity, remembering the silver loving cup I had received not two months earlier as winner of the aquatic race annually held by the Ladies' Literary Society and Shakespearean Club, of which I am a member.

I shall pass over the humiliating experience of being arrested by this ungallant officer, dear diary. Suffice it to say that, like any common criminal, I was forced to spend the night behind prison bars. In the morning, my dear father arrived in town to obtain my release. Incidentally, he informed the authorities that we of Hickville do not tolerate such treatment, and he was promised an investigation.

Sept. 10—Today was my first day at college after the five-day vacation so generously allotted to us by the Board of Education. Meeting by chance our editor and chief cynic, William Rawson, I related my sad experience. He listened expressionlessly throughout the pitiful tale. Finally he was moved to make a remark. Expecting an expression of sympathy to fall from his lips, I waited breathlessly for his comment and was rewarded with the muttered sentence, "Get busy and write a story about it. G'wan now!"

WE WOMEN

Sept. 7—Labor Day, ah, Labor Day! At last you have arrived. I shall spend this glorious, sunny day among the flowers and birds communing with nature. I shall have much to tell you, dear diary, when I return.

Sept. 8—Ah, dear, dear, diary, what a disturbing holiday this has been! What was meant to be a lovely idyll has become a horrid nightmare.

The spot I chose for my picnic is lovely place called Spring Valley. On this piece of land are several beautiful lakes.

Having partaken of luncheon, I determined to plunge into the adjacent azure pool and swim about, as it were. Accordingly, I left my clothes on the bank and gracefully leapt in. At this point a member of the state highway patrol appeared on the bank.

ODE TO COIT TOWER

Shining shaft of light atop the hill,
 Symbol of radiant beauty, there is gleams;
Standing silent in the night, until
 The dawn to reach and catch the sun's first beams,
Which come to rouse the city from its dreams.
 Ever pointing skyward like a finger
That beckons, and the raucous seagull screams,
 Wheeling through the wisps of fog that linger,
O'er Telegraph the hill whence former came
Those signals giving to the spot its name.
 So rise, O wondrous tower in your might,
And contemplate those mortals bright in fame,
 Who, toiling, raised you to your noble height.
 You face the world an awe inspiring sight.

FASHION FLASHES

Reading before hand, in magazines and newspapers, just what the well dressed Co-ed will, or will not wear, is all very interesting but the only really authentic source of information is the college campus itself.

Looking around during the first few days of school we discovered that the women of the San Francisco Junior College know what is being worn and just how to wear it!

Sweaters and skirts, long and accepted college "uniform", are very much in evidence. A striking change from last semester is the addition of belts and scarfs to the plainer sweaters, which gives an opportunity for many interesting color combinations. Some particularly pleasing outfits combine yellow with brown, red with grey, pink with navy and black with green. In all of these, the belt and scarf are of the darker color, but this procedure may be reversed with favorable results.

There are many tailored suits being worn, mostly in grey or navy, and many contrasting skirts and jackets in checks or plaids.

Long sleeved wool dresses, in the new rich Fall shades, are favored for the cooler days, and many of these are trimmed with touches of soft velveteen. There are lots of plaids found among these, which is probably because of the "Mary of Scotland" influence which is so prevalent in the Fall fashion set up.

Hats (if you wear 'em at all) are either of the soft, squishy, beret variety which

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

There must be something wrong. One can walk down the street in comparative safety; the bank and civic buildings are still intact; the average American, as a matter of fact, has never seen a bomb explode.

All these things, however, must be happening. One reads the Hearst publications, and receives the impression that every stranger, and even some of one's friends, must be an anarchist of the worst sort. Everything that is not strictly Hearstian seems to be brilliantly red—at least so Hearst seems to say.

RIDICULOUS?

Convulsions resulted upon reading the other day the following bit of patriotic writing ostensibly done by the notorious Willie Randolph H.:

"And as I am not a shifty, prevaricating politician, but for over fifty years have endeavored to serve my country as an honorable and patriotic journalist, I am compelled in fairness to my readers to tell the truth."

That is really funny.

LET THINGS COOL

A wise man is Attorney James Davis of Yreka. He has asked the state to prosecute the now notorious Brite brothers on charges resulting from the triple slayings reportedly committed by them.

Davis may save his local prestige by so doing, and at the same time avoid possibilities of having to consider popular demand as contrasted with a sense of justice.

It might be wise, also, to postpone trial a few months for the same reason, as by that time the Yreka lynch-mad group may have made humanitarian matters of which to think.

RULE BRITTANIA—MAYBE

Rumors of a planned pan-Arab federation to combat British interests in the near east have come from that mysterious section of the world.

With the ever increasing need to pay more attention to domestic matters, and less to foreign, England has slowly been losing its world monopoly. In addition to that, the world is rapidly becoming disillusioned concerning the notion that the king of England is the next thing to a deity.

Perhaps it will not be long before the old campaigners will be singing Hail Brittania with a catch in their throats, tears of memories about a glory that is gone—and gone for evermore.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Vaudeville Steps Out of Past

Vaudeville, the type that brings a wave of nostalgic memories to San Francisco, has been revised by the Federal Theatre Project and is playing now at the Columbia Theatre with all its old-time trimmings.

When the curtain was rung down in the old Orpheum Theatre in June 1929, it marked the end of the vaudeville circuit and the extinction of the strictly vaudeville shows.

Under the direction of Max Dill, the performance reconstructs this type of entertainment almost entirely in its original style. As such, it will make no definite contribution to the modern theatre world.

On the 12-act bill, there is included a moving picture of Charles Chaplin made in 1913. His comedy was fully appreciated, and it is within reason to say that it will be time-enduring. This picture is definitely one of the two high-spots of the show. Chaplin, as the heavy, is as much a delight to witness today as he ever was. It was amusing to note how flat the suspense of the auto-race, about which the old picture concerned itself, fell, when the star was not in the scene. It is unfortunate that the film records of this genius of comedy and pantomine are not better.

The other oustanding feature is the appearance of Willa Hope Wakefield, who was idolized by San Francisco in the days of the old Orpheum. It was apparent even to those who had never had the pleasure of seeing her in the days of her stardom that here, indeed, was a lovable personality and a grand trooper.

In addition, a variety of entertainers give performances, which, though in the main not equal to the modern standard to be found elsewhere, are enjoyable. After all, the worth of a presentation depends upon the amount of pleasure it gives and, in this respect, this revival justifies itself.

RAMS DEFEAT GAELS: MEET MARIN NEXT

RAM-blings

By Don Mix

King Kong Smith, the Montana Wildman, refuses to wear a helmet in the scrimmages—what a hard head that boy must have!

Ed Englehoffer has become the idol of the Lamb's squad since his rise to a varsity berth. The Ramlets are working on the theory, "If he can do it so can we."

One of the week's clever remarks was recorded when manager Carl Clark saw a very demure looking "goof" squad trotting across the field to scrimmage with the varsity and remarked, "There go the Lambs to the slaughter!"

Is it true that Bill Dolman qualifies as the varsity's leading Adonis? Well, we've heard rumors.

This department tabs the tow-headed Andy Oddstead as a top rate guard. His defensive work has the fire of a real footballer, and when he picks up a little experience, Telesmanic, Kremesac, and company will have a real battle on their hands to keep their starting jobs.

There is a real opening for some potential athletic stars on the soccer squad. How about it, you broad shouldered boys who profess a distaste for football?

If you see an empty football suit wandering aimlessly about the football field, be sure to look closer, because it will probably be "Demon" Smith, the mighty atom of the grid.

One of the most enthusiastic supporters of the Ram gridders is Forest Morrison's Dad. Mr. Morrison has been in attendance at every practice session held by the squad, and through his connections with the Southern Pacific Railroad has been instrumental in obtaining special rates for the Los Angeles trip. How about a big cheer for a real Ram football fan?

SIDELINE SLANTS

The Rams came out of the fog in no uncertain way last Saturday afternoon, when they travelled across the Bay to the barren hills and dales of the Moraga country surrounding St. Mary's College.

One team played the entire first half, and at the end of it the men were quite willing to quit. Of course the fact that some of them might have been at a local hotel the previous evening couldn't have had anything to do with it. It was all because of the heat. We'll swear it was hot.

More Speed

The men were surprisingly free from apparent nervousness, considering that it was their first encounter of the season, and that they do not play around with midgets over in Gael land.

Some of the Rams appeared to even better than they were at any time last season. Tom Mauer dug in with a greater pick-up than he had previously avinced, and picked up some good yardage through line plunges.

Wild Man OK

Dave "King Kong" Smith, the wild man from Montana who thinks that football is about the only thing for which life is worth living, was not at all phased by the appearance of the Irish giants, and quite went to town on them.

The Pedrin brothers, as usual, looked good, with Adolph right in there every time a play came toward his end. Between him and Glen Allen at the other end, the Gaels just couldn't find time for passing, and their kicking was greatly jeopardized by George Pedrin and Smith.

Rather Small

Wunderling displayed some nice, down-low, efficient tackling. He stopped them the way we like to see them stopped.

Tony Scafani did all right, but he was somewhat small for such big competition. As a matter of fact, whenever we see a high kick coming toward him, we expect him to go over backward when the ball socks against his chest, where he usually seems to catch it. He is good enough in the open field, but too light in close quarters.

Keep Heads Shrunk

From the above it might be gathered that the Rams are a pretty good outfit this year. Take it easy though. They are fairly good considering the earliness of the season and if they keep their heads and present spirit they'll keep right on getting better.

After all, however, they have yet met only a third string college varsity and a first string freshman team, neither of which could be expected to be any better than they.

Let's impale those Mariners on the old Ram's horns next Friday night, boys!

LOCALS LOOKING GOOD FOR FIRST HARD WORKOUT

By Bill Rawson

Scrimmaging with the St. Mary's freshmen and third string varsity football squads, Coach Russ Sweet's San Francisco Junior College Rams came out on the long end of a 12-0 score at Moraga last Saturday afternoon.

Both scores were made in the first half, against the third string Gael varsity, while the freshman team held the San Franciscans to an even game in the second half.

The initial touchdown was made on a pass from George Clarke to Glen Allen, with the scoring position made possible by the interception of a Gael pass by Clarke on their 40 yard line. Clarke ran the ball back to the 25, where line bucks, principally by Tom Mauer, fullback, carried it to the 16

PASS BOOSTED

On the fourth down, Clarke passed. A St. Mary's back field man touched the ball with his fingertips, serving to boost it into the arms of Allen, who was standing in the clear, almost in the end zone.

Early in the second half, Dave Smith broke through to block a punt of Wally Smith, St. Mary's half, with Allen recovering. Allen lateralled to George Pedrin, who advanced to the Gael's nine yard line, where the Rams lost the ball on downs.

PUNT AGAIN BLOCKED

The Gaels attempted to kick out of danger on the first down, but G. Pedrin broke through to block the punt, and recovered the ball behind the St. Mary's goal line for the second score of the game.

Both attempts at conversion, made by G. Pedrin, failed.

Both colleges opened the second half with entirely new teams, the Gaels using their regular freshman squad. Only once in this period did either team threaten the other's goal. This was in the last quarter, when, after a series of successful line bucks and off-tackle plays, the Gaels fought their way to the Ram's 25 yard line. A forward pass carried them to the nine, but the play was called back and St. Mary's penalized 15 yards for holding.

BETTER THAN SALINAS

They kicked on fourth down, putting the Rams back on their own 10. Tony Scafani, local quarterback, punted back to mid-field, where the playing was centered for the remainder of the game.

Playing under a warm afternoon sun in the Moraga Valley, the Rams received their first real work-out scrimmage of the season. Coaches Sweet, Jack Gaddy, Lee Elsan, and Dutch Conlan concurred in the opinion that the tussle with the Gaels was probably better practice for their men than the originally scheduled game with Salinas would have been.

MEET OUR LITTLE CAMERA CHASERS

Our photographer has her troubles. One of them, as far as football pictures are concerned, is to get the burly gridman to pay attention to the game instead of looking at the camera (or is it the photographer?) Anyway, here are a few of them in action displaying very vicious grimaces. As so often seems to be the case, some of our sports assistants are at the wrong place at this writing, so we can't give you the names of the above gents.

Soccer Squad Defeats Galileo Lions as Lim, Johnson, Evans Score

By ED TALAVERA

Experience playing a major part, the Ram soccer team inaugurated the season with a victory over Galileo Lions by a score of 3 to 0 at Galileo field last Friday.

Soon after the opening whistle, Lim, Johnson, and Evans penetrated their opponent's goal in rapid succession.

In the second half, the Rams constantly peppered the Lions' goal, but were unable to score. The Rams were undoubtedly the better team, having possession of the ball throughout the game.

Although winning by a decisive margin, the Rams were weakened by the loss of Don Leed, right wing, who has been forbidden by the doctor to play for six months because of a weak heart, and goalie Jublonsky, who failed to appear.

For the winners, Klebanoff, Evans, Johnson and Lim, substiute center forward, were outstanding on offense. Neilson, subbing for Jublonsky at the goal, made many substantial stops. For the Lions, Hale, Gregoroff and Sallabery played exceptionally good ball.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

Our sports program this semester compares favorably with that of any college of similiar size—a large statement considering the S. F. J. C. is just a little over a year old. The activities offered last semester were adequately varied, but they have been augmented for the fall term by three new sports, swimming, fencing, and vollyball, and axtra sections of riding, dancing, and archery. Even the nonathletically inclined should find in this impessive array at least two of interest.

Probaly taking their cue from women boxers and football players, 35 men have signed up for an archery club. to be coached by Miss Weber . . . There's still time to sign up for a WAA sport. The sign-up sheets ara in Gym A . . . Those Y. W. C. A. bathing suits bear a striking resemblance to grandmother's winter underwear . . . There's a WAA fencing class on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:30.

TENNIS HALL OF FAME

Pardon the slightly elaborate title, but some of our outstanding women tennis players deserve a lot more than mere written praise. The talented athletes are: Gloria Stockhansen, Gladys Popp, Anita McKay, Taneko Amemiya Olive Reed, Caroline Orginos, Lucille Jung, and Joyce Lowe. They're all good sports and swell players.

In response to the many inquiries by new students as to the why and wherefore of crowds of females in riding habits roaming around Powell Street, yours truly, as usual, comes through with the lowdown.

Every Firday afternoon, from 1 to 5, the gals, as you may have suspected, ride from the Stanyan Street stables through the park to the beach and back.

. . DOLPH DECLARES . .

The varsity took the Gael reserves by the identical score of the first game last season. Here's hoping it's the start of a better year.

The Gaels remarked about the blocking ability of Glenn Wunderling. They probably couldn't see Stubby behind the line of scrimmage.

Further to acquaint you will the players, we shall give you a few of their tacked-on monickers. There is FLAT-FACE Englehoffer, SHEEPHERDER Smith, LONGHORN Jambruno, SNOWFLAKE Clarke, and the twins SNUFFY and STUBBY, otherwise known as Scafani and Wunderling.

We pick the RAMS to win 13 to 0 over Marin.

We extend best wishes and success to BUD McSWEENEY, ex-sports editor, who is now attending La Verne college. A good writer, a good fellow, and one of the better wise crackers—that it BUD.

Russ Sweat is still trying to pick a first string.

The hardest worker on the football field is the manager, BERTOLUCCI has trouble enough trying to keep the boys contented, yet finds time to act as Associated Student Body treasurer.

After visiting some of our old friends over at Moraga, we have come to the conclusion that we would like to spend the better part of our college years at junior college. We enjoy our freedom, but not in such doses that the wide open spaces are continually with us.

JUMBO JUBLONSKY was soraly missed by the soccer team in its last game, but he was a valuable asset to the Flying Lambs on the same afternoon.

RED LOWANS, all conference forward last year, is expected back in the college soon. His return will strengthen the team, and assure us of another championship.

Looking over our basketball prospects, how can we miss? The returning vets are Carlyle Caine, Paul Ribben, Bill Glynn, Lowans, and Ernie Loustalot. The addition of Chubby Kotta, formerly of Galileo, will round the team out nicely.

Flying Lambs Battle to Scoreless Tie with St. Ignatius High Gridmen

By George Pedrin

Fighting a strong St. Ignatius High School football varsity, the Flying Lambs battled to a scoreless tie last Friday at the USF Field.

The Lambs had one opportunity to score, when the Wildcat safety fumbled a kick on his own 10 yard line, and the college recovered. Four smashes at the line, however, brought the Lambs only to the five yard line, where St. Ignatius took possession and kicked out of danger.

Thumbs Down On Golf: Recreation Commission

Golf classes under the direction of Jack Gaddy, instructor, have ceased to exist because of complaints of the San Francisco Recreation Commission.

The reason for the action was unknown aven to Coach Gaddy, so now the men students will confine themselves to playing indoor baseball, touchtackle, and basketball.

GRIDDERS PREPARED TO AVENGE DEFEAT OF LAST SEASON'S GAME

In a mood to avenge last year's defeat of 19 to six, Russ Sweet's gridders will travel to Kentfield to take on Marin Junior College in the first conference game in the short history of the San Francisco institution.

With the Mariners rated as the proverbial dark-horse, little can be said of their team, except that it is not considered as one of the major opponents for this season's conference competition.

After having shown to good advantage in the scrimmage with St. Mary's reserve and freshman squads last Saturday, the Rams are generally accepted as the favorites for Friday's encounter.

Although San Francisco Junior College has in the past played conference teams, this year marks the first in which the college is itself an official contender for the league's football title.

Breaks in favor of Marin were geneally accredited as major factors that gave the Kentfield aggregation victory last year. A blocked kick and a fumble gave them their first two touchdowns, with the third the result of a forward pass.

This time, however, the Rams will probably display a line that will hold the opponents until kicks are executed, and fumbling, according to present indications, should be at a minimum.

WEAK ON PASSES

One factor that may be much to the local's disadvantage is a seemingly still weak pass defense. This week's practice, however, may have eliminated that trouble.

With only this one regular football game behind them, the Rams will travel to Los Angeles the following week-end to play the Los Angeles Junior College Cubs in Victor McLagien stadium in Pasadena. This game was originally scheduled for the Rose Bowl, but later changed. The McLagien stadium is one of the latest and most modern in Southern California.

After the southern encounter, the San Franciscans will have what has become almost a traditional event all ready, the "little big game" with San Francisco State.

Then the Rams will again battle for conference honors when they meet Murius MacFadden's San Mateo Bulldogs October 16, followed the following week by a game with the reputedly strong Modesto eleven.

GET BREATHER

Sweet's men should get a conference breather after the Modesto game, when they meet the Santa Rosans on their home field October 30.

The respite will be brief, however, as Armistice Day will see the Rams trying to butt the Panthers of Sacramento down the line.

Winding up the season is a game with the University of San Francisco freshmen, a game which, from all indications this early in the season, will boast considerable spirit on both sides.

If the Mariners should be chance win Friday's encounter, the Rams may not have the other conference contenders in mortal fear. If, on the other hand, the Ram's come out on top, as they should do, for three weeks conference circles will buzz with rumors of what a push-over the title will be for Sweet's aggregation, because for that length of time the local eleven will not be meeting league competition.

UNOFFICIAL SELECTION

Although Sweet has not yet definitely decided upon a starting line-up for the Marin game, the Guardsman sport staff has taken upon itself the problem of doing this for him, although it is quite probable that he will not pay any attention to this list. Here it is:

Ends, Allen and A. Pedrin.
Tackles, Jambruno and Smith.
Guards, Kremesac and G. Pedrin.
Center, Rutherford.
Halfs, Clarke and Giusti.
Quarter, Wunderling.
Full, Mauer.

And that, my friends, shows you all that at the last minute, without any real knowledge of the situation, and a split second in which to cover up the tracks of a lagging, forgetful brother journalist, a vast amount of nothing can be said in a very lengthy manner in order to fill up gaping holes heretofore held in abeyance and expectation of the arrival of the desired material, which same material has not arrived (10:39 o'clock p. m. Tuesday night), and likewise which brother journalist (we disown him now) has not arrived.

LAMBS SCHEDULE BOASTS SKIRMISH WITH ARMY MEN

With a game against the Army at the Monterey Presidio definitely scheduled for October 17, Jack Gaddy's Flying Lambs football team may have two other minor engagements before that date, according to present plans.

Endeavoring to schedule the Balboa High School for a scrimmage early in October, and the Galileo Lions in a regular game the following week, Gaddy hopes to give his squad further experience before tackling the soldiers.

In their first game of the season, the Lambs fought to a scoreless tie with St. Ignatius High School last Friday afternoon.

Gridders Advance from Lambs to Varsity Team

Advancing temporarily, if not permanently, several members of the Flying Lambs football team have been moved to the varsity, Coach Russ Sweet has announced.

The last week saw Gene Lowenthal, half, and Andy Oddstead, guard, the beneficients of promotion, Sweet said.

Scofield Hopes to Have Crew for Columbus Day

Hoping to participate in Columbus Day activities October 12, a crew is being organized by Bill Scofield.

Last spring, a varsity crew of sorts was organized under Coach Jack Gaddy, with practice held in whale boats.

If you have BEEN TO Los Angeles

you will probably be glad of an excuse to go there again.

IF YOU HAVE NOT been there BEFORE you will welcome the opportunity to travel on the San Francisco Junior College special train.

Leaving Thursday night, October 1.

Returning Saturday night, October 3.

Price, exclusive of meals, not more than fourteen dollars.

There will be more than the game to entertain you there.

FACULTY CLUB HOLDS TERM'S FIRST MEET

Presided over by President Alfred Agosti, the Faculty Club held its first meeting of the semester last Wednesday afternoon in room 552, Galileo.

Archibald Cloud, college president, made a few opening remarks, after which Paul Mohr, registrar, explained the city pension system as it affects junior college instructors.

Vacancy of two club offices was announced, with election to be held at the group's meeting next month. Names of candidates should be submitted before the meeting, Agosti said.

Tea and cake were served at the meeting, with John Gifford's hotel and restaurant students preparing the refreshments and dispensing them.

portation, as the club adjoins McLaglen Stadium.

"We should like to make the dinner complimentary to all who accompany you, but the thing gets just a little bigger than it is possible for us to manage. We are therefore limiting the free guest list to the members of the two teams, with their coaches and the members of your staff. Others, however, can purchase a ticket at the price of one dollar (the dinner is to be stag).

"... I would suggest that it would be much more convenient to have the Pullmans parked at the Glendale Station. This station is very handy to the McLaglen Stadium as well as to the Junior College.

"Officials selected for the game are James J. Tunney, graduate of Loyola, who is now teaching at Lincoln High School, as referee; C. A. Duhn, of the University of Iowa, now on the staff at Jefferson High School, as umpire; Wells, whom Ackerman has recommended, as head linesman, and James P. Armstrong, graduate of U. C. L. A., now at Manual Arts High School, as field judge . . ."

may be jammed on the head at any angle, or smartly tailored felts with bright feathers sticking out hither and yon.

Our old standby,—the low heeled brogue, with or without moccasin toes, and in all materials from rough kid to suede, is far ahead in the shoe line. Most of us have learned by now that comfort comes first when weary feet have to tramp up and down stairs, to say nothing of the good old Powell Street hill!

When chilly mornings demand the wearing of a coat, swaggers are very popular, a favorite being that made of bright colored corduroy. Wrap-a-round and polo styles are good, too, and it has been predicted that suede and leather jackets are creeping back into favor.

Simplicity is the keynote of smart college clothes and the main commandment for clothes conscious Co-eds is "Thou Shalt Not Overdress."

VOICE OF THE CAMPUS

Inaugurated perhaps a year ago, The Ram's Horn feature of the Guardsman met with considerable response. It was the opportunity for open columns for expression of student opinion.

Needless to say, the Guardsman is the official organ of the Associated Students. Every member of the student body, then, has the right to submit his or her opinions, pro or con, to the publication.

The Guardsman again invites contributions, and will publish all those that fall within the limits of common sense and decency. Although contributions must be signed, the names of the authors will be withheld upon request—and typewrite them, please.

LET THE RAM'S HORN BLOW FOR YOU.

Class Making Surveys for Course Curriculum

Surveys of various hotels and business houses are being made each Saturday by the members of the hotel and restaurant management course, with the information gathered to be used for class work, John Gifford, co-ordinator, revealed.

Three inspection trips have been made already, Gifford said. These were to the kitchens of the Mark Hopkins and Fairmont hotels, and to the National Cash Register Company, where George Clavenger Jr. demonstrated the operation of various accounting machines.

Col. Hardy and Bill Hancock Take Honor at Famous Camp Perry

Col. David P. Hardy, deputy superintendent of schools, and William Hancock, range officer for the college rifle and pistol club, journeyed to Camp Perry last summer to engage in the national shooting competitions held there annually, with the result that Hancock came back with the record of 231 out of a possible 250 in side arm contests.

Teams from the Army, Navy, National Guard, and civilian rifle clubs enter the Camp Perry tournament, considered one of the "stiffest" competitions in the world.

Hardy is reputed to be one of the best marksmen who make the annual sojourn to Camp Perry.

Group Lays Plans for Semester's Activities

To discuss social activities for the semester, the first meeting of the Society of Hotel and Restaurant Men was held Thursday afternoon, September 17, in room 104 at Galileo.

A luncheon was planned for September 19 at Grandi's French Restaurant, and committee was chosen to investigate possibilities of a barbecue to be held at a future date.

REGISTRATION CLOSED

Although registration in the Junior College closed formally for the semester last Saturday, September 19, complete figures will not be available until next week, Paul Mohr, registrar, has announced.

SITE'S ATMOSPHERE IS COMPARED WITH THAT OF NOB HILL

Eager to arrive at the actual college site, itself, we hasten over the hill, in our ground-covering journey, to stand on the western edge of the hill-top to view the future location of San Francisco Junior College. Through Eucalyptus, Pine, and Cypress trees, we see a sloping hill which ends at Phelan Avenue. Phelan Avenue is a direct route across the park. It will be the junction of this avenue and Ocean Avenue that will constitute the terminal point for entering and leaving the grounds.

On this wind-swept hill-side, steam shovels are already at work clearing level spaces. Our gaze, however, is attracted by something more impressive than this. The third geographical section of the park from Phelan to Plymouth Avenues stretches broadly before us. Its vastness is startling. Part of this, at least, will hold college buildings and probably all of the athletic fields.

In addition to the side of the hill and the land beyond, the plateau-like hilltop may constitute part of the college grounds. This is to be desired, for its unique setting will add a charming feature to the campus.

Thus we have tried to present a brief word-picture of Balboa Park and its re-location to the westerly section which will hold the junior college. According to all indications, development of the park and recreational facilities is proceeding as rapidly as is work on the college. This is important, for the adjacent beauty and convenience of a developed park will be as integral a part of the college atmosphere as Nob Hill and the Golden Gate are to us now.

Associated Women to Hold Meeting Thursday

Postponed because of last week's rally, the first general meeting of the Associated Women Students, which was scheduled for last Thursday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Galileo Cafeteria, according to Helen Davis, A. W. S. president.

HOURS ANNOUNCED

That the Junior College Library will be open every day from nine to six, was announced last week by Frances Colligan. The south library will be closed a few periods each day while classes are held there.

TEAM OFF TO LOS ANGELES TOMORROW

EAGER TO BE OFF FOR SOUTH

The Zeller sisters, Jean and Mildred, are a little sad now. They prepared to go to Los Angeles, and even got so mixed up about it all in their anxiety that they went to the depot on the wrong day, and the photographer found them there. Why are they sad? Because they must make the trip without that trainload of fellow students that was originally anticipated for the Los Angeles excursion tomorrow night.

TRAVELS TO BE MEN'S SUBJECT IN THURS. TALK

Resuming a custom established last semester, the first college assembly, in distinction to rallies, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at the Extension building in the third floor assembly room, Paul Pitman, assistant to President Archibald J. Cloud, has announced.

European travels—principally dealing with the Olympic Games—will be the subject of tomorrow's talks by Joe Amoni and Lee Eisan, according to plans, with Alfred Agosti speaking of other continental places. The talks will be of 10 minutes duration, Pitman said.

Musical entertainment has been offered for the occasion by Miss Flossita Badger of the music department, and in addition, an entirely new college song will be practiced.

"We hope, through these assemblies, to increase college spirit, and still not diverge too widely from the strictly educational features," Pitman explained, in distinguishing between the assemblies and athletic rallies.

The administration has announced its intention of sponsoring one of these assemblies at least once a month, with outside speakers in addition to those from the college itself.

Coordinator Merton Hill Visits College That He Helped in Organization

One of the men who was in "on the ground floor" in the founding and early organization of San Francisco Junior College, and who has been chiefly instrumental in securing for the college certain privileges from the University of California, Merton Hill, was a visitor here last week.

Hill, at the time of the first organization of this institution, was appointed by Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, as official coordinator between the junior college and the Berkeley institution.

Hill expressed satisfaction with the efficiency with which the junior college is conducted under such crowded, adverse conditions, but sagely added:

"It will be fine when you get your own building. What is efficient now should be almost perfect then."

Facilities at the Extension building, somewhat inadequate, though they necessity, to a large degree, have been, and still are, made through Hill's efforts.

RIFLE CLUB IS TO HAVE OPEN HOUSE; PLANS ACTIVITIES

Opening the fall 1936-1937 season with a brisk resume of summer shooting activities, the Pistol and Rifle Club met last Friday at Galileo.

Plans for the ensuing activity were discussed, with an open house, at which all students wishing to do so may shoot 10 rounds, the instruction given by competent club members, scheduled for some time next week.

That two .22 calibre and two .30 rifles had arrived, along with a quantity of ammunition, from the Benicia government arsenal, was revealed at the meeting.

Among those present at the conclave were John Stewart, president, Max Brewen, John Bennett, Paul Bennett, Chris Hamett, Bradley Schwarz, Jerome Lippmann, Roger Gilmore, Don Smith, and Barbara Luce.

Closing with a pledge to make this year's organization even better than last, and to conduct two five man team matches before Christmas, the meeting officially adjourned, to re-convene officially Friday, October 9.

Amen, Prof-I Mean A Men Students-Apple Polishers

Around noon time who wouldn't accept a big shiny, red apple?

And that's exactly what Professor Robert Parker did upon entering his history 49 class and finding this luscious fruit upon his desk with a note securely pinned on with the words, "From your 'A' men students."

While shining the red pippin on his coat lapel, Parker was surprised to see Walter Forbes, "chem" professor, eyeing the bit of fruit with a watering mouth. Sauntering over to his friend, Sir Forbes deftly pulled out a penknife and offered the owner, Mr. Parker, half of the apple which now had a brilliant crimson glow. It seems the history teacher had not had a bite since early morning and refused the offer flatly. Exit Walt Forbes, still hungry.

Now, what about the class? Their laughter, heard in the vicinity of Union Square Park, was abruptly stopped by the voice of Robert Parker who remembered that he had forgotten to thank the kind donor for saving him lunch money.

JAPANESE STUDENTS INITIATE SEVERAL MEMBERS INTO CLUB

Holding its frosh reception Saturday evening, September 18, at the Japanese Y. W. C. A., the Japanese Club initiated the following new members:

Jimmy Gozawa, Tomoya Hata, Albert Iida, Edward Ino, Toshizo Iwata, Yoshi Kawaguchi, Yoshio Kono, Lillian Moriwaki, Vernon Nishi, Joe Niki, James Oka, Sachi Okazaki, Yeizo Shiota, Harry Takahashi, Joe Takahashi, Bob Uyeda, and Yoshio Watanabe.

Members attending the affair were: Tane Amemiya, Martha Fujita, Hidekazu Hayashi, Eiko Hosoi, Hiroshi Kanda, George Kyotow, Chieko Matsueda, Willie Nieda, Yoshio Ota, Dorothy Takechi, Tomi Takahashi, Kazuo Torieda, Nobuko Yamada, Kazumi Yamamoto, Verlin Yamamoto, and Teru Kemba.

Kazumi Yamamoto and Tane Amemiya, men's and women's vice-president respectively were in charge of arrangements.

Women Acquire Catcher

Improving upon the old one about building a better mouse trap than your neighbor, the Associated Women Students have acquired a human mouse-trap in the form of "Snoopy," a non-descript kitten who now makes his home in the A. W. S. Social Hall at Powell street.

Snoopy, whose ancestry is doubtful, but who is, nevertheless, a gentleman through and through, owes his discovery to Ruth Johnson, who found him prowling around in back of the book store (The cat, not Ruth!)

He spends the greatest part of his time curled up in the most comfortable chair in the room or on somebody's lapl and contentedly laps milk from his own private dish which is kept filled by the A. W. S. members.

SNOOPY

As no fund has been started yet to keep Snoopy in the style to which he is accustomed, any spare cans of cat food that you may have around the house will be greatly appreciated. After all, Snoopy's getting to be a big boy now, and he can't exist on milk alone. Want to make a sissy out of him?

Powell Street Is Scene of Shots in Harlow's New Film

It's a common occurrence to watch a variety of motor vehicles chug up the Powell street hill for should we say the jeysee campus! but it is uncommon to see movie trucks filled with cameramen and directors riding up San Francisco's most famous street, with cameras turning over as they go.

The reason for all this?

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios were shooting scenery for their new picture, "After the Thin Man," and San Francisco locations are being used.

Again the movie group was seen passing Galileo, accompanied by a squad of motorcycle policemen.

William Powell, Jean Harlow, and Myrna Loy were with the film party, but they failed to show themselves about the extension building premises, although "shots" were taken of Powell street sections.

San Francisco locations for the picture include the Coit Tower, Chinatown, the Dr Young home, and the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

NIGHT RALLY WILL HERALD RESUMPTION OF LOCAL RIVALRY

Featuring a highly touted "pep band" and several acts of entertainment, the first joint rally of San Francisco Junior College and San Francisco State College will be held Thursday night, October 9, at Roberts Field, 15th and Valencia Streets.

Endeavoring to make this a traditional event, the rally committees of both colleges have been working on plans for the past two weeks, and announce that all arrangements have been perfected.

They have announced the schedule for the evening as follows:

Coaches and captains from both colleges will speak, and the starting lineups will be announced, along with the introduction of the first string players.

The field has been arranged to accomodate all spectators comfortably, with the grandstand partitioned into separate sections for students from the respective colleges. Yell leaders will take charge of these rooting sections.

Three acts will be presented by each college, and each will offer some outside feature.

The rally will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock in the evening, and will last for a little more than two hours. Associated Students cards will be the only admission.

Leaving the South Saturday evening, the San Franciscans will arrive Rome Sunday morning.

These plans are all being handled by the men at Los Angeles, and have, for the most part, been revealed through letters sent to Edwin C. Browne, assistant Dean of Men, Edwin C. Browne, Assistant to the President, Paul M. Pitman, and other members of the administration and faculty.

CHARTER FALLS THROUGH

The original intention of chartering another car for the students fell through when insufficient paid reservations were placed to warrant such action, the administration revealed.

Greeted by a host of the southern junior collegians, the visitors will be taken by bus to the Los Angeles campus, after which they will visit Hollywood movie studios, to return in the afternoon for a rally at the college.

Following the game at the Victor McLaglen stadium in Pasadena, members of the team will be guests at a dinner held at the Beachfarst Club, which adjoins the stadium.

Others can attend the dinner at a cost of one dollar.

U. S. C. GAME SATURDAY

The visitors will have Saturday morning for amusing themselves, and in the afternoon can attend the U. S. C.-Oregon football game in the Los Angeles coliseum.

RAMS FIRM IN DETERMINATION TO GAIN BACK FAMED TROPHY

By Adolph Pedrin

Undefeated in the last two storts, the Rams depart tomorrow night in quest of the Roos Football Trophy, now in the hands of the Los Angeles

Junior College football team by dint of its victory over San Francisco last Fall.

Many sophomores will remember the "Battle of the Rain," where a break was to decide the game. The break came, but it was against San Francisco. A fumble recovered by the invaders from the South gave them the only score and the game.

ROYAL ENTERTAINMENT

The football team will be entertained royally down south, and it is the hope that the generosity of their hosts will not hinder the Rams' determination to regain the trophy.

The southern team is out to redeem itself. Defeated in its last game, it will stake everything against the Rams.

In a chartered train, 26 football players, Coach Russ Sweet, his staff, and the managers will go down on the Southern Pacific's crack Sunset Limited. On the same train, but in a different car, will be President Archibald J. Cloud, Assistant Dean of Men, Edwin C. Browne, Assistant to the President, Paul M. Pitman, and other members of the administration and faculty.

DERBY TO ATTEND

Charles Derry, editor of the Labor Clarion and commissioner for the Board of Education, will travel to Los Angeles with members of the administration of the college, it was learned late yesterday.

Derry will present the Roos Trophy again this year, with the hopes that it will go to the San Franciscans. He presented it to Los Angeles Junior College for its victory here last season.

Leaving the South Saturday evening, the San Franciscans will arrive Rome Sunday morning.

These plans are all being handled by the men at Los Angeles, and have, for the most part, been revealed through letters sent to Edwin C. Browne, assistant

BAY EXPOSITION TO BE 'MARVEL OF WORLD'

(Editor's note: Because it often happens that those living in the place where something of great interest is taking place know the least about it, The Guardsman presents here some information, compiled by Reporter Skip Irwin, on the coming Golden Gate International Exposition).

"There is only one thing the matter with San Francisco—it is a city that is hard to leave." These words were the words of Rudyard Kipling, some time ago, on a visit here.

The Golden Gate International Exposition—"A Pageant of the Pacific"—commemorating the opening of Golden Gate and San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridges, promises to be one of the most unique expositions ever held.

The fair opens on February 18, 1939, and closes on December 2 of the same year, 288 days later. The location of the grounds—man made bay—will be the geographical center of a population of 1,785,000 people.

The exposition will be held on a man-made island, connected by a causeway to the north side of Yerba Buena Island. The artificial island will boast 430 acres in area, one mile long and two-thirds of a mile wide.

Work on this island started February 11, 1936, and is expected to be completed 14 months from that date. The site involves the construction of 16,000 feet of sea-wall containing 200,000 tons of rock, with approximately 19,000,000 cubic yards of sand pumped from the Bay. This work is under the supervision of U. S. Army engineers.

It is estimated that more than $40,000,000 will be spent by San Francisco and the bay cities on the fair, with 10,000 men employed in the course of its construction and operation.

Looking into the future, the U. S. Weather Bureau expects fair weather with an almost complete absence of rain and fog-for the fair, with an anticipated wind velocity of six miles per hour.

Fair officials estimate that there will be approximately 20,000,000 people attending the exposition, with 1500 con-

THE LOS ANGELES CUB GREW UP

Los Angeles Junior College claims that its Bear Cub is plenty tough. To prove it, they sent him up to us. They must have made him walk, for it took us long for him to get here that he was almost a full grown bear when he arrived. In the growing, too, he must have lost some of his ferocity, for so tame is he now, that he lets pretty Miss Jean Cusinelli tickle his chin.

DEFINITE POLICIES ARE ADOPTED FOR COLLEGE

Three definite policies were adopted concerning the new building for the San Francisco Junior College at a meeting of the Physical Properties Committee of the Board of Education last week.

They are as follows: (1) separate gymnasiums and athletic fields for men and women, (2) use of city, instead of outside, architects as much as possible, and, (3) arrangement of the first buildings constructed in one group.

Philip Lee Bush, chairman of the committee, declared the motions, and they were adopted without objection.

Bush explained that this year's construction program will include several class room buildings, a cafeteria, administration building, laboratory structures, and athletic facilities.

The Board of Education will have approximately $900,000 for building the new structures if PWA funds are granted—or about $500,000 if they are not, it was said. In an announcement to the press last week, Bush revealed that "$525,000 is virtually assured to construct necessary buildings."

The meeting of the Board following Bush's announcement decided what buildings were 'necessary', as above indicated.

The committee, according to reports, decided that by using local architects, a substantial saving—to be used for the construction of additional buildings—could be made.

It is anticipated that actual work on the junior college buildings will not commence until 1937.

(Editor's note: The Guardsman, intensely interested in the construction of a new building for the college, last week said that it was "the present understanding that . . . preliminary plans (for construction) will be approved during the present month (September)". The meeting of the Board of Education, at which these plans were definitely approved, took place last week, after The Guardsman had learned of the contemplated meeting.)

TOUGH ON MOVIES

London is now trying to stamp out the "cockney accent" in the schools. Phonographs and records have been installed in every school to teach pupils correct diction.

LET THE MAN SPEAK

Speech is the light, the morning of the mind;
It spreads the beauteous images abroad,
Which else lie furl'd and shrouded in the soul.—Dryden.

Freedom of speech and press is written in, and implied by, the constitution of the United States of America.

There can be little doubt that much freedom and liberality is taken in some instances by those who control various presses. On the other hand, some of these same men endeavor to suppress speech and to make open statements that they deem contrary to their policies fit reason for incarcerating the ostensible offenders on charges of high treason against the State.

The average American, consciously or unconsciously, supports this attempted suppression of the right to discuss one's sincere beliefs.

Let a man even speak tolerantly of communism, socialism, or allied-isms, and his erstwhile friends shy from him, look upon him as though he were in the throes of degeneration.

Flat, bigoted condemnation of that which one considers adverse can never quell the imagined, or real, menace. Sensible, level headed consideration combined with cool, unbiased discussion, can serve better than suppression in taking a short cut to the solution of problems.

Although it is doubtful that any form of government other than that cherished by this country since its organization as an independent State would be more suitable to its people, consideration, attempted logical thoughts about others is not amiss when so many men and women are certain in their own hearts that a change is desirable.

SUPPRESSION OF THEIR IDEAS CANNOT AND WILL NOT WORK! HISTORY HAS PROVED TIME AND AGAIN THAT THE IRON FIST INVITES AND CAUSES HATRED AND BLOODSHED.

Those so-called 100 per cent Americans who see the red flag waving at every street corner gathering and immediately cry, "Away with the traitors!" are the real menaces to the peace of the citizenry. They are the iron fist in its embryonic stage.

Unless they broaden their minds, substitute brotherly love and consideration for bigotry and hypocrisy, their iron fist will, in time, find itself soaked in the blood of the American people.

BE THE SAME IN TURN

Ballyhooed as somewhat of a collossal and stupendous affair, the inter-sectional strife with Los Angeles Junior College will take place next Friday night—and it will be quite a large and pretentious affair.

When students are out of town to witness some athletic event there, they carry the generally accepted idea that they are going to have a complete, good time.

There is nothing wrong with that idea—with reservations. Last year, the Los Angeles contingency behaved itself quite well, and left San Francisco leaving behind no curses of indignation on the lips of the local residents.

It will be advisable for San Franciscans visiting Los Angeles this week-end to leave that city in the same manner that its men left the northern section.

Everyone knows what is meant. Have a good time in whatever is the customary manner, but take things easy.

LIMITATIONS OF ABILITY

Youth is forever bursting with ambition, seeking to go ahead impulsively wherever temporary desire dictates, proving, without always knowing it, the age-old adage, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

A number of activities is desirable in any college, and the advantages to be derived from participation and leadership therein are many.

On the other hand, many students do not take time to realize that in their youth there are limitations to their abilities, and that frequently their ambitions exceed these limitations.

Ponder wisely and at length, then, before plunging headlong into an affair, which, although borne of the most unselfish of motives, nevertheless may prove to be a larger piece than can be masticated with comfort.

TO THE OFFICE:

The greatest hypocrite in the world is an editor. He writes endless reams of copy advising the world, recommending how this and that bit of human conduct should be handled.

What he writes, however, seem to make little or no impression upon himself. Trying to keep a grasp on all the odds and ends, with success of his publication dependent chiefly uon the element of time, he works at high pressure, high-balling those working under him.

Naturally he chafes at delays caused by others than himself, delays which just add to the quantity of work that must be done in a short time. There are some things that can wait, that can be done tomorrow as well as today. Newspaper work, however, is not one of them.

This is not a defense, but an explanation. For lack of patience, and for impetuous action, sincerest apologies are here offered editorially.

THE BULL SNORTS
FUTILITY THOUGHT BUGHOUSE

Impetuous, philosophic, pondering youth, endeavoring to contemplate the infinite, to understand things that have troubled the sages of the ages, with no answer forthcoming.

That is not a sentence, we know, but it expresses a mood and an idea.

Our elders tells us that a few years hence, thoughts of the futility of it all will no longer bother us, and that we shall look back upon the problems of the earlier years with amusement, combined with slight mortification that we were so silly.

We Are Still There

Time and experience seem to prove this contention. Not yet having reached the age of wisdom ourselves, however, we do not see things that way at present.

The converse of what age says may well be true, and youth has every right to believe that it is. By that, we mean merely that as the years go by, man's mind may slip a bit ,and be no longer capable of comprehending any thought in the abstract—or, in truth, it may be that the mind is really afraid to do so.

Youth Fears Not

The mind of youth, not yet encumbered by responsibilities of a family or an impending one, is, in many cases, more active ,more probing.

It has truly been said that attempts at contemplation of the infinite are fairly sure methods of going the way of "Reluctantly Told." Youth, however, in its rashness and curiosity for certain knowledge, in its refusal to take things for granted, fears not, and lets its mind run the gamut of the futility, or the relative infinity, or insignificance, of it all.

End Comes Too Soon

Too soon, however, comes the end of such thought. Increased responsibilities, unconscious resignation to it all, slow down the activities of the mind. The futility of the futility of it all so overcomes the mind that it merely accepts it as a fact, and thinks no further of it.

Regrettable is this. If this mental activity stimulated by the impetuous curiosity of youth could continue for ten years, even, beyond its usual duration, who knows what infinitudes might be brought to sight, what heretofore inexplicable matters might become knowledge?

True, many would fall by the wayside, filling the state's mental institutions. What of it, though? That's a peaceful life.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

When a couple of "ladies of the press" decided to give the Guardsman editorial office a much needed cleaning, only one gentleman showed up to lend a helping hand. He was Ed. Talavera, who, despite the jeers of his fellows, gallantly consented to climb out the windows and clean them from the outside. For which, many, many thanks.

Once more he attempted to speak but she froze him with a glance. PRESIDENT TALKS OF FUTURE EVENTS

By Bob Sisco

Last Thursday afternoon we were rather fortunate in having Jack Mullin, president of Marin Junior College's student body, and captain of its football team, present at our rally, where he gave us a few words on what his team hoped to do to us.

We are trying to establish a custom with our near-by opponents on the idea of exchange rallies. As a starter, we're going to suggest one with San Mateo, and try to make it a semi-annual affair.

Those of you who are not fortunate enough to be able to go to Los Angeles this week-end have some consolation. We are working on plans for a boat trip to Sacramento for the football game there next November, and this excursion should be a lot of fun, and be easy on the pocket book.

Next Thursday night (that's the eighth), we're going to have a monster night rally with S. F. State. There will be plenty of good entertainment, and a chance to get a close-up of your football team. Admission will be free with Associated Students cards. On Friday night, the annual football game with State will take place, followed by a dance in their gym. There will be an admission charge to the dance, but I assure you that it will fall quite within the limitations of the college pocket book.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Meet My Sister

The musical comedy, Meet My Sister, with Walter Slezak and Nancy McCord, under the personal direction of Henry Duffy, is playing at the Alcazar. It is a production with a European and American atmosphere that includes good music, capable singing, and all types of comedy, in the main very amusing.

From what seems to be a rather slow start, the play develops into an entertaining bit of musical comedy. As is usual in plays of this type, the plot is simple if not a little shallow. A unique prologue and epilogue, set in a divorce court, aid considerably.

The story, in this case, deals with a countess who pursues a professor of psychology, by posing as her own fictitious sister, a working-girl.

The cast as a whole gives a good performance. Walter Slezak has a charming personality which he injects into his singing and his acting. Beautiful Nancy McCord sings very well and makes a convincing countess.

Olive Olsen, Claud Allister, and William Kent, comprising a part of the supporting cast, are worthy of mention. They make the most of limited parts, and constitute a comedy asset without which the play could not do so well. Olive Olsen, as chief comedienne, gives a performance which is both good and bad. Although her comedy was a welcome addition to the show, she has a scene, of very little importance to the show, in which she flings one flat joke after another. Allister and Kent are to be commended for their performances, which are wholly enjoyable.

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Borne in on the wings of the fog, a variety of thoughts came to us this week. For instance, we wonder why people are in such an ever-lasting hurry. Pausing in our own mad rush to nowhere in particular, we stood on a downtown corner and watched the populace go streaming by in a never-ending flood. They all seemed bent on some errand, which, if it were not immediately consummated, would result in dire consequences. From day to day, life never seems to falter in its stride, but like an endless belt, goes 'round and 'round.

In a somewhat lighter vein (after all we are not philosophers—or are we?), we give you an incident which occurred in Mr. Glenn A. Noble's Zoology 10 class the other day. The professor was engaged in a somewhat lengthy discourse on the vitamins, and what results a lack of them caused. Having explained that in experimentation on rats, it was found that a deficiency of vitamin E resulted in sterility, he prepared to take up another subject. Then from the rear of the room came the query, "Would you please explain sterility again?" Mr. Noble turned, and very dryly answered, "Just put down failure to have baby rats."

Well, we thought it was funny at the time.

Witnessing a bit of feminine sun-bathing on the roof-top across the way, we decided that dwelling on the top floor of an apartment house has its advantages. Landlords take note.

Around the town . . . like a breath from the old world, is the little sidewalk cafe off Mission Street at the rear of the Emporium . . . Walking down Washington street, a little Chinaman pauses to roll and light a cigarette, while deftly balancing on his head, a tray laden with cups and saucers . . . Riding up Powell street on the cable car and seeing the incoming fog hide the tops of the buildings on Nob Hill . . . Gasping at the speed with which the elevators whisk us upward in the De Young Building.

See you when the fog clears.

YE RAMME HORNE

Dear Editor:

I beg permission to use the Ram's Horn as a means to get something off my chest. Please understand that I realize there is little the Guardsman, or even the Administration, can do about the situation I have in mind, but perhaps the Board of Education will take a hint and—well, anyway, here it is.

Why can't some arrangements be made so that college students who happen to be over 18 may purchase car tickets? Most of the students attending S. F. J. C. are between the ages of 18 and 21 and they must fork over 15 or 20 cents a day carfare which, at the end of the semester, amounts to plenty of nickels.

Is it not possible for the Board of Education to make arrangements with the railway companies so that students presenting registration cards, signifying they are attending school, may purchase car tickets?

There could be stiffer regulations regarding the hours that the car tickets might be used, say only between seven in the morning and eight at night. This allows plenty of time for anyone to get home and prohibits the use of the car tickets for other than transportation to and from school.

I guess I've said enough or maybe too much, but I sure feel better!

Nickel Pincher.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

Perhaps the religious calamity howlers are right. It well may be that the world is now feeling the wrath of the Almighty hand, in punishment of past sins.

A glance at today's front page of a local newspaper makes the world look like an exciting place, for, within the limits of seven columns, we see that a fire is destroying two states and their respective populations (eight reported known dead), people are being killed right and left in Spain (by the right and leftists), dock peace is hoped for but not probable, there is a crisis in Palestine with martial law planned, the Vatican City was threatened by a blast, further riots loom for Salinas; and a currency war is in sight.

Ah, peaceful college life.

Approval

Sinclair Lewis' famous novel 'It Can't Happen Here' is now running in serial form in the Chronicle . It should be published in every newspaper, magazine, and school book in this country, even in the world, perhaps.

Earlier in the year, The Guardsman published a review of this book, and editorially recommended that every civic minded American read it. Now, fortunately, such an occurrence is in the grasp of all the local reading public, for they can read it on the street-car, ferry boat, and while waiting for meals. (No, we do not take subscriptions for the Chronicle).

He Will Learn

Good old Adolf Hitler came forth with another funny one about the fatherland this week. He says that in a few years Germany will be so strong that it can, and will be free and independent of the outside world in every respect.

Poor boy, he evidently has not read the history books, or else he thinks that the experience of men and nations through the centuries is nothing about which he need wory. He will learn.

ELVIRA TAKES STROLL
or the
Diary of a Collegiate Journalist

Sept. 23—Ah, dear diary, such excitement, such utterly thrilling news! I am going to our football game tomorrow night with Templeton McQuiddle, a fellow classmate. I am to meet dear Templeton at the Kentfield stadium at 7:45.

Sept. 25—My heart is sore and tired, dear diary—it is a long and sad story I must tell you. but let us begin.

At 6:30 I left my home for the Sausalito ferry. At the station, however, noticing the magnificent new Golden Gate Bridge, a wonderful inspiration suddenly flashed in my agile brain. Why shouldn't I be the first woman to walk across the Bridge? In this way I would not only not have to wait for the ferryboat, but would probably reach Kentfield much sooner.

There was a substantial catwalk, the workmen had left, and night was falling fast. All these circumstances being in my favor, I started off. All went well until a foghorn sounded on the bay below. I looked down from my precarious perch, but this was my undoing. Suddenly losing my balance, I toppled headlong into the water. What a horrible sensation!

However, with my usual presence of mind, I managed to keep afloat until a passing steamer picked me up. A most attractive picture of me appeared in a leading newspaper this morning with the headline:

ECCENTRIC CO-ED IN SUICIDE TRY
Elvira Blotz, S.F.J.C. Student, in Sensational Leap from Golden Gate Bridge

I am at present in the hospital, surrounded, dear diary, by a sheaf of gorgeous bachelor buttons sent by Templeton McQuiddle.

CONFERENCE DEBUT SUCCESSFUL; NOW L.A.

RAM-blings

By Don Mix

Your correspondent was tempted to wax eloquent in praise of our Ram gridders' victory over the Mariners, but, since seven tough foes are still on the schedule, it will suffice to say "nice goin' fellows—you looked like a real football team."

Bob Fex, of baseball fame, wants it to be understood that his presence on the football team is merely for recreational purposes. No foolin', Bob, why don't you develop some ambition—give the coaching staff a break.

Unrefined

Despite the small turnout the soccer squad has rounded into a prospectively potent aggregation, and seems destined to go places. Remember they're in the conference this year, so how about using some of your spare football enthusiasm to support this hard working bunch? Among the standouts on the squad are Evens, Klebanoff, and the all around ace "Jumbo" Jublonsky, who, incidentally, prefers to be called Morris—he thinks "Jumbo" is soooo unrefined.

The once numerous "Goof" squad (who in polite circles are called Lambs) has been badly riddled by the spectre of injuries. Ed Quirk, Merv Wiener, Bill Schoenfeld, Charley Swanson, Gil Biggs, and "Demon" Smith are all on the shelf because of various ailments that range from chipped bones to mere bruises.

Forecasting

Here's an attempted word picture of some first year men who we think are going to make good on the varsity—ROY ENGLEHOFFER—"Bubble-nose" to his friends—a husky kid with sandy colored hair and a perpetual grin on his face—a hard blocking back with a genius for signal calling.

GLEN WUNDERLING— a pudgy little package of dynamite who also stars as a blocking back—often accused of walking around on his knees—quiet and very serious about his football—the strong, silent type.

JIM WILSON—high stepping ball toter—exponent of the theory that it's easier "to run through 'em than to run around 'em"—tall, dark and handsome—truly a fine ball carrier.

ROY RUTHERFORD—a tall, rangy blonde with an inherent grace in handling the pivot position—the steady unspectacular type of footballer—should be a fixture in the varsity line.

DAVE SMITH—the Montana cattleman with a build like a Charles Atlas advertisement—his defensive work at the tackle spot stamps him as "tops"—thinks school is a bore . . . gets biggest thrill out of making life miserable for opposing ends.

Galley Slaves

The crew men have started to work in earnest with their first workout being held last Saturday. Ty McHugh leads the returning veterans, while Jerry Flann, former Cal Frosh galley-slave, appears to be the best of the new talent.

Simile—as happy as the Lamb gridder to whom the head coach happens to say hello when passing in the hall.

Recreational Games	Margaret Litchfield
Golf	Barbara Latz
Archery	Jean Leonard
Swimming	Betty Hyde
Dancing	Phoebe Watwood
Volleyball	Beth Hillyard
Riding	Dorothy Barber
Tennis	Anita McKay
Outing	June Woo

Registration of students at the University of California at Berkeley today reached a total of 14,026 for a new all-time high. The total to date is 1109 more than last year. Last year, with an enrollment of 20,388 full-time students in all of the University of California branches, the college was the largest educational institution in the United States.

LEAGUE'S FIRST IS IMPALED ON HORNS OF RAM

By Bob MacArthur

Flashing a versatile running and passing attack, the Rambling Rams downed a powerful Marin Junior College team under the lights at Kentfield last Friday night. After trailing the Mariners by a 6-0 score for three quarters, the Rams went to town in the final period, punching over two scores to win by a 12-6 margin.

Once they got under way, there was no stopping the boys from San Francisco, and at the final gun they were once more knocking at the Mariner's goal line. As your scribe predicted the Rams "drowned Marin in their own gore".

FAST ONE PULLED

Attempting to pull a fast one, Marin took the opening kick-off, and kicked it back over the heads of the Rams. The Mariners had two chances to score in the first quarter, but tight play by the Rams line stopped both threats short of paydirt. A fumble by Tom Mauer placed the ball in Marin's possession on the San Francisco 25 yard line. On the first play, Marin's All-Conference of last season, "Moon" Mullins, tore off ten yards through tackle, and a center plunge netted five more. George Pedrin threw the next play for a slight loss, but the Mariners completed a pass which brought them to the 12 yard line, for a first down. Using the now famed St. Mary's fumble play, the Mariners advanced to the 4 yard stripe, by fumbling and recovering their own fumble. Two cracks at the right side of the Ram line brought exactly nothing for Jambruno, Pedrin, and Rutherford rose up and smothered the ball-carriers. The threat ended as a last down pass fell incomplete in the end zone.

CLARKE PAINS THEM

The ball was brought out to the 20 yard line, and the Rams kicked on second down up to the Marin 40 yard line. Having no luck through the line, Marin took to the air, and saw their first pass intercepted by Glen Allen on the Ram 30 yard line. George Clarke, who, incidentally, was a thorn in the sides of the Mariners during the whole game, tore through center for 5 yards, and then Morrison kicked to Marin's 40 yard line. Mullins quick-kicked back, and the quarter ended as a reverse from Wilson to Clarke gained 5 yards.

Opening the second quarter, Clarke netted 6 yards in two thrusts at the line. The next play was a long pass to Walt Loving, who juggled the ball, which was finally recovered by Marin on their own 22 yard line. After an exchange of punts, San Francisco took the ball on their own 40 yard line, and fumbled on the first play, Marin recovering on the Ram's 42 yard line. Wasting no time trying to crack the San Francisco line, Marin passed on the first down, and the ball, hurled by Rip Frances, nestled in the arms of Johnny Allen, who raced the remaining distance to the goal line. The attempted conversion failed, as Marin tried to run it over and was stopped.

PASSES CLICK

The kick-off came to George Clarke, who received the ball on his own 10 yard line and brought it back to the 40 yard marker. San Francisco was penalized 5 yards for off-side, however, but with Wilson packing the ball for good gains, and Clarke connecting to Loving with his passes, the Rams marched down to the Marin 6 yard line just as the first half ended.

The Rams came out for the second half with fire in their eyes, inspired no doubt by a little pep talk by Coach Sweet. Marin kicked off, and then Tom Mauer started ripping holes in the Mariner's line, bringing the ball up to the 40 yard line on a series of bucks.

FIELD GOAL N. G.

A fumble by George Clarke was pounced on by Marin's Johnny Allen, giving them a first down on the Ram 28 yard line. Getting nowhere, however, they kicked out of bounds on the San Francisco 13 yard line. Play see-sawed back and forth in San Francisco territory for awhile without either side gaining much advantage. Late in the quarter, Marin attempted a field goal from the Rams' four yard line, but the kick was wide, and the Rams took possession on their 20 yard stripe.

Mauer fumbled on the first play, and Marin recovered on the Ram 13 yard line. A pass fell incomplete and the next one was intercepted by Adolph Pedrin, who ambled back to the 20 yard line before being brought down. An exchange of punts found the ball on the Rams' 42 yard line as the quarter ended.

BRICKLEY RECOVERS

Clarke rambled 15 yards around the right side of the line for a first down on the Marin 43 yard line. Morrison picked up another first down in two shots at the line. The next two plays brought no gain, so Morrison booted a long spiral down to the Marin 14 yard line.

On the first play, Mullins fumbled and Charles Brickley fell on the ball on the Marin five yard line. Clarke then busted over the center of the line for the touchdown. George Pedrin came into the game to try the conversion, but a bad pass from center spoiled the kick, and the score remained 6-6.

SPIRIT SOARS

Kicking off down to the Marin 36 yard line, the Rams really seemed to put on a little extra spurt as though they sensed another score. Roy Rutherford intercepted a Marin pass on the enemy 45 yard line, and Rams started rolling again with Clarke and Morrison packing the ball, aided by a penalty of five yards against Marin for too many times out. A pass, Clarke to Loving, brought the ball to the Mariner 23 yard line, where Morrison, taking the ball on a reverse from Clarke, broke into the clear over left tackle and raced 23 yards to the goal line to score standing.

The try for the extra point failed, and the score stood San Francisco 12, Marin 6. The Ram's kicked off to the Mariners, who started throwing long passes all over the field, but with two minutes left to play, Clarke intercepted one on the Marin 35 yard line and packed it back to the 15. Then plunging through tackle for six yards, he was knocked unconscious and was carried from the field. The game ended two plays later with the Rams apparently goal-ward bound once more.

THE STATISTICS

According to unofficial figures gathered by The Guardsman sport staff, the Rams made eight first downs to Marin's five. The Mariners attempted 17 passes, completing five, and having four intercepted, while the Rams only threw seven, completing four, with none intercepted. The Rams made about 170 yards from scrimmage, to Marin's 60 yards. The Mariners gathered 84 yards through passes, while the Rams made 56. Having one kick blocked, the Rams still averaged 35 yards from 13 punts, and, Marin's 11 kicks averaged 34 yards.

. . SPORTS . .

These Are Some Rambling Rams

These Red Raiders made it tough for Marin Junior College's gridders last Friday night, and may draw the blood of the Los Angeles Cubs next Friday night down south. They are, left to right, Jerry Flann, Dave Smith, George Pedrin, Duke Worsham, Jack Telesmanic, Pete Jambruno, and Walt Loving.

Getting ready to lower the boom on the opponents (left) is Tom Mauer, full-back, who almost lies flat on the ground when submarining through the line.

Jack Warren is shown on the right, as he catches a pass before it socks him in the face.

SIDELINE SLANTS

In sports columns, the names of certain athletic stars occur and re-occur. It is inevitable that some the minor lights be left out, despite the fact that they play as hard as any, and are in there, practice or game, with all their spirit.

Edwin C. Browne, known to everyone in the college, tells the interesting story of a young ambitious football player whom he once knew. The fellow showed up to practice punctually every time, and played his hardest. He never could quite make the team, which meant he never was in a game. He kept up his spirit, nevertheless, and became noted as the outstanding optimist of the gridiron.

The football season ended. The good players received their laurels. Effort, however, did not go unrewarded. The team voted a special award to the young fellow as the man with greatest amount of hope and determination.

* * * *

Reading over the copy on the Red Raiders' last victory, we see that little or no credit was given to individual members of the opponents' team. Their stars shone, nevertheless.

Jack "Moon" Mullins proved that his all conference award of last season was well earned. Light though he is, he is a line plunger, open field runner, kicker, passer, and what-not. In fact, he is an all around player.

* * * *

Spectators as well as players often deserve credit. Take Ed Browne, the above mentioned assistant dean, for instance. Calm under the most trying of circumstances ordinarily, he gets more excited than any of the coaches at a game. Further, his genuine enthusiasm is contagious.

A bit more quiet, but every bit as ardent a spectator is President Archibald Cloud, who is always to be found at the games carefully noticing every play and every player. Don't think he doesn't know the game!

RED RAIDERS READY TO GO AGAINST CUB IN SOUTHLAND

Twenty-eight strong, the Rams football team depart tomorrow night to invade the southland and take on the Los Angeles Junior College gridders, in what is hoped to be the third leg of an undefeated season.

With tough scrimmages throughout the week in order to iron out the difficulties of the Marin game, the Red Raiders will be thoroughly prepared for the Los Angeles bear cubs.

A new pass defense, which is hoped to baffle the Cubs and prevent any progress via the air route for them, has been set up. A few new changes have been made which will bolster the starting lineup.

CLARKE READY

George Clarke, San Francisco's genuine ace half back, will be in condition to play, which is reason enough to make the Rams the favorites. Clarke received slight head injuries in the Marin game last Friday night.

With George Pedrin and Pete Jambruno playing guard and tackle together and opening up more of those holes that were so apparent in the Marin encounter, the Raider's offense is expected to click.

Little is known of the southern team, other than it should be as strong as it was last year—which, incidentally, is plenty tough, according to Ram gridders who faced them.

CUBS ARE MAD

Angered at a defeat they encountered at the hands of Long Beach Junior College in their first game of this season, the Cubs are expected to try to take out their spite on the Rams.

The Sweet strategy is hoped to outwit the junior collegians. Russ' system is to keep his men fresh by frequent substitutions.

San Franciscans pick the Raiders to win by two touchdowns to one over the southerners. The excellent kicking of Forrest Morrison should keep them in the hole. Clarke's work in the safety position on defense, and in end runs on the offense, should keep the Cubs and the spectators on their toes throughout the game.

FOURTEEN DEFINITE

Among the men who will make the trip in addition to the coaching staff are George Pedrin, George Clarke, Walter Loving, Adolph Pedrin, Roy Rutherford, Dave Smith, Pete Jambruno, Glenn Wunderling, Jim Wilson, Tom Mauer, Forrest Morrison, Glen Allen, El Pearce, and Vasco Vanelli.

Fourteen other men will be chosen this week in addition to these.

BUT WHERE IS ODERO?

Lamb's Next Game May Be With Sacred Heart

The next gridiron opponent for the S. F. J. C. Flying Lambs will probably be the Sacred Heart High School reserves, the football department has announced.

As there is no set schedule for the college reserves, the team coached by Jack Gaddy must pick up contests as it goes.

The Lambs in their last gridiorn encounter fought a strong St. Ignatius High School eleven to a scoreless tie.

Parrot Squawks to No Avail; 2-0 Loss

By Ed Talavera

Hopes for a championship title soared to new heights as the Rams soccer team won its second straight victory by defeating the Polytechnic Parrots by a score of 2-0 at Chalet Field last Wednesday.

Held scoreless by an airtight defense in the first half, the Rams returned to score two goals in the second half. Jimmy Fahn, diminutive inside left, scored on a pass from Klebanoff soon after the whistle for the second half was sounded. He was followed by Johnson, who, after a series of long kicks, emerged from a mixup in midfield and kicked the ball through the uprights. Had it not been for the superb playing of Bill Eeutch, Poly's goalie, the score would have been much larger.

A word of praise must be given to the backfield, composed of Odonie, Frediani, Taylor, Oberhause and Nelson for their exceptionally good work on defense and the fact that they have yet to be scored on.

Others who deserve mention are Evans, Lim and Klebanoff.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Ardell White

A recent check-up reveals that the most popular women's sports this semester are fencing, swimming, tap dancing, and tennis, most of which have lots of social value. You can be the life of the party with your Eleanor Powell strut, or astound the gaping multitude by executing a skillful jacknife or a sizzling service ace. Fencing has me puzzled, though. Do you suppose duels for ladies are coming back?

Remember your high school struggles with volley ball? Well, the good old game of "bat and duck" is back, sponsored by the W. A. A. But it's more fun now because, since there are only eight to a side, each woman can take an active part in the game. Several co-eds have proved to be outstanding players—Elvira Ernie, Myrtle Mendes, Taneko Amemiya, and Genevieve Sickafoose. Incidentally, this class has issued a challenge to any team of eight in the college to a game to be held October 6 at five o'clock.

Swimming meets held via Western Union! Sounds fantastic, but actually it's a recognized form of intercollegiate aquatic competition. Here's the way it works. Each college holds its races on a specified day and at a specified time, using a regulation-sized tank. When the races are over, the official times and winners are telegraphed between the two competing colleges, and the victor determined. Several of these meets are planned on this college's W. A. A. schedule. Some of the women expected to take part in the contests are Georgiana Mayer, Parnel Brown, Ruth Johnson, and Ruth Sierra.

Speaking of swimming, splashing sounds are now audible clear up to the roof of the Y. W. C. A. building. Why? Because the intermediate mermaids have been learning to do the front and back jacknife and swan dives . . . The lifesaving students are successfully drowning each other.

The intermediate modern dancers are designing and making their own costumes. Tentative plans are being made for a pageant to be held at the end of the semester. This class is still open, so if you've had elementary dancing, why not sign up?

* * *

Golfers Betty Gray and Diana Duncan won the recent putting tournament. . . . That elementary tap dancing class is noisier than a dozen G-man movies. . . . The advanced tennis ladder tournament starts next week. Outstanding participants are Betty Phillips, Helen Davis, Gloria Stockhansen, Gladys Popp (former Sacramento J. C. champion and exponent of the Helen Wills Moody service), and Lucille Jung.

HURRAH FOR US!

The San Francisco Junior College football team has received some recognition from a well-known gasoline company on its annual football schedule, which is issued every season. The S. F. J. C. grid team has its coming games listed in the book along with the major college elevens.

. . DOLPH DECLARES . .

By Adolph Pedrin

It took a while for the RAMS to get warmed up in the MARIN game the other night, but as soon as that ball started rolling, there was no stopping it.

FORREST MORRISON showed his heels to the field on that scoring gallop of his. He has such a peculiar style of running, it's surprising that anyone can get hold of him to bring him down. No offense, Forrest—I still think you're a 10-flat man.

If we could afford it, we should send orchids to JAKE BRIGHAM down at the farm for the brilliant work he is doing.

We ask no more of GEORGE CLARKE than what he gave against Marin. A few more games like that one, and Snowflake will be on his way to all conference.

KEWPIE LOVING looked good at end, and at the same time, GEORGE PEDRIN'S work at guard deserves a word of credit.

Don't rest under the impression that the ball team has all there is to desire. The offense needs a great deal of working over, and, while the defense is good, it can still be improved.

LOS ANGELES is next on the list. Last year they took us in what is now commonly called the Second Deluge—and they went home with the ROOS trophy. We hope they have taken good care of that trophy, because we're going to get it back.

In answer to all inquiries, the reason that the RED pants were not worn at the Marin game is that they haven't arrived yet. They will make their initial appearance at Los Angeles. There's something else for which to make the trip.

We pick the Rams 13 to 7 over L. A. The only thing we may lose is BRICKLEY, who is looking forward to a Hollywood contract.

We had a nice rooting section at Marin but who forgot the banner?

Well, there's two down and seven to go . . . what d'ya say, gang?

Coaches, Trainers Are Told to Take It Easy With Injured Players

BERKELEY, Sept. 26.—The roar of the crowd and the desires of coaches and trainers to win at any cost should not be taken too seriously when the question of continuing an injured player in a football game or other athletic contest is up for consideration. Thus states Dr. Harold H. Hitchcock of the Student Medical Service, University of California in an article in the current number of California and Western Medicine.

Dr. Hitchcock sounds the warning that "if college athletics are to continue, especially football, those entrusted with the care of injured athletes must have the courage to keep any injured man from competition until he has completely recovered."

He does make the comment, however, that in present day athletic contests, "the diagnosis and outline for treatment as well as the decision as to when the men shall return to competition has been taken away from the coach and the trainer and put into the hands of trained medical men."

But it is true, he says, "that coach and trainer still attempt to exert their influence by calling men 'yellow' at times who claim to have been injured, or try to bring undue influence on the athletic physician to permit an excellent player to return to competition before he should.

"It is our feeling that the cheers of the multitude in the bleachers soon die out; that too many athletes are better endowed with physique than brains, and if this physique is ruined because of permitting them to compete while injured in college, an irreparable damage has been done both to the student and to the sport in which he competes."

Dr. Hitchcock's article was in the nature of a comment on athletic injuries by Dr. Packard Thurber of Los Angeles in the same issue of California and Western Medicine.

SAN FRANCISCO TO OUTDO WORLD FOR BRIDGE EXPOSITION

ventions expected during the time it is in progress.

This will be the first fair that can be reached by almost any method of transportation, for people can travel to the island by automobile, train, airplane, ferry boat, ocean liner, or bus. It is even expected that the Queen Mary, world's largest vessel, will dock at the fair grounds.

Leland W. Cutler is the president of the exposition, and it is his job to see that San Francisco has a fair that will out-do any other in the past century.

San Francisco and the bay's metropolitan area will be the hosts to the rest of the world. Warships, merchant marine vessels, and tourists of all nations will surround the little man made island. San Francisco will prove to the world that it has been, is, and always will be, one of the greatest cities in the world.

Hotel and Restaurant Classes Make Further Field Trips to Plants

Two more field trips, one to the William Taylor Hotel and the other to the S & W Packing Company, have been taken by the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the college during the past week, according to John P. Gifford, coordinator.

On Tuesday afternoon, through the courtesy of Ernest Drury, manager, a regular meeting of the Hotel Engineering Class was held in the boiler room of the William Taylor Hotel. The purpose of the meeting was to study the designs and requirements of boilers for typical hotel operation.

A second trip for the benefit of the complete hotel class was held on Saturday September 27, the group going to the S & W sampling laboratory at Fourth and Berry streets.

Doctor Scores Laxity of Average City For Neglect of Conditions

SAN FRANCISCO Sept. 25.—Modern communities come a long way from taking full advantage of modern medicine and the men trained to practice it. But the doctor himself may be at fault in part at least for this condition.

This charge was voiced by Dr. Langley Porter, former dean of the Medical School of the University of California at the 44th annual convention of the Idaho State Medical Association, recently concluded in Boise.

Talking to the subject of "The Family Doctor," the former dean said that communities fail to avail themselves of modern medical procedures as fully as they should "because modern doctors do not present themselves to patients in a way that makes clear all of the health services which they can bring to meet the health needs of their fellow man." Dr. Porter stated, however, that practicing doctors cannot always do all these acts to be done for patients.

Shopping around for a doctor from office to office, seeking diagnosis and remedies from drug stores, friends and neighbors, and putting faith in testimonials printed as lures for patent medicines, is no way for a patient to handle sickness, serious or otherwise, Dr. Porter told the convention. "Nothing else of worldly things—not business, not investment, not pleasures, not fraternities—are half so important in the life of the patient as the ability to find and the knowledge of how to use a well trained, progressive, friendly family physician.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of health!"

U. C. President Named Member of Harvard's Centennial Directors

LOS ANGELES.—To serve with President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a member of the United States Harvard University Tercentenary, Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, has gone to Cambridge, Mass. He will return as soon as his duties in the east will permit, not later than September 28, he believes. He will then make his home at University House, on the Los Angeles campus, for the present academic year.

The Harvard Tercentenary Commission was established by resolution of the 74th Congress, which provided that membership should consist of the President of the United States and four members appointed by him; the vice-president and four senators of his appointment, and the speaker of the House and four representatives to be named by him.

President Roosevelt telephoned President Sproul on August 24, asking him to serve as a presidential appointee, together with General Malin Craig, chief of staff of the Army, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of operations of the Navy, and President Frank P. Graham of the University of North Carolina. Other members of the Commission are Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Senators Bulkley, Hale Coolidge and Keyes and Representatives O'Connor and Bacon of New York and Wigglesworth and Russell of Massachusetts.

FRIENDS, WIN OR LOSE

Captains of their respective teams, Jack "Moon" Mullins of Marin Junior College, and Adolph Pedrin, well-known local end, were caught by the photographer shaking hands following a rally preceding the game between the two institutions last Thursday.

Registration Increases To 1660 Students

With an enrollment of 1660 students, the San Francisco Junior College has entered the third semester. This marks a considerable gain over last term, according to Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar. There are 583 women and 1077 men students.

By classes, the freshmen have the greater number with 491 men and 251 women, while the low sophomores number second with 281 men and 187 women students. Rating third, the high freshmen have 167 men and 93 women, while the high sophomores trail with only 138 men and 52 women.

VIVA LA EDUCACION

Salinas Junior College has a new high too, with 248 entrants.

Beware, O Youths; You Might Become Mentor Sometime

The football coach is often a great expense to keep and more trouble than he is worth. But he is amazingly popular among certain institutions of so-called higher learning, and for this reason, if for no other, he deserves to have his peculiar ideas and habits studied.

Take care not to excite or otherwise unduly provoke the coach during the season of the year known as fall or autumn. This is the time during which he is most sorely tried in his business of training the young (some of whom will eventually themselves become coaches) for bodily combat on the gridiron. He is likely, during this season, to develop a malady known as jitters. In the middle-aged football coach this is often manifested by a tendency of the hair to become gray.

The young football coach starts his career as an outstanding player of the game of football, or, more properly, the "great madness."

The sport, if it may be called such, insidiously develops a hold over the coach, so great that he is unable to leave it and take his proper place in the world. So great is football's fascination that he forsakes more lucrative professions and becomes what the journalistic world calls a "gridiron mentor," discarding his proper name for an absurdity such as "Slip" or "Babe" or "Tiny."

But do not scorn this unfortunate dupe of the American sporting public. It might have been you or you, or especially you, Willy.

'C' Average Necessary to Retain NYA Status

That any student who does not retain a "C" average at mid-terms will be dropped from N Y A, and that there will be no exceptions, was announced by Helene Turner, N Y A director in the college.

"This means," Miss Turner explained, "that there must be no slack notices. There are 60 people on the N Y A waiting list who are eligible to take the place of those who may fall by the wayside."

Outdoor Affairs Are Planned by Society

Discussing plans for a weenie roast to be held October 21, at Sigmund Stern Grove, the Household Arts Society, met last Thursday in room 317. All women students were invited and it was announced that plans for future games are going ahead rapidly. The time will be announced later.

Another picnic, for members only, will be given October 8 at Golden Gate Park. Members will meet at the Japanese Tea Garden at one o'clock.

Gordon Watkins Named New Los Angeles Dean

LOS ANGELES.—Appointment of Dr. Gordon S. Watkins as the new Dean of the College of Letters and Science, on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California has been made by President Robert G. Sproul, and approved by the Regents. He fills the vacancy caused by the retirement last July of Dr. Charles H. Rieber.

Dr. Watkins has just returned to the Los Angeles campus after a sabbatical leave of a year during which he toured around the world, spending considerable time in Japan and in Europe in a study of labor and social conditions.

Regrets are expressed that Edwin C. Lee, former San Francisco Superintendent of Schools, will not be able to attend the game, as he is in the East. Lee was instrumental in promoting the game with Los Angeles held in Seals Stadium here last year.

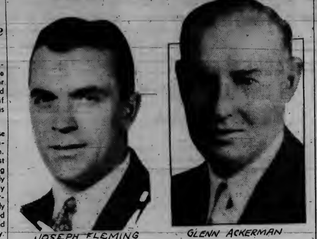
WHERE'S ORIGINALITY?

In the United States, more than 5,000 movie theaters use one of eight names—Strand, Ritz, Lyric, Majestic, Princess, Rialto, Royal and State; and 203 different catalogued songs are entitled, "I Love You."

RATHER LARGE

The universe is the only thing that cannot be reproduced accurately in a miniature model—on any scale. This impossibility is shown by the fact that, if the earth were represented in such an imaginary model by a one-inch ball, the nearest fixed star would have to be placed more than 40,000 miles away.

ASSEMBLY TOMORROW



Continuing a policy of last year, the first morning assembly of this semester will be held in the lecture hall at Powell Street, tomorrow at 10 o'clock. Three of the members of the faculty will discuss their European trips during the summer. These are Alfred Agosti, physics instructor; Joseph Amori, business instructor; and Lee Eisan, coach. Flossira Badger, music instructor, will also present some musical selections.

Promotions Are Granted In Galileo Cafeteria, J. G. Sullivan Announces

Several promotions in the cafeteria positions of the members of the hotel and restaurant management division of the San Francisco Junior College have been made in the last week, according to J. Graham Sullivan, manager of the cafeteria. These positions have all been given to new students.

Walter Scott has been made apprentice chef under Head Chef Charles Doudiet. Collin Obeland has been put in charge of the main cafeteria service, Trevitt Wilson has been made assistant cashier and accountant under Lawrence Wong, and Rosalind Kissel has succeeded Dorothy Moore as the new dining room hostess.

Fire Drill at Galileo Empties Bldg. Quickly

For the purpose of making the students familiar with the various exits at Galileo, a fire drill was held last Friday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Everyone was out of the building within two minutes and 30 seconds, which is exceptionally good time for such a large number of students, according to C. J. Conroy, battalion chief of the San Francisco Fire Department, who called the drill.

Exposition Building Will Become Board's

At the conclusion of the Golden Gate International Exposition in 1939, the very modernistic Administration Building will be turned over to the city for educational purposes.

This future home of the Board of Education is located at 585 Bush street near Stockton street. It is on the former site of Polytechnic High School, which burned in the 1906 fire.

Filipino Club Takes Three New Members

Three new members have been admitted to the San Francisco Junior College Filipino Club, it was announced by President Alfredo Galicia at the club meeting last Thursday afternoon. The new members are Magdalena Ocampo, Nieves Diddor, and Liberado Cancil, all new students in the college.

The call is out for new members as the total membership for this semester has fallen down greatly, Galicia said.

The Association is working on plans for a reception to be held in honor of the new members. The exact date will be made known in the near future.

A meeting of the Filipino Club will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Galileo cafeteria.

STILL LOYAL

San Francisco Junior College students who have attended the different high schools in San Francisco can be seen regularly at most of the prep football games held weekly at Kezar stadium. Among those present at a recent prep battle were Richard Cory, Verlin Yamamatto, Adolph Pedrin, Caroline Orginos, Tom Mauer, Henry Blatteis, James Fahn, Jack Welch, John Fitzgerald, George Clarke, Forrest Morrison, Carlyle Cain, Robert Fex and Jane Lillon.

3 Charters Given to Organizations

President Archibald J. Cloud, through a recommendation of the Student Body Executive Committee, today issued charters to three organizations of the college. These are the Society of Hotel and Restaurant Men under the sponsorship of John P. Gifford, the San Francisco Junior College Forum, sponsored by Dorothy Mercer, and the Economics Club, under the sponsorship of Michael M. Zarchin.

The Stars Their Place To Meet; Club Arising

Headed by Dr. Louis Berman, the Astronomy Club has again become an active organization, having elected Jack Debenham as the new president, the group now meets every Monday night at the observatory to study and discuss current astronomical news. The organization has about 12 members, and has as its objective the construction of a telescope for the new college.

VICTORY IS NOTED AT ATHLETIC RALLY HELD ON THURSDAY

To celebrate the victory of the Galileo reserves and to work up spirit for the Marin game, a pep rally was held in the Auditorium at Galileo on Thursday afternoon.

Jack Mullins, president of the Associated Students of Marin Junior College, was present and talked to the students about the game and dance at Kentfield Friday night.

Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, discussed plans for the trip to the Los Angeles game this Friday, and Adolph Pedrin, captain of the football team, talked for a few moments.

Bob Nelson, Deming Smith, and Dave Lee led the yells and Miss Flossira Badger of the music department, led the assemblage in the college song.

Hygeine Class Visits City Pumping Plant

Attending their first field trip of the semester, members of the hygiene 13 class, under the direction of Miss Vera Weber, instructor, visited the San Francisco water pumping station at 23rd avenue and Sloat boulevard last week.

Those present included Miss Weber, Tanako Ammemiya, Helen Davis, Geraldine Edwards, Edwin Frediani, C. M. Gelardi, Margaret Hemsworth, S. Irwin, Ruth Johnson, and Kathleen Smith.

The next field trip will be an inspection of the San Francisco sewerage system, probably next Saturday, it was announced.

Students Must Finish Registration At Once

That the following students will be excluded from classes until they finish their registration was the warning issued yesterday by J. Paul Mohr, college registrar: Jean Betts, Coleman Borden, Frank Buckley, Gladys Herst, Leodegario Marcos, Edward Moran, Julia Prendiggs, Robert Rathke, Dan J. Spillane, Arlando Sponsler, Charles Sullivan, Kenneth R. Swense, and Charles Vaughan.

GOV. MERRIAM, ROSSI TO BE AT RALLY

RIFLE CLUB TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Offering the inducement that visitors may "shoot the works", the college Rifle and Pistol Club will hold an Open House exhibition of marksmanship this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon in the Galileo Armory, between 2:30 and 6 p. m.

The session will be conducted by Bill Hancock, coach of the club, who is one of the leading marksmen in the Bay Region. With all junior college students invited, each one will be allowed to shoot ten rounds of ammunition, under the supervision of Hancock and James Hughes, faculty adviser to the club.

"SATISFY URGE"

"I believe everyone at some time or another has an urge to shoot a gun, just to see how it feels," Hancock said when announcing the function, "and this is a good chance for anybody who has an interest in competitive marksmanship to enjoy the sport with others who appreciate the same spirit."

In order to accomodate the large number of interested spectators expected, the Rifle and Pistol Club has planned the affair for a two-day period, and Hughes anticipates an increase in the club's membership as a result.

TEAM PLANNED

Those attending will be instructed in the use and operation of different types of arms, before being allowed to try their luck at a target.

At the conclusion of this week's activities, the club plans to select a three man team which will represent the college in several competitive matches which are arranged to take place later in the semester, Hancock said.

Six Positions Still Are Open on NYA Schedule, Administrator Advises

Six positions are still to be filled on the NYA schedule, Helene Turner, NYA director for the college, has announced.

The various openings include:

man student to work from 10:00 to 12:00 daily;

man student to work every day but Friday from 8:30 to 10:30;

man student to correct algebra and geometry papers;

woman, student to work on Monday and Wednesday from 2:30 to 4:30;

man or woman student to work daily from 12:00 to 2:30.

Miss Turner advises those interested in securing these positions to see her as soon as possible. She further warns them that they must be eligible to work under NYA requirements.

Audiometer Test to Be Made On Students

Audiometer tests will be conducted in all of the hygiene classes beginning next Wednesday morning, according to an announcement by Paul Pitman, assistant to President A. J. Cloud.

"The audiometer is a machine that tests the ears of an individual. By this method we shall be able to find out which students are hard of hearing and are therefore losing out on classroom work," Pitman explained.

This mechanism has an attachment of ear phones, and as the controller talks into the audiometer, while students being tested write down exactly what they hear.

Any person found to be hard of hearing will be notified personally and no names will be given out by the examiners, Pitman said.

If these tests are successful, hearings will be offered to every junior college student whether a member of a hygiene class or not, he revealed.

Amori, Eisan, Agosti Speak About European Travels During Summer

Featuring talks on their recent European travels by Joseph Amori, Lee Eisan, and Alfred Agosti of the junior college faculty, the first regular assembly of the current semester was held Thursday at the Powell St. Lecture Hall, with Assistant Dean E. C. Browne presiding as chairman.

Amori said that, while in Germany, he was particularly impressed by the number of Youth Hostels, which operate for the convenience of young people who travel through the country on foot or bicycle. The three instructors spent a night in one of these typically German establishments, of which there are 51,000.

Eisan, too, went into great detail about travel in Germany, although Agosti described the English countryside as the most enjoyable part of his trip.

The college administration plans to hold an assembly of this sort, as educational as it is interesting, once a month throughout the year, with a varied list of speakers and topics listed.

DANCE NOVEMBER

Scheduled for November 13, the Beta Phi social fraternity's semi-annual dance will be held at the Resident's Club on Powell Street, Al Leake, fraternity treasurer, has announced.

Filipino Club to Meet At Galileo October 13

At a meeting of the College Filipino Club held last Thursday afternoon at Galileo, plans for a club pin were submitted. The permanent insignia will be chosen at the group's next meeting, Thursday afternoon, October 13 at 1:30 o'clock in the Galileo cafeteria. President Alfredo Galicia requests all members to be present at this first important gathering of the Filipino students of the college.

The club plans to hold monthly picnics. The time and place for the first outing will be announced at the next meeting. New students are invited to join the organization and all will be welcome at the October 13 gathering.

Household Arts Will Go On Picnic At Park

Members of the Household Arts Society will attend a picnic at Golden Gate Park tomorrow afternoon. According to instructions from Jo Jordan, president, members will meet outside the Japanese Tea Gardens at one o'clock. Included in the afternoon's entertainment will be games and initiation of new members.

"The club has gained many new members and expect a large attendance," says Miss Jordan.

A weinie roast, to be held October 21, at Sigmund Stern Grove will be the club's next event. Admission will be twenty-five cents and all women students will be welcomed.

PUSSINALITY MISSED, AS SNOOPY DISAPPEARS; FEARED KITNAPPED

It seems that cats can't take it or something like that because Snoopy, whose picture and story appeared in last week's Guardsman has mysteriously disappeared. When last seen, Snoopy was prowling around the Powell Street building, and there are any number of things that may have happened to him.

It may be that he decided to go to the Los Angeles game and started out early, or he may have attended a class where a mid-term was announced and decided to hide away until it was all over. On the other hand there are those who suspect foul play, and say that Snoopy may not have been an aristo-cat but he had a lot of pussinality and may have been kitnapped.

Anyway, we can only hope for the best and if Snoopy is alive and well and happens to read this, here is a personal message for him:

"Please come home. We all miss you and there are a couple of cans of cat food waiting for you."

THIS IS OUR RAMBLING RAM, BEWARE!

You probably have never met our Ram. We have one, nevertheless. In the picture to the right, he looks fairly tame doesn't he? (But who wouldn't look tame with pretty Miss Alma Bracken around?)

Don't be fooled by appearances, however. He is not tame to everyone—just to loyal San Francisco junior collegians.

On those crooked horns of his have been impaled an Irish giant (Gaels), some pixilatly minded Mariners, and Glen Ackerman's supposedly tough Los Angeles Cub.

They have all been appetizers for our Ram. He feels the need of some tough hide.

There is a 'Gator in this town, who thinks he can fleece our Ram. Whether this 'Gator is tough enough to make our Ram see Red or not, the clash between the two next Friday evening at Roberts Field will be worth seeing.

- THAT CROOKED HORN MISS BRACKEN IS HOLDING IS REALLY PLENTY SHARP.

"No More Apples; Give Me Steak," Is Parker's Plea

"Did I ever tell you people the story of the two women that tried to apple polish a professor? Well it goes like this—"

Such was the opening remark of Robert Parker, history 49 instructor, after being made fun of when he made the headlines in last Wednesday's Guardsman. The article, if you do not recall, dealt with that well-known subject of apple polishing.

After taking all the "kidding" the class could administer, Professor Parker, slightly happy at having his name on the front page of such a fine sheet, gave his history class a stiff lecture entitled, "Apple Polishing Gets You Nowhere, Especially With Me" that set the students back in their desks.

"If any of you men or women wish to make me a present of something edible, kindly make it a thick, juicy steak," he declared.

Well, time will tell.

SPEAKS ON CONDITIONS

Talking on existing conditions in Nazi Germany, John E. Ross, instructor of Political Science at the college, spoke to a German society at Equality Hall, Twenty-second and Valencia streets, last Friday evening.

"ONE OF LARGEST" CAKES IS MADE FOR SURPRISE AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Meeting their first "Mid-term" the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the college, gave a surprise birthday party for Fred Koch, Galileo High School principal, last Thursday, October 1, with members of the Galileo faculty as guests. The feature of the afternoon was a huge birthday cake made by Pastry Chef Stromberg of the St. Francis Hotel and believed to be one of the largest cakes ever made on the Pacific Coast.

The same group was responsible for the preparation and serving of a banquet which was given for the students who took part in the P. T. A. Sports Tournament, Tuesday, October 6.

Guests of honor at this affair included, Honorable Angelo J. Rossi, mayor of San Francisco, Major Joseph P. Nourse, superintendent of Schools, Honorable C. Harold Caulfield, president of the Board of Education, and John Brady and Donald Hardy, deputy superintendents of the school department.

Omicron Pi Phi Group Preparing Eligible List

Omicron Pi Phi, college economics honor society, is at present preparing a list of candidates eligible for membership. The records of the candidates are being examined to determine their eligibility, and the names of those selected will be announced shortly. The initiation of the approved applicants will take place soon after this announcement.

The society is under the supervision of Michael Zarchin, faculty adviser, and Eugene Cramer, managing director.

Service Club Planning Two "Dessert Bridges"

Holding a special meeting for the discussion of prospective members and planning events for their entertainment, the Women's Service Club met Tuesday evening, September 29.

"We are planning two 'dessert bridges', and these will be held on the evenings of October 13 and 15 with the prospective members as our guests," Elaine Domenguez, president of the organization, said.

AWS Holds First Meet of Semester; Women's Editor Speaks of Paper

Meeting for the first time this semester, the Associated Women Students, with Helen Davis, president of the organization, in charge, gathered in the Galileo Cafeteria last Thursday afternoon to discuss semester plans.

Miss Davis announced that there were several ideas suggested, including possibilities of a fashion show, a dance, and a series of teas similar to those given last semester. All of these activities were discussed, but no definite plans were formulated.

Ruth Johnson, Women's Athletic Association president, gave a short talk on that organization, explaining to the new students present the general purpose of he W. A. A. and the system of awards.

Donna McPherson, vice president of the Associated Students, explained the functions of the Social Committee, and Florence Murphy, women's editor of The Guardsman, outlined the opportunities for women students on the college paper.

Bow and Arrow Artist Subdued By Mere Women

Your chastened reporter is one person who will have more respect for the women Robin Hoods in the future.

After journeying over to the Fort Mason archery range the other afternoon, your correspondent and another brawny, masculine individual were set to show the dainty feminines a trick or two about hitting the bull's eye at a distance of 40 paces.

Grabbing two sturdy bows, they aimed their arrows at the large target. The writer's first shot sliced off to the right, barely missing a passing H street car. His partner fared slightly better, missing the objective by only nine or ten yards.

And the women—oh, yes, their laughter was heard down at the yacht harbor.

After a few more futile attempts, and after being coached by the Dianas, the nimrods still failed dismally, and retired from the field, followed by the amused titters of the ladies.

Board Allots $1,000 For Gym. Equipment

Allotment of $1,000 for the purchase of physical education equipment for the junior college was made recently by the Board of Education, it was revealed early yesterday.

Most of the equipment is to be for the regular women's physical education classes, it was said.

The necessity for additional equipment became acute when use of tennis courts was denied the college, Paul Pitman, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, said.

Without the tennis courts, women were curtailed considerably in their activities, he said, with swimming the only sport then available outside of the regular gymnasium.

Because this appropriation is for equipment for the regular classes, instead of for extra-curricular athletics, the allotment was made possible from the Board, rather than from Associated Student finances.

"It was, nevertheless, a generous and somewhat gesture, and the college should feel grateful to the Board for it," Pitman said.

ROBERTS FIELD DEDICATION WILL TAKE PLACE ON THURS.

With pre-game spirit soaring sky-high before the S. F. State-S. F. Jaysoe grid embroglio Friday, students of both colleges will join in a monster joint-rally tomorrow night at Roberts Field, 15th and Valencia Sts., at 8:30 p. m.

Each college will present entertainment and the squads of each will take part in the festivities, with a complete evening of activity scheduled.

NOTABLES PRESENT

After a week of special effort, the committee in charge of the affair has announced that it has been successful in plans to have both Governor Frank Merriam and Mayor Angelo Rossi present as guests of honor.

Captain Bob Harkness of the Staters and Coach Hal Hardin will also speak, as will the Rams' own Russ Sweet and the un-named captain of the Red Raiders, who will be selected immediately before the rally takes place.

UPLIFT SOUGHT

Students of the State college are accepting the game as the big conflict, according to reports from Harold Martin, State publicity director, and the Haight St. college promises to turn out en masse in an effort to lift their team to its greatest achievement.

"The State campus is humming with excitement over the game," Martin said, "and if we don't win Friday, it won't be because we didn't get behind our team Thursday. After a look at the program, I would venture to say that the rally will be as well worth attending as the game."

ACCOMODATIONS LARGE

The rally will mark official dedication ceremonies for Roberts Field, newly-constructed stadium of San Francisco State College, and accomodations for 10,000 people have been arranged.

The rally committee, under Student President Bob Sisco, has announced that Alexander Roberts, President at State, will boot the first kick-off Friday, with President Archibald J. Cloud of the junior college holding the pigskin on the 40 yard line.

The J. C. delegation to the rally will be headed by yell-leaders Bob Nelson, Deming Smith, and Jim Fahn.

U. C. Library Privileges Given to J. C. Students

All San Francisco Junior College students residing in the East Bay are eligible to use the University of California Library on the Berkeley campus at any time for study and reference work, Paul Pitman, assistant to the president has announced.

"Merely by showing your registration or student body card the students will be given use of the library. No books can be taken from the building but may be studied as long as the user wishes," Pitman stated.

Appreciation is hereby extended through The Guardsman to the regents of the University of California for the privilege of this library use.

THE DEAN GIVES GOLFING POINTERS

Now we know very well that Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, never has time to play golf. He can, nevertheless, find a few moments in which to tell others how, and here we see him (right) explaining some of the fine points to Tony Scafani (left) and Bob Fex. If Browne can play golf the way he handles men and wins their respect and admiration, we'll be only too glad to stack our money behind him against the world's best niblickers.

PWA LOAN FOR COLLEGE BUILDING HELD UP PENDING INVESTIGATION

Because the Board of Education omitted the building of three grammar school auditoriums in an application for $522,000 PWA funds, the Board of Supervisors, last week, held up action, pending investigation.

The Board of Education applied for the funds to cover initial cost of the junior college and other public school construction.

The plan of the Board is to carry on a $1,160,000 public school construction program in 1936-37. The application was postponed because of the plea of P. T. A. leaders. Mrs. A. M. Best, on behalf of the P. T. A., demanded auditoriums for Francis Scott Key, Visitacion Valley, and Lawton schools.

After investigating the demands of the P. T. A., the Board of Supervisors okayed the loan, excluding the three auditoriums. As soon as the funds are obtained, work will begin on the "necessary buildings" for the college, the Board has indicated.

INDIFFERENCE — OR PATIENCE?

Patience, consideration, and tolerance are three virtues which, when characteristic of one man alone, make that man almost perfect.

Needless to say, such men are rare.

Temporary troubles, grievances, or set-backs throw men into fits of melancholy, anger, or hopelessness.

A few years hence, however, and it will all matter not a bit; the fights will have become personal history, the history education in the ways of the world.

The best panacea to make the history making epochs more pleasantly endurable is the three virtues—patience, consideration, and tolerance.

HOSPITABLE FOREIGNERS

Praise of the Los Angeles hospitality will be heard in local circles until next year, when San Francisco will be so busy trying to duplicate it that there will be little enough time for any thinking.

As Assistant Dean Edwin C. Browne said before the Associated Students of Los Angeles Junior College, "It is interesting to visit a foreign country and see how its inhabitants live." It was further interesting to note that they live very much the same as human beings.

Their hospitality, however, is not human—it is super human. San Franciscans who sampled it last week-end find no limit to the deserved praise and sympathetically hope that too much time will not be required to pay for it all.

FORGOTTEN, SOMETIMES

Praises are heaped upon the gridmen, the benefits of playing their game are extolled at great length, and they become heroes—for a while, anyway.

It is the press, however, that makes them half the heroes they think they are, and the public thinks they are. It is the height of many an athlete's glory to see his name in print under laudatory circumstances.

In the celebrations of victory, however, the writers are forgotten men. In the complaint of loss, though, they are not always so.

For those few journalists who resent this, there is consolation in the knowledge that from December to August the gridder is a forgotten man, while their work goes on and on.

A SLIGHT CONFLICTION

This is a sad story.

Two ambitious groups of students, headed by their respective aspiring leaders, planned events. They worked hard on these plans, and looked forward to the pleasure of being the guiding hands in the successful culmination.

Ah, but tragedy, ever present, brought down its ghostly hand. In their eagerness to lead the way toward social happiness for the college, the two groups overlooked the fact that they were both planning for different events at the same time, and on the same date.

Aiding and abetting the hand of tragedy, a certain law of physics which says that two bodies cannot occupy the same place at the same time, and which, therefore, implies that the same body cannot be in two different places at the same time, stuck its foot in the crack of the door.

Of course, it is entirely within the realms of possibility that the college could have existed just as long and just as healthily were neither of these plans ever borne in the minds of their respective prospective perpetrators.

Such, however, is not college life. These events must take place, but in their proper order. To determine this proper order, would it be out of place to remind the leaders extra-curricular that in the office of the vice-president of the college there is a calendar, the primary function of which is to avoid the duplication of dates?

Let us have no further cause to weep.

A PRESIDENT ADVISES

"As students you are not here to act. You are here to get ready to act wisely in the life of your time. You are not here to organize and promote propagandas. You are here to learn how to keep your heads in the midst of a world bombarded by myriad propagandas both sound and sinister.

"If, as freshmen and sophomores, you were able wisely to determine just what the final answer is to the political, social, and economic dilemmas of our time, there would be no need of your attending a university.

"A high wall should not be built around the university, in which students would be hermetically sealed from the outside world, but you, as students, should take the opportunity afforded by your years on this campus to stay back of the front-line trenches and to stabilize and discipline your judgment for the time when you are called upon to serve your generation."—President Glenn Frank, University of Wisconsin.

THE BULL SNORTS — COVERAGE INDULGENCE RED PAINT

Down at the Chronicle office the other day, we noticed a quaint little habit employed there. Mistakes made by rival papers are clipped and tacked to the editorial bulletin board. These rivals are patronizingly referred to as 'contemporaries.'

It is an amusing pastime, and we think that we shall borrow the idea. Glancing over the work of one of our local contemporaries, we saw on the sports page an editorial note which said, " . . . Hereafter, all results of games will be covered by two reporters."

We may have been brought up wrong, but it has always been our idea that it is a game, rather than the results of it, that should be covered by a reporter.

Little Boy

In the story the results of which were covered by two reporters, it was said that with "two minutes remaining in the second half . . . . the gun robbed the Staters of a chance to score again." Counting up, we observed that so far the score should have been 20-0, but the headline claimed the final tally to be 26-0.

Reading on, it became apparent that the "final tally came in . . . the fourth quarter." Perhaps the two reporters have not yet made up that deficiency in math.

It is not panning our contemporaries that we wish to be doing, so we shall amusedly pass it all up with fatherly indulgence.

May be Not!

Perhaps, however, we had better not pass over a chance to ridicule our contemporary. Reading elsewhere in the baby sheet of its editors, we observe that we are called a so-called college, a poor orphan institution, up-starts from Powell Street, and that we have been boasting of what a push-over our contemporary's football team will be.

To top it all, the contention was made that the Powell Street orphans painted a senior bench on the contemporary's campus in a nice brown color. That is news to us. With red paint at the same price as brown in any dime store, we feel certain that were it any of the "so-called collegians" who perpetrated the deed, the bench would have emerged slightly more vivid.

To tell the truth, however, reading our contemporary's brainstorm reminds us of the presumptious hick-town editor who continually wrote in criticism of the New York Times.

365 DAYS AGO TODAY

October 7, 1935

Eugenie Leonard, College Vice-President and Dean of Women, returned to her duties after a week's vacation in Southern California. The strenuous activities connected with the opening of the college compelled Dean Leonard to take the rest.

Jaysee soccer squad wins its first game against Polytechnic High . . . score 2-0 . . . and they used only nine men. Follow the team this semester, they're going to town.

Arrangements made permitting junior college students to use university library on the Berkeley campus . . . no excuses for commuters now.

Those beeg, strong football men begin to worry about first quarter (not football) examinations, as President Archibald Cloud places emphasis on scholastic achievement as well as gridiron ability in college . . . Beginning to worry again fellas?

Study rooms for the exclusive use of San Francisco Junior College students were opened in the book store on Powell Street . . . the women have it now and from what we hear its classed up quite a bit.

WAA, commonly called Women's Athletic Association, was formed. Turn-out for membership was remarkable . . . the organization is still going strong . . . such athletic co-eds.

United States Army provides land east of officers' buildings at Fort Mason for the use of the Engineering Department and the women's archery range . . . the female Robin Hoods are still twanging away.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

An article by Eleanor Patterson in this month's Good Housekeeping says that sometime women all over the country are going to get on a great "mad" that will result in a woman President and an even balance of sexes in Congress and the Cabinet. She bases her belief on the fact that silimar "mads" on the part of the women of the United States were partly responsible for the reelection of President Wilson and the election of President Roosevelt. If her surmise is correct, our political minded co-eds should get busy and start planning new color schemes for the White House curtains.

Chanting "We were doped", just so no one would think they were softies, two of Russ Sweet's stalwarts (Pete Jumbruno and George Pedrin) consented to lug a couple of typewriters for a couple of maidens in distress. (We'd like very much to say it was Sweet of them but the boss says no more puns about Russ.)

May We Present . . . .

Ruth Johnson, W. A. A. President, Women's Service member and all 'round sportswoman . . . born in Missoula Montana and is a graduate of Palo Alto High School . . . plans to go to Cal and eventually to be a Physical Ed teacher . . . likes swimming, horses, and "collecting things" but can't stand "high heels worn with bobby socks" . . . always has a smile and a friendly greeting for everyone.

We see by the papers that the average healthy woman eats one ton of food a year! As we've always thought of "tons" in connection with elephants, we're surprised at the number of sylph-like figures seen around our campus.

This is not supposed to be a humor column but there are some things that cannot be ignored—for example, Jim Fahn mowing them down with the one about the cow who drank the blue ink and "Mood Indigo"!

PRESIDENT TALKS OF FUTURE EVENTS

By Bob Sisco

Don't forget tomorrow night—when we shall hold our monster night rally in conjunction with San Francisco State at Roberts' Field (That's old Recreation Park at 15th and Valencia Sts.). We are going to have 8 big acts—three from S. F. J. C., three from S. F. State, and two outside acts. One of our three acts will be our Wonder Team depicting "The Martins and the Coys", then there will be Corrine Lynwood and Walt Loving. Our outside act will be in the form of our old pal Mort Werner who will again give us some of his latest hit tunes. Then Friday night following the game there will be a dance at the State, the band chosen is very good and I know that you all will have a swell time.

At last Wednesday's Ex-Council meeting, the Sacramento trip was one of the main topics of conversation. It looks as though we shall be able to get a reduced rate to and from Sacramento for our game with the J. C. there. So, fellows and gals (Bernie), start saving your sheckles so that we all can make the trip in style.

MODERN MAMA

It looks like the moving picture theatres are corrupting the country, or at least the school children of the country, by giving away premiums to the ladies in the audience. At any rate a public school teacher in a middle western school sent a little girl home with a rather sharp note to her mother telling her that the girl had been tardy that morning and had fallen asleep twice during the session. She suggested that the mother see that the small girl get to bed at an early hour. Next day the school marm received the following note:

"I can't see that Harriet gets to bed early on Tuesdays and Thursdays as I have to go to the local movie to finish out my set of dishes.

"Sincerely, Mrs. G——"

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Being a nocturnal creature of the fog, your correspondent was pleased no end by the influx of mist which rolled in over the city last week. Without our beloved fog, we are as a cat without an alley.

While waiting for a cable car from the Ferry Building, we mused on the uncertainty of the future, and the following bit of raving was the outcome:

"Where?"

We know that when tomorrow comes,
Today is yesterday,
But if tomorrow's no such thing,
Then where the heck's today?

Alas, we fear that is a question which will never be answered to our satisfaction. (Yes, some of our friends do think we're crazy.)

It seems that there is a lack of proper respect for this college among some of the Staters. After the game, we'll remind our neighbors of the words of ~~Greville~~ "Respect is better secured by exacting than soliciting it." Anyway, we must smile with tolerance at all ignorance, for it is wisely written, "By ignorance is pride increased; They most assume, who know the least."—Gay. So much for the Rooty-toot-tooters.

Allowing our thoughts to take a more pleasant turn (?), we gently remind our fellow students of the approaching midterms, in fact, we are going to start looking for our own text-books very soon.

We regret that the ever present evil of making a living forced us to miss the Los Angeles game, but we intend to see as many games as possible this semester, and we urge all of you to do likewise. We have a team any school would be proud of, and we ought to show our appreciation.

Around the town . . . Getting a thrill out of driving up to the seventh floor of the 450 Sutter Bldg. . . . Listening to strident wails of the multitude of fog horns . . . Watching the approaching lights of San Francisco from the deck of a ferry boat . . . Suffering from a mild shock, on finding two-bits in the Ferry Bldg.

Like a toy balloon, we'll be 'round next week.

SPINNING AROUND THE GLOBE

By Lambert Meyer

In the Union of South Africa, all radio announcements are broadcast first in English and then repeated in Afrikanns, the country's other official language.

In Bangkok, Siam, mosquitoes are so numerous that it is not an unusual occurence at a formal dinner party to see one of the ladies turn to a diplomat, hand him a bottle marked "Skee-tolene," and with a "Do you mind, Your Excellency?" turn her back to him to be sprayed with an evil-smelling but potent liquid, which actually keeps away mosquitoes for two hours.

On the Africa Maru, a Japanese freighter and passenger ship which plies the South Atlantic, a notice on the bulletin board in the ship's main corridor reads:

"First Gong: Signal for dinner
"Second Gong: Enter Dining Room
"Third Gong: Take Seats"

At a certain grocery store in Buenos Aires, you can buy the $1.35 tin of George Washington's Coffee for twenty cents, because our North American mild blends of coffee are a drug on the South American market.

In Nairobi, Kenya Colony, firms planning safaris for travellers invariably include, in their list of necessary food and beverages, Poland Spring Water, which is exported to East Africa from Poland Springs, Maine.

On passenger trains that go through China's bandit country, the railway company usually stations about a hundred soldiers on board to protect the passengers. Since bandits, when captured, are often required to join the Chinese army, you may have bandits protecting you from bandits.

YE RAMME HORNE

Dear Editor:

A city-dweller often finds himself unable to sleep while on vacation in the country because of the absence of the familiar noises of streetcars, protesting brakes, neighbors' radios and the braying of the Alcatraz fog horn. Even so have I missed the Ram's Horn.

Last year two or three students each week blasted the administration, the Student Council, the football team, the book-store, the Board of Education, the foibles of the faculty, the radicalism of the Democratic and the reactionary policies of the Republican, the sins of Big Business and the arrogance of Labor, everything—from the food served by the cafeteria to Adolph Pedrin's monicle.

Some of the letters were downright clever. Others were evidently inspired by some petty peave or other. But humorous or bitter, intelligent or ridiculous, they all helped to liven things up. This year they have been missing; so I gave a whoop of delight when one appeared. I trust there will be many more.

Incidentally, you may tell your correspondent and all other new students that every effort was made last year to persuade the streetcar companies to give our students the benefit of the half-fare rate. We even went so far as to offer to print special indentifying tickets. But no go! Sorry!

Sincerely yours,
Let 'Er Toot.

Note: Look below, and you will see she's tootin'.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

Your discussion concerning free thought and speech in last week's paper is, I believe, one of the most lucid arguments about that topic that I have ever heard. If more freedom of ideas and writings were allowed the people of this country, less confusion and real trouble would be the ultimate result. With the presses of the country run as they are by a few unparalleled and bigoted politicians, the real thought of the people of the country has little chance for publication. If a free press were general throughout the country, a more understandable picture could be presented to the ordinary layman, thus making possible a more complete understanding. As it is today, many citizens cause themselves much consternation of mind by seeing radicalism where only sensible discussion occurs.

FREE THINKER.

Note: We appreciate the flag bleaching.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

For the most part, I have little fault to find with your paper, but in one respect it is sadly wanting. It lacks that which is so essential a part of any student publication—namely, a humor column.

To be sure, such a column may be "prep stuff," but after all, you aren't getting out a conservative daily. A student paper should be designed to please the students, and a joke column would undoubtedly add greatly to the enjoyment derived by them from it, as well as enliven the somewhat dismal appearance of your second page.

Every major university makes some concession to the demand of its readers for humor, many even publishing an entire magazine of nothing else; witness the California "Pelican" and the Stanford "Chaparral". Certainly no one can deny that they are successful. Lacking facilities for any such publication, the least the college can do is give us a few quips weekly.

I believe any canvass of students would show them to be overwhelmingly in favor of such an innovation. Why not give it a trial, anyway? A few chuckles never hurt anyone.

JESTER.

Note: It was tried last year, with unfavorable reaction. Wish someone would definitely and accurately define a so-called humor column.—Ed.

L. A. ROUNDERS

Taking advantage of editorial privileges, the Editor is stealing this space for the benefit of only a very few people, and merely because he happened to go to Los Angeles last week-end.

He thinks there are more people than those on the planned reception committee down there who deserve mention.

Selfishly, he wishes to convey a message to brother newspapermen in the southern institution, men who took it upon themselves to show him the places which would interest any brother journalist (none of your business what places—they know).

Perhaps because the Editor is not a very imposing personage by appearance, and is often accused of having straw behind his ears, the higher ups down there scarcely noticed him. The good old hard-working, experienced rounders, however, recognized in him a kindred spirit. They even flattered him by saying that he was almost an 100 per cent duplication of a former, well-liked philosophical journalist who once haunted their offices.

So, Bill Akerstein and your cohorts, accept the editorial thanks and appreciation from the north. May we sometime have the opportunity of being your host-up here.

RAIDERS DOWN CUBS: EAGER FOR STATE

NEW TALENT COMES TO LIGHT AS ALL MEN IN VICTORIOUS ENCOUNTER

Outclassing the Cubs in every phase of the game, Russ Sweet's Red Raiders defeated the grid squad of Los Angeles Junior College 12-0 in the second annual inter-sectional football game, held at Victor McLaglen stadium in the South, last Friday night, and came home with the perpetual Roos trophy.

Making 11 first downs to the Cubs' two, the Rams kept the southerners with their backs against their own goal line throughout most of the game, although the first three quarters saw no scoring by either team.

MORRISON SCORES

The first score came in the fourth quarter after a sustained march from the Raiders' own 40 to the Cubs' 14 yard line, with Lambert Allen and Forrest Morrison doing the bulk of the ball carrying. Allen then threw a pass to Glen Allen which carried the Rams to the four yard line, from which Morrison plunged through left tackle for the score. George Pedrin's attempt at conversion went wide.

Shortly afterward, Dave Smith broke through to block a Los Angeles punt, and recovered for the Raiders on the Cubs' 15 yard line. Lambie Allen, Bill Ravetto, and Tom Mauer advanced seven yards, and a reverse from Ravetto to Allen put the score at its final standing, 12-0. Again the attempt at conversion failed.

PRAYERS UNANSWERED

In a wild, prayerful passing attack in the final few minutes of the game, the Cubs managed to reach the Rams' 35 yard line, principally the work of Jerry DeHoog and Bud Greenbaum. The march was stopped when L. Allen intercepted a Los Angeles pass on his own 18 yard line.

Following his interference and taking advantage of every hole, Tony Scafani, San Francisco half, then proceeded to rip off consistently large gains, until the final gun stopped his foray.

Alligators Expected to Come in Second, Advance Talk Shows

Student enthusiasm in the junior college will reach its peak for the S. F. J. C.-State College game to be played this Friday evening at Roberts Field.

This inquiring reporter has found the following student reactions predicting the outcome of the big-little gridiron contest.

Joe Kissel: "The J. C. team by 14 points."

Pat Madden: "18 to 6 in favor of our team."

Anita McKay: "I didn't know we had a football team."

Florence Murphy: "I don't know much about it, but I guess our boys will win."

Jerry Ginsberg: "Just a track meet for the J. C."

Ernie Loustalot: "We should win [illegible] points."

Dick Simpers: "Never heard of State."

Richard Werner: "14 to 6 is my prediction, us, of course."

Dick Cory: "It'll be a very close battle. Hope we win."

World Serious About World Series—Radio Lures Student Fans

If Profs or industrious students have been wondering why there have been so many absences of men students during the past week, the reason is not the Los Angeles trip or the coming presidential election. It's baseball's biggest show, The World Series!

People who never followed baseball the whole season find themselves listening to the broadcasts of the series. Strolling along Powell or Sutter Streets they see groups of men students gathered around some collegian's car with the radio blasting "strike two on Di Maggio". They also hear "I SHOULD go to that business class but how can I leave with men on first and third in the ninth inning."

Which all goes to prove that a college student can't go to class and hear a great baseball game at the same time.

Cindermen in Shape

In an attempt to rush the season, several of our varsity track stars are already conditioning for the spring campaign on the cinders. Morris Jublonsky, the weight man, and Ed Warren, the one lap artist, have been conditioning by short work-outs after football practice, while Jimmy Fahn and Gus Sharden have been working out in a gym, strengthening arms and wrists for the pole vault. George Comras, the sprinting ace, has been getting his legs in shape by extensive hiking trips.

RAM-blings

By Don Mix

Odero Guisti, one of the greatest all around athletes in our brief history, has been put under contract by the Cincinnati Reds and will report to their training camp next spring. Out of some two hundred would-be ball players that tried out at the Seals Stadium, our Odero was one of the eight chosen as a prospective big leaguer. It's tough to lose a good half-back and conference batting champ but nevertheless we'll all be pulling for you to come through in the "Big Top", Odero.

The "Great Madness" has caught up with us in real earnest. In this column, on this page, in fact, filling the sport pages of the entire country you will find nothing but FOOTBALL. If you happen to be one of those peculiar individuals who don't like the grid sport you'd better go into hibernation for the next few months—its the only way to escape the Pigskin Plague.

New method to keep in good health—eat the proverbial apple every day AND remain friends with the Telesmanic brothers. We've heard that you can develop a bad case of raw hamburger complexion by harboring an enmity towards these lads.

What famous gridder made that nasty noise produced by placing the tongue between the lips when he was told State had vowed to topple our Rambling Rams. Tsk tsk tsk . . . we'll see if you really meant it next Friday.

Things you'll never see: Dick Holmes without a grin . . . Ed Quirk with a text book . . . Wes Olson without El Pearce . . . Bob Fex without a word.

And then there is the co-ed who asked Duke Dorsham how many innings he played against Los Angeles.

Some of you who don't know our grid stars personally have expressed a desire to get acquainted via the printed word . . . so here goes. TYLER McHUGH—[illegible] mighty atom—was a main stay at [illegible] center spot last year—unruly brown [illegible] with blue eyes that actually sparkle—to quote one of his team mates "Ty's a good head"—which means he really knows his football.

JACK TELESMANIC—very rugged looking individual—built close to the ground—capable of a swell game at guard when inspired—has blonde curls that are the envy of the femmes—hates to be called "Fat".

FOREST MORRISON—the studious type—wears glasses and seems to always be loaded down with books—is the man in the cage—tall and slender—runs from fullback—tricky runner in the open field—team's best kicker.

"BRICK" BRICKLEY—Truly a "Red" Rainer—reaching top form after a slow start—looks like the Irishman in the "Pat and Mike" stories—is a real artist at smashing interference from his tackle position.

We've often wondered at the absence of a tackling dummy on the practice field—but of course there are the "Goofs".

A hiss and a big bronx cheer to the manager who forgets to bring out a water bucket to the Lamb grid contests. The boys have a bad case of cotton in the mouth along about the third quarter but are forced to suffer in silence. How about being a little more thoughtful, Louie and Carl?

'Round n 'round in the sports whirl . . . Al Ice cream! Cohn has given up a prospective grid career to manage fighters—that's what he says, anyhow . . . Felix Anido has definitely given up school . . . Bill Schoenfeld startled the coaches by appearing on the field with both shoes on for the first time this season . . . Walt "Baby Blimp" Loving holds some kind of a record for drinking soda pop—four quarts a day . . . Tom Caldwell is the brave soul who dared to wear those gorgeous red and white trunks to his gym class . . . the rumor that Randy Osborne sleeps with his hat on is branded as false—although he was seen entering the showers with his sombrero adorning his brow . . . Henry Anderson is the gridder who is always accompanied by that cute blonde lassie.

The small turnout for our football rallies certainly is no incentive to the ball players. It's no act of charity but an obligation to every right spirited student to show up at these affairs—after all its our school they are fighting for, so let's everybody show up for the big rally tomorrow night. SHOW the boys you are REALLY with them. BE THERE!

Down in L. A. Pete Jambruno heard some Angeleno remark that the best thing Los Angeles has is Hollywood so Pete hastened to remind him that "San Francisco has Daly City". S'what, Pete, s'what!

'Tis said that our new red uniforms looked very swanky indeed down south. They'll get their first local airing Friday night, so don't forget to mumble "ahhh how nice" when the RED RAIDERS make their appearance on the greensward.

Eddie Gardner who played at a halfback spot for the Lambs in the beginning of the season is now first string at Bakersfield Junior College. Who says the competition at this school isn't tough!

Bill Dow, the new candidate for a position in the Ram lineup played with Bobby Grayson in high school. If that disease that made Bobby such a great footballer was contagious, we hope that Bill caught the germ too.

. . SPORTS . .

HERE'S ONE REASON WHY

It was blocking like this that was greatly instrumental in the Red Raiders' victory over Los Angeles last Friday night. Although taken in practice, this picture shows what happens in every game. George Pedrin (left) and Charles Kremesic, guards, are spilling Vasco Vanelli very neatly. Vanelli has now left college, so perhaps the man in the air should be Dave Smith, who is rather hard to stop. His breaking through to block a Los Angeles kick made the Rams' second score possible.

TITLE-BOUND BEARS IN CRUSHING WIN OVER GADDY'S FLYING LAMBS

After fighting the Mission High Bears to a virtual standstill in the first half, Coach Jack Gaddy's Flying Lambs succumbed to the diversified attack of the Prep League leaders in the final quarters, emerging on the short end of a 25-0 score.

The College reserves began the game by punching over three first downs through the center of the strong Bear forward wall but were held for downs on the Mission twenty. The Ramblers continued to dominate the play until the closing minutes of the second quarter when the preps, with the brilliant Mike Klotovich as the spearhead of the offense, began a sustained drive which culminated when Pop Elder's great back found a hole in the right side of the Lamb line and galloped fifteen yards for the first score.

In the third quarter Gaddy's charges again began to click at Gene Lowenthal and Jim Rielly made yardage through the heavy Mission line, but a quick kick by Gray put the Lambs in a hole and, when Flamm's punt was short, Mission gained possession on the jay-see thirty, where they executed a clever triple lateral pass that enables Francisco to make the second Bear tally. The third Mission score came when Simmons, Bear guard, recovered Joe Manning's fumble in the air and ran fifty yards unmolested to register the touchdown. Late in the final stanza, Klotovich tore huge gaps in a wearied Lamb defense and scored from the five yard line standing up. Gray drop kicked for the extra point bringing Mission's total to twenty-five.

Andy Oddstead, Sims Hamilton, Gil Biggs, and Carl Brogger were the standouts on the Lamb line while Merv Wiener, Gene Lowenthal, and Joe Manning performed well at the back spots. Klotovich starred for Pop Elder's crew and Braun, Stipic and Davis were also potent factors in the Mission victory.

Crewmen Prepare For Competition In Columbus Regatta

In preparation for San Francisco's Columbus Day Regatta, the college crew is now practicing three days a week at Yacht Harbor. This regatta will bring together the oarsmen of Bay District junior colleges and high schools over a 5-8 of a mile course at Aquatic Park.

As the race is a sprint, shorter than the standard distance of 1 1/4 miles, coach Jack Gaddy's men are being drilled in a slightly shorter stroke than usual, calculated to produce better results over the abbreviated course.

On port side are Gordon Partee, Dick Wright, Bob Neal, Ed Wagstaff, and Jerry Flamm, with Captain Joe Kissel, Ty McHugh, Ed Craig, Tom Buchan, Jenning Smith and Bill Schoenfeld handling the sweeps on the starboard. Bill Cordano is coxswain.

The Columbus Day race will be followed by a similar one on Harbor Day, though probably over a different course.

Eisan's Men Slinging Horsehide in Sunday League Ball Games

Practically every member of the Ram baseball team has been playing ball on various club and semi-pro outfits in order to be in top form for the J. C. nine. Larry Wilgus, Tony Scafani, Bob Fex, Jack Telesmanic, Dick Holmes, "Babe" Lucchesi, and Ed McSweeney have all been members of the local "Sunday League". This group of veterans should be a pleasant package for Coach Lee Eisan to open next spring.

WORLD'S SWIM MARK HOLDERS ON J. C. POLO TEAM

With Bob Mowat and Herb Brotman, members of the world record holding 400 medley relay team, as a nucleus, the college water polo team will play its first game of the season with the Olympic Club squad soon.

The complete team is composed of Joe Buchalter, forward, Bill Cox, forward, Bob Mowat, forward, Herb Brotman, guard, Dick Simon, guard, and Bob Winberg, goalie. They will also meet college freshman teams.

The brightest and most spectacular comet on record appeared in 1843. It was plainly visible while the sun was shining, and its tail, which was more than 200,000,000 miles in length, swept across the horizon.

SWEET RAMBLING RAMS ARE HEAVY FAVORITE TO TOPPLE GATORS FRIDAY

Fired to a fever pitch for their "Big Game" with San Francisco State College, Russ Sweet's undefeated gridders will invade Robert's Stadium Friday night to tackle Hal Harden's eleven. The Rams, fresh from their triumphs in the South, will rule as favorite in the nocturnal battle, but anticipate a stiff fight from the rejuvenated Staters.

This game, fast assuming traditional aspects, will be the Rams' fourth encounter and the Jaysee men will be battling to keep their record unblemished, while the State squad will be fighting equally as hard to make a come back after their disastrous meeting with Marin J. C.

STRONG LINE

The fast charging J. C. line which has stopped everything that has come its way thus far should be the deciding issue in the contest. Russ Sweet expects to see his forward wall "move out" the bulky State linemen if his men continue to play the kind of ball they exhibited in Los Angeles.

Sweet announced his line will be composed of practically the same men who started the Cub contest which means the end spots will be held down by the Veterans Adolph Pedrin and Glenn Allen. The tackle positions will probably be filled by "Montana" Smith and Pete Jambruno, both of whom spent a great part of the Southern game in the Los Angeles backfield. At guards will be the powerful "Killer" Kremesic and the speedy George Pedrin who also started in the Southern game. The starting job at the pivot position is still undecided with Roy Rutherford and Duke Worsham battling for the call.

The State line with Dick Quarg at end, Bill Ferem at center and Harold Duell at guard, considered to be the best men, will outweigh the Ram forwards but seem to lack the speed of Sweet's line. After the trouncing received from Marin last week, Hal Harden is undecided who will actualy start the game but the above mentioned men are considered likely to be in there at the opening whistle.

CLARKE BEST

George Clarke will be the main cog in the Ram offense and if "Snowflake" can ramble like he did against Marin and Los Angeles he should have a big evening at State College expense. George is being touted for all-conference honors at halfback and his performance Friday night will be closely watched. The other half spot will be held down by big Jim Wilson who also should be a potent factor in the Ram attack. Tom Mauer the line cracking fullback and the diminutive Glen Wunderling will complete the backfield. Forest Morrison, the long distance kicking right half, and "Lamby" Allen, a shifty left half, will probably see considerable action.

STATE OFFENSE

The State offense, which failed to click against Marin, is being rebuilt around Daryl Hopkins and will feature a diversified lateral passing attack. Pete Perdoni and Bob Kelnhofer are the other ball toting backs upon whom backfield coach Dan Farmer is depending to make yardage Friday night. Perdoni is rated as a brilliant open field runner and if the State line can spring him into the clear he is liable to cause trouble for Sweet's charges.

In the two games they have played so far this season the State outfit has trounced the Mare Island apprentices but were badly beaten by Marin J. C. last Friday night. A victory over J. C. would put the Staters back up on top so Hal Harden's boys will be out gunning for a war.

CONFIDENT

The Rams have been scored against but once in three games and, on paper at least, should have no trouble in adding the State College to their list of victims. The wins over the Gaels, Mariners and the L. A. J. C. have given the Rams reason to be confident but Coach Sweet fears an attack of "big head", a disease that is very prevalent among football teams.

The contest will be the first appearance of the Ram squad in a home game and everyone will have an opportunity to give the Rambling Rams the support their performances this season deserve.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Ardell White

Remember last semester's mixed doubles tennis tournament? We're having another soon, October 19, to be exact, so if the latest flame thinks he's another Fred Perry here's his chance to prove it. Sign-ups will be held in the Powell Street office from October 7th to 14th . . . The W. A. A. singles ladder tournament starts this week.

And here's what Charlie Butterworth would call a scoop; Veronika Pataky, famous dancer and disciple of Mary Wigman, will give a concert some time in November for the students of this college. Pataky has had several engagements at the Veterans' Auditorium . . . Plans are being made for a week-end ride to Rancho Carmelo in Carmel Valley, the trip to be sponsored by the riding club . . . W. A. A. golfers are holding a putting tournament.

Students in restricted gym classes are being taught the art of relaxation, something most of us could use in this hectic age. They have the use of a pleasant rest room, located behind Gym B, this facility being open to the rest of us as well as those taking restricted activities—a handy spot in which to recuperate after a tough mid-term.

Dean Browne, on visiting the Galileo gym while a Volley Ball game was in progress, muttered something about being able to lick EITHER SIDE single handed! Can the girls consider that a challenge, Mister Browne?

SIDELINE SLANTS

The Los Angeles game revealed many things heretofore unsuspected. Every player who made the trip was put in the game, and some of the heretofore comparatively unknowns loomed up as prospective champions.

Bill Ravetto was one of these. He did some fine line plunging while he was in the game. Like all of them, however, when it was all over, he kicked himself because he felt he could have done better.

Forrest Morrison was even better than ever. His kicking might have been more consistent, but his line plunging and passing reached peak for the season thus far.

Tony Scafani must have been somewhat chagrined at what was said here after the St. Mary's scrimmage, for his size was no detriment to his playing at L. A. as he created havoc during the last quarter. Because of misplaced pants, poor Tony was in street clothes during the first half, and looking plenty blue.

ELVIRA IN HEARSTVILLE or the Diary of a Collegiate Journalist

Oct. 1—Dear diary, how I long for the peace and quiet of Hickville! The bustling city of San Francisco can be most cruel. Ah, me, the lush grass, the quiet streams, the babbling brooks, the lovely wild flowers of my father's goat ranch! But enough of this meditation. I must relate a sad experience I had yesterday in the heart of this teeming metropolis.

The day dawned bright and sunny, and I went to school full of the joy of living. Walking down mountainous Powell Street, however, I slipped and would have fallen had not a masculine arm caught me. The gallant gentleman was our editor, who immediately instructed me to go to the Examiner office and obtain a certain picture.

Not having any idea what the Examiner might be, I asked Templeton Mc-Quiddle, who told me that it was a newspaper, and kindly offered to escort me there via the Market Street Railway. After much street-car riding, we arrived at our destination, where Templeton left me.

The building is an enormous one, and I had to ride to the twelfth floor before I reached the newspaper office. Entering it, I noticed a life-sized portrait of Governor Landon with "Love to Willy from Alf" written across it.

I stated my business to a secretary, who listened, and then said, "You'll have to go to the MORGUE." I could hardly believe it. "The morgue!" I exclaimed. She nodded. "It's just down the hall."

Trembling violently, I walked out of the office and down the corridor. Every step brought me nearer to the odious place. How could I enter that horrible room?

At length I came to a door. Over it was painted the word "Morgue". Remembering the indomitable courage of my illustrious ancestor, Septimus Blotz, who came to America as deck steward aboard the Mayflower, I shut my eyes and knocked. The door swung slowly open.

REGISTRAR REQUESTS STUDENTS TO APPEAR FOR EXAMINATIONS

Possibly forgetful because of the lapse of time, a number of students has neglected to appear at the appointed time for physical examination, according to J. Paul Mohr, Registrar.

These students are as follows, and Mohr requests that they appear in room 201, Galileo, between 3 and 5:30 o'clock p. m. on the specified dates:

OCTOBER 7

Merrel, Frederick; Smith, Robert; Bitgood, Fred; Halpern, Irving; McGuire, Bob; Dobbie, Donald; Nishi, Vernon; Lipman, Jerome; Chow, George; De Shields, Robert; Olinger, Allen; Argyris, James; Ravetto, Wm.; Hader, Carl; Stager, Robert; Salem, Bert.

OCTOBER 8

AMONG PRESENT

Paul Pitman, above, managed to take time off from his varied activities as assistant to President Archibald J. Cloud long enough to go to Los Angeles on the train with the team last week-end. He is an all around sport, as the gang will testify.

HE HAS THE REAL SPIRIT

Jim Fahn, above, wanted to see the Los Angeles game so badly that, with Eddie Fredieni, he hitch-hiked down south. There's a lesson in true college spirit, the kind that really counts.

IT NOW HAS COMPANY

These are some of the Dianas whom a reporter described in a story on page one of this issue. Look where those arrows hit, and maybe you won't be afraid to play William Tell with them.

SEEK CONFERENCE HONORS

Above are members of last semester's soccer team. Entered in the conference now, these men hope to bring home another championship trophy for the college. This semester's squad will be pictorially shown soon.

PART OF MEDICAL DEPARTMENT'S WORK

Last semester, the medical department conducted tuberculosis examinations. Above is a picture taken while a test was being made on a Guardsman reporter (yes, she was found perfectly healthy). Incidentally, there are still some students who have not availed themselves of the compulsory physical examinations. Their names are listed in columns five and three of this page.

MORE OF THIS COMING?

Among the many activities of the men's club, wrestling and boxing tournaments have had their place. Last semester, as a feature of the athletic card, a masked marvel—unknown until he was unmasked by Maury Schwartz in the ring—made his appearance. Here he is, nonchalantly applying a spread-eagle while posing for the camera.

Between 1866, when a patent on the Roberts-Torpedo, a device for shooting wells, was granted, and 1880, when its legality was upheld by the United States Supreme Court, infringements were so widespread that they resulted in the filing of 16,000 suits and countersuits. And Roberts won every one that was brought to a decision.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TAKES 60

50 Minutes Consumed for Discussion of Social Activities; Budget, 10

One full hour was virtually wasted last Wednesday at the weekly meeting of the Executive Council, when that body politic spent 50 minutes in discussing the duties of the Social Committee, and passed the Associated Student Body budget in less than 10 minutes.

The meeting opened with Caroline Orginni, recording secretary, reading the minutes of the preceeding gathering. She mentioned tentative plans for a swimming party at Sutro's for the near future which had been brought up previously. The matter was not discussed further.

Bob Nelson, Rally Committee head, reported that plans for the night Rally with San Francisco State College had been completed, and Deming Smith suggested that a guard be placed to protect the college banner in the event that inter-school rivalry reach too high a peak.

Nelson assured the group that no special protection would be necessary, and the matter was dropped.

Student President Bob Sisco then mentioned several points drawn up regarding the extent of the Social Committee's duties. Much discussion centered around the question of whether or not it was a function of the Social Committee to stage the semi-annual freshman reception.

KISSEL "NOT SURE"

Joe Kissel alleged that previously some of the women's groups—he wasn't sure which ones—had done the job in a rather haphazard manner, and had finally had to call up on the Skull and Blade to put over the event.

Later in the discussion, Dean of Women Eugenie Leonard corrected Kissel's impression, informing the group that the women, basically, no one else would, had handled the event unaided, and had done a "fine job of it under the adverse circumstances."

MATTER SETTLED

Gene Blumenthal and Adolph Pedrin pointed out that the freshman reception was obviously a social function, and consequently should be handled by the Social Committee. The Social Committee, however, through its leader, Student Vice President Donna MacPherson, did not express any great fondness for the idea.

At the suggestion of Edwin Browne, assistant dean of men, it was finally decided that the president of the Men's Club and the president of the Associated Women Students should handle the muchly discussed event.

POINT STRICKEN

The next point brought up by Sisco, that the Social Committee should set a standard of some sort for social events, was another bone of contention. It was maintained by some that this involved actual police duties by the Committee at dances and similar affairs. The Executive Council finally voted to strike that point from the list.

The most important item of the meeting, the proposed budget, was then presented. Kissel brought up the point that was mouthly thrashed over—and thought settled—last semester, namely why the Associated Women Students should receive more money than the Men's Club. After logical explanations that seemed to satisfy most of members present, the Council passed the budget without further ado.

POM-POMS—WHAT, NEXT?

Although the money allotted for the sophomore formal was cut to $200, Dean Browne assured Sophomore President Eddie Schwartz that the event would take place in adequate style.

The Guardsman scribe left the meeting when the proposed sale of pom-poms at the State game appeared imminent as the next subject for wasted discussion.

Causes of War Are Discussed at Forum Club's Last Meeting

Next Gathering is Scheduled for Nov. 3, with Literature as Subject

Discussing the causes of war, the College Forum Club held an informal meeting last Wednesday evening at the home of Mary Gale Konkel.

With the reports of two persons used to start the discussion, a variety of subjects was touched upon during the evening. Contributions from the members resulted in bringing forward much information, and the exposition of different view points added interest to the discussion, according to members who were present.

Although the aim of the club is to keep membership low in order to preserve its essentially informal character, those interested in joining it should contact one of its members for further particulars, according to Patricia Matz, secretary-treasurer.

At present the membership consists of fifteen students and faculty members, Dr. Dorothy Mercer, William Goss, and Henry J. Ralston. The student membership is as follows: Patricia Matz, secretary-chairman of the group, Malcolm Longacre, William Sharp, Jane Kiddie, Betty Deming, Betty Brown, Madelon Brodie, Mary Gale Konkel, Anita Lauerman, Jane Kiddie, Mary Ann Heath, Jerry Hailbraun, Kenneth MacKenzie, and Donald Flash.

Selecting as its topic next time the question whether or not modern literature is indicative of a decadent civilization, the organization will hold its meeting Tuesday, November 3, at the home of Betty Deming at 821 Head Street, in the Ingleside district.

The budget approved by the Executive Council is published on page four of this issue.

Mohr Outlines System of Mid-Term Gradings

For the benefit of the new students and those not acquainted with the midterm grading procedure the following is an outline of the system arranged by J. Paul Mohr, registrar.

1—Midterm grades are turned in to the office by the various faculty members.

2—A letter explaining the system and the student's responsibility is sent with a list of any deficiencies to the parent or guardian of each new student.

After the end of the first midterm period, all subsequent deficiencies will be mailed directly to the student.

Low Frosh Class Plans Dance for November 6

Planning their first social event of the year, the Low-Freshmen Social Committee are laying tentative plans for their Big Dance, November 6, to be called "The Show Boat".

Under the direction of Roseline Kissel, vice president of the class and committee leader, the Low Freshmen plan to make this dance the biggest of their social calendar, for the current semester.

In order to check on latest developments the Social Committee is to meet in the Techau Cafe, Wednesday, October 14, at 1:30 p. m., Kissel said.

High School Gridders Are Feted at Banquet

Participants in the City High School Football tournament held a banquet in the Galileo Cafeteria Tuesday evening, October 6, under the sponsorship of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the San Francisco Junior College. All food preparation and service were done by the students of the hotel course, with 400 people served.

SNOOPY RUMORED SNOOPING ABOUT ALLEY; KITTY STILL NOT LOCATED

By Fern

Time marches on and still no trace of Snoopy, the A. W. S. mascot, whose mysterious disappearance has kept a major portion of the Associated Student Body on pins and things for the last two weeks.

Snoopy vanished shortly after his picture appeared in The Guardsman, and although several theories have been advanced as to his whereabouts, we are still as much at sea as ever.

An anonymous letter received last Wednesday revealed that Snoopy had been seen in the back doorway of a Bush Street bakery. Although it was hard to believe that a kitteen with a college education would mingle with the common alley cats, special investigators were sent to comb all surrounding alleys, with little or no success.

If, as was pointed out last week, Snoopy went down to the L. A. game, he should be back by now, unless of course, he was spotted by Walt Disney and given a chance to turn professional.

This, however, is only a supposition, so keep your eyes and ears open, and remember that any clues you may unearth will be greatly appreciated by the Associated Women Students and The Guardsman.

Local Club Members Pay U. C. Group Visit

Several members of the San Francisco Junior College Chinese Club were present last Saturday at the celebration of the anniversary of the University of California Chinese Club. The junior college members were shown numerous points of interest on the Berkeley campus and its environs. Heading the delegation were the president and vice-president of the club, Willie Gee and Ethel Chinn.

RIFLE CLUB SHOOTS BULL; MORE THAN 50 GET FIRING INSTRUCTION

Firing activities of the S. F. J. C. Rifle and Pistol Club started with a series of bangs as more than 50 students took advantage last Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of the Club's facilities for target practice at the Galileo Rifle Range.

Under the supervision of William Hancock, range officer, and John Stewart, president, strings of 10 shots were fired at standard National Rifle Association targets, while they were aiming, Hancock said he was well pleased with the scores made.

RIFLES ISSUED

Two latest model .22 calibre rifles, issued to the Club by the United States Army, were fired for the first time. The Club now has available four .22 and two .30 calibre Army issue rifles for target work, only the .22's, however, being used indoors. Plans are being made to fire the larger rifles at the Fort Funston Range later in the year. 10,000 rounds of ammunition accompanied the rifles which were recently received by the Club.

At a meeting last Friday, the members voted to affiliate with the recently organized San Francisco Small Bore Rifle League, comprising 15 Clubs. Stewart, President of the College Club, announced that competition with other league teams would begin on November 10th. Ten matches will be fired during the year, five at the Galileo Range, with medals offered for the highest scores in each match and for the highest aggregate season scores.

PRACTICE WEEKLY

A team of eight will represent the Junior College, members to be chosen by competitive scores fired during the regular weekly practice periods on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock at the Galileo Range. All Junior College students, both men and women, are eligible for Club membership.

Membership carries with it eligibility for the team, use of the Club rifles, and the opportunity to buy ammunition at a greatly reduced rate. As the Club is also a member of the National Rifle Association,

Soph Formal Plans Given by Schwartz; Committee Named

Price of Bids is Lowered to Increase Attendance; Nagel's Music Chosen

By Fleming Pope

Dance enthusiasts of the college will have the opportunity this semester to prepare ahead of time for the Soph Formal, to be given Friday night, Jan. 15. The Terrace room of the Fairmont Hotel was selected as the final choice of the Soph Dance Committee.

Edward Schwartz, high soph president said, "I believe the success of a dance depends upon advance notice". In keeping with this, Schwartz has released information for the dance.

Freddie Nagle and his 10 piece orchestra have been selected to play for the dance. To add that melodious touch, Shirley Jones will carry out the vocal strains.

The orchestra has completed a summer tour of Lake Tahoe and Rio Nido.

The price of last year's Soph Dance was too high, Schwartz said, so he reduced this year's to $1.25 per couple to insure a large attendance.

Schwartz also said he was planning on some college talent in vocal lines.

The Soph Dance committee consisting of Schwartz, Mike Garakian, and George Hagens, announced that any person selling 20 soph dance bids will receive one bid free.

BOARD SUPERVISORS APPROVE LOAN FOR BLDG. CONSTRUCTION

Marking another step forward in the progress of the building of the Junior College, the Board of Supervisors last week approved a PWA application of $522,000 by the Board of Education to carry on an extensive school construction program in '36-'37.

The application was sent to PWA authorities in Washington, D. C. As soon as the Federal Government grants the funds, action will be taken in the building of the college. The exact date of approval or disapproval of the loan from Washington is not known, according to George Mullany, publicity director of the Board of Education.

Catholic Students to Organize Newman Club

Formation of the Newman Club, an organization to be made up of Catholic men and women of the college, was announced by Eugenie A. Leonard, Vice President of the college.

The first meeting will take place on Friday, October 23, at the Galileo Auditorium, with Pete Jambruno acting as temporary president, and Patricia Bernard as secretary pro tem.

Father John T. Scanlon has been appointed by the Archbishop to address the group, and officers of the Newman Club of the University of California are expected to be at the meeting.

Beta Phi Initiates 3 Pledges; Plans Dance

Four members of the Alpha Chapter of the Los Angeles Junior College were present at last Wednesday's meeting of the Beta Phi Fraternity at 1090 Jackson Street.

With the assistance of the Alpha members, the three pledges of the Beta Phi were formally initiated into the chapter.

World Peace Will be Subject of Speeches

With their subject world peace and how it may be maintained, members of the Speech 8-A class will address local church groups in the near future, if tentative arrangements now being made go through, according to James Hughes, public speaking instructor.

Dorothy Fidean, Margaret Strandberg, and Fred Wright are at present preparing bibliography of available material on the subject for use in prepanng the talks, Hughes said.

To explain the purposes of the junior college and its importance in the public school system, class members may give a series of talks before Parent-Teacher associations later in the semester, Hughes indicated.

Nearly $2,000 in NYA Checks Are Distributed

One hundred and sixty-six men and women students received approximately $1864.44 in N. Y. A. checks last Thursday according to Helene Turner, N. Y. A. director for the college.

Miss Turner announced that there have been 12 students added to the N. Y. A. this month, and more jobs are opening up as the semester progresses.

"I would like to remind all N. Y. A. workers that all time slips are due on the 26th of each month, and if these slips are not in on time, no checks will be available," Miss Turner warned workers.

Work Applicants Asked to Check With Dean

All students with applications for work on file in the office are requested to check on them because the applications are not valid if the student has other work according to Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men. Browne also wishes to announce that there are several positions for men students who wish to work for their rooms.

FORENSIC ACTIVITY TO START

Chain Store Tax Bill Will Be Subject of Debates Held in Various Places

Forensic activities will swing into full action in the near future, with subjects and some of the teams already chosen, and debate schedules made.

Such is the announcement made recently by Lloyd D. Luckmann, debating coach, who also revealed that Eugene Blumenthal and Isabel Sherrat will constitute the team to uphold the negative side for a decision in a forensic meet with Sacramento Junior College on October 30, the subject to be Amendment 22, the proposed chain store tax.

A second team, not yet chosen, will also travel to Sacramento to uphold the affirmative of the same question, Luckmann said.

The same subject will be the topic of a debate to be held October 31 at Coalinga, where Robert Blattes and a teammate yet to be selected will meet Fresno Junior College's team, be announced.

Amendment 22 again will come to the front on the floor some time this month when Parnell Brown and Miss Sherrat meet the University of California Women's debate team at Berkeley, Luckmann said.

With elections not far away, the chain store tax subject may be aired before the student body at an assembly debate, to be held here, with the University team, Luckmann disclosed.

Hotel, Restaurant Class Takes Two Field Trips

Two field trips have been taken recently by the Hotell and Restaurant Management division of the San Francisco Junior College, according to J. Graham Sullivan, instructor.

On Saturday, October 2, the class in purchasing went to the Schweitzer Wholesale Butcher's Company for a meat cutting exhibition, and also to get some purchasing practice. Last Saturday, October 10, the engineering class took an all day trip to Berkeley Women's City Club where they inspected the engineering equipment and the boiler room under the supervision of Brandon Watson, instructor.

Students Must Drop Courses by October 23

That all students wishing to drop courses should do so by Friday, October 23, was the official announcement by Registrar J. Paul Mohr, yesterday.

Mohr suggested that students contemplating course changes bear in mind that regular students may carry no less than 12 units, and specials no less than nine. Because of the lateness of the term, new classes may be added only in special cases, Mohr advised.

FILIPINOS TO MEET

San Francisco Junior College Filipino Club will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Galileo cafeteria.

Plans for activities in the future will be discussed by the group, President Alfredo Galicia said.

DAY FOR OPENING WORLD'S GREAT BRIDGE APPROACHING: NOVEMBER 12

By Skip Irwin

On November 12 of this year, San Francisco and Oakland will begin a three day celebration that will not only mark a step forward in their progress, but will also be another step in man's conquest of nature.

The celebration will commemorate the opening of the largest bridge in the world, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. This gala affair will be the largest since the California Diamond Jubilee in 1925 and Lindbergh's reception in 1927.

The new bridge, the longest span in the world, nearly 218 feet high, is four and one-half miles long. England's "Queen Mary," world's largest vessel will be able to pass under it.

SURPASSES BOULDER

Not long ago, Franklin Roosevelt touched a button that started water through Boulder Dam. At that time Boulder Dam was called the "Eighth Wonder of the World." Another step forward in man's conquest of nature, this giant structure that will supply water to millions of acres of uncultivated land, and supply limitless electrical power, will soon give up its mythical title to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

This new holder of the "Eighth Wonder of the World" title may be the answer to the dream of many citizens of the Bay Region, that of incorporating the cities surrounding San Francisco Bay into one grand metropolis under the name of greater San Francisco.

PUBLICITY VS. ADVERTISING

"We want publicity. We want more publicity!" Such is an annoying cry heard too frequently.

Publicity to a newspaper man is what newspaper work is to the student of strictly formal English literature—rather low.

Anything outstanding will, in the due course of time, attract desirable attention on the strength of its own merits. Forcibly trying to attract attention before the public is ready to recognize a situation defeats the desired ends.

TIME IS ONE OF THE BEST JUDGES OF MERIT. LET TIME DECIDE.

Advertising, for various desirable reasons, is another matter, but one too frequently called, and confused with, publicity.

An event can legitimately be advertised, and frequently should be so handled. TIME, HOWEVER, NOT PUBLICITY, WILL DECIDE THE AMOUNT THE PARTICIPANTS IN THE EVENT CAN BE ADVERTISED. If they are deserving, their own merits will automatically take care of their advertising.

RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT

A common fallacy of students is their idea of the intense importance social activities—particularly dances—play in college life.

Take it easy, now, and read on with a calm and open mind.

No good organization is ever in a situation such that it cannot get along without any one of its members. Likewise, no organization worthy of the inference that it is organized is such that it cannot dispense with one, or several, of its originally scheduled or planned events.

It is said that students clamor for dances. It is known, however, that seldom does even one-fifth of the total student body ever attend any one dance sponsored by the college. Vigorous ballyhooing through that vulgar medium known as publicity can sometimes raise this percentage a trifle, providing some good show is not playing down town that evening, or it isn't raining.

DANCES, THEN, ARE FOR ONLY A VERY SMALL MINORITY OF THE STUDENTS OF THIS, OR ANY, COLLEGE.

It must not be inferred that this is a denunciation of dances, or a refusal to cooperate with their instigators. This is merely the publication of observations made over a period of time, and PROVED BY THE TEST OF TIME AND HUMAN EXPERIENCE.

There will, nevertheless, be dances and dances, and The Guardsman will, in the spirit of cooperation, still ballyhoo them to the high heavens—In the news columns, not in the editorial columns.

WHO'S NEXT?

There is nothing like taking a crack at everything while in the mood.

Said time and again before, it is still true that the fundamental purpose of a college, or of any educational institution, is to teach young people through the medium of the class-room, and to teach them matters of relatively lasting importance.

In the present day, there is entirely too much emphasis placed upon college matters not strictly educational, such as inter-collegiate competitive athletics, to the detriment of the more academic subjects.

Not one tenth of the students of most colleges tries for the team of any major sport; yet more money is spent for, and more is said about, these major sports than about anything else in the college. Sometimes it seems all out of proportion.

The virtues of competitive athletics are obvious—as are the detrimental, unwholesome factors. Ten years from now, however, what will today's average collegiate athlete have to show for his erstwhile prowess beside a few cloth letters, some press clippings, a limp, and scarred shins?

TO THE FOOTBALL TEAM:

Through errors and through defeat one learns how to minimize the errors and defeats.

The last game was a hard one to lose from the psychological standpoint. After all, however, it is not every day that a college gets to dedicate a stadium of its own, so do not begrudge the opponents the culminating glory of victory.

Learn from the mistakes of that game, rather, the weaknesses that must be overcome. Learn, further, that every opponent, no matter how seemingly weak before the game, should be thought of as, and handled as, the strongest.

BORROWER REWARD SLINGING

Earl Ennis:

Is it coincidence, or do you read our paper? If so, we should have no objections to your giving us credit for helping you with with ideas.

Perhaps you are unaware of it, but your recent column dealing with the music of cable-car bells appeared AFTER this column dealt with the same subject. You made note of Hung On, the maker of dresses, AFTER our observant and talented compatriot, Mac, had used it in his Foggy column.

If you want some more ideas, we suggest that you meander along Grant Avenue, just the other side of Sacramento, and observe where noodles Hang Far Low in neon letters a foot high.

The Bull (ex 6CP-CIE—also NELL, NUMP).

More Street-cars

Somehow, trolley anecdotes must creep in rather frequently. We cannot help it that interesting things happen on them.

Coming up Powell the other night, the rope-car was somewhat crowded. Contrary to usual habit, we sat down inside. Several people boarded at the Geary stop, and we arose to let a woman have our seat. Immediately, a measly, but apparently strong-legged, man slid into the space left vacant.

Somewhat annoyed, we plucked him up by the collar, and dropped him outside, where he was so red-facedly angry that he jumped off the car. We felt a trifle self-conscious at having become a focal point of interest so unintentionally, but the looks of approval and amusement on the faces of fellow passengers made the incident worth it all. And when a rather becoming and sociably talkative young lady in ravishing green boarded at the next stop and grabbed the same stanchion that we were using for support,—hey, again we're going too far.

Wanderers

Not that anyone is interested, but we like to talk about ourselves anyway. No longer do we go to sleep to the tune of Nob Hill cables humming in the slot several floors below. That doesn't matter, but we do miss those midnight bull sessions that we used to have with our Foggy roommate. Now we wander alone at midnight over the top of the Divisadero Street hill, watching the lights twinkle from across the Bay (if it is not foggy!) Ah, well:

"You to the left, and I to the right,
For the ways of men must sever;
And it well may be for only a day,
And it well may be forever."—Masefield.

PRESIDENT TALKS OF FUTURE EVENTS

By Bob Sisco

Well, it looks as though our exchange rally with San Mateo is going to be an actuality. Our second rally of the semester will be next Thursday afternoon in the Galileo Auditorium. Come on out to the rally, and support the boys who are going to bring the conference championship to S. F. J. C.

Another warning to the men—Ty McHugh (our A. M. S. president) has definitely set the date for the J. C. boxing championships. They will be held on Wednesday night, December the second. So, you pugnacious gentlemen, start training, and give the fighters a real go.

Complaints that painting of certain S. F. State property by junior college men caused abandonment of the dance after the game last Friday have been heard. No authentic proof has come to me, and I suspect that much of it may have been a "put-up" job to try to make the Staters mad enough to win the game—which they did.

Personally, I can't see that a little bit of paint is a matter over which to get very excited as long as there is no great financial damage involved. If, however, activities and friendly rivalry must be sacrificed, then I suggest that the artists of both—or of any other—colleges confine their paint work to paper.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

Without even the excuse of spring and with profuse apologies to Chief Poet MacArthur, we burst forth with the following:

These things I like, and many more,
Scotty Dogs, and junk galore.
Souvenirs, a ruby ring,
Hearing Frances Langford sing.
Chocolate cakes and football stars,
Chrysanthemums and candy bars,
"Gloomy Sunday," toasted buns,
Spaghetti, books, and lousey puns,
Rainy weather, hot tamales,
Red heads and those Powell Street trolleys,
Movie actors by the score,
These things I like and many more.

There is a new organization in the college which has no president, no initiation fee, and no particular purpose unless it be that of getting laughs out of almost any situation. Officially titled "The Lounge Lizzies," it is composed of a group of women students who gather in the A.W.S. social hall and make as much lady-like racket as possible. Their main accomplishment so far is the composition of a peachy college song to the tune of "San Francisco." There is no limit to the number of members, so go on down and join the fun.

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Warming the cockles of this scribe's heart, Audrey Stewart, State's blonde cheer-leader answered the dares of the J. C. bleacherite hecklers at the rally last Thursday night, and, dancing out onto the field, performed a series of flips which did credit to the efforts of our own Jimmy Fahn. Yes, indeed, we really enjoyed the surprised looks on the faces of our brawny lads, who had challenged Audrey to match Jimmy's tricks.

With the smell of the fog in our nostrils, we muscled our way into Roberts Stadium, Friday night, to watch the Rams do battle with State's warriors, and during some of the most exciting moments, the following words were overheard between a number of Staters:

"Will you look at that hat Sylvia has on?", remarked one feminine spectator, oblivious to the battle being waged on the field.

"Dick's taking me to The Palace tomorrow night", said another damsel, who probably didn't know who was playing.

The prize remark came when a slightly bewildered State rooter crawled laboriously over the crowd, which was on it's feet cheering lustily, and, reaching the object of his climb, finally succeeded in attracting his attention, then shouted, "My mother played bridge with your ma last night." (That from a male. It's a wonder he didn't faint in the excitement.)

Maybe we were wrong, but we were strongly tempted to ask just what the %$—¾$*!%—⅜ all this had to do with the carnage which was going on down on the field.

Around the town . . . Standing in a crowd, listening to the World Series broadcast, and watching the crestfallen looks on the faces of those who had wagered on the Giants . . . Getting an unparalleled view of downtown San Francisco from the top of the Standard Oil Bldg . . . Noting the scores of smartly dressed women which grace our city streets.

We'll probably Bob up again next week.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

No lack of fruitful material faces a column of this sort these days. At a glance: Soviet reported entangled in Spanish affair; bay bridge bill-board scrap; shipwreck; mutiny; flyer in the drink (or saved therefrom); McGrady coming back to take a gander at the waterfront situation; news-hawks racing about the globe; duel in Austria; "prepare for war!"—Mussolini; and that is not all of page one.

The famous humor magazine "Life" was bought by "Time" last week, according to reports. A 50 cent cigar to the local copy man whose genious inspired the headline, "Life Ends at 52; Time Marches On!"

Trouble, Trouble

Marine news is generally of interest to San Franciscans. When the Ohioan piled up off the Heads last Thursday, the sunny afternoon saw many a person on the overlooking cliffs.

A sturdy freighter, but one past the quarter century mark, the Ohioan, if unsalvageable (which is probably the case), will probably not be replaced, as she was no longer up in the running for the fast inter-coastal freight competition. What volumes of intercoastal and San Francisco maritime history the Ohioan and her sister ships could tell of the last 25 years! Too bad, too bad.

Going Fast

Being sentimental about the sea and her friends is tough these days; too many causes for sighs of regrets that progress must onward march.

The last of her line, the "Star of Finland," famous old Alaska Packers' windjammer, has been sold to the movies. Please, some kind-hearted soul, remind this column when she goes out the Gate. Her last departure through the Golden Portals (even though behind a tug-boat) should see many a lover of sea romance along the cliffs.

What the Japanese don't take, the movies do. Who knows, off hand, who got the largest of these sailing vessels, the semi-clipper, ex-Standard Oil Company "Atlas," sold to the Alaska Packers around 1906?

Still Marine

Borne from the cold north (reported near zero now) on the wings of radiotelegraphy last week, word of mutiny on board the freighter Tanana, anchored off Kodiak Island, Alaska, adds another page to local maritime troubles.

"There's many a strange tale comes from the far north," and men aren't always natural up there, but, dammit, shipping is one of the keynotes of Pacific Coast industry. Ships that do not move do not increase industry.

(Hey, Tom, let's chuck it all and head for Guadalupe.)

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

The Merchant of Venice

For their annual Shakespearean production, the Wayfarers tomorrow night will give The Merchant of Venice, in their playhouse at 1749 Clay Street, near Van Ness Avenue. The production will be given six evenings: October 15, 16, 17, 22, 23, and 24.

We first became acquainted with this amateur dramatic group exactly one year ago when it gave Hamlet, one of the finest productions of that play we have ever seen.

The cast for the play seems to indicate that The Merchant of Venice will fully come up to the high standards for which the group is known. Jack Thomas, director of the group, will play Shylock, and Dale Frederick, Portia. Others in the cast include Lynn Miller, Natalie Park, Jerald Elwood, Paul Langton, Edward Pope, Elmer Collett, Franklin Harwood, Don Bartholomew, Floyd Whitfield, Robert English, and Wesley Thulander.

It Can't Happen Here

Another advance notice we deem of great importance is the Federal Theatre Project's It Can't Happen Here, which will come to the Columbia October 20. Opening in 14 other key cities throughout the United States on the same night, the play will be adapted to each locality in which it is shown. Adaptation from the novel was done by Lewis himself, and J. C. Moffitt, Paramount playwright.

'GATORS WIN: RAMS READY FOR MATEANS

STATE GETS 2-0 WIN IN BIG UPSET

Traditional Spirit Grips Rivals as They Play Decidedly Over Heads

By Bob MacArthur

A fighting State team which capitalized on every break, and refused to concede the superiority of the highly favored Rams, scored a stunning upset victory, Friday night, October 9th, at Roberts Stadium, by a score of 2-0.

The 'Gator's two points came on the first play of second quarter, when the left side of the State line broke through to block Jim Wilson's kick, and send it rolling out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

The Rams started out as though they were going to fulfill all the predictions of a high score. Faking the opening kick-off on their own 25 yard line, they began to roll up yardage with Morrison and "Lamby" Allen alternating in packing the ball, reaching the State 39 yard line, where failing to gain, Morrison kicked, the ball going out of bounds on State's 10 yard line. An exchange of kicks found the J. C. team in possession of the ball on State's 15 yard line, when the 'Gator safety man fumbled Morrison's punt.

Allen picked up six yards in two cracks at the line, but the threat was short-lived as a fumble occurred on the next play, and an alert State linesman pounced on the ball. That was as close as the Rams ever got to the Stater's goal-line, and although they tore up the center of the field during the rest of the game, either a fumble or an intercepted pass stopped them short of pay-dirt on every march.

In the third quarter, the Rams were not to be denied, when after forcing State to kick, they again began to ramble toward the State goal line.

Allen, in at half for Clarke, turned the State end in for six yards, and Wilson made it a first down in a plunge over center. Another shuffle pass, Morrison to Allen, was good for twenty yards to the State thirty. The battling State line then turned back the drive of the Rams by holding them to three yards in three plays. State took the ball on downs as the third quarter ended.

In the final quarter, a desperate J. C. eleven gain began to move, but found itself unable to push the ball over the last marker. With Forest Morrison ripping off several long runs, the Rams continued to threaten the State goal line, but found themselves confronted with a doggedly determined 'Gator defense that was playing inspired football and refused to allow a J. C. touchdown. With seconds left to play, the Ram attack carried the ball deep into State territory but was halted when Phillips intercepted Morrison's long pass. When the Rams again took possession of the ball, a frantic passing attack failed to penetrate the Staters' defense as the gun sounded.

The game as a whole was rather dull to watch, except for a few highlights. The Rams appeared over-confident at first, but as the game wore on, and State's two points loomed bigger and bigger, they became over-anxious, and an epidemic of fumbles resulted.

State held a decided edge in the kicking department, and this resulted in the Rams losing on every exchange of punts. The J. C. forward wall showed up well under the thrusts of Bill Harkness and his cohorts, yielding but 42 yards, and smearing the 'Gator attack for a total loss of 35 yards, a net gain of seven yards.

A glance at the rest of the statistics shows that State hurled 13 passes, completing 7 of them for a net gain of 76 yards, with two intercepted by the Rams. The locals threw 15 forwards, of which only three were completed, for a gain of 53 yards, while they likewise had two intercepted. Each team fumbled 6 times, but State recovered four of theirs, while the Rams only regained two of their bobbles.

The Rams made six first downs from scrimmage, and two from passes for a total of eight. State made two from scrimmage and two through the air for a total of four. The Rams totaled 171 yards from passes and rushing, to State's 118 yards.

Morrison and Wilson averaged 29.8 on their punts, and the 'Gator punters averaged 39.9 yards.

STARS IN DEFEAT

Captain George Clarke, played great football, while his mates, notably Dave Smith, George Pedrin, Pete Jambruno, and Jim Wilson, have nothing to hang their heads about in defeat. The victorious State eleven fullback Bill Harkness was a standout. Bill Feren, Bud Chandler and Pete Pedroni were also leaders in upsetting the Rams.

SOCCERMEN HEADING FOR LEAGUE'S TITLE

By Ed Talavera

In contrast to last season, the Rams shin-diggers seem to be heading for a championship after winning three games and tying one.

Although it has played only high schools, the team shows a powerful offense and a strong defense. The first real test will come when its men tangle with the University of California squad.

In their first game of the season against Galileo Lions, they displayed a brilliant offense. Having possession of the ball throughout the game, they gave their defense no chance of being tried.

In their second encounter, they returned in the second half to score two goals and barely nose out Polytechnic High. Again, in this game, they showed a strong offense.

Overconfident after winning two straight games, they met a strong Lowell team that completely outplayed them and held them to a scoreless tie. In this game, it was proved beyond a doubt that the defense is as strong, if not better, than the offense.

With their heads back to normal size again, they came back fighting to defeat a team of stubborn Commerce Bulldogs.

The Rams' first conference game will be against San Mateo on October 31. The San Mateo team is classed as one of the best in the league, with an array of peninsula stars.

The team is composed of Klebanoff, Odone, Taylor, Oberhause, Nelson, Jublonsky, Evans, Johnson, Zegura, Frediani, Leprosky, Zuardo, Fenton, and Fackley.

Lim, star left wing, has been lost to the team because of ineligibility.

U. C. FROSH BOW TO WILSON SOCCERMEN

Outplaying the California Frosh defensively and offensively, the Rams soccer team game them a 6-0 trouncing Saturday at Edwards Field in Berkeley.

This victory is their fourth for the season. Thus far they have won four straight victories and have tied once.

The first score came late in the opening quarter, when Jim Fahn took a pass from Johnson, and sent the ball sailing through the crossbars for the first point.

In the second quarter, the varsity really went to town, scoring four goals in rapid succession. Johnson made two, while Evans and Vinson each tallied one.

Coming into the second half fighting to gain back lost ground, the Bears made attempt after attempt at the Rams' goal, but were checked by the strong Red and White defense. Max Evans, center half, and Ellard Taylor, left half, were constantly in the midst of their offense, and broke up their plays with effective kicks.

In the final quarter, the Frosh again pounded at the Rams' goal, but were stopped by the Rams' stubborn defense.

In the closing minutes, the Rams took the ball up the field, and Bob Vinson scored the Rams' sixth goal.

This performance proved to Coach Tom Wilson that his team has more than an even chance of winning the league championship.

To compare the team with a couple of others, Marin has dropped two games to the Cal Frosh by the scores of 3-1 and 4-1 respectively, and San Mateo was defeated 1-0 by Galileo High, whom the Wilsonites trounced 3-0.

GOING UP

A new enrollment record has been set by Stanford University, it was announced late last week by the university officials. The total registration was 3921, which exceeds both last year's comparable figure and also the total all-quarter high. Last year's two-day registration total was 3783, and the previous all-quarter mark was 3895.

. . DOLPH DECLARES . .

By Adolph Pedrin

History repeats itself. Three years ago, a heavily favored Saint Mary's team dropped a 9-6 decision to a team that wasn't worthy of playing on the same field. This little team, Nevada, played heads up ball, and walked away hand in hand with Lady Victory.

Last Friday night, as you all might know by this time, a 20-1 favorite Ram varsity fell before a mediocre State team. So, you see, you can never tell what will happen in a football game.

The dedication was truly a great one for State. They played heads up football, and victory made the affair complete for them, while it shattered the Ram's hope for an undefeated season.

For Bill Harkness of State, we have nothing but praise. A truly great player, and the one mostly responsible for the 'Gators' victory.

To the Rams I say, WE WERE DOPED. State didn't act the way they should have.

San Mateo will present a great backfield in Seals Stadium next Friday night. Higgins and Vance Peters rank with the best in the league, and will give the Ram ends a tough time.

Be at the game next Friday to witness the rejuvenation of the Red Raiders.

Pete Jambruno and George Pedrin have been the most consistent players on the varsity this fall. They are not spectacular, but gains through their side of the line just aren't made.

Joe Guedet ranks among tops with the ends. Joe completed three out of three passes attempted, and played a whale of a game all around.

To Russ Sweet and the rest of the coaching staff who were sorely disappointed in the outcome of the last game, I say, speaking for the team: We've learned our lesson, know our mistakes, and are going to give our best from now on.

Well, gang, we stumbled on that one, but we're not licked by any means. Let's get the hump-to-tiddy up and go. San Mateo by two touchdowns . . . let's take them. What do ya say, gang?

COMING UP

Earthquakes as well as wars, land purchases, and treaties, have been known to increase considerably the size of a country. In 1822, an earthquake in Chile permanently raised its coast and added more than 100,000 square miles to its land area.

SIDELINE SLANTS

Sometimes sports writers talk too much, and say too little. The last game of the Red Raiders, however, proves that for once this one was right.

Remarking about the St. Mary's scrimmage several weeks ago, this writer called attention to the fact that Russ Sweet's proteges were weak on the pass defense.

Again, after the Los Angeles game this wraning was sounded—but to no avail. Last Friday night's debacle conclusively proved that the Rams have absolutely no pass defense. If it weren't for the classy tackling of Glenn Wunderling, even larger gains on passes would have been made by State.

It is said without fear of error that a team with a first class passing attack—for instance, one like the College of Pacific had the first year Alonzo Stagg took over its grid team, when Tom Wilson was hurling them out for 40 yards at a crack—could rain passes on the Red Raiders in such a manner that the final score would like like that of a track meet.

Despite the fact that they lost, the Raiders played very good football in many respects. The blocking and tackling was, on the whole, of first class calibre. The line, on defense, was the best that could be found in any junior college circles, and on offense was just about the same.

It is hard to condemn a football player because he makes a few fumbles. It is only natural. They are not immune from nervousness and excitement. Disheartening though it may be to see a team lose the ball on fumbles when in a scoring position, it should be passed off as just too bad.

Frankly, this writer is averse to the publicizing of certain games as "big games", and to the endless ballyhooing of the great spirit of "do or die for dear old Rutgers" that is calculated to permeate each team.

This system puts both teams to a disadvantage. It makes them nervous and excited, and prevents their playing good football. In the case of State, of course, it did work to advantage, as that outfit played way over its head. That, however, does not always happen. They could have suffered from nervousness just as easily as did the junior collegians.

There is little to worry about nervousness in the San Mateo game, unless it be on the side of the Bulldogs, who have every right to be afraid of the Red Raiders. All indications point to the best played game of the season for Sweet's supposedly rejuvenated squad.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Ardell White

First inter-class W. A. A. game of the season! This distinction will belong to a volleyball tilt being played Thursday at 5 o'clock in the Galileo gym between a team picked from Miss Kuhn's Monday-Wednesday, and Tuesday-Thursday vol-a volleyball tilt being played Thursday at ball club coached by Miss Keller. It is to be an official game played off in 15-minute halves, and everyone is cordially invited.

CLUB NEWS

The volleyball club extends a challenge to any team of co-eds in the college. Come on, gals, where's your nerve?

Recreational Games—sign up in Gym A for badminton and ping-pong tournaments; non-members eligible.

Riding—Save the week-end of October 24. A week-end at famous Rancho Carmelo is the attraction. All co-eds interested are invited; entire cost, about $10. Look forward to a moonlight ride at Roberts' at the Beach and dinner. Dig up your best boy friend for this one—it will be held sometime in November. Also in November there'll be a moonlight ride at the Vally of the Moon.

Fencing—This club was disbanded because of lack of equipment. Club members are advised to sign up for another W. A. A. sport immediately.

Tennis—Rules of the ladder tournament; challenge three names above you on the ladder, play one match each week. At the end of the tournament, the first nine women on the ladder will represent this college at a tennis play day to be held in November. Sign-ups for the mixed doubles tournament will end Friday. Sign up in the Powell Street Office.

Archery—Inter-class tournaments are being held, with a college tournament scheduled for the end of the term.

Golf — Several inter-collegiate play days for this club. An overnight trip to Carmel at the end of the semester is planned.

LAMBS TO MEET ARMY'S ELEVEN

Coach Jack Gaddy's Flying Lambs are scheduled to meet a highly favored United States Army eleven as their next gridiron opponent, Saturday afternoon, October 17, on the Monterey field.

The Lambs, hoping to redeem themselves for their recent defeat at the hands of the Mission Bears, are looking forward to meeting the Monterey squad with a variety of new plays and a tricky offense.

Other games to be played in the future include the Sacred Heart team and the Galileo varsity.

DON FROSH NEXT ON SHINDIGGING LIST

Fresh from its 6-0 victory over the California Frosh, The Ram soccer eleven will tangle with the powerful San Francisco Dons Saturday morning at Beach Challet field.

The Dons, three years intercollegiate champs of the Pacific Coast, will be out to maintain their high standing, not wishing to be defeated by a mere junior college team, as they have already been tied by the Bear varsity this season.

This game will give the Rams a chance to test their defensive strength as the Dons have a huge bone crushing aggregation, which to date has blasted many of the high school teams in this city by eight and ten goal margins. If the Rams can hold the Dons to one or two goals, Coach Wilson feels that they will be able to hold their own against any of the conference teams.

REJUVENATED RAIDERS WILL MEET BULLDOGS IN FRIDAY NIGHT GAME

By Don Mix

A rejuvenated Ram squad will invade the Seals Stadium Friday night, aiming at its second Conference win in an engagement with Coach Murius MacFadden's San Mateo Bulldogs. Sweet's Red Raiders will be attempting to do a comeback after being upset by San Francisco State College.

The night game is expected to bring together two of the strongest teams in the conference, and a win for the Rams will put them back on top, giving them a strong grasp on the championship trophy.

Despite the disastrous encounter of last week, Coach Russ Sweet announced that he plans no sweeping changes in his lineup. He is undecided as to whether or not he will start the so called second team, or throw his full strength into the contest at the outset.

If he decides to use the shock troopers, many new faces will be present in the starting lineup. The end spots will find Joe Guedet and El Pearce, while the tackle jobs will be held down by the two bombastic redheads, Will Dolman and Charlie Brickley. Randy Osborn, the Bakersfield ace, and Jack Telesmanic are the second choices at the guard spots. Duke Worsham will handle the pivot position. The back field is composed of Ray Englehoffer, Wes Olson, Bill Ravetto, and Forest Morrison.

Regardless of which eleven takes the field, Sweet is planning to use a far more diversified attack than was displayed last week. The shuffle pass, which was so effective against State, will be augmented by a series of tricky laterals. The backs have been working all week on pass defense, and they will not be caught flat-footed by the Bull Dog aerial attack, which is reputed to be very strong.

Head Coach MacFadden and his assistant Lee Bissett have a team made up of many former high school stars and several stars from last year's team. Al Giese, a veteran from last season, is considered one of the finest tackles in this sector, while Joe Armini is expected to be a standout at guard for the Bulldogs. In the backfield, Don Ledebore, a hard plunging fullback who can also kick and pass is rated a main offensive threat.

Wallie Higgins as quarterback is a brilliant open field runner and signal caller. The rest of the starting lineup will probably be made up of first year men, MacFadden anticipates.

The San Mateo contest was called off last year for reasons unknown, and last year's Ram gridders will be wanting to settle the score with their Peninsula neighbors. Since it will also be the Rams' chance to prove that they can come back, a hard struggle is expected before the Bulldog will be subdued.

RAM-blings

By Don Mix

The Red Raiders will lower the boom on San Mateo Friday night in an attempt to add the Bulldog hide to their collection of pelts. The scarlet scalp of Mr. Madigans Gaels, the salty top knot of the Marin Mariners, a badly scarred Cub skin from down south, and of course there is the State 'Gator but we're trying to forget that one—and now the San Mateans tempt fate by tossing their unsuspecting Bulldog in the path of inevitable destruction, the path of the ruthless Rams.

* * * *

A bit of school spirit went wrong when some of those very ardent rooters who followed the team south were stopped by a nasty Los Angeles policeman who objected to the whispering Rams yell—when the boys tried to give it on Hollywood Boulevard.

* * * *

"Red" Wright is that bundle of energy you see pleading with every broad beamed six-footer to sign up for crew.

* * * *

One man's opinion—Bill Ravetto is the most improved gridder on the squad. George Pedrin will be the best guard in the conference. Pete Jambruno is the most consistent lineman on the team. Gene Lowenthal is the classiest of the Lamb gridders.

* * * *

The so-called "Old Guard" are being hard pressed by the freshman footballers. Among the leaders who seek to oust the veterans from their starting jobs are El Pearce, Charley Blumenthal, Will Dohlman, Duke Worsham and Randy Osborne on the line, while Ray Engelhofer, Wes Olson, and Joe Manning are fighting to get a starting call over the vets at the back spots. These are the boys who give the squad such a wealth of reserve power.

* * * *

Gridders note . . . a recent survey among leading college football teams shows that 75 per cent of their serious injuries received in the pigskin sport are to the knees.

Those two amusing individuals who haunt the football field and the dressing rooms every day with their amusing (?) pranks are Jim Reilly and his friend "Gilhooey." They are reputed to be harmless.

The soccer team has come into its own! After being veiled in obscurity so far this semester, the shin-bruisers broke into the news in a big way—note the sport picture (which has been the sole property of the football team to date, is now being taken over by Coach Tom Wilson's boys. The team has played four games thus far in the season, and was tied once, winning the other three. The boys have yet to play a conference game, but in view of its record against outside competition, it will be rated a strong contender for the title. Among the mainstays upon which Coach Tom Wilson depends are Ellard Taylor, fiery little halfback, Bill Johnson, a hefty fullback, and the elusive little forward, Jimmy Fahn.

It is true that our yell king is called "Half" Nelson because he divides his time between soccer and yell directing . . . well, we thought it was funny, anyhow.

Those vociferous young men who were shouting the praises of the Lambs during the State game were—you guessed it—the Lambs. Somewhere, I remember reading that self praise was reputed to have an odor.

Try to find some solace in the fact that that four state men were carried off the field, while all the Rams finished on their feet.

Knute Rockne once said that the true test of a great football team was to be able to come back after a defeat and knock over everything in sight. Friday night we will find out if we have a great team.

ALLISON PICKS VARSITY SQUAD FOR GRID SEASON

BERKELEY.—Still harassed by weakness at the ends and inexperience at the tackle positions, Head Coach Leonard B. ("Stub"). Allison has designated forty football men as the varsity squad that will probably carry the burden for the University of California on the gridiron this season.

Of the men picked to wear varsity jersies, fifteen come from San Francisco Bay region cities. Of the remainder the majority hail from southern California.

Players on the varsity squad at the University of California who come from towns outside the immediate bay region are:

Ends: R. E. Thompson, Alhambra; Willard Dolman, Santa Barbara; Edwin Gough, Colton; Ned Thomas, Pasadena.

Tackles: Ken Cotton, San Marino; Milton Pollack, Hollywood; David de Verona, Ocean Beach.

Guards: James Stone, Santa Barbara; Alfred Souza, Tracy; Claude Evans, San Bernardino; Vard Stockton, Alhambra; Angelo Reginato, Dunsmuir.

Centers: Bob Herwig, Pomona; Stan McCaffrey, Whittier; Len Collier, San Gabriel.

Halfbacks: Floyd Blower, Santa Ana; Morris Pollock, Riverside; Sam Chapman, Tiburon; Ray Winterbottom, Alhambra.

Quarterbacks: John Meek, Upland; Lucius Ades, Pomona; Ted Willson, Santa Monica.

Fullbacks: John Howard, Covina; Dave Anderson, Los Gatos; Vic Bottari, Vallejo.

GREAT CELEBRATION WILL FETE OPENING OF LARGEST BRIDGE

Traffic Will Start Moving At 12:30 O'clock P. M. On November 12th

CULMINATION OF DREAM

The dream of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge dates back to 1907, when Leland Stanford, one of the builders of the Central Pacific Railroad, proposed its building. It was, however, laughed down as being visionary. If he were alive today, he would realize that his dream has come true.

The bridge, when completed, will have cost $77,200,000. The work of construction began on July 9, 1933, and will be entirely completed in January, 1937. There will be nine travel lanes and two car tracks. It is estimated that 30,000,000 automobiles and trucks will traverse the bridge annually. The California toll bridge authority has set the toll at 70 cents per car, and the commission hopes to exclude "jitney" fares or the extra for each passenger in a vehicle.

REVENUE ESTIMATED

It is believed that the sum made available by the Federal Reconstruction Corporation on funds purchasing the bonds of the California Toll Bridge Authority will be paid back in 1954, through revenues collected by tolls from motorists crossing the bridge. Tolls will also be collected from fares of interurban passengers.

The bridge will be lighted by the largest sodium lighting system in the world. The system will consist of 35 moon-like lamps, each having slightly more than 100 square inches of light radiating surface.

IS LARGEST

San Francisco Bay, world's largest harbor, not only has several of the 15 largest bridges in the world, but also can hold the combined fleets of every foreign power as well as that of the United States.

Dedication ceremonies will start at 10 o'clock a. m. November 12, in Oakland. At 10:30 o'clock Governor Frank F. Merriam will cut the chain of the East Bay entrance with a blow torch. The officials will proceed across the bridge to start dedication ceremonies at 11 a. m. in San Francisco. At 11:30 the chain on the San Francisco side will be cut. The Governor and his party and other officials will cross the bridge once more to a celebration banquet in Oakland. The bridge will be opened to public traffic at 12:30 p. m., where traffic will start moving from both sides of the bay.

DISPLAY FLASHY

There will be fireworks unrivaled thus far, to celebrate the opening of the bridge. Roland Oliver, public works expert, and Fred Schmidt, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce fireworks committee, will cooperate in arranging the fete. Supervisor Francis Havenner is the chairman of the celebration committee. C. H. Pincell is chief construction engineer for the bridge.

The following are bridges listed according to length of main structure: San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, 22,720; Golden Gate Bridge, 8,940 feet; Firth of Forth Bridge, 8,300 feet; George Washington Bridge, 5,600 feet; Ambassador Bridge, 3,640 feet; Delaware River Bridge, 3,536 feet; Brooklyn Bridge, 3,470 feet; Carquinez Bridge, 4,452 feet; Queensboro Bridge, 3,725 feet; Quebec Bridge, 3,240 feet; Sydney Harbor Bridge, 3,770 feet; Killvan Kull Bridge, 3,750 feet.

RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

In last week's Rams Horn column, you expressed the wish that someone "would accurately define a so-called humor column." Having often desired to be a fairy God-Mother, I thumbed through my trusty "new-peerless-home-school-office-self-pronouncingy Websters Dictionary," and found out the following interesting facts.

Humor, aside from meaning wit, merriment, caprice and what not, means "To indulge." Column, while it is defined as "A round pillar used to support or adorn a building," may also be considered "A division of the page of a book, etc."

So I guess it all leads up to the fact that you should use a division of your weekly "etc." "to indulge" in the desires of we simple minded students who enjoy a good laugh once in a while.

As our friend "Jester" says, a few chuckles never hurt anyone.

Yours for bigger and better laughs,

"GIGGLE-ETTE"

P. S. Why not ask Jim Fahn to bat out a column for you? I'll bet it would make even YOU laugh.

Note: Thanks. Now you scare up the column, if you want it se badly.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

The editorial concerning freedom of the Press published recently in the "Guardsman" gives a warning that cannot be ignored. Just as any problem should be considered calmly, and with an "open mind," so should communism. However, lack of access, as you suggest, is not characteristic of the American Public. Persons opposing communism should be open to express opinions, but not in a moment of hotheaded anger; an editorial suggesting a plan of action would probably meet with more approval. So far, though, no plan seems to have been offered.

E. F.

Note: How's for you to offer one? Or is it really needed? Do you not suppose that the dangb from the so-called red menace has been grossly exaggerated? —Ed.

* * *

Dear Editor:

In your column "The Bull Snorts," you soundly berate a rival paper for its errors, minor and otherwise. A little friendly rivalry, especially before a football game, lends interest, but your words fairly smack of smugness. To paraphrase, "Modesty is the best policy."

MILD MISS

Note: Suggest you read the 'contemporary' paper, and then send your little comment to it.—Ed.

* * *

Dear Editor:

Oh, to be an editor and have your copy all printed, uncut, uncensored and uncriticized-no matter how radical the basic theory is. It must be perfectly swell to be able to use all the adjectives you want and give yourself frequent pats on the back in every column, the way you did in last issue.

. . . Criticism is hard to take, but a lot harder to give when the plaintiff is a person entirely ignorant in the ways of journalism, and the defendant has been editor of a paper for three semesters; but I refuse to stoogo for anyone, as my coworker "Free Thinker" did in the last issue.

APPRECIATIVE

Note: Oh, to be an ordinary student, with nothing about which to worry, with no copy ever to write, never having to type out endless reams because so many students are too lazy to do any typing themselves. It must be perfectly swell never to have to bother to think of what adjective-might be the most appropriate, or never have occasion to be accused of utilizing a college publication for self-ballyhoo.

Ah, how nice just to sit back and pen criticism about things concerning which one knows little or nothing; with no regard whatsoever for fact or truth; never to be in a position where one's assistants might be called "stooges" merely because they have enough sense of responsibility and realization of limitation of ability to do what they are told.

Now nice, too, to be able to spend holidays fishing or loafing, instead of pushing a typewriter, swinging a paste brush, and answering telephone calls all day.—Ed.

* * *

Dear Editor:

How often have you heard the cry, "this or that 'mid-term' was unfair to the students?"

If the students do not believe that certain kinds of test questions are fair, why not do something about it. Why not form a "union" and make one cry in unison, instead of merely a few cat meows?

'Learn Much About Europe In Summer'—Ross

Anti-Fascist demonstrations in France —an episode in Rome during which he had to threaten to "break up the place" before his change was returned—these were only a few of the incidents experienced by John E. Ross, political science instructor, during the ten months he spent abroad last year.

According to Ross, who left for Europe via the Red Star Line at New York, the largest city in the world is really the dynamic, powerful place of legend and story.

"I think a college student, if interested in delving beneath surface facts, could learn much about the European situation in one summer," commented Ross, who also remarked that economic stress abroad is especially serious in Fascist countries.

COLLEGIATE ATMOSPHERE?

Santa Rosa J. C. students will have the unique experience of rubbing elbows on the same furniture on which condemned inmates of San Quentin ate last meals when the college co-op lunch counter purchases tables from the penal institution.

—OAK LEAF

ROBBED? NO, JUST HABITUAL TIDINESS

An undergraduate from Princeton—a senior he is, too—decided to spend a week-end in New York City. He took up his residence in a hotel, slept away Sunday morning, and then rushed out for a couple of afternoon visits. When he got back to his hotel that evening and asked for the key, he was astonished to be told by the clerk in lugubrious tones that something regrettable had occurred. Would the man mind stepping into the office? There he was informed that during the day his room had been entered and rifled; the chambermaid had found it in a terrific state of disorder and reported it. They'd waited for him to return before touching anything and would appreciate it if he'd go up now with the house detective and make out a list of what he was missing. The young scholar went up with the detective, and when he saw the room realized it was unquestionably in a state of sad disorder. It looked familiar, however, and a check revealed no objects gone—everything exactly as he'd left it, in fact.

PALACE OFFERS COLLEGE NIGHT

The Palace Hotel is offering a joint San Francisco-San Mateo junior college night following the football game between the two institutions next Friday night, according to word received from the hostelry's college representative.

Note: So-called "college nights", put on by hotels, are not official functions of the Associated Student Body. The College Executive Council may or may not, at its own discretion, sanction such affairs when an invitation has been extended by the hotel. Generally speaking, they are purely advertising measures taken by the hotels to get a good Friday night crowd—at a price.—Ed.

ELVIRA IN HEARSTVILLE

I closed my eyes tightly as the door opened, and a shaft of light struck across my fear-deadened brain. (This effective phrase is borrowed, dear diary, from Beatrice Burton, the distinguished novelist). Suddenly a raucous voice broke the silence. "Wadd'ya want?" it rasped harshly. Startled, I looked up. The man whose voice it was was a rough creature, seemingly at least seven feet tall. In one hand he held a heavy metal plate, and in the other an even heavier steel drawer. Picture my horror, dear diary, at this sight! He gave him one terror-stricken glance and frantically ran down the hall.

But the brute pursued me. Seizing my arm with one hairy paw, he rudely spun me around, remarking: "Geez, you're a crazy dame. What's de idea? Huh?"

Dear Diary, I trembled from head to foot, but managed to blurt out the purpose of my errand. The picture, the picture, the picture! At this he turned and led the way back to—I shudder at the name—the Morgue, which was an enormous room lined with tall, green file cases. I expected them to be filled with horrible bodies and things, but the man explained that "morgue" is merely newspaper parlance for "picture room" or "library", and that these files contained many pictures.

My burly host disappeared among the rows of file cases, and finally obtained the picture I wanted.—At this I was so delighted that I managed to smile, and he encouragingly patted me on the back, knocking me to the floor. The fact that he yanked me up by my hair helped neither my disposition nor my finger wave.

But enough of this narration—now for the exciting part! In the photographer's office I bumped into a young newspaper man who drove all stray thoughts of Templeton from my mind. His name was Robert Saylor, dear diary, and his Apollo-like physique, dark curls, and eyes of heavenly blue made him the personification of my ideal man. I was completely overcome when he picked up my picture and handed it back with a gallant bow. And my heart fluttered terribly when the divine creature, noting my bewildered expression, offered to drive me home in his wonderful orchid roadster. We are going riding next week—ah, me, love, youth, romance! Adieu, dear diary, I will have much to tell you anon.

COMMENTS

By Heinmae Hanrahan

To interesting S. F. personalities add the middle aged newsboy who stands on the corner of Geary and Van Ness peddling her papers in no uncertain baritone voice to transferring J. C'ers.

Winchell says the trouble in Hollywood is that they shoot too many pictures and not enough actors. Such wit—or should it be half wit?

A good way to quell an over exuberant mood is to go down to the Sixth St. entrance of the Post Office building and watch the "handcuffed" derelicts come stumbling out of the Federal Narcotic Court.

For the aesthetic element; Some morning take yourself down to the S. F. Opera Ballet School in the William Taylor Hotel and watch the ballerinas do their twirls. No charge, nothing to buy and nothing to sell.

Very, very sordid is the new play "Dead End", but critics advocate that we prospective citizens read it.

Last but not least, don't forget the man who claims that S. F. is going to sink in '38.

Tuberculosis Society To Put Seals On Sale In Month of November

By National Tuberculosis Ass'n

There probably isn't a student in San Francisco Junior College who hasn't seen an X-ray picture and the vacuum tube which takes them.

But imagine the feelings of a certain student in 1896 at Amherst College where the second X-ray tube to come to the United States was installed. As a matter of fact, you don't have to imagine his feelings because that student, Dr. Kendall Emerson, now managing Director of the National Tuberculosis Association, has set down his reactions.

"SCARED!"

"I was having my foot X-rayed and I thought it the most mysterious thing that ever happened," he says. "The professor put my foot on a little rest in front of the light. He gave me a box with a fluoroscope screen fastened on the front and a sight for my eyes on the opposite side. Through this I looked and was tempted to leave the spot in a panic. Before my eyes was the outline of my shoe as a shadow on a brighter background. I could see right through the leather and see the nails of the shoe which showed black against the screen.

"But far worse than that awaited, for as my eyes grew accustomed to the dim and ghostly light the outlines of the bones of my forefoot and toes came sharply into view. Were those bones mine? I wiggled them to find out and sure enough the ghostly bones began to wiggle, too."

"FOR OF YOU?"

The X-ray today is no longer a cause for amazement. Students are now familiar with this magic invention and realize its value as one of the modern methods of health protection. They are also interested in the problems of personal and public health, and know, for example, that tuberculosis is not only Public Health Enemy No. 1, but that it is also "The Foe of Youth."

Many schools have formed their own health associations and have become a potent force in spreading the gospel that early discovery of tuberculosis, plus prompt treatment, equals early recovery.

Young people throughout the nation play an important part in the annual sale of Christmas Seals, conducted by the 1981 tuberculosis associations throughout the country to finance their work in controlling tuberculosis. Although the death rate from tuberculosis has been steadily declining during the past thirty years, since the first seals were sold, tuberculosis still takes a greater toll than any other disease among young people between 15 and 25. For this reason tuberculosis associations have been putting more and more stress on preventive and case-finding work in high schools and colleges.

The 1936 Christmas Seals go on sale Thanksgiving Day. They depict a modern Santa Claus, symbol of good health, and carry the double-barred cross, the emblem of the tuberculosis movement. These penny stickers will raise funds for further health protection among students in schools and colleges.

Browne and Eisan Speak on Sports Broadcast of KYA

Assistant Dean of Men Edwin C. Browne and Backfield Coach Lee Eisan were guest speakers on Ernie Smith's sport parade broadcast from station KYA last Thursday night.

Browne spoke on the demand of scholarship among junior college football players, stressing the point that mere football ability alone was not enough.

In answer to Smith's queries, Eisan told how high school stars are evaluated when they try out for the junior college team, and also told of the qualifications of the college's coaching staff.

Eisan also related the story of how he ran interference for Benny Lom, when U. C. defeated U. S. C. as the result of Lom's 85 yard run for a touchdown.

Arrangements for the appearance of the two junior college men on Smith's program were made by Ernie Ambrose, publicity man for the college, and copy editor for The Guardsman.

Hastily Organized Crew Competes in Galley Race

A hastily organized junior college crew was entered at the last minute in the Columbus Day boat race and emerged victorious over their better prepared opponents in a very close race which necessitated an official conference to decide the winner. The galley slaves were awarded a trophy for their efforts in finishing on top in the struggle with several other junior colleges and high school boats.

Tentative Rifle Club Firing Squad Chosen

members may compete for medals offered by that organization.

INSTRUCTION BEGINS

All members and prospective members are requested to report at the Galileo Range this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon between 4:30 and 6:00 o'clock when regular instruction and practice firing will begin. Hancock, Coach of the Club, will supervise the firing, assisted by Mack Gar, ballistics expert for the 30th Infantry, who has been appointed Assistant Range Officer.

Hancock was a member of the rifle team representing all National Guard units in the western states at the National Matches held at Camp Perry this summer. A former Coach of the Tucson High School and member of the Arizona National Guard team, Hancock, now competing for the 250th Coast Artillery, is generally considered one of the outstanding rifle and pistol marksmen in the 8th area. Regular Army safety regulations are observed in all firing activities of the Club under his supervision.

SQUAD CHOSEN

On the basis of scores fired at the Open House last week, the following club members have been selected as a tentative squad for the inter-club competition starting in November:

Mss Brewen, Sid Farley, Dallard Ogilvie, John Stewart, Elwin Marg, Fred Wright, Kermit Wright, Richard Pitman, George Dieser, and Frank Doupnik.

DO YOU PLAY AN INSTRUMENT? WE MAY HAVE BAND

Vol. 3 WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1936 No. 7

AT LAST-MUSIC FOR GAMES MAY BE ATTRACTION

Students Seek to Form Informal Band; Call is Issued for Music Talent

Attempting to organize an informal band to play at the S. F. J. C.-Modesto football game to be held here next Saturday afternoon, musical students, who feel that the college has been without a band too long, issue a general call for all persons who play instruments.

Students interested in cooperating with this musical venture are asked by its instigators, Eugene Boomer and Donald Flash, to meet at 2:05 o'clock this afternoon at Galileo, in the north end of the inner court, by the sun dial.

CHANCE FOR TALENTS

Those unable to meet this afternoon may do so tomorrow, Thursday, at the same time and place, they said, with women players as well as men welcome.

The purpose of the group, they said, is to create college spirit, provide additional entertainment at the game, and to offer musically inclined students a chance to use their talents, which, they claim, in many cases have lain dormant, since the college is without instrumental classes.

TO PRACTICE SOON

Students will have to furnish their own instruments, Boomer said, and efforts are now being made to obtain music. According to present plans, a practice may be held one night this week at Galileo, he announced.

Boomer, former band leader of Polytechnic High School, will direct the musicians.

If this first venture meets with success, an effort will be made to preserve the group in the form of a club, with further aid given by Associated Student support, according to Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, who has heartily endorsed the enterprise.

Rifle Club Has Regular Practice Sessions Now

Regular practice sessions of the Rifle Club will be held this afternoon and tomorrow from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock at the Galileo Range. John Stewart, Club President, urges all students interested to become members of the club and attend the business meeting to be held at the range at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Range officer William Hancock will instruct in the sitting and kneeling positions this week in preparation for the inter-club matches which start next month. In these matches the four positions, prone, standing, kneeling, and sitting, are used, with proficiency necessary in all of them.

Interest in the club is growing, and a total membership of 50 students is expected by the end of the month.

Miss Ricciardi's Father Is Listed in Who's Who

Dr. Nicholas Ricciardi, president of San Bernardino Junior College, and father of Miss Patricia Ricciardi, English instructor here, is listed in the 1936-37 edition of Who's Who in America; according to the War Whoop, San Bernardino student publication.

Dr. Ricciardi, president of the California Federation of Junior Colleges, was awarded this honor for his outstanding achievements in the fields of education, the paper said.

Audiometer Tests Are Temporarily Postponed

Unavoidable delay has been encountered in giving the hearing tests that were scheduled last week, according to Paul M. Pitman, assistant to the president. The illness of Mrs. Mary Chase, the technician, is the cause of the delay. The man responsible for the giving of these tests is Dr. Frank H. Rodin, and as the audiometer apparatus is still in Pitman's office at Powell Street, they will be given as soon as Mrs. Chase is able to return.

DANCE DATE CHANGED

Originally scheduled for November 13, the semi-annual dance of the Beta Phi social fraternity, will be held November 20 at the Residence Club, fraternity officers have announced.

VANDALISTIC SPIRIT VIGOROUSLY SCORED BY BROWNE AT ASSEMBLY

Dean Calls on Students to Keep Name of College Untarnished; Roos Trophy Formally Presented; Coming Events Advertised by Student Speakers

Decrying so-called college enthusiasm and spirit that leads to defacement of rival college's property, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, vigorously scored such ideas as detrimental to the welfare of this institution, at a rally held last Friday afternoon in the Galileo auditorium.

"We have a basketball team that won the conference, world-champion swimmers, a football team that brought home a trophy from Los Angeles. Should their glory be overshadowed by acts of vandalism?

"The public spends money to educate us. We are asking for half a million dollars to construct us a building. Can we rightly expect these things if we do things that make the public think us unworthy of consideration?"

STUDENTS RESPONSIBLE

Such were some of Browne's words, as he pointed out that the responsibility for such misconduct lies not with the administration, not with the Associated Student Body, but with the individual students themselves.

Browne's talk on the subject came as a result of the splashing of paint on San Mateo Junior College buildings last Wednesday night by several students from San Francisco Junior College, who were apprehended by peninsula police, and hailed into San Mateo court.

TROPHY PRESENTED

Presentation to the college of the football trophy, donated by Bob Roos and won from Los Angeles through grid victory there recently, and of the football used at the same game was also made at the rally.

A trophy won by the crew at the Columbus Day regatta was also to have been presented, but because it was still at the boatyard's for engraving, this was impossible.

The Freshman Mixer, to be held in the women's gym at Galileo on the afternoon of October 23, was discussed by Don Tuttle, president of the freshman class.

ADVERTISES HOTEL

Donna McPherson, student vice president, advertised the joint "college night" sponsored by the Palace Hotel to have been held following the game with San Mateo Junior College last Friday night.

Athletic speeches concerning the crew and the football team were made by Joe Kissel and Coach Russ Sweet, respectively, with the introduction of Tom Mauer, fullback and captain for the San Mateo game.

Yells were led by Bob Nelson, head yell leader, and Deming Smith, assistant.

Chinese Club to Meet; Plans Dance and Game

Chinese students will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Chinese Y. M. C. A. to discuss plans for a dance to be held November 14, according to word from Chinese Club officers, who also request those interested in playing on the club's basketball team to attend.

A game has been scheduled with the Jessup team, to be played next Friday evening at the French Court, on Pine Street, it was disclosed.

Army and Navy Club Plans Trip to Naval Reserve Air Station

Plans for a trip in the near future to the Naval Reserve Fleet Air Base in Oakland were discussed last Friday at the first meeting of the college Army and Navy Club, presided over by President Gordon Sollman.

Three new members were taken in at the meeting, Don Smith, former ROTC major, and at present a National Guard sergeant; John Benton, former ROTC captain, and CMTC veteran; and Syd Farley, apprentice seaman in U. S. Fleet Reserve.

Bradley Schwarz, club member, mentioned the possibility of organizing a cavalry unit of the club, to be composed of students who have had cavalry experience at the CMTC camps.

It was also disclosed that the club now has a goat and a mule, the former kept by Francis Marsh, naval faculty adviser, and the latter by James S. Hughes, army adviser.

The next meeting of the club, at which discussion of initiation procedures will take place, will be held next Friday, in room 201, Galileo building, at 1:45 o'clock p. m., Sollman said.

'WIVES HIT 'EM, DON'T THEY?' WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM PLANNED

Encouraged by the attendance of four feminine students at firing practice last week, Bill Hancock, Coach of the Rifle and Pistol Club, announced that if a sufficient number joined the club, a women's rifle team would be selected to represent the Junior College in postal matches with other teams in all parts of the United States.

When interviewed by a member of the Guardsman staff, Hancock said, "I had the pleasure of coaching a women's rifle team at Tucson High School which was plenty good. It's all nonsense to say that women can't shoot. Look at the number of husbands that each year. Wives hit them, don't they?"

Feminine aspirants for the team will be coached by Mack Gar, Assistant Range Officer of the club and ballistics expert for the 30th Infantry. All women students are eligible to join the club, thus becoming eligible for the try-outs. Instruction and firing practice are on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at the Galileo Rifle Range, from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock.

HOUSEHOLD ARTS HOSTESSES FOR PICNIC TODAY

All Women Students Are Invited to P. M. Affair Scheduled For Grove

Members of the Household Arts Association will be hostesses to the women students of the college this afternoon at a picnic to be held at Sigmund Stern Grove from 2 to 4:30 o'clock.

Admission will be 25 cents, and the menu includes weinies and all the fixings, according to Jo Jordan, Household Arts president. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Association, she said.

PLAY JUMP ROPE?

"Everyone is assured of a good time, if jumping rope, or doing whatever she pleases, appeals to her," said Miss Jordan. "Outside of the serving of food, there will be no fixed program for the afternoon's entertainment."

Sigmund Stern Grove may be reached by the 17 car, getting off at Sloat Blvd.

To discuss plans for the joint fashion show and tea to be held in conjunction with the AWS, a meeting of the Household Arts Society will be held next Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in room 317, Galileo, Miss Jordan announced.

WILL ACT JOINTLY

This event will honor new students, and members of the Association and of the AWS will act as models, she said. Suggestions as to the store whose clothes will be modelled will be considered at the meeting, according to present understandings.

Last semester, the Household Arts Association presented the fashion show and tea independently. With the two women's groups getting together on this semester's affair, an even more successful one can be expected, officers of both organizations claim.

NYA Employment Lists Closed Until December

"No more applications for NYA work will be accepted until December, but any vacancies that may occur from time to time will be listed in the Guardsman," This was the announcement of Helene Turner, NYA director for the college.

"According to a WPA regulation" Miss Turner said, "Students who do not call for their NYA checks on the fifth day of each month, will lose them entirely as they must be turned back to the United States Treasury if not called for within ten days."

READING WEEKLY NEWS OF CAMPUS WHILE SEATED ON GALILEO BENCH

Absorbed, to say the least, are these students, as they peruse The Guardsman while seated on one of the benches in Galileo's court.

In a recent issue of Galileo High School's Pendulum, its Editor humorously remarked about the college students' penchant for green lawns. This picture, however, proves that they prefer benches (or maybe the grass was wet).

This picture, incidentally, is one that might well be preserved for posterity. A few years hence, when the college is in its own building, its former students can show this to their children, the students then, and reminiscently tell them of the glorious, hectic days, when Galileo's court, along with Powell Street, was a place for many gatherings— and perhaps romances.

Editorial

THOUGHTLESSLY SELFISH

That the proverbial spirit of college rivalry may, in a few instances, have soared to such heights that it spilled a drop or two of paint in slightly unethical places has been rumored.

Such action cannot be condoned, and, under circumstances found in most colleges, neither can it be greatly condemned. (What father who graduated from college in '98 does not relate with pride how he had a hand in such and such an enterprise against a rival institution; and, when his son gets caught in identical circumstances, does not soundly berate him for his childishness?)

This college, however, does not exist under the average circumstances. It is still a young institution that has yet to convince the general public of its worth.

Those students who, while acting with the best intentions, in any way deface property of other institutions (or of this one, for that matter), are thoughtlessly selfish. They are endangering the name and the very welfare of the college whose honor and prestige they foolishly think they are upholding by the consumation of their misguided enterprises.

AGAIN, THEY ARE SELFISH. Because their selfishness is born of thoughtlessness, perhaps punishment should be tempered with leniency.

TO SET AN EXAMPLE, HOWEVER, AND TO PROVE TO THEM THAT THEIR CONDUCT MEETS WITH THE DISTINCT DISAPPROVAL OF THOSE WHO CAN SEE THE POSSIBLE DIRE RESULTS OF THEIR ACTION, FELLOW STUDENTS SHOULD IN NO UNCERTAIN MANNER INDICATE TO THE OFFENDERS THAT THE LATTER'S DEEDS CAN BE LOOKED UPON ONLY WITH CONTEMPT AND WITH DECISIVE DISAPPROBATION.

Nelson Gets Real Ram (Or is it Goat?), and Nature Has Its Course

Not content with the mere pictures of the Raiding Ram of San Francisco Junior College published in The Guardsman, Bob Neal and his cohorts last week, through the efficiency of a local slaughter house, procured Tillie, a very much alive, though quite docile, animal for the San Mateo game last week.

"Although boasting a feminine name, it was said that Tillie was quite a man not-withstanding. As to the lack of family honor—well, we just don't know what did happen to Tillie since his picture appeared two weeks ago.

Being custodian of a goat—pardon, we mean Ram—has its disadvantages, as Neal can testify.

Brought in for proud displayal in the Administration offices at Galileo, Tillie had to be hurried out to the lawns.

Leaving the animal in the care of loving hands, poor Neal had to hurry back and scurry about for a dustpan and broom.

"Time and tide wait for no man."

AWS EXECUTIVES MEET TOMORROW TO DISCUSS TEA

By FEM

With cross representation of the Associated Women Students group and that of the Women's Athletic Association, a meeting of the former's executive council will be held tomorrow, according to Helen Davis, AWS president.

"The main purpose of the meeting will be to discuss plans for a fashion tea to be held in conjunction with the Household Arts Association on November 13," Miss Davis said.

Last semester, the AWS sponsored a series of teas, honoring student body officers from the various city high schools, while the Household Arts Association had its own private social functions; this semester, however, it was decided by all concerned to get together on the affairs for the purpose of sponsoring one large one, instead of several smaller ones.

The cross representation of the AWS and the WAA on the former's executive council marks the inauguration of an organizational set-up different from that of the preceding two semesters, as heretofore the athletic group's officers were not on the committee.

This arrangement indicates a possible trend toward more centralization of all women's activities.

RALLY AND TWO DANCE FEATURE FRIDAY EVENTS

Game Spirit to be Worked Up in Afternoon; Frosh Sprawl Next; Another Scheduled For Evening

With a rally and two dances on hand, next Friday afternoon and evening will offer a variety of entertainment for socially inclined students, according to present plans.

To stir up spirit for the football game with Modesto to be held Saturday afternoon at Kezar Stadium, a rally will be held Friday afternoon in the Galileo auditorium, beginning at 1:45 o'clock.

CAPTAIN INTRODUCTION

The captain for the game will be introduced at the rally by Head Coach Russ Sweet, and both will speak a few words on the coming encounter, it has been announced.

As a feature of the program, some local jazz orchestra will offer entertainment, if tentative plans materialize.

The yell leaders will direct the customary noise-making.

FROSH GET-TOGETHER ATTEMPTED

In a genuine attempt to get the freshmen together, a Low Frosh Mixer will be held in the women's gym from 3:30 o'clock to 4:30, according to Don Tuttle, class president.

The Mixer will feature dancing and a variety of games, Tuttle said. Admission will be free, but limited to the low freshmen, he announced.

DANCE AT NIGHT

Sponsored by the Social Committee, a dance for all students will be held at the Century Club, on Franklin Street near Sutter, Friday night, beginning at 9 o'clock, Donna McPherson, student vice president, has announced.

Admission to this affair will be 50 cents per couple with Associated Students cards, Miss McPherson disclosed.

Cafeteria Could Build Hot Dog Bridge—Yeh?

"The hot dogs served daily in the Galileo Cafeteria, if put in line, would reach to San Mateo and back!"

This startling announcement was made recently by one of the members of the Hotel and Restaurant Division of the college to a group of unsuspecting students.

"Furthermore", he said, warming to his subject, "These hot dogs would make a fine San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. For a bay under the frankfurter bridge the contents of the 300 bottles of soda-pop used daily could be utilized. For the pastrys on the purpose of sponsoring one large rolls used daily would make fine automobiles and the candy bars and ice cream used would certainly satisfy the most sweet toothed people."

At this point the listeners very quietly drifted away, and he may still be ranting, for all we know.

Filipino Club Plans an Outing to Island Soon

Either Verba Buena Island or the beach will be the setting for the first outing of the Filipino Club, it was announced by President Alfredo Galicia at last Thursday's meeting at Galileo. The members have decided to hold the picnic on the last Sunday in October.

Insignias for club pins are still under discussion, with a number of designs suggested by various members.

There will be no meeting of the organization this week.

PROSPECTIVE GRADS, NOTICE

All students contemplating on graduating at the end of the fall semester, January 1937, are requested to see Lambert Meyer in the Guardsman office at Galileo any Thursday or Friday afternoon between 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock as soon as possible to make appointments for graduation pictures.

TEAM COMMENDED

Excerpt from letter addressed to President Archibald J. Cloud from Frank A. Bouelle, superintendent of schools, Los Angeles, under date of October 7, 1936:

"May I extend my congratulations to the members of your team and the coaches on the line sportsmanship and skill exhibited by the San Francisco players, and also extend to them my best wishes for a successful season."

THE LITTLE HELPERS

If someone should care to analyze the matter of speaking and listening, he would find that, for the individual, the latter far exceeds the former, in most instances.

This, however, is contrary to the desire of the individual, but caused by the fact that inevitably a man must meet a number of fellow men in the course of an average day, and out-talking all-comers is a feat reserved for only a few hinge-tongued persons.

Unfortunately enough, there are too many of these swivel tonguers in the world, particularly among the rank and file of frequenters of educational institutions. [illegible]

Their [illegible] most conspicuous in the [illegible] upon themselves to alleviate [illegible] ring questions directed to [illegible] to mention pedantically) sharing their knowledge with all present; yea, they would even force it upon their listeners-by-necessity-not-by-choice.

Instructors are paid to do their jobs; students pay to be taught. Thoughtful students will not begrudge the instructors the opportunity of earning their money, which the less considerate ones do by endeavoring to teach the class from the sidelines.

We Stand UNCORRECTED

Friend President Bob Sisco jokingly berates The Guardsman in his column for the paper's report last week of the Executive Council's meeting.

Also in a vein of humor and friendliness, The Guardsman points with pride to the fact that its report of the meeting was accurate, and with amusement to the fact that Bob does not understand student meeting psychology so well as he might.

SEE RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT

He maintains that the Social Committee is one of the most important groups in the college, which; of course, implies that social activities are important. For the answer to that, in cold factual observation, readers are referred to an editorial appearing last week under the caption of RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT. That caption, incidentally, aptly describes such activities and their proponents.

It might not be amiss, also, to say here without fear of overstepping the limits of strict adherence to truth that the Social Committee is almost a nebulous affair, with about the only action ever taken by it that laid down at the meetings of the Executive Council. The Social Committee has always been a joke, even among its inactive members (that is nearly all of them!), most of whom are the first ones to say so.

ALWAYS THE HOWLERS

To get back to the other issue, however, Sisco reminds The Guardsman that the budget was passed in ten minutes because there was no one present who protested it, and because it was so liberal.

Ah, no, that is not it. Regardless of how liberal and just it may be (and undoubtedly is), there are always those few students who think it their duty to register righteous indignation, to call for more explanation, and to stand pat to the end in their contention that something should be changed.

BUT HUNGER CALLS

These so-called, self-imposed duties, however, are not so strong that they can subjugate the common, human elements of boredom, tiresomeness, and hunger. Members of the Executive Council sometimes get so tired of their own none too intelligent action that they will pass anything to end the meeting quickly. Such was the case after fifty minutes of discussion of a somewhat hazy Social Committee, and an even hazier social program.

Added to this, also, is the fact that the Council's meetings are held late in the afternoon, when the pangs of evening hunger begin to cry out for alleviation.

THANK THE WET BLANKET

It is not the intention of The Guardsman to condemn the Executive Council. In fact, under Sisco's leadership that group boasts meetings conducted far better than ever before. The human element, however, always creeps in, and any meeting of students (or of any young people, for that matter) is bound to be somewhat inefficient, with the resultant dwelling too long on relatively unimportant issues.

The Guardsman seeks only to offer constructive criticism in such a manner that it will be noticed. In fact, The Guardsman should be thanked for stirring up a little interest, and for offering an occasional brake on enthusiasm that is apt to exceed ability or to o'erleap the bounds of human elements.

THE BULL SNORTS
HYPOCRITE? PROPAGANDA HEAR BOTH

With presidential elections not far in the future, political talks become a major focal point of interest. Fortunately, this year there are two clear-cut issues at hand.

The loyal, principle loving Socialists will vote for their leader, Norman Thomas. A small Farmer-Labor group will favor Lemke, and the Communists, out of policy, will cast their ballots for Earl Browder.

The Democrats have a decided split in their ranks, with many favoring Landon merely because they distinctly disapprove of Franklin Roosevelt's interpretation of the Democratic party's policies. There will be some compensation for this loss of votes in that the Socialists who vote by common sense instead of love of principle will try to get half a loaf instead of none, by voting for Roosevelt. Foremost among these are Upton Sinclair's EPICS.

Some to Return

All good Republicans will vote for Landon, and many of those who bolted their party four years ago will return to the fold. On the other hand, many approve, in general, of Roosevelt's lines of action, and will support him once more.

If the American public were to judge the candidates purely on their speeches and speaking merits, Roosevelt would emerge victorious with about the same overwhelming majority by which he defeated Herbert Hoover in 1932. Roosevelt is one of America's most convincing speakers, and if he is not sincere in what he says, then he is the most convincingly successful hypocrite this nation has ever known.

From the standpoint of newspaper publicity, however, Landon is doing the better, simply because so many of the leading journals of today are in his favor, and their editorial writers are masters of their art. The known graft and miscarriage and mismanagement of many of Roosevelt's relief programs offer them decidedly fertile fields.

Justification

Roosevelt's principal campaign policy seems to center around justifying the steps his administration has taken during the course of the last four years. He is endeavoring to convince the American public that his administration saved the nation from utter financial calamity, that recovery is with it now, and that continuation of his policies is the only course open for complete recovery. To quote him from his recent Chicago speech, the "present administration pulled the train from the ditch, put it on the tracks, and got it rolling again. . . . Only the policies of this administration can keep the cars equally loaded, so that no axles will break from undue strain."

Landon and the Republicans, on the other hand, are centering their campaign around the denunciation of the present Democratic administration, seeking to prove that it has caused the financial undoing of the nation through wasteful spending. They continually stress the desirability of the American "rugged individualism," and the intense need of preserving the American form of government. This form of government will soon collapse if Roosevelt is permitted to remain in office for another term, they claim; they further imply that Roosevelt is steering the nation toward either Fascism or Communism, with his semi-socialistic enterprises. They fail to make clear to just which of these two forms the nation will drift, but utilize the bad features of each in their pronounced disapprobation of Rooseveltian policies.

Ballyhoo!

In brief, then, Roosevelt's stand is primarily one of defense and justification, whereas Landon's is one of condemnation and expression of fear for the safety of the traditional American form of government.

Probably never before has the thinking, unbiased American public (is there any?) had a more difficult question to decide for itself, principally because the distribution of obnoxious propaganda has reached such an undesirably and confusingly high state of development. Perhaps the best advise for those inclined to favor Landon is to listen to, and read about, Roosevelt just a little more than, or at least as much as, they do to and about Landon; and for the loyal Democrats to do the same concerning Landon.

Paul Gallico, famed sports writer, in an article in Vogue, says that there are only a few athletics in which women may participate and still look their best. His list includes angling, archery, flying, riding, shooting, skating, and back stroke swimming. Tennis, golf, basketball, fencing, badminton, breast stroke swimming, and track events are out, says Mr. Gallico, because they not only make a woman look silly but they keep her from looking beautiful, which, he explains, is a lady's business. Sorry to disagree with such an able sportsman as Mr. Gallico, but when college girls go out for sports, it's because they enjoy them or need the exercise, and not because they want to look beautiful!

EXECUTIVE EXCERPTS
By Bob Sisco

Hope those of you who attended our last rally enjoyed it. We are going to give you many more rallies and make them bigger and better every time. Please try and get there early, so that you won't disturb the artists.

At the last meeting of the Ex-Council, it was decided that any club or organization in the college wishing to have an event of any kind must make arrangements with the Social Committee to get a date on the calendar. Please do this, as it saves much confliction in dates and events. All athletic events hold preference over any social events. So, before planning an event, be sure that the date you wish is open and then sign up on the calendar. First come—first served. By adhereing to this plan, we can always have something interesting to do, and not have all the interesting affairs at one time.

In defense of the statements regarding the Executive Council in last week's Guardsman, I would like to say that the 10 minutes spent in adopting the budget were all that was required. All organizations that could possibly have any complaints against the proposed budget were asked to be at the meeting to voice their protest. As the budget was very fair, and at the same time very liberal, there were no objections and the budget was accepted.

On paying your six dollar fee, you are entitled to six dollars worth of activities. In my opinion, the group that can best give you your money's worth is the Social Committee, therefore the 50 minutes spent in discussing the Social Committee was devoted to give you, the student, more for your money.

A notice to the various men's sport groups that want recognition: place a request in the hands of the Board of Athletic Control and have the board submit a request to the Executive Council. This is the only way that a sport can be officially recognized.

OUT OF THE FOG
By BOB MacARTHUR

At the invitation of one of our contemporaries, and not without some misgivings, we shall confess, we attended our first "rasslin' " matches the other night. Suffice to say, not only did we enjoy them, but we laughed until the tears streamed down our cheeks. Really, gentle readers, (all three of you) if you have not yet been to a wrestling match, go at once. The grunt and groan artists put on a variety show which has no peer.

One can judge a wrestler on acting, punching, spitting, swearing, screaming, crying, and many other little points which you will no doubt discover for yourself.

. . . Failing to get either laughs or thrills from the matches, one can always catch up on his sleep, as we noted one blase spectator doing when a match was at its height. Finally, if your don't want to sleep, you may find great diversion in hurling chairs into the ring.

Strongly suspecting one Florence Murphy of being the writer of "We Women", we wish to congratulate her publicly on the neat bit of poetry which appeared in her column last week. It sums up the feeling we all have for this old town. Give us more, Florence.

Your correspondent, along with two of his colleagues, has got the wanderlust again. It's Spain that's calling this time. "Yeah, and get your head shot off?" rumbles a voice from the rear of the crowd. O well, we can always say blithely, "It was a good idea at the time".

Around the town . . . Pretending that the band, which was at the ferry to greet North Beach's favorite son, Joe Di Maggio, was playing for us, as we strolled nonchalantly off the boat the other morning . . . RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

I have found the editorial "Let the Man Speak very timely," interesting, and worth while.

The Editor's observations are all just and impartial, and the article hardly bears any addition, since an addition, in this case, would be superfluous. However, a few comments on certain parts of the article are not out of place.

The Editor refers to the American prejudice against socialism, "communism, and the allied --isms." I only want to observe that this prejudice is unfortunately not extended to Fascism.

As a matter of fact, certain recent events in Salinas (if I may give an example) have proved that the methods of the 'iron hand' are quite popular with those very men who are ready to cry out "unconstitutional" at anything that harms their interests; yet the community has done nothing about it.

But--about this 'red scare'. It seems to me that the American people are being very childish.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

So the King's friend will get a divorce, and the whole world must know about it. Who is this Mrs. Wally Simpson, that she should be publicized in streamers merely because she and her husband have decided to go their respective ways alone?

She is a friend of the King of England, so they say. But who, outside of her own acquaintances, cares? Probably very few. Yet the papers must make a great to do about it, and wide awake reporters will receive bonuses for minding other people's business so well.

It is a lovely scandal, anyway, and if the king himself finally becomes involved in a proverbial 'trangle', the world can well be agog with genuine news. All talk, however, probably describes his royal highness' connection with the affair.

Who Decides?

That a pacifist who would refuse to go to war would be doing wrong is the contention of a local psychologist, according to a report in the Golden Gater, San Francisco State College publication.

By refusing to support the side of justice, the pacifist would be aiding the unjust side, and hence be doing an injustice himself, the psychologist claimed, addressing members of the American Students Union.

The question arises, however, as to just how one can decide which side curries the favor of 'justice.' In almost any war, the average person of each side is firmly convinced that his side is completely in the right—and, each side is, morally speaking, justified in fighting the other, under such circumstances.

No, the selection of justice in wars by the average man is just impossible.

What a pity the newspapers did not get hold of the report when the 'indiscipline' took place. They could have made a great yarn out of it, blaming it on Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini, or even the emperor of Japan.

RAMS OUT TO SAVE CONFERENCE HOPES

RAM-blings
By Don Mix

It's easy to climb on the band wagon and cheer when the team's winning, but just let the boys drop a couple of ball games, and immediately they become forgotten men. Maybe it's because this department simply lacks sophistication, but somehow we don't feel at home in a group that passes off our defeated gridders with a laugh—we're still childish enough to believe in school spirit. We said they were good at the beginning of the season, and we haven't altered our opinion—WATCH THEM DO A COMEBACK AGAINST MODESTO!

* * *

Anyone who doubts the activeness of our coaching staff need only to come out to one of the heated varsity scrimmage sessions to see the mentors (sans pads) mix it up with the lads in the thick of the fray. And don't think the boys are pulling their punches either . . . it's really quite a thrill to shove the distinguished face of the Headman into the dirt—if you can stop him.

Without the benefit of any practice, the crew garnered another trophy for our fast growing collection.

We're just as enthusiastic as the rest of the student body about having a real, live ram as an athletic mascot, but we're forced to agree with Dean Browne that sheepherders Bob Neal and Don Mills should have housebroken the little darling before they paraded him through the administrative offices.

Grid-Irony . . . why is that the only time some players get a cheer is when they are being carried off the field unconscious—and then they can't hear it?

When the great players of this season are given their awards, the names of "Swede" Nelson and Hermie Hextrum will probably not be among them. Yet if they gave blocks for dogged determination, these two could not be left out. Stuck on the "Goofs" since the beginning of the season, they have never missed a practice, battling their hardest in scrimmages against the varsity without hope of the slightest reward. UNSUNG HEROES, we call 'em.

Speaking of the Lambs, these lads have threatened to follow the trend toward unionism by banding together in a group called The Veterans of Future Games (they hope).

It's a small world! Last fall your correspondent and a certain "Corky" Donohue were the tackles on a Los Angeles high school team. The same "Corky" Donohue has journeyed all the way up to San Mateo Junior College, and is one of the stars of the Bulldog eleven, while we, who have also done a little journeying, have become an obscure member of the "Goof" squad at this institution. Time marches on!

The fact that the Modesto Buccaneers' forward wall weighs almost 200 pounds per man should not daunt the Ram gridders. Remember, "the bigger they are, the harder they fall—right on top of you."

SAN MATEO EEKS OUT 7-0 WIN WITH CONTESTED FLUKE FUMBLE
By Bob MacArthur

What should have been at least a scoreless tie, became a victory for San Mateo, in the tilt with the Rams at Seals Stadium, last Friday night. When, on the last play of the first quarter, Tom Mauer fumbled on a wide end run, Lady Luck dropped the football onto the toe of one of the players, and it bounced back up into the eager arms of Dick Gillaspi, Matean fullback, who gathered it in and raced 45 yards for a touchdown. That score proved the margin of victory, for although outplayed for the rest of the game, San Mateo clung to its lead, and never relinquished it.

Pulling the same play which Marin worked on the Rams, the Mateans took the opening kick-off and kicked it back over the heads of the Rams. For the first few minutes, neither side showed much in the way of offensive power. The Rams appeared to be heading goalward late in the quarter, when with Mauer and Wilson carrying for good gains, they put two first downs together. The threat ended however, when Mauer fumbled on the San Mateo 45 yard line, and Gillaspi got in his dirty work to ring up six points. The conversion sailed through the goal posts and out of the stadium as the quarter ended.

Play see-sawed back and forth on the field, until about the middle of the second quarter, when a series of long runs by Clarke and Ravetto carried the Rams from their own 20 yard line to the San Mateo 38 yard line, where failing to gain, they punted over the goal line. San Mateo's Higgins then ripped off a 20 yard run, but three more tries were piled up at the line of scrimmage. Then came the longest kick seen this season, as Higgins booted the ball from his own 40 yard line over the Ram's goal line, a 60 yard kick.

Clarke made a run of 15 yards as the half ended.

PLAYING EVEN

Coming out for the third quarter with fire in their eyes, the Rams began smearing every play that San Mateo directed at them. Neither team gained much of an advantage in this quarter, and each chose to punt and wait for the breaks.

The Rams again managed to put a couple of first downs together, but were stopped short of scoring territory. San Mateo was consistently getting the better on every exchange of kicks, and the Rams were forced to start each march from deep in their own territory, as a result of the long kicks which the Mateans got off. The Ram line was charging fast, and nearly succeeded in blocking a couple of kicks.

FUMBLE DANGEROUS

As the quarter drew to a close, Clarke passed to Allen for 12 yards, and then Ravetto fumbled on the Ram, 33 yard line, where a San Mateo lineman fell on the ball, putting the Rams against the wall.

The first play was thrown for a loss of a yard, a pass was knocked down, and the Rams took the ball on their own 10 yard line. Two plays gained but a yard, so Wilson kicked out of bounds on his own 45 yard line.

STOPPED ON 34

San Mateo then made its strongest bid for a score, with a few short gains and a first down, but the threat ended on the 34 yard line, and the Mateans were again forced to kick over the Ram goal line. With another 20 yard run by George Clarke, and some swell bucks by Morrison, SF pushed the ball back to the mid-field stripe, before losing it on downs.

Ram passes were batted down on intercepted, and San Mateo continued to hold onto the ball as long as possible, for with seconds remaining in the game, they were protecting their 7 point lead. The game ended with the Rams deep in their own territory, attempting anything to get out and score.

RAM LINE STRONG

Holding a decided edge in the kicking department for the entire game, San Mateo kept the Rams with their backs to their own goal line. However, the San Francisco boys outplayed their conference brothers in just about every other aspect of the game. The Ram line, as has been said, showed up wonderfully well under the power attacks of the heavy San Mateo backfield, and in the second half, broke through quite frequently to nail the runner for three to five yard losses.

Clarke, Mauer, Ravetto, and Wunderling, were outstanding for the Rams in the backfield, while in the line, George Pedrin, Telesmanic, Jambruno, and Rutherford turned in their usual good performances.

San Mateo's Higgins, McFarland, Gillaspi, and Bancroft played bang up games.

AND THE STATISTICS

Some unofficial statistics gathered by The Guardsman shows that the Rams made 12 first downs to San Mateo's 5, and gained 209 yards from scrimmage while the Mateans were making 95 and losing 34 for a net gain of 61. The Powell Street gridders threw 8 passes, completing two of them for a gain of 13 yards, and had two intercepted by San Mateo, who tried only three forwards all of which were grounded. Total from scrimmage and passes, for the locals, 222 yards, San Mateo, 95 yards.

San Mateo fumbled once and lost it, and the Rams muffed the ball four times, recovering only once. The Rams averaged about 30 yards on their punts, as compared with San Mateo's better than 42 yard average.

Shindiggers Battle to 1-1 Tie With University of S. F.

Playing brilliantly throughout the contest, a strong San Francisco Junior College soccer team battled the University of San Francisco squad, last year's college conference champions, to a 1-1 tie on the Don's field last Saturday. Bill Johnson, taking a pass from Jimmy Fahn, scored for the Rams.

LAMBS GAME CANCELLED

Last minute schedule mix-ups last Friday night caused cancellation of the football game scheduled for the following day between the Flying Lambs and the soldiers of the Monterey presidio.

A game with Galileo is tentatively scheduled for next Friday afternoon, according to Jack Gaddy, Lamb grid mentor.

Soccer Squad Marches On in List of Victory; Defeats Mission 6 to 1

Led by Jimmy Fahn, tricky little inside left, and Bill Johnson, chunky center forward, who scored two goals apiece, the Rams soccer team showed further promise of making a strong bid for conference honors by kicking their way to an easy victory over the Mission Bears by a score of 6 to 1 at Beach Chalet Field last Friday.

Minus the services of its star players, Max Evans and "Killer" Vincent, the Red and White ran wild in the second half to score four goals, completely demoralizing the Bears.

FREAK SCORE

In the first half, the Bears put up a stiff fight, holding the Rams to two goals, one of them scored by a Mission player who was attempting to kick the ball out of Mission territory. Instead, it rolled off the side of his foot and into the Mission goal.

Scarcely had the echo of the whistle for the second half died out, when Bob Johnson whistled one through the crossbars. Not satisfied with only one goal, he returned three minutes later to send another one spinning through the posts.

FAHN REPEATS

Not wishing to be outdone by Johnson, little Jimmy Fahn duplicated the feat by scoring twice in succession. In the middle of the second half, after a scuffle in front of the Bears' goal, Fahn booted his first. His second score came when "El" Taylor kicked a high lob, which Fahn headed into the goal.

The Bears' lone score came late in the second half when Crabb, center forward, barely eked one through the Ram goal. Mission seriously threatened the Red and White goal only three times in the course of the game.

SAN MATEO NEXT?

Walt Odoni and "Half" Nelson, fullbacks for the Rams, constantly kept the ball out of Red and White territory by sending out long kicks. Klebanoff, Taylor, and Oberhause also played well for the winners.

Coach Tom Wilson reports that San Mateo looke like the team to beat in the conference.

The first conference game may be played next Saturday, if Coach Wilson sanctions a request by San Mateo to play the opener this coming Saturday instead of the scheduled midseason game.

FLYING LAMBS IN 7-0 WIN OVER H.S.

Outplaying the Commerce High gridders in every department of the game, Coach Jack Gaddy's Flying Lambs garnered a 7 to 0 win over the Bulldogs in a game held last Thursday on the loser's field. Sterling defensive play saved the prepsters from a rout, because the college reserves, playing their best game to date, were able to move through the Bulldogs almost at will when in midfield. The Commerce line, however, was able to tighten within its own 20 yard stripe.

The touchdown came in the second period, when Gene Lowenthal plunged over center for the score after a sustained drive from the Lambs' own 40 yard line, and then converted. The smooth working Lamb grid machine, displaying a series of tricky double reverses and spinners, had real offensive power for the first time this season.

Lowenthal, Jim Rielly, and Merv Wiener are the hard running backs who put the spark in the Ramblets attack and were able to move behind a clean-blocking forward wall.

The Lambs' superiority is shown by the unofficial statistics, the Gaddy gridders amassing some 12 first downs to three for their opponents. Another unusual feature of the contest was that the Lambs were only forced to punt once in the entire game.

The Lam line, which was so effective in stopping the high school footballers, was composed of Jenning Smith, Sims Hamilton, Bob Neal, Carl Brogger, "Snuffy" Eckermann, Andy Oddstead, and Bob Lee, while some of the backs who performed well were Bill Nelson, Bucky Walters, and Bob Fex.

Intramural Sports to Begin in Two Weeks
By Ed Talavera

Intramural sports, a long awaited affair, will swing into full action within two weeks, with basketball and touch football taking the spotlight, according to an announcement by Russ Sweet, head of the men's athletic department.

Teams desiring to enter are urged to select a manager, who is to report to Sweet as soon as possible at the Galileo gymnasium. There will be a managers' meeting soon to make plans regarding the rules governing the games, and also to draw up the schedules.

Any club team in the college or any gym class is eligible to participate. Varsity football players are ineligible to participate in touch football, and the same applies to varsity players in basketball.

In basketball, club teams such as the Skull and Blade, the Blinkers, and Kennedy's Krushers are only a few of the reputedly strong groups that intend to enter. The 2:30 T-Th. gym class also is reported to have a strong team.

Little is known of the teams that intend to enter the football tournament.

All games will be played in the afternoon between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock p. m.

More than 125 San Mateo J. C. students were recruited to fight a forest fire, last week, with the compensation being the community's gratitude and $5.00 for twelve hours work. —San Matean.

MODESTO FAVORED FOR NEXT SATURDAY'S GAME WITH 200 POUND LINE

Pirates Bringing Veteran Squad Against Sweet's Two Time Losers, Who Are in Desperate Mood As Last League Chance is Presented Them

By Don Mix

Eager for a successful raid on the shores of San Francisco, Coach Fred Earle's band of Buccaneers from Modesto Junior College will invade Galileo field next Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock to see whether or not Coach Russ Sweet's San Francisco Rams can come back after two successive defeats.

In a desperate effort to salvage conference hopes, the Rams are prepared to shoot the works against the powerful Pirates. Sweet, although still undecided as to his actual starting lineup, promises to put a fighting team on the field. Scrimmage sessions this week will tell just who gets the starting calls, he said.

PIRATES STRONG

The big buccaneer eleven will bring to town the heaviest squad in the conference, and will doubtless be favored over the twice defeated Rams. Earle's team is composed of an imposing array of powerful footballers who are undefeated to date and are rated tops in the conference race.

Among the stars of the veteran Pirate squad are Carlton Peregoy, a twisting, shifty runner who will carry the main burden of the Modesto offense. Another backfield ace for the Earlemen is Worlin Gray, who is considered to be one of the finest kickers in the Valley sector. These boys are aided by Bill Summers, a hard plunging fullback, and Jim Neeley, who performs at the blocking post. Coach Earle is also depending upon his reserve backfield made up of Manoogin, Lee Morati, and Glen Zinser to see much action in Saturday's game.

HEAVY LINE

The powerful Pirate forwards, the heaviest in J. C. circles, will prove a tough unit for the Ram offense to crack. Ray Delucci, the big, fast charging tackle has been a standout in the Buc's line, and Line Coach Gardner expects him to spend considerable time in the Ram backfield.

Lou Yank is a bulky guard who makes it hard to move through the center of the Modesto line, while his running mate, Frank Bostwick, uses his speed to pull down the plays from behind.

The end slot is filled by the veteran Joe Reginoto, who is being touted for all conference honors. Gordon Poole will handle the pivot position, and he is also another veteran. Dick Vlach, another one of last year's stars, has been out thus far in the season because of injuries, but hopes to get into the San Francisco contest as guard.

HARD SCRIMMAGES

Sweet has been letting the boys really go to it in the scrimmages held Monday and Tuesday, with every man trying to win a first string job after the shakeup. Red Brickley, who has been playing in the reserve roll much of the season, has been looking good, and possibly will be in there at the opening whistle to try to help start the Rams on that hard climb up the comeback trail. Pete Jambruno, who has performed well all season, is about the only other lineman who seems sure to start the game.

STARTING FIGHTS

George Pedrin, Jack Telesmanic, Charlie Kremesac, and Randy Osborne have been scrapping hard for the guard jobs, but Sweet considers it a toss up as to who his first choices will be. At this writing, it appears that Ty McHugh, third string center, is just about an even bet to oust Roy Rutherford from the pivot squad.

The fight for the end positions is being carried on in bitter fashion among Walt Loving, Glen Allen, Adolph Pedrin, El Pearce, and Joe Guedet, with the latter two given a good chance to top the veterans.

STILL HAVE CHANCE

Glen Wunderling's fine defensive work against San Mateo stamps him as a sure starter in the Modesto battle, while the hard running George Clarke will probably bear the brunt of the Rams' attack from his left half position. Jim Wilson and Lambert Allen have been alternating at the blocking right half position, with Wilson's experience seeming to give him a slight edge. Tom Mauer and Forest Morrison are rated about even at the fullback post.

Despite the San Mateo disaster, Sweet's boys can remain in the conference battle by tripping Modesto's team, and will be playing their best ball to keep the season from being a failure.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE
By Ardell White

Remember Dean Browne's rash statement that he could "lick the whole crowd" of feminine volleyballers with one hand tied behind his back"? The dean will have occasion to prove his contention a week from tomorrow, when eight well-known men of this college will play the women's volleyball team in a tilt that should provide plenty of fun. And Dean Browne will play on the men's team with one hand tied behind his back! Don't forget the date or the line-up:

MEN'S TEAM

Tony Scafani
Pete Jambruno
Dean Edwin Browne
Ray Englehoffer
Jack Telesmanic
Forrest Morrison
Bob Fex
Adolph Pedrin

WOMEN'S TEAM

Junerose Bellew
Dorothy Fidiam
Taneko Amemiya
Adella Suquitan
Elvira Erni
Myrtle Mendes
Genevieve Sickafoose
Beth Hillyard

The lone male present at last week's women's volleyball game was Tony Scafani, men's team captain. Checking up on your opponents, Tony?

CLUB NEWS

Archery—The Board of Education comes through! That august body has made a generous appropriation for women's archery equipment. For which, gentlemen, many thanks.

A set of six matched tournament arrows will be awarded to the co-ed who first makes a "perfect end", or six bulls' eyes with six consecutive arrows. Wise gals are betting on the advanced archers Junerose Bellew and Helen Davis as favorites for the prize, but several beginners are proving themselves strong contenders—Elfriede Buchwalde, Iva Beth Cain, Dorothy Canavan, Anita Lauerman, Margaret McAllister, Margaret Yelland, Lillian Zechmeister.

Recreational Games—A badminton tournament preliminary to the San Mateo Play Day starts this week. The four doubles teams highest on the ladder at the end of the contest will represent S. F. J. C. at the event.

Sign up for the table tennis tournament tomorrow and next week. Women's singles, doubles, and mixed doubles matches will be played. See Margaret Litchfield for further details.

Tennis—San Mateo Junior College has invited the tennis and badminton clubs of this college to a tennis-badminton play day to be held some time in November. The first eight players on the W. A. A. singles tennis ladder will represent the clubs at San Mateo.

Sign-ups for the mixed doubles tournament will end on October 22. Better sign up at the Powell Street office before the deadline.

Outing—Plans for a "get acquainted with the city" tour, a trip to the Berkeley hills, an ice skating party for this club.

Golf—Manager Barbara Latz is writing to other colleges to arrange a golf play day.

Dancing—Tonight 15 members of the dance club will dine at the Tivoli and afterward attend Virginia Russ' recital at the Community Playhouse.

Volleyball—Last week's game ended with a score of 32 to 21, in favor of the W. A. A. team. Helen Eltost was outstanding in Miss Kuhn's freshman team, while Taneko Amemiya, Beth Hillyard, Dorothy Fidiam, Anna Paulsen, and Elvira Erni, starred for the W. A. A.'ers.

RAM'S HORN

Americans seem to have lost their ability to think for themselves on this subject; they accept as truth the most absurd fairy tales which it suits those who control the various presses to invent.

The sane attitude on the part of the people, as the Editor points out, would be to face the issue. Why not discuss the problem of the menace, or whatever they call it? You should never condemn a person or an idea without giving it a fair trial, or at least a hearing.

If these theories or ideas are truly harmful, fundamentally wrong, then discussion will bring these defects out, and there will be nothing more to worry about. But if there is some real worth in these ideas, something which may aid to solve the problems which confront the world, why should we not adopt their good points, adapt them to our particular form of government, and use them for our benefit?

The very eagerness of the "100% Americans" to create a prejudice against these ideas, chiefly by appealing to the emotions of the people, the fact that they are set against any sound, objective discussion of the subject, make us strongly suspect that it is not the interest of the country, but their own particular economic and political interests, which are at stake.

One last point I would like to comment on. I confess that I am rather skeptical as to The Editor's optimistic hope that a more tolerant attitude toward these ideas may be attained. The rank and file, who are intolerant through ignorance, may indeed reform and assume a more liberal attitude.

But those who oppose these ideas for other reasons, which I need not mention, will never change their minds. When their economic interests are at stake, men become more obdurate than mules, and nothing will suffice to make them reasonable.

Remember that history has taught us, that also.

M.F.

Note: It is encouraging to find that there is someone, at least, who can find time and the inclination to write about the more serious, and perhaps more important, problems of today.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

Aren't you a bit inconsistent in your policies? I notice that you try to keep The Guardsman (by the way, an excellent paper) as much like an ordinary daily as possible. Yet for some reason you insist on substituting some kind of unpleasantly heavy type for standard newspaper print. The result is that The Guardsman definitely does not look like a real newspaper.

My other beef is about the need in your paper for a column of campus news. Now, before you toss this little epistle into the nearest wastebasket, reflect on the fact that not only do the majority of the students want such a column, but this feature would bring the paper closer to them. After all, the rank and file of people in the college rarely, if ever see their names in the paper. The "I Cover the Campus" type of thing would stimulate interest greatly.

Note: Again, the answer is, 'Why don't you write one and submit it?'—Ed.

Dear Editor:

Why are the students of the Junior College so gullible that they cannot see that the so-called Junior College Nights held at the various hotels are not in any way representative of the college, but are merely very tricky methods of getting more money from the students? The special cover charges which are advertised by the hotels are not special in any way, because anyone who attends can get the same rate as the students.

Furthermore, these affairs should not be publicized by the students at student meetings. Why people are allowed to get up before a meeting of the Associated Students and announce that a Hotel is holding a Junior College Night on a certain Friday night is not understood by some of the members of this college. The fact that the person who is giving the hotel the publicity gets a free bid to the affair is of course a good reason (as far as the publicizer is concerned) for the publicity, but as this is, I believe, a veiled method of obtaining money or its equivalent under false pretenses.

The fact that the paper does not publish any of these events is a very commendable thing. If the rest of the school would take up the crusade, the whole thing would soon be stamped out.

Note: Commendable thoughts. A few suggestions by 'student leaders' of methods of saving students money, or making their 'diversion money' get the most for the least, might be more beneficial and unselfish in the long run.—Ed.

ROMANCE AT LAST or the Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

Oct. 17—Ah, dear diary, tonight dear Robert Saylor and I are going riding... In my new spinach green chiffon what a lovely picture! I shall be when the man of my dreams calls! Would that it were the romantic month of June—however October will have to do.

Oct. 18—Goodness me, heavenly days, I have so much to tell you, dear diary, that I am at a loss to begin.

Last night Robert called for me at the appointed hour of eight. The night was clear and warm, the stars were shining, and a faint breeze was rustling the leaves of the trees. We stepped into Robert's late model 1914 orchid roadster and started off. In, almost no time, for miles and miles along a picturesque road that led us out into the country.

Suddenly the car began to sputter. (Ah, dear diary, the sound echoed the fluttering of my heart!) At length it (the car) stopped completely. The spot in which it chose to do so provided a perfect setting for romance. A canopy of leaves shielded us from view, while the moonlight filtering through the trees cast an exquisite glow over our faces. A faint perfume permeated the air.

Suddenly Robert spoke. "Elvira—Elvy", he stammered, "will you, will you—"

"Yes, yes, Robert, go on", I breathed. "Elvira, will you—oh, I can't ask you." He broke down and looked away.

"Do not be afraid, dear Robert," prompted breathlessly.

He took courage and impulsively turned to me. "Elvira—will you—go down the road and get some gas!"

And I did.

Clubs Are Listed For Benefit of Those Who Might Be Interested

For the benefit of any students who may be interested in joining a club or society, The Guardsman here enumerates all chartered organizations within the college. A student desiring membership should consult the sponsor or one of the officers of the society he wishes to join.

Beta Phi Fraternity, Franklin Sewell.
Block Letter Society, Edwin Brown
Chinese Students' Club, Edward Sandys.
Economics Club, Michael Zarchin.
Filipino Club, Gertrude Bolton.
Forum, Dorothy Mercer or Henry Ralston.
Household Art Association, Claire Cuneo.
Japanese Student Club, Gertrude Bolton.
Omicron Pi Phi (Economics Honor Society), Michael Zarchin.
Pi Mu Gamma (Pre-medical Society), Glenn Noble.
Skull and Blade Society, Ed Frediani (president).
Women's Service Society, Verrel Weber.
Women's Athletic Association, Ruth Johnson (president).

There are also a few unchartered organizations receiving members at present.

Feeling Ill? Scribe Tells of New Disease Menacing All Colleges

By Fleming Pope

Last year when the college was becoming infested with one-sided leg-vitis, there was a general rush for the flat country by students and professors alike. Some took to measuring their legs just to see if they had contracted the symptoms.

Now after a rest period, the game has begun again, but in a reversed direction. No more do you see the victims standing or leaning about school as before, but it's "have you got a car to sit in?"

During the recent craze, ones car was not used as a place to rest in, especially if it had a radio, but instead, as a rendezvous for half the school to pack into and around.

It was a common occurrence to see the owner of a car calmly expelled from his vehicle if he did not care to listen to the world series.

College classes entered the case not at all. Why should they, anyhow? One can always go to class, but one can't always listen to a world series baseball game.

After the game was over, if the battery in the car lasted that long, out the hard would pile, leaving the owner of himself and his misfortunes. That is to say, finding a way to get his car started.

This new species of disease has, after due deliberation, been termed "sitter-itis". Symptoms are continually looking for a place to park the body, increase in size around hips, possibilities of a double chin, tired and sluggish feeling and always glaringly present in attitude.

In the matter of long-legged-vitis, after exposure of the disease and the suggested remedy was made, those infected took notice before the disease became incurable.

But it is possible that now this new disease has gone beyond the cure stage. The symptoms in some cases are not mere possibilities but realities. The victims who have contracted the disease appropriate someone's car and sit in it from morning until night. Imagine the distressing point if they should some time be unable to move at all.

The only remedy at present is action, and a great quantity of it. Up at 6 o'clock a. m., three laps around the block, no breakfast, walk up and down Powell Street three times before lunch. Lunch is to consist of a glass of water and a tooth pick. Then proceed to class, continuing all the time to stand in an upright position.

This remedy, if followed closely for two weeks, will kill or cure, according to the stage of the disease.

GLOATING OVER VICTORY

Leering sumgly at the Ram, the San Mateo Bulldog is pictured above. And why shouldn't he have that appearance indicating bloody satisfaction? Didn't he chew the leg off the Ram last Friday night to the tune of 7-0? Next Saturday, however, a band of Pirates from Modesto will find trouble in attempting to duplicate the Bulldog's feat.

SUCKER STORY

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Wayfarers' "Merchant of Venice"

Of the numerous prize distributing ideas now used by more than 9000 motion picture theaters in the country, Bank Night surpasses all others in popularity and profit. Although this prize money game was copyrighted only 24 months ago, it is today employed by nearly 5000 film houses with prizes ranging from $25 to $3000. These so-called Bank Nights are held in many showhouses twice a week with packed houses.

The dishes are left in the sink, the evening paper is left unread, and students neglect their books. Local clubs are caused to meet on non-conflicting dates because of this new prize money craze. Nobody wants to know what show is playing, nobody cares. If the late comers cannot get inside the building, they stand in the lobby or street with purchased tickets, waiting to hear the winning name called out from the stage.

This bank night makes a set royalty of $60,000 for its three originators.

Why didn't we think of it?

HOT BUTTER

A "burning schoolhouse in Winona, Minn., was once saved when, lacking available water, volunteer fire fighters doused the flames with buttermilk.

LET'S SEE YOU PROVE IT

It is further down to the bottom than it is up to the top. Mt. Everest, world's highest peak, boasts a mere 29,000 feet of altitude, whereas in some spots the Pacific Ocean extends down to a depth of more than 31,000 feet.—Contributed.

That a modern gymnasium, costing $287,000, will be erected on the campus of the University of California, was the announcement made by President Robert G. Sproul at a meeting of the Board of Regents last week.

Co-eds at the University of Washington have for the first time in the history of the college, been given equal rights with men in the matter of smoking on the campus.

ROLLING AROUND

There are now more than 100,000 homes on wheels in the United States. The owners range from millionaires to mechanics who make their own portable homes.—Contributed.

Compared with last year's Hamlet, we believe that The Merchant of Venice on the whole does not equal the former, primarily lacking its meatiness. But then we can hardly expect every play to equal that great one.

Jack Thomas, director of the Wayfarers, gave a performance of Shylock we never expect to see equaled. Frankly, without Thomas' brilliant portrayal of the money-mad Jew who valued his ducats more than he did his daughter's life, the production would have fallen considerably lower in its worth.

Although the cast as a whole gave a good rendition of Shakespeare's lines, there were annoying cases of "reading" or "reciting" of lines.

Paul Langton in the role of Launcelot Gobbo, the comedian, was a definite asset to the play. His performance in the scene wherein Gobbo struggles with his conscience was priceless.

The settings and costumes of the Wayfarers are always worthy of note, and this time proves no exception. Jerald Elwood and Natalie Park (of radio fame in Hawthorne House), take the credit for this. The sets are designed with an eye to simplicity and exaggeration which make them powerful in their suggestiveness.

PUBLICITY GIVEN TO HOTEL, RESTAURANT GROUP IN REPORTER

Hotelmen Send Sons to J. C. For Course; Smith, Peck, Aber Are in Class

That the college Hotel and Restaurant Management Division is becoming renowned in practical business circles is indicated by the write-up given it in the September issue of the Western Hotel Reporter, outstanding hotel publication.

Following is a reprint of the Reporter's story:

The curriculum in Hotel and Restaurant Management at San Francisco Junior College was established in January, 1936, at the request of the California Northern Hotel Association.

For a long time hotel and restaurant men felt the need for employees with a more adequate basic training than that obtained heretofore merely through apprenticeship.

The courses are designed to give a technical training to young men and women. They provide a well-founded background in all phases of hotel and restaurant management work and the necessary training for efficiency in the various special fields incident to hotel and restaurant operation.

Through the cooperation of California hotel and restaurant men all students following the curriculum are placed in positions where they obtain practical experience and supervision under prominent hotel and restaurant managers for a period of at least sixteen weeks.

One of the best evidences of the high regard in which the Junior College course is held by hotel men of California is the fact that they are sending their sons there to learn the theory and practice of the business. Among students this year were Hart Smith, son of George D. Smith of the Fairmont and Mark Hopkins hotels; Vernon Peck, Jr., son of the managing owner of Hotel Petaluma, Petaluma, and Louis Aber, Jr., son of the manager of the Gates Hotel at Los Angeles, who is also president of the State Greeters' Association of California.

Registration of students in the hotel course took place August 24 and the pupils operated the cafeteria in Galileo High School from that time forward, although the College did not open until August 31. Junior College students served a dinner to the faculty of the school on the 24th.

The size and location of San Francisco make it an ideal training center for alert young men and women interested in the hotel and restaurant industry as a profession. Since this industry is the fifth largest one in the United States, it offers exceptional opportunities to those who possess the qualities of character and personality, as well as the specific ability.

The Hotel and Restaurant Management curriculum has been endorsed and sponsored by members of the hotel and restaurant industry representing the California Northern Hotel Association, the San Francisco Hotel Association, and the San Francisco Restaurant Association. Through the cooperation of J. C. Beswick, chief of the Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education of the California State Department of Education, and the San Francisco Board of Education, the financing of the initial program has been made possible. Valuable assistance has been received from the following Educational Advisory Committee of the California Northern Hotel Association.

Bakery, Milk Officials Talk Before Hotel and Restaurant Classmen

Describing the history of bread making, the modern procedure, and scientific production thereof, a talking picture was shown to the hotel and restaurant management division of the college last Monday afternoon through the combined efforts of the Langendorf Bakery and Golden State Milk companies.

In conjunction with the picture, a lecture by Harman J. Gehring, sales manager of the Langendorf Bakeries, was given. The subject of the lecture was the scientific purchasing of bread, describing in detail the ingredients going into the various grades of bread, and how to judge the first, second, and third qualities. This program was for the benefit of the class in scientific purchasing.

A demonstration of the most modern methods of coffee making and use of modern coffee equipment will be given on Monday, October 26, for the benefit of the same class. This demonstration is through the cooperation of the Jones, Thierbach Company.

RIFLEWOMEN GET LAST LAUGH, AS THEY PROVE THEIR WORTH

Co-eds Found Accurate Shooters, as Male Team Aspirants Decide to Buckle Down and Avoid Being Ridiculed by Dianas' Enviable Records

Students visiting the Galileo rifle range on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons laughed when they saw the feminine members of the Rifle Club, clad in slacks, assume the prone position and blaze away at the targets.

Such derisive laughter is soon to cease, however, according to Mack Garr, assistant range officer of the club, who is coaching the women marksmen (or should it be markswomen?)

Garr, in making a verbal statement to the masculine element of the club, declared that some surprisingly high scores had been made by his "shooters."

TARGETS OK

"When you realize that none of these co-eds had ever shot before, and that they have had only a few afternoons' practice, I think they are making remarkable progress. I haven't been exhibiting their targets, but if I did, the men in this club would be surprised."

"I'd be willing to wager a small sum," Garr added, "that the team finally selected to represent this club in the S. F. Small Bore Rifle League will have at least one, and maybe two or three, women on it."

Asked for confirmation of this prediction, William Hancock, club range officer and in charge of team selection, admitted that he was disappointed in the showing made by the men who have been shooting under his supervision.

RIFLE CLUB MEMBERS
Regular Practice this afternoon, and Thursday, from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock.
All students invited to become members. Both men and women eligible for all club activities, including teams.

The inter-club matches start November 12, and the team to represent the junior college must be selected as long before that date as possible, Hancock lamented.

Two or three members of the club expressed incredulity at Garr's statement. One was overheard to remark, "Well, if these babes think they can beat us out for places on the club team, they've got to be good at shooting as well as good looking. I've got to admit their pulchritude, but that won't help them any in hitting the target."

Another member declared, "I'm not taking any chances. I'll be down here every Wednesday and Thursday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock, when the club fires, and if practice will make me any better, I'll practice all right."

Membership in the club is still open to both men and women students, according to John Stewart, group president. A total membership of 50 is expected within the next three weeks, as more students, especially women, are taking advantage of the opportunity to engage in supervised target practice.

LAST WEEK'S FIRING RESULTS

LOW SOPHS SPONSOR SWIMMING PARTY TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 4

Not to be outdone by the lower classmen in class activities, the Low Sophs are sponsoring a swimming party Wednesday, November 4, at Sutros.

According to reports from the committee, the entertainment for the evening will consist of races by the college swimming team, water polo, and novel races arranged by the committee.

For those who do not care for swimming, there will be dancing, to be held in the upper balcony. Because the class has no budget, the music will be furnished by a recording system.

The committee announced that the total price for the evening will be 35 cents with own suits.

Those who are in charge of the affair are Joe Kissel, Annabelle Tyler, Barbara Soderling, and Verna Came.

DEBATE WITH S. F. U. FROSH UNCERTAIN, LUCKMANN REVEALS

Misunderstandings as to which team should take the affirmative, and which the negative, have made the debate originally scheduled with the San Francisco University Frosh Gavel Society and the local forensic squad tomorrow night highly indefinite, Lloyd D. Luckmann, debate coach, announced yesterday.

If the debate does take place, it will mean hurried, last minute reversal of side by one of the teams, Luckmann said, as both have already prepared for the negative of the Amendment 22, Chain Store Tax, question.

If the debate does take place, mimeographed announcements to that effect will be distributed with The Guardsman this morning, Luckmann advised.

Travelling to Sacramento to attend a meeting of the California Coast Debate League, James Neal and Jacques de la Montanya will confer with fellow delegates from other colleges Friday afternoon, October 30, Luckmann announced.

On the same evening, Eugene Blumenthal and W. Woodman will go to Coalinga to meet a team from Fresno State College on the chain store question, the debate made possible by Wallace W. Hall, forensic coach of the southern college, Luckmann said.

Getting back home again, an intramural debate on the question of whether or not billboards should be allowed on the Bay Bridge will be held November 5 at 9 o'clock a. m. in the assembly hall at the Extension Building, the debate coach announced. Charles Brickley and Bob Blattles will uphold the affirmative, while Eddie Fredgen and Elmer Anderson take the negative.

New Language Courses Will Be Offered Next Term, Department Says

Students' attention is called to new language courses to be offered next term in French 52, German 52 and Spanish 52. Each of these courses will give two units toward graduation from junior college, and will consist chiefly of outside reading and individual conferences with instructors. The material to be read will be adapted to the individual student's background and previous language training. Students will be encouraged to read in fields of greatest personal interest, e. g. history, literature, music, art, magazines, newspapers, commercial and scientific subjects, etc., and to do outside reading for other courses.

The prerequisite in each language will be course 51 or course B or two years of high school language or consent of the instructor. This does not exclude those who have had additional language study. Any student interested in one of these courses is urged to consult and leave his name with any language instructor in the junior college.

New Chef Is Added To Cafeteria's Cook Staff

An addition to the operating staff of the Hotel and Restaurant Division of the Junior College has been made with the entrance of Chef Joseph Byl, formerly of the Berkeley Athens Club. By the addition of Byl, the cafeteria will be able to offer a greater variety of a la carte orders and a more select menu, according to J. Graham Sullivan, manager of the cafeteria.

An opportunity is also being offered to the art students who are interested in the modelling of sugar and pastry decorations. This is also made possible by the addition of Byl, as he worked under Chef Standberg of the St. Francis Hotel, and one of the outstanding chefs of the country.

MEET POOR YORIK: DID YOU KNOW HIM WELL?

"Alas, poor Yorik, I knew him, Horatio." Maybe Anthropology Instructor Joseph Williams (left), isn't getting sentimental about his classy mascot, and undoubtedly Leona Wilcox is not Horatio, but anyway we do have Yorik, even if he may have been a student California Indian, instead of a court jester.

Exhibit of various relics of by-gone civilizations was made last week by Joseph Williams' Anthropology 1-A class. On the top are, left to right, Ely Chertok, Mab Bannister, and Jack Dyson looking over Indian relics contributed by Dyson, who once lived among the Zunis of of Arizona.

—In the circle, Williams points out the good points of "Yorik", a skull found beneath 20 feet of gravel in the Sacramento River near Isleton, to Leona Wilcox.

—In the oval are Yorik and artifacts (parrot, monkey, and frog on a vase) from Medellin, Columbia, South America. The artifacts are estimated to be 2,000 years old.

27 Speech and Dramatic Students See Wayfarers In Shakespearean Play

Seeking to improve their own Thespian ability through the observation of the members of the more amateur theatrical group, 27 members from three of Miss Ruth Jensen's classes in public speaking, oral interpretation, and dramatic reading viewed the production of The Merchant of Venice given by The Wayfarers at their little theater on Clay street last Friday and Saturday nights.

The students watched for hints on stage diction, character portrayal, costuming, staging and lighting.

The Wayfarers are non-professional, using their leisure hours after work spent in office or store to produce their plays, and offer proof that well-spent leisure pays rich dividends.

Forum Club Will Hold Second Meeting Tues.

The second meeting of the Forum Club, this semester, will take place next Tuesday evening, November 3, at 8:00 o'clock at the home of Betty Deming, 821 Head Street in Ingleside. Head Street begins on Ashton Street, two blocks down from the El Rey Theater, located at Ocean Avenue and Ashton Street.

The subject to be discussed by the informal group will be whether or not modern literature is indicative of a decadent civilization. The discussion will be opened by Betty Brown and Jane Kiddle, who will report their findings upon the subject.

Kingsland Elected Head of Hostelrymen Society

Completion of the election of officers was made at the meeting of the Society of Hotel and Restaurant Men last Wednesday, October 21. Those elected were Stuart Kingsland, president; Cynthia Richardson, vice-president; Walter Scott, secretary-treasurer; and Trevett Wilson, editor.

HOUSEHOLD SOCIETY MEMBERS MUST PAY

That members must pay full dues, 25 cents plus initiation fee of 10 cents for new members, by November 10, was the announcement made by Jo Jordan, president of the Household Arts Society, yesterday.

Anyone who has not paid dues by that time will not be allowed to participate in any of the club's activities, Miss Jordan said. Members who wish to pay dues should see Louise Corica, secretary, she disclosed.

With 38 women present, the Club picnic last Wednesday was a grand success, Miss Jordan claimed. Myrte Melndez, Marian Howard, and Lillian Morikwki were winners in games played during the afternoon.

GAMMAS DANCE

Pi Mu Gamma, pre-medical society, held a dance last Friday night at 1450 Union Street. A number of members attended the affair, music for which was provided by Jack Gallant and his orchestra.

U. C. Examinations

The examination in foreign language, Subject B, will be given on Wednesday, December 2, from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. as follows:

French	211 Wheeler Hall
German	211 Wheeler Hall
Italian	440 Wheeler Hall
Latin	211 Wheeler Hall
Spanish	212 Wheeler Hall

Students who intend to transfer to the College of Commerce of this University are welcome to take this examination.

GETTA GAZETTA

The word "gazette" comes from the 16th century, when readers of the government newspaper in Venice had to pay a coin called a "gazetta."

ANTHROPOLOGY CLASSES HOLD FORUM ON LANGUAGE EVOLUTION

Discussion of the evolution of languages, and their inter-relationships, featured a panel forum held last Friday afternoon by Joseph Williams' anthropology classes. The discussion was opened by Chairman Charles Sibley, who briefly told the purpose of the forum, and generally touched upon the entire subject.

Ely Chertok then told of the language distributions of the world, after which other panel members added to the historical and scientific background.

The latter part of the forum was devoted to informal discussion, which centered around the question of whether or not the study of foreign languages should be compulsory in college, with panel members about evenly divided on the issue.

Those who took part in the forum were Sibley, Chertok, Mab Bannister, Sibyl Hopping, Dorothy Edam, Angelina Pollio, and Alexander Ross.

Last week, Williams' Anthropology 1-A class had an exhibit of Indian relics in addition to the items shown in the above picture, there were contributions made by William Green, geology instructor, who spent several years in Central and South America. He showed a fish hook and an ear-ring made from gold nuggets, from Columbia; and sacred beads from Chichen Itza, Yucatan.

According to legend, maidens about to be sacrificed in the sacred well of Chichen Itza wore these beads about their necks. Just before being hurled into the sacrificial well, these beads were broken, to release the soul, and thrown into the water with the girl.

BAND MAKES FIRST APPEARANCE; MANY LEND THEIR MUSIC

Making its first appearance at the football game last Saturday afternoon, the newly-formed band of organization, the band raised its lusty voice at Galileo field, giving rhythmic support to the rooting section and the team.

"It is quite commendable," says Arthur Browne, "that they had the intestinal fortitude to play at the game when they only had the chance to practice once."

The band was composed of 26 members, of which 10 were students of Polytechnic High School. The instrumentation was as follows: Trumpet: Irving Amstrup, George Harmon, Ed. Heyn, and Alfred Coffman. Trombone: C. Oller, and Joe Niki. Tenor Sax: Gordon Fiuno. Clarinet: Naiomi Giffin, and Edward Eno. Flute: Jean Page, and Juperose Bellew. Drums: Bud Miskel, Louie Miller, Jess Johnson and Donald Flash.

Those from Polytechnic who kindly lent their services were: Trumpet: Al Habeeb, Ed Enright, and M. Humber. Clarinet: R. Rogers, John Buchan, and George Hooper. Trombone: Josephine Ebert, and Robert Johnson. Alto Sax: Donald Swing. Tuba: Al Becker.

Under the baton of Eugene Boomer, former band-leader of Polytechnic, the band held its practice Thursday night at the home of Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, who has cooperated with organization in every way possible.

Until more music is obtained through the college, the 14 marches ordered last semester by Donald A. Sandifur, instrumental instructor at that time, will constitute the band's repertoire.

In an effort to preserve the band as a permanent organization of the college, arrangements have been made by Dean Browne with the Galileo Evening School for a place in which to hold weekly prac-

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY FOR JOINT ACTIVITY

Household Arts and AWS Combine to Give Fashion Show, Tea; Theme Told

Plans are well under way for the AWS — Household Arts Association fashion tea, according to Helen Davis, AWS president, who together with Jo Jordon, Household Arts president, and members of the AWS council, held a meeting last Thursday afternoon in the Galileo cafeteria.

The theme of the fashion tea, which is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock P. M. Friday, November 20, will be Hawaiian, Miss Davis said, with possibilities of Hawaiian music by the Galileo High School jazz band and songs by Miss Flosuta Badger's vocalists.

"Miss Cuneo and Miss Jordan will have complete charge of the fashion show," Miss Davis continued, "and have secured the services of professional models from Livingston's. If possible, a runway will be built down the center of the Galileo auditorium, and members of the Household Arts Association will act as ushers during the performance."

According to Miss Davis, the tea which will follow the fashion show will be held in the Women's Gymnasium at 3:30 o'clock P. M., with advisers and officers of the senior classes of the various city high schools as honored guests. Members of the Women's Service Society will serve as hostesses at the affair, and the men of the executive council will act as hosts.

Barbara Latz and Miss Jordon will head the decoration committee, and Hermine King will be in charge of the publicity and invitations.

GRIFF WILLIAMS' ORCHESTRA PLAYS AT STUDENT RALLY

Featuring Griff Williams, leader, and Buddy Marino, vocalist, of the Mark Hopkins Hotel Orchestra, a rally was held in the auditorium at Galileo at 1:45 o'clock last Friday afternoon. Songs by Buddy Marino were Hawaiian War Song, Take My Heart, Louise, You, and Just One of Those Things, while Griff Williams did a piano version of his orchestra theme song.

Charles "Red" Brickley was introduced as the 1936 captain for the Modesto game, and was interviewed by Coach Russ Sweet concerning the game.

Social-and athletic events were announced by Bob Nelson, yell leader. Rosalind Kissel, of the low freshman class, and Donna McPherson, vice-president of the Associated students.

Deriding the lack of school spirit evident in the turnout and support given to the yell leaders at all the events, a rousing speech was made by Bill Kennedy, who was head yell leader during the first semester of the college's existence.

Hotelmen Hear Talk On Preservation of Food

Lecturing on Refrigeration, J. C. Westbe of the California Association of Ice Companies spoke to a meeting of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the Junior College in room 104 at Galileo on Monday, October 26.

The action of bacteria on foods and the good refrigeration will control this action was the actual topic of his lecture with a motion picture on refrigeration accompanying.

The National Cash Register Company was the scene of a field trip held Saturday, October 24, by the members of the Hotel and Restaurant course. Although one trip has already been made there, a second was taken so that the students were able to learn perfectly the operations of the machines, according to J. Graham Sullivan, manager of the cafeteria.

A demonstration of the most modern methods of coffee making and use of modern coffee equipment was given Monday for the benefit of the class. This demonstration is made possible through the cooperation of the Jones, Thierbach Company.

DISCUSSION FORECAST

There will probably be one or two debates and panel discussions held in the lecture hall within the next two weeks, according to Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college.

Assembly Speaker Tells of European Conditions

Political, Social, and Economic conditions of several European countries were discussed by Dr. Hubert Phillips, dean of liberal arts, from Fresno State College before a group of students at an assembly held in the lecture hall at Powell street last Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock. The conditions of France, Geneva, Yugoslavia, Finland, Sweden, and Denmark were discussed.

The primary reason for Dr. Phillip's visit here was to address the Commonwealth Club, and through the influence of Dr. Robert Parker, history instructor, here, he was prevailed upon to address the junior college.

Dance Well Attended

Two hundred couples attended the dance sponsored by the Social Committee, and held at the Century Club last Friday night. Lou Wurgler's orchestra furnished music for the occasion.

THE COLLEGE MOURNS

Students and faculty members join in expressing deepest sympathies and condolences to Russ Sweet for the loss of his wife, and to Ruth Johnson for the loss of her sister.

This is a time when silence probably serves better than words, so, although little is said here, the genuine sorrow and sympathy of the college is there all the stronger, perhaps, for the lack of words.

LEARNING TO THINK

Mankind have a great aversion to intellectual labour; but even supposing knowledge to be easily attainable, more people would be content to be ignorant than would take even a little trouble to acquire it.—Johnson.

Contrary to a common opinion that education implies some nature, students, on the whole, have not and do not possess the desire for, thought to commensurate with their scholastic year standing. In truth, many students receive college diplomas without even having learned how to think.

Much of the reason for this lies with the junior high and the high schools from which these students graduated, for in many of these less advanced institutions, too much emphasis is placed on purely memorizing methods of temporarily learning facts, to the neglect of the development of thought.

College reached, however, and the student unfettered by strict dictates as to how he shall study, and what, specifically, he shall learn, he may do his studying in a manner more conducive to the general and desirable growth of the intellect.

A method of studying that employs a high degree of thought, when once mastered leads to more efficient learning with a minimum of mental effort. Studying becomes, in fact, little more difficult than actual reading and listening, enhanced by thought-provoked discussion of and conversation on, the subject at hand.

We talk by aggregates, and think by systems.—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

COME, COME, PLAY BALL

Fire drills are occasionally held, sometimes with satisfactory results, usually without.

Last week one was held at Galileo in the afternoon, with the building emptied in about twice the time necessary, according to Batallion Chief George Trapp, who conducted the drill.

The building was, however, not completely emptied at that. It is a known fact, also, that a number of faculty members was guilty of laziness, as well as a few students.

Instructors should see that students of their classes get out of the room, at least, during fire drills, and then proceed to leave themselves. In the event of an emergency, instructors, being only human, would be just as anxious as their students to gain the safety of the streets.

Chief Trapp pointed out that, although the buildings are reportedly fire-proof, one can never tell. As past history has shown, this locality is not guaranteed to be immune from possibilities of earthquakes.

It is hardly likely that the fire department would go to the trouble of sending a man out to various schools to call fire drills if there were not some worth in such practices.

Many, of course, will contend that having too many fire drills brings to mind the "Wolf, wolf" fable.

It must be remembered, however, that this fable can be interpreted as having a double moral lesson. The one time that those who could have helped the prankster paid no attention to his cries was the one time that a serious emergency confronted the young man.

THIS MEDICAL BUSINESS

Annoying though they may seem to some, certain things just have to be done, and there is little or nothing the individual can do to avoid them. Sooner or later, he must come to terms.

This matter of having physical examinations cannot be a particularly undesirable one. The results of last semester's work conclusively proved the worth of the entire system.

For the most part, the average student who is negligent in keeping his appointment with the doctor is that way merely because he is too lazy. He always hatches up some reason, such as doubts as to the knowledge and ability of the doctor, or claims that he has already been examined recently. The former contention is ridiculous, and the latter irrelevant.

The fundamental purpose of these examinations, after all, is to benefit the students, and no one else. Looking at the matter from that angle, it is somewhat ungracious of students to try to avoid something conceived for their own good.

THE BULL SNORTS

WHO KNOWS? WHO CARES? WHAT OF IT?

Amusing are those people who can never get the idea through their heads that the subject in which their major interest lies is not the most important thing in the world.

The world does not revolve around social activities, and people would live just as long and just as happily, on the whole, if some of the events in which others blindly throw their hearts and souls never took place.

The sooner people realize this general adage, then just that soon will they begin really to understand this world.

Lost: an officer

Prize this week goes to the Rifle Club. That group doesn't know whom all it elected last semester for this semester's officers, and has asked The Guardsman to do something about it.

At this writing, The Guardsman files are not available, but they shall be located, and, as a result, on page three of this issue will appear the names of those elected as officers of the Rifle and Pistol Club. Anyone else lost anyone?

A Spade a Spade

Someone certainly had a bright idea when he thought of the idea of making it illegal for liquor dispensing establishments to call themselves Taverns or Buffets, and to advertise beer in—letters larger than certain dimensions.

A sad plight confronts the hungry man now, for, observing a store labelled cafe, he enters it with the idea of getting a meal, and finds that he can get nothing but liquor and sandwiches.

It is stupidity to say that this country does not have genuine saloons. They are even better than those of old, boasting a much higher degree of comfort. Hats off to the state of Nevada, in which many saloons are frankly labelled as such in conspicuous letters.

Aid to Truth

Those legislators who got the Beep and Cavern notion had an idea, but it got side-tracked. Something should have been done, but they did the wrong thing.

What they should have done was to make it mandatory for saloons to call themselves such, or, if that offended too many people, for them to stick to the names Tavern and Buffet, thus reserving Cafe as a name for places in which food, not liquor, is the main feature.

How does the world expect a man to stay sober when liquor is sold in more places than are meals, when drink dispensaries bear the name rightfully belonging to beaneries?

RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

Appearing in the Editorial of the Guardsman in the issue of Oct. 21, you panned the Social committee, but you don't back it up sufficiently enough to make it clear to all whom read it. The truth is the Social committee is trying it's darndest to put things over and not for themselves. I hope you'll answer this although you been trying to the past three issues. I believe you owe them a apology even if they haven't cooperated fully with you.

J. S.

Note: Aw nutt.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

Your editorial "We Stand Uncorrected" is a lot of well-written guff. A great many of your statements are to the point. Nevertheless, other people can be right once in a while and it doesn't hurt to admit this. A little diplomacy really goes a long way toward cooperation and good spirit.

We don't mean by this that your criticism is all bad. It's fine because it keeps committees, clubs, etc., from becoming too careless in performing

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

On returning the book Good Looks For Girls which we mentioned last week, we found another by the same author called Jobs For Girls. Although most of us who have reached Junior College have a pretty good idea of what career we wish to follow, Jobs For Girls presents some very interesting facts about every possible profession.

Talking busily to her companion, she fumbled in her purse and produced a bit of pink pasteboard, thrusting it at the burly conductor. "Say lady," he bellowed, "What are you trying to pull?" It was her student body card!

May We Present . . .

Elaine Dominguez, Freshman representative for the A. W. S. and president of the Women's Service Society . . . Was born in San Francisco, but spent the first six years of her life commuting between here and New York City . . . Graduated from Mission High School, where she was vice president of the student body . . . Is called "Lee" by her friends for no special reason and is famous for her "nasel nothings", a brand of conversation all her own . . . When finished with Junior College, will start commuting again, this time to Berkeley, where she will learn how to teach English and Math . . . Her most amazing accomplishment is an imitation of a flute, with gestures, and her big aim in life is to give the horse she rides every Friday a ride.

If, as we've always been led to believe, the organization is the Women's Service Society, what is Don Mills doing with it's emblem pinned upon his manly chest? Someone must have taken Leap Year a little too seriously!

We were quite surprised to see a picture of Hermine King and Ruth Johnson in a local paper with a caption stating that they were "local high school students." Anyway, it's a very nice picture, with Hermine looking startlingly like Genevieve Tobin of the flickers.

Purely Personal:

Thanks a lot, Bob, for that nice compliment in your last week's column. Coming from our favorite poet, it really means something!

SPINNING AROUND THE GLOBE

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Although we do not wish to embroil ourselves in the political web, we must relate an incident or two anent the current presidential race.

We saw a Landon sunflower button pinned on the harness of a junkman's horse, and adding insult to the injury, the pinner had placed the inoffensive button directly over that part of the horse which is nearest the wagon!

Then over in the South of Market district, some wag had re-printed a boasting Republican poster to read:

VOTE FOR LANDON—AND LAND A REGULAR JOB—SELLING APPLES.

A couple of drunken stevedores staggered onto the 6:20 boat the other night loudly denouncing all things Republican. One of them swayed to a halt before a Landon supporter and said, wagging his finger in the indignant one's face, "You better wash out, or th' frosh'll get those dam' sunflowers." Then drawing himself up haughtily, he reeled away, followed by the admiring glances of his fellow longshoreman, who, no doubt, envied him his state of alcoholic bliss.

We see by the papers that Lou Gehrig, noted player on the New York Yankee baseball team, has been offered a "Tarzan" role in the movies. We wonder why Hollywood doesn't cast Charlie Ruggles in the part. It would result in a picture as comical as the other ape-man films, or weren't they supposed to be comedies?

Around the town . . . watching the antics of "Tille," the female Ram, at the recent San Mateo game . . . wondering what's become of "Snoopy," the noted feline who used to get so much publicity . . . chuckling at the "Oh's" and "Ah's" of a group of tourists on the ferry boat, who were evidently viewing the bridges for the first time.

SAILING THROUGH THE NEWS

Even in the days before the turn of a dial brought you all sides of the argument, it occurred to Pilate to ask, What is the truth.—Stolen from the Chronicle.

That applies pretty well to the present presidential campaign situation. With radios and newspapers blatting forth full time on both sides, it becomes increasingly difficult to decide one way or the other on which side justice weighs the heavier.

It really does not matter, however, for nearly everyone will vote according to how he thinks that he, individually, will be affected, instead of trying to figure out what might be the best for the country as a whole.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Entertainment in "As You Like It"

A tendency of ours to use an abundance of superlative adjectives when speaking of certain recent films leaves us groping for words with which to describe the ever increasing number of high quality motion pictures. Certainly this is an important era in the history of the cinema, and, for that matter, in the history of the theater. If we correctly interpret present trends, the screen will ultimately out-distance the stage.

As You Like It, the British Shakespearean film now at the Geary, is one of these history-making productions. As entertainment, we believe that this is the finest that may be had. Combining Shakespeare's gay romantic comedy with beautiful and imaginative settings, which are not overly pretentious, excellent costumes, careful photography, and above all a well-chosen group of actors and actresses, one could well expect the result to be as worthwhile as it is.

The diction with which this fine collection of dramatic artists voice their lines should aid this film in being a financial success. One needs not necessarily be a student of Shakespeare fully to appreciate this work since in itself it is clear.

Headed by Elizabeth Bergner as Rosalind and Laurence Olivier as Orlando, the cast does exceptionally fine work. Elizabeth Bergner brings to bear all her genius as she enters into this vivacious role. Two outstanding dramatic bits in the film were, first, the rendition of "All the world's a stage" by Leon Quartermaine as Jacques, and secondly the scene wherein Rosalind faints upon seeing the blood-stained handkerchief of Orlando.

The Geary Theater has adopted a new policy in showing this film. Three selected short subjects, a news reel, a color travelogue, and a film dealing with the beauties of winter comprise additional features which in no way detract from As You Like It.

You may take our word for it that you will like this delightful bit of entertainment.

EXECUTIVE EXCERPTS

By Bob Sisco

Last Friday our first big rally of the semester was presented. Thanks to Griff Williams of the Mark Hopkins, we were able to give you some really good entertainment. You can dance to the music of Griff's band any night in Peacock Court of The Hotel Mark Hopkins. There are plenty more rallies of this type coming up.

The Soph-Formal, originally planned for January 15, has been set ahead a week to the 8th, giving you more time to study for your finals. In order to save a last minute rush, bids will go on sale before the Christmas vacation. If possible, please get your bids then.

Here's the final dope on the Sacramento trip. The fare via boat (less berth) is $1.95 round trip. The boat leaves at 6:30 Tuesday night and arrives in Sacramento at 6:00 Wednesday morning. The return trip is the same—from 6:30 p. m. to 6:00 a. m. The round trip rate by train is $1.25. This is the regular holiday rate. Because of various reasons, the Associated Students is not sponsoring a trip on either the boat or the train. However, many students are going up to Sacramento for the game on their own. Hope that you will be one of them.

RAMS TIE MODESTO: AIM TO WIN NEXT

BUCS GAIN DRAW WITH LONG PASS IN HECTIC GAME

Blocked Kick Gives Locals Score; Clarke Returns Ball For Near 2nd Tally

A desperate pass thrown in the final minutes of the ball game gave the Modesto Buccaneers a 6 to 6 tie with the Rams in a conference tilt held at the Galileo Stadium last Saturday. After holding the upper hand throughout the game, Sweet's men fell victims to a frantic Modesto aerial attack that saw Carlton Pegory toss a 30 yard pass to Joe Regnato who was over the goal for the tally.

The Ram touchdown came when Duke Wyndham blocked Elmore's punt and Walt Loving recovered it behind the goal line for a score. Jim Wilson's try for the all important conversion went wide of the uprights.

The opening minutes of the game saw Wilson and Modesto's Manoogan in a midfield punting duel that found both teams on even terms. The Ram offense then began to click, when late in the initial period Wilson bustspeeded the Pirate end and made 20 yards for a first down on the Modesto 30 yard stripe. Lambie Allen then found a hole at the Buc tackle and added five more. The Modesto forwards began to tighten at this point when Tony Scafani picked up but two yards in two attempts at the center. Wilson was held for no gain in an attempted end sweep and Allen's pass over the goal line eluded the fingers of El Pearce. The quarter ended as Modesto kicked out of danger.

A Ram drive was cut short early in the second stanza when Ravetto fumbled after the San Franciscans had made a first down on the Modesto 40 yard marker. After Joe Guedet had spilled the Bucs for a four yard loss, the Easterners tunned the Ram right wing for a 12 yard gain. Modesto was stopped when Jack Telesmanic, Ram guard, halted two thrusts in the middle of the line.

Later in the same period Jim Wilson got away for 30 yards, but the Ram offense was smothered by the big Modesto line, and they lost the ball on downs on the Buc 25. After an exchange of punts, the Raiders unleashed a lateral passing attack that sprung the shifty little Tony Scafani into the clear on several occasions, but was finally halted by an alert Pirate secondary.

Modesto began to move in the last seconds of the half when Carlton Pegory and Bill Schell alternated in ball carrying honors to make two first downs, but were halted by the half time gun.

The second half saw the competition become so heated that a brief fight broke out among the players, but it was stopped before it reached serious proportions. The contest was waged in a bitter, midfield tussle until late in the quarter; when Wilson kicked out of bounds on the Pirate five-yard line. It was at this point that Duke Worsham broke through to block the punt and Loving scored the San Francisco touchdown.

The last quarter saw the Rams keep the Valley squad in the hole by some brilliant defensive work that featured Charley Kremesac, Jack Telesmanic, and Joe Guedet in the starring roles. The Rams tore up the middle of the field and made several large chunks of yardage, but were unable to push the ball over the final mark.

With but three minutes left to play, Pegory faded back and, after being almost smothered by the Ram line, tossed the long, scoring pass. The situation was very tense as the Bucs lined up for their conversion attempt but it was short, leaving the game all tied up.

George Clarke gave the Ram supporters a tremendous thrill by returning the kickoff some 70 yards and almost breaking into the clear, but he was finally hauled down by the Pirate safety man. The final Ram scoring hope was lost when three passes fell incomplete.

Band Will Practice On Monday Nights, Galileo

tices. The band will meet in the Little Theater, on the fifth floor of Galileo, at 7:00 o'clock every Monday night.

The band is by no means overcrowded, announced Eugene Boomer and Donald Nash, and thus they ask that all musicians who can possibly do so come out and lend their services to this enterprise. It is generally felt, they added, that a musical organization of this sort is a necessary part of college activities.

RAM-blings

By Don Mix

Even if it was one week late in arriving, the comeback effort of the Rams was very much enjoyed by this department. To be able to climb back on your feet and make a tough opponent feel lucky to get a tie is something we all admire—it sorta soothes the wounds inflicted by State and San Mateo.

PLEASE RAMS, STAY ON YOUR FEET FROM HERE ON IN.

The football team wishes to extend the deepest sympathies to our head coach, Russ Sweet, and to Ruth Johnson, for their recent bereavement. All who know Russ, both on the athletic field and in the class room, hope that he will soon be back with us.

"If Ty McHugh is forced to give up football because of ill health, the squad will lose one of its best spirited guiders. We, at least, always thought that the "Tiger" was a valuable fellow to have around when you put him between a pair of cleats and a helmet.

"Bad" Mahn drew a twitter by remarking that Bill Schoenfeld is an outstanding gridder—he's always out standing on the side lines during the games.

We hope that the imposing array of names from last year's championship casaba squad, such as Carlyle Cain and Monte Mordecai, will not frighten away any good former prep boosters from turning out for practice. Remember "Pop" Warner's immortal remark..."They've only got two arms and legs".

If you hear any of the lads shouting at George Pedrin, it's just because the audiometer tests showed that our demon guard is a little deaf. Has George really got burn ears, or could it have been that cute brunette who destroyed his concentration during the test? We were just wondering.

Pet peeve—the fellow right in front of you that just won't sit down during a football game.

The poetic urge gripped us during one of the scrimmages between the varsity and the "Goofs" and this is the result:

Merv Weiner tried to run the end,
But was tackled from the rear.
Dolph Pedrin bumped upon his neck,
Tom Mauer grabbed his ear,
Roy Rutherford sat upon his back,
Glen Allen upon his chest,
The mighty Telesmanic then
Laid down on him to rest.
Ray Englehofer smacked his head
Pete Jambrone grabbed his toes.

Alleged Attempt to Knee Scafani Causes Free-For-All at Game

Caused by an alleged attempt of a Modesto player to knee Tony Scafani, local half-back, after he was tackled during the football game last Saturday, a general free-for-all fight between the two teams was held in front of the San Francisco players' bench.

Randy Osborne, seated on the bench a few feet from where the dirty playing was alleged to have been committed, reportedly started the tracas by leaping up and swinging on the Modesto player. Osborne received a broken wrist bone as a result of the fight, the full extent of the injury not yet being known, according to reports.

Both teams immediately proceeded to go at each other in a somewhat vigorous manner for a few minutes, until the combined efforts of San Francisco coaches and the officials managed to stop the fracas.

No players were disqualified as a result of the fight, although the next few plays saw some rather rough tactics on both sides, with San Francisco penalized 15 yards at one time for alleged infringements of the rules of sportsmanship.

Then Joe Amori was called in . . . To straighten out Merv's nose.

The intra-mural basketball craze has hit all the athletically inclined at the college, and numerous nondescript fives will take the courts in the next few weeks. Such hoop aggregations as Bertolucci's Burpers, composed of several football satellites, Demon Smith's Slingers, a group of lesser grid lights, and Ward's Woopers, made up of some would-be athletes, are entered in the competition, and some wild games should ensue.

What about those mean co-eds who tempt the footballers with glance bids when the lassies know the boys have a game on the morrow.

Thumb nail descriptions: Charley Kremesac—Atlas with a flinty—Tony Scafani—dynamite in a small package—El Pearce—something that's only half there —when Wes Olson isn't around.

All the spectators were s-o-o-o thrilled when Joe DiMaggio put in appearance at the Lamb-Galileo tussle last week that they forgot all about the game to stare at the Great One.

The biggest thrill we get out of the varsity grid contest is to watch Gobi Wunderling make one of his famous shoe string tackles. He hits like the coaches like to see them hit.

Accident Kills Sweet's Wife; Four Badly Hurt

LOUIE GETS A MID-WEEK BATH

Our gridmen sometimes have interesting ideas of what constitutes fun. Here we see poor Louie Bertolucci, team manager, about to get soaked with water bags—maybe the boys think Louie didn't bring them water on the field soon enough, so are getting back at him by giving him an otsenal overdose.
Left to right they are Lambie Allen, Jack Telesmanic, and Dave Smith.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Ardell White

An epidemic of straw votes and whats not having flooded the country, yours truly now presents her own special brand of poll. This is The Guardsmen's idea of men about women, with apologies to both.

Twenty men, most of them college students or graduates, were asked two questions: 1) I think that kind of co-ed do you prefer, non-athletic, strictly athletic, or medium, that is able to get by on one or two activities? 2) If you voted for either of the last two, what sport do you think every woman should know?

Results: Every man questioned voted for the medium type of all around good sport! This unanimous vote, we think, definitely proves our contention that the days of the clinging vine and the Amazon are over. Tennis and swimming proved to be the most popular sports from the masculine standpoint, with nine for the former, and seven for the latter. The one remaining tally goes to fishing, of all things, for which a well-known cynic expressed a marked preference.

We recently glimpsed George Warren wandering through the Galileo halls with a definitely feminine turquoise sweater approximately draped over one arm. George is the Mr. X who has been giving Don Mills some stiff competition for the position of perennial WAA mascot.

CLUB NEWS

With the first mid-term hardly over, the WAA council has already made plans for a tourney week to be held at the end of the semester. The week of activity will begin December 6, and each club will be required to play off its final matches during this time. Tourney week will end with a gala horse show and banquet.

Volleyball: Another game is to be held Thursday, November 5, at Galileo between the WAA council squad and the team picked from the rest of the WAA members. All college students are cordially invited to this game, which will start at 5:20 o'clock p.m.

The San Francisco State WAA volleyball team will play the local WAA squad Friday, December 8, at Galileo.

Golf: Check up on your putting, gals. The winner of the putting tournament will be presented with a membership to the Lincoln Park golf course.

Riding: The week-end at Rancho Carmelo has been called off, but a day's ride in the Valley of the Moon has been arranged. All women interested are cordially invited to attend. The cost of this outing is approximately three dollars, including dinner and horses.

Recreational Games: Sign-ups for the badminton tournament will be held all this week at Powell Street and Galileo. Matches will begin Monday.

The matches should be played off at Galileo on the following times: Monday through Thursday, from 2:50 o'clock to 3:40 o'clock p.m. On Friday, from 2:30 to 5:30 o'clock p.m.

An exhibition of table tennis will be held at the sophomore swimming party at Sutro's, November 4.

The mixed doubles table tennis tournament sign-ups will take place at the same place and date, as may also the badminton tournaments and matches.

Tennis: A pan of six tennis balls will be presented to each winner of the mixed doubles tournament. The ladder is posted on the mezzanine bulletin board in the Extension building.

COACH IS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN HEAD-ON PENINSULA COLLISION

Trapped in an automobile, Mrs. Russel Sweet, wife of head Coach Russel Sweet, was burned to death last Saturday night as the result of a head-on collision near Brisbane on the Bayshore Highway. Sweet and occupants of the car that struck his lie seriously injured in the hospital. Sweet is at the Franklin Hospital, and the others at Dante Sanitorium, where they were rushed following the accident.

According to witnesses of the accident, which occurred right in front of a service station at Brisbane, the other car, driven by Frank Baker, 62, Bristol Hotel, was coming down the road on the wrong side at a high rate of speed, headed for San Francisco, and crashed into the right side of Sweet's car, going down the Peninsula, ripping off and completely demolishing that side of the automobile.

The cars immediately broken into flames, witnesses said, making the extrication of Mrs. Sweet impossible.

Sweet was burned about the head and injured internally, according to word from the hospital, which also indicated that he was suffering from broken chest bones.

It was said, however, that Sweet would probably be able to leave the hospital in two weeks.

Others injured were D. C. Brown, Stockton, who was riding with Mr. and Mrs. Sweet; Baker, against, whom negligent homicide charges reportedly will be placed; and Lewis Baker.

The San Francisco Junior College football schedule will not be affected by Sweet's temporary incapacitation, according to Edwin C. Browne, assistant Dean of men at the college, although no practice was held last Monday.

A physical education instructor will be appointed to take over Sweet's classes temporarily, but the football team will be coached by Sweet's assistants, Lee Elsan, Jack Gaddy, and Louis Conlan, Browne said.

Mrs. Sweet's body will be taken to Montana, former home of the Sweet and Johnson families, for burial.

Ruth Johnson, well known junior college co-ed and president of the Women's Athletic Association, was the sister of Mrs. Sweet.

SOCCER TEAM WINS FROM SAN MATEO IN CONFERENCE BATTLE

Vowing to avenge the football team's defeat at the hands of San Mateo Junior College, Coach Tom Wilson's Ram soccerites, in their first conference game, went out to defeat a stubborn team of San Mateo Bulldogs by a score of 3 to 1 at Beach Chalet field last Saturday morning.

With Johnson, Fahn, and Zegura continually peppering the Bulldog's kennel from every angle on the field, the Rams were unable to score in the first half. Goalie Brandenberg of the Bulldogs was exceptionally busy in this session in attempting to prevent the Red and White from scoring.

The Rams were not to be denied, however, and returned in the second half to score three goals to San Mateo's one. In the first quarter, the Rams had a complete monopoly on the ball. However, the second quarter saw the teams more evenly matched.

Coach Tom Wilson's boys returned with a vengeance in the third quarter to tally two in rapid succession. Seconds after the opening of the second half, Bob Zegura, inside right, slapped the ball through the uprights on a pivot kick. Mike Klebanoff served the assist. Bob Johnson soon followed with another score when he was given a free kick in front of the goal.

However, Captain Mutti of San Mateo retaliated when his free kick ricocheted off Goalie Jublonsky and was kicked again by Mutti for the score.

In the closing minutes of the game, Oberhause kicked a high lob to Vincent, who headed a perfect pass to Johnson. Johnson thanked him by scoring.

Captain Max Evans, despite a severely twisted ankle, played a bang up game at center half. Klebanoff, Taylor, Zegura, Fahn, and the hard fighting Oberhause also played a great game.

Next Saturday, the rambling Rams will meet a mediocre Marin eleven at Beach Chalet.

Wilson Out For Season With Broken Leg Bone

Receiving a broken leg bone in the Modesto game last Saturday afternoon, Jim Wilson, first string varsity half-back, will probably be unable to play for the remainder of the season, according to reports.

The injury occurred in the last quarter, when, jumping high in an unsuccessful attempt to block a long Modesto pass, Wilson fell to the ground with his leg twisted underneath.

An x-ray of his leg Saturday evening revealed the broken bone.

Intramural Sports Are Getting Under Way Now

By Ed Talavera

With teams being organized by active members of the college, the henceforward semi-annual intramural sports shows promise of being a success this term.

Five new quintets have sent in their entries, among which are the "Sharp Shooters, composed of five veritable guards. Not to be overlooked is the First Herrings, a small but tricky outfit. Jensen, Fitzgerald, Walters, and Baccigalupi are some of the players on this squad.

Although their entry hasn't been received, it is rumored that the college crew will also be represented in the tournament. Partee, Wright, Waggstaff, Kissel and Bill Schonfeld compose this team.

With the addition of more members, these teams have also entered the touch football league.

Teams for each event will be selected tomorrow morning, and the contests will continue until a team has gained the championship.

All members of the various classes will be eligible to compete.

In the afternoon gym classes, held at Galileo, an interclass basketball tournament will take place.

DESPERATE REDS HOPE TO TOPPLE SANTA ROSA FRI.

Northerners Rated As Good First Half Team, But Lack Reserve Power

Eager to continue along the comeback trail, Coach Sweet's Ram squad will journey to the lair of the Santa Rosa Bear Cubs for a tussle with the Blewett men next Friday night. The Red Raiders will be out to prove that last week's tie was no fluke.

Again considered to have championship possibilities after holding the Modesto Pirates, Russ Sweet's men will be leveling to stay in the pennant race at the expense of the twice beaten Santa Rosans. Some 33 gridders are expected to make the trip in an attempt to garner another conference victory.

BEARS BEEFY

Despite the two setbacks, the Bear squad has a big and experienced eleven that should be able to taint the big city footballers. Although it has shown little offensive power to date, Coach Dick Blewett's squad has proved to be a powerful defensive unit and should cause the Ram backs to have quite a busy evening. Maums "Farmer" Daniels and Harvey Lyman, a pair of 200 pound tackles, are the bulwarks of the Bear defense.

Pete Zarevich, a spectacular wingman, is another defensive star, and is considered to be one of the best ends in the conference. He is also a first-rate pass snagger. Jim Banks and Dick Frykland will work at the guard spots for the Bears and both are experienced linemen. The pivot spot is also held down by a veteran Lew Vitovich.

FLASHY BACK

Blewett's best running back is Nick "Czar" Minitzky, a 180 pound speed burner, who runs from the tailback spot and also plays a whale of a game in backing up the line. Elton "Nip" Nipress is the field general for the Oak Leaf institution and is also rated a fine kicker and safety man.

The blocking post in the backfield is held down by Captain Ed Cordero, another veteran Junior College footballer. His running mate is the shifty Tony Elmore, who shares the ball packing duties with "Czar" Minitzky.

LACK RESERVES

The weakness in the Santa Rosa squad lies in the absence of good reserve material, but its starting lineup is rated the equal of any junior college eleven.

The Cubs have been defeated twice in conference play, dropping a 13-0 decision to Modesto and then losing out to Marin by a 12 to 0 margin. Although they lack an imposing record, Coach Blewett has pointed his squad for Friday's engagement, and he expects his team to play its best ball of the season in an effort to topple the San Franciscans.

NEW PLAYS PLANNED

Sweet was pleased with the performance of his team in last Saturday's tussle, but admits that the boys have a few rough spots that will need to be polished up this week. The head mentor hinted at some startling innovations in the Ram's offense in the form of several new lateral pass plays that he hopes will add deception to the Ram attack.

The coaching staff disclosed that it anticipated some trouble in attempting to crack the Bear line, and hope that the new diversified offense will give the local boys a more potent scoring punch.

The team is also putting in a lot of time in developing clearer line blocking, which was not up to Coach Sweet's satisfaction in the Pirate encounter. It is hoped that the Ram forwards will be able to open some holes in the husky Santa Rosa line.

LAMBS SHORN IN RAGGED CONTEST

After holding the Galileo squad scoreless for three quarters, the Flying Lamb fullbacks succumbed to the Lamb aerial attack and dropped a 7 to 0 decision last Thursday at Galileo field.

The only game mudway in the final period when Castro, Lion fullback, tossed a long pass to Waggle who was downed on the Junior college 3 yard marker. Micallaf plunged it over in three plays.

Without displaying the slightest semblance of a scoring punch, the Gaddy men displayed uniform form in several touchdown chances. No less than four times in the first half did the Lambs lose the ball on downs within the Galileo 20 yard stripe. Late in the second quarter, the college reserves made but 3 yards in four thrusts from the Lion 5 yard marker.

Excepting the rather sloppy pass defense, the Lambs seemed to be a capable defensive unit, holding the Galileo preppsters to 5 first downs, 2 of which were made on running plays. Jerry Flann, Andy Oddstead, and "Snufty" Eckeman looked good as defensive linemen, while Merv Weiner, Gene Lowenthal, and "Bullet Bob" Fex performed efficiently in the backfield. Galileo's best were Castro, Waggle, and Milliken.

Tournaments Will Start Tommorrow at Funston

Horseshoe and putting tournaments will start tomorrow morning at Funston Field in all of Coach Jack Gaddy's gymnasium classes except that held at 9:00 o'clock. The 9:00 o'clock group, refused the use of the putting greens, will hold a touch-tackle football tournament.

Teams for each event will be selected tomorrow morning, and the contests will continue until a team has gained the championship.

All members of the various classes will be eligible to compete.

In the afternoon gym classes, held at Galileo, an interclass basketball tournament will take place.

COLLEGE HEALTH

By Joseph A. Amori

(Former newspaper man, recreational director, athletic coach, dietician for University of California athletic teams, and hygiene instructor are just a few of the qualifications that make Joseph A. Amori well qualified as a young people's health and hygiene authority. It is with pleasure that The Guardsman announces his column as a weekly feature of this paper.)

Health does not become significant to any of us until we find ourselves losing it. A sound heart is taken for granted until the day is reached when it no longer functions as it did previously. Sound lungs mean nothing to us until pneumonia sets in and we are hovering between life and death. A rugged digestive tract, assimilating everything from a hamburger steak smothered with onions to a large helping of sauerkraut and corn beef, is of no special significance until we find ourselves unable to cope with any of the simpler foods. And thus it goes, with every individual, male and female alike. Given sound health, nothing is done to preserve it; taken away it becomes man's most sacred possession.

WE LIVE TO EAT

Human being have as brie of their outstanding failings this one thing when it comes to health. This is a true of the doctor, the nurse, the teacher of health as it is of the average college student. Individuals just go on living from day to day without ever taking inventory of their health. We eat three meals a day—the same food, prepared the same way, not giving one thought to the reason why we are eating what we are. Most of us live to eat, not eat to live.

WE LEARN BY DOING

It is no small wonder then that we have in our midst individuals suffering from anemia, excessive fatigue, digestive disturbances, headaches, kidney disorders, stomach ailments and the like, without thinking for one minute that what may have caused these abnormalities could be traced directly to some poor health habit, established during the elementary, the junior high, high school or college period? Correct health habits are the direct result of action on the part of the individual, not merely listening to a lecture in a hygiene class. We learn by doing, and the foundation for proper health habits should be laid down in the early periods of life. The saying, "You can't teach an old dog a new trick," plays its part when applied to the field of health, for it is much easier to form a new habit, than to break an old one.

WILL DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Each week it will be my privilege to discuss some phase of health with special reference to the college student, and it is the wish of the writer that any problems affecting any college student, whether pertaining to physical health or mental health, be presented to the Guardsman's Health Editor in the Guardsman office, where they will receive immediate attention in this weekly column.

College Men Play On Granat Bros. Program

In what the sponsors claim is an attempt to uphold the ideals of good music, a Granat Brothers' Programme is held every Sunday evening at 9:00 o'clock over Station KFRC, with students of various San Francisco high schools appearing.

Last Sunday evening, Robert Vinson and Bob Scott, both San Francisco Junior College students, played a few tunes on their instruments.

Dear Ram's Horn:

Just a suggestion about the so-called "Campus Column." Whoever writes the "We Women" seems to be doing a pretty good job in the way of introductions, and probably with a little encouragement could divert their talent to a scandel or scandeless column which would be of interest to a certain per cent of the students anyway.

Just a thought.

Note: Ho, hum.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

Hearing some of our Fascist minded demagogues rant recently about the perfection of the constitution and the sacredness of our American traditions reminded me that said demagogues overlooked one very prominent American tradition—namely, that America has nearsky always been on the side of liberalism.

The constitution was the essence of radicalism at the time it was written; so was Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, to name another well-known example.

Excluding the post war period of Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, you can find few instances in the American history when the forces of conservatism won the support of the people.

How about Willie Hearst, the Duponts, and London remembering the good old tradition of progressive, rather than reactionary, government?

Roosevelt Advocate.

Oct. 16 1936

Dear Ram's Horn:

Before I make my suggestion, may I say that I think the "Guardsmen" is attaining a higher level of journalistic endeavor with each issue? I think it is.

My suggestion has to do with the type of headings which are used in the paper. The use of such strong, black type gives an air of sensationalism to the paper as a whole and detracts from the appearance and quality of the individual pages. Why not use a less glaring type of heading, less black and not quite so big? The whole paper will look better if this is done.

In the interest of the paper,
Alexander Ross.

Note: Criticism of this constructive nature duly appreciated and considered.—Ed.

* * *

Dear Editor:

Appearing on the front page of last issue was an article which should be of vital concern to students of the college; namely, the one dealing with the possible formation of a band.

I cannot play any musical instrument, and never expect to, but I feel, as do most students, that it is about time that the junior college had a band to represent it. After all, it is rather humiliating to see a smaller institution with a well-organized unit of musicians, and realize that we have none.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to nurture this project along, so that San Francisco Junior College need take a back seat to no one in this respect? I think it would.

Signed,
D. S.

Note: Nice work, mister. Wish more people would take the time openly to commend noteworthy enterprises.

October 12, 1936

Dear Editor:

Because of the vital interest shown by the campus toward the present political acmpaign, I suggest that a straw vote be conducted by the Guardsman.

This vote should be based on the platforms of the various parties on the ballot in California running presidential candidates.

If space permits I would further propose that the platform of each party be printed in the Guardsman or perhaps a symposium with speaker from each party as is held by the University of California.

Resectfully yours,
Fred Vast.

Note: Sorry this was misplaced so that proper consideration could not be given it. A straw vote wouldn't work here, because too many students are inclined to write in silly names. Hope last week's political resume interested you.—Ed.

DYING FOR OLD S. F. or the Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

Oct. 23—Dear diary, such thrilling news! Templeton McQuiddle is taking me to my first football game tomorrow afternoon! We are playing Modesto Junior College—but here is the surprise: Templeton is an important official—third assistant water boy—and I will be allowed to sit with the players. Ah, me, just to think of being near those handsome athletes makes my heart flutter, simple country girl that I am.

Oct. 24—I can scarcely guide my pen to write, dear diary, I am so unnerved by yesterday's hectic events. But here is the pitiful tale—

Promptly at 1:30 dear Templeton arrived at my home. He was picturesquely attired in a red sweater, soiled white trousers, and tennis shoes. (Templeton believes socks are superfluous.)

"Hiyah, toots!" he yelled exuberantly, knocking my carefully-tilted hat off my head.

"Good afternoon, Templeton," I murmured gently, as I rescued the fallen headgear. I was charmingly dressed—in an emerald green suit, red hat, violet blouse, and blue suede shoes.

"Let us away to the athletic field immediately," I suggested. "It would be well for us to arrive early."

"Sure, sure," Templeton assented.

With that, we climbed onto the bicycle belonging to Cuthbert McQuiddle, Templeton's younger brother, and off we sped to our destination.

But little did I realize, dear diary, the sorrow that would befall us ere long! (Continued next week.)

Filipino Club Chooses Insignias For Its Pins

After much discussion at a special meeting of the Filipino Club last Wednesday afternoon, the insignias for club pins were finally decided upon by the organization. The pins consist of a red block F and a blue block C mounted on a white background. In the center of the emblem is a small orange sun with the letters S. F. J. C. placed in the center. The pin was chosen out of a group of eight different designs introduced by various members of the Association.

The Filipino Club outing, to be held on November 1, will probably be held at Yerba Buena Island. Negotiations are now under way to obtain permission to hold a picnic on the island.

The next meeting of the club will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Galileo cafeteria.

Josephine Tumminia: Former Galilean

By Pattyde Roulf

Brown eyed, diminutive Josephine Tumminia, the San Francisco-made prima donna, will make her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House this season. Only a very few years ago this girl walked the halls of Galileo High School. Today Galileo teachers and students boast of their girl who has made good.

With a gracious and modest personality, young Josephine answered questions about her thus far dazzling career.

PROUD OF GALILEO

"I was born in St. Louis," said the coloratura soprano, "but my parents soon came here. And I am proud to say that I attended Galileo."

When asked about her debut in The Barber of Seville, Miss Tumminia, Latin eyes sparkling, said that she felt tremendous excitement at singing with Schipf, Pinza, and Bonelli.

Miss Tumminia's rise to success has been steady and simple. While in high school she sang in the Glee club, and a few times in San Jose. From time to time Gaetona Merola heard her sing and gave her advice concerning her voice. In April of 1935 Merola heard her on the stage of the Opera House, and soon after decided that she should sing in The Barber of Seville.

TO SING WITH TIBBET

Gollecting coins is Josephine's only hobby, but she "loves tennis."

Miss Tumminia has turned 'thumbs down,' to Hollywood contract because she feels that she is not ready for the movies yet.

"Anyway, I want to be an opera singer, not a movie actress," she says.

This season the young singer will take the part of Rosina in The Barber of Seville, Carmen will come next, and then Miss Tumminia will sing in Rigoletto with Lawrence Tibbet.

LOST: Lady's white gold wrist watch — initials "R. A. S." on back. Please return to Mrs. Bright, secretary in Galileo office.

Anyone interested in getting a place on their musical hours should contact George Davis at the Sherman and Clay Building, Sutter and Kearney Streets, before Sunday, Granat Brothers announced.

THE GREAT DIMAG

"May I have your autograph?" "Please sign your name on my card?" "I licked him first." "Won't you write your name on my book please?"

These are just a few of the questions that were fired at a modest young fellow who had the ill luck to show himself around the Galileo premises early last week, but it was the good luck of the San Francisco Junior College co-eds that this gentleman appeared.

The well-built, athletic man that had all the women agog and caused many of the men students to look quite a bit wan was none other than Joe Di Maggio, centerfielder of the world's champion New York Yankees, and, as many of you know, a San Francisan and a former Galileo High School student.

Joe, known all over the United States where baseball is played for his great hitting and fielding ability, was just strolling around his old stamping ground, hoping to meet some of his boyhood pals.

NYA STUDENTS: TIME SLIPS TO BE IN EARLIER

SWIMMING PARTY WILL TAKE PLACE NEXT FRIDAY EVE

Program of Activities Is Scheduled on Nov. 6 Program; Admission 35

Continuing a program of varied social activities for the college, the low sophomore class, headed by President Joe Kissell, has made arrangements for an all-college swimming party to be held Friday evening, November 6, at Sutro Baths Tropical Beach, located at the beach at the end of the number 2 car line.

Working under Kissell, a committee has been making plans for a variety of feature stunts and games to take place at the party. In addition to the games and aquatic stunts, races will be held for both men and women students. Jim Fahn and Frank O'Connor will furnish the laught with a series of acrobatics.

For people not desiring to enter the water there will be a variety of beach games and dancing.

"Come and bring all your friends," Kissell said, "I guarantee you'll all have one swell time."

Admission to the affair will be 35 cents per student, with own suits, a special reduction from the regular price.

The committee working in charge of the affair are: Joe Kissel, Annabelle Tyler, Verna Cane, and Barbara Sieberling.

PREVIEW OF MODELS FOR FASHION SHOW NOVEMBER 20

Getting together for a pretentious affair, the Household Arts Society and the Associated Women Students will sponsor a joint fashion show and tea soon. Here are some of the women who will act as models: Upper, left to right, Olive Reed, Jo Jordan, Beth Hillyard, Paula Hurdman, Louise Corica, and Anita de Martini. Lower left, Miss Claire Cuneo, faculty sponsor of the Household Arts group. Lower right, Helen Davis, president of the AWS.

Freshmen Sponsor Dance On Friday Afternoon In Gym

Phonograph Records to Give Music for Occasion; All Students Invited at 5c

Members of the freshman class will hold a dance in the Galileo gymnasium Friday afternoon, November 6, from 2:30 to 6:00 o'clock. The music will be furnished by phonograph records with a public address system, which, according to Donna McPherson, constitutes a major improvemen over the old one.

The theme and decorations are being kept a secret to invite further interest in the affair. The admission will be five cents and everyone is invited to attend.

The administration has announced that classes cannot be suspended for the dance.

Field Trip Is Taken to Marin Dell Company

To witness the complete process of the pasteurization and purification of milk, a field trip was made to the Marin Dell Milk Company by members of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the Junior College, last Saturday, October 31. This trip was made through the courtesy of J. H. Higgins, plant manager of the company. The chemical analysis and complete testing process was also shown to the students.

ERNIE SMITH AND JOE DIMAGGIO TO APPEAR AT RALLY

Joe Brigandi Signed For Unique Music Features On Monday Afternoon

To arouse spirit for the Sacramento game, a rally will be held in the auditorium at Galileo at 1:45 o'clock Monday afternoon, November 9, featuring many well known people, according to Louis Bertolucci, chairman of the rally.

Ernie Smith, radio sports commentator, has been prevailed upon to appear, and Joe di Maggio, noted big league baseball player and former student at Galileo, will also appear if it is not necessary for him to go out of town before that time.

NEW INSTRUMENT RUMORED

Joe Brigandi, player of strange instruments and who appeared with Griff Williams at one of the rallies last semester, will also be present with, it is rumored, another old instrument.

The rendition of the Martins and the Coys which was presented by the football team at the State rally will be redone because of popular demand.

Lee Eisan, athletic instructor, will give a talk, and the team captain for the Sacramento game will be introduced.

INTEREST PROMISED

The newly-formed college band will also be present and will favor the assemblage with several march selections.

All students are urged to attend as it is expected to be the biggest and most interesting rally of the current semester, according to Louis Bertolucci, chairman.

Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, Bob Sisco, president of the Associated Students, and various members of the executive committee are aiding Bertolucci, who is also treasurer of the Associated Students and manager of the football team, in formulating plans for the affair.

TWO DEBATERS TO GO TO FORENSIC SUBJECT

Proposition 22 concerning the chain store tax, and one of the most discussed issues of the recent political campaign, was the subject of several debates held by members of the debating team of the Junior College on last Thursday and Friday, October 29 and 30.

Yesterday afternoon, the University of San Francisco forensic team met W. Woodman, James Neal, and Eugene Blumenthal in a non-decision debate before the Junior College debate-class in the Galileo auditorium.

Friday evening two debates took place, one between the Junior College and the Coalinga extension of the Fresno State College, and the other a round robin debate at an informal convention of Junior College debate teams in Sacramento.

The first, a decision debate, was won by Eugene Blumenthal and Isabel Sherrett for the Junior College, and the latter, a non-decision debate, was argued by members of Modesto Junior College, Sacramento Junior College, and San Francisco Junior College with James Neal and Morris Rabinowitch upholding the affirmative for the local institution.

Astronomy Class Plans Trip to Observatory on Top of Mount Hamilton

Traveling to Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton on Saturday, November 7, Dr. Louis Berman's astronomy classes will observe celestial objects through the large 36 inch refracting telescope on the mountain, as well as through a smaller 12 inch instrument.

Dr. Berman has announced that all astronomy students and their friends are invited to make the trip, to be made in automobiles, with the expenses shared by all who go.

Those making the excursion will meet in front of the main library, McAllister and Larkin streets, at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. This will give them ample time to reach the mountain top in time to see the extraordinary sunset visible from the summit ("weather permitting", Berman explained.

Preliminary members are Eloyas Cagle, Betty Phillips, Shirley Bryer, Norma Parent, Pat Madden, Pat Bernard and Florence Murphy.

TURN BACK CLOCK! PAJAMA PARTY TO BE NIGHT FEATURE

Marking the first get together of the regular and probationary members of the Women's Service Society, a pajama party will be held this afternoon at Galileo, according to Elaine Dominguez, club president.

"We plan to turn back the clock" Miss Dominguez explained, "And have a real lower grade party with old and new members joining in an apple bobbing contest and other such stunts. We have also planned an 'intelligence' test for the probationary members which should provide a lot of laughs."

Regular members aside from Miss Dominguez and Miss Latz, include: Helen Davis, Betty Hyde, Ruth Johnson, Marygail Konkel, Pamel Brown, Hermine King, and Donna McPherson.

Probationary members are Eloyas Cagle, Betty Phillips, Shirley Bryer, Norma Parent, Pat Madden, Pat Bernard and Florence Murphy.

Brandon Watson Leaves Local Hotel Department

Because of the volume of business that Brandon Watson is doing as manager of the Berkeley Women's City Club, it is impossible for him to continue teaching classes in the Junior College Hotel and ing to John P. Gifford, coordinator of the course. He has taken an indefinite leave of absence and until such time as he can return Gifford will take over his classes.

Also because of this change, the class has been divided into two groups, the sophomores in preparation of foods under Chef Beyl, formerly of the Athens Athletic Club; and the freshmen under J. Graham Sullivan in service work.

LOST: The finder of a blue leather pouch purse is requested by Dorris Green to return the contents, including fountain pen, keys, library card, and bank folder, to the Junior College office immediately.

CHINESE CLUB WILL HOLD COLLEGE PROM

Completion of plans and awards for the coming Collegiate Prom, which will be held November 14 at the Chinese Y.W.C.A., were made at a meeting of the Chinese Club last Sunday night. No-

According to Vincent Lee of the raffle committee, local Consul General C. C. Huang and the merchants of Chinatown are donating raffle prizes to be drawn at the dance. The club is giving a gold trophy to the Chinese co-ed polling the most votes in the present Chinese popularity contest, which is taking place in conjunction with the raffle. The leading contestants at this time are Louise Yut Lee, Louise Lym, Marian Look, and Lillian Owyang.

DEADLINE SET AHEAD

Time slips for the N.Y.A. must be in to Helen Turnbr on November 24 instead of November 26 as previously announced. This change is because of the conflict with the Thanksgiving vacation.

COLLEGE RIFLE CLUB TO MEET PERSHING SHOOTERS TOMORROW

Going up against stiff competition, the college rifle team, composed of the ten best shots in the Rifle Club, will fire its first match of the year against the team representing the Pershing Rifles, honor company specially selected from all enrollees in the Basic R.O.T.C. course at the University of California.

S.F.J.C. Rifle and Pistol Club range officer, with Charles Tofftey, captain of the U. C. team. In this match, the teams will consist of ten "shooters" each, the five highest scores made on each side to count in determining the winner.

BEST SELECTED

Four positions will be fired by each marksman, with ten shots each prone, sitting, kneeling, and offhand, or, in other words, standing.

As a result of the last month's competition during the regular practice periods of the club on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at the Galileo rifle range, the following members have been selected to make the trip to Berkeley: Dick Pitman, Ed Rundstrom, Kermit Wright, Fred Wright, Don Smith, Max Brewen, Syd Farley, Dallace Ogilvie, John Stewart, and George Ellis.

VICTORY NOT ANTICIPATED

Hancock, Mack Garr, assistant range officer, and the club sponsor will accompany the junior college representatives. The trip will be made by private auto-

Pete Jambruno Elected Newman Club President

Getting together for the purpose of electing officers, the Newman Club, Catholic students organization, held its first regular meeting last Wednesday evening in the clubroom at St. Mary's Cathedral.

Officers elected were Peter Jambruno, president; Barbara Seiberling, vice president; Patricia Bernard, secretary; Bill Reynolds, treasurer; Bob Lee, sergeant-at-arms, and Bob Fex, historian.

The next meeting of the organization will be held on Monday evening, November 9, at 8 o'clock, and any student interested in joining the group may do so by getting in touch with any of the officers or see Jack Gaddy or Catherine Musante, faculty sponsors of the group.

Vacation Possibility November 12 or 13

Although no final action has been taken, there is a possibility of a vacation on either Thursday or Friday, November 12 or 13, for the opening of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. There is high hope among the students for such a vacation, but as nothing definite can be said until the board meets, the announcement from the administration will appear on the bulletin board at Powell and Street, according to Paul Pitman, assistant to the president.

SOPHOMORES REQUESTED TO SHOW UP FOR PICTURES OF GRADUATION

The following high sophomores are requested to meet this afternoon at 3:20 o'clock in room 150 at Galileo in order that thiy may have their pictures taken for graduation.

All students listed below are asked to wear the outfits of the different activities that they are interested in. A footballer should wear his grid uniform, a tennis player wear sport clothes and carry a racquet. Swimmers, golfers, riflemen, baseball players, are all requested to bring their various implements to room 150.

Pictures will be taken this afternoon. Don't forget 3:20 o'clock in room 150.

Beta Phi Dance Bids Announced on Sale Now

Bids for the semi-annual dance of the Beta Phi social fraternity, to be held Friday evening, November 20, at the Residence Club, are now on sale, according to James Neal, fraternity member.

"With each bid," Neal explained, "You get ten votes for Beta Phi queen, and the man having the most votes will have the privilege of naming the queen, who will be crowned at the dance."

Plan for Intra-Club Football Is Announced

Establishment of an intra-club touch football tournament was announced last Friday by Dean Edwin C. Browne. In the absence of Russ Sweet, Lee Eisan will be in charge of the tournament. All clubs must file their application for entry in his office no later than November 9, at 5 o'clock p. m., according to Browne.

At the close of the touch football tournament, a basketball tournament will be run off under the supervision of Coach Dutch Conlan.

An intra-class horseshoe tournament is being fostered by Jack Gaddy and the coaching staff.

Browne urges students to affiliate themselves with the organization of their choice and participate in these events.

DISBAND, OR GET GOING

Inactive clubs, societies, associations, and similar organizations should either come to visible life, or disband and stop cluttering up the records with their names.

With this thought in mind, The Guardsman is, in this issue, inaugurating a survey of all student organizations, each week offering a brief resume of one or two groups.

Active organizations have nothing to fear. Skip Irwin, clubs editor, will offer them written praise and commendation.

Inactive ones, however, had better swing into action in short order, or else quietly and quickly withdraw from the records else they will find themselves frankly exposed before the associated student body.

MAKE IT ARMISTICE

Armistice means peace, and end to hostilities; yet military parades will be the order of the day throughout the nation.

Witnessing a parade in all its military pageantry is scarcely a fitting manner, in itself, to commemorate the conclusion of history's bloodiest chapter.

It is seldom enough that the average individual really gets the full significance of an occasion. It is for this that suggestions are here offered in an endeavor that students see "beyond the front-line trenches."

1. See a military parade; if possible, take part in one.
2. Read the statistics of those slaughtered and maimed in the last war.
3. Read a book or article that brings out in truthful vividness the horrors of war.
4. Read a few accounts of sad losses sustained by mothers and wives in the last war.
5. Read an account of the cost of the last war.
6. Ascertain the amount of money the world is now spending on armies, navies, and articles of war.
7. Get a professor of political science and international relations to explain the causes of wars.
8. Attend some Armistice Day church service, of any denomination.

Even a few of the above suggestions followed will give the individual more benefit than sleeping until noon, and loafing the rest of the holiday.

CONSIDERATION WEEK

In consideration, basically, lies the secret of getting along with people, for out of consideration rise sympathy and most kindnesses. In truth, kindness and consideration are almost analagous.

World peace would be automatic if consideration, instead of selfishness, were the basic characteristic of every individual.

Various sociological and psychological experiments are made in colleges from time to time. Army week, navy week, peace week, this week, and the other week are celebrated, commemorated, and berated, so that there is now scarcely a week that is not set aside for this or that.

The two thoughts in the above paragraph may seem somewhat irrelevant to each other. The idea is that they should be combined. It may not be nice to wish to foist on the American public another eat-a-prune-a-day week or the like but a mere substitution should not affect the national calendar too visibly.

The idea is that what this city, state, nation, what any city, state, nation, what any group of people, anywhere, needs is a week set aside for consideration, a week in which consideration of the other fellow will be the guiding factor of the daily life.

The week over, a second week should be declared. The second week over, another one should be instigated. This should be continued until consideration week is every week of the year, with special plans made to carry over the extra days of leap years.

City councils, state legislatures, congresses, presidents, kings, dictators cannot be prevailed upon to bring about this highly desirable measure. So long has selfishness been their guiding light, in many cases, that a substitute would, to them, be unthinkable.

DESPITE THAT, CONSIDERATION WEEK IS ENTIRELY POSSIBLE EVERYWHERE. Its simplicity is almost astounding. Beginning today, this hour, this minute, all the individual has to do is bear in mind every conscious second that consideration is the most desirable virtue man can possess, and very shortly he will find himself automatically carrying out his part in the celebration and commemoration of an unofficial, permanent week of consideration.

THE BULL SHORTS

WASHINGS
SHAKESPEARE
POETICATION

As though to wash away the troubles of a city, the rain came upon us last Friday. Curbed by those who had gone out unprepared, the rain was blessed by those who had, and by those who, although realizing the discomfort of wet clothing and allied inconveniences, love the smell of the moisture laden air, love to hear the sound of the drops upon the pavement, to watch the muddy, dirty rivers pour down the hills of San Francisco.

Rain seems to bring peace to a hectic world; and who could bear a grievance in his breast as he takes in the clean sunshine of the morning after that drives the moisture from the sidewalks in fine mists of steam?

Who could? Those unfortunate individuals to whom the change of weather gave nasty colds.

Predestination, or no?

"There's a destination shapes our ends, rough hew them how we will."—Hamlet.

The quotation is trite, but can it be said that it is true? Sacrilege though it may be to doubt the immortal Shakespeare, yet who is he (his work, not he, is immortal), or any other one man, to know such matters for a certainty? It was only said in a play.

The question so often arises in the minds of the doubters as to whether or not the small trifles of life also come under the classification of "destinies", and hence are shaped beforehand, "rough hew them how we will."

A philosophical resignation to the predestination, yea, even to the futility, of it all tends to break down ambition and the trouble of constructive thought; for why bother, since our ends are already shaped by some destiny?

Be Sure in Doubt

Apparently, it would be advisable not to take too much stock in this predestination business, but rather to utlize its good points only.

By good points is meant a desirable realization of the relative insignificance of the individual and of present events compared to that of the mass and of time, to be considered only under certain circumstances, and not to become an obsession.

"A sure way to insanity is to be had through prolonged contemplation of the infinite."

Uncompleted

An urge toward expression through verse seems to have swept over many recently. A bit of the spirit has afflicted and infected this rambling imagination, but not in sufficent quantity to produce anything but incomplete wanderings of a dreamy mind:

Adjustment

On a garbage can, on Market Street,
Sat a boy and girl with tired feet,
At three o'clock of a Saturday morn. . . .

Parody on the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam

Here with a smoke, in a corner pew,
A glass of beer, a dreamy mind and you
Beside me listening to my sincerest nothings
And nothings become veracities true.
(Second verse not supplied upon request)

The Forsaken Press
(Or Is It Forsaken Us?)

Ink splashed rollers, soft and black
Where the impressions are all asleep,
And the platen, round and smooth—
Where the hell's everyone gone?

The Line

Linotypes in the corner,
No one to tickle the keys,
The football game is in progress,
But where're the proofs for my dummies?

No, it's not that we're slipping toward sentimentality, but that this building is so doggone silent on Saturday afternoons.

EXECUTIVE EXCERPTS

By Bob Sisco

Because of the heavy rains last Friday, the Santa Rosa game has been set ahead to tonight. There are many students going up in cars, and I hear that there are still many vacancies. You can go with one of the students for something like 75c.

A correction on the fares for the Sacramento trip, the rate by train will be $2.00 round trip instead of $1.25 as there is no holiday rate this year. Thanks to Mr. Pitman for letting us know of our error.

Next Monday's rally should prove to be the biggest and best one thus far. Louis Bertolucci, chairman for the day, has lined up some very good talent.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

The inquiring reporter of a local newspaper seems to like to question J. C. coeds, and the latest victim was Phyllis Kaiser, who, in answer to the question, "Should colleges eliminate the "frill" courses and put more emphasis on fundamentals?" replied:

"I don't think the charge that our schools are failing in the fundamental background courses is well taken. These courses are needed, and in most schools they are required, as can be seen from college catalogs. As for the special courses, they fill a very definite need in preparing students for the work they plan to do later, and are necessary for a rounded education and appreciation of what is going on in the world. It seems to me that our colleges are doing a fine job in preparing students for the world as it is today, and are not stressing any type of course at the expense of other necessary courses."

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Much has been written bemoaning the passing of the ferries, but to date, no one has thought to consult the boats themselves on the question. Your correspondent, sensing a chance to "scoop" his contemporaries, went to the best possible source of information, and succeded in gaining an exclusive interview with the "Berkeley", the oldest ferry on the bay.

Broaching the subject in a subtle manner, we said very casually to Berkeley the other morning as she bore a horde of commuters and ourselves across the bay, "Well, guess you boats feel pretty badly about the bridge cutting in on your racket, don't you?"

We were taken aback at the savagery of her answer, as, blowing a derisive blast on her whistle, she retorted, "Nuts! All the other boats and myself are getting a big kick out of the sentimental twaddle that is being written about us. What do they think we are, a bunch of mossbacks? We are as progressive as the rest of you, and we think that the bridge is a fine thing. Besides, we are old, and have had most of our fun. It'll be a relief to get away from it all."

"But," I queried, "won't it seem rather strange not to journey back and forth across this old bay every day?"

"No," she returned, "that's just the point, no more schedules to make, no more fog to worry about, no more abuse from these ungrateful dopes who ride us every day and complain loud and long if we are late once out of a whole year. No, we think it will be kinda nice to settle down and watch these speed mad fools tear across the bridge."

"But," I persisted, "won't you miss those swell moon-light trips in the summer time, or the groups of admiring children and tourists, who sometimes stroll your decks?"

"Yeah, I suppose we will miss the night trips, when there's no flock of pestering sea-gulls flying around over our decks, and we do get a lot of laughs out of some of these tourists, but on the whole, I'll stick to what I said about settling down," she answered.

We tried a new tack and asked, "Do you think that people will miss you very much?"

"Well," she replied, "you know human nature. We'll be forgotten quicker than most people realize. In a few years, when you folks are used to driving across the bay, you'll probably smile at the memory of the old ferries, and wonder how you ever tolerated us so long."

Glancing up, we saw the Ferry Building looming ahead, and the deck-hands making ready to tie up, so we shot our final question, "If you had your choice, how would you like to spend the rest of your days?"

"I'd like nothing better than to be tied up in a quiet bit of water, say in the estuary, and be converted into a night club. I was talking to the "Santa Clara" and the "Oakland" about it the other day, and they agreed that it was a swell idea. Besides, a floating cabaret is something we haven't got around here," she answered."

"That's not a bad scheme at all," we agreed, and as we turned to go off the gang-plank, we said, "Well, thanks for the interview, and we hope you get your wish."

"Not at all, young fellow," said the genial ferry, "and remember, if we do become dance halls, come and see us sometime."

So you see, all this crying about the poor old ferry boats is wasted. They don't want our sympathy.

Now that the election is over, we can expect to see a flock of saps rolling peanuts up the street with their noses, or pushing someone around in a wheelbarrow, or letting their beards grow, or doing any of a thousand other foolish stunts to pay off their goofy election bets. Sometimes our faith in the inherent intelligence of mankind is sadly strained.

Around the town . . . trying to study in Union Square Park with a flock of pigeons fluttering in front of your face . . . Powell Street, just as alive at 2:00 A. M. on a Sunday morning as at any time, even if it's a different crowd . . . discovering that those decorations on lower Market Street are supposed to represent the Bay Bridge.

Like a rubber check, we'll be back again.

RAM'S HORN

RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

That picture published in the sport section this week is very bad. The facts of this case is that a water fight was held in front of the school and the participants of this childish brawl were severely reprimanded also at the time there was a representative of the Board of Education seeing Mr. Brown about the school. That brawl sure must have given him a good impression of the school. There was no reason for the paper to agitate the question further.

A. C.

* * * *

Dear Rams Horn:

For the benefit of the uneducated ones, abbreviatively speaking, you really divulge the fact that the terse Ed. which follows your retorts in this column is merely terminology for Editor and not the signature of a person. Last week two slightly misconprehending co-eds in Study Hall spent about fifteen previous minutes trying to figure out, by process of elimination, who the mysterious scribe could be.

The first femme piped up with an impressed "Gosh, I wonder what this Ed's last name is. He must be a pretty big shot to get by with criticizing the social committee and all. I'd like to meet him."

Suddenly the other collegian discovered the staff box and after excitedly going through the names she sighted Ed Talavera's and so far as I know both young ladies are blissful in the illusion that Mr. Talavera is the author of the somewhat acrid pennings.

Which just goes to show you that you can fool some of the people all of the time.

Dear Editor:

Your editorial of last week concerning the laxness of both students and teachers at fire drills, although certainly applicable to that fire drill, is not true of all of them. As it happens, I interviewed the battalion chief who had charge of the previous drill, and he said that the students had cleared out in record time for so large a group.

This sudden laxity is a sure proof of the truth of the last part of the editorial concerning the fact that a goodly number of fire drills create the tendency to be slow.

Any one of these supposed fire drills may turn out to be the real thing, and students certainly cannot tell when the bell rings whether it is a drill or a fire. For this reason alone, strict attention should be paid to fire bells.

As for the instructors, they can hardly expect the students to pay any attention to the warning if they don't themselves.

P. S.

* * * *

Dear Editor:

In regard to your editorial on Fire Drills, may I make a suggestion?

The building at Powell street usually is emptied more quickly because instructions have been given regarding exits to be used from each room.

If equally clear directions were given regarding exits at Galileo, the building might be emptied more quickly. Common sense should tell the people which way to go for the quickest exit, but it doesn't seem to help.

SOCCER SQUAD TAKES 7-1 VICTORY FRIDAY OVER WEAK MARINERS

Fahn Sinks Two in First Two Minutes of Game; Menlo Scheduled Next

By Ed Talavera

Playing on a rain soaked field, Coach Tom Wilson's Rams soccer eleven won its second straight conference encounter by smothering a green and inexperienced team of Marin J. C. Mariners under a deluge of 7 to 1 at Beach Chalet field last Friday afternoon.

TOM WILSON

The Rams went to town in this game, tallying four times in the first half and returning to score three more in the second. "Killer" Vincent went on a scoring spree to score four goals. He was closely followed by Jim Fahn and Bill Johnson, who chalked up two and one, respectively.

FIRST DEBUT FOR BOTH

The Mariners were completely outplayed and were helpless before the polished attack of the Rams. Both teams are making their debut in the conference this year, this being the first team ever to represent Marin on the soccer field.

Using a series of short passes, they completely bewildered the Mariners. This was in contrast to the long, looping kicks which Marin displayed. The Rams showed a strong forward line which can hold its own with any other junior college or college in northern California, but which has a tendency to miss several easy shots in the course of a game. The score might have been doubled if they had taken advantage of every opportunity presented.

VISITORS START STRONG

The game started with every indication that Marin would give the Red and White a tough tussle. Play seesawed back and forth for 10 minutes after the opening whistle. However, from here on the Rams took command of the ball game.

Little Jimmy Fahn broke the ice by swooping on a free ball in front of the goal to make the initial point. Not satisfied with only one goal, he came back to score again on a corner-kick pass from Mikki Klebanoff.

Johnson soon followed with another, but was nullified because he was offside on the play.

If any of your pals have a bewhiskered retort that is continually jangling your nerves, let me know, and we'll throw it into the "Pit" for you.

We were all sorry to hear that Glen Allen, first string right end, is forced to give up football because of a chronic leg injury. Glen was a swell footballer and turned in some fine games for the junior college. His loss will be severely felt.

* * * *

Jack "Old Man" Guddy made the varsity speed kings hang their heads in shame when he pulled up yards and yards ahead of them in some sprint races the other day.

* * * *

We've heard that the Ex council is considering giving circle SF's to the Flying Lambs, and we think it would be a rather nice gesture. Although the Lambs are not the equal of their varsity brothers in ability, they are certainly their equals in earnestness. They put in two hours every day merely because they like to play football, but I'm sure they wouldn't be averse to some recognition.

* * * *

Weekly doubt: Joe Kissel, "We'll get the crew cup next week."

We were told that George Clarke was the recipient of many congratulations during the past week, but we can't imagine why.

* * * *

The soccer team continues to knock over everything in sight. The lads look like champs though.

* * * *

Hobbies—Randy Osborne wearing a hat, Joe Manning—keeping quiet!, Ed Quirk—collecting jerseys, Red Brickley—kicking field goals, Andy Oddstead—impromptu wrestling, Jack Telesmanic—killing wild bears to make overcoats, Louie Bertolucci—making faces at football players, Ray Englehofer—blowing bubble-gum, Ed Dow—reading about Bobby Grayson, El Pearce and (naturally!) Mrs. Olsen—the raven haired June O'Brien.

* * * *

A verbal bouquet to Jim Wilson—a booming halfback and a swell fellow. We're sure pulling for you to be ok'd in a hurry.

* * * *

One of life's little dramas . . . Hermie Hextrum, erstwhile "Old Faithful," has decided it wasn't worth it! After haunting the practice field for some two months and observing strict training rules, Hermie decided to forego his usual lunchtime quart of milk for some body building Pepsa-Cola—such dissipation.

* * * *

An incomplete and rather hurried survey among the football men shows a decided preference for brunettes. Several lads, lovers of the sensational, picked redheads, while George Pedrin blushingly admitted that "He liked 'em all." But don't throw away the peroxide yet, because we shall try to get more complete details in our next—and the result is likely to be different.

* * * *

What famed gridder, when asked what he thought of the honor system, remarked that the teachers have more honor and the students have a system?

* * * *

Things we like to see: Duke Wersham's nifty pass defense—George Pedrin continually outfoxing opposing linemen—Tony Scafani running in the open field—Walt Loving shoving up for practice EVERY day. Bob Fox tossing passes—Joe Goudet catching them—George Clarke playing football when he's mad.

* * * *

It really happened. After a terrific smash into the center of the line, one of the players at the bottom of the pile failed to get up. He was out cold, and it took several minutes before he blinked his eyes stupidly, and came to.

"How d'yah feel," inquired the coach anxiously.

"Oh, I feel swell, answered the gridder with conviction, "Except," he added slowly, as his face began to turn deep purple, "I can't breath."

MAY BE SACRAMENTO'S NEMESIS

George Clarke, right, has proved one of the most outstanding backfield men in the junior college conference, piling up more yardage to his credit than any other Ram gridman.

A stellar bit of work Clarke did was in the Modesto game, when, with but a few minutes left to play, he took a lateral from Tom Mason, who had caught the kick-off, and dodged his way 58 yards down the field. If he hadn't been so fast that his interference was unable to keep up with him, he might have scored, as it was the last Modesto man between Clarke and another six points for the Rams that made the tackle.

Clarke will undoubtedly be San Francisco's candidate for all-conference honors, and probably is as deserving of them as any backfield man in the league.

One of his drawbacks as a good football player, so his team-mates claim, is his temperament, which sometimes receives a few hours for cooling.

. . SPORTS . .

MOST OF THEM STILL HERE

Above are pictured members of last semester's soccer squad. Most of these men are still booting the ball around the field to the advantage of San Francisco Junior College. So far this season, they have shin-dug their way undefeated, being tied but Once, and that by a powerful University of San Francisco varsity.

Coach Tom Wilson's proteges have already trounced two conference teams, San Mateo and Marin. Next Saturday they take on Menlo Junior College in a game that, according to indications, should be a push over.

VALLEY DEMOCRATS

Scoring a decisive victory over his opponent, President F. D. Roosevelt was returned to a second term last week in a straw ballot conducted at Modesto J. C.

READY TO GO FOR NEXT TROPHY

Sign-ups for varsity basketball will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Galileo gym, according to Louis "Dutch" Conlan, hoop mentor.

Short practice will also begin today, Conlan said.

Last season, Conlan's team went through a successful season, bringing to San Francisco Junior College its first athletic trophy.

Postpone Tournament Because of Gym Mix-up

Because of a slight mixup in the gymnasium classes held at Funston Field, the horseshoe, putting, and touch football tournaments have been set aside for the time being by Coach Jack Geddy.

The contests scheduled to get under way last Thursday morning will most likely start in approximately two weeks.

The interclass basketball tournament held at Galileo in the afternoon gym classes will continue as originally scheduled. The Fitz Herrings, a very formidable outfit headed by Johnny Fitzgerald, tricky forward, are routed as favorites in the league race.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Ardell White

Two very large, very indignant gentlemen and one annoyed athletic W. A. A.'er having ganged up on this puny reporter, maybe the "Parade" will dispense with that personal touch—maybe.

Stars of last week's volleyball game—On the men's team: Don (Scandalmonger) Mills, Charlie (Killer) Kremetac, Dean Edwin C. (Position!) Browne. Outstanding players on the women's team were: Dorothy Fidiam and Genevieve Sickafoose. Most of the brawny males entered the contest with the idea that it was going to be a sissy game, but said brawny guys finished the fracas with dripping brows. Only exception was "Fresh as a daisy" George Pedrin, who, after the strenuous game, raced a 19 street car-for six blocks and won! Another grudge men-versus-women volleyball encounter will take place next Tuesday at 5:20 o'clock in the Galileo women's gym.

The W. A. A. Council team will play the W. A. A. volleyball squad tomorrow at 5:20 in Gym A.

CLUB NEWS

Riding—A mixed riding party will be held during the latter part of this month . . . The date of the proposed ride to Sonoma was changed again . . . it's now indefinite.

Archery—New equipment will be received within two weeks, welcome news to the enthusiastic archers who have been faithfully shooting despite distressingly featherless arrows.

Outing—This club will attend a hockey match on November 15 at Berkeley. The teams taking part in the contest are the Australian Women's Team and the Northern California Women's Team. All co-eds interested are invited to come—bring lunch and transportation fare. On Sunday, November 8, the club will meet at Galileo at 2: P. M. and hike to Coit Tower.

Swimming—Betty Hyde has resigned the managership of this club, and Gloria Swiegood has taken over the duties.

READY TO GO FOR NEXT TROPHY

Last season's basketball captain, Ralph Hillsman, is shown above helping Coach "Dutch" Conlan hold the trophy won in conference competition. Hillsman graduated, but Conlan is still here to endeavor to coach another winning squad.

RED RAIDERS TRAVEL TO SACTO. NEXT WEEK FOR ARMISTICE DAY'S GAME

By Don Mix

Heading for their last conference game, the Raiding Rams will invade Sacramento next Wednesday, Armistice Day, for a tussle with the powerful Panther eleven. Hoping to "Win it for Russ" the Red Raiders are aiming to spring an upset over the favored Sacramento conference leaders.

The big Sacramento eleven has been defeated but once in conference play, the blots on their record being a 13-6 defeat by the California Freshmen early in the season, and a 14-6 loss to Modesto last Friday. Because of their fine record, Coach Hank Applequist's squad will be rated the choice over the rejuvenated Ram gridders.

Grew Will Get New Red & White Uniforms, Yes?

New red and white uniforms are soon to be purchased by the college crew, according to Bill Schoenfeld, crew representative. The movement will necessitate the cooperation of all crew men, as each oarsman must buy his own outfit. They have received estimates from several sporting goods stores, and if enough members buy uniforms, they are assured of a nominal price.

The new outfits will consist of cardinal-red sweat shirts with white lettering, and red trunks with a white stripe. A meeting of all crew men will be held in the near future in order to make arrangements for the actual purchase, it was announced.

ROMEO'S PARADISE

Hunter College in New York, with an enrollment of 18,669, is the largest school for women in the world.

A TIDY SUM

Literary Digest reports that the colleges in this country earn more than $14,000,000 per annum on football.

TRIPLE THREAT

The Panthers are reported to have a triple threat man in the speedy halfback, Perry. The Sacramento ace is a hard running, shifty ball carrier, a dangerous passing threat, and a consistent 50-yard booter.

The Panther captain, Jess Calleri, is one of the finest ends in the conference, and he makes a specialty of pass catching. The other wingman is Tom Schmidt, a veteran junior college footballer. Gene Mays and Joe Guerrero, a pair of 195 pound tackles, are the invulnerable points in the Panther defense. Bill Long and "Goldbrick" Hunter at guards, and Tom McCandless at center, all reputed to be big and tough, complete the Sacramento Junior College starting lineup.

RAMS READY

The Rams hope to return from their jaunt to Santa Rosa in fine condition, both physically and mentally, and promise to play their best game of the year against the highly favored Panthers. Coaches "Dutch" Conlan, Lee Elsan, and Jack Geddy plan to allow the boys a respite from hard work in two days following the Santa Rosa contest and concentrate on adding variety to their offense, with the emphasis on a passing game.

Bill Raverto is considered to be the varsity's best passer, and has been hitting Joe Guedet and Dolph Pedrin with long passes in practice. If he can connect with several of this variety against Sacramento, the Rams will be assured of a

Sweet's Condition Is Reported as Improved

Coach Russ Sweet, of the athletic department, who was seriously injured recently in an automobile accident, is in a much improved condition at present, according to reports, although the injuries are still causing some pain.

Members of the football team raised a fund to buy him a radio and other small items to make his stay in the hospital more pleasant.

MEN'S CLUB PREPARING FOR EVEN BETTER FIGHTS

Pictured here are scenes from last semester's Men's Club fights, with Joe Amori, faculty adviser, refereeing. Ty McHugh, group president, is already making plans for a card that he hopes will outdo even the efforts of former Men's Club head, Bob Sisco.

It has long been a mystery just what Amori is looking at, but he finally explained that he was not looking away from the bloody carnage, but calling time-keeper Fleming Pope's (not shown here) attention to note the duration of the hold.

DELAYED SANTA ROSA GAME TO BE PLAYED TONIGHT

"I Could Have Won, But My Team Held Me Back!"—Browne

Because of heavy rain storms, the conference game between the Rams and the Santa Rosa Cubs was postponed, and instead will be played tonight at the latter's stadium. According to reports, the Cubs field was literally swamped, and the contest will be played tonight at the request of both schools. The kickoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

ONLY 47 MILES

Santa Rosa is but a scant 47 miles from San Francisco, according to word from the California State Automobile Association.

Even if a student has a class lasting until 5:30 p. m., without undue speed he might be able to reach the northern village by 8 p. m., the time of the kick-off tonight, by automobile.

If said traveller suffers no seductions up north, he could well be home again no later than 1 o'clock the following morning.

"If I had played by myself I would have won, but I was handicapped by the members of my team, most of them being all out of shape from having been out late at night."

This was the statement of Dean Edwin Browne at the close of the men versus women volleyball game, held last Thursday afternoon, October 29, at which the men were defeated by a score of 27 to 22.

Dean Browne, who purchased a special pair of inner-cushion shoes for the game, played some splendid volleyball and seemed to enjoy himself more than all the others put together.

Tony Scafani, who was attired in a natty little creation that was a cross between a night shirt and a blouse, had a hard time reaching the high ones, but Red Brickley seemed to lift them right over the net.

Other players on the men's team were George Pedrin (playing in his stocking feet), Don Mills (who fell down every time he hit the ball), Forrest Morrison, George Clarke, and Charlie Kremesac.

The women's team consisted of Elvira Emi, Dorothy Fidiam, Junerose Bellew, Tymka Hemya, Margaret Wormell, Adella Suguitan, Genevieve Sickafoose, Gladys Warwick, and Beth Hillyard as alternates.

Pete Jambruno was self-appointed coach of the men's team, and there was a fairly large group of spectators.

COLLEGE HEALTH

By Joseph A. Amori

A man cannot live by bread alone, but I wonder how long he would survive without it. It has been estimated that the average individual spends more money for food than for any other single item, and that if it were possible for man to live without food, that he would soon accumulate a small fortune.

There are two things which simply do not go together—money and a college student. This is as true at large universities as it is at smaller colleges like our own. It is no small wonder then that the college and university students gather round the hamburger stand during the noon-hour and drop in at the "Greasy Spoon" or "Sloppy Joe's" in the evening for dinner.

WHAT IS MINIMUM

This is a problem of wide import and one which practically every college student has to face at some time or other during his college career. Time and again the question is raised, "What can an individual eat on a minimum allowance and still carry on with his work?"

To the majority of students eating means merely a satisfaction of an appetite—a mere filling up of the stomach with anything which happens to be available at the time the hunger pains make their appearance, and then a turning to something else until they reappear, perhaps hours later, depending upon the nature of the food taken into the stomach, and upon various other factors of lesser importance.

LETHARGY FROM POOR FOODS

As long as eating means nothing more or less than a filling up process, without any analytical choices—reaching for a hot dog instead of a lettuce and tomato salad, chewing on a cheap candy bar instead of eating an apple, sitting down to a breakfast of hotcakes, doughnuts, and three or four cups of coffee instead of a good cereal, toast and milk—a college student, as well as the average layman, will always have cause to complain of that tired feeling, headaches, poor elimination, day dreaming spells, colds, and a host of other ailments which accompany not only an unbalanced diet but an improper one.

Foods such as hotcakes floating in cheap syrup, doughnuts fried in decomposed fat, candy bars made from cheap syrups and sugars, fried eggs, fried meats, fried potatoes together with 10 or 15 other harmful foods, not only have their injurious effects upon the digestive tract, but cost money at the same time.

GOOD MEALS CHEAPER

Since eating is a matter of money to most college students, it is important for each student to consider a menu which will not only fit his purse but at the same time satisfy the body food requirements. It is surprising how much money a college student spends for food when one stops to consider all the nickels that are spent for candy throughout the day, the five and ten cent pieces which go for hot dogs and hamburgers and soda pops. How much better it would be if the college student refrained from these hourly dissipations and saved the nickels and dimes for a full meal at the lunch hour and for the evening meal. How much better it would be if he sat down to a noon-day luncheon of a salad, soup, cooked vegetables, bread, butter and milk, instead of a hot dog, a soda pop, a candy bar, and a piece of pastry, and perhaps a milk shake, gulped down in great haste.

FOOD ANALYSIS DESIRABLE

Eating the way a college student eats not only is more expensive but does not make for healthful living. A college student might say, "Well, I've done it for ten years now and I'm still living." I'll grant him that, but the point is that he could live more and serve better if he were analytical in his choice of foods, and save money at the same time. The supreme test comes when a college student has to meet a crisis—a week of finals, a strenuous week-end of activities, competition in some athletic activity, when the body is called upon to put forth its best efforts to meet a situation.

It is at this time that the human body is really put to a test. A college student either meets that crisis successfully or he turns out to be a dismal failure, depending upon his mode of living, not the night previous to the crisis, but months in advance.

SACTO. FARE HIGHER

Because of an agreement between the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific railroads, no excursion rates are being offered for a trip to Sacramento on Armistice Day, thus making the rate $2.00 instead of the first quoted $1.25 for the students who wish to make the trip for the Sacramento football game.

GROUP MEETS NOV. 13

To complete plans for ushering at the fashion show, a meeting of the Household Arts Society will be held November 13, in Room 217, at 2:15 o'clock, according to Claire Cuneo, faculty adviser.

SNOOPY WAS ANOTHER'S

Snoopy, the A. W. S. Mascot, is "lost and gone forever" and 'tis with a tear in the eye and a tug at the heart that we break the news to an anxious student body.

Latest and final developments reveal that a mysterious woman was seen entering the building next to 540 Powell with a cat in her arms. Eye-witnesses swear that this cat was either Snoopy or its double. And, this is the important part, the woman was heard to say to another, "I have found my little Pearl!" Thus it would seem that Snoopy was not Snoopy at all! In fact he (or she) wasn't even a stray cat in search of a home, but someone's pet who, when sent out to play, wandered over to the A. W. S. social hall and proceeded to get himself "discovered."

This being the case, the women will have to dig up another pet. How about a porcupine, girls, he'd be sure to stick around!

Morrison May Replace Wilson at Half Spot

scoring threat. The passing attack will also tend to pull back the Sacramento secondary, and give the Ram ball carriers a chance to break into the open.

MORRISON REPLACES WILSON

It is expected that Forrest Morrison will replace the injured Jim Wilson at the right halfback spot, and his punting ability should also enhance the Rams' victory chances. The other backfield positions will probably remain the same, with George Clarke, Glen Wunderling, and Tom Mauer starting the game.

Duke Worsham's brilliant play in the Modesto game has made him a possible choice over Roy Rutherford at the center position, although his rise to the first string is still tentative.

Joe Guedet's efficient handling of the wing job has assured him of a starting position along with Dolph Pedrin, while El Pearce and Walt Loving expect to see a lot of action.

George Pedrin, Jack Telesmanic, and Charlie Kremesac are the choices at guard, while Pete Jambruno, Red Brickley, Dave Smith and "Wee Willie" Dolman are the tackle possibilities.

CURTAIN

"It Can't Happen Here" Powerful Drama

A skeleton stalks the boards at the Columbia this week in the form of a play. Sinclair Lewis' story, It Can't Happen Here, has been torn from its well rounded setting as a novel, stripped to its barest essentials, and with jerky movements parades its powerful dramatic horror at a frenzied tempo.

The play follows the fortunes of Doremus Jessup, a liberal editor of a small town newspaper, through the quick rise of Berzelius Windrip to the presidency and the subsequent dictatorship. By means of the Corpos, an armed military force comprised mostly of unemployed, the country takes on the aspects of a perfect machine. The government assumes complete control and there is a seeming prosperity. It is, however, the prosperity of a nation which disregards the individual and whose only purpose is preparation for war.

By this play the Federal Theatre has shown of what it really is capable. Director W. E. Watts and his cast deserve a great deal of commendation. Although the cast as a whole was without apparent fault we might give special mention to Will H. Vedder as Doremus Jessup, who certainly looked his part; Master Dion Chasse, a boy of about 7 or 8 years, who did a surprisingly good job; and John Grover as Shad LeDue, the illiterate hired man who rises to a position of importance in the Corpos.

LOCALS MONOPOLIZE ALL SECOND HALF

scoring after Johnson had missed on a free kick. Johnson, however, made up for this by shooting one through the uprights after Frediani had bounced one off Southmade, the Marin goalie.

Marin's lone tally came late in the second session. Marin returned with renewed vigor and scored on the relaxing Rams as the first half ended. Mew, Marin's Chinese left wing, made the point.

LAST ALL RAMS

The second half was all Rams from start to finish. Vincent did all the scoring in this half. His first tally came when the Red and White was hammering at the Mariners' door. Shot after shot was stopped by the Marin goalie, until finally Vincent slipped one through.

His second score came as the result of a perfect laid pass from Andersen, which Vincent headed into the goal. His third and final point was made when he blocked goal-keeper Southmade's kick, which rolled into the net. The game ended soon after.

PLAYERS LAUDED

Praise must be given to Bob Zeguar, Ed Frediani, Mike Klebanoff, and Andersen for playing a great offensive game. Taylor, Jublonsky, Odone, Nelson, and Oberhause were the shining lights on defense. For the losers, Captain Turner, Southmade, and Mew were outstanding.

Next Saturday morning, Coach Tom Wilson's boys will play Menlo J. C. at Menlo. The Rams should win this game by a safe margin.

It is safe to say at this time that if their heads do not increase in size, the Rams will go through the rest of the season undefeated and present the first soccer championship to the students of San Francisco Junior College.

DYING FOR OLD S. F. or the Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

We gracefully pedalled up to Galileo Field, where Templeton and I alighted. He led the way down through the rows of seats to a bench upon which were seated the football players, much as if they were in school.

We sat on the bench, where Templeton lapsed into silence. Evidently the game had not started, for the field was clear. I was sitting next to a tall, muscular man with lovely auburn hair. Templeton, silently contemplating the empty field, made no move to introduce us, so I took things into my own hand.

"Are you one of the players?" I enquired. He grunted. "You must be the Mr. Brickley I've heard so much about" I continued brightly.

"Yeah!"

Silence.

"You know, Mr. Brickley," I remarked after a pause, "I think it's just wonderful the way you make so many home run and things!"

At this Mr. Brickley turned around to stare at me, his eyes took in my charming red hat and green suit, but he said nothing of my lovely yellow curls and blue eyes. (Dear Robert Saylor once remarked that they were like twin sapphires. Ah me, this wonderful man has the soul of a poet!)

Well, anyway, Mister Brickley laughed.

"Who are you?" he asked me.

"Oh I'm just no one at all," I told him, "A great big wonderful football player like you wouldn't care anything about poor little me!"

"Right" agreed Mister Brickley. I was somewhat non-plussed and turned back to Templeton.

"When is the game going to start, Templeton dear?" I asked him.

For some reason the entire squad of players laughed at this. Templeton himself blushed a deep crimson.

"Aw shut up!" he whispered. "Can't you see you're annoying the players."

Dear diary, this rude, thoughtless remark hurt me so terribly that I burst into tears. The handsome athletes looked uncomfortable. Templeton muttered an apology and Mister Brickley took a handkerchief out of his pocket and handed it to me. I turned and sobbed on his (Mister Brickley's) shoulder and he gave Templeton a mean look. Never shall I forget the kindness of this gallant gentleman!

At this point, a whistle blew and some of the team jumped up and ran out on the field. One of the players kicked a peculiarly-shaped ball and the game started.

Suddenly I noticed that dear Mister Brickley had grabbed the ball and was running with it! But before he could get very far, a player on the opposite side ran over to him and (oh, horrible moment!) knocked him down! Dear Diary, I could not bear this—perhaps my gallant hero had been hurt!!

I leaped up and dashed madly out in the field towards Mister Brickley.

"Stop, stop!!" I screamed and then I kneeled beside Mister Brickley.

"Dear Mister Brickley" I said, "Are you hurt?"

"Naw," he replied, "Gwan back to the bench!"

But before I could do so, two men in black and white golfing suits run up.

"What's this? what's this?" they demanded.

One of the players on the other squad answered that I was interrupting the game.

"All right," said one of these men, "San Francisco is penalized 15 yards for delaying the game."

Well, Dear Diary, at last I have done my bit for dear old San Francisco! The day was well spent.

SWIMMING PARTY SCHEDULED NOV. 6TH

Here is a picture of the fun had when the college held a swimming party last semester. Next Friday night, another of these events will be held, this time at Sutro Baths. See story on page 1 for details.

ARMY & NAVY CLUB IS FOUND TO BE ACTIVE BY GUARDSMAN SURVEY

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles dealing with clubs and their activities in the college. Skip Irwin, Guardsman clubs editor, will present a resume of one or two organizations every week, until the entire gamut has been run.)

By Skip Irwin

To foster Americanism, and to promote army and navy spirit in the college, with the ultimate aim of establishing a voluntary Reserve Officers Training Corps, are the main purposes of the college Army and Navy Club, one of the youngest, but apparently also one of the most rapidly growing, campus organizations.

Realizing that men wishing to obtain reserve commissions are unable to do so if they attend junior college, because four years of college R. O. T. C. are required, Gordon Sollman, a student, at the end of last semester conceived the idea of forming such a reserve unit in this college in order to obviate the draw-back.

HOPES FOR NAVAL UNIT

Sollman has also expressed hopes that ultimately a naval unit can be established to give those interested in Naval Reserve opportunities the same chance.

As a step in achieving this point, the Army and Navy Club was formed, with F. Grant Marsh, retired naval officer and now an instructor here, and James S. Hughes, lieutenant in the army reserves, and instructor in political science and public speaking, as faculty advisers.

WILL AID FUTURE STUDENTS

Although the men now taking part in the organization of the club will be unable to benefit directly from their work insofar as getting in two years of R. O. T. C. work is concerned, they will aid future students, if they keep up their work and achieve their avowed purpose.

Those eligible for membership are men students who have had R. O. T. C. training in high school, other previous military experience, either in active or reserve work, and those enrolled in Marsh's class in naval science.

ACTIVE DUTY PLANNED

Every summer, members of the club plan to enter active military service, those interested in army work to go to C. M. T. C. or National Guard camp, and those belonging to the Naval Reserve to go on active sea or shore duty.

Because the club has not yet fulfilled all the requirements necessary for an official charter, it expects to do so soon.

Meetings are held on the second and fourth Fridays of each month in room 201, Galileo, the next to be held this coming Friday at 1:45 o'clock.

Students interested in the club should attend this meeting, or, if they can not make it, see Marsh, Hughes, or Sollman.

In brief, this club is active, and an asset to the college. It is up to its members to keep it so.

PAX VOBISCUM!

One of the planks in Father Divine's platform for a new social order in the United States is the abolition of the greeting "Hello" and the adoption of the word "Peace." This is to apply to everything in our daily life.

The new idea may work out fairly well in most instances but the use of the word Peace on the telephone wouldn't do, so well. It would be all right when the telephone operator could say "Number peace!", and the person paying for the call could reply, "Murryhill 89933, peace!"

But then there are times when the telephone rings in the middle of the night, a person staggers to the phone, nearly breaks his neck getting the instrument in the right position, and, when he finally answers, the party on the other end of the wire has disappeared. Then the answerer gets sore, jiggle the hook 10 or 12 times, and slams down the phone. In this instance, the word "Peace" would not sound so well.

Peace, don't worry about it, most of us have dial telephones anyway.

REMEMBER DATE OF DECEMBER 2; AMS BOUTS THEN

HIGH SOPHS, BE READY FOR YOUR PICTURES TODAY

AMS BOUTS SCHEDULED ON DEC. 2

Date for Preliminaries Is Not Yet Set; Finals to Be at Verdi Club

With lively battles anticipated in all classes, and contestants eager to garner gold medals offered for winners, the Men's Club's semi-annual wrestling and boxing tournament will be held December 2, beginning at 8 p.m., at the Verdi Club, Potrero and Mariposa streets, Tyler McHugh, group president, has announced.

Preliminary fights will be held previous to the final bouts, McHugh said, although the exact date is not yet definite.

Seven boxing divisions and five wrestling divisions will be made, McHugh announced. They are as follows: heavy, 175 pounds and more; light-heavy, 165 to 175; middle-weight, 147-160; welter-weight, 135-147; light-weight, 128-135; and bantam-weight, 118-128.

Wrestling: heavy, 175 pounds and more; light-heavy, 165-175; middle-weight, 147-160; welter-weight, 135-147; and light-weight, 135 and less.

Three names from football fame feature the list scheduled for the heavy-weight class, with Adolph Pedrin, Joe Telesmanic, and Dave Smith on the card.

SMITH SPEAKS AT LAST GAME RALLY

Featuring a discussion of the problems of broadcasting by Ernie Smith, radio sports commentator, a rally was held in the Galileo auditorium Monday afternoon, November 9. His discussion included the pictorial element, diction, speech, and figures of speech.

A satire of Rhythm on the Range was presented through the combined efforts of Louis Bertolucci and members of the football team. Bing Crosby was played by Charles "Red" Brickley, Bob Burns by "Lambie" Allen, and Martha Raye by Ray Englehofer. Cowboys were played by other members of the team.

The recent Sacramento football game was discussed by Lee Eisan, coach, and Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men. The last two minutes of the game were previewed by Ernie Smith, and the preview was met with applause.

Yells were led by Bob Nelson, Deming Smith, and Jim Fahn, and introductions were made by Bob Sisco, president of the associated students.

HOTEL CLASSES GO FOR TRIPS AFIELD

To see how a dining room is conducted during the busy hours, members of the hotel and restaurant management division of the junior college went on a field trip to the St. Francis Hotel November 14. This trip was made through the courtesy of Chef Pierre Cretaux, head chef at the hotel, and was under the direction of Chef Joseph Byl of the junior college cafeteria.

Practice on the latest hotel accounting machines was the purpose of a trip taken by the accounting class of the division to the Burroughs Adding Machine Company on the same day. This trip was made through the courtesy of J. M. Wilds, local manager of the adding machine company.

DECEMBER 9 NEXT PUBLICATION DAY

Because of the Thanksgiving Holiday Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, November 25, 26, and 27, the Guardsman will not be printed again until December 9, at which time it will come on Wednesday morning as usual. There is a possibility that a miniature sheet containing news of immediate importance will be put out Wednesday, December 2, according to Bill Rawson, editor of The Guardsman.

BLOCK S. F. MEETS

To discuss initiation and the awards of blocks, a meeting of all members of the Block SF Society will be held tomorrow afternoon in the main cafeteria at Galileo at 2 o'clock. All members and prospective members are requested to attend by Tony Scafani, secretary of the society.

RIFLE TEAM TAKES ON 159TH INFANTRY TONIGHT AT ARMORY

Local Squad Will Enter First League Tilt Against National Guardsmen; Hancock Claims Victory Is Possible, But Views Low Scores With Alarm

Heartened by victory over the Pershing Rifles, the college rifle team meets the second team of the 159th Infantry, local National Guard unit, at the National Guard Armory, 14th and Mission streets, tonight at 7:30 o'clock, in the local's first match as members of the San Francisco Small Bore League.

This competition is the first of a round robin series in which each of the five teams composing the bay bridge division of the League will meet in home and home matches. At the conclusion of the series, medals will be awarded to the teams with the highest standings and to the best individual marksmen as shown by cumulative scores for the season. In each match the team member making the highest score is also given a medal.

RIFLE CLUB PRACTICE AS USUAL THIS AFTERNOON AND THURSDAY 4:30 TO 6 O'CLOCK—GALILEO RANGE—MEMBERSHIP ROLLS STILL OPEN.

William Hancock, Range Officer of the College club, announced that in these matches the teams would be composed of eight "shooters", each marksman firing a total of 20 shots from the prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing positions.

Hancock said that, in his opinion, the local nimrods have a fair chance to win this first match, but added that he "viewed with alarm" the low scores being made in the kneeling and standing positions. Hancock's tentative selections for the team to represent the Junior College are as follows: Dick Pitman, Ed Rundstrom, Don Smith, Max Brewen, Frank Doupnik, Fred Bitgood, Elane Romeike, and Priscilla Smith.

ARIZONA POSTAL MATCH IS SOUGHT

Meeting for the transaction of routine business, the rifle and pistol club selected Bradley Schwarz, charter member, representative-at-large on the Board of Control, executive body of the club, to fill an existing vacancy. At the same meeting, Priscilla Smith, Frank Knowlton, and Jess Johnson were elected to membership.

William Hancock, range officer, reported that arrangements were being made with the Tucson, Arizona, High School girls' rifle team for a postal match to be fired during December. This will be the first competition in which the Junior College girls' team will engage.

Organization of a touch tackle football team to enter the intra-mural league was authorized, with Schwarz as manager. John Stewart, president, announced that standing committees would report at the next meeting, scheduled for the middle of December. Other officers of the club who made routine reports were James Fuller, vice president, Barbara Luce, secretary, and Chris Harnett, treasurer. Fred Wright is the other representative-at-large on the Board of Control.

Army, Navy Club Is to Initiate 12 Members at Extension Bldg., Galileo

With the Navy goat commanding headquarters, and the Army mule in command of hind quarters, 12 newly elected members of the Army and Navy Club will be put through their initiation paces next Friday, beginning at 7:45 a. m., in front of the Extension building.

The initiation is scheduled to continue at Galileo building during the afternoon, with the climax at a dinner given in the Villa Turin, 800 Montgomery Street, at 6 p. m.

Among the recruits this semester is Paul M. Pitman, assistant to President Archibald J. Cloud. Pitman will be the fifth member of the faculty to join the club. Other instructors in the organization are Lieut. Cmdr. F. Grant Marsh, navy adviser, Lieut. James S. Hughes, O. R. C., army adviser, Lieut. Col. Carl F. Stough, Mo. N. G., and Lieut. Harold Luenberger, O. R. C.

NEWMAN CLUB WILL HOLD SEMI-FORMAL

Beginning its social activities in the college, the newly formed Newman Club of the San Francisco Junior College will hold a semi-formal dance at the Bellevue Hotel, on Tuesday evening, November 24, according to Pete Jambruno, club president.

"Music will be furnished by Ray Tellier's orchestra", Jambruno said, "and the committee is looking forward to a large attendance.

"Bids are one dollar," he continued, "and may be secured from any member of the program committee, composed of Margaret Symons, Alice Thompson, Marcella Hunt, Albert Wooner, and Jerry Kennedy."

A Capella Choir Starts on Series of Activities

With a concert at the California Club November 10 as their first appearance of the semester, the A-Capella Choir has started a series of activities, according to Flossita Badger, vocal instructor.

This semester's officers, Miss Badger announced, are Bob Scott, president; Jane Knight, vice president; Willard Lincoln, secretary; and Rosella Retallick, treasurer.

"The men's glee club," Miss Badger said, "will furnish the double quartette which will sing at Theacher's Institute on November 24. Their officers include Alexander High, president; Tak Tijima, vice president; Bill Simonds, librarian, and Bob Webb, secretary."

New Employment Blanks Now in Browne's Office

New employment applications are now available in his office, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, has announced.

Browns requests that all men students desiring employment fill out these forms, whether they have previously applied to him for work or not.

"Although there is no specific work available at present," Browne said, "I wish to be prepared with applicants in the event that some does turn up."

MID-TERM CLOSES

Close of the second mid-term examination period will come on Friday afternoon, November 20. Deficiency notices will be sent out the following week, and the procedure will be the same as that at the end of the first mid-term period, according to Mary Jane Leamard, assistant registrar.

HIGH SOPHOMORES, TAKE NOTE: PICTURES TAKEN TODAY, THURS.

The following high sophomores are requested to meet this afternoon at 3:20 o'clock in room 150 at Galileo in order that they may have their pictures taken for graduation.

Again the students listed below are asked to wear the outfits of the different activities in which they are interested. Tennis players, golfers, track men, football players, riflemen, baseball players, badminton enthusiasts, or whatever the activity is, the man or woman should bring that club, racquet or implement and dress in sport clothing.

Bendel, Doris; Bingham, John; Brody, Pauline; Carmody, Alice; Curtin, Thomas; Davis, Bernard; Enos, Bettie; Gok, Hom; Gray, Elizabeth; Hagens, George; Herlihy, Patrick; Humber, Herbert; Holes, Melvin; Johnston, William; Lim, William.

The following high sophomores will have their pictures taken tomorrow afternoon, November 19. All are requested to meet in room 150 at Galileo at 3:20 o'clock. The photographer will not disappoint this time.

McPherson, Donna; Maffucci, Eugene; Mink, Allan; Papp, Louis; Pavloff, William; Phillips, Elizabeth; Prudy, Richard; Rawson, William; Robinson, Arthur; Scettrini, Ida; Sharp, William; Silberstein, Harold; Stergios, Maurice; Wilkinson, Fred; Wright, William.

Any students contemplating graduation at the end of this semester and who have not had their photo taken or names listed above should see J. Paul Mohr, registrar, as soon as possible to clear up this matter.

BASEMENT NOISES SCORED BY DINMAN IN NOTE TO PAPER

Student Talkers Are Called Inconsiderate; Urged to Use Hall for Study Only

That noise in the Extension building study hall has reached proportions detrimental to study by students who wish to study is the complaint brought in by Robert Dinman, part time instructor now in charge of the Powell street basement.

Dinman frankly labelled the noisy students as inconsiderate in a written complaint to The Guardsman.

"If you have any other purpose in mind than merely and purely to study, please make a point of staying away from the study hall.

"Each one of us—as a matter of consideration for our fellow students and of decency generally—ought to take it upon himself, as a committee of one, to restrain himself and others if necessary in order to make of our study hall a real place to study."

Dinman pointed out that there is a number of students in the college who work during the afternoons, and hence must get their studying done in the morning. Students with nothing to do, Dinman said, should not deprive others of the opportunity of getting their studying done through careless noise-making.

Pre-Meds Plan Trip to San Francisco Hospital as Part of Activities

Making plans for future events and voting in new members comprised the business at a meeting of the Pre-Medical Society held recently.

New members of the club are Harold Zimmerman, Jess Johnson, Joe Walsh, and Aris Partidos. Many other prospective members were also present at the meeting.

Arrangements have been completed for the members of the club to make a tour of the San Francisco County Hospital under the guidance of a registered nurse. All students with classes will be excused if they get an excuse slip, according to Glenn Noble, physiology instructor and pre-med adviser. Plans are also being made for the organization to witness an autopsy, which Noble believes will be of great interest to the students.

Social events in the form of a hike and a weenie roast are also being planned by the club.

Any pre-medical students who do not belong to the club are cordially asked to joint and to enjoy the full benefit of these field trips, says Felix Castagnola, president.

Use of Club Rooms Is Offered Faculty Men

Use of the club rooms and library of the Grizzly Bear Club at 414 Mason Street have been offered to the men of the faculty and to certain men students who are interested in California literature. Those desiring these privileges should see Paul Pitman, assistant to the president, to secure a pass.

It is through the courtesy of James G. Conlan, president of the Grizzly Bear Club, a social organization in connection with The Native Sons of the Golden West, that this privilege is being offered. Chas. A. Roberts, chairman of the club's house committee; is making the actual arrangements.

Manfred Mueller Speaks at Meeting of Greeters

"Food chemistry in relation to the catering department of restaurants and hotels was the subject of a speech by Manfred Mueller, instructor in food chemistry, before a meeting of Hotel Greeters at the Canterbury Hotel, November 9.

His services were acquired through the efforts of Frank Turner, assistant manager of the Fairmont Hotel and instructor in hotel accounting at the junior college.

"As Youth Sees War" To Be Debated at Club Panel

As Youth Sees War will be the topic of a panel debate given by the Zonta Club, Monday evening, November 16, at the Women's City Club.

Representatives from the San Francisco Junior College will be Robert Blattus, Jacques de la Montanya, Isabel Sherratt, Eugene Blumenthal, and Pamel Brown.

THEY'RE BEHIND THE FIGHTS

Tyler McHugh, president of the Associated Men Students, and Joe Amori, faculty adviser to that organization, discuss plans for the wrestling and boxing bouts to be held December 2 at the Verdi Club. Amori is also a feature writer for The Guardsman, the author of the weekly column Live Right, found on page 4.

DEBATERS ENGAGE U. S. F. GAVEL GROUP

Debating for the first time under the three points of information system, three members of the college forensic team upheld the negative side of a non-decision discussion with three members of the University of San Francisco Gavel Society before the class in speech, Monday afternoon, November 2.

The junior college debaters were Eugene Blumenthal, Isabel Sherrett, and Dennis Woodman, while those from the University of San Francisco were Thomas Waters, John Coyne, and Robert Barbieri.

Resolved, That the proposed chain store tax amendment be enacted the subject of the debate. The speeches lasted 10 minutes each, and the rebuttals, which were made by E. Blumenthal for junior college and by Waters for the University of San Francisco, 5 minutes each.

Basketball Tryouts Are Held Daily in Gymnasium at 3:30 P.M. By Conlan

In order to be represented with the fifteen best basketball players in the college when the conference starts early in January, tryouts are being held daily at 3:30 p.m. by Head Coach "Dutch" Conlan at the Galileo gymnasium.

Conlan hopes to have his team selected by December and whipped into shape for the first conference game. With an array of veterans returning, Conlan has visions of repeating last year's performance of winning the championship.

Monte Mordecai, Paul Rippon, Ernie Loustalot, Carlyle Caine, Jack Butler, and Doug Maas are the returning veterans.

Among the highly ambitious newcomers who have signed up are Bill Phelan, who formerly cavorted for Poly; Bill Sharp, a transfer from S. F. State; Russ Huft, a nifty player from the East Bay; Tracy Slattery, with two years of experience at Sacred Heart to his credit; Bob Fex, of Flying Lamb fame; Larry Wilgus, who put in three years of basketball at Balboa; and Bill Jensen, a member of last year's 145-pound team.

Literature Decadence Is Discussed by Forum Club at Last Meeting

Discussing the question whether or not modern literature is indicative of a decadent civilization, the Forum Club held one of its monthly informal discussions, November 3, at the home of Betty Deming.

Reports on the subject were made by Jane Kiddie and Betty Brown.

Members of the club who attended were as follows: Miss Kiddie, Mary Gale Konkel, Miss Brown, Madelon Brodie, Anita Laueraman, Dorothy Bridgwood, William Sharp, Jerry Heilbraun, Malcolm Longacre, Kenneth MacKenzie, Dr. Dorothy Mercer, William Goss, John E. Ross, Donald Flash, Patricia Matz, and Arthur Poulin.

A speaker is said to have been planned for the next meeting which will be held at the Ross home, 541 Dolores, Tuesday, November 24.

Time Slips for Month Are Due November 24

Because of the Thanksgiving holidays, all time slips for this month must be handed in by November 24, according to Helene Turner, college N Y A administrator.

"December will be a short month with only 18 working days," Miss Turner warned, "So students should see to it that they put in as much time as possible."

The pay roll for November was the largest so far, she said, and although the quota in the amount of money alloted was reached, there remains enough to carry everyone over during December.

H. A S. MEETS 2 P. M.

In order to make last minute plans for the fashion show a meeting of the Household Arts Society will be held today in room 317 at two o'clock.

40 STUDENTS NEEDED BY RIFLE GROUP TO FORM SECOND SQUAD

Calling for 40 additional members from which to choose an additional team, the rifle and pistol club late yesterday announced acceptance of an invitation to enter the third division of the San Francisco Small Bore League. This means the formation of another team, club officers said, for members competing in one division cannot shoot in the other.

At present, the club has a 10-man team entered in the first division. This squad will compete with a National Guard team tonight at the latter's armory.

In order to induce more students, both men and women, to join the club, a last minute meeting of its governing board voted to reduce dues from one dollar to 50 cents for the remainder of the semester, it was revealed.

Although teams consist of only 10 men, the club has announced the need of approximately 40 additional members, in order to have a good variety from which to select the best shooters.

William Hancock, team coach, said that he would be only too glad to place women students on the new team if they can outshoot the men.

"From all indications," he said, "there will be several women on the squad. These we have firing now are turning in very creditable targets.

"It is sometimes almost disheartening to us males to see that the women have so much more enthusiasm for what is generally considered a man's sport than some of the men of the college."

Hancock indicated that he expected a considerably increased turnout at today's and tomorrow's practices, as chances for making a team are now doubled with the acceptance of the invitation to join the third division.

"Making a team, however," he said, "is not all of it. We are glad to see students come out just for the sport of clean, supervised target practice."

STYLES TO BE SHOWN ON FRIDAY

AWS, Household Arts Association Sponsor Fashion Tea Jointly

With a theme completely Hawaiian, the Associated Women Students—Household Arts Association fashion tea will take place next Friday afternoon, November 20, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Displayed by professional models, from Livingston Brothers, moderate priced clothes will be shown in the Galileo auditorium as the first part of the program. That a runway may be constructed down the center of the auditorium for the models has been announced by Helen Davis, AWS president. In the event that the runway is not possible, models will use the stage, as was the case last semester, Miss Davis said.

ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED

Novelty numbers will be offered by members of the HAA during the intermissions. These will probably include Hawaiian dances by members of Miss Laurine Kuhn's dancing classes, and songs by some of Miss Flossita Badger's vocalists, according to Jo Jordan, Household Arts president.

Officers of both organizations have been working for several weeks on the plans for this fashion show, and claim that it will be well worth the attendance of every woman in the college. Women faculty members, as well as students, are invited, the officers announced.

Immediately following the fashion show, the AWS will hold a tea in the women's gymnasium. Honored guests will include officers and advisers from the various city high schools. Members of the Women's Service Society will act as hostesses.

MEN INVITED!

All women students, members of the faculty, and the men or the Executive Committee, and Associated Student officers have been invited to the tea, Miss Davis said.

Speaking of the fashion show, Miss Davis said: "Because of the capable supervision of Miss Claire Cuneo, Household Arts Association faculty adviser, and Jo Jordan, president, I am certain that the show will be a success.

"Although no classes will be excused on Friday, every woman in the college who can possibly do so should attend either or both of the affairs."

CLUB COACHES WIN McQUAIDE TROPHY

Shooting the highest scores fired in 10 years of competition, William Hancock and Mack Garr, junior college rifle and pistol club coaches, won first and second places respectively in the individual scoring for the McQuaide Trophy, competed for annually by service teams of Northern California.

Hancock's score of 262 points broke all previous records during the 10 year period during which the matches have been held, while Garr's score of 255 also broke the previous record.

CONSIDERED IMPORTANT

This .45-calibre pistol match, sponsored by the 250th Coast Artillery, is considered the most important of the season, both for teams and individual competitors.

The 250th Coast Artillery team, of which both Hancock and Lt. Col. David P. Hardy, Deputy Superintendent of Schools, are members, won the team competition, with the 30th Infantry team, including Mack Garr, second. Service organizations sending competitors included the 159th Infantry (National Guard), the 11th Cavalry (Regular Army), the 143rd Field Artillery (N. G.), the Coast Guard (S. F. District), the 250th Coast Artillery (N. G.), and the 30th Infantry (R. A.).

TEAM SOUGHT HERE

Hancock and Garr hope to initiate Pistol competition in the Junior College next semester by forming a pistol team to compete with other teams in the Bay area. All members of the rifle and pistol club will be given instruction in pistol marksmanship and the team will be selected from those club members showing special aptitude. Lack of funds with which to buy pistols has preceded any previous attempt to start instruction, Hancock said, but added that the interest shown in the club this semester has encouraged hopes that sufficient money from dues may be available to provide the guns.

CONGRATULATIONS
(A Word to the Gridders)

Your season is finished, and a reasonably successful one it was. You ended it with two victories so decisive that nothing more could be desired.

You have been the heroes. Your work on the gridiron has been praised in news columns and verbally. It is quite possible, even probable, that in some instances instructors have been lenient with you for your poor scholastic showings on the strength of your football achievements.

Deny it how you will, many of you have acquired the proverbial big head. You have swaggered about, cutting up, and making a vast quantity of unnecessary noise. Many of you will admit that you only come to college to play football, not to study or to learn anything from books or classrooms.

Well, the season IS at an end. You are no longer earning your dubiously deserved extra privileges, and right to be a little boisterous, for you are no longer engaging in physical combat for the amusement of a few hundred spectators. In other words, you are now just ordinary students. It would be well for you to behave as such.

A hero is noticed only during, and shortly, very shortly, after his act of heroism. A man lives much longer than his glory.

Criticism might arise because we are not praising you here. There is, however, no need for praising you. You have had your reward, your praise. You have played the game, done the thing, you like best. That alone should be sufficient reward.

USURPING OF PRIVILEGES

Although not wishing to hurt anyone's feelings, the Editor wishes to announce formally to members of the faculty that he considers it his privilege to write editorials; and, while suggestions are always accepted, those making them should not interpret it as a personal affront if such suggestions are not followed.

The Guardsman is essentially a newspaper of the students, supported financially by them, and published by and for them. This alone offers sufficient reason why the editorials should be written exclusively by a student, and should contain a student's, not a faculty member's, ideas.

Any proper complaint or announcement, if judged to have news value, is always treated as such by The Guardsman. The Ram's Horn column is always open to the pen (typewriter preferred) of either student of instructor.

No particularly annoying event or request has inspired this writing. On the contrary, it is the result of a series of suggestions and even requests by some faculty members that certain matters be treated editorially, and even in some cases that the faculty member write the editorial.

Such requests and suggestions always put The Editor "on the spot." Asked outright just how he will treat a subject, he is not always diplomat enough to tell the truth, having, in self defense, to reply as evasively as possible. Considerate faculty members will not put him on the spot, and, when having suggestions to make, will make them without asking what will be done about them.

WE LOOK ASKANCE

Known as the American Youth Congress, a group is seeking to organize American youth with the ostensible purpose of having passed legislation that will ensure employment and opportunity for young people.

Obviously there is some merit in the idea. It is appalling to see so many young people out of work, roaming the streets, riding the rods, and lining the highways.

On the other hand, observation of what organized youth movements have led to in European countries offers sufficient cause to look askance at what may be a forerunner of similar troubles in America. Nazi storm troops, Fascisti murderers, Spain's cruelest and bloodiest warriors, all these are youths.

That "it can't happen here" is the philosophy of the fool and the coward. Times are changing.

Youth is probably too impetuous, too lacking in the foresight that only age can give, to be the guiding factor in any major change in the nation's present governmental organization. Further, youth has always managed to get along somehow. Its virility, its strength, its enthusiasm, give it advantage over age.

Nature has always meant life to be a struggle, a case of the survival of the fittest. The problems that beset the individual youth of today make his glory all the greater when, or if, he succeeds.

Take away these problems, make the surety of his continued existence with at least the necessities of life definite, and his entire outlook, character, bearing become changed.

THE BULL SNORTS
GETTING EXCITED? NOT AT ALL

Oh, yes, the bridge. It does seem that a bridge was opened last week. Maybe that was the cause of all the noise, the crowded street cars, and the special rotogravure editions of the local papers.

Like the rest of those who have been too busy to take in any of the celebration, or who just do not like crowds, we patiently repeat the common expression that the bridge will be there for a few days longer, and that all the celebration, parades, and hullabaloos in the world are not going to make the bridge any better or any worse.

Vanity of Man

From the particular vantage point at which this is being written, the Chamber of Commerce poets could wax romantically eloquent about the shining ribbon of steel and wire (if it weren't so foggy). The dealers in facts could run off a list of statistics that are supposed to leave ordinary John Citizen duly impressed. Other promotors could impress Mr. San Francisco Merchant with tales of wealth that the bridge, directly and indirectly, is bringing.

A little analysis of the matter, however, presents other viewpoints. Man made wonders are marvelous, yet the greatest works of art and literature have had as their inspirations subjects produced directly by nature—people, other animals, landscapes, sunsets, and multitudes of others.

Non-impressionable

Statistics, of course, are always interesting. More men were given employment of sorts in the last war than have worked on the bridge. In cold cash, one day of fighting cost more money than the total of the Golden Gate bridge and the San Francisco - Oakland bridge combined. More steel was blown to bits than was used in both bridges. And so forth. Statistics are only comparative.

Added wealth. Hm-m-. There is only a certain amount of money in this country. That amount, in actual cold cash, is more or less definite. If the bridge increases San Francisco's wealth, then, it is doing so at a proportional expense to other parts of the country.

Then Who Benefits?

Some people, naturally, do benefit from it all. The newspapers get a chance to try to boost their circulation by running fancy bridge rotogravures, using pictures that, for the most part, everyone has seen any number of times previously.

The side-walk barkers get their chance to fleece John Individual out of a dime or so. The hotels get a temporary spurt of business. And we have to hang for our very life on the outside of a street car because the bridge celebrators comprise crowds greater than San Francisco's transit systems can handle efficiently.

RAM'S HORN

Dear "Ho-Hum and Aw Nuts-er":
  You blandly yawn at the idea of inserting a so-called
"dirt" column in your pure, unadulterated sheet. Consequently, it should follow that, in your effort to promote the preservation of journalistic cleanliness, you would do something about the highly detachable print adorning the pages of your paper.
  It's disconcerting, to say the least, to go walking nonchalantly down Powell Street with a Guardsman under your arm, only to discover upon arriving at your destination, that you are the possessor of not a single, but duplicate copies of the estimable Gazette--the original one in hand, not to mention a duplicate on the front of your best sky blue blouse.
  This is not meant as a complaint, but merely a bit of good, unsoiled advice from,
                    PRACTICAL

WE WOMEN
By One of Them

Have we been having fun! And at the same time finding out lots of things that should be of interest to you girls who have often wondered what the men of the college like or dislike about women. During the past week or so we have made a survey among all types of college men, students, athletes, journalists, politicians, frat men, and even a member of the faculty! By asking them a lot of questions, we have compiled the following results.

The ideal girl of the men of this college is a medium sized brunette who has loads of personality and a perfect figure and who has reached the happy medium between beautiful but dumb and homely but intelligent!

There seems to be a great absence of gentlemen around the college, if Anita Loos had the right idea, for the blondes received only 10 votes out of a possible 50! Only three men admitted that they preferred red-heads. Most of the football players confessed that they liked them "beautiful but dumb," and one man prefers the "homely but intelligent type," but in general a happy medium is desired.

In listing the traits most important to them, the men put personality first. Beauty follows with intelligence, good disposition, understanding and a sense of humor, in that order. When meeting a girl for the first time, most of the men notice her figure. Eight notice the eyes first and five the skin, with hair and clothes getting three votes each.

After reading the list of traits that women possess that annoy men the most, it would seem that we'd be much better off if we'd keep our mouths shut! The trait that polled the most votes was "talking too much" with "baby talk", "overuse of the word 'cute' ", "cattiness", "wise cracking", "discussing previous boy-friends", and "sarcasm" following close behind.

Overuse of make-up secured several votes as did dumbness, (!), untidiness, superior attitude, lack of a sense of humor, and giggling. Men also dislike "to be kept waiting", "put on sophistication", "boy-struck frails", "bad disposition", and one somewhat original young man is annoyed at women's "lack of money".

Don't worry too much, girls, because you'll have a chance to have your say very soon. We're working on a similar questionnaire for women and expect to have results in a week or two!

Until then, remember that Garbo has the right idea, it pays to be the strong, silent type (or at least silent!)

In Japan, brokers buy and sell telephone numbers, basing the prices on the meanings and influences of the numerals, lucky numbers paying high prices. Others pretend evil cannot be sold at any figure. One number—3742, which means "all die"—is considered to be so dangerous that the telephone department of the government has never allowed anyone to have it.

In the Antarctic, during days when a heavy, milk-white fog settles over the land, explorers sometimes lose their sense of distance and perspective, so that a small match box, only a few feet from them in the snow, looks like a barn a mile away.

OUT OF THE FOG
By BOB MacARTHUR

Unnoticed by the hurrying crowds, a shining new 50-cent piece lay on the busy corner of Third and Market streets. Blessing our good fortune at finding even such a small sum, we picked up the coin and immediately fell to musing on the identity of the loser.

Perhaps a banker, accustomed to tipping such an amount (since when!) had dropped it, and wouldn't even miss it. More likely, however, some needy housewife, searching for bargains, had allowed it to slip unseen from her fingers, and would feel the loss keenly. It always seems that those who can least afford to lose things are the unfortunates who do.

In a pensive mood anyway, we fell to further musing as to the varied, travelling life of a coin within the course of a relatively short time. In the interests of pioneering discovery, we let loose our wandering soul from the body, and sent it to shadow our newly found, soon to be spent, four-bit piece. So here's the saga of four bits, told to us by our soul upon its return (with the coin again):

Our body gave the coin to a cashier at a restaurant, who gave it to the pretty stenographer next in line. Elated at having the opportunity of having two things worth looking at (the coin and the pretty miss), we flitted away after her, only to have to part company when she left the coin at a drug store where she bought some lip-stick.

In came a cab driver for a package of cigarettes, and the 50-cent piece was his in change. Atop Nob Hill, he picked up a passenger for the air-port, who then became the owner of our changeable quarry.

Off for our first airplane ride, we soared away to Chicago, where our next subject was a porter who soon lost the coin to a compatriot in a crap game behind the airport hangar. Then, by way of a street car, we finally got to a bank, where, with misgivings, we saw our coin go on the bottom of a pile relegated to a vault. Time alone knows how long we slept in that vault, waiting and waiting until the time that we could rejoin our body again.

Eventually, however, our coin came out of hibernation, to go to a working girl when she cashed her pay check. We followed her to work, and at the noon hour she went into a place where we could not have gone were we with our body, and watched the four-bit piece go to another girl in a little game of poker. The game turned into one of strip poker, and we had to hang our spirituous head in unseen modesty while we awaited the next perigrination of the coin.

By way of another drug store, our traveller became the property of a travelling salesman. We shall not relate what we saw as we followed this man across the continent, back to San Francisco again.

The wayward character sauntered into a Bay City bar, and there, O joyous to see, was our body, looking much the worse for not having had our spiritual guidance.

"The coin, the coin!" we cried, as we happily came to rest, "he has it!"

By watching opportunities, our body reclaimed the coin as change, but not to keep it long. But our quest was over, and our body, full of several kinds of spirits, went out to look around the town: . . . crowds at Third and Market streets, who laughed at a famous (or infamous) publisher's probable consternation over election returns . . . watching Duke, the famous goose, in town for the bridge celebration, following his master up and down Market street celebrating a Democratic victory with the rest of San Francisco in spite of the straw votes Landon rolled up in the poll taken by the "Illiterate Indigestion."

With the same old Fog, we'll Horn in again next week.

BOOK REVIEW
American Democracy and Social Change
By Dr. Edward Walker
Reviewed by WILLIAM GOSS, Instructor in History and Economics

San Francisco Junior College is taking notice this week of a new volume by Dr. Edward Walker, a former member of the faculty of this school.

In cooperation with two other educators, Dr. Walker has produced in American Democracy and Social Change a textbook with a vital thesis, designed to fill a need for a new type of high school social science course.

Emphatically protesting against the philosophy that nothing can be done to prevent the spread of dictatorship, the recurrence of war, and the persistence of social oppressions, this new book reaffirms a faith in education as a corrective against these trends.

It is a hopeful sign that educators continue their persistent search for the type of education which will supply the key to social progress, for there are signs that most moderns are completely disillusioned on this score, and at the moment the world watches half-aghast as Europe prepares to seek by war the solution to problems it seems unable to face.

The answer? Dr. Walker suggests that one useful step is to add to the traditional high school curriculum, a new course in American Problems. Such a course would attempt to bring into focus all the knowledge available for solution of pressing modern issues, in an attempt to arouse in the students a questioning attitude.

Students who have had the conventional course in Civics will appreciate the contribution of this volume, which adds to the study of the political structure of American government all the wealth of plexing conflicts which characterize a dynamic society.

The opening chapters of the book introduce students to the foundations of group life today, and to the development of American institutions and traditions. There follows a series of problems: economic, political, and social. Included among these are problems of poverty, of conservation of resources, of city and rural changes, and of governmental practices. Another series of chapters confronts the students with the ideals of some foreign systems of life: facism, communism, and the Nazi ideals. Finally, America's place in the international scene is studied.

The value of the book is increased by liberal use of charts and illustrative materials, designed to help the students visualize the problems under discussion. The book also makes use of the "unit" idea of organization, treating each subject as a definite integrated body of material.

Dr. Walker wrote the text in cooperation with Dr. Walter Beach of Stanford, and Dr. Olis Jamison of Indiana State Teacher's College. Publication was by Charles Scribner's Sons, the firm with which Dr. Walker is now connected in an editorial capacity.

EXECUTIVE EXCERPTS
By Bob Sisco

Active measures are being taken to ensure more perfect attendance at meetings of the Executive Council. If any member is absent from today's meeting, a note will be sent to the faculty adviser of the group he represents recommending that a substitute be found.

I want to offer my personal congratulations to every member of the football team for the splendid manner in which the grid season was ended. I doubt if Sacramento knows quite yet just what did hit it, leaving that brilliant trail of flashy red behind.

On behalf of the entire Associated Student Body I wish to say that we are all very happy to learn that Coach Russ Sweet has left the hospital, and to wish him the some speedy complete recovery possible.

We are also very glad to have Ruth Johnson back with us again. I dare say the WAA felt her absence very keenly.

The AWS and the Household Arts Association have been working hard to make their joint fashion show and tea a success. Success will be ensured if every woman student co-operates by attending. It will be interesting to watch the men who have been invited, to see how well they know the art of juggling teacups.

TRACK SEASON OPENS EARLY FOR RAMS

SANTA ROSA FALLS BENEATH RAIDERS TO TUNE OF 34-0

Cubs Left Cold, as Locals Hog All Four Quarters; Ravetto, Clark Go Wild

Smashing their way to an impressive 34 to 0 win, the Rams literally swamped a Santa Rosa Bear Cub eleven on the loser's field in a conference tilt held on Wednesday night, November 4. In making their first dent in the victory column in four starts, the Red Raiders displayed the form that made them early season conference favorites.

The Rams tallied first, when, after taking the opening kickoff, they marched to a score in a sustained drive, making 68 yards in 15 plays, Tom Mauer plunging over from the 2 yd. line. The next touchdown came early in the second quarter as Bill Ravetto tossed a 23 yard pass to El Pearce who nabbed it for a score. Another drive added the third touchdown with George Clarke sweeping the end to go over standing up from the four yard line. Dolph Pedrin finished the second period scoring spree when he intercepted a pass and galloped 36 yards to the goal line.

MAUER SCORES AGAIN

The final San Francisco tally came in the last quarter as Tom Mauer drove over from the 2 yard line after a Ram offensive had shoved the Santa Rosans back on their heels.

Captain George Pedrin converted twice, Jack Telesmanic once, and Lambie Allen once.

MENLO SUCCUMBS TO RAMS' SOCCER MEN; SCORE 5-0

Extending their string of victories to three straight conference games, Coach Tom Wilson's Ram shin-busters continued their winning ways by overwhelming a decidedly inferior Menlo J. C. eleven with a score of 5 to 0 in a rough and hard fought game on November 7 at Menlo Field.

The Rams were held scoreless until late in the first quarter when they unleashed a vicious attack, with the result that Evans, Vincent, Fahn and Frediani scored.

Evan's tally came late in the first quarter when he was awarded a free kick. In the second session, Jimmy Fahn, receiving a pass from Frediani, experienced little trouble in making the point.

The opening of the second half showed a fighting bunch of Menlo Oaks who made a determined effort to penetrate the Rams' defense. However, they were stopped by the combined efforts of Captain Bob Nelson, Walt Odone, and "Jumbo" Jublonsky. This was Menlo's only threat. From here on, the Red and White went on to score three more times with "Killer" Vincent tallying two of them in the third canto and Ed Frediani one in the fourth.

Two more goals were made by Frediani and Vincent, but were not counted because of an offside penalty. The game ended soon after without further scoring.

Taylor, Oberhause, and Klebinoff played exceptionally well for the Rams.

Conlan's Artillerymen Lose to 250th Infantry

Battling against a larger and stronger team, Coach Louis "Dutch" Conlan's 159th Artillery eleven bowed to the 250th United States Infantry last Wednesday afternoon at the Berkeley Memorial Stadium before an Armistice Day throng.

The final score was 19-2 with the 250th Infantry players coached by "Gil" Dowd, former Santa Clara star, completely outsmarting and outcharging the smaller and weaker eleven.

RAM—blings
By Don Mix

After trying to get enthused with "moral victories" over San Mateo and a dubious tie with Modesto, we can't seem to get the rust off our supply of superlatives to describe the victories at Santa Rosa and Sacramento; so we'll just say the boys played swell football—and that's no fooling. They proved conclusively that they could "come back"—the test of true greatness.

The final gun ended the junior college grid careers of many Ram football greats—Walt Loving, Dolph Padrin, Pete Jambruno, Charley Brickley, George Pedrin, Jack Telesmanic, Charley Kremesac, Tom Mauer, Forest Morrison, George Clarke, and Tony Scafani all taking the spotlight for the last time.

Somehow we'll always regret that we can't have another crack at San Mateo and State, because, although we don't like to be poor losers, we sincerely believe we could take them. But since championships are not decided in front of a typewriter, we take our hats off to San Mateo, probable conference champions.

The basketball men are working out daily in the Galileo Gym and Coach Conlan feels that the squad has great possibilities, although there are a few rough edges that will need considerable polishing in the next couple of weeks. Monk Mordecai, Ernie Loustalot, and Carlyle Cain are the nucleous around which the team is expected to be developed, although several new men showed up very well in the early workouts.

It is observed that the Ram football team was only beaten in home games and that it won all of the out of town tussels. If the budget could allow a large enough amount for travelling expenses, we are liable to have an undefeated team next season.

Some kind of a Horatio Alger success story could be written about Joe Guedet and Bill Ravetto. Both of these boys were renegated to the third string at the beginning of the season and seemed destined to remain in utter obscurity. Although they didn't see much action in the early games, this pair refused to get discouraged and kept plugging away in the scrimmages with little hope of reward. Finally they got their break, and the rest is football history. We've got a hunch that the Ravetto-Guedet combination will cause plenty of trouble in junior college circles next year.

A group of master strategists got together down at Powell St. and, on the strength of the following deductions, decided we shall be slighted if we don't get a bid to the Rose Bowl.

California, 38—Cal. Aggies, 0.

Sac. J. C., 20—Cal. Aggies, 0.

S. F. J. C., 27—Sac. J. C., 0—making S. F. J. C. 9 points better than Cal.

California, 13—U. S. C., 7—making S. F. J. C. 15 points better than U. S. C.

U. S. C., 13—Stanford, 7—making S. F. J. C. 22 points better than Stanford.

Washington, 14—Stanford, 14—making S. F. J. C. 22 points better than Washington.

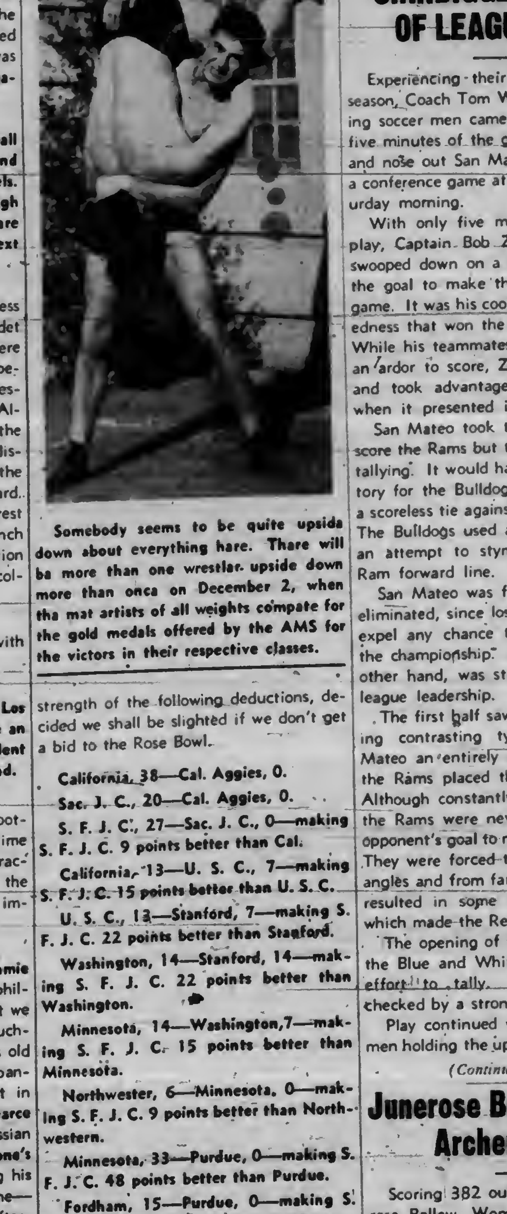
Minnesota, 14—Washington, 7—making S. F. J. C. 15 points better than Minnesota.

Northwester, 6—Minnesota, 0—making S. F. J. C. 9 points better than Northwestern.

Minnesota, 33—Purdue, 0—making S. F. J. C. 48 points better than Purdue.

Fordham, 15—Purdue, 0—making S. F. J. C. 33 points better than Fordham.

And since Fordham is the logical choice for the Rose Bowl, we should expect an invitation also.



To antiquated analogy add the California precept which naively prohibits swimming—on dry land. Ditto the Florida rule which forbids a lady to walk down the street without her belt, and the Hollywood Penal Code that bans horseback riding sans a parade permit.

BULLDOGS ADDED TO SHINDIGGERS' LIST OF LEAGUE VICTORY

Experiencing their first scare of the season, Coach Tom Wilson's league leading soccer men came through in the last five minutes of the game to score a goal and nose out San Mateo J. C. 1 to 0 in a conference game at San Mateo last Saturday morning.

With only five minutes remaining to play, Captain Bob Zegura of the Rams swooped down on a free ball in front of the goal to make the only point of the game. It was his coolness and level headedness that won the game for the Rams. While his teammates were frenzied with an ardor to score, Zegura kept his head and took advantage of his opportunity when it presented itself.

San Mateo took the field not to outscore the Rams but to prevent them from tallying. It would have been a moral victory for the Bulldogs if they had played a scoreless tie against the powerful Rams. The Bulldogs used a 10-man defense in an attempt to stymie the high scoring Ram forward line.

San Mateo was fighting against being eliminated, since loss of this game would expel any chance there was of winning the championship. San Francisco, on the other hand, was struggling to retain its league leadership.

The first half saw the two teams playing contrasting types of games, San Mateo an entirely defensive game while the Rams placed the accent on offense. Although constantly in Bulldog territory, the Rams were never near enough their opponent's goal to make their shots count. They were forced to shoot from difficult angles and from far out in the field. This resulted in some very inaccurate shots which made the Red and White look bad.

The opening of the second session saw the Blue and White make a determined effort to tally. However, they were checked by a strong Ram defense.

Play continued with the San Francisco men holding the upper hand. Then, awak-

REDS RUN RAMPANT OVER SACRAMENTO; FINAL TALLY 27—0

Culminating their season in a blaze of glory, the Ruthless Rams of San Francisco Junior College trampled over the Panthers of Sacramento J. C. and emerged victorious by a 27-0 score in an Armistice Day tilt held in the capitol city. A flashy aerial attack, coupled with a brilliant ground game, made the San Franciscans unstoppable, and allowed them to score in every quarter.

Two touchdowns were made by the ball hawking Joe Guedet as he took passes from Bill Ravetto and Lambie Allen to scamper over for scores, while Tom Mauer and Ray Engelhofer carried the ball for tallies to terminate Ram drives from mid field and bring the total to four touchdowns. George Pedrin and Jack Telesmanic alternated in kicking 3 out of 4 conversions.

BOYS START EARLY

Sacramento took Pete Jambruno's kickoff to the 30 yard line where Captain Charlie Kremesac smeared a Panther thrust for a five-yard loss and forced them to punt. The Rams took the ball on their own 43 where Glen Wunderling took a reverse from Mauer and got through for 9 yards. Bill Ravetto tossed a short pass to George Clarke, who made a first down with some 8 yards to spare on the Panthers' 36. The first Ram drive was stopped when McCandless, Sacramento center, intercepted Ravetto's pass.

After taking Bertleson's kick on their own 36, the Rams again began to move for their score. Ravetto and Mauer made a first down in two tries. Mauer then smashed through for 6 and Ravetto snake-hipped through tackle for another first on the Sacramento 37. Mauer took the ball on three successive plays and made the third first down in a row. When a smash at the tackle failed to gain, Ravetto dropped back and hurled a beautiful pass in the waiting arms of Joe Guedet, who scurried to the goal untouched. George Pedrin booted a perfect placement for the conversion.

ATTACK STOPPED COLD

Sacramento again received, and after Charley Kremesac and "Red" Brickley had stopped the running attack cold and forced the Panthers to kick, the locals again drove into pay dirt on a sustained drive when they recovered Perry's fumble on the Panther 32. A shuffle pass, Ravetto to George Clarke, made 6 yards to the 26. After Wunderling had made a couple on a reverse, Ravetto outspeeded the Panther end to make it a first down on the Sacramento 18. Lambie Allen came in for Ravetto at the keyback spot for the Rams and, a few plays later, a 15 yard holding penalty cut the San Francisco drive short and they lost the ball on downs.

Sacramento moved up field and seemed to be on their way, when Forrest Morrison intercepted Bill Oak's pass and then lateraled to Roy Rutherford for a 12 yard gain on the Panther 43. Clarke hit the middle for 7 and Morrison added 3 at left tackle for another first down. Allen flipped a 12 yard pass to Ray Englehofer on the 21 but, when two more passes had fallen incomplete, the offense seemed headed for naught. Lambie Allen then faded way back, picked out his receiver, and whipped the ball to the elusive Guedet for six more points. Telesmanic's attempted conversion was no good.

GUN STOPS SCORE

With but a few minutes left to play in the half, the Rams running attack began to click with Lambie Allen and Tony Scafani alternating in the ball carrying roles. The Rams got their break when the alert Rutherford again intercepted a Panther pass, returning it to the hometowners 16 yard stripe. Fighting against time, the locals moved to the 13 with Scafani toting the pigskin, to the 7 as Englehofer ploughed through on a reverse, Morrison lugged it to the 5, and then Scafani was knocked down on the 2 yard line as the gun sounded ending the half.

A true indication of Ram power was given when they took the kickoff starting the second half and drove to their third score without losing the ball once.

JAMBRUNO STARTS

Pete Jambruno grabbed a short kick-off and returned it to the San Francisco 43. They opened a wide hole at center and Bill Ravetto knifed through for 16 yards to the Panther 38. Mauer hit right tackle for 3 and Clarke shook loose for 7 on a reverse to 22 and a first down.

Wunderling got to the 15 yard line in two tries and then Clarke banged through to the 7. Ravetto slid to the 2 before the stalwart Wai pulled him down. Wai and Hunter, Sacramento guards, held for no gain for two plays, but finally Tom Mauer leaped through the air for the score. George Pedrin kept his record perfect by kicking his second conversion.

PERRY BREAKS LOOSE

After taking the kickoff to their own 38, Perry, Sacramento backfield ace, shook loose for 21 yards but the Panther attack was smothered for the next three plays and the threat was throttled by the fast charging Ram forward wall. Late in the third period, the Rams drove the Sacramentans back to their own 32 but San Francisco passes failed to connect and they lost the ball on downs.

Sacramento again pushed for some yardage with a couple of nice runs by Perry and Reams but a bad pass from center cost them 20 yards and the rally was smothered.

ADOLPH PAVES FOR SCORE

Midway in the final stanza Forrest Morrison tossed a 17-yard pass to Englehofer. The aerials continued to be effective when Morrison reversed to the "Bubblenose" who passed to Dolph Pedrin who plucked it out of the air and was finally forced out of bounds on the Sacramento 1 yard stripe.

Englehofer carried it on a reverse through tackle for the score. Jack Telesmanic planted the ball between the poles to end the scoring for the day. The game ended shortly afterwards without either team coming close to the payoff.

CONTEST IS LAST

The contest was the final game for many Ram grid greats who have made football history at this school and every local player performed in splendid fashion while Wai, Reams and Perry were outstanding for Sacramento.

Unofficial Guardsman statistics show the Rams amassed almost 400 yards from scrimmage and collected 14 first downs as against 150 yards and 6 first downs for Sacramento. The Rams attempted 16 passes and completed 7 while the Panthers tried through the air 13 times and completed but 2. The punting averages show the locals with 43 yards a crack and the Panthers with 30.

RULES GIVEN FOR TOUCH FOOTBALL

With the various organizations of the junior college competing against each other in inter club touchtackle football games, Coach Jack Gaddy has outlined the following rules that must be adhered to in all of the coming contests with the admonition that "any club not competing according to the rules of the league will be ejected immediately."

The contests will be played exactly as college football, with these exceptions:

There will be no tackling or roughing any member of either team. In order to stop a ball carrier, the tackler must touch the player with the two hands simultaneously.

Blocking opposing players will be permitted as long as the blocker does not leave the ground.

No cleats or spiked shoes shall be allowed. The regulation tennis shoes will be worn.

Every player on either team shall be eligible to receive a forward pass, and any player will be eligible to carry the football.

There shall be no recovering of fumbles by the defensive team except if the ball is captured in mid-air.

The game time will consist of two periods, each 15 minutes long.

HERB BROTMAN BRINGS MORE LAURELS TO S. F.

Winning three gold medals for himself out of the three swimming events in which he competed, Herb Brotman, representing the San Francisco Junior College, took two first places and was a member of the victorious relay team in last Wednesday's swimming races held to dedicate the opening of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge at Aquatic Park.

Brotman took a first place in the 50 yard free style swim and another win in the 100 yard aquatic event. Brotman, the P. A. A. world record holder for the 50 yards, was a member of the winning 440 yard relay team.

Ward Cox, also a student here, took a second place in the 100 yard free style event.

Joe Buchalter, Howard Forte, Louis Diamond and Art Rule made up the second place relay squad.

COLLEGE RIFLE TEAM DEFEATS PERSHING SQUADMEN

LIVE RIGHT

By Joseph A. Amori

One should choose his food according to his daily living routine, but under no circumstances should he be constantly thinking about getting just the right kind of food regardless of the amount of worry and mental anxiety which it may cause him. The very worry he goes through many times makes any kind of food indigestible. A normal individual can digest any food.

The effects of emotional disturbances upon the digestive system have been shown best by the experiments conducted upon lower animals, chiefly the cat and dog. By taking a mother cat away from her litter of young kittens, the X-ray showed a complete halt in the movements of the digestive tract. When she was patted on the head and reassured, the normal movements began again.

In experiments upon dogs, the influences of emotions upon the flow of digestive juices has been demonstrated. It has been found that the flow of saliva was increased by pleasurable sensations—the sight and smell of appetizing food, the presence of someone the dog liked. But if a cat or another dog was brought into the room, or if a frightening noise, a discharge of a pistol, occurred, the flow of saliva instantly ceased.

Man, being an animal, reacts the same way to the various external stimulii which have a tendency to inhibit either the movements in the digestive tract or the flow of digestive juices. Such emotions as anger, fear, rage, worry, and a host of others are typical of this group. The age old advice, "Take a little something to eat, it will make you feel better" is very bad advice. No one should attempt a meal under the influence of these emotions. Wait until you are perfectly calm, until all of your emotions are well under control. You'll feel better.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS DONATE LIBRARY BOOKS

That the following books have been donated to the J. C. library by the Associated Students was announced last week by Francis Colligan, librarian.

The books were purchased through a reserve emergency fund and it is probable that such donations will be made each year until the library is completely stocked, according to Paul M. Pitman, assistant to President Archibald J. Cloud.

RAM SOCCER SQUAD LEADING LEAGUE; BOASTS FOUR CONFERENCE VICTORIES ening to the fact that only eight minutes remained in the game, the Rams snapped out of their lethargy and made a desperate endeavor to score. It was at this time that Zegura became San Mateo's public enemy No. 1.

The ball, rolling out of a scuffling mass of players in front of the goal, was booted by "Hawk" Zegura for the winning point. The game ended soon after.

Mike Klebanoff, Jimmy Fahn, Bob Vincent, and Max Evans all played an excellent offensive game, while the usual stalwarts played good defensive ball. They were Jublonsky, Odone, and Oberhause.

This afternoon, the Rams cross the bay to play Marin J. C. Wilson's boys already have a 7 to 1 victory over the Mariners, but it was played on a wet field, causing the Marin goalie trouble in handling the slippery ball. However, the Rams are highly favored to win.

The league standings are as follows:

Team	Won	Lost
San Francisco J. C.	4	0
Menlo	1	1
Marin	0	1
San Mateo	0	3

UNEXPECTED WIN COMES, AS DICK PITMAN HIGH MAN

Tentative Arrangements Being Made For Return Match Next Semester

"We came, we shot, we conquered", was the jubilant report made by the members of the college rifle team on their return to school November 6, after winning by a score of 1728 to 1700 the first competitive match of the season, against a team representing the Pershing Rifles, honor company selected from the Basic Course trainees of the University of California R. O. T. C. regiment.

Ten members of the Rifle and Pistol Club were selected by William Hancock, club coach, to represent the local institution in the match held at the U. C. range, Thursday evening, November 5. All competing fired 10 shots each prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing, with 100 points possible at each position. Team scores were computed by adding the totals of the five best shots from each school.

Pre-match dope as reported in The Guardsman favored the U. C. riflemen, but an analysis of the scores shows that good team work in the part of the J. C. marksmen more than made up for their lack of competitive experience.

Much of the steadiness of the local team can be attributed to Mack Garr, Assistant Coach, who manned the spotting telescope. This service helped materially to reduce errors in sighting and adjustment of aim and, as firing at each stage was strictly limited to 10 minutes, insured that no scores would be lost by failure to get the shots off in time.

Captain G. B. Devore, Infantry, U. S. A., was Range Officer for the match and scored all targets. In addition to the team members and coaches, the following members of the Rifle and Pistol Club made the trip to Berkeley: Dorothy Moore, Jack Scholey, Elaine Romeike, John Stewart (president), Betty Hyde, and the club sponsor.

Tentative arrangements have been made for a return match to be held in San Francisco early next semester.

Scores made by both teams were as follows, the five highest scores on each side counting for the team competition:

Sweet Urges Formation of Intramural Football Teams for Tournament

Managers of, and all men students interested in, the intramural touch tackle tournaments should report to the men's gymnasium this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Russ Sweet, athletic instructor and head football coach, has announced.

"These intramural teams are not to be organized as classes, but as individual groups," Sweet explained, in urging every men's organization to form a team. "So far, there are only about six teams organized, and more are needed in order to make the tournament successful."

(Note: see sports page for rules of tournament.)

Many Gridmen On Card For Affair Sponsored By AMS

The light-heavy class boasts the most entries, seven in number. They are Jim Buchan, Charlie Kremesac, last year's champion, Merve Weiner, Bill Baker, Will Dolman, Henry Anderson, and Wilson Camp.

Duke Worsham, Joe Manning, and Art Hunter are the contenders for the middle-weight crown.

Carlyle Cain, of basketball fame, and Jack Reynolds are the only two welter-weights listed so far.

In the light-weight class, Luis de Lera, from Mexico, and Art Yim are on the card.

In the remaining boxing classes, there is but one man for each—Don Bryant, featherweight, and Jack Moon, bantam-weight—and so more entries are being sought, according to McHugh.

Following are the wrestlers signed for the various events:

Heavy: Charles Brickley, Tom Buand.

Light-heavy: Glen Wunderling, Frank Nolton, Jack Segurson, Johnny Eckerman, and Dick Ryan.

Middle-weight and welter-weight, respectively: Ed Hyn and Joe Hershfield.

Light-weight: Deming Smith, Bud Gardner, and Yokio Atl.

Ten-ounce gloves will be used for the boxing events, which are to be of two three-minute rounds, with a third round in the event of a draw.

Entry lists will be open until the time of the preliminaries, McHugh said, expressing disappointment at the poor showing in some of the classes.

Scribe Interviews Opera Star, Who Seeks Peace

"The operatic world is overcrowded today because vocal teachers continue to keep students without ability. If the teachers would only weed out all those without talent, there would be more advantages and more room for those with a voice.

"However, I believe if a poor student has been discouraged by a teacher, and still has the perseverance to go on, let him keep trying."

Thus Madam Elisabeth Rethberg, renowned soprano, summed up her advice to young singers in an interview with a Guardsman reporter.

Born in the mountainous country of Saxony, Madam Rethberg is in San Francisco for the present opera season which opened last Friday night.

Unlike the traditional temperamental Prima Donna, she is a pleasant, human person whose only precaution for her beautiful voice is an abstinence from ice water and ice cream!

"I don't know whether they hurt the voice or not," she said, "But I just never cared for them."

Madam Rethberg's favorite operas are "Tannhauser" and "Aida," and she is a great admirer of Rosa Ponselle.

Asked her one great desire in life, she replied.

"Above all other things I desire peace—peace among everybody and everything."

ART INSTRUCTORS PRAISED LOCALLY FOR EXHIBITIONS

Recognition of artistic ability came in no uncertain manner to art instructors Richard Allman and Evans Ecke during the recent annual exhibition of the San Francisco Art Association, when water color paintings by these men received complimentary notice in San Francisco's two leading newspapers.

A. F., of The San Francisco Chronicle, in the November 8 issue, said:

"It would not be a bad idea for someone to donate an annual 'average' prize . . . to be awarded to the one picture which seems to strike a balance between the various tendencies and directions represented, and which therefore symbolizes the total value of the year's display. If I were to pick such a work, I should choose R. M. Allman's 'Truck Farm', for its neat and skillful handling of the medium, its intelligent understanding of the architecture of the California landscape and its sensitivity to the color and atmosphere of the local scene."

Of Ecke's paintings, Emilia Hodel of The San Francisco News said:

"My own personal judgment would appear so:

"First, the two most sensitive and beautiful paintings in the show are 'Approaching Storm' and 'Carnival' by Evans Ecke. Here is art in the best sense—deepfelt emotion passed through thought and fixed in technically perfect form. Such are these strong, individual paintings with their rich mood and fine color."

COACH SWEET BACK; ON RECOVERY ROAD

Having recovered from injuries received in an automobile accident several weeks ago, Russ Sweet, head football coach, is now back at college. Sweet's condition has improved rapidly since his release from the Franklin Hospital last week, although his right hand, which was severely burned, is still bandaged.

His coaching duties for the season finished, Sweet will again conduct his hygiene and gym classes, and will probably give his track men slight workouts several times a week.

Sweet has been resting out of town for a few days prior to his return to the college, putting on some weight after having spent such a long period in bed.

The football team's victories in their last two games were potent factors in his recovery, Sweet said, and he wished to thank all the players who were so faithful in their hospital visits.

Men's Riding Group is Being Formed by Club

By Joseph A. Amori

Formed under the auspices of the Army and Navy Club of the Junior College, arrangements are being made for the organization of a mounted troop. All men students interested in riding are requested to see Bradley Schwarz who is in charge of the plans. Although the troop is being organized in conjunction with another club, its membership will not be confined to those in the other organization, according to Gordon Solomon, club officer.

SACRAMENTO SAGA or the Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

Nov. 11—Dear diary, what, oh, what, shall I do? Today's events have been more than hectic, they have completely unnerved me, and—but let us begin from the beginning, as Cousin Hector Twirp always says.

This morning, our young hearts full of the joy of living, Templeton and I set out (via the Southern Pacific Railroad) for the thriving metropolis of Sacramento, where our superlative football team was scheduled to play against Sacramento Junior College.

I spoke a few simple words of encouragement to the squad, which inspired our brave athletes to such an extent, dear diary, that they defeated their opponents by a score of 27 to 0. Ah, my secret confidante, can you imagine my excitement and confusion when the team, represented by dear Mr. Brickley and dear Mister Jambruno, presented me with an exquisite corsage of buttercups and dandelions tied with red and white twine?

Well, after the wonderful game came to an end, Templeton and I agreed to meet the players at a charming cafe in the heart of town. But how could we get there? We possessed no automobile, and Templeton had forgotten to bring along his brother Cuthbert's bicycle. Dear Templeton suggested that we "hitch-hike" to the restaurant. The word, I remembered, first reached my ears through the medium of a very humorous motion picture called It Happened One Night.

Templeton stepped out in the road, and gesticulated with his thumb, just as dear Mister Gable had done. By a strange coincidence, the cars didn't stop for Templeton either. This, I decided, was where a woman's touch was needed. So out I stepped into the road, airily waving Templeton aside, shut my eyes tightly and yanked up my skirt in the manner of Miss Colbert. Immediately I heard a heavy vehicle rumble to a stop.

AWS, SOCIAL COMMITTEE GIVE DANCE

Western Women's Club Is Chosen For Dec. 18 Affair; Admission Free

With members of the Social Committee and officers of the AWS co-operating to lend their support and experience, a fall semi-formal dance will be held at the Western Women's Club, Friday evening, December 18, at 9 o'clock. All members of the Associated Students are invited.

Although the final choice of an orchestra has not as yet been made, music will be furnished by either Nat Thomas or Alan Dohrmann, according to Donna McPherson, head of the Social Committee. Free punch will be served and admission will be one student body card per couple, with no stags admitted. Bids will be of school colors and will be limited to one per couple, according to Miss McPherson. Checking facilities will also be available.

The patrons and patronesses for the occasion are Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Sandys, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Hughes, and Louis J. Conlan.

The committees are as follows: bids, Don Tuttle and Marge Christophe; publicity, Joe Kissel and Caroline Orginos; and ways and means, Charles Brickley.

Weather Scored By Men Who Freeze In Early AM To Meet Demands of P.E.

"Brrr how cold." "Just like ice." That's what the men students who take physical education at 9:00 o'clock in the morning are saying as they are forced to prance around Funston Field in a thin pair of trunks. For awhile the men enjoyed romping around the greensward, tossing the pigskin to and fro, but the November and December mornings are beginning to take their toll.

It is really a riot to watch the bare-legged gentlemen very slowly eke their way out of the dressing quarters into the early morning icy atmosphere. Sometimes it's even foggy. (Yes, even in San Francisco there is occasional moisture).

When the cold wind plowing in from the bay hits those bare-legged and even bare-chested individuals, each wonders how he ever got the idea that he wanted to take his exercise so soon after getting out of his nice warm bed.

What price education?

Geology Class Studies Formation On Field Trip

To study the geological history of the country, the historical geology class under the supervision of George L. Green, instructor, made a trip through the Livermore and Niles Canyon vicinity last Sunday, December 6.

Eighteen members of the class left by bus at 9 o'clock Sunday morning and returned at 6 o'clock the same evening.

They also visited the Water Temple, and collected a group of fossils near Pleasanton.

DR. BOLTON SPEAKS

Speaking of the relations between the United States and Mexico, Dr. Herbert Bolton, head of the department of history at the University of California and one of the greatest living authorities on the history of the West, addressed an assembly held in the third floor lecture hall at Powell Street at 11 o'clock yesterday.

Hostelry Advertising Is Added To HRM Division With Erskine Instructor

Hotel advertising has recently been added to the curriculum of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the Junior College, with Melvin Erskine, advertising manager of the Mark Hopkins and Fairmont hotels, acting as instructor for the course.

The outstanding features of the course are the advertising problems of a new hotel and the sustenance of an advertising campaign in any hotel.

An invitation is extended to any junior college student who has a free hour at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoons to attend the class and listen to the lecture, as they have proved to be interesting and educational, according to John P. Gifford, coordinator of the hotel course. The class is held in room 104 at Galileo.

Candidates Announced For Elections Next Week

Candidates for Women's Athletic Association officers were announced late yesterday afternoon by Parnell Brown, WAA vice president, as follows:

President: Ruth Johnson, Parnell Brown. Vice president: Dorothy Canavan, Hermine King, Gloria Swicegood. Secretary: Patricia Bernard, Dorothy Barber. Treasurer: Phoebe Wattwood, Anita McKay.

Elections will be held from Monday to Thursday, inclusive, Miss Parnell said, with morning voting in the third floor ticket booth at the Extension Building, and afternoon polls in Galileo Gym A.

Household Arts Meet To Discuss Concert Ushers

To discuss plans for ushering at the Christmas Candlelight Concert, members of the Household Arts Society will meet in room 317 at 2:15 P.M. Friday. According to Claire Cuneo, faculty adviser, this will probably be the last meeting before the social to be held at her home January 8. Plans are being completed for this event, she said.

High Freshmen Will Sponsor P. M. Dancing

Patterned after the low freshman dance, a high freshman dance will be held in the Galileo women's gym next Friday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, Eugene Blumenthal, class president has announced.

Music will be furnished by radio through a public address system, Blumenthal said, and the admission price will be no more than 10 cents.

Marge Christophe, Don Mills and Blumenthal constitute the committee arranging the dance.

Candlelight Concert Is Planned By A Capellans On Thurs., December 17

With the general public invited, The Music Club will sponsor a Christmas Candlelight Concert to be held in the Galileo auditorium at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, December 17. The program will be given by the combined members of the A Capella Choir, Men's Glee Club, and other members of the music classes, under the direction of Flossita Badger, instructor of the music department. They will be assisted by a 30-piece orchestra and a string quartet furnished by the WPA.

This entertainment will be free and in keeping with the spirit of Christmas, according to Miss Badger. Invitations are being mailed to the homes of all junior college students and Miss Badger hopes that each home will have some of its members present.

This entertainment is the first under the auspices of the Music Club which has just been formed, although those who now comprise the membership of the club have been singing for service clubs during the past year.

Stage decorations for the event and posters have been worked out by Richard Allman and M. Evans Ecke of the art department. Invitations and programs are by Claire Cuneo of the Household Arts department with the aid of her students, who will also act as ushers for the affair.

This event also marks the first appearance in the college of the A Capella choir in their new gowns which were purchased for them by the Associated Students.

Newman Club Meets To Discuss Christmas Party

Plans for a Christmas tree party will be discussed at a brief business meeting of the Newman Club, to be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight in the basement of St. Mary's cathedral. The meeting will be short, according to Pete Jambruno, club president, so that members may go to the Hi Jinks.

The Newman Club held a semi-formal dance at the Bellevue Hotel November 24.

High Soph Class Meets Tomorrow In Cafeteria

To decide upon rings or insignias, the High Sophomore class will meet tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the faculty cafeteria, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, has announced.

"This meeting will be important," Browne said. "Action taken at it will be binding. All high sophomores should be present."

PROVISIONS BEING MADE FOR NEW ELECTION DATE: PETITIONS READY

Provisions are being made for a new date for the election of Associated Student officers, as the date called for by the junior college constitution conflicts with the Christmas vacation, according to Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men.

Students planning to run for office should secure their petitions from him immediately, the dean advised.

The following are the qualifications for candidacy as contained in the constitution:

To be eligible for president, vice president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, treasurer, or membership in the executive council, a student must be enrolled for the minimum of 12 units and must have maintained a "C" average in all work during the semester in which elections are held. If the candidate has previously attended any other college, he must have passed at least 12 units of work in the last semester of his attendance there in order to be eligible for nomination.

LOOK BLOODY, BUT THEY'RE SAFE

Sights like the above were familiar enough recently when the Army and Navy Club was holding its initiations. The would-be soldiers and nurses are: front, Sid Farley, James Gibson, Fred Smith; back, Nicholas Suntzeff, J. C. Ressell, and Don Smith.

SKULL AND BLADE MYSTERY NAME; ACTIVITIES ARE FOUND LIKEWISE

By Skip Irwin

To render all possible service in upholding the standards of the junior college, and to fulfill any service asked of them, are purposes of our erstwhile organization, the Skull and Blade Society. The nom de plume reveals that the society is of mysterious nature, which is true, because it is a mystery what it does.

The club was ushered into existence by the guiding hand of Lloyd Luckmann, who signed the charter as faculty sponsor. Soon after the charter was granted, Luckmann had to resign because of other duties. Since then, the Skull and Blade Society has been minus a sponsor.

MEMBERSHIP DECLINES

The charter provides for 20 members. At present there are only 14 members, and of this number only 7 are active. Edwin Ferdianni, president, Joe Kissel, secretary and Ray Brunn, former president are the only members who have been doing any work. They are trying to reorganize the club and plan a series of social affairs. To date there have been no social activities this semester, and they have not rendered any service in any way.

Alden Smith was selected early this week to assume the faculty sponsorship of the Skull and Blade, according to unverified rumor.

The reason for the disorganization of the club is that the members have too many outside interests. Therefore no interest is taken in the club by the members, with the exception of the few mentioned above.

SPONSOR SOUGHT

The president has contacted a member of the faculty and hopes to secure his service as sponsor.

The club, active in the past semesters, had better do something about a drive for membership if it expects to stay in existence. If nothing is done, this club will be as powerless as the League of Nations. Started as an exclusive society, the Skull and Blade is now just a club with no members, no sponsor, no activities, and of no service, whatsoever, to the college.

All right, Skull and Blades, let's get started and go places, just like other clubs.

P. A. SYSTEM SOUGHT

Investigations of public address systems with the idea of buying one for the Associated Students are being made at the present time by Alfred Agosti and Lowell Hollingsworth of the faculty. In all probability, a series of competitive demonstrations will be made to see how the various ones perform, according to Paul Pitman, assistant to the president.

Charters Issued Two Clubs By Pres. Cloud

The Rifle and Pistol and the Army and Navy clubs received official charters last week at the recommendation of President Archibald J. Cloud, Paul Pitman, assistant to Cloud, has announced.

The Chemistry Club now has its charter before the executive council for action, Pitman said.

The administration has issued a plea for all clubs and organizations not chartered to apply for one as soon as possible, insomuch as they are not actually college clubs until a charter is granted.

Chess Club Meets To Talk of Tentative Match

Proposed matches with San Francisco State and several local high schools were announced by the college Chess Club following a meeting held last Friday night at the Hayes Valley Recreation Center at 7:30 o'clock. President Dick Holmes said that the 15 members present discussed the formation of a constitution and the method to be used in selecting the team for tentative matches.

TICKETS GO ON SALE FOR SOPH FORMAL: ONLY 200 TO BE SOLD

Tickets are now on sale for the second semi-annual Soph Formal, which will take place on Friday evening, January 8, in the terrace ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, according to Bob Sisco, Associated Student Body president, who is lending his assistance during the absence of Ed Schwartz, sophomore president who is at present in the hospital.

"Music will be furnished by Freddie Nagle and his orchestra," Sisco said, "Most of the older students will remember Freddie, as it was his orchestra that played at our first formal dance in 1935."

Sisco urges that everyone get his ticket early, as there have been only 200 printed and only that many will be sold. Instead of the usual $1.50, the tickets will be $1.25 and may be purchased from Sisco, Mike Garakam, George Hagens, Ed Schwartz, or the financial office of the college.

Rod and Gun Club, Independents Fall Before J. C. Rifles

Matches With Nat'l Guard, Pacific Scheduled; High Scorers Make First Team

Two more league victories were added to college history last week when the rifle team defeated the San Francisco Rod and Gun Club, 770 to 704, and the California Independents, 818 to 771, in matches held Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Galileo range.

Tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock the college second team will shoot against the Pacific Rod and Gun Club at Galileo, and Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock it will meet a team from Battery E, 250th Coast Artillery (National Guard) at the National Guard armory.

The three high scores made last week were good enough to qualify for the first team, according to Bill Hancock, team coach.

With only three weeks of practice, Betty Hyde made what Hancock termed a "very respectable score."

"She is a good, all around shot," he said, "as is also Virginia Kwiatt, a new addition to the club."

Hancock also said that there are still opportunities for new men and women to try out for the teams, with membership fees to the Rifle and Pistol Club cut to 50 cents for the remainder of the semester.

Following are the scores made at the last two matches:

College	Score	S.F. Rod & Gun Club	Score

CLOTHING COURSES POSSIBILITIES TOLD

Another attempt to make the San Francisco Junior College fit the needs of the community was made by President Archibald J. Cloud at a luncheon with a group of local clothing manufacturers, where a discussion was held concerning the probability of developing an apprentice program in clothing manufacture to be included in the curricula of the Junior College next year.

The representatives of the Junior College were Claire Cuneo, instructor of Household Arts, President Cloud, and Dean Eugenie A. Leonard. The manufacturers appeared to be interested, and there is a possibility of such a program being added to the curriculum, according to indications.

CROWDS ARE PROMISED AT AMS EVENTS

Admission By Associated Student Cards; 50 Door Prizes Being Offered

Promised by its organizers to boast the largest assemblage of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College in the brief history of the institution, the third semi-annual Men's Club Hi Jinks, to be held tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Trianon Ballroom, Sutter at Van Ness Avenue, will boast a program of varied professional and amateur entertainment.

Admission to the event, at which door prizes, dance prizes and refreshments will be given away free, will be by student body card only, according to Tyler McHugh, president of the Men's Club.

Howard Markuse and his orchestra will supply the rhythm with members of the band offering a variety of songs and comedy numbers.

MYSTERY SHROUDS PROGRAM

As one of the evening's highlights, a colorful floor show put on by the George Pring studio of dancing will offer its entertainment with various singing and dancing acts.

"Casildo de Mohr and Beatrice Laidlow of the Pring school will be in a dancing number, but outside of that I am not at liberty to reveal the rest of the Hi Jinks entertainment," McHugh said.

Fifty door prizes donated by various concerns will be distributed, and bids to the sophomore formal, the Palace, and to the Mark Hopkins will be presented to the best dancing couple of the evening. All of the gifts will be handed out by Santa and Santa Junior, a mystery act arranged by Dean Edwin C. Browne, Tyler McHugh, and Joe Amori.

1500 ANTICIPATED

"The show and dance," McHugh said, "is destined to be the largest gathering ever held by the junior college. The committee expects at least 1500 people in the ballroom, and there will be plenty of room for all. The more students we get together, the more fun we can all have, and don't worry about the eats—there will be plenty of food for everyone."

The only charge will be the sum of five cents for checking coats and hats. A couple will be admitted on one student body card.

"The Men's Club wants to take this opportunity, through The Guardsman, to thank the Phillip Morris Company, Sutliff Tobacco Company, Elmo Company and the Squibb Company for their generous donations of their products to help make the event a success," McHugh said.

Crew Holds Winter AM Practice at Yacht Club To Keep In Training

Winter crew practice is being conducted daily at Yacht Harbor from 10 to 12 o'clock in the morning. The purpose of these early sessions is to condition the oarsmen for next term's strenuous campaign in the Northern California Junior College Conference and to give the new talent a chance to work on stroking form in order to compete with the veterans for places in the first boat.

The galley slaves have been drilling on racing starts and going through calisthenics daily, and expect to continue the workouts until the period of final examinations. The present boat lines up with Bill Schoenfeld, Art Nelson, Herman Hextrum, Merv. Weiner, Sims Hamilton, Charley Swanson, Lou De Lera, Herb Ward, Irv Amstrup, Deming Smith, Carl Brogger, and Will Dolman pulling the oars.

All those interested in these pre-season practices should come to the Harbor any morning and join in the conditioning sessions, it is said.

BORROWED KNOWLEDGE

Taken by and large, of what particular value will it be to the average student to know five years from now the answer to any particular question asked in an examination? Precious little is the answer.

Strictly analyzed, of what value is the answer at the present time, particularly during an examination, if it is not known considerably beforehand? The answer, when gleaned by a hasty, underhanded glance at a book or another's paper, is not remembered. It might help the "borrower of knowledge" to get a better mark on the particular examination, but probably not; for the instructor generally knows whether or not the student has enough knowledge to answer certain questions.

True it is that in a few instances some borrowed answers will bring a better grade. Even so, what then has the student gained? A grade in itself is of little importance. When the student has left college, his grades will be of no importance, either to him or to the world.

That last point, incidentally, is one that certain instructors, those who have led almost strictly academic lives and who are not fully aware of how the world of practicality is run, would do well to consider.

COURAGEOUS BUT FOOLISH

To the delight of the audience and to the actual physical discomfort of the combatants, the Associated Men Students' semi-annual boxing and wrestling tournaments took place last week.

The affair was managed well, a tribute to Tyler McHugh, Bob Sisco, Pete Jambruno, Faculty Adviser Joe Amori and others. The fighting was clean, although a trifle bloody at times, and good sportsmanship prevailed, even among most of the members of the audience.

Typical of such affairs, a few acts of individual courage, unknown to most present, took place. One wrestler was acutely ill between two of his bouts, yet he went on rather than forfeit. Another reportedly had an injured rib, and obviously had a sprained ankle; yet he fought, and fought commendably well. Students who knew themselves to be in no condition to box, and who were amateurs of the rankest sort, risked teeth, skin, and comfort.

No condemnation of these individuals is meant. Amateur boxing and wrestling are clean, desirable sports for active, healthy men. Those who fought last week under conditions otherwise must be admired, rather than criticized for their foolishness, for pride and honor prompted them.

If they had been strictly forbade to enter the ring by someone of authority, youthful principle would still have been intact in spirit. They should have been so restrained, for the human body is repairable with too much difficulty to warrant foolish risks for a few minutes' hard-earned glory.

Who should have been there to do the restraining is the question. Obviously Amori could not, as his full time was occupied by close, careful refereeing which did not permit his visiting the dressing room. As a matter of fact, his clean impartiality, and stopping of fights that became too one-sided marks him as a true sportsman.

A doctor, or even athletic coach or trainer—or, better than no one, any adult with powers of observation and common sense and the application of it—should have been in the dressing room to observe every contestant before and after his match.

This is not a proof of the old proverb. No valuable horse was purloined, fortunately, even if the barn doors were left unlocked. The point is that there will be more horses and barns. May the doors be locked securely next time.

THE TIME DWINDLES

The end of the semester is not far away, and students are beginning to wonder where all the time has gone, why it seems that they have so much work piled up that they were going to do "sometime."

Inevitably, some will make promises to themselves to catch up during the Christmas holidays, to get that term paper written then, to read those few books.

Just as inevitably, they will not do it. The suggestion is made, therefore, that students save themselves the trouble of even making these promises. It would be wiser for them to make the most of next week and the remainder of this one, and then to forget all about college and thoughts of studying during the holidays.

The feeling that one should be doing something when one should know that it will not be done has a bad psychological effect. Better peace of mind can be had by not even thinking about doing it.

THE BULL SNORTS

Compensation
Life vs. Fancy
Where's Moral

"How can a man live and be so mean?"

That is a question purportedly asked concerning the editor of The Guardsman. The notion provokes thought, not so much as to the veracity of the inference of meanness (which probably arises more out of ignorance and misunderstanding than from anything else), as to the compensation demanded by accomplishments and by even a small degree of success.

The recent motion picture China Clipper forcefully brought out one phase of compensation. A far-seeing, ambitious man to whom work and success of his enterprise for the sake of the idea instead of for that of the person disregarded love, friends, self, and even human life. Typical of most cinematic productions, it all ended happily. Before the conclusion, however, the true-to-life struggle for a principle was well depicted.

Life, Not Movies

That it will all end happily in true life is not such a certain matter; nor is it necessarily an important one. What is important is the success of the enterprise, and whether or not its instigator has put his all into his work. The praise or the condemnation of fellow men mean little. A feeling that the job has been, or is being, done in a manner highly acceptable to the spirit of the trade or profession means much.

Since all people are more or less subject to human traits and emotions, praises and criticisms are at least noticed, the extent of the notice depending upon the psychological make-up of the recipient.

Analysis

Condemnation is usually completely ignored, and leaves little or no impression, for too frequently it is directed too much at a personality, the idea, not the person, is important.

Praise is nice, but meaningless unless given by an authority—an authority who has experience, not one who imagines himself such. Criticism is interesting because of its many aspects. Criticism based only on personal likes and dislikes, and given by those who have no true knowledge of the subject, is the most frequent, the most annoying, and the most contemptible. Criticism from authorities usually appears more in the nature of suggestions or of "possible surmises," and, put in such a manner, produces the most results and is appreciated.

In a way, this last form of criticism is a form of compliment and flattery, for the authority speaks in such a manner as to imply that the one criticized "had his own good reasons for doing it in such a manner", but, possibly, "it might have been more effectively done this way, or do you think so?" It becomes almost like asking an opinion in turn.

Summary

The need of a moral for a story reached where "the paths of glory lead" with Mid Victorianism. This story can be ended anywhere, with or without a conclusion.

It can be said with truth, however, that the law of compensation is ever present and effective. Utter disregard of what people think of him personally must always be the penalty exacted by this law of the man who would record the actual doings of fellow men.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

We had planned to present, this week, the results of our poll among the women as to what type of men they prefer, but, alas for the best laid plans of men, mice, and journalists, unforseen occurrences make it impossible. We'll try to make it next week for sure, and from the looks of things it's going to be something! While on the subject of polls, we'd like to give you a poem that was brought on by the last one:

I recently made a survey
'Mong the men.
"I'll find what they like,"
I decided, "and then
"I'll cut out the things that
"The darlings don't care for
"And I'll be the type that they'll
"Do and they'll dare for."
I cut out the baby talk,
Tried not to brag.
Forgot my sarcasm,
And tried not to nag.
I stopped saying "cute"
And I laid off the paint.
I laughed at their jokes
And I stopped saying "aint".
I tried not to talk too much,
Stopped dishing dirt,
Stopped being catty, and
Oh, how it hurt!
I did all these things,
The results? Well, just look,
I'm still sitting home every night,
With a book!

WE READ

Among our readings lately was a little volume called "Co-Ediquette" by Elizabeth Eldridge, which is a modern, cleverly written book covering nearly every problem that a girl could possibly meet while attending college. There are chapters on clothes, studying, college customs, sororities, bull sessions, and some purely personal problems such as going steady or not, different types of men and their lines, etc. and etc. This book should be of interest to every college girl, especially those who plan to go on to Cal. or Stanford. Remember, if you can't get it at the library, Christmas is coming, and a few well placed hints may not be amiss.

PRESIDENT TALKS OF FUTURE EVENTS

By Bob Sisco

Hope to see you all at the Associated Men Students Hi Jinks and dance tonight at the Trianon Ballroom, Sutter Street and Van Ness Avenue. A couple can be admitted with one student body card, so bring the girl friend. Ty McHugh has worked hard on the event, and really deserves a big turnout. So let's see you all there.

Congratulations to Joe Amori and Tyler McHugh for the very fine manner in which they put on the semi-annual Men's Club boxing and wrestling show. There were some fine exhibitions and the fans got a great deal of enjoyment out of the numerous bouts. Also a few bouquets to the fighters and wrestlers who cooperated to make the Verdi Club battles such a fine show.

An awards rally will be held in the near future in the Galileo auditorium in order that the various men and women athletes may be presented the awards that they deserve so much. Watch The Guardsman for further details.

Bids for the Sophomore Formal are now on sale. They are priced at $1.25, a very small price for a big evening. Get those bids early, as a large sale is expected.

CURTAIN

By Donald Flash

Comedy, Satire, and Song

When Eustace Jones found himself suddenly one of the unemployed, he had no idea of what was in store for him. Never a very strong-willed person, his power of decision was taxed to the utmost when he was beset by a dozen or more different forces, each of whose solution was the only one that would help him. A radical urged him to help form a "united front." Italian bootblacks wanted him to join military organizations. The army offered him peace. Commercial products were promised to be "just what he needed." A tabernacle tried to make him disregard all earthly things and be saved, even going so far as to deny him such a base article as a pair of pants. Even doctors argued over what remedy to give him.

Add to all this a stream of satire, given without quarter, on everything in our modern world, set to clever original music by Ernst Bacon and Raisch Stoll, and you have the entertaining musical comedy Take Your Choice, which opened at the Columbia last Wednesday.

The Federal project has struck a modern tempo here and produced a piece that deserves attention by all San Francisco theater-goers. The project is making a worth while contribution to the stage in giving forth such as this.

The music and orchestra arrangements are exceptionally good; and one song, I'd Like to See You Again, has all the earmarks of a hit. Gordon Onstad and Phyllis Cole, as the boy and girl, turn in pleasing performances. Except for a few rough spots, the direction is quite satisfactory.

RAM'S HORN

Dear Editor:

It simply breaks the heart of the lower element of the J. C. to think that you, a scribe yourself, should propose shattering one of the few remaining American traditions, namely the great era of Ballyhoo, so generously indulged in by Walt Winchell and his contemporaries.

China has its rice, Spain has her revolutions and U. S. has colorful personalities, three-fourths of whom were built up in the public eye by clever angles of publicity formulated by some smart press agent.

It's fun to be fooled some of the time, and who cares that Garbo isn't really mysterious, or that the latest French importation was really born in Paduka, Illinois. Where would the members of the fourth estate be without Maxie Baers and Zionchecks who made front pages on even the most conservative papers.

Consumer's research was cruel to disillusion the million gullibles who were relying on Listerine, Lifebuoy and Lux to make them successful, but you would be even more brutal to abolish the grand old institution of publicity.

Preserver.

Note: There is a meager possibility that time would heal the wound left by cutting the ballyhoo out of our systems. —Ed.

Dear Editor:

In your last week's editorial entitled "Who's Next?" it seems to me that you are dead set against college activities. Practically every educational institution in the United States is popular because of their football team. A small school with a small, uneven squad has no strength to get the student inside its walls.

Instead of preaching to the men of the gridiron and telling them to hit the books a mite harder, I see no reason why we shouldn't praise our men who fight for dear old . . . not till we make them swellheaded, but let them know we appreciate what they are doing for our school as a whole. Maybe your not a football fan but 9/10's of every college student is so why discourage athletics.

Rah Rah.

Note: Rah Rah for you, my friend. What you say is not funny, but how you say it certainly is.—Ed.

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Dear Mac:

I have a sad confession to make to you, along with apologies to the readers of The Guardsman, many of whom would not be such avid readers of it were it not for your dizzy column.

The trouble seems to be that either I have lost the copy on your last masterpiece, or have temporarily misplaced it, which amounts to about the same thing. I shall conduct a search in the hopes of getting it for next week's paper.

In the meantime, I hope you will write another one. I can't tell you personally, because it is so seldom that ever I see you. I told Scat Pott to tell you the other day so that you could write another column for us this week, but I guess she forgot.

I hoped to see you at the fights last week, but I guess you were not there. There was a little girl present, however, whose name is Nevada, and who, with that longing, sighing look in her eyes, asked me to say hello to "Bobby" next time I saw him.

Guess I better get back to work now, so here's to you and your pea-soup fog. Give my regards to your folks, to your sister, and to "Milly."

—Bill.

SPINNING AROUND THE GLOBE

One of the busiest firms in this country today is a "manuscript mill" that furnishes either a standard or an especially prepared speech on any desired subject. The company also dashes off briefs for lawyers, sermons for ministers, pep talks for businessmen and even books for college professors. Prices start at $1.25. (For the address, come around.)

The courts of law in Japan, like many scientific groups in various parts of the world, are convinced that plants require sleep. Not long ago a farmer won a suit for damages against a company which had erected a large neon sign along his rice field, claiming that his crop had failed because the sign had prevented it from sleeping at night.

All British holidays, except Christmas and Boxing Day, fall on a Monday. Some swell three day holidays.

In China, where trains are always crowded, passengers, even those holding third-class tickets, are sometimes permitted to spend the night sleeping on tables in the dining-car. The following morning, passengers desiring breakfast are served from the same tablecloths on which their fellow-passengers slept overnight.

The telephone firm in England gives you free diction lessons over the phone if you ask for them.

What IS the Phone Number?

Some graduate students in chemistry at Princeton University were assigned a problem by their instructor and asked to hand in its solution in class the following morning. It turned out to be so complicated that none of the students could do a thing with it.

One was more resourceful than the rest, however. After struggling for several hours, he gave up, and called Information, asking for Professor Einstein's telephone number. It took a little persuading to get it, but he won out, and the professor himself answered. He was very nice. In no time at all, right over the wire, he worked out the problem. Said it was no trouble; glad to be of service.

Dear Editor:

The Guardsman is a swell paper—that is, for those for whom it was evidently intended. What I mean to say, is, we freshmen read it and don't comprehend, because we haven't gotten into the swim of school activities. This, that, and the other organization is just a name. For instance, Beta Phi is a classy name, but what is it for, and who belongs?

What is to blame for this evident lack of school knowledge?

"A Mere Frosh."

My Dear Mere Frosh:

What is to blame for this is your apparent lack of memory and powers of observation. At the beginning of the semester, The Guardsman presented a list of clubs, their officers, and functions. When a new club is started, this information appears in the story on that group.—Ed.

SOCCERMEN WIN TEN GAMES AND TITLE

Basketball Team Travels to L. A. Dec. 16

GAMES WITH J. C. TEAMS LINED UP

Glendale, Salinas, Riverside, Are Among Foes Scheduled For Week's Jaunt South

By Ed Talavera

Under the tutelage of Coach Louis "Dutch" Conlan, the basketball team continues its daily workouts at Galileo gymnasium every afternoon in preparation for a week's invasion of Los Angeles and its vicinity, starting December 16.

The team is working hard to get in shape to make a good showing at Los Angeles. Five games have been scheduled with Los Angeles J. C., Glendale J. C., Pasadena J. C., Fullerton J. C., and Salinas J. C., for the week's barnstorming tour.

FUNDAMENTALS PRACTICED

One hour every day is spent on the fundamentals of basketball, such as dribbling, pivoting, and taking pot-shots. The other hour is used in endeavoring to develop a strong defense plus a still stronger offense. This year Conlan is placing the accent on offense, since the forward line consists of small, tricky men, who fairly burn up the court on a fast break.

At present, the squad is divided into groups. One group is comprised of Caine and Rippon as forwards; Phelan at center; with Mordecai, Manascalco, and Maas alternating at the guard positions. Loustalot and Kotta, forwards; Porter, center; with Egan and Slattery as guards, is another strong group.

SCRIMMAGES HELD

A third team consists of Mitchell at center; Wilgus and Huft, forwards; Balastrerie and Leonard, guards.

To date, the team had only two scrimmages. In the first of these, against a powerful and big U. S. F. varsity, Conlan's squad appeared sloppy indeed. However, this was because of a lack of organization which will easily be remedied with more practice.

PRECISION SHOWN

Last Thursday, Coach Conlan sent his men against the Royce's Sports Shop basketeers, which contained a bevy of former high school stars. In this game Conlan's men showed a vastly improved offense which clicked with precision.

The conference race does not start until January, but already the hoopsters have shown a powerful aggregation which bids fair to cop the championship again.

SACRAMENTO SAGA or the Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

Off we drove in the direction of the city, with a cloud of dust trailing in our wake. We trundled on and on, my teeth chattering at every jerk, but at last we came to what appeared to be the main street. In the center of the block was a charming little restaurant with a sign over it: BOHEMIAN CAFE. "Hey, gal," remarked the old gentleman, who had been silent, "what say we hev a few vittles in this here place?"

Both Templeton and I heartily agreed to this generous proposal, and we dismounted, threw the reins over a handy telephone pole, and entered the cafe. We had hardly found a table when I noticed that all the brave and stalwart athletes of the team were also there, and were evidently enjoying themselves immensely. Templeton and I both ordered steaks, and we had scarcely begun to enjoy the juicy meat when a terrible sight met our eyes! Both mules, plunging wildly, were crashing through the plate glass window of the cafe and were dashing toward our table! Our venerable companion yelled "Hide under the table, they'll go away", but it was too late. The mules were already in the restaurant and were causing pandemonium among the patrons.

COURAGE!

Well, dear diary, here was my chance to prove myself capable of a courageous deed. Bravely I approached the two dumb brutes, and firmly grasping the reins, drew them to a halt. Templeton at this point disentangled himself from the wreckage and assisted me. We, preserving the true mein of heroes, gently led the animals outside.

By this time the police had arrived. Several officers accosted us, and, I must say in a very impolite manner, asked what we thought we were doing. I replied that we had merely rescued the restaurant from further damage, explaining that the mules

All the world loves a winner, and since we've never professed to be unworldly, we feel an irresistable urge to rave about some real winners; the soccer team. Coach Tom Wilson's boys have swept over everything in sight, winning the conference title, and going through the entire season with but one loss in thirteen games.

The squad has vindicated itself in the eyes of a student body that at first scoffed at the idea of awarding varsity blocks to the soccerites.

The shindigging struggles never drew large crowds, and the tinsel glory that lured their football brethren was never present, nevertheless, Eddie Ferdianni, Bob Nelson, and company put in long hours of practice merely because they like the game.

Take a verbal peep at some of the boys as we see them:

JUMBO JUBLONSKY—Red headed and quiet—plays a clever, conservative game at the goalie position—tries to kid you into thinking he's a philosopher—the school's best weight man.

WALT ODONE—Bundle of energy—rugged build—the team's self appointed publicity man—plays hard every minute of the game.

BOB NELSON—Husky and handsome—steady and consistent type of player—always turns in a good performance—combines soccer and yell leading and manages to be good at both.

JIMMIE FAHN—Diminutive spark plug of the team—flashes in every contest—said to be a great "money player"—also a yell leader.

EDDIE FERDIANNI—Another pee-wee star—lots of class on the field—youthful counterpart of the comic paper's "Snuffy" Smith.

The All-American, All-Coast, All-Valley and All-Hillside plague has filled the sport pages of the country during the last few weeks, and now the bug has finally caught up with us; so, with due apologies, we present our All-Conference team. Before you start after us with a gun because your favorite star isn't on the team, remember this selection is merely the opinion of one man who certainly makes no claims of invincibility. If you think it's odd that we picked four men from the Rams—well it seemed funny to us also, but we "called 'em as we saw 'em" without any regard to personal feelings.

A rare combination of talents is found in the person of "Knucklehead" Holmes who is a baseball star, a block man, AND (imagine) president of the Chess Club.

The Men's Club battles produced several new athletic notables. The heroes include Ray Greenwood, Jack Segerson, Wilson Camp, Ty Barr, and Frank Knowlton.

Speaking of the fights, that cave man mangling match between "Killer" Camp and Duke Worsham was the most gruelling bloody bit of action we've seen in amateur circles in a long time. Both of them admitted knowing nothing of the art of self defense, so they employed the old street brawl tactics and handed each other a terrific pasting.

SUCCESSFUL IN CONFERENCE DEBUT

These are some of the soccer men who made history for the college by winning the league title in their first year of competition. Top row, Jerry Kennedy (manager), Bob Zegura, Hal Oberhause, Leo Johnson, Walt Odone, Bob Anderson, Vince Zuardo, and Coach Tom Wilson. Bottom, Percy Benten, Mike Klebanoff, Ed Frediani, Max Evans, Bob Vinson, Jim Fahn, Ellard Taylor.

GRAND SLUGFEST FEATURES BOUTS HELD BY MEN'S CLUB WEDNESDAY

By Don Mix

Rousing battles that kept the fans thrilled throughout the entire evening were served up by Tyler McHugh and his Men's Club associates in the semi-annual affair held at the Verdi Club last Wednesday night. In the realm of fistiana the blood flowed from battered lips and noses while the wrestlers provided wild and woolly contests that delighted the noisy scholars.

The feature event of the evening was the heavyweight slugfest between the roly poly Joe Telesmanic and the Montana strong boy, Dave Smith. Both men were reputed to possess kayo wallops, but Smith carried too many guns for his highly touted opponent, and scored three clean knock downs to garner the decision by a wide margin.

BATTLE OF STRENGTH

Red Brickley was extended to the utmost to gain a close nod over the rugged Jim Brand in the behemoth wrestling final in a five minute time limit match that settled down to a battle of brute strength.

Ray Greenwood's vicious body punching was the weapon that gave him a technical knockout victory over the game Merv Weiner in the light-heavy title tilt when referee Joe Amori stopped the fight in the third round.

The top thriller of the evening was the middleweight scrap between Wilson Camp and Duke Worsham in which battlers disregarded all the science of boxing and slugged it out toe to toe for the entire route, with Camp outlasting the former football star to win the decision.

SKILL TAKES VICTORY

After smashing his way to a sensational kayo win in his semi-final match, Joe Manning ran into a tartar in the person of Ty Barr, whose boxing skill gave him a close verdict over Manning in a bout that was forced into an extra round before the judges could decide on a winner.

An extra round was also needed to decide the lightweight title scrap between Lou De Lera and Ray Saunders, in which the latter was awarded a hair line verdict after four sessions of fast boxing.

Jack Reynolds was without an opponent and was awarded the welter crown by default.

CHINESE BOY FAST

Dick Moon outspeeded Frank Silvestri in the featherweight division final and was declared the winner after milling through three gruelling rounds.

Andy Oddstead sprained his ankle as he jumped from the ring after pinning his semi-final opponent and found the injured leg too much of a handicap in the lightheavy wrestling title duel, dropping a time limit decision to the powerful Jack Serguson in a match that saw flying tackles and clubbing elbows used as offensive tactics.

The middleweight wrestling crown was won by Frank Knowlton when he gained the decision over Jack Ryan in a rather slow tussle.

SMITH GIVES BUT WINS

Giving away 10 pounds in each match, Deming Smith gained two wins in riotous wrestling bouts that kept the fans on their feet to cheer the "Demon" on to victory over his heavier rivals. Tom Hagens was Smith's opponent in the final.

Joe Amori acted as referee for all the bouts, with Maury Schwartz, former student, as one of the judges. Fleming Pope was the time keeper.

The new football coach of the University of San Francisco, George Malley, gave a short talk during the intermission.

The following are the new champions of San Francisco Junior College:

BOXING

Heavyweight	Dave Smith
Lightheavyweight	Ray Greenwood
Middleweight	Wilson Camp
155 lbs.	Ty Barr
Welterweight	Jack Reynolds
Lightweight	Ray Saunders
Featherweight	Dick Moon

WRESTLING

Heavyweight	Charles Brickley
Lightheavyweight	Jack Segurson
Middleweight	Frank Knowlton
Welterweight	Deming Smith

Lightweight Hoopsters Begin Daily Workouts At Funston Pavilion

Although losing four regulars from last year's 145-pound basketball team, Coach Tom Wilson looks toward a successful season as a wealth of new material was unfolded before his eyes at the first practice held at Funston Pavilion last Wednesday.

Every position except center has to be replaced because of the loss of Urga, O'Neil, Hubbard and Goss, last year's mainstays on the team. The only returning veterans are Jerry Kennery, Tom Jensen, "Butch" Oberhause, Bob "Swede" Nelson, and Oscar Bauer.

Among the newcomers are Charles Watts, "Lead" Nichols, Bill Flynn, Jack Saunders, Joe Tudor, Jim Fitzsimmons, George Kinoshita, Jack Crist, "Billie" Burke, Dick Bennett, "Wally" Odone, "Bivo" O'Conner, Louis Garat, and Dave Shinn.

An attempt is now being made to schedule games with the State 145-pound team, the Jewish Community Center, the San Mateo lightweights, and several of the San Francisco high school teams. A trip to Stockton to play the College of the Pacific frosh is practically assured, according to Jimmy Fahn, team manager.

Practice is held from 1 until 2:30 p.m. at Funston Pavillion every day except Thursday. Anyone, regardless of weight, with a little basketball ability is urged to report for practice as soon as possible.

Early Birds Take Worm; Or Rather Winged Lamb In Intramural Football

Playing the initial game of Coach Russ Sweet's annual intramural touchtackle tournament, Jack Welch's Early Birds battled to a 6-6 tie with the Flying Lambs eleven last Wednesday afternoon at the Galileo field.

The Early Birds scored in the early part of the contest, with the Lambs putting over their only score in the final minutes of play after recovering a fumbled lateral on the Birds' four yard stripe. Both teams failed to convert.

In the second contest of the afternoon, the highly favored Newman Club bowed to one of the afternoon gymnasium classes by a score of 7-0.

LIVE RIGHT

By Joseph A. Amori

Are you a food crank? Do you follow any particular type of food fad? Do you belong to one of these so called "diet clubs"? Are you one of those individuals who is unhappy unless he is "preaching the doctrine of the beneficial effects" resulting from a strictly banana and buttermilk diet? Or are you a follower of the milk chewers' league, the fruit juice drinker's association, the whole grain circle or the roughage fiend cranks and a host of other food faddist's organizations?

There have arisen of late throughout the length and breadth of the land numerous food faddist's organizations setting up as their objective some particular dietary regime, a few of which have been mentioned here. A glimpse into the rules and regulations which are formulated by these organizations will not reveal any sound, scientific dietary principles, but a host of pseudoscientific "facts", used by the organizers of the specific organization to further their own ends and gain memberships.

EXPECT DISILLUSIONMENT

The reason that the subject has been chosen by the writer for today's discussion is the numerous requests and questions which have been brought to his attention of late, and for the reason that there are among you on this campus many students following one of these dietary regimes as outlined by one of these organizations.

"Well, what of it?" you might say. My answer to that is this: If by following a certain food craze, as outlined by some organization to which you belong, you feel that you are gaining some psychological benefit—such as peace of mind, mental stimulation, development of will power, and a host of other mental gains, as some of you claim, all well and good. But don't for one minute allow the idea to prevail that in due time you will be transformed into a Greek God or an Adonis. YOU WILL NOT ONLY BE DISILLUSIONED, BUT YOU WILL WAKE UP TO THE SAD REALIZATION THAT YOU HAVE BEEN DOING YOURSELF MUCH HARM.

LIVE THE NORMAL LIFE

If you really want to build a sound body, a symmetrical body, one possessing all of the elements necessary for a successful and strenuous athletic career, forget that you ever received any information about these so called miraculous and guaranteed cures produced by following one of the dietary regimes as outlined by one of these faddist's organizations.

And in its stead try to live like a normal human being on a diet of carbohydrates, proteins, fats, a liberal supply of fresh fruits and vegetables, drink plenty of water, get at least eight or nine hours sleep, take your daily exercises, keep your mind occupied and you will be doing all that is necessary to insure you of the fact that you will get a maximum efficiency out of your body.

TOM WILSON'S SQUAD HAS FINE RECORD FOR FIRST YEAR CONFERENCE PLAY

By ED TALAVERA

Champions of the Northern California Junior College Soccer Conference—the Rams of San Francisco Junior College.

By decisively whipping Marin J. C. 10 to 0 on Wednesday, November 25, the Ram shindiggers annexed the championship in their conference debut.

Coach Tom Wilson piloted his men to a successful season, playing a total of 13 games, winning 10, tying the powerful University of San Francisco varsity and Lowell High School, and suffering the only loss of the season to a fighting band of Menlo Oaks by a score of 2 to 1.

The Menlo defeat was made possible by injury received by the best offensive players on the squad prior to the game, so they were unable to play. With all due credit to Menlo, who actually outplayed the Rams and deserved to win, it is safe to say that if the game were replayed, the Rams would win by a decisive margin.

GALILEO FIRST

The Red and White opened the current season with a win over Galileo, 3 to 0. In a tussle against Poly, they edged out a 2 to 0 victory, but were held to a scoreless tie by the Lowell Indians in their next encounter. Commerce then fell under the Rams' vicious attack, losing 2 to 0. California frosh didn't fare much better, being humiliated 6 to 0 by the Red and White. Mission Bears fell in line with the rest, suffering an inglorious defeat of 6 to 1. Meeting the toughest foe of the season, the Rams held the three-time intercollegiate champion, U. S. F. varsity, to a 1 to 1 draw.

In its first conference game, the Red and White added the San Mateo Bulldog to its list of victories. The Rams went on to sweep everything in sight, including Menlo, San Mateo, and a double victory over Marin. The last and thirteenth game of the season proved to be the team's nemesis, losing to Menlo 2 to 1. Maybe number 13 had something to do with it.

NICE GOING!

And so—to "Jumbo" Jublonsky, Walt Odone, Bob Nelson, Ellard Taylor, Max Evans, Vincent Zuardo, "Butch" Oberhause, Leo Leprosky, Mike Klebanoff, Bob Vinson, Bob Zegura, Bill Johnson, Jim Fahn, Ed Frediani, and Bob Anderson, we simply say—nice going.

Final League Standings

Team	Won	Lost	Tied
San Francisco	5	1	0
Menlo	4	1	1
San Mateo	1	4	1
Marin	1	5	0

Individual Scores

Name	Goals
Bob Vinson	11
Bill Johnson	10
Jim Fahn	8
Max Evans	4
Bob Zegura	3
Ed Frediani	3
Walter Odone	3

PREPARED FOR TOURNEY WEEK

Tourney Week will present a series of athletic events in which all WAA clubs will participate. Above are typical scenes snapped during class and club meetings. Left, above: tennis sextette; upper row, left to right, Betty Phillips, Helen Davis, Dorothy Canavan; lower row, Olive Reed, Gladys Popp, Gerry Orginos. Next, Junerose Bellew, Jean Leonnard, Edith Rand aim for the bull's eye. Right, above, Elvira Erni is shown during a volleyball session. Center, left, fencing finds three adherents in Alice Thompson, Pat Bernard, and Donna McPherson. Next, lucky ponies! Two fair equestriennes give dobin an extra pat for good behaviour. Center, right, WAA Faculty Adviser Vera Spencer pauses in the middle of a busy day. Extreme left, Parnell Brown, WAA vice president, can't decide whether to play badminton or basketball. Center, Friday riding class at Golden Gate Park. Extreme right, Ruth Johnson, WAA president, is in the same quandary as Miss Brown.

SAN MATEO TRIUMPHS IN TENNIS AT SEMI-ANNUAL CO-ED PLAY DAY

San Mateo Junior College emerged triumphant last Saturday when the peninsular college decisively defeated San Francisco Junior College in an inter-WAA tennis play day. S. F. J. C. lost three matches out of four during the morning competition, held at the San Mateo college courts. Doubles teams composed of Helen Davis and Dorothy Canavan; Olive Reed and Betty Phillips, and Anita McKay and Annabelle Tyler lost their matches while the lone victory of the day was chalked up by Gloria Stockhausen and Gladys Popp.

The San Mateans entertained their erstwhile rivals at luncheon at the Oak Tree Restaurant after playing had been completed.

Parnell Brown Dives to Honors at Tri-College Swimming Competitions

By Pat Scott

San Francisco Junior College, San Francisco State College, and Lux Junior College competed on a friendly non-interscholastic basis at the Women's Athletic Association swimming meet held last Wednesday night at the Y. W. C. A. pool.

The meet was not a competition for individual colleges or honors, but the whole group of women was divided into three color teams, the red, the blue, and the yellow, each team entering four competitors in all events.

Ruth Johnson of S. F. J. C. was a member of the yellow team, which won three of the events, and Parnell Brown took two first places, one second, and two thirds in the diving contest.

Gloria Swiegood of the red team placed second in the back-stroke relay; Miss Swiegood and Janet Cope of the red team won the egg novelty, and the crawl relay was won by Ruth Johnson and Marion Howard of the yellow team, Miss Cope and Miss Swiegood of the blue team placing second, and Miss Brown and Pat Bernard of the blue team placing third.

The red team, which included Miss Swiegood, Miss Tennis, and Miss Cope won with 54 points, the yellow team with Miss Johnson scoring 53 points, and the blue team with Miss Brown as captain trailing with 35 points.

Women Invited to WAA Sports Banquet; Price Is 50 Cents Per Ticket

With all women of the college cordially invited to attend, a WAA Sports Banquet will be held Friday, December 18, at 6 p.m., in the Galileo faculty cafeteria. Tickets, priced 50 cents, may be purchased this week at the Galileo ticket office.

Candidates for administration and managerial positions, and those expecting to be named on teams or for awards, are urged to attend the affair, according to Parnell Brown, WAA vice-president, as the new officers will be introduced and awards presented at this time.

Following is the banquet program:

Mistress of ceremonies—Barbara Latz.

Guest speakers — Helen Meyer, Miss Verrel Weber.

Presentation of awards—Ruth Johnson.

Introduction of new officers — Vera Spencer, women's athletic instructor.

ELVIRA IN JAIL

belonged to an old man who had befriended us.

AND JAIL!

But, dear diary, the old gentleman was nowhere to be seen! Diligent search could not locate him, and several nasty people even doubted his existence. So, dear diary, the mean policemen took us to the county jail! As I write these words of woe, I am imprisoned in a chill, damp cell, with a lumpy cot as the only furniture. Both Templeton and I are composing telegrams to our families. Ah, me, what to do, What to do!

Novelty Races and Relays to Feature WAA Swim Meet

Contests Scheduled for 12:30 p.m., December 16 at Y. W. C. A. Pool; Rules Listed

With novelty races and relays scheduled as part of the program, a WAA swimming meet will take place December 16 and 17 at the Y. W. C. A. pool. Beginners will have their contests on Wednesday, December 16, from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. They must conform to the following rules:

1. No contestant is allowed to enter more than three events.

2. Everyone enrolled in the elementary swimming classes must enter at least two events.

Officials for this meet:

Starter—Parnell Brown.

Judges—Ruth Johnson, Gloria Swiegood, Lillian Christotherson.

Timekeepers — Jill Hollingbery, Virginia Hunt, Marion Howard.

Scorer—Evelyn Tennis.

Intermediate and advanced swimmers will compete Thursday, December 17, from 12:30 to 1 p.m. They will observe these regulations:

1. No contestant may enter more than three events.

2. All women enrolled in intermediate, advanced, and life-saving classes must enter at least one event.

3. Competition will be on a four-class basis: low freshmah, high freshman, low sophomore, and high sophomore.

4. The first event will begin promptly at 12:30.

Officials for this meet:

Starter—Miss Vera Spencer

Judges—Miss Helen Center, Miss Bernice Keller, Mrs. Dorothy Strague.

Timekeepers— Marjorie Cusic, Ruth Johnson; Parnell Brown, Vera Lashin.

Scorer—Barbara Latz.

Advanced swimmers will also compete in diving, and life-saving classes will demonstrate correct technique.

TOURNEY WEEK MARKS END OF THIRD TERM IN ACTIVE COLLEGE WORK

Concluding—and climaxing—its third semester of active participation in student affairs, the Women's Athletic Association will present, from December 14 to 19, a five-day festival to which every club in the organization will make a major contribution. Tourney Week, as it is called, is a semi-annual period of celebration and display of achievement acquired during the semester. Its most important event will take place when a gala Sports Banquet; during which the results of the WAA elections, unknown to everyone except Faculty Sponsor Vera Spencer, will be made known, and the successful candidates introduced.

Tourney Week will officially begin December 14, but its first event will take place Wednesday, December 16, when the beginners' swimming meet, held at the YWCA pool, will fire the opening gun in a series of affairs and contests. The festival will close Saturday, December 19, with an archery tournament at Fort Mason Range. Following is a list of the events scheduled for Tourney Week:

1. Wed., Dec. 16, Beginner's Swimming Meet, YWCA, 12:30-1:30 p.m.

2. Thurs., Dec. 17, Intermediate and Advanced Swimming Meet, YWCA, 12:30-1:30 p.m.

3. Fri., Dec. 18, Horse Show, St. Francis Riding Club, 3 p.m.

4. Fri., Dec. 18, WAA Sport Banquet, Galileo Cafeteria, 6 p.m.

5. Fri., Dec. 18, Dancing Recital, Galileo Gym A, 8:30 p.m.

6. Sat., Dec. 19, Archery Tournament, Fort Mason Range, 10 a.m.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

Big news just now is Tourney Week, the gala windup of the third WAA season. This organization is one of the most active in the college, and its semi-annual festival should incite much enthusiasm among the co-eds. Tourney Week deserves your support—plan to attend as many events as possible.

WAA officer and managerial elections start Monday. Names and pictures of the candidates will be posted on bulletin boards at Powell Street and Galileo Gym A. Printed ballots will be provided at these places—cast your vote Monday if possible!

Club regulations demand that candidates for awards or for teams have an average of not lower than "C" for their entire college courses. Look over your marks and see if you measure up to the academic standard.

Every WAA'er should be present at the banquet that will officially end the sports season. Not only will you find out whether or not you made a team or award, but winners of the elections will be announced then. See you there!

RIFLE TEAM LOSES

The first loss yet encountered came to the college rifle team Monday night when the Marine Corps reserves defeated the college seconds 911 to 900.

Wanted: Two people who will go in on a three-block subscription to Coronet at three dollars a piece. Costs four individually. See Elaine Romaike.

ARCHERY CONTESTS TO BE HELD DEC. 12

Archery contribution to Tourney Week will take place Saturday, December 12, at 10 a.m., at Fort Mason Range when an inter-class tournament will begin. Competition is to be on a freshman-sophomore basis, each contestant shooting 60 arrows at her classified range. Averages of all women competing will be made, and high scores, for each distance recorded.

Outstanding contender for honors is Edith Rand, whose remarkable record of six successive bulls' eyes has not yet been equaled. Martha Fujita, who showed the greatest amount of improvement for the week of November 30 to December 4, is expected to place high in the contest.

CLASS AVERAGES

1. Tues.-Thu. 1:45—4.5—best score
6. —Junerose Bellew at 40 yards.

Price Lowered to $1.25; Soft Music, Dim Lights Promised by Schwartz

Only 100 bids for the Sophomore Formal which is to be held Friday evening, January 8, in the Terrace Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel are still available, according to Ed Schwartz, president of the high sophomore class. As there are only two more weeks of classes, it would be advisable to procure bids at an early date, Schwartz said.

Instead of the usual $1.50 purchase price of the tickets, they will be sold this year for only $1.25.

NAGLE OFFERS MUSIC

Freddie Nagle and 12 piece orchestra will furnish the music for the affair.

Speaking of the dance, Schwartz said, "In keeping with emotional strata of the high sophomores, as we take with us cherished memories of our alma mater, you may be assured of soft music and dim lights. So bring your best girl friend."

"ATTENDANCE APPRECIATED"

Bids may be purchased from Bob Sisco, George Hagens, Michael Garakian, George Hartwick, Donna McPhetson, Schwartz, or in Room 260 Galileo.

"The committee, with the assistance of Bob Sisco, has worked hard to make this already traditional affair a great success. Show your appreciation by appearing at the dance," said Schwartz in his final statement.

Guardsman Pictures By Virginia Bornmueller

VIRGINIA BORNMUELLER

Cuts appearing in this, and all previous issues of The Guardsman were made from photographs taken by Virginia Bornmueller (left), staff photographer.

All the good photographs used last semester, too, were taken by her. One glance at the results of her work is enough to see that each picture is a silent tribute to her photographic genius and ability.

A CAPELLA CHOIR FETED BY BROWNE, WIFE; PLANS TOLD

Climaxing activities thus far and gathering momentum for future events, the A-Capella Choir and the Men's Glee Club of the college were entertained last Thursday evening, December 15, at the home of Dean and Mrs. Edwin C. Browne.

"It was a lovely party," Flossita Badger, choir director, said. "We had a mock Christmas tree with gifts for everyone and there was dancing, singing, and games. Refreshments were served by members of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the college, and everyone had a grand time."

Miss Badger expressed her satisfaction with the accomplishment of the A Capella Choir for the semester by summing up the events in which they took part.

"Near the end of November," she said, "the group sang for the Lions Club at the St. Francis Hotel. They also appeared at the Zonta Club on the evening of December 7, at the Fairmont Hotel before the Kiwanis Club on December 10, and before the Women's Guild at Forest Hills on December 15. The concluding event of the term will be tomorrow afternoon's Christmas Candlelight Concert."

Cafeteria Serves Many Holiday Parties Given By Students and Faculty

Holiday parties are being held by members of the faculty and the students of the Junior College, many of which are being prepared and served by the members of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the College.

A Buffet Tea was served in the women's gymnasium on Thursday afternoon, December 10, after a volley ball game between San Francisco State College and the WAA team of the Junior College. Sandwiches, cake, and hot chocolate were served.

GALILEO LUNCHES

Seventy-three members of the GAA of the Galileo High School attended a luncheon in the cafeteria at 1:30 on Friday, December 11.

Also, on December 11, a dinner was served to the combined administration and research section of the bay section of the California Teachers Association.

The alumni of Occidental College held a dinner in the faculty dining room of the cafeteria recently.

WOMEN BANQUET

The WAA award banquet will be held Friday evening, December 18, in the faculty dining room at 6:00 o'clock. The theme of the affair is the hunt.

These affairs are making it possible for the members of the hotel and restaurant division of the junior college to gain practical experience in this sort of work, according to J. Graham Sullivan, instructor of the hotel course.

BOARD'S ADOPTION MADE FOR COLLEGE

Further advances toward beginning of construction on the junior college buildings were indicated last week when the Board of Education adopted certain resolutions concerning it.

Following is an excerpt taken verbatim from the Board's resolutions:

WHEREAS, in order to provide the adequate facilities for the conduct of said junior college courses it is necessary to construct the hereinafter mentioned buildings to be known as "The Junior College of the City and County of San Francisco," now therefore, be it

RESOLVED: That the Board of Education does hereby adopt the following preliminary and tentative plan for such junior college buildings, to wit:

UNITS SPECIFIED

(1) A unit to contain thirty-three (33) classrooms with necessary appurtenances and instructors' offices, etc.

(2) A unit to contain twelve (12) laboratories with two lecture rooms with necessary appurtenances, offices, preparation rooms, etc.

(3) A unit to contain a library consisting of approximately sixty-five hundred (6500) square feet.

(4) A unit to contain a gymnasium building for women.

(5) A unit to contain a gymnasium building for men.

(6) A unit to contain a cafeteria with seating capacity for two thousand.

(7) A unit to contain an administrative building.

(8) A unit to contain an auditorium building—and that said Junior college be located at or near Balboa Park in the City and County of San Francisco; and be it further

COST $1,250,000

RESOLVED: That the Chief Administrative Officer and the Director of Public Works be requested to appoint an architect or architects for the purpose of preparing the necessary preliminary plans, drawings and sketches for the aforesaid junior college, containing the aforesaid units; the estimated cost of said junior college, including said units and equipment therein contained, to be One Million Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand ($1,250,000) Dollars; and be it further

RESOLVED: That the Board of Education hereby authorizes the Physical Properties Committee of said Board, the President of the Board of Education, Mr. A. J. Cloud, President of the junior college, and Mr. Joseph P. Nourse, Superintendent of Schools, to sit with said architects to be appointed by the said Director of Public Works and to advise with said architects in the matter of the development of details desired in connection with the various types of buildings or units to constitute said junior college and to recommend any changes that may be necessary in said plans.

TRYOUTS ANNOUNCED FOR SOCIETY'S PLAY

Tryouts for the Women's Service Society variety show Can You Take It, which will be presented early next semester, were held at the Galileo Little Theatre on Friday, December 11, Monday, December 14, and Tuesday, December 15, according to Elaine Dominguez, WSS president.

"We had planned to present the revue sometime during the latter part of this semester, but Christmas holidays, finals and other complications made it advisable to postpone it until later. We have planned an original theme around which the entire revues will be worked out and it is our aim to make the Women's Service Society show a semi-annual affair to which the college will look forward every semester."

Christmas Classic Will Be Read by Ruth Jensen

With all interested students and instructors invited to attend, a dramatic reading of John Norton's Christmas will be presented by Ruth Jensen, instructor in dramatics, today at 9 a.m. and Friday at 8, and 10 a.m., in Room 301 of the Extension building.

The story of John Norton's Christmas is laid in the Northern Woods, and revives many of the old-fashioned ideals and sentiments of Christmas.

Dr. Offers Examinations In Morning at Powell St.

For the benefit of those men students of the college who for various reasons have found it impossible to take their physical examinations in the afternoon, Dr. R. Duffrey Friedlander, college physician, will conduct examinations on the mezzanine floor of the book store from 10:00 A.M. to 12 noon today, according to J. Paul Mohr, registrar.

TO SING AT YULETIDE PROGRAM TOMORROW

Center row: Isabelle Meyers, Marian Woodward, Rinelle Rentalick, Jane Knight, Mary O'Neill, Marjorie Maynard, Dorothy Brand, Henry Kearney, Jane Williams, Madaline Brodie, Jane Ferguson.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR VOTE MACHINE AT STUDENT BALLOT

Plans are being made for a voting machine to be used at the election of Associated Student officers, which is to be held Friday, January 8, 1937. In the event that the voting machine cannot be secured, plans will be made for efficient voting so that there will be no cause for criticism, according to Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men.

Petitions of the candidates must be handed in to Browne by Monday, January 4, at 12 noon. Grade requirements for candidacy are a "C" average for the semester in which the student is a candidate, with the student carrying a minimum of 12 units.

In all probability, student body cards will be required as identification for voting, according to Browne.

String Quartet Makes Debut at Candlelight Concert for Tomorrow

Marking the first appearance of the junior college string quartet, the Music Club will sponsor a Christmas Candlelight Concert to be held in the Galileo auditorium tomorrow afternoon. The quartet is composed of Julian Lobesen, first violin; Stanley Marincik, second violin; Sherman Grant, viola; and Jerome Anker, cello.

The program will be given by the combined members of the A Capella Choir, Men's Glee Club, string quartet, and other members of the music classes, under the direction of Flossita Badger, instructor of the music department. They will be assisted by a 30-piece orchestra furnished by the WPA.

ENTERTAINMENT FREE

In keeping with the spirit of Christmas, this entertainment will be free, according to Miss Badger.

Invitations have been mailed to the homes of all Junior College students, and Miss Badger hopes that many members of the families attend, as the general public is invited.

OTHERS HELP

This entertainment is the first under the auspices of the Music Club, which is a new organization, although its members have been singing for many service clubs during the past year.

Invitations and programs for the affair were done by the students of the Household Arts department under the direction of Claire Cuneo; household arts instructor.

AWARD RALLY WILL BE HELD FRIDAY, 1:45

Presentation of men's athletic awards will be made at a rally to be held this afternoon in the Galileo auditorium at 1:45 o'clock, according to Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men.

Santa Claus Present at Faculty Christmas Party

More than 75 members of the faculty and their families attended the faculty Christmas party, which was held at the Century Club last evening.

Santa Claus was present at the affair, and gifts were given to everyone. Games were played, and a midnight supper was served. The chairman of the party was Verrel Weber, of the physical education department.

President Cloud Travels South to Teachers' Meet

Attending a meeting of the board of directors of the California Teachers Association, Archibald J. Cloud, president of the Junior College, went to Los Angeles the last Friday evening, December 11, and returned Sunday, December 13.

Carl Stough Gives Talk on Advertising to Class

Acting as guest speaker at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Society of Hotel and Restaurant Men, Carl Stough, business department instructor, gave the members information on retail selling

DERBY NITE THEME FOR NEXT JIG

Combined Affair AWS, Social Committee to be Held Friday, Dec. 18

Amateur derby night will be the theme of the combined AWS and social Committee semi-formal dance to be held at the Western Women's Club next Friday evening, December 18, at 9 o'clock.

It will be patterned after the derby night often held at the Palace Hotel, the betting being done by colors and the racing consisting of hurdles and other races by both men and women. All members of the Associated students are invited.

THOMAS FURNISHES MUSIC

Nat Thomas and his orchestra are furnishing the music for the affair, according to Donna McPherson, head of the Social Committee. Free punch will be served and admission will be one student body card per couple, with no stags admitted.

"Attractive bids of college colors will be distributed and will be limited to one per couple," Miss McPherson said. Checking facilities will also be available.

MARKS DEVIATION

This dance, according to Helen Davis, AWS president, takes on added significance because it marks the first time that the women of the college have combined with the social committee for the purpose of presenting an activity in which both men and women students may take part.

On the whole, the AWS has continued its activities strictly to women's affairs, the outstanding exception was the recent fashion tea held in conjunction with the Household Arts Association.

COMMITTEES NAMED

The committees for the dance are as follows: Info, Don Tuttle and Margie Christophe, publicity, Joe Kissel and Caroline Orginni, and ways and means, Charles Brickley.

Patrons and patronesses are to be Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sandvig, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Ross, and Dean J. Conlan.

NOMINEES SELECTED FOR RIFLE GROUP'S VOTING, WED., THURS.

Heading the list of nominees for next semester's officers, John Stewart and Dick Pitman will contest for the Presidency of the college Rifle and Pistol Club at the elections to be held today and tomorrow from 4:30 to 6:00 P.M. at the Galileo rifle range.

Stewart is running for re-election, while Pitman, high scorer on the first rifle team, has not held club office. Other nominations made at the regular business meeting held last Thursday include Vice-President, George Dieser and Betty Hyde; Secretary, Barbara Lutee; Treasurer, Priscilla Smith and Fred Wright; Members Board of Control (two members), Don Smith, Fred Wright, Kermit Wright, and Ed Runkstrom.

Officers made routine reports, and Bill Hancock, Range Officer, outlined the next semester's activities. The following new members were officially inducted into the club: Marie Hooger, J. C. Russell, Marygail Konkel, Harold Luenberger, and John Duemler.

A Board of Control meeting will be held at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the rifle range, Stewart announced.

The following budget was adopted, requesting Associated Student funds with which to carry on next semester's work:

SECOND TEAM WINS OVER PACIFIC SQUAD

Squared by its perfect record in the Golden Gate Bridge League, the local rifle and pistol team representing the Rifle and Pistol Club, shot its way to another win last Thursday night in competition with the Pacific Rod and Gun Club. When the last man had fired, the college team had amassed a score of 765 as against 743 for the visiting marksmen.

Composed almost entirely of novices in the shooting game, the club marksmen have won all their matches so far by impressive margins. All members of the team are showing steady improvement and practice is raising scores in the standing position, the bugaboo of the tyro.

This match was also marked by the return to duty of Mack Garr, coach of the second team, who has been engaged in combat firing at Camp Ord Military Reservation (Gigling) for the past two weeks. During this period his coaching duties

FIRING THEIR WAY TO DISTINCTION

Closing a semester of successful competitive activity, the junior college Rifle and Pistol Club, one of the college's oldest and most active extra-curricular organizations, ceases practice firing this week, to resume it after the Christmas vacation.

CLASS MEMBERS GET PRACTICAL TRAINING

To gain practical experience in the field, several members of the hotel and restaurant division of the junior college have been given jobs for the Christmas vacation. They were placed by the hotel and restaurant men of San Francisco who are cooperating to give them this experience.

Lawrence Wong is working in a soda fountain on Jackson Street, Richard Kissel is employed by Sam's Confectionarts, Cynthia Richardson is assistant hostess at the Berkeley Women's City Club, and Calvin Overland is working for the Pig and Whistle.

Research Departments Hold Annual Meetings

Combined administration and research departments of the bay section of the California Teacher's Association held their annual meeting December 11 with a dinner at the Galileo cafeteria.

The guest speaker of the evening was Walter E. Worgan, assistant superintendent of public instruction of the state of California. He spoke on the subject of enlightenment in the secondary school curriculum in California.

Terminal Courses Are Discussed at Meeting

To discuss the question of terminal courses in academic fields in connection to other terminal courses, 35 members of the college faculty attended an informal meeting at Galileo December 9.

Plans are being made to hold another such meeting the early part of next semester to continue the discussion and to try to collect suggestions as a result of the teacher's thought on the problem since the first discussion

NOW IT IS YOURS

The Guardsman today offers readers a slight deviation from the ordinary line of junior college newspapers, with an exclusive rotogravure section, devoted entirely to this college.

As is inevitably the case, publishing this edition meant doing four times the usual amount of work required on average Guardsman, with no more time available.

Fortunately, the staff boasts men and women who think nothing of missing a few meals, of working late hours, and of subjecting everything else to the journalistic work at hand.

Foremost among these are Faculty Adviser Joan Nourse, whose optimism makes big jobs seem infinitesimal; Women's Editor Florence Murphy, supplier of sandwiches extraordinary; Copy Editor Pat Scott, whose artistic eye proved useful; Pat Madden, whose naivite lightens any work; Parnell Brown, who brews a wicked cup of coffee, and the entire remainder of the staff in general.

Outside of the college, appreciation for "high-balling" the job through the "graphic art end" of the publication goes to Eddie Strehl and Al Olivier of Strehl and Olivier Publishing Company, to Gene Hawk of Golden Gate Engraving Company, and to the three Griffin brothers, Bud, Earl, and Rufe, of Griffin Brothers, Typesetters.

If there is appreciation for the newspaper, let it be spread deservingly among those above mentioned. Let any complaints, any annoyance at possible errors, be brought to The Editor, or else forgotten. It amounts to the same thing.

LET SMELL (if any) BE SWEET

Political talk again permeates the collegiate atmosphere. Sweet memories of previous elections elicit interesting memories.

Whether the impressions are true or not, among students of this college is an idea that previous elections have not been so nice as they should have been. It was proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that this was once so. Of the other allegations, there is no proof, although some students swear to the veracity of their contentions.

Prominent among these contentions is that an officer or two who did not receive the majority of votes was elected, presumably "for the good of the college."

This may or may not be so. Either way, it would be well for students and others to bear in mind that it is a very touchy, thankless, and inadvisable thing to try to decide for others what might be best for them. If the rumor in point is true, a striking example of where the "choice for the good" proved to be glaringly wrong, to the resultant suffering of the student body at large, is at once obvious.

Students are in no mind to wait until the milk is spilled before they start crying. They are not in a mood to tolerate any spilling at all.

Let it not be inferred from this that anything not quite on the up and up is anticipated. The predominant honesty of mankind is still felt.

NEVERTHELESS . . . .

CHRISTMAS AGAIN

Christmas to most young people means a time when they are filled with hopes of getting something for almost nothing. The expectation of fine gifts will fairly saturate the air between now and December 25.

The opportunity and pleasure of giving also adds to the holiday spirit. Strictly analyzed, frequently fine gifts arise as much from selfish motives as from generous ones on the part of the donor.

A man will give a woman something he hopes she will appreciate not only because of his fondness for her, but also because he wants her to transfer some of that appreciation from the gift to the giver. Some contend, even, that all acts of seeming kindness and generosity rise out of selfish motives.

The human element being always present, it is useless to urge that the generous spirit of Christmas be extended throughout the year, throughout every year of time.

It might not be futile, however, to suggest that this spirit be extended to help everyone who would appreciate it at this season. A few ideas along this line might be to acquiesce when some pan-handler asks for a nickel (a man cannot eat very well on a nickel, so make it a dime or quarter), if feeling particularly prosperous, to buy for someone who is known to be in need of it a good meal; in other words, to spread generosity and good-will as far as humanly possible, even if it means personal inconvenience or discomfiture.

THE BULL SNORTS

MEDIUM MUDDLERS MEDDLERS

The desirability of the happy medium somehow creeps into nearly every conversation where people, their habits, and their ideas are discussed.

Despite this, the happy medium of any characteristic is rarely found. One man will be flighty to the extreme, another stolid to an objectionable point. One will take everything too seriously, another will be affected too little.

The problem of how seriously or how lightly to take a given situation represents the occasion when a happy medium is most desirable.

Rarest in Women

It is least frequently found in women as far as this characteristic is concerned. They too often take everything that is said and try to figure out just what was, or might have been, meant, when probably all that was meant was explicitly what was said.

We know of one woman in particular who causes herself no end of worry simply because she must bring this endeavor to read between the lines, behind the words, into every day business. It simply does not work. We say something to her, and she replies: "You shouldn't speak like that. You are much nicer if you don't," or, "Just what do you mean by that?" (with the emphasis on the 'that', or, "What's got into you today? You say everything so . . . ."

Repeated Again

As was strongly said in last week's column, in business, in work, the individual, the person, is a minor factor. The tone of his voice, whether he speaks sarcastically, softly, loudly, should never even be considered while the work is being carried on.

Consideration, however, must be made of the human factor. A little bit of psychology in the manner of speaking to business associates can produce more work. The happy medium, then, is desirable both in the speaker and the listener.

Responsibility Lacking

The characteristic of responsibility, also, seldom finds a happy medium. All too often the deficit is on the short side, instead of on the long. The extreme is preferable to the lack.

One sometimes finds difficulty in understanding how some of one's best friends, even, can be so lacking in a sense of responsibility, which includes keeping their word down to the small item of being at a certain place at a certain time.

This too frequently involves an attempt of the offender to decide the importance of the issue for the other party, which, in turn, is merely trying to do the other man's thinking for him.

Leave Thoughts Alone

It is sometimes flattering to have someone take an interest in one as indicated by an attempt to understand one. This must not be confused, however, with the undesirable trait of doing one's thinking, making one's decisions, for one.

We have a friend (not at college) who is most obnoxious this way, and everyone knows his counterpart. For instance, he asks us to go somewhere with him, and we reply that we are unable to do so. Then he must know why. We tell him. Immediately he has the problem all solved for us. We can phone this party and tell him that we cannot do this, another one to tell him that we cannot be somewhere, we can do this at such and such a time, and postpone this until another.

In other words, it's all very simple. The problem is all solved for us—except that we don't like the solution, won't follow it, and, be damned if we will give any reason or explanation for not following such a seemingly logical solution.

How To Get By

From the "Cheater's Bible", anonymously edited at Stanford, are these rules for gaining good grades with minimum effort:

1. Don't study the course, study the teacher.
2. The classic phrase, "I don't know", is taboo. One should always guess.
3. If the professor calls on the dumb-bells, look intelligent even if it's a strain, but never argue with him.
4. Always select aged instructors whose hearts would break if they flunked a student.
5. Avoid professors who say "It's probably true to some extent, but not to a certain degree.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

Given a chance to "dish it out" a few weeks ago, the men of the college will now be given an opportunity to show whether or not they can "take it" as well. All of which means that we have tallied the results of our little poll as to "what kind of men we like and why." Mid-terms, Thanksgiving holidays, Christmas shopping, and a slight dose of flu prevented our getting as large a representation as we had intended, but what results we were able to obtain are hereby recorded.

On the whole, the gals like 'em tall, although nearly a fourth of the total number contacted expressed a marked preference for the medium sized male. (While on this subject, it might be interesting to note that a contest, held by Stanford co-eds to determine the most popular man on the campus was won by Jimmy Coffis, swivel-hipped half-back, who is definitely diminutive as far as size goes.)

Brunettes Lead

Brunettes lead as to hair color. The blondes polled a third of the votes, and only one other shared our enthusiasm for red heads. Two liked the "homely but intelligent" type, and two liked them "brawny but brainless," although the majority prefers the happy medium between the two.

When it comes to characteristics most important to them, the women put personality first. Character comes second, with intelligence, sense of humor, good disposition and good looks following in that order. Each of these points comes first with someone, however, with the exception of good looks, which ranked near the bottom with nearly everyone.

Physique Noticed

About half of the girls notice a man's physique the first time they meet him. A quarter of the total noticed eyes first, and another quarter noticed the teeth. Hair and skin each polled several votes.

As to a man's most annoying traits, (here it comes, fellows)—"conceit" was far in the lead with "lack of consideration" and "talking too much," the closest competitors. "Affectation," "too much swearing," "tobacco and stale beer breath," "roving eyes and things" received several votes, as did a certain fault often noted in the soap ads.

Stubborness Lamented

Other outstanding complaints included "stubbornness," "poor English," "flightiness"(!), "noisiness," "sarcasm," "deceit," and "the big brother act."

Among the more original answers, we found "lack of poise," "lack of money" (original?), "selling raffle tickets" and "the habit of possessing a little black book with the ratings of all the girls they've taken out; which they promptly show to each new victim!"

So now you know!

Note: As this is the last issue before Christmas, we wish to take this opportunity to say—Happy Holidays!

PRESIDENT TALKS OF FUTURE EVENTS

By Bob Sisco

A big hand to Tyler McHugh and Joe Amori for the fine manner in which they handled the Men's Club Hi Jinks last Wednesday evening at the Trianon Ballroom. Everyone who attended had a great time.

Friday will be the last day to file petitions for next semester's Associated Student officers. No petitions will be accepted after Friday.

An awards rally will be held this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock in the Galileo auditorium. Awards will be presented to both the men and women students who have earned them during the fall semester. Let's have a big turnout for this assembly, as the block students deserve to get plenty of applause.

Have you bought your Sophomore Formal bid? There is only a limited number of bids being sold, so get yours now and be sure to be at the Fairmont Hotel on January 8.

Here's wishing you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

OUT OF THE FOG

By BOB MacARTHUR

Dear Bill:

As one columnist to another. I'd like to say that I certainly appreciate your polite way of telling me that you censored my last effort. My pride is saved anyway.

Open letters, like your face, are easily read, and are a blessing to the long-suffering public, who would otherwise have to grope blindly through a mass of hints and indirect statements. It's so much nicer to dump one's feelings uncermoniously on the literary table as an ungarnished dish, than to inject sly comments at random, like a cunning waiter putting ground glass in the hash.

I am certainly happy to see P. G.'s name back on the masthead. Hope he stays with us awhile.

I don't know whether you've noticed or not, but E. E., our worthy contemporary who scribbles for the Chronicle, has improved vastly in the last few months.

I met a man last week who claims the unique, if not brilliant, distinction of being the first man to cross the Bay Bridge, and then not bore his friends with an account of the trip.

The real object of this letter, Bill, is to thank you publicly for the help, and enjoyment, you've given me this term in allowing me to write for The Guardsman. Thanks a lot, Bill.

Psycopathically yours,
Mac.

P. S. Milly is okay.

For the benefit of those who read this column, and to satisfy a secret urge, we present our all-conference team.

Left end—Parnell Brown: Fine diver, selected for divers reasons.

Left tackle — Dean Edwin C. Browne: Will tackle anything.

Center—Paul Pitman: Likes to be the center of things anyway.

Right guard—Bill Rawson: This position should be called "wrong" tackle.

Right end — Florence Murphy: "We Women" must be represented

Quarterback — Bill Weinstock: All g.b.s. talk too much, perfect choice.

Right half—Preserver's letter to Ram's Horn: We thought it said wit on the end of the name of this position.

Left half — George Clarke: Selected for his stellar work in Eng. 16-A.

Fullback—Jimmy Fahn: Big, fast, aggressive, good line-plunger.

Water boy—Bob MacArthur: No one else would have selected us, so we must.

Christmas Production By Wayfarers

Worried by the problem of selecting an archdeacon to help him build a new expensive cathedral, one who would not only trust in divine providence but who could maintain a little tact when dealing with bankers, the bishop prayed for aid. Help reached him sooner than he had expected when Michael, an angel, presented himself and offered to fill the position. The way in which Michael successfully finances the cathedral, tries to bring an inward happiness and peace to the disillusioned bishop's wife, and finds himself in the mortal trouble of being in love constitute The Bishop's Wife, a play built around an engaging religious motif in keeping with Christmas.

The play is set in the present time and takes place in the study of a bishop of a large and powerful church. A subtle satire on religious dogma and phases of the church appears at various times throughout the piece but there is complete abstinance from cynicism.

The Wayfarers Civic Repertory, 1749 Clay Street, has come to be known as an amateur group of exceptional ability. Their productions have the unusual quality of excellence in all of their phases. The Bishop's Wife, by Robert Nathan adapted from the novel by Jack Thomas directed and actor in the group, for instance, was given good dramatization, casting, settings, lighting, direction, and acting. Credit should go to Paul Speegle who did the part of the angel without for one moment allowing the part to appear ludicrous. To do justice to all the fine acting would be to mention everyone else in the cast.

Although only one set was used, the bishop's study, lighting, skillfully done by Jerald Elwood, gave change of appearance and mood to every scene.

Twenty-five students of Ruth H. Jensen's Speech and Dramatic classes will attend an amateur production of The Bishop's Wife this week.

Feeling that here is a dramatic group worthy of studying, a rate was obtained to allow as many students as possible to attend, Miss Jensen said. The artistry and dramatic ability of this fine little theatre group is something worthy of the attention of anyone interested in the theatre, she claimed.

SPINNING AROUND THE GLOBE

By Lambert Meyer

In Italy many men still raise their hats to passing ambulances; in Scotland some Highland women still curtsy to the new moon; and in Japan numerous cities and towns still hold a Buddhist religious service for souls of the fishes which they have consumed during the year.

According to a study by the Daily Cardinal, University of Wisconsin newspaper, the average co-ed uses enough lipstick in one year to paint four good sized barns.

Part of the income of India's Aga Kahn, spiritual head of 1,000,000 Ismaelian Mohammedans, comes from the sale of his daily bath water, which is put up in bottles. Faithful Mohammedans believe that it has the power of healing, and they pay five dollars a bottle for it. And in these days when good gin sells for less than two bucks.

The age-old desire of the Chinese to avoid despondency, sadness and even solemnity is typified in their funerals. Such services are always accompanied by as much gaiety, noise and music as weddings. As a matter of fact, few Chinese can tell a funeral from a wedding procession until they are close enough to see whether it contains a casket or a wedding throne.

In response to the many questions for the address of the manuscript mill in last week's column, we feel that we should really give out the secret, but why make it public to our worthy professors. They might happen to make use of the firm themselves, and use it to our disadvantage. But if you all must know it's . . . oh, come around.

FULL OF SMILES

ASSISTANT REGISTRAR Mary Jane Learnard (left) and NYA Administrator Helene Turner seem to find something quite amusing. Miss Learnard helps students in program difficulties, Miss Turner those in financial straits.

HE SHAPES COLLEGE DESTINY

DYNAMITE DEAN

ASSISTANT DEAN of MEN Edwin C. Browne gives a story to Pat Scott of The Guardsman staff. Few in this world know better how to handle men and keep their respect and friendship than Browne.

LEADER

FLOSSITA BADGER teaches music classes and leads the A Capella Choir, which will present a Christmas candle-light program tomorrow. Her choirs have been highly complimented.

SOCIAL ADVISER

ALFRED AGOSTI teaches sciences and also acts as a faculty adviser to the social committee. Quiet and judicious, he is a friend to all.

PRESIDENT ARCHIBALD J. CLOUD takes a few minutes from his usual busy day to pose for the photographer (above), while below he talks over the abbreviated PeRAMbulator with his assistant, Paul M. Pitman. One would have to look long and far to find two finer men. Their time is always the students' time.

HAVE A BITE?

FRANCIS COLLIGAN, the smiling librarian, is offered a piece of candy by "Jimmy the Greek." Keeping hundreds of books straight under present conditions is quite a problem, and Colligan is the man who can, and does, solve it.

GIVING THE LOW-DOWN

JOSEPH A. AMORI, faculty adviser to the Men's Club, trainer, columnist, hygiene authority, and business instructor, seems to be holding his audience quite interested. He is probably telling of his summer's trip through Germany.

IN THE REALM OF MASCULINE SPORTS

BASKETBALL MEN LEAVE FOR SOUTH

Five Contests Scheduled With Southern Junior Colleges; L.A. Included

With some 12 varsity players in the van the Ram basketball team starts its week's barnstorming tour today. Coach Louis "Dutch" Conlan will send his men into five contests with various junior colleges in the southern sector, the main objective of the trip being a win over the strong Los Angeles Junior College quintet.

The selection of the players to make the trip has not been definitely decided upon as The Guardsman goes to press, but it was expected that Carlyle Cain, Paul Rippon, Bill Phelan, "Monk" Mordecai, Tom Manascalco, Doug Maas, and Ernie Loustalot, would be among the players to take the jaunt south.

SPEED IS FACTOR

The rather diminutive Ram hoop squad will tussle with the strongest teams in the Los Angeles area and are hoping that their fast-breaking offense will enable them to offset the height advantages of their taller opponents. Speed is the main factor in the San Francisco offense, and it will be this fast breaking type of play that will be demonstrated by the touring Conlanites.

Coach Conlan is hoping that the trip will allow him to polish up the Ram attack for the Conference race, which is scheduled to start in January, and to form a tentative first string with their alternates. The five games being played in so short a space of time will necessitate using all the men who make the trip, and should give Coach Conlan an opportunity to test his reserve power and to determine their actual ability under fire. The trip is also in the form of a reward to the basketball men for their highly successful conference debut last year, when, after losing their first two games, they went on to win the championship.

SCRIMMAGES HELD

Practice sessions thus far have consisted of hard drilling on floor work, passing, timing of shots, and defensive fundamentals, with several scrimmages held against local club and industrial league fives. Emphasis is being placed on the fast breaking type of attack in order to take advantage of the speedy work of forwards of the variety of Carlyle Cain, Paul Rippon and Ernie Loustalot. Bill Phelan, lanky center and former Poly star, holds down the pivot position in flashy fashion, and this newcomer should be a fixture in the lineup providing he doesn't hit a slump in the next few weeks. "Monk" Mordecai, six-foot four inches tall, is a mainstay from last year's outfit, and will also see much action in the tough week ahead. The veterans at the guard spot include Doug Maas and Tom Manascalco, a pair of very consistent performers upon whom much of the burden of success will rest.

FOES BOAST STRENGTH

It is reported that Los Angeles J. C. boasts a pair of dead-eye forwards who will have to be bottled up by the Conlan men if they expect to triumph. This duet has played sensationally in several early season engagements, and should cause the raiding Rams a few anxious moments in the inter-city tussle. The other opponents to be met on the invasion will be Pasadena, Glendale, La Verne, Bakersfield, San Luis Obispo J. C.'s, all of whom should provide interesting competition for the Raiders. This strenuous set of games precede the week's layoff given the casaba tossers during the holidays.

The travellers expect to be back home about December 23 so they can receive Christmas presents and (it is hoped) congratulations on their victories.

TOM WILSON

Coaching a soccer team to highest conference honors is the most recent achievement of this man.

LEE EISAN

He will soon start his diamond men in preparation for conference baseball competition.

RUSS SWEET

Head football coach, he brought the Ram gridders through a successful season, even though his men did not win the conference.

JACK GADDY

He coached the Flying Lambs, football team made up of reserves. The boys get him up early now for crew practice.

LOUIS CONLAN

Brought his basketball team through with conference honors last season. Out to repeat it this season. Takes his squad South today.

HERE'S HOW IT'S DONE

Here (left) are some of the conference winning Ram soccermen. Ability to leap high and wide, as shown here, may have been a contributing factor in victory.

MOST PRIZED OF TROPHIES

Pete Jambruno (right), captain during the successful Los Angeles football game, and Lee Eisan, assistant football coach, admire the Roos Trophy, won at that game.

Los Angeles Junior College won the silver football last year, but now that the Rams have it where it belongs, they intend to keep it there.

MEET THE LINEMEN (if you haven't yet)

Upper, Ends: Jerry Flam, Glen Allen, El Pearce, Walt Loving, Jack Warren, Joe Guedet.

Center, Tackles: Will Dolman, Vasco Vannelli, Dave Smith, Charles Brickley, Pete Jambruno, Sims Hamilton.

Bottom, Guards: Charley Blumenthal, Randy Osborne, George Anderson, Jack Telesmanic, George Pedrin, Charley Kremesac.

BEST GOLFER

We know that Russ Sweet, above, is one of the best coaches in junior college football circles, but we haven't yet seen proofs on his golfing scores. He claims to be pretty good, and here we see him just as he has sent the ball on an easy put to the hole.

RAMblings . . Hello, Santa Claus . . by Don Mix

Our barnstorming basketeers head south today in a crusade to demonstrate the quality of casaba tossing as done by local junior colleges to the dubious neighbors in and around Los Angeles. The gridmen dealt a severe blow to southern arrogance, but they passed it off with a "Well, we had a weak team—wait until next year" type of alibi.

The Angelenos will have no such excuse this time, because they admit having what is termed a "potentially strong team," and if we whip them, we can feel we trimmed a truly representative squad. Also the hoopsters engage in tussles with Pasadena J. C., Glendale J. C., Bakersfield J. C., La Verne J. C. and San Luis Obispo J. C., all potent factors in southern jaysee basketball, and, a string of victories would definitely be a big boom for local basketeering.

Some convincing wins in the balmy southern climate would give the Ram quintet a lot of confidence for the conference race next month, so let's keep our fingers crossed and wish the travellers success. (it is so hard to write about a losing team!) on their jaunt into the realm of sunshine and movie stars.

That pale green face you see on the business end of those ropish looking cigars is said to be the property of one William "Beef" Schoenfeld, who evidently believes that too serious training is liable to cause a nervous breakdown.

The new conference set-up among the junior college provides, at last, an even break for the small schools. It was unreasonable to expect schools the size of Santa Rosa, Menlo and Salinas to compete with any success against schools with a student body of three or four times as many students. The ruling is very sensible, and, since there are so many junior colleges in this section to draw from, we only wonder why such a provision was not made long ago.

Our All-Conference team did not jibe in many respects with that picked by one of the daily newspapers. One of the few points of agreement was that George Pedrin was one of the top guards of the year. We were rather surprised at their selection of Bob Lee for honorable mention at the end spot in view of the fact that Bob, who is doubtless a fine wingman, was only out for practice for about three weeks and never appeared in any of the games.

The intramural touchtackle league is a spot of fertile development of the old "pass and prayer" method of football. From the opening whistle until the closing shriek from the gym instructor, the game consists of one long aimless pass after another, with both teams leaping into the air in the forlorn hope of catching the elusive porkhide.

The league has failed to produce any great grid machines as yet but the Flying

CONFERENCE REORGANIZED AT MEETING

League Divided Into Two Groups, Coast, Valley, to Equal Competition

In a meeting held last Friday afternoon December 11, at the Whitcomb Hotel, the Northern California Junior College Conference made several drastic provisions for enlargement and reorganization, Paul C. Mohr, college registrar and athletic commissioner for the college, disclosed.

The new schools to be added to the conference are Placer, Stockton, Armstrong and Salinas.

More equal athletic competition was the reason for the new plans, it was announced. The provision calls for a division between the large and small schools in the football league.

The football conference for the large junior colleges will be made up of San Francisco, San Mateo, Modesto, Sacramento and Stockton, while the small school group will include Placer, Santa Rosa, Menlo, Marin, Armstrong and Salinas.

A championship play-off game is scheduled between the winners of the respective leagues.

A proposal to reorganize the basketball league was voted down.

No plans for reorganization of conference baseball were announced.

WAA ELECTIONS TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Votes may be cast today and tomorrow for the WAA executive and managerial elections at the third floor ticket office at Extension Building in the morning and in Gym B at Galileo in the afternoon. Candidates are as follows:

Executive Positions

President: Ruth Johnson, Parnel Brown. Vice-president: Dorothy Canavan, Hermine King. Secretary: Patricia Bernard, Dorothy Barber. Treasurer: Phoebe Wattwood, Anita McKay.

Managerial Positions

Fencing: Dorothy Fidiam, Alice Thompson. Golf: Helen Bendel, Gertrude Daniels. Recreational Games: Patty de Roulf, Jean Cassinelli. Tennis: Helen Davis, Olive Reed, Helen Bartels. Swimming: Janet Cope, Eleanor Roche. Riding: Elizabeth Williamson, Gloria Swicegood, Betty McKenzie. Baseball: Taneko Amemiya, Isabel Sherratt. Archery: Junerose Bellew, Edith Rand, Ina Beth Cain. Hockey: Barbara Latz, Margaret Wormell. Dancing: Nairin Borup, Josephine Tobin, Janet Chock.

Ramblers Defeat Lambs In Intramural Football

By virtue of a conversion, the Ramblers nosed out the Flying Lamb gridders by a score of 7 to 6 in an intramural league touchtackle game held last Friday afternoon. Eddie Frediani scored the Rambler tally after taking a long pass from Deming Smith, and then Jimmie Fahn added the all important extra point on an end run. Charley Swanson made the Lamb touchdown after a brilliant run from midfield. Referee Fred Crest's inability to see the Flying Lamb's conversion forced him to call the play over, and the second attempt was unsuccessful, thus giving the Ramblers a dubious victory.

George Pedrin Only S. F. Man to Rate Myth Team

George Pedrin, outstanding Ram guard, was the only S. F. J. C. gridder selected for first team honors at a meeting of coaches and sport writers last Wednesday evening, for the Northern California junior college all-star football team.

Placing four men apiece on the first all-star team, the champion Modestans shared honors with the San Mateo Bulldogs, runners-up for the conference title. The Marin Junior College team had two men to complete the eleven.

On the second squad the Rams placed three footballers, San Mateo two, Sacramento two, Santa Rosa two, Modesto one and Marin one.

The teams follow:

FIRST TEAM
Right End	Giese	San Mateo
Right Tackle	Arminini	San Mateo
Right Guard	PEDRIN	SAN FRANCISCO
Center	Bronzan	Modesto
Left Guard	Beatty	Modesto
Left Tackle	Irey	Modesto
Left End	Allen	Marin
Quarter	Ledeboer	San Mateo
Right Half	Mullin	Marin

Are you doing anything to avoid that cold which gripped you last year about this time and put you on sidelines for a while? If you're not, unless you're particularly interested in catching one, it would be a good idea to start toning your body up, building up your resistance—so to speak—to offset any chances of contracting one this year.

The common cold is universal in scope and affects more people than any other single malady known to mankind. Large companies, industrial firms and business houses have kept statistics upon the number of times the employees have been absent from their rooms to the reason for such absence, and the data compiled showed conclusively that in 75% of the cases the common cold ranked first as the main cause for the failure of the employee to stay at his or her job.

PROBABLE CAUSE

Even though the cold germ has not been completely scated as yet, most medical men agree that a cold is probably caused by a combination of factor more kinds of bacteria which enter the respiratin tract either through the nose or mouth, and there cause an inflamation of the membranes with the customary discharges

We are all very familiar with the general symptoms of the infection: a general feeling of lassitude, slight raise in body temperature, watery discharges both from the nasal passages and the mouth, sore throat, many times along with enlarged lymph glands in the neck.

HOME REMEDIES DANGEROUS

Even though we are all pretty well agreed upon the symptoms, we are not in total agreement upon the best possible methods to employ in relieving the condition. As is the case with most illnesses, forms of disease, people endeavor to work out their own individual remedy with disastrous results many times.

The writer will not attempt to list here every type of remedy, but will only present the best possible procedures as used by the medical profession and which have brought the best results.

Even though no set rules can be drawn for every individual case, there are certain basic principles which apply to practically all cases and which have a scientific approach.

It has been shown that an individual suffering from a cold exhibits a lowered resistance of the body, an acid condition of the body, a loss in weight many times, a general feeling of weakness and a susceptibility to changes in temperature.

PREVENTION BEST

Colds do not descend upon one over night. They are accumulative in action so to speak. But once they make their appearance they make themselves felt and must run their own course, many times, regardless of the treatment. The best possible treatment is to sit still one can in the way of preventing the cold—by personal hygiene measures.

There are certain prophylactic measures which can be followed by every individual if he cares to right off a cold. These measures are called predisposing factors and include: balanced diet, avoidance of extreme temperatures, fresh air and cold and avoidance of prolonged periods of worry, regular and adequate periods of rest, adequate elimination of the poisons from the body as well as the maintenance of the normal body to infecting microorganisms.

So the cold has set in, however these factors will not bring about a cure consequently, other procedures must be followed. Among the most effective ways with which to fight off the cold it is best to go to bed at the outset. Because an acid condition exists, fruit juices, such as orange, onion tomato and grapefruit may prove helpful. In addition, nasal irrigations and sprays together with mouth and throat washes and gargles will tend to alleviate the discomfort.

Hopefully yours.

Lee Eisan.

Brodie Gives Lecture To Class in Art Form

Members of the form and figure drawing art classes heard a lecture last Wednesday by Howard Brodie, nationally known artist, and of the San Francisco Chronicle staff. The talk, illustrated with drawings in water color, dry brush, and lithographic crayon, consisted of a narration of Brodie's experiences as a newspaper artist and of his interviews with famous people.

Art students were promised that Brodie would be back next semester with another lecture, illustrated with his own sketches.

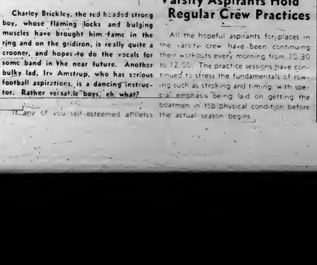
Tourney Week Program

BEGINNERS AND INTERMEDIATE SWIMMING MEET - Wednesday, Dec. 16, 12:30-1:30, Y.W.C.A.

ADVANCED SWIMMING MEET - Thursday, Dec. 17, 12:30-1:30, Y.W.C.A.

HORSE SHOW - Friday, Dec. 18, 3:00, St. Francis Riding Club.

SPORTS BANQUET - Friday, Dec. 18, 6:00, Galileo Faculty Cafeteria.



DANCE RECITAL - Friday, Dec. 18, 7:45, Galileo Gym.

INSTRUCTORS IN CO-ED ATHLETICS

The college's four hard-working women's athletic instructors are shown above, snapped during classes and in moments of relaxation. Left, above, Tennis Coach Bertha Keller apparently thinks her racquet's a ukejele. Right, Verret Weber demonstrates correct shooting technique to her archery class. Below, left, Luline Kuhn, sponsor; pauses between swimming and dancing sessions. Center, Vera Spencer, WAA faculty representative, poses with a favored equine. Right, Vera Spencer, WAA faculty advisor, and Luline Kuhn, sponsor; pauses between swimming and dancing sessions.

THEY WORKED HARD WITHOUT GLORY

Among those who devote the most time and energy to the Women's Athletic Association, and who get the least recognition for it, are team managers, according to those who should know.

The managers are, left to right: June Woo, Anita McKay, Phoebe Wattswood, Beth Hillyard, Dorothy Barber, Gloria Swicegood, Hermine King, Barbara Lutz, and Margaret Litchfield.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

Cast your vote now in the WAA election! A list of candidates for executive offices appears elsewhere in The Guardsman.

Don't forget the WAA banquet on Friday at 6 P.M., in the Galileo faculty cafeteria. Tickets priced 50 cents, are being sold by any council member or Miss Spencer, and are to be found in Gym B in the afternoon. Banquet guests will hear the results of the elections at this time, and will probably witness the presentation of awards.

S.F.J.C.'s Gamettes (cute?) came through last Thursday with a victory over San Francisco State in a hard-fought volleyball game held in the Galileo Gym. The score was 29 to 21 in favor of the junior college and both victory and losers enjoyed refreshments after the game. Teams: State—Babette Law, Evelyn Gunzer, Edna Burrows, Irene Buhrman, Mary Bradley, Virginia Kvaage, Edna Stangelmann, Helen Eastman. S.F.J.C.—Dorothy Robarts, Dorothy Jones, Betty Hilliard, Adele Sugarman, Helen Nast, Jean Comstock, Gladys Warwick, Ann Bakkman, Lillian Aboussleg, Margaret Chapman.

A silver cup will be awarded to the winning class in the advanced swimming meet being held in the Galileo pool this afternoon. Contests today from 12:30 to 1 P.M. Intramurals events at the same time.

UNUSUAL SHOT—FIGURATIVELY, LITERALLY

In addition to being an outstanding camera study, the above picture of Helen Davis is a perfect example and a good lesson in the mechanics of the handling of a bow and arrow. Miss Davis' record in archery is mainly credited to her perfect stance coupled with her exceptional shooting eye.

TERPISCHOREAN EXPONENTS

Helen Lyon and Josephine Tobin give a demonstration of the dance style taught by the modern dancing group under the direction of Luline Kuhn and Vera Spencer, gym instructors. Modern dancing is the exposition of mood with the aid of music.

A Terribly Merry Christmas

Dec. 16—Dear, dear, dear, I have so much to tell you that I can hardly find words to convey this glorious news. I am going home to Hickville for Christmas and both Templeton McQuiddle and Robert Saylor are coming too! I wonder that my girlish heart can stand it. Just picture our lovely home echoing the boyish laughter of these two manful heroes—ah, me, I know I shall. Mother will be delighted to meet and know them. I do hope that there will be no jealousy between Templeton and Robert.

Dec. 26—Ten days have passed during which you have had no word from me. I have been doing, dear diary, many things during which you and I have been strangers. All this is over, however, as raconteur and confidante of French

Templeton, Robert, and I arrived at Hickville December 20. We were met at the station by Father, who took Templeton's mediate liking to Templeton, but Robert! A worthless city slicker, I know, dear diary. Father is enraged at the goat-ranching business, and when we reached the house, we were greeted by Jezebel, father's pet and favorite, who lives on the back porch. Well, anyway, both Templeton and Robert got on very nicely, which made things more comfortable, as being because I had determined that my true love would be the one who was kinder to animals.

But later I was even more puzzled because both dear boys were perfectly sweet to our dogs, cats, and canaries. What to do? Had I chosen the wrong fellow? Only a one would tell.

Five lovely days passed, and then it was Christmas. I had knitted Templeton and Robert each a lovely pair of socks, Templeton's had red dots on a green background, and Robert's were a exquisite shade of sky-blue with stripes.

Christmas morning we rose very late, had breakfast, which was very light because of the early hour. Robert, however, evidently had a wolflike appetite, and wanted more to eat. But Mother objected to give him any, and said he could wait up for it at lunch. Then he asked him if there were any streams around where one could go fishing. Father said no.

I did not see Robert for a few minutes after that. Then, as I wanted to get my copy of "Little Women," I went out to the parlor. But in the doorway I stopped frozen with horror. Robert had entered, and after glancing nonchalantly around, approached the far corner of the room. What was he doing? I stood fascinated. Suddenly he went down to the gold fish bowl, and grabbed—our favorite fish, Samson.

"Stop!" I screamed. "You inhuman brute!"

"Were you meaning to eat Samson?" Robert blushed. "I'm awfully hungry," he evaded.

"Pack your things and leave," I coldly replied.

He did, and now I know that the awful, degraded brute, with his slick city ways was not meant for me. Templeton a poor lad but honest, shall be my choice. Besides, he doesn't like fish.

High Score Made, But Team Drops One Match

Highest score so far fired—nine hundred points out of a possible thousand—was not sufficient to win for the Junior college first team in its match with the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve December 7. Eleven points margin for the Marines was reached and they had the situation well in hand and put them into first place in the Bay Bridge League, dropping the local shooters to second place.

Although this was the first match lost by the college first team, Bill Hancock, team coach, said he was delighted and surprised at the fine scores shot by the members of his team.

HERE IS INFO ON PAPER TYPOGRAPHY

Cuts are 120-line screen zinc halftones, made by Golden Gate Photo Engraving Company from photographs taken by Virginia Bornmueller. All four pages of the rotogravure are solid cuts; the screen was left in as background on pages 2, 3 and 4 of the rotogravure, routed out to leave a white background on page 1 of the rotogravure.

Captions and legends for the rotogravure, for the most part, were made with the cuts from reproduction proofs pasted in the proper places on the picture dummies.

The body type used is a sans serif type known as metro medium, set eight point, with two point leading between lines. The editorials are set in 12-point, light and bold face, and the other columns of page 2 are set in 10-point for the most part. Headlines are in the modern gothic family, condensed, and captions are in bold face sabel cuts.

The Guardsman is completely machine set throughout, even including the largest streamers, set on the All Purpose Linotype machine, the only one west of St. Louis. Press work is handled by Strehl and Oliver Publishing Company.

Freshmen Win Archery Till With Sophomores

Freshman archers came out on top in the WAA archery tournament held last Saturday morning at Fort Mason range. Conducted on a two-class basis, the co-eds competing aimed at the target from a distance of 30 yards for freshmen and 40 for sophomores.

First-year contestants averaged 5 points per each eight second-year students 4.75. Winners, by classes, were Freshmen: 1—Wagner Leonard, 6 of 15 yards 2—Virginia Kwaatt, 5.5 Sophomores 1—Junerose Belive, 6 of 40 yards 2—Carmen Suarez, 5.2.

Later the archers shot at balloons fastened to targets each contestant being allowed 12 arrows for this event. Miss Belive and Miss Leonard each shot four arrows into the balloons, Edith Rand finishing with three hits. The sophomore class won this event.

Gloria Stockhausen tops the tennis ladder, and is champion of the college. Other stars are Dorothy Carlevan, Helen Bartels, Olive Reed, Taneko Amemiya, Anita McKay.

Lightweight Basketball Team Prepares to Work

Basketball practice has begun in earnest during the last few days, and with the first game of the season only a week away, Coach Tom Wilson is working his charges hard. Practice sessions are held every afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 in the Galileo gym.

Coach Wilson has a squad of 15 men, and is continuing to scale out this 15-man basketeers to prepare them for the first game coming up next week.

Several new men have signified their intentions of trying for positions on the team, but undoubtedly will see much action. Among these are Frank Silvestri, Dick Mason and Jerry Kennedy, Smith.

At present there are 25 men out to make the squad. Of these, all but 17 will be victims to the axe which will be wielded within a few weeks. Out of all the material presented, Dick Bennett, a standout among the newcomers, and Bob Nielsen, a veteran and studs as an all, will make a strong bid for the starting guard positions. Jerry Kennedy, elongated center, is practically assured of a regular berth on the first squad. Probable first string forwards are hard to determine at such men as Frank Silvestri, Joe Tudor, George Kinoshita, and many others who are fighting to hold down a regular berth.

The first practice game has been scheduled for Friday, December 18, with the Tip-Top Club, possessing an array of former high school stars, many of whom received "all-city" honors.

Coach Wilson has announced that he will give these hard working lads a verbal pat on the back.

Charley Brickley, the red headed strong boy, whose flaming locks and bulging muscles have brought him fame in the ring and on the gridiron, is really quite a crooner, and hopes to do the vocals for some band in the near future. Another hubby lad, Irv Armtrup, who has serious football aspirations, is a dancing instructor. Rather versatile boys, eh, what?

Varsity Aspirants Hold Regular Crew Practices

All the hopeful aspirants for places in the varsity crew have been continuing their workouts every morning from 10:30 to 12:30. The practice sessions have continued to stress the fundamentals of rowing such as stroking and timing, with special emphasis being laid on getting the boatmen in top physical condition before the actual season begins.

200 Couples Attend Hop Given by High Freshmen

An alternating attendance of 200 couples greeted the High Freshmen dance was held on the women's gym at Galileo last Friday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Music for the affair was furnished by records through a public address system which was lent to the college by Tom Benton, a student.

SCAFANI, OTHER MEN PREPARING TO LEAVE

Several men who made history for the Ram football team are scheduled to leave college at the end of this semester and to continue their athletic careers at various Pacific Coast institutions, Jack Telesmanic and Charley Brickley are planning on heading south to attend Santa Ana, while little Tony Scafani, recipient of the most valuable player award, will sign up at Occidental. George and Adolph Pedrin and Charley Kremesec hope to continue their gridiron activities at U. S. F. A trio of freshman stars, Glen Wunderling, Ray Englehofer and Preston Worsham, are rumored leaving to join Washington State.

Library Will Be Moved To Extension Building

Offering an added convenience to students, the entire college library, with the exception of science books, will be moved to the Extension building, ready for use at the beginning of the spring semester, Paul Pitman, in charge of morning classes, announced.

Reference books will be in the basement of the Extension building, while two week books will be on the mezzanine floor of the book store, Pitman said.

Generosity of the University of California Extension Division has made this desirable move possible, he revealed.

HIGH SOPHS STAGING FINAL SOCIAL FUNCTION TONIGHT WITH DANCE AT FAIRMONT

Few Bids Left as Last Minute Approaches; Ed Schwartz Cites Advantages of Attendance, Makes Arrangements For Tux-less Students

With music of the most fitting type promised, and in an atmosphere proper to the occasion, high sophomores will take their official social adieu of San Francisco Junior College tonight at the semi-annual formal dance to be held in the Terrace Room of the Hotel Fairmont, at the top of Nob Hill.

Joaquin Grill's orchestra, which spent a successful summer at the Tahoe Tavern, exclusive mountain hostelry, and which recently appeared in the Mural Room of the St. Francis otel here, will furnish the "soft music" for the occasion.

A few bids still remain, Eddie Schwartz, high sophomore president, has announced, and can be obtained at the Comptroller's office at Galileo this afternoon, at the price of $1.25 each.

Giving some last minute comment on the formal, Schwartz declared that arrangements have so shaped that the event cannot fail being the most delightful social function of the semester.

"I should like very much to see those last few bids sold, too," Schwartz said. "The financial end of the Soph Formal is not dependent upon selling them, but the degree of pleasure to be had by those attending, and, incidentally, the manner in which the dance will reflect upon the college, is dependent to a great extent upon the number of students who attend.

"I want to see a good number present. If any student feels that the extra expenses of the evening would make it financially difficult to purchase a bid, I might be able to help him if he comes around and sees me today."

For the benefit of those who have not yet secured a tuxedo for the evening, Schwartz has arranged with the Famous Tailors, 2516 Mission Street, to have them rented to college students for $2.50 for a complete outfit.

RIFLE TEAMS GARNER TWO CLOSE MATCHES

Weakened by the loss of Don Smith, who was unable to shoot, the college first team squeezed through with a seven-point margin to win from the Southern Pacific Rod & Gun Club, 880 to 873, in the last match of 1936—December 18. Scores shot by Bill Hancock, Dick Pitman, and George Dieser were all higher than those shot by the S. P. marksmen, and this enabled the local boys to chalk up another win in the Bay Bridge League round robin.

Shooting high match score of 164, her best to date, Betty Hyde, outstanding rifle club marksmowman, led the second team to a 782 to 632 victory over the Battery "A" coast artillery aggregation, in the Golden Gate Bridge League match held December 14, at the National Guard Armory.

Chemistry Club Sees Fuller Paint Factory

Twenty members of the San Francisco Junior College Chemistry Club went on a field trip to the Fuller Paint Factory on Monday, December 28, according to Eugene Brady, junior college student, in charge of arrangements for the trip.

Accompanying the group were Dr. Milton J. Polissar, Dr. John E. Booher, and Manfred Mueller, members of the college faculty.

Art Department Offers New Course Next Term

Chiefly designed for people who may later go into playground work, Art 70-a course in art craft activities, will be offered to junior college students next semester, according to Evans Ecke, of the art department.

Practical Business to be Taught in New Course

Teaching methods of selecting proper location for business enterprises, budgeting expenses, and methods of analyzing and interpreting data on hotel and restaurant operation, J. J. Schlaepfer, secretary of the San Francisco Restaurant Association and executive vice president of the Bureau of Hotel and Restaurant Purveyor for Trade Study, will add another step in terminal education at the college.

Schlaepfer's course will meet for the first time at 2:30 p.m., January 25.

Although the course comes under the hotel and restaurant division of the college, it is not limited to students in that division, John P. Gifford, coordinator, announced.

New Members Initiated Into Service Society

For the purpose of ushering new members into the organization, the Women's Service Society of the college, held its semi-annual Initiation last Wednesday, January 6.

New members include Pat Madden, Betty Phillips, Norma Parent, Pat Barnard and Florence Murphy. Other members of the society besides Miss Dominguez are Ruth Johnson, Helen Davis, Hermine King, Pannel Brown, Barbara Lutz, and Donna MacPherson.

RIFLE CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICIALS

Gym Credit For Shooting Practice Discussed at December 18 Meeting

John Stewart was re-elected president of the San Francisco Junior College Rifle and Pistol Club for the Spring semester at the semi-annual election held just before Christmas vacation. Chosen for the second time to lead this active extra-curricular organization, Stewart expressed gratification at the sign of confidence shown by the results.

"It is my hope that next Spring's activities will carry the Club to a new high in accomplishments," he said. "Few students realize that the Rifle Club is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, college club, and that it is steadily expanding its activities. With continued accessions to its membership and the fine cooperation of President Cloud, we hope to make this group the outstanding club in the school."

BETTY HYDE V. PRES.

Other officers elected at the same time include Betty Hyde as vice president, Marygail Konkel as secretary, Fred Wright as treasurer, and Don Smith and Ed Rundstrom as members of the Board of Control.

Re-appointed by William Hancock and Mack Garr as Range Officer and Assistant, respectively, were announced by the club sponsor. Hancock announced continuance of shooting activities during the next semester, with the first and second teams shooting the season in the Bay Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge Leagues, both of which are sub-divisions of the San Francisco Rifle Association.

In addition to the normal instructional and practice sessions of the club, held twice weekly, Hancock promised secretary in pistol shooting and .30 calibre rifle competition; if Associated Students funds are made available for ammunition, pistols, and entry fees.

POSSIBLE CREDIT DISCUSSED

The possibility of physical education credit for target practice was discussed, and it was disclosed that the budget request to the student council had envisaged that possibility—$100.00 of the total request having been added to pay partially the cost of ammunition for those students enrolled for credit. A membership goal of 100 was set for the next semester, just twice that of this semester.

William Rawson and Gordon Sollman, both junior college students, were elected to honorary membership in the club, the first time that this honor had been extended to members of the student body. Honorary election is by unanimous, secret ballot, and carries with it all club privileges.

A committee, headed by Stewart, was constituted to plan for the Club party, to be held in the latter part of January. Attendance will be restricted to members of the Rifle and Pistol Club.

McHUGH, NEAL LEAD LIST FOR FIRST POSITION WITH BETTY HYDE, HELEN DAVIS ON NEXT

Polls Opened From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Extension, 2 to 4:30 p.m. in 150, Galileo; Supervision of Adequate Nature Assured Through Pres. Sisco

With a dearth of candidates for all offices, Associated Student elections will be held today from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at the Extension building, mezzanine floor, and from 2:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in room 150 at Galileo.

Tyler McHugh, past president of the Associated Men Students, will face James Neal, one-time vice president and twice a class president, for the job of wielding the presidential gavel next semester.

Recording secretary during the Spring semester of 1936, and at present an active sophomoreman on the college rifle team, Betty Hyde will oppose Helen Davis for the vice presidency. Miss Davis headed the Women's Service Society last year, and during the past semester has been president of the Associated Women Students.

Shirley Clayton, a freshman co-ed from Polytechnic High School, and Hermine King, past vice president of the Women's Service Society and of the AWS, and vice president elect of the Women's Athletic Association, will appear on the ballots for the office of corresponding secretary.

Unopposed for the office of recording secretary will be Marie McKnight, twice a class representative to the Executive Council, and this semester's corresponding secretary.

Deming Smith, for two semesters an assistant yell leader, is unopposed for the position of chief noise maker.

Presentation of Associated Students cards will be necessary in order to vote.

Assuring close supervision of all balloting, Edwin C. Browne, assistant dean of men, has sent the following official notification to Student President Bob Sisco:

January 4, 1937

Mr. Robert Sisco, President,
Associated Students of
San Francisco Junior College,
San Francisco, California.

Dear Bob:

Will you please adhere to the following procedure in supervising the conduct of the student body elections to be held Friday, January 8: You shall take place Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. off the mezzanine floor, and from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m. in room 150 at the Galileo High School.

Will you please see that there is provided a ballot box provided? Will you please arrange so that at least one faculty member be present with the ballot box at all times. Will you please arrange for registration of the ballot box from Powell Street to Galileo High School.

It is most emphatic that all ballots be opened in front of the tally committee and all ballots be retained for at least two weeks after the announcement of the outcome of the election.

Student body cards must be presented as evidence of qualifications and you are requested to provide a punch so as to mark each card upon delivery of ballots.

Thank you for attention to this matter.

Very truly yours,
E. C. Browne,
Assistant Dean of Men.

MEN'S CLUB TO VOTE

Next semester's officers for the Associated Men Students will be elected at a meeting of the group to be held this afternoon at 2:10 o'clock in the Galileo cafeteria, Tyler McHugh, president, and candidate for the presidency of the Associated Student Body, has announced.

MANAGER SOUGHT

Coach Tom Wilson has announced that he needs a manager for his 145-pound basketball team. Anyone interested in the position should see Wilson in the office of the Galileo Gym after 2:30 p.m., he said.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Ardell White

Results of the recent WAA elections were disclosed at the sports banquet held Friday, December 18, and are as follows:

President, Ruth Johnson; vice-president, Hermine King; secretary, Dorothy Barber; treasurer, Phoebe Wattwood. Team managers: archery, Junerose Belitew; hockey, Barbara Latz; baseball, Isabel Sherratt; golf, Gertrude Daniels; basketball, Pannel Brown; tennis, Helen Davis; fencing, Dorothy Fidiam; recreational games, Jean Cassinelli; swimming, Eleanor Rocha; riding, Gloria Swicegood; dancing, Narin Bonup.

Guests at the banquet also witnessed the presentation of blocks to three of the college's most outstanding women athletes, Taneko Amemiya, Helen Davis, and Ruth Johnson. The blocks were awarded on the merit basis, candidates having fulfilled the stipulated requirements.

Recently we reported that the freshman class won the archery tournament held during Tourney Week. We humbly apologize for the error, and stand corrected. The sophomores won the contest with an average score of 5, the freshmen trailing with 4.9 points.

* * *

Notice! All women students who have taken golf, either here or at another college, or at high school, are invited to join a special class next semester. The class will be held one morning a week under the tutelage of Laurine Kuhn, women's golf instructor, and the students will play at one of the courses in the city. Only seven golfers will be accepted, so sign up early with Miss Kuhn.

AWS Elections Are Deferred To Next Semester Balloting

Associated Women Students' elections, originally scheduled for today, have been postponed until the early part of next semester, according to Helen Davis, AWS president.

Miss Davis stressed the fact that the many activities on the calender for this week, and for Friday in particular, made it difficult for the women candidates to get in their petitions and left no time at all for holding the actual voting.

Miss Davis also announced that the Freshman Reception, which is usually sponsored by the AWS, will be omitted during the Spring semester.

"Mr. Mohr has every moment of Orientation Week planned," she said. "And there is absolutely no time left for a social reception. We plan, however, to present some sort of play or other entertainment on the first Friday of the coming semester, and the new students will be invited to attend."

HOOPMEN TO MEET SOUTH TONITE AT 8

Pasadena J. C., Already Once Victim, Given a Come-back Chance

Making their first appearance in a home game, Coach "Dutch" Conlan's title-bound Rams will meet a powerful Pasadena J. C. hoop aggregation in a game scheduled for tonight in the Galileo Gym at 8 o'clock. The barnstorming southerners provided the unbeaten Conlanmen with their toughest contest to date when they dropped a 39 to 31 tussle to the visiting Rams at Pasadena two weeks ago. The squad from the Southland, on a barnstorming tour of the Bay region, are expected to be in a mean mood in order to avenge their defeat.

The Pasadena quintet boasts a pair of sharp shooting forwards who caused the Conlan machine many anxious moments in their last meeting, and who will have to be-bottled up if the locals expect to repeat their win.

Coach Conlan has announced a tentative starting lineup consisting of Paul Rippon, Bill Kotta, Bill Phelan, Carlyle Caine and Doug Maas.

The game will start at eight o'clock, and admission will be free with student body cards.

Basketball Team Takes 6 Straight

Opening the season in an impressive fashion, Coach Louis "Dutch" Conlan's prospectively potent basketeers garnered six straight victories in a seven day barnstorming tour of Southern California. The Conlan men took on the best quintets in the southland, leaving here on Wednesday, December 16, and returning on December 23.

The hoopsters started their string of wins by soundly trouncing the California Poly five in a contest held at San Luis Obispo. The fast breaking attack of the Ram's completely bewildered the Poly team defense and allowed the visitors to chalk up a 39 to 25 win with Ernie Loustalot, diminutive forward, and Monty Mordecai, elongated guard, sparking the locals to victory.

The main objective of the trip was accomplished on the following night when the San Franciscans eked out a 31 to 26 triumph over Los Angeles J. C. The Angeleno Cubs held the lead up until the final three minutes of play when Conlan's scoring spree netted three field goals and gave the Fog Belt hoopsters the edge.

In a drill packed tussle, that saw the lead changing every few minutes, the Raiding Raiders managed to nose out the smooth passing Pasadena J. C. by a 39 to 31 margin in a contest that extended the seemingly invincible Conlan machine to the utmost, and forced them to play their best game of the season.

Coach "Fox" Stanton's highly touted La Verne Wildcats were added to the list of victims on Monday night, December 21, when they fell under the wizardry of the Northerners' passing and faultless ball handling to the tune of 39 to 27.

A deluge of baskets in the opening period swamped a somewhat ineffective Glendale J. C. quintet and the Rams were able to breeze to a 20 point triumph, emerging on the long end of a 49 to 29 score. Tom Manasclco and Paul Rippon were the standouts in this tussle, "hitting the hoop" from all possible angles in this free scoring contest.

The final game of the trip for the barnstorming basketeers was with the Bakersfield J. C. Drillers, and saw the valley five completely routed by the Ruthless Rams who managed to ring up some 57 points to the 28 tallied by the home team. Coach Conlan attempted to keep the score down to reasonable proportions by frequent substitutions, but the reserve talent proved as potent as the regulars and completely

TO THE ALOOF:

You are a peculiar class of people, you who always pretend to be above the ordinary men. You are not found in colleges alone; some of the most contemptible people in the world belong to your rank and file.

You object to public exposure. Sufficient grounds, however, are offered to warrant such denouncement of your class.

Today, good little John College Citizen will cast his vote for Associated Student Body officers. Johnny is a nice fellow, even though he hasn't the assumed appearance or mannerisms of the cynics you Aloofers would have the world believe you are, and he can't see anything wrong with following the lines of organization, with doing his commonly accepted duty.

You aloofers, apparently some 800 or so in numbers, will not deign to favor any candidates with a vote. Too indifferent to college organization planned for the benefit of all to engage in this bit of cooperation, you could never be expected to recruit an actual candidate from your ranks.

Eight hundred Aloofers? Probably more. Could it be that there is a miscount? When the ballots are finally counted tonight, the exact number will be known.

When that number is known, incidentally, the exact number of contemptible, lazy students will also be known.

(As a matter of notation, it might truthfully be added that Indifferenters are only one step removed from Aloofers.)

SAME THING SAID DIFFERENTLY

Too much would it be ever to suspect The Editor to lapse into the throes of sentiment. Yet, with his last parting shot at the editorial mill, full of the realization that he has written enough copy for The Guardsman in the past two semesters more than to fill several volumes the size of the ponderous Anthony Adverse, he would be indulging in sheer mockery were he to deny, or to refuse to admit, that leaving San Francisco Junior College is a matter to be taken lightly as an ordinary occurrence.

Through recording and seeing recorded the events that have transpired since the founding of this institution, not to mention commenting upon many of them, The Editor feels that he is qualified to say that this college can offer, and has offered, students the closest approach to that desired happy medium between theoretical and practical education, between "book learning" and common sense, yet encountered in junior colleges in this state, and probably in this nation.

True it is that some have fallen by the wayside, unable to grasp the entire scope of educational possibilities and potentialities available at the "Argonaut" institution. Those who have been able so to do, however, will go through life far the better for it.

It would not be boasting, perhaps, to mention—

for this college newspaper, in keeping with the institution of which it is the official organ, has also played a part that would be unique and outstanding in the annals of any educational body.

In playing its part, The Guardsman has allowed those who are instrumental in its fair degree of success to remain in a degree of anonymity. Taking brief notes at a panel discussion held a while back, The Editor was asked by another student if he were a reporter for The Guardsman. Other staff members are equally little known by sight. That fact, in itself, is a tribute to The Guardsman, for any newspaper that can boast the popularity this college publication undeniably has, and at the same time be written by comparatively "unknowns," has accomplished a feat that would be flattering to the best metropolitan daily.

The entire Guardsman staff and faculty advisers, not to mention a liberal, understanding college administration and a level-headed Associated Students president, is to be thanked for the success not only of The Guardsman during the past two semesters, but also to a degree for the great achievements of San Francisco Junior College during the past three.

SPEAKING FOR ALL?

It is not unreasonable to imagine that these brief notations of The Editor—that is, those pertaining to the college and its achievements and virtues—reflect the sentiments of all the graduates. That graduate who can truthfully say that San Francisco Junior College has meant to him no more than any other junior college would have, has certainly missed out on the major benefits so inherently potential in this college.

THE BULL SNORTS

AND NOW YOU HAVE LOWDOWN

Struggle on, O Pen, the bottle is not yet empty, and the page is not yet filled (practically and truthfully, even though not poetically, it is a typewriter, not a pen).

Our editorials were written first, and to them we refer the reader before he struggles through these dodderings.

Sentiment, indeed we must not overlook it. To our staff, we say goodbye and good luck. Although we have cussed and driven each and every one of you, we still appreciate you. We can never forget any single one of you, and, despite the apparently hard crust we present to the casual world, for each of you we have a liking, the degree of this affection depending upon the individual—and, in truth, upon the amount of work that individual has done. We cannot get away from the fact that in newspaper work, accomplishments mean infinitely more than hard and partially, if not entirely, fruitless endeavors.

It Occurred to Pilate to Ask, What is the Truth?

Hypocritical it is, in a way, for us to go on in this vein. Shamelessly, we admit that we have written endless reams of plain "bull," sometimes leaving a vast chasm between our true thoughts and what we have said. In that, we indicate the attributes desirable for any politician or editorial employe of a Hearst publication (which, God willing, we'll never be but, which, the salary offered, we should be only too glad to be).

Another way of looking at the matter, however, is possible, and such a light entails the greatest benefit we have derived from attendance at San Francisco Junior College.

The Direct Approach Is Not Always Most Effective

In brief, we have learned the value if not the ability to use, fact and diplomacy. The type of tact and diplomacy we have learned here is not that which is taught in the classrooms of in the books. It is, nevertheless, that upon which to a great extent modern business is based, and the success of it depends.

We once cherished the idea that if we wanted something, we should go directly to the source from which it might be possible; that if something were apparently not quite on the up and up, we should say so in candid frankness.

The Principle Sacrificed For Actual Accomplishments

If we have learned no more in our three semesters at this college than that adherence to these principles should not necessarily always be observed strictly, our time has been well spent. Any successful man, if he will but speak the genuine truth, will echo these thoughts.

The reader might instantly jump to the conclusion that this might infer a belief that any means justifies an honest end—and, by gosh, that's precisely what we do mean. (Exceptions, of course, are always present.)

Who Will Next Shape The Guardsman Destinies?

Oft of recent days have we been asked who will be next semester's Guardsman Editor. The answer is not forthcoming, for final decision has not yet been reached.

There can be no doubt that students each Wednesday will see a newspaper different than those that have confronted them in the past. For various reasons known to those who realize the truth of the means justifying the ends adage, the last two semesters have seen The Guardsman run under a dictatorial regime. With the major reason for this heretofore desirable set-up gone, another system will probably be found necessary.

When good dictators are no longer available, democracy with its honest endeavors and half-wrong and half-right results must take over the reins.

Ah, my Foggy Friend Mac, blame all this above on the same situation that made, and always would make, our mutual enterprises financially unstable and unpermanent.

—Bill Rawson.

FORUM CLUB MEETS

Bringing to a close its first term of activity, the Forum Club, under the faculty advisorship of Dr. Dorothy Mercer and William Goss, held a meeting on December 15 at the residence of Madelon Brodie. The subject under discussion was the maritime strike situation, with the arguments of the, ship-owners and the unions being presented by Kenneth MacKenzie and Fred Vast, respectively. Additional first-hand information was supplied by Paul Benson.

Those attending were as follows: Dr. Dorothy Mercer, William Goss, Gertrude Bolton, Dr. Henry J. Ralston, John Gerstung, Dorothy Bridgwood, Jane Kiddle, Betty Brown, Helen Bendel, Emmette Malone, Dorothy Holcomb, William Sharp, Donald Flash, Paul Benson, Arthur Becker, Elisa Maini, Alice Thebert, Jerry Heilbraun, Betty Deming, Nairn Borup, John Healy, Roger Ransk, Kenneth MacKenzie, Fred Vast, and Malcolm Longaker.

LIVE RIGHT

By Joseph A. Amori

With the three hour final examinations scheduled for the coming two weeks, numerous requests have come in to this department relative to the efficiency of burning the midnight oil prior to the next morning's final. Such questions as: Is it possible for a student to gain during a ten hour period, say from 9:00 P.M. until 7:00 A.M., enough knowledge of the subject to pass successfully the final test? Or, is a student able, physically, to undergo such a strenuous routine without appearing at the examination in a state of complete exhaustion, and consequently lack the necessary energy to pull him through? And again, wouldn't the student be better off if he went to bed at the customary time, and appeared at the final test fresh, both physically and mentally?

Students Not Ideal

Both from the standpoint of personal experiences, the experiences of others and from the numerous studies which have been carried on in the field, it appears that the evidence leans on the side of the student who, having done his work throughout the entire semester, forgets all about the midnight oil; goes to bed at a reasonable hour, eats His usual morning meal, and without any pre-examination emotional disturbances, enters the testing room, sits down calmly and does the prescribed work. Of course this is the ideal situation, but most students are not ideal. Being human, they become slack in their daily work, forget all about daily assignments, and just like the athlete who began training for the event the night before the competition, they are caught between the devil and the deep blue sea.

With their nervous systems upset, by extreme mental anxiety and worry and fear of being failures in the respective subjects, these students rush away to the library, cart home an armful of books, the first books which they have touched since the last finals, forget all about the customary evening meal, and plunge right into the gigantic task of doing a whole semester's work in a few short hours.

Yesterday afternoon you had the chance to see and hear your candidates. If I may say so, look over the candidates, weigh their possibilities, and select the one that you think would be the best one for the job. May the best man win.

HOPES STUDENTS HAVE HAD MONEY'S WORTH

In writing a final column of the semester, there isn't much one can write that can express the thoughts intended. However, here goes. At the beginning of this semester, we started out with the hope of giving the students their money's worth —56 to be exact. I believe that this end has been accomplished. Of course this couldn't have been possible without the help of Donna McPherson, our vice-president, Helen Davis, our AWS president, and Tyler McHugh, our AMS president. To the aforementioned people, I would like to express my heartiest appreciation for the work that they have done. "Nuff said.

Now for the dope on Friday's election. Students may vote at Powell Street from 9:00 to 1:00 and from 2:00 to 4:30 at Galileo in room 150. However, here is a catch—only those students who can present an Associated Students card shall be allowed to vote. These arrangements are necessary in order to be sure that the "smells—if any—shall be sweet", and through the work of Eugene Blumenthal these rules have been set up.

Yesterday afternoon you had the chance to see and hear your candidates. If I may say so, look over the candidates, weigh their possibilities, and select the one that you think would be the best one for the job. May the best man win.

WE WOMEN

By One of Them

Here we are at work again,
Or, anyway, we're here.
We've had a Merry Christmas
And a very glad New Year.
We've had a lot of presents,
And we've had a merry time.
But now it's time to settle down
And "rustle off the dime."
'Twill soon be time for finals,
'Tis sad, alas, but true.
And may nineteen thirty seven,
Bring lots of luck to you.

Those queerly dressed little numbers seen roaming around our halls last Wednesday were not something left over from New Year's Eve, but newly selected members of the Women's Service Society, going through that ducky little ceremony, known as initiation. Dressing up wasn't the half of their sufferings, however, for the big sisters of the outfit were not in the least bashful about thinking up ways of making the kiddies miserable. A banquet at the Women's City Club Wednesday evening climaxed the doings.

This issue marks the end of the reign of "The Bull," who, diploma in hand, is off to find new worlds to conquer. It is with no little regret that we take this opportunity to bid him farewell. A real honest-to-Pete newspaper man and a grand guy, Bill, through his willing assistance and amazing store of patience, has kept us from deserting the field of Journalism for something where knowing how to spell is not necessary and a split infinitive is something you read about in an English book. With a "those-who-are-about-to-die-salute-you" feeling at the thought of the Guardsman without Rawson, we say, using that old trite but true, "Goodbye, good luck, and God bless you!"

as well as a discussion group, selected six of its members as a committee to investigate the possibilities of publishing a small paper or magazine that would contain literary contributions from the college.

The next meeting was set for Monday evening, January 25, at the home of Dr. Mercer, 1856 Franklin Street, at the corner of Clay Street, at which time the Spanish situation will be presented by Betsy Brown and John.

CURTAIN

The Devil Passes

Benn W. Levy's play, The Devil Passes, which enjoyed success in London and New York, is now being given at the Columbia by the Federal Theatre Project in one of the finest productions the group has yet made. This sophisticated comedy attains its merit by its all-round excellence. Every facet that went into its make-up was of unusually high standard.

The scene is set in London where we look in on a group of sophisticated people who readily admit that they are interested only in satisfying their own wants and ambitions. A rather sinister looking clergyman, Reverend Lucy, suggests that they play the game of "Truths". Each is asked what he, or she, really wants in this world. The developments that ensue when they find their ambitions within reach brings the play to an amusing climax.

The play was exceptionally well cast. Attractive Nancy Coleman suited her part well and is to be commended highly for her performance. Richard Allen's personality always makes him a success with Columbia audiences. There was good support from the rest of the cast.

The settings were quite good. The prologue set was unique in that only two walls were used. The second set was rather lumpy-ous, almost overflowing in fact. The sets and lighting were done by Scott McLean.

A few criticisms arise, however. The lighting in the prologue might have illuminated the players' faces more. Rev. Lucy, who is really the Devil, has a make-up that is exceedingly like Mephistopheles in appearance. Since he is trying to be one of the group for a time, this reviewer deems such an exaggerated make-up unnecessary.

As mentioned before, the play has something to say. This fact alone usually makes a play worth while. It brings in a religious theme whose keynote may be found in the words, "The Devil is only God's press-agent."

The best gag in this comedy was an artist's reply to the question, why he had painted a knock-kneed woman. "That's the way she was born," he replied. "What God hath joined together' is not for me to put asunder."

CLOUD WRITES PREFACE

Containing a preface written by President Archibald Cloud of the San Francisco Junior College, From Constantine to Hitler, written by Michael Zarchin, economics instructor at the college, has recently appeared on the market.

In his introduction, President Cloud stressed the value of this book to all seekers of the truth.

"The intimate view the author gives of conditions during many centuries is convincing evidence of the justice of cause of the Jews in Germany. I am commending this work as a notable contribution which should be of wide interest and lasting value to all seekers of the truth," Cloud wrote.

From Constantine to Hitler is termed by the author as an historical perspective of the civil and economic rights of the Jews in Germany and retails at $1.75. Zarchin, however, announced that junior college students may obtain it at a special student price of $1.25.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

The Guardsman

SAN FRANCISCO JUNIOR COLLEGE

Vol. 4 WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1937 No. 1

RALLY TODAY AT 3 P. M. WILL START THINGS BANGING

CORDIAL HELLOS OFFERED BY ALL TO NEW COMERS

HOUR RALLY PLANNED FOR AFTERNOON

LIBRARY IS NOW ESTABLISHED AT EXTENSION BLDG.

Changes in Regulations, Colligan Announces; Circulation to Improve

With the library now established in the lobby of the auditorium on the lower floor of the Extension building and also on the mezzanine floor of the bookstore at 518 Powell Street, Francis J. Colligan, librarian, has announced rules and regulations that will apply at the new locations.

The removal from the Galileo building of all books not assigned to departmental libraries is designed to make the facilities of the library available and convenient for the greater number of students. In stressing this fact, Colligan called attention to the large number of periodicals now subscribed to (more than 80) and hoped the new arrangement would greatly increase the circulation of magazine material.

Speaking of the change, Colligan said: "The establishment of the library downtown has been inspired by the administration's belief that the change will result in a more nearly and convenient opportunity for students to use our rapidly growing book collection. It has been accomplished through the kind cooperation of University authorities and Paul Pitman, who directed the necessary building attention. We know that students will welcome this change and the opportunity it offers for a better acquaintance with our books."

Charging clerks will be on duty at both places every school day from 8:30 a. m. to 2 p. m., and will accept books for students who present registration cards and call slips properly filled out with author's name, title of book, call number (appearing on catalog card) and student's name and address.

Books dealing with numbers corresponding to 000-599 will be circulated by clerks at a desk in the lobby of the auditorium in the Extension building, and books with numbers beginning with 600-999 and magazines will be available in the bookstore. Reserved and reference books may be secured by addressing the clerks of the reserved room in the Extension building. The card catalog for the reserved book collection is located near the reserved room.

The accessioning, cataloging and processing of books will continue at Galileo High School under the supervision of Yvonne Stoupe and Joan Nourse of the faculty.

This arrangement covers the entire library collection, except books which have been assigned to the departmental libraries of Engineering and Institutional Management.

At the request of individual departments, additional departmental libraries may be created. Their establishment will be announced by the instructors concerned and in The Guardsman.

EDWIN C. BROWNE OFFERS TO ALL FRIENDSHIP AND OFFICE SERVICES

It has been quite some years since many of our faculty members entered college with fear and trembling. The customary maze of detail required to register—the difficulties of getting subjects desired—the conflict of schedules—the necessity of building up friendships and securing former associations are all a part of college experience. Your faculty members have been through these experiences and can appreciate many of your problems.

The office of the Dean of Men is anxious to help you help yourself, and if we do not get acquainted, it is my assumption that all is well with you.

"HOW DO YOU DO, EVERYBODY! HOW DO YOU DO!"

It isn't just a gesture. It's the way we really feel. We are glad you are here. We hope you will like us well enough to want to stay two years. In spite of all difficulties, there is much for you to learn and to enjoy. Just don't give up too soon if we haven't what you want. We are here to serve you. We will try and try again until we have found some solution for the things you want to do.

So, How do you do, Everybody! How do you do!

EUGENIE A. LEONARD,
Vice-President and Dean of Women.

May I urge your participation in group activities to the end that your own personality be further developed because of your contact with others? A goodly number of substantial friends is invaluable. Your opportunities for service to your community are greatly enhanced by reason of your many acquaintances and experiences through group activities.

Whatever facilities are available in the office of the Dean of Men are at your service. Please use them whenever you desire.

E. C. Browne,
Assistant Dean of Men,
January 28, 1937.

LET'S GO!

PRESIDENT CLOUD TELLS OF RACE IN COLLEGE LIFE; FACULTY HELP OFFERED

"On the mark—set—go!"—is the order that will resound again this season at the track meets. (I don't know just how it was put into various languages at the Olympics last summer.) When that order is given, or the pistol shot rings out, the runner must go if he is not to be left behind.

It is like that in the race of life, too. At the San Francisco Junior College we "go", as the fourth semester begins, offering conditions under which students may individually and collectively fit themselves to run a good race. The conditions are present at the College in the form of a strong and human faculty. While the physical facilities at the moment may not be the best in the world, they are being made more adequate day by day. The promise is held forth that in the next year or two the accommodations and equipment of the College will be equalled by few, if any, institutions of similar rank. This hopeful situation is created through operation of that steady and uniform policy of generous goodwill which has been shown toward the new institution from its inception by the Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Education, representing the people of San Francisco.

Again—the athlete had been measured and weighed before the race was run. He had been timed in try-outs. He had been put through a long course of preliminary training that he might face with determination and courage the battery of difficulties and discouragements which sharp competition produces. These experiences should have allowed him, as well, to form a fair estimate of his own powers.

In similar fashion, students enrolling at the College have been subjected to a battery of tests and examinations. The information gained through these processes is valuable. Its largest value is to the student himself.

Why?

A chapter could be written on that point, but ye Editor reminds me that "Brevity is the soul of wit." So—in a few words, the answer may be given in this way: The student of college age should use every means at his disposal to discover his own capacities, aptitudes, and talents, his own interests and ambitions. Self-measurement, when honestly undertaken, will go far toward enabling the individual to bring his own qualities of mind and heart to full fruition.

The College has been organized on the theory that it can be of service to students in the realization of their life purposes. The faculty stands ready and willing, students, to offer aid and encouragement as you go into further training for the race of life.

A. J. Cloud, President,
San Francisco Junior College,
January 28, 1937.

DAVID YORK NAMED BETA PHI PRESIDENT AT REGENT ELECTION

With some 20 members present, Beta Phi fraternity held its semi-annual election of officers at a meeting at the fraternity house on Monday, January 9. David York, prominent in fraternity activities for the last two semesters, was elected to the presidency, while Alfred Coffman was chosen vice-president. Don Mix was selected for the post of secretary, and James Neal, newly elected student body head, was named treasurer. The election was followed by a discussion of plans for the initiation of pledges and for the fraternity dance which will be held sometime in April.

Because of the departure of the faculty sponsor, Dr. Sewell, the fraternity will be joined by Alden Smith as its faculty representative.

Spanish Problem Topic at Forum's Discussion

"Spain—the issues involved," was discussed at the last meeting of the San Francisco Junior College Forum, held January 25, at the home of Dr. Dorothy Mercers, according to Fred Vast, member of the Forum.

Fascism, Communism, Socialism, and other "isms" were heatedly argued along with revolutions, according to Vast.

The next meeting of the Forum Club will be held February 12, at the home of Betty Brown, 1111 Ninth Avenue, where the question of "Science versus Religion" will be discussed, Vast said.

RIFLE SHOOTING ADDED COURSE IN PHYSICAL ED.

Probably First Class of Type in Any California Junior College, Claimed

Pioneering a new physical education activity in California junior colleges, two sections of elementary rifle marksmanship have been added to the curriculum this semester. So far as can be ascertained, no other junior college in California has the facilities for giving this instruction which is normally carried on only in connection with R. O. T. C. training in high schools and universities.

Basically a recreational activity, the instruction in rifle marksmanship is designed to instruct students in the nomenclature of the rifle, the different positions for shooting, proper sighting and aiming, trigger squeeze, and safety precautions applicable not only to gallery firing but also to outdoor use of pistols and rifles.

SAFETY STRESSED

It is planned to spend the first six weeks of the semester, in preliminary instruction, laying the foundation for later practice firing. During this semester, the prone and sitting positions will be used, but for those who show unusual aptitude or who have had previous experience, opportunity to try the kneeling and offhand positions will be given. In all firing activities, Army Safety Regulations will be followed strictly.

MUST BE MEMBERS

Students enrolled in these classes must be members of the Rifle & Pistol Club, as rifles, targets, instructional supervision, ammunition, and range guards are all provided by the club. Separate sections for men and women have been organized, with a maximum of 25 beginning marksmen in each section.

Both sections meet at the Galileo rifle range, on the first floor of the west wing next to the cafeteria. The men assemble at 4:30 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays under the direction of James S. Hughes, while the women meet at the same time on Mondays and Wednesdays under the supervision of Verrel Weber.

FIRE DRILLS TO BE TODAY AND TOMORROW

Fire drills have been scheduled for today at 10:45 a.m. and tomorrow at the same time, according to Paul Pitman, Extension building head.

The following instructions pertain to fire drills:

1. Basement study hall exit by mezzanine door and rear fire escape.
2. Main floor exit by rear alley door and by the stairway to the mezzanine floor. Do not leave by the main front door.
3. Second floor exit by main stairway.
4. Third and fourth floors, men exit by fire escapes and women by the stairway.

Neal Is Elected As Student Pres. Over Ty McHugh

Helen Davis Defeats Betty Hyde for Second Post; Hermine King Wins

James Neal was elected to the presidency of the Student Body by a slim margin over Tyler McHugh, as the result of a vigorous election campaign. The vice-presidency was won by Helen Davis, who defeated Betty Hyde in another spirited contest.

Hermine King was swept into the office of recording secretary over her freshman opponent, Shirley Clayton, while Marie McKnight and Deming Smith were unopposed for the offices of recording secretary and head yell leader, respectively.

With the sincere promises of cooperation from his defeated opponent and the backing of an enthusiastic student body, Neal enters upon his official duties as president with three semesters of activities as an attestation of his promised success. Neal has been vice-president of the student body, twice a class president, president of the tennis club and of Beta Phi fraternity, and has participated in many other activities.

The new vice-president is the retiring head of the Associated Women Students and has had wide experience in the management of college affairs which should capably fit her for her position as head of the social committee.

Neal will replace Bob Sisco at the president's post, while Miss Davis is succeeding Donna McPherson as vice-president. The new president has announced that he will follow the administrative precedents set down by Sisco with a few plans of his own for the enlargement of the field of extra curricular activities at the college.

WOMEN TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS TOMORROW

Associated Women Students executive elections will be held Thursday, at 12 o'clock noon, in the third floor lecture hall at the Extension Building, according to Helen Davis, last semester's AWS president.

"I should like to take this opportunity to urge all frashman women to attend the elections," commented Miss Davis, who explained that, as nominations will be made from the floor and candidates may be either first or second year students, freshman co-eds should actively participate in choosing officers for the spring semester.

Opportunities for entering women on the executive staff of the AWS are especially attractive, as Miss Davis and her colleagues are anxious to have as many new students as possible participate in AWS affairs, it was said.

Tentative plans are being made for a dance, sponsored by the organization, to be held soon after the elections, the date to be set and plans completely formulated by the new officers.

INITIAL STUDENT MEET FEATURES AMUSEMENTS BY FITZPATRICK, DEAN

Classes to Be Dismissed Early, But Attendance at 2:30 Classes Urged; Edwin C. Browne Skit Is Expected to Live Up to Expectations: Riot

Featuring Eddie Fitzpatrick, well known local band leader, and a group of his vocalists, the newly formed Rally Committee of the college will present its first rally of the semester this afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock in the Galileo Auditorium, according to Deming Smith, chairman of the group and Associated Student yell leader.

"Accompanying Fitzpatrick," Smith said, "will be Bob Saunders, "Big Bill" Wallace and Kay Griffith. Miss Griffith, who will probably be remembered by most of the students for her appearance last semester with Griff Williams and his gang, has recently returned from Hollywood where she was under contract to one of the major studios."

SURPRISE SKIT PLANNED

Another prominent spot on the program, according to Rally Committee members, will be offered by Assistant Dean of Men Edwin C. Browne, who will present some sort of surprise skit, in which certain members of the faculty will take part. Jimmy Neal, Associated Student president, will address the assembled students, and this new assistant yell leaders will be presented.

CLASSES DISMISSED EARLY

The Administration has requested that all students attend the 2:30 classes. They will be dismissed at three in order to attend the rally, and all Extension building classes will be dismissed at 2:45.

Explaining the duties of the Rally Committee, Smith announced that it is composed of approximately 26 students whose duties are to plan student rallies, to welcome Freshmen, to promote interest in Freshman apparel, to police all assemblies, rallies, and athletic events, and to offer aid to all organizations whenever it is needed or requested.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Committee Plans Dance For First Event of Spring

With an informal dance planned as the first affair of the spring semester, the newly formed Social Committee began activities immediately after its initial meeting at the Executive Council conference last Wednesday evening. The dance, according to Helen Davis, chairman of the committee and vice-president of the Associated Students, will climax Freshman Week, and will close hostilities between first and second year students.

Officially the first big social affair of the spring semester, the dance will be held at the Century Club after the basketball game with Marin Junior College, on February 12.

"Dancing will begin about 9:30 p.m.", Miss Davis said, "and will end at one. Although this is an informal dance, men students are requested not to wear corduroy or sweaters."

Admission will be by Associated Students cards only, and guests will enjoy a surprise entertainment now being planned by the committee, Miss Davis said.

Orchestra try-outs for the affair will begin this week, and two bands in mind are those of Jerry Dohrmann and Howard Markuse.

Members of the new Social Committee are Miss Davis; James Neal, Associated Students president; Deming Smith, yell leader; Bob Neal, Caroline Organos, Barbara Lutz and Hermine King, Charmer. Davis announced that a new ruling now makes it compulsory for any organization planning to give a social affair to let the committee know well in advance to that Men Students to Hold Final Election Thurs.

Final elections for officers of the Men's Club will be held tomorrow afternoon, February 4, in the lecture hall at the Extension Building, at 12:30 o'clock, according to a decision of the Executive Council of the college.

YOU WILL (AND SHOULD) PROBABLY MEET THIS MAN

Above is Edwin C. Browne (right), assistant dean of men, talking something over with Student Ed Dov. Browne is probably the busiest man on the faculty. Men students in trouble will undoubtedly see him, and others will find it to their benefit to meet this "condensed dynamite" anyway.

PITMAN CITES COMPENSATION FOR DIFFICULTIES; OPENS DOOR

Your safety and your convenience at the Powell Street plant are my special responsibility. I trust that no student will hesitate to call upon me for any possible assistance.

Although we "pioneers" must face some real difficulties during these early days, there are many compensations. Among these is the hospitality of the University of California. The Extension Building is compact; the facilities are well adapted to college work; the furnishings are comfortable and attractive. While the "campus" is limited to sidewalks, paved streets, and the park at Union Square, there is an atmosphere and flavor which is quite collegiate. You'll like it!

There are no rules or régulations other than those dictated by common interest.

1. To avoid congestion and to reduce the hazard of fire, students and faculty refrain from smoking in the building.

2. Experience has shown that traffic moves more swiftly if students enter by the lower door, leave by the main entrance, and keep to the left on the stairs.

3. The study hall is not "policed" by faculty. Out of mutual consideration, students conduct themselves as men and women.

4. In appreciation of the hospitality shown us by the Extension Division, we make every effort to keep the main entrance clear for the coming and going of the clients of the University.

The door to my office is always open.

Paul M. Pitman,
Assistant to President,
January 28, 1937.

IOTA CHI ELECTS OFFICERS

New officers of Iota Chi fraternity, chosen at an election on January 13, are Bob Sisco, who succeeds Charles Keiser as president; Tyler McHugh, treasurer, and Russell Turver, vice-president.

The fraternity opened the term with a banquet last Thursday night at St. Elizabeth's Inn, at which the new officers outlined briefly their plans for the coming semester.

DR. SEWELL LEAVES TO WORK AT COMPTON

Doctor Franklin C. Sewell, political science instructor and one of the most popular faculty members, has left the junior college on a year's leave of absence to research work at the Compton Junior College. The Doctor disclosed that his work will include the studying of junior college curriculum and the problems confronting this type of college in regard to graduation and transfer to higher institutions.

The administration has not yet appointed anyone to substitute for Sewell in his classes.

ON WITH THE NEW

Since this is the first issue of The Guardsman under its new Editor, we feel that some sort of explanation is necessary in order that you will understand any changes, for better or for worse, that may appear from time to time.

Work on The Guardsman this semester, will revolve, not around one person, as has been the case in the past, but with the entire staff pulling together to make a complete unit. It has to be this way, for without the whole-hearted support of every individual on the staff, it would be practically an impossibility for us even to attempt to put out a paper.

We are making absolutely no excuses or alibis! We, with the rest of our staff, will do our very best to produce a satisfactory college newspaper. Whether or not it meets with your approval depends entirely upon the spirit with which you accept our efforts and the support which you, as members of the Associated Student Body of the San Francisco Junior College, must lend at all times.

MEMBERS OF STAFF

Foremost among the members of the editorial staff this semester are Managing Editor Don Mix, whose work in the sports department last semester afforded him much experience which will prove of great value in his new position; Women's Editor Ardell White, well known for her handling of women's sports and her role of "Elvira" in the Diary of a Collegiate Journalist; Sports Editor Lambert Meyer, Feature Editor Skip Irwin, Copy Editor Eleanor Fennon, and Women's Sports Editor Pat Madden, who, though a new addition to the staff, seems to have plenty of what it takes to make an excellent newspaper woman.

EXPERIENCE BRINGS WISDOM

Once more a new semester is upon us, and it is again time to welcome back the old students and bid the new ones "Come in and make yourselves at home!"

The new students have a lot to learn. It is going to be hard at first, paying three carfares a day, riding past the transfer point, and trying to figure out programs. Once you get settled, however, you'll be all right, and in the meantime, good luck, and don't let the midterms get you!

THE HELPING HAND

It often happens that we become so absorbed in our own personal problems that we are inclined to neglect altogether the misfortunes of others and pass them off with a "too bad but what can I do about it" attitude. At the present time there are thousands of people suffering untold miseries, in the stricken area of the Mississippi River Valleys. Many are homeless, their means of earning a living have been swept away and when the actual floods are over, they will be faced with the necessity of starting all over again.

President Archibald J. Cloud of the Junior College has received a communication from Superintendent of Schools Joseph P. Nourse, requesting that contributions for flood relief be accepted at the college and forwarded to the Red Cross offices located in the Civic Auditorium.

Arrangements have been made by the Administration for such contributions to be received by Ward Nichols in Room 261.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Student elections are finished, and the reins of office have been handed over to a new set of rulers. James Neal, Helen Davis, Hermine King, and Marie McKnight have been acclaimed victorious by the votes of the Associated Students, your votes. You gave them your votes, and you are now expected to give them your support in every way possible.

Students are expected to attend all rallys, dances, and athletic events possible, to take part in as many college activities as they can, without neglecting their scholastic work, and to cooperate with their officers whenever the occasion presents itself.

If, as is often the case, a student just isn't interested in outside activities, he is perfectly justified in skipping the whole business. When it comes right down to facts, students have a definite purpose in mind when they enter Junior College. If that purpose is to get as much as possible out of their two years, from a social as well as a scholastic standpoint, they will need no urging to enter into the many activities offered. If, on the other hand, they came here with serious intentions and a firm resolve to have nothing at all to do with the more frivolous side of college life, that is their own business, and no amount of urging will shake their purpose.

So one can easily see that it is a matter of personal preference and, it is up to the individual student to decide just what is best for him and just what he wants to do.

MENTAL MUTTERINGS

By FEM

Clutching our copy of "How To Be An Editor" firmly in our left hand, and with the right hand wandering idly over the keys of our trusty typewriter, we begin the latest phase of our journalistic career.

When first informed of our new job, we were slightly nonplussed, and acquired a mild case of jitters which vanished only after finding a secluded spot and having a good cry. This being accomplished, we rolled up our sleeves, assumed our sternest expression, and started about the business of attempting to put out a paper that would come somewhere near the standards set by that of last semester.

As soon as the news leaked out, we were besieged with suggestions as how best to add the well known "feminine touch" to the poor old Guardsman. It was suggested that as long as Rawson had been known as "The Bull", it was only natural that the new editor should assume the nom de plume of "The Cow". "The Bull Snorts" would then become "The Cow Moos" and everyone (with the possible exception The Editor) would be happy.

Carrying this "feminine touch" thing a bit farther, why not change the name of the paper from The Guardsman to The Guardswoman? Copies could be printed in baby blue ink on pale pink paper and each student would receive his copy tied with lavender ribbons. A special valentine issue, trimmed in lace and red hearts, would be presented, and our Easter edition, well girls, it would be just too thrilling!

All very fine, indeed, but being, at heart, a conservative soul, we decided to stick to the traditional black and white print, retain the title selected by the students one and one-half years ago, and confine our fancy touches to a well placed (?) pun, or two, a bit of poetry now and then, and maybe a cherce bit of gossip.

All of which leads up to the purpose of this column. It is to be, roughly speaking, the Editorial dumping grounds, a place where The Editor can "let down the back hair", so to speak, and publish all odds and ends of stuff that may be too informal for the regular Editorial columns. No one, least of all, The Editor, knows exactly what will find its way into this space from time to time. After all, one does like to be surprised once in awhile, doesn't one?

--jest in Fahn

By Jimmy Fahn

(Before starting out with the nonsense, I would like to congratulate Flo Murphy on being chosen as editor for the coming semester and thank her for the opportunity to take a stab at this column. Also a word of praise for Bill Rawson, last semester's editor. We all know that if it Rawson for Bill, there wouldn't have been any paper!)

On one of our little white grade cards we find, side by side, these two grades—C- C-. It looks as though one of our favorite instructors has been visiting the cinema of late!

Track season will soon be starting, so we'll have to start training. It's going to be tough for the boys to give up their little pleasures, and, after all, if a train smokes and choos, why shouldn't they?

While on the subject of track, it's going to be a big year because here at J. C., even the milk curdles. (Yeah, the joke's sour, too!)

Lots of folks were glad to have rain during finals because it raised their grades above "C" level, and speaking of finals, now that they're over, we'd like to introduce a new game called "Cinch Notice." It goes something like this:

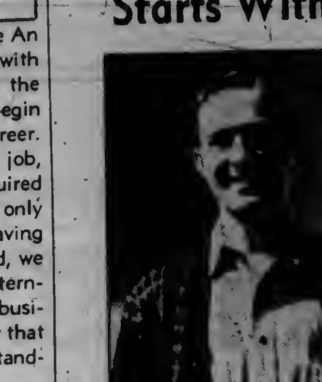
I gotta cinch notice!

Who's it from?

Green (or whatever the teacher's name is).

Green who?

Green the room and tell him I won't be there!



Lotso fun, huh? It's really a cinch; you oughta try it sometime.

They tell about the tender-hearted basketball star who rides all the way out to Galileo with his eyes closed, because he hates to watch the poor girls standing up on the street cars!

Which is enough pun-ishment for one issue, and if we don't get orders to be "Gone With The Wind," we'll see you next week.

boom, boom!

The New President Starts With Bang

By James Neal, A.S.S.F.J.C. President

The first thing I want to do is to show my sincere appreciation to those who made my nomination and election possible. However I'd rather to show this appreciation in action instead of words.

We want to start the new semester off with a bang in today's big rally. This rally will be the first of our big monthly rallys—don't miss it. If you do, you'll miss lots of fun and lots of laughs.

Next on the program (I feel like an announcer) will be our big Frosh Brawl. Last year the upper classmen won because the women came out and won the four-legged race for them. Let's really turn out this year, you Sophomore fellows. Freshmen stand up for your rights! The only way you'll be able to get even with the upper classmen is to win the Frosh Brawl.

After the Brawl, we're going to have a big Frosh reception and dance at one of the clubs in our downtown section all for free.

Last but not least is the all-important election of class officers. Officers to be elected this year are a president, vice president and secretary. The president of each class will represent that class on the executive council.

Let's see you aspirants for class offices get your campaign managers busy and do a little red-hot electioneering.

The way to get the most out of college life and activities is to put the most into it.

Yours for a swell college semester.

SPOTLIGHT

By Don Mix

It is the intention of the creator of this piece of journalistic triviality to present bits of sage (we hope) observations on current topics and personalities that will be of interest to the junior collegian. You will search in vain for any startling bits of "dirt" or, for that matter, any concrete basis for the opinions voiced . . . It is purely a personal viewpoint, and as such, will not always be tempered with logical reasoning.

The subject which seems to take first place in the spotlight of interest is the action of the Rally Committee in forcing the freshmen to wear "dinks." In another section of this page, you will find an able indictment of this policy, so, in an attempt to fulfill the old bromide of "two sides to every story," we shall present what we think are the motivating forces behind the action of the Rally Committee in this matter.

The desired result of the committee's undertaking is to increase that undetermined factor known as "school spirit," and the only method of obtaining this end is by increasing the extra-curricular activity of the students. The "dink" idea is perhaps unoriginal and "prep-ish," but, nevertheless, it is an attempt to make this a better college, and, as such, should have support. This department has found that the majority of the students we have contacted are heartily in favor of the committee's plans . . . so vox populi, vox Dei.

The number one personality in the spotlight this week is your new student prexy, Jimmie Neal. The diminutive lad from Lodi has been a political headliner during his entire college career, and now, in his final semester, has achieved the ultimate in college politics . . . is bursting with new ideas to satisfy the aforementioned omnipresent cry of the student body, "more activities" . . . as he himself says, "we intend to keep you all busy" . . . Jimmie also finds time to be an "A" student.

And then there's the type of fellow around college, like Irv Amstrup, who likes to go places and boo things.

Now, my dear unsuspecting public, I'll release my grasp on your attention because, although the typewriter is still in high gear, the brain has slipped into neutral.

Oh yeah, we almost forgot, welcome freshman . . . gr gr gr grrrr.

THE WOMEN'S SIDE

By ARDELL WHITE

WE TENDER VERBAL BOUQUET

Time toddles on, and so we find ourself attempting to cultivate dignity, as we start out, trying to fill, however inadequately, the position held by "Fem" for two hectic semesters. And this should be encouraging to ambitious gals. Fem is now the "big boss"—who says ladies can't be executives? Orchids to Flo.

A "first edition" is not really one without a cordial hand outstretched in welcome to the freshman students, plus a word of sage (or otherwise) counsel to the neophytes. We extend both, and particularly the latter, to the entering co-eds—here it comes, children—college is something to remember as one of the most enjoyable experiences in one's entire life. If it is to be so, it must be well-balanced, neither entirely study, nor wholly play. So why not, according to this rule, plan to participate in as many student activities as your program will allow? Join a club, of which there are many excellent ones, go out for WAA, attend the AWS elections. Rallies, dances, a brawl, are planned for you, and deserve your support.

ODDS AND ENDS

Can anyone supply with us a copy of Life, the new pix magazine? The newsstands are out of it . . . How much more modest are football players in the spring than in the fall . . . And how much more confident are basketballers in the season that lasts from February to June . . . Are we going to have more of those grudge men-versus-women volleyball fests? . . . Can the crewmen swim? . . . Who's got Jimmy's soccer ball? It's passed through so many hands now that the referee ought to call a foul.

Busiest gal in the college is Helen Davis, Associated Students vice president, who manages to sandwich scores of activities between classes . . . There ought to be a tournament between the women's archery and rifle classes, old-fashioned gals and modernists, respectively . . . And so to hum and out of the rain.

Dink Idea Damped By Disapproval In Vigorous Manner

ED'S NOTE:

Having heard rumors that Peter Prep is on the loose again, once more trying to turn a supposedly adult institution into a glorified high school, we were not surprised to find the following letter in the Guardsman mail box. We are printing it just as it was received—"uncensored and unshorn." What are your opinions on the subject? Send them in, pro or con, and those considered worthy will be printed.

The Guardsman:

Joe College reaches a new high in colossal collegiate endeavors now with the inauguration of cute little bonnets supposedly to be worn by all freshmen.

Oh, how happy Joe College, now a sophomore, will feel, how vastly superior his swagger can now be, for in appearance the lowly entering student must be set apart.

It is all for the benefit of the college, everyone is assured school spirit (rah rah!) will thus be raised, (boy, how that makes a good college!)

Freshmen will leap to the opportunity presented them. It will be just like Cal or Stanford to parade around with dinks. So sophisticated. Oh, yes, yes. Freshmen will like even more the pleasure of being able to pay 65 cents for the top-pieces. After having bounced six bucks for registration, that will set nicely with them.

It is feared that there may be a few recalcitrant individuals among the neophytes. All in the interest of the college, all for the good of all (oh, what the heck's that Latin quotation?), the sponsors say that, just like they do it at San Mateo, they will stand by with whacking shelalees in one hand, and the cute little red and white dinks in the other, the suggestion thus being made that the palm containing the dink will be happily and willingly crossed to the tune of 65 cents.

Now listen here, you young ones, to the voice of old Father Independence; and hark ye, administration, to the mingled cries of Father Experience, Mother Observation, and Grandpop Wisdom. Freshmen with the spunk of anything a stage above the eel will tell the peddlers of hatwear just what they can do with the cloth atrocities. If coercion is employed by the salesmen, thoughtful, justice-seeking frosh will appear the following morning with a shelalee twice as large as those employed by those who would seek to make of them a flock of duped and stewed lamblets. Organized, said frosh should take after Joe College and his cohorts and give them a shellacking they will remember even when they sit down in their coffins.

Now, O Administration, cast about for chords in your own organ of memory, and you probably will not find a lost one, but a sore one. This sort of stuff can lead only to the traditional and highly objectionable hazing, gradually being eliminated by the sensible colleges and universities of the nation. It is scarcely necessary to say more on this subject, insomuch as all those in the field of education have seen often enough examples of the inevitable and highly detrimental results of hazing.

WE COME HERE (OR AT LEAST SHOULD SO DO) TO LEARN A LITTLE THROUGH EDUCATION, NOT THROUGH A BUNCH OF TYPICAL, MOVIE-LIKE RAH RAH STUFF DISHED OUT BY THAT MOST CONTEMPTIBLE OF ALL YOUTHS, JOE COLLEGE!

One might at least think that a little originality could be used. Why not inaugurate round shoes for the freshmen? That's one step better than Cal or Stanford, and it is certain they never thought of it at San Mateo; or, perhaps, because it wasn't done at San Mateo, it couldn't be done here. EVERYONE KNOWS THAT SOME OF THE COLLEGE'S BEST ROWDIES, BEST TROUBLE MAKERS, AND BEST NUISANCES, CAME FROM THE PENINSULA INSTITUTION, BRINGING WITH THEM ALL THE UNDESIRABLE TRAITS OF THAT PLACE. What a sigh of relief must have come over Jum Morris when they left; and what a laugh he must get out of San Francisco Junior College for its propensity toward catering to these objectionables.

Conference Debut Successful as Rams Swamp Menlo Oaks

Loustalot and Kotta Lead Conlanmen in Twin Win at Galileo Gym

By Lambert Meyer

Playing their first league games of the Northern California Junior College Conference this season, the Ram basketballers succeeded in administering two severe trouncings to the Menlo Junior College quintet two weeks ago in the Galileo gymnasium. Taking the initial contest 51-28, and coming back the following evening with a 55-28 win, the local squad established itself as a real threat to retain its 1936 championship.

The first meeting of the fives found the San Francisco team getting off to an early lead with forwards Loustalot and Kotta ringing the bell for three baskets apiece in the first five minutes of play. The Oaks retaliated with eight to cover up a twelve-point lead.

MISHAPS COME

It was a rough and tumble contest, with Carlyle Caine and Doug Maas of the Rams being forced out of the game because of mishaps. Caine, after being on the floor one minute, received a sprained ankle in a short tussle under the hoop and "the masked man" Maas had his glasses knocked to the floor, putting him out of competition for the remainder of the first half.

Score at half time stood at S. F. J. C. 24, Menlo J. C. 12.

LOCALS WIDEN LEAD

The second half found the peninsula quintet quite adept at swishing the net, and the forward combination of Olsen and Hudson had picked up eight points from the Conlan men before the locals were set. The Rams, again taking basketball seriously, pulled away easily. This time it was Phelan, Maas and Rippon sinking goal after goal.

Loustalot was high with twelve points, followed closely by Gus Kotta with eleven. Olsen led the Oaks with ten.

NO MERCY SHOWN

Playing again on Saturday evening at Galileo, the Rams had no mercy on Coach Hal Dunker's Oaks, looping the hoop for 23 field goals against 12 for the visitors, and coming out on the long end of a 55-28 score.

The Ram starting quintet of Kotta, Rippon, Phelan, Mordecai and Maas got off to an early lead by playing a good offensive game, and lead at the half-way mark 27-9.

LIGHTNING HITS OAK

The Menlo boys had plenty of trouble in their shooting and with "Monk" Mordecai taking the shots off the backboard, the Oaks netted only four buckets in the first half of the contest.

Again, as in the previous encounter, Menlo started fast in the second half, with Vandebos and Wilson getting most of the badly wanted points. But the men in black and white were just a little too rough in their attack, and Wilson was ejected from the floor with four personals. The San Francisco squad aced on foul shots, sinking nine out of 13 attempts. "Chubby" Kotta was the worst victim of the shoving arms and legs, forced to the hardwood no less than three times inside of five minutes.

MAAS SHOOTS LONG

Carlyle Caine, although suffering a sprained ankle, was in uniform but did not leave the bench. Doug Maas, with a new pair of spectacles, had a nice evening hitting the hoop from 30 feet out and netting himself 10 points.

Rippon led the scoring with 14 points, with Kotta, Maas, and Mordecai right behind.

Wilson led the losers with 7 points.

In the preliminary contests, the Trubadors walloped the Ram 145's Friday evening, and on Saturday night the 145's bowed again to the Winged F's.

AT CAL.

Ralph Hillsman, above, was an ace on the Ram quintet last year. Now he is making a name for himself on the court at the University of California.

SWEET'S TRACKMEN WORK OUT AT KEZAR

Coach Russ Sweet's track and field men will be found pounding the cinders at Kezar Stadium every afternoon, limbering up stale muscles and getting the feel of the hardened turf under their spiked shoes. Although the men out for the sport will not hit their peak form till late in February, Coach Sweet has visions of a well-formed track squad.

There are approximately 50 men out for the team, three-quarters of them having previous experience either in junior college or high school.

CAPTAIN ELECTED

George Warren was voted captain of the Ram squad at the end of last track season. George, a lad with a fine prep school record, was outstanding last year in the quarter mile and looks like the best of the middle distance men. Other men out for the distance events are Don Bryant, Wilson Camp, Frank Gibeu, "Hank" Mitchell, Art Rosenzweig, and Jim Parker. All have had past experience.

In the sprints, the Rams have George Compas from Commerce High School, a fast starter and a real speedburner. He is followed by Al Garcia, ace Mission sprinter, and Jim Fahn, Lowell High record holder.

HURDLERS EXPERIENCED

Fahn, Ty Barr, Ray Hufft, and Bill Gerughty so far make up the hurdle brigade. All four of these men are experienced at these events, and should represent the college well.

The field events should be well balanced with Fahn, James Fitzsimmons and Charlie Schardan in the pole vault. Fitzsimmons is capable of toping 12'4". Loustalot and Barr in the high jump, Fex and Ginsburg in the javelin, Walt Loving, Don Brain, Bob Wilson and Jack Sergurson in the weights and Loustalot, Bryant and Dick Cory taking care of the broadjumping, offer a nice outfit.

Loustalot and Hufft, both fine trackmen, will turn out a little late for the track squad, as both are now concerned with varsity basketball.

NEW MEN WELCOME

Practically all of the men heretofore discussed are experienced junior college cinderpounders, but this does not mean that new students in the college may not come out for the sport. All freshmen are eligible, and all will be given an equal chance to show their athletic wares. New track men should make arrangements with Coach Sweet as quickly as possible.

As yet, no track schedule has definitely been set up, but the team is assured of a strenuous season both in and out of San Francisco.

FENCING IS ADDED

Fencing has been added to the curricula of the men's physical education department this semester, it was announced by Jack Gaddy. The class was filled on the first day of registration and, in view of this interest, Gaddy said he would attempt to arrange matches with various clubs around the city.

FACULTY TENNIS BEGINS

Signups for the faculty tennis tournament will start immediately according to Tom Wilson, who is in charge of the event. The matches are scheduled for February 24, with Paul Mohr, last year's winner, rated as favorite.

STANFORD FIVE GARNER VICTORY IN FAST CONTEST

Ram Basketeers Have Foot Trouble on Very Slippery Cage Court

Sinking buckets from every corner of the court, the Stanford Freshmen cagers defeated the Ram varsity quintet 47-36 last Wednesday evening on the peninsula courts.

The first half which found the Card yearlings leading 27-16 was played in the Stanford pavilion, but as the hardwood had been waxed that afternoon preparatory to a dance over the week-end, the players of both teams found the traction difficult. The second half of the contest was resumed in the Encina gymnasium.

It was Siebert, Anderson, and Staehle getting point after point for the frosh before the Rams had their bearings.

Siebert led the scorers with 13 points. "Chubby" Kotta, forward, led the junior college men with 11 points.

GADDY OPTIMISTIC AS STRONG CREWMEN HAVE BIG TURNOUT

Eager to make a favorable showing in their first year in the conference, Coach Jack Gaddy's varsity crew men have been holding daily workouts at Yacht Harbor. Headed by six returning veterans, the initial workouts saw some 25 huskies holding a stiff two-hour session in preparation for the first practice race against Lowell High School next week.

Because of a generous allotment on the budget, the boatmen will have new red and white uniforms and a complete new set of racing oars for their first conference tussle. The dates for the conference races have not been definitely set as yet, but a complete schedule of pairings will be drawn up at the meeting of the Northern California Rowing Association on Friday. Other members of the Association are San Francisco State, U. S. F. Freshmen, San Mateo J. C., Marin J. C., Menlo J. C., and Oakland Polytechnic.

VETERANS RETURN

The veterans around which Gaddy will attempt to create a winning boat are Ty McHugh, Joe Kissel, Bill Schoenfeld, Jenning Smith, Joe Craig, and Bill Powers. McHugh and Kissel have been absent from the first workouts because of colds, but are expected to take their places in the lineup for the Lowell race.

The most promising of the new talent seems to be the 200-pound giant from Oakland Tech, Sims Hamilton, and the former Galileo star, Will Dolman. Other new men whom Gaddy expects to win places in the first boat are Lou Delera from Poly, Carl Brogger from Lowell, and Tom Caratte from Balboa.

Other galley slaves who are battling for a first boat position are, according to Gaddy, Art Nelson and Jim Taylor, former Balboa boatmen, and Herm Hextrum, Herb Ward, Merv Weiner and Don Mix.

GADDY OPTIMISTIC

Candidates for the coxswain's job are "Red" Wright and Jimmie Neal, while the pilot's post seems to be cinched by Willie Cordana.

Although the strength of the other conference crews is still an undetermined factor, Coach Gaddy disclosed that he anticipates a winning boat.

"The six veterans from last year's first boat, coupled with the wealth of new material, should put the Ram boat on a par with most of our conference competitors," Gaddy declared.

Complete information in regard to racing dates, starting times, and courses will be decided upon at the Conference meeting, and will be in the next issue of The Guardsman.

Signup for Mixed Tennis Tournaments Announced

All men students who have not signed up and are interested in entering the singles and doubles tennis tournament may sign up at the Extension Building bulletin board or with him on or before February 6, according to an announcement by Tom Wilson, tennis team coach. The ladder playoff will start on Monday, February 8. The winners and runner-ups in both tournaments will be placed at the top of the varsity ladder, which will be open about February 24.

KWIATT ELECTED CLUB OFFICER

Virginia Kwiatt, member of the college second rifle team, was elected a member of the Rifle & Pistol Club Board of Control to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Ed Rundstrom to the University of California. In accordance with members of the Board co-opted Miss Kwiatt at a meeting held January 28.

LAMB'S RAMBLINGS

By Lambert Meyer

Riding rampant over their conference and non-conference opponents, the Rams basketball men are looking for a twin victory over the Santa Rosa Cubs tomorrow and Saturday evenings.

It seems only fitting that all San Francisco Junior College students, old and new alike, should follow this fine aggregation and know the players on the court. So here goes a slight—a very slight, introduction.

At the forward positions we have Ernie Loustalot, a slim built individual who steadies the entire team. Ernie was a member of last year's championship squad; No. 3 . . . Gus Kotta, a small but effective forward and a real sharpshooter. Up from S. M. J. C., No. 8 . . . Carlyle Caine, the footwork artist wears No. 9 . . . and Paul Rippon, another veteran, with a deadly eye has suit No. 6.

At the guard positions there is "Monk" (Monte to you) Mordecai measuring 6'4", also back from last year. He wears No. 17 . . . Doug Maas, the squad's smoothest player, is 5'11", and wears a mask; No. 14 . . . Warren Egan, a tough guard from one of Lowell High's championship teams, and has suit No. 4 . . . Other capables are Treacy Slattery, 'Mike' Maniscalco, Bob Fex and George Bedrosian.

Bill Phelan, that handsome lad wearing uniform No. 10, is the starting center, and has a fine eye for swishing the net. Right behind him is Rodney Porter, No. 16, and Ray Hufft, with No. 11.

There they are, and just wait till you see these ballhawks in their new silk uniforms. Go have a peek tomorrow night at Kezar. Are those suits hot!

The Ram 145's are out to set some type of a record. The squad has yet to score a victory, but members are all in hopes of a win in the near future.

Ralph Hillsman, former San Francisco Junior College basketball star, and all-conference forward, is doing all right by himself at California. He's a big factor on the Golden Bear quintet. Was outstanding against Stanford recently.

We're still wondering who started that Renfrew echo among the athletes of the college. It seems to be traced to Treacy Slattery, Pete Jambruno, Bob Fex, and Tony Scafani. Wonder which one of them listens to the program.

The junior college swimmers are at it again. Herb Brotman and Ward Cox placed first and second, respectively, in the recent P. A. 50-yard swim at the Fairmont. Both men have a flock of aquatic records in their own right.

The story comes to us that our famous coach Louis "Dutch" Conlan had a little trouble in officiating at a recent college basketball battle at Kezar. It seems the net had become tangled and our coach, in order to see if the ball would pass through the mesh, endeavored to shoot a bucket. His first toss missed, the second missed, the third missed, the fourth ditto and finally the fifth shot dropped through, much to the entertainment of the assembled multitude. No, "Dutch" won't talk.

All new men students interested in baseball should see Coach Lee Eisan or Louie Bertolucci immediately. The Ram baseball squad is planning to go places this season. Practice is held at Funston Field.

Crew men should get in touch with Coach Jack Gaddy, and swimmers and trackmen see Coach Russ Sweet.

Best basketball player seen this season: Olsen of Menlo. A smart little forward with plenty of fight and a good eye for getting those points. He led the Oaks with 10 points in the first game of the series.

"King Kong" Smith, San Francisco Junior College's own heavyweight boxing champ, is planning on entering the ring as a professional leather pusher. Here's wishing him success.

Note to the incoming freshmen: Those brawny masculine individuals hanging around the campus wearing those red leather jackets are not charter members of the ping pong club, but are our own two-letter men. Practically all of the jacket wearers are gridders.

No, that's not Carlyle Caine playing on the S. F. J. C. 145's. It's "Ace" Blumberg, even though the two basketball stars may look very much alike on the court. Their identical footwork is amazing.

Carlyle's ankle is okay, he'll be in the line-up tomorrow evening.

A fine sporting gesture was made on "Dutch" Conlan's part when he allowed a St. Mary's player to continue against the Rams after four personal fouls had been called against him. Incidentally, that certain fellow was high point man for the evening, winning the contest for the Moraga quintet.

How's about a big turnout for the Santa Rosa game tomorrow evening? The team really gets going with plenty of support. Not only tomorrow night, but follow the squad throughout the season.

Don't forget we also have a track team, a baseball team, and a crew all aiming for championship honors.

State College and Rams to Battle in Squared Circle Soon

Maury Schwarz Heads Gater Pugilists in Fights With Locals

In hopes of establishing a more friendly and closer rivalry between the two San Francisco Institutions, the San Francisco State College boxing and wrestling team will be matched with the ring champions of the San Francisco Junior College during the middle of February, the exact date not yet set.

The challenge was issued by Maury Schwarz, head of the State squad, and was accepted by Tyler McHugh, last semester's Men's Club president.

SCHWARZ LEADS STATERS

Schwarz, former president of the San Francisco Junior College Associated Students and a well-known man in local amateur boxing circles, has a well-knit pugilistic group at State, and after viewing the J. C. champs at the Verdi Club boxing and wrestling matches, decided that a contest between the two colleges would be interesting and entertaining.

Representing the junior college in boxing will be Dave Smith, heavyweight; Ray Greenwood, lightheavyweight; Wilson Camp, middleweight; Ty Barr, 155 pounds; Jack Reynolds, welterweight; Ray Saunders, lightweight; and Dick Moon, featherweight.

In the wrestling bouts, the college will be upheld by Jack Sergurson, Frank Knowlton, and Deming Smith.

Any men students wishing to join this aggregation of boxers and wrestlers should contact Tyler McHugh or Russell Turver as soon as possible, it has been announced.

DOPE NOT KNOWN

Up to this time there is no information available on the State outfit, but Schwarz has said that his men will make the battles hot for the Powell Street men. The boxing leader will compete in the heavyweight class, and junior college students cannot forget Maury's previous experiences in the ring.

McHugh and Schwarz are working on a plan to have the victorious college gain a silver cup for their efforts in the competition. Both colleges will try to make these exhibitions an annual event.

The exact date of the competition will be announced in a later issue of The Guardsman.

The event will take place at San Francisco State College, 124 Buchanan Street, and admission will be by student body card only, the leaders said.

SANTA ROSA BASKETEERS INVADE KEZAR STADIUM IN TUSSLE WITH RAMS

Cubs Ready to Avenge Defeat of Last Season As Conlanmen Primed For Crucial Battle With Visitors Tomorrow Evening; S. F. Favored

By Lambert Meyer

With hopes of gaining for themselves another twin conference win, the Ram cagers will play a two-game split series with the Santa Rosa Junior College, Thursday and Saturday evenings, February 4 and 6. The first game will be held in San Francisco at Kezar pavilion, and for the second contest the Santa Rosans will play host to the Rams at the Northern Village.

Besides being an important basketball series in the Northern California Junior College Conference, the engagement will date back to the 1936 contest at Kezar, in which the Ram cagers, after trailing throughout the fray eked out a one-point victory by virtue of a last-second thirty-five foot field goal by Guido Nicco, substitute guard.

CUBS DROPPED TWO

The contest, besides being the most thrilling of the season from the spectator's point of view, also blew up the Cubs' chances of being a championship aggregation, the Rams going on to win the junior college title, leaving the Santa Rosans satisfied with a third place.

The Cubs in their first two conference games of the season dropped a double bill to Modesto, 38-32 and 31-23. The team has split even in practice games, losing three and winning three. Modesto is highly touted as the strongest squad in the league.

ONE WIN NEEDED

The Santa Rosa outfit, coached by Dick Blewett, must win at least one game this week-end to stay in the conference race. The Rams at the top of the ladder have high hopes of staying at the top. So it's Ram vs. Cub tomorrow and Saturday evenings.

The visitors will probably start the line-up with forwards, Bunyan and Pedersen; center, Knowlton; and guards, Elmore and Soekland.

Roy Soekland, high scoring guard, is headed toward all-conference honors, and will be the man to watch throughout the fray. He is a deadly shot and a brilliant defensive player.

RESERVES PLENTIFUL

The Cubs are a well balanced outfit with plenty of capable reserves, such as Lynn Graham, Ken Lyman, Wilbur Tedford and Walt Day.

Both Lyman and Knowlton played against the San Franciscans in last year's contests.

Coach "Dutch" Conlan will probably start his line-up of Loustalot and Kotta, forwards; Phelan, center; and Mordecai and Maas, guards. Rippon, Egan, and Caine are considered among the starters.

The game is scheduled at Kezar pavilion at 8 p.m. Thursday, February 4. Admission is free with Associated Students cards.

GAME WINNER

Guido Nicco, above, dropped in a last minute bucket to take the basketball series from Santa Rosa last year. Thursday the Rams meet the Northerners again.

MIXING 'EM UP

By Don Mix

We started to spill out a long series of superlatives to let you all know what we think about "Dutch" Conlan's swell basketball team; but then decided it was a little early in the season to hang the title of Wonder Team on the Ram Cagers. The local hoopsters looked unbeatable in the practice games, but we intend to reserve our final judgment until they knock over one of the tough conference teams, Modesto, for instance.

A slight swelling in the region of the hatband has often been a potent factor in ruining Wonder Teams.

Led by that former black sheep of the Ram flock, Maury Schwarz, the State College boxers have challenged our leather pushers to a match within the next couple of weeks. We have no idea of the strength of our cross-city neighbors in the ring, but already we are beginning to feel sorry for the poor unsuspecting Gator who will have to face the Ram heavyweight meat-grinder, Dave Smith. The indominitable Schwarz will also have a busy evening if he has to meet our fast and clever Ty Barr, college middleweight titleholder.

To the untrained eye of your observer, it seems as if "Salty Jack" Gaddy has lined up a pretty fair looking crew (it's a varsity sport now) for our first year of competition in the conference. Such masses of muscles as Will Dolman, Bill Schoenfeld, and Sims Hamilton will handle the sweeps in the Ram galley.

After watching the loquacious Deming Smith go sauntering by in company with the bulky Jack Telesmanic, "Bogey" Mahn is reported to have said "There goes brawn with the wind."

The venerable college sport of using a paddle efficiently has been allowed to become rusted at the junior college, but the upper classmen will have an opportunity to become more adept in this dignity-destroying exercise during the week of Freshmen initiation.

Schedule

Thursday, Feb. 4 — San Francisco vs. Santa Rosa at San Francisco.
Saturday, Feb. 6—San Francisco vs. Santa Rosa at Santa Rosa.
Thursday, Feb. 11—San Francisco vs. Marin at San Francisco.
Saturday, Feb. 13 — San Francisco vs. Marin at Marin.
Tuesday, Feb. 16—San Francisco vs. San Francisco State College at Kezar.
Thursday, Feb. 18—San Francisco vs. Sacramento at San Francisco.
Saturday, Feb. 20 — San Francisco vs. Sacramento at Sacramento.
Wednesday, Feb. 24 — San Francisco vs. San Francisco State College at Kezar.
Friday, Feb. 26—San Francisco vs. Modesto at Modesto.
Saturday, Feb. 27—San Francisco vs. Modesto at Modesto.
Friday, March 5—San Francisco vs. San Mateo at San Mateo.
Saturday, March 6—San Francisco vs. San Mateo at San Mateo.

AROUND THE BASES . . . . By Louie Bertolucci

"In the spring a young man's fancy turns to . . . ."

Some say women but it couldn't be that because it seems his fancy is occupied by the fairer sex the year 'round.

But a stroll around the city's sandlots will give one a fair idea of what any youngster thinks about these days. Flying horsehide has taken the place of the favorite flying pigskin. In other words what I'm trying to get out is that the great national pastime is with us again. That is, BASEBALL.

Although only several practices have been held, both mentors figure the Jaysee team to be near the top of the heap when the moth balls are again brought out around the latter part of May.

Over 18 players signed up for the squad to date, with several freshmen expected to put in an appearance soon.

The Rams will have six lettermen of last year's team and a host of newcomers. The veterans include Bruno Lucchesi, a unanimous choice on the All-Conference team last year, Tony Scafani, Bob Fex, Richard Holmes, Joaquin Martinez and Larry Wilgus, the latter two being the first two pitchers on the previous season's nine.

Coaches Eisan and Gaddy are sure of one thing even this early in the term; that is, they will have a group of fly-chasers that will be second to none in the circuit. Besides Lucchesi and Fex a group of freshmen, including Joe Ardanaz, who recently gained a place on the Seals Stadium League All-Star team; Jack Berutich, a former Balboa star; John Fitzgerald, an ineligible of last season and a good little ball player; and Paul Hjort of Poly, will make their appearance for the Rams.

With Martinez and Wilgus in tow, the pitching staff will show a great improvement over the first year's moundsmen. Both of these men can hold their own in any league and with a year's experience will be hard to hit. But their positions as numbers one and two pitchers are not certain. Several publicized chuckers have

Rifle Teams Win, Lose in Series Of Competitions

Pacific Rod, Gun Club Is Only Victor Over Local Squads; Others Beaten

Their best score of the season—847—was not good enough to win for the Second Rifle Team when shooting against the Pacific Rod & Gun Club, whose five high men garnered 893 points to top the local shooters for the first time since League competition started last Fall. The match was shot at the opponent's home range, 2335 Pine Street, last Friday night.

A ray of light relieving the blackness of defeat was the outstanding score Virginia Kwiatt fired for the college—175 points—which gave her high place for the local team. Miss Kwiatt has been showing steady improvement in previous matches, but Friday night's total proved to be forty-four points higher than any she had heretofore amassed.

Individual and team scores for the match were as follows:

S. F. J. C.—2nd Team		P. R. & G. CLUB
Virginia Kwiatt	*175	M. Preston	*185
John Bean	*174	H. Ladd	*180

Resolutions made by members of the Second Rifle Team not to lose a match during 1937 did not meet the usual fate of such pledges in the first week of the New Year. Why? Because the second team outshot the aggregation representing Post No. 99 of the American Legion, winning by a score of 734 to 637, the match fired at the Galileo range, January 6, 1937.

Individual and team scores for the match were as follows:

S. F. J. C.—2nd Team		POST 99, AM. LEG

"FT 866-817" was dialed by the members of the Junior College First Rifle Team on the 13th of January when they met the S. F. Telephone Company in their first match of the year in the Bay Bridge League, a division of the San Francisco Rifle Association.

Although 866 is 34 points under their best score to date (900 was shot against the Marine Reserves), the Junior College shooters found that total sufficient to beat the 817 score fired by the Telephone Company.

Dick Pitman was high man for the Junior College squad and for the match as well, with a score of 185. Bill Hancock came through with his usual outstanding score, only four points behind Pitman.

Individual and team scores were as follows:

Leading the Golden Gate Bridge League, with no losses, the Second Rifle Team came through again to win from the Municipal Railway—749 to 713—in the match fired January 14, at the Galileo range.

In this match John Benton was high man, with a score of 168, followed by Dallace Ogilvie, who shot a 156. A full quota of eight shot for each side, W. McDonald having high score of 152 for the carmen. A return match is scheduled for February 17, to be shot at the Muny home range, 1975 Mission St.

Individual and team scores for the match were as follows:

S. F. J. C.—2nd Team		MUNICIPAL RY.

Firing 191 out of a possible 200, his highest match score to date, Bill Hancock, Team Coach, led the Junior College First Rifle Team to victory over the 159th Infantry 2nd Team, January 20.

Dick Pitman followed closely behind Hancock with a score of 185—good enough to place on any team. Don Smith, Max Brewen, and Frank Doupnik followed Pitman, with scores ranging down from 167 to 149.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By Pat Madden

As this is the beginning of the term, and we are so very new to this column, we should like to take this opportunity to wish the officers and managers of the W. A. A. lots of luck and success for the coming year.

For the benefit of new students, and those who have not yet heard, we offer the following list of W. A. A. officials:

President, Ruth Johnson; vice-president, Hermine King; secretary, Dorothy Barber; treasurer, Phoebe Watwood; team managers: archery, Junerose Bellew; hockey, Barbara Latz; baseball, Isabel Sherratt; golf, Gertrude Daniels; basketball, Parnel Brown; tennis, Helen Davis; fencing, Dorothy Fidiam; recreational games, Jean Cassinelli; swimming, Eleanor Roche; riding, Gloria Swicegood; dancing, Narin Borup.

Notice! All women who received awards at the banquet, but have not yet called for them, should do so at once. Please call at the gym.

Coeds interested in working on committees for the W. A. A. should sign up in the blue book on the bulletin board in Gym A. The committees and committee chairmen for the year are chosen from this list, so if you are interested, sign up.

Official sign-up week for all W. A. A. sports is from February 14 to 19. The sign-ups will be in Gym A, and all women who wish to participate should sign up during that time. There was some confusion last year, when coeds who were candidates for teams were found to be ineligible because they were not officially signed up. Don't forget—February 14 to 19.

Perhaps a little information about the sports offered this year would be in order, so here goes:

Hockey . . . a sport new to the college and quite new in the west. It is a fast and interesting out-door sport which should appeal to those who like a strenuous work out . . . great fun, too.

Fencing . . . another new activity, and a very tricky one which requires much skill.

Riding . . . three classes in riding, beginning, intermediate, and advanced. The advanced class is planning to concentrate on jumping this year, which should be very exciting. There is always the riding show to anticipate at the end of the year, with awards for each event.

Swimming . . . three classes in this, too, beginning, intermediate, and advanced. There will be inter-class swimming meets and meets with other schools. There is the life-saving class in which you may get instruction and pass your life-saving test.

Basketball . . . a fast and popular sport; much inter-class competition.

Baseball . . . a sport which speaks for itself.

Archery . . . an interesting activity which promises to have an exciting year with much planned in the way of contests.

Riflery . . . a life-saver to women interested in shooting.

Golf . . . here is your chance to learn an extremely popular sport. For you who play already, this is a chance to keep in trim.

Tennis . . . singles and doubles matches and close competition—individual and by classes.

Dancing . . . offers much to those who like to dance. There is a dance recital at the end of the year, too.

Recreational games . . . ping pong and badminton for you who dislike the more strenuous sports.

Parnel Brown Elected Service Society Head; Pat Madden Vice Pres.

Climaxing the initiation held at the end of last term, the Women's Service Society elected the following officers: President, Parnel Brown; vice-president, Pat Madden; secretary, Florence Murphy; and treasurer, Norma Parent.

Beginning their work for the year, the entire society lent assistance to the administration during the week of registration. They were invaluable to the faculty during this week, according to Eugenie Leonard, vice-president and dean of women.

Among other activities the W. S. S. is sponsoring a variety show which will be presented some time about the middle of the semester, according to Verrel Weber, faculty sponsor of the group.

RALLY COMMITTEE HEAD

Full of new ideas to raise the nebulous "school spirit," Deming Smith, above, newly elected yell leader, has chosen a rally committee to aid in the carrying out of plans. Deming is partly responsible for the current dink notion, and is a strong advocate of the hats.

BASEBALL SQUAD STILL OPEN TO PROSPECTIVE DIAMOND MATERIAL

registered and will surely make things hot for both veterans.

Leading the parade is lanky Les Larson from points east of San Francisco (that means Oakland). Les stands over six feet tall and from all reports, is quite some twirler. Another ace moundsman is George Hughes, who has just finished a season in the Valley League, pitching for the Evans Auto Rental.

The Ram material is a little short in the infield. Tony Scafani and Dick Holmes, second baseman and short-stop, remain from the first year's nine. The only other known infielders are Joe Futternick, a second baseman, and Milton Berman, a first sacker. It looks like there will be some juggling of the infielders to get men in every position.

Ed Arvedi, a former Galileo boy, will be the back-stop. Since graduation from high school, Ed has been playing semi-pro ball and knows how to handle the catching position. So far he is the only catcher in sight but some assistance can be had from Johnny Fitzgerald, the outfielder, who can also handle the assignment behind the plate.

The addition of Sacramento and Santa Rosa in the conference makes the Ram schedule quite heavy, with twenty league games on tap beside twelve practice games. The college nine swings into action on Monday with a game at Funston against the Commerce High School nine.

Coach Eisan's boys will enter the game with but one week's practice, but as most of the players have been playing semi-pro ball all year, they will be in pretty fair condition.

The squad is still open to any prospective ball-player and if he is interested, he is urged to report to Funston Field at one o'clock any day of the week.

COACH OF CHAMPIONS

Last semester Louis "Dutch" Conlan, left, coached his San Francisco Junior College basketball team to conference honors, specifically first place. This year he hopes to repeat the performance, and has made a noteworthy start by seeing his men emerge victorious against every junior college team they have met thus far this season. They tackle a tough opponent tomorrow at Kezar Pavilion, where they take on the Santa Rosa J. C. quintet.

Rifle Club Holds Party Sponsored by Officers

Foregoing usual shooting activities, 25 members of the Rifle and Pistol Club gathered at the home of the club sponsor for an evening of cards and dancing on January 15, the first Friday of finals. This event, destined to become a semi-annual affair, was planned by the newly elected club officers, consisting of John Stewart (president), Betty Hyde (vice-president), Marygail Konkel (secretary), Fred Wright (treasurer), and Don Smith (board of control).

Highlights of the evening's entertainment was the presentation to the Club of a suitably engraved gavel by T. Gordon Sollman, first president, and recently elected honorary member.

Among those present, in addition to the officers named above, were the following members: Priscilla Smith, Max Brewen, Bill Rawson, Clyde Smith, Bob Kraft, Kermit Wright, Katherine Loucks, Syd Farley, Bradley Schwarz, Christopher Harnett, John Duemler, Paul Benson, and Mack Garr. Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hancock.

Ross Will Speak During Commemoration of Poet

John Ross, political science instructor, will address a meeting to be held at the San Francisco public library, Friday evening, February 5, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Alexander Pushkin, Russian poet. Ross, who was in Europe last summer, will tell how the Russian people celebrated Pushkin's anniversary.

Professor Alexander Taun of the University of California is scheduled to deliver the main address. Raymond Keats, vocalist, will offer a few selections.

LOCATION OF OFFICES LISTED FOR CURIOUS

For the benefit of new students, the following is a list of the administrative offices of the college:

Registrar and assistant registrar, 262 (J. Paul Mohr and Mary Jane Learnard).

President, Archibald J. Cloud, and assistant to the president, Paul Pitman, back office in 211.

Vice-president, Eugenie Leonard (also dean of women), middle office in 211.

Assistant dean of men, Edwin C. Browne, and NYA Administrator Helene Turner, first office, 211.

Harold Luenberger, psychology department, 210.

The above offices are at Galileo.

Pitman is in charge of the Extension building at Powell Street, with his office the one to the right at the head of the stairs, coming up from the mezzanine floor.

Spanish Students Meet at El Patio for Dinner

With Dora Garibaldi and Thomas Gabbert as faculty representatives, the combined Spanish classes met at an informal meeting and dinner at El Patio last Thursday evening, January 29. Plans for the permanent establishment of this group were discussed, and March 3 was set as the date for the next meeting. Besides the faculty sponsors, those present included Audrey Caine, Patricia Smith, Zelma Romain, Jerry Flann, Tom Garcia, Fred Hinojosa, Bill Rawson, Bernard Davis, and Don Mix.

Students Urged to File Books For Registration Before Date

Urging that all students have their registration books filled out and their official study list signed by their advisers before the date stamped on the cover of the book, Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar in the college announced that these books may be filed in the study hall at the Extension building between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. or in the Galileo cafeteria in the afternoon.

For the benefit of those who may find it necessary to change their program before the date stamped on the cover of the book, Miss Learnard has outlined the following procedure:

1. Consult your faculty adviser for approval of change.

2. Go to the change in program desk in the study hall at Extension building between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. or to room 261 at Galileo between 2:30 and 5 p.m., and find out if the class in which you wish to enroll is open. If it is, obtain from the instructor whose class you are dropping, your class enrollment cards and file both cards at the change in program desk. Then correct your trial study list.

After registration books have been filed, changes in programs may be made only by means of the official change in program slip.

For late registrants: Subject A examinations will be held Saturday, February 6, at 9 a. m. in room 458 at Galileo, and aptitude tests on Saturday, February 13, at 8:30 a. m. in the same room. As soon as the latter test is completed, students are asked to report to room 547 to have their pictures taken.

Students will be held entirely responsible for courses which appear on the official study list filed. Credit will not be granted for a course which does not appear on the study list. A grade of "F" will be recorded for a course which a student enters on his study list but fails to attend.

Social Group's Points Listed: Authority Told

1. A petition blank for a social function must be filled out by an organization wishing to have a social function and must be handed in personally two weeks before the date of the function by a representative of said organization giving full particulars to the committee of said function.
2. All social affairs involving the student body at large must be approved by the Social Committee.
3. Each week a list of affairs given by various college organizations and passed by social committee must appear in The Guardsman.
4. Any affair planned by a college organization on a school night, excluding Friday and nights before a holiday, must have special permission of Social Committee.
5. Only a certain number of similar affairs can be planned in one month. Number of such affairs to be determined by Social Committee.
6. Any affair that is not officially sanctioned by the Social Committee and appearing in the social calendar in the newspaper can be cancelled by the Social Committee.
7. All social functions held by college organizations fall under the jurisdiction of the Social Committee.
8. We, the Social Committee, recommend that smoking be refrained from on the dance floor. If possible, a proper place should always be provided for this purpose.

New and Novel Things Promised by Socialites

the event may appear in the social calendar.

"Students may expect some new and novel ideas in social affairs during this semester," Miss Davis said. "The committee is now planning a full program of activities."

WELCOME

President Archibald J. Cloud, above, welcomes new students and briefly tells them "what they are up against," and what they may get from college, in his statement on page one of this issue.

43 Workers Added to NYA Roll; Time Slips!

Addition last week of 43 new workers and the return of 186 veterans has brought the NYA payroll to a new high, according to Helene Turner, NYA director in the college.

"With the inauguration of several new projects," Miss Turner said, "the field for work has been considerably widened, affording employment for a larger number of students than ever before."

St. Marys, USF Frosh Prove Too Much For Conlan

Both Games Are Close, as Dons Win by 5, Gaels by 2 Point Hoop Margin

Encountering two strong basketball outfits in the three-week interval between finals and registration, the Ram quintet succeeded in beating the U. S. F. Don Babes 29-24, but dropped a close decision to the St. Mary's Freshmen 22-19 at Kezar pavilion.

On January 12, the Rams met a fast-breaking St. Mary's Freshman squad and with Coach "Dutch" Conlan using every available man on the team, the men in red and white dropped a close 22-19 decision to the Gael Babes.

SECONDS START

Conlan, seeking to get a formidable starting line-up for the coming conference season, started the second squad, allowing them to stay in the game practically the whole first half.

The Moraga Men used their first five men throughout the fray.

At half time the score stood St. Mary's 11, San Francisco 8.

Feeney, lanky Gael center, led the scorers with 11 points.

RAMS GET BETTER

One week later, on one of those 32nd degree evenings, the Ram basketballers encountered a strong U. S. F. Freshman team and succeeded in handing them a 29-24 defeat.

The local men played a much better brand of basketball again the Hilltop Players, and put up a fine defense against a fast-breaking squad headed by high-scoring Bob Fair, 6'1" center of the Dons. Again the opponent's center man caused the Ram five the most trouble.

DONS GO SPREEING

In the initial half, the Rams had difficulty in swishing the hoop, but were nevertheless in the lead at half time, 17-8.

The Dons put on a sensational scoring spree in the last eight minutes of play and succeeded in closing a large gap.

Fair was the outstanding man on the hardwood, amassing himself 12 digits to become high scorer of the evening.

Gus Kotta led the junior college scorers with 7 points.

YMCA HOOPSTERS IN WIN OVER LOCAL 145

Using every available player on both the 145-pound team and the varsity, the hoopsters dropped a close 49-42 decision to a fighting Y. M. C. A. basketball outfit last Saturday evening in the Galileo gymnasium.

When the final gun sounded the score was tied at 42-42, necessitating an extra five-minute period. With three minutes to play the forward combination of Jones and Carlson got "hot" and netted seven points for their quintet to sew up the contest.

It was purely an experimental basketball game for the Ram squad with Conlan substituting as frequently as possible, giving every player a chance to feel the ball.

Jones, Y. M. C. A. forward, was high point man with 15 points.

Hufft led the junior college men with 12 markers.

DANCE FRIDAY AT RESIDENCE CLUB; GET ACQUAINTED

BRAWL ALL YOU WANT AT MEN'S CLUB SCRAP FRI.

'ANGLE ASSUMERS' GET REVENGE CHANCE

'SHALL WE GIVE 'EM THE WORKS, DON?'

That's probably what Eddie Frediani, Men's Club officer, is saying to the group's president, Don Mix, as they discuss plans for Friday's Soph-Frosh Brawl.

FROSH WILL FIGHT WITH SOPHS AT TRADITIONAL BRAWL FOR FRIDAY PM

Semi-Annual Event in Gym, Lowerclassmen Tussle for "Rights" with Upperclass Persecutors and Dink Salesmen: 3:30 Classes Are Excused

Final arrangements have been completed for the semi-annual Freshman-Sophomore Brawl which will be held on Friday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, according to Don Mix, newly elected president of the Men's Club. The brawl will be held in the Galileo gym, and the administration has gratuitously permitted 3:30 p. m. classes to be excused so that all students will be able to attend the affair.

The brawl will culminate the events of Freshman week, and a victory for the underclassmen will end their obligations of obedience to the sophomores. With this issue at stake, a bitter contest is expected to ensue.

Mix, working with Faculty Adviser Joe Amori, has appointed a committee consisting of Tyler McHugh, Russ Turver, Don Mills, and Art Nelson to assist him in the plans and to aid in the actual handling of the event.

The Sophomores are organizing themselves into groups to compete in the various contests, and have served notice through their leaders that they have no intention of allowing the Frosh to eke out a victory. The Freshmen held a meeting yesterday, and were urged by Associated Students President Jimmie Neal to present an organized front in their struggle with the upperclassmen.

The events as announced by Mix will include a tug-of-war, a three legged race, a basketball game in which the participants will wear boxing gloves, an egg fight, a tie up fight, and a free-for-all in which the competitors will be blindfolded.

Winners will be announced at the conclusion of each event, with the class winning the most events to be declared the victor for the day. In order that the brawl will run off smoothly, Mix has requested that the class officers present him with a complete entry list in each event so that there will no confusion during the competition.

All students who are not interested in participating in the brawl are invited to come and witness the doings and to provide encouragement for the combatants.

TALK TOMORROW FEATURES MIALL IN WAR LECTURES

Englishman to Offer Plea On Behalf of Emergency Peace Campaign Thurs.

Marking the first of the term's assemblies which will be given during the morning hours at the Extension building, a talk on the subject of peace will be given tomorrow at 12:00 o'clock noon in the lecture hall on the third floor. At this assembly, the Forum Club will present Rowland Miall as a speaker for the emergency peace campaign.

Miall is a British student speaker who is in America to take part in the winter program of the emergency peace campaign. The campaign states that its aim is "to keep the United States out of war and war out of the world." Miall condemns the practice of private manufacture of munitions, and says that national armaments have not brought lasting security in the past, and are even less likely to do so now that weapons of attack have outstripped weapons of defense.

In his extensive travellings in Europe, Miall has come in contact with many notable persons. His position as president of the Cambridge Union has brought him in touch with some of the most important English politicians of all political parties.

All students who are free at that hour are invited by the Forum Club to attend this assembly. "Instructors having classes at that hour may take their classes en masse to the talk if they will contact me, or they may excuse certain students who are interested in attending," Paul M. Pitman, in charge of morning classes, has announced in regard to this assembly.

VARIETY OF SPORTS OFFERED TO WOMEN

Offering to women of the college an opportunity for sports outside regular gym classes, the Women's Athletic Association has completed plans for an active year, according to Ruth Johnson, president of the organization.

"We feel," said Miss Johnson, "that we are submitting enough of a variety of sports to satisfy the tastes of every co-ed in the school. As few people know the WAA is composed of a group or "club" for each sport, and it is possible for those who find it impossible to participate in outside sports to join the club which corresponds to their gym class. We hope that every woman will take advantage of these outside sports. Let's have a big turnout.

"The purpose of the WAA is to promote sportsmanship, friendship, and cooperation among the women students. The members of our organization are particularly anxious to help new students to enter into the activities of our group. We are planning many exciting things, so join us, and get in on the fun."

Two Dances on Social Record For This Week

Semi-Formal to Be Held at Residence Club, 940 Powell Street

Entering students will enjoy two dances instead of the customary one this week, according to Helen Davis and James Neal, vice-president and president of the Associated Students, respectively. The affairs are a Freshman Reception on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock in the Galileo women's gymnasium, and a semi-formal affair Friday evening from 8:30 to 12 at the Residence Club, 950 Powell Street.

The reception, Neal stressed, is intended to be a get-acquainted affair at which freshmen can make dates for the semi-formal. It will begin after the class elections tomorrow afternoon, and will be limited to entering students, with no upper-classmen allowed to attend.

The semi-formal, which falls under the jurisdiction of the Social Committee, will climax Freshman Week. It is to be a couple affair, with no stags allowed, and admission will be by Associated Students card.

"All freshmen," Miss Davis said, "should plan to attend both dances. We are planning these affairs, with the enjoyment of the students as our primary objective."

CMTC Offers Chance At Summer Vacation Work

Opportunity for a free vacation next summer is already being offered to junior college men, with the receipt of application forms for the Citizen's Military Training Camp by local students who spent a month last summer under military discipline.

Sponsored by the Federal Government as an important phase of the national defense scheme, and under the supervision of the United States Army, the C. M. T. C. program is designed to promote citizenship, patriotism, and training in military science and tactics for the young men of the nation. Last summer 15 San Francisco Junior College students spent a month at the Presidio of Monterey, with their clothes, board, room, and transportation expense furnished by the Government.

Any young man between the ages of 18 and 25 is eligible for selection, with good physical condition the only prerequisite. Experience in the R. O. T. C. or the National Guard gives an advanced rating, thus reducing the time necessary to qualify for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps, awarded at the end of the normal four-camp period.

All students interested in applying for this training are urged to see James S. Hughes for further information.

Mix, Mills, Dinsmeyer, Frediani Win in Close Men's Ballotings

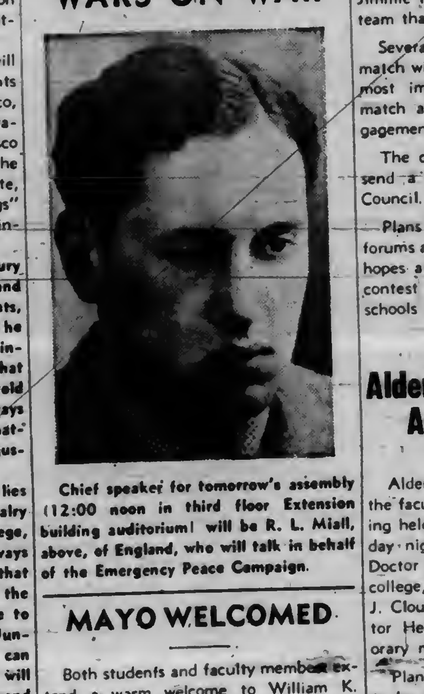
With a fairly substantial majority to his credit, Don Mix won the election for Associated Men Students' presidency over Russ Turver at elections held last Thursday at the Extension Building.

Political circles held this contest previous to election at almost even odds, with both men considered as desirable, conscientious candidates of equal merit.

Mix, however, garnered the most votes, and as his fellow officers, were elected Don Mills, vice-president; John Dinsmeyer, secretary; and Ed Frediani, treasurer.

Turver has also announced his intention of aiding and supporting Mix in all matters pertaining to Men's Club affairs.

Mix himself has announced that he will follow, as much as possible, the precedents laid down by Maury Schwarz, Bob Sisco, and Tyler McHugh, with all the innovations that he can inaugurate. With Sisco and McHugh still in attendance at the college, Mix hopes that the triumvirate, plus his officers, will do "great things" toward promoting the welfare of the institution.



"Although I have never known Maury Schwarz, first president of the AMS, and later president of the Associated Students, personally," said Mix, "and although he is at present attending our arch rival institution, San Francisco State, from what his good friends still going here have told me, I feel that, in a pinch, I can always depend upon his assistance in every matter except where his present loyalty justifiably lies," Mix said.

"Since much of our local interest lies in creating a friendly, yet intense, rivalry between S. F. State and our own College, and since McHugh and Sisco have always been good friends of Schwarz, I feel that this semester, above all, should afford the officers of the Men's Club a chance to give to the students of San Francisco Junior College a program of which they can justly be proud, and which, as well, will afford them the maximum of pleasure and constructive amusement."

The first event which Mix's group will sponsor is the Frosh-Soph Brawl, to be held next Friday, under the faculty guidance of Joe Amori, generally recognized as the "true spirit of Men's Club's satisfactory direction."

As something probably considered, but not mentioned, heretofore, Mix has openly offered his help to any new student, bashful or otherwise, who seeks any information regarding student activities. The new Men's Club president has expressed a desire to help one and all, regardless of whether he be a potent all-conference athlete, a potential Phi Beta Kappa, or just the ordinary "C" student, in any way that lies within his powers.

WARS ON WAR

Chief speaker for tomorrow's assembly (12:00 noon in third floor Extension building auditorium) will be R. L. Miall, above, of England, who will talk in behalf of the Emergency Peace Campaign.

MAYO WELCOMED

Both students and faculty members extend a warm welcome to William K. Mayo, the newest addition to our staff of instructors.

Last fall, Mayo was a faculty member of the new George Washington High School. Previously he was an instructor at Lowell High School.

THESPIANS WANTED

"Oh, say can you sing, dance, or act?" is the theme song of Tony Scafani, Block S. F. entertainment leader. ....A talent quest that will culminate in a gigantic evening vaudeville show in the Galileo auditorium is being rushed forward by Scafani, Jim Fahn, Louie Bertolucci, and Ed Frediani. ....Anyone with footlight aspirations can sign up with one of the above mentioned talent searchers.

Experience is not necessary. Parlor magicians, imitators, singers, yodelers, skits, whistlers, bazuka players, tumblers, and even punsters are welcome to try out.

The theme and background have already been planned. All that is left is the securing of the talent and the setting of the time for tryouts and the final show.

TIME SLIPS, TIME SLIPS! SLIPPERY?

All NYA workers who have not yet secured time slips should do so as soon as possible, warns Helene Turner, NYA director, as no one will be paid whose time slip is not in by February 26.

Time slips may be secured from Miss Turner in the office at Galileo, and all new workers are urged to report there immediately.

FORUM CLUB WILL PUBLISH BOOK OF STUDENT LITERARY EFFORTS

Holding one of its monthly meetings, the Forum Club at its last meeting on January 25, in addition to hearing and discussing reports given by Betty Brown and John Healy on the Spanish situation, heard the suggestions of its publication committee. This committee was appointed at the preceeding meeting for the purpose of investigating the possibilities of publishing a small literary magazine for the college.

A general outline of problems and suggestions was made, and given to the club in which the principal difficulty was that of financing the enterprise. With financial aid from the Associated Students not forthcoming at the time, the suggestion was made and approved that the committee act as an editorial staff to attempt to handle a column in The Guardsman as a forum or place wherein material of all kinds might be presented.

Since that time, however, the committee has acted on its own initiative, with the approval of their advisor, Dr. Dorothy Mercer, and dropped the idea when a plan was conceived which might enable them to proceed with the original purpose. This was a publication to consist of 30 to 40 mimeographed pages to be put out once a term.

The plans for such a publication, according to the committee, are to solicit literary contributions from the college as a whole, but principally through the English and social science departments. Short stories, dramas, and articles of all kinds, on any subject whatsoever, will be considered. The magazine will consist of a generalized selection of material, and will be balanced as far as possible.

With the chance that the finance plans, which would consist of assessments on members at meetings, would be accepted, the committee herewith offers approximate specifications for length of material: Short stories and dramas to have not more than 1,500 words. Articles, essays, literary criticisms, satires, etc., 100 to 1,500 words. Material shorter than that will be accepted for consideration also. This material may be submitted to the Forum Club at any time through its advisors, Dr. Mercer, and William Goss.

The next meeting of the club will be held this Friday evening, February 12, at the home of Betty Brown, 111 Ninth Avenue. The subject to be discussed, which is being prepared by Betty Deming and Arthur Becker, is "Is Science Taking the Place of Religion"?

DOWN TO WORK GO DEBATE STUDENTS AS PLANS FORMED

With promise for a full term of forensic activity, the debators settled down to work. The organization will affiliate itself with Phi Rho Phi, national forensic honor society.

Returning veterans, led by Gene Blumanthal, Isabel Sherritt, Parnell Brown, and Jimmie Neal, will form the nucleus of a team that shows great promise.

Several debates are scheduled. A match with Coalinga Junior College is the most important so far, with a return match also on the list. The return engagement will be held in San Francisco.

The class will elect officers, and will send a representative to the Executive Council.

Plans for the term also include several forums and the grand finale, if the groups hopes are fulfilled, is to be a speakers' contest with entrants from all city high schools competing for honors.

Alden Smith Selected As Fraternity Adviser

Alden Smith was officially initiated as the faculty sponsor of Beta Phi at a meeting held at the fraternity house on Monday night, February 1. Smith succeeds Doctor Franklin Sewell, who has left the college, at the post. President Archibald J. Cloud, Doctor Edwin Sandys, and Doctor Henry Soule were installed as honorary members at this meeting.

Plans and arrangements for an auction to be held in the next few weeks were also discussed, and a tentative committee was appointed to work out the details.

All candidates for pledgeship in the fraternity will be presented at the next meeting, David York, president of the group, announced.

CUSTOM, COSTUME LECTURE TUESDAY

Women students may hear a one-hour lecture on Customs and Costumes of Japan, next Tuesday, February 16, at 12 o'clock noon in the third floor lecture hall at the Extension Building, according to Jo Jordan, president of the Household Arts Association, sponsor of the event.

The speaker will be Miss M. Sannomiya, a native of Japan and a graduate of the University of California, who is making a lecture tour of the United States.

The talk, which will last for one hour, will be illustrated with costumes from Madame Butterfly's in Chinatown. All women students, their friends and relatives, are cordially invited, Miss Jordan has announced.

Elaine Dominguez Heads AWS After Elections of Last Week; Latz Second

With nominations given from the floor, the Associated Women Students held executive elections last Thursday at 12 o'clock noon in the lecture hall of the Extension Building. Elaine Dominguez was elected president of the organization; Barbara Latz, vice-president; Norma Parent, secretary; and Patricia Madden, treasurer.

One representative from each of the four classes was elected to represent her class at AWS Council meetings. The class representatives are as follows: Low Freshman, Vivian McDonald; High Freshman, Marion Anderson; Low Sophomore, Florence Murphy; High Sophomore, Beth Hillyard.

The elections were presided over by Helen Davis, last semester's president and new vice-president of the Associated Students.

Scram Boys, They're Puttin' On the Screws

"Clamp down on all wearers of high school, college, and club blocks that are not official S. F. J. C. emblems," ordered Pete Jambruno, newly elected president of the Block S. F. Society, at the first regular meeting of the semester February 4, in the Galileo cafe.

The edict will probably affect freshmen principally, as upper classmen are familiar with the ruling.

Bob Nelson, a member of the N. C. J. C. C. soccer champs, was elected to the pen pushing and money holding job of the block society, while Lambie "Muscles" Allen was drafted for sergeant at arms duty.

Outgoing president, Carlyle Caine, who automatically becomes Associated Students representative, impressed the society's position in college affairs upon the members, and asked for more co-operation in the future.

NEWMAN CLUB GIVES PARTY AT ST. MARY'S

With some 120 people in attendance, the Newman Club held a whist party at St. Mary's Cathedral last Friday night, February 5, according to Pete Jambruno, president of the group. Several prizes were given and refreshments were served following the game, Jambruno said.

A business meeting was held on Monday evening, February 8, and Marcella Hunt was elected to the post of secretary, which was vacated by Patricia Bernard, who has left college. Bill Ravetto was appointed sergeant-at-arms to succeed Bob Lee.

SURVEY OF WOMEN STUDENTS ON NYA IS MADE BY HELENE TURNER

After many weeks of preparation and compilation, Helene Turner, NYA director in the College, has completed a personnel survey of the women students employed by NYA here. She will read this survey on February 17, at New Orleans, before the National Association of Deans of Women.

This study, the first of its kind ever made, reveals some interesting facts about the type of women employed by the NYA; for instance, NYA women ranked higher in an examination on psychology and mental ability than all other women in the college. A survey showed that women employees of NYA had an average of 1.2 D's and F's in their final grades, as compared to 2.7 apiece for the rest of the women.

Of the 38 women employed by the NYA, five came from parochial schools and 33 from non-sectarian ones.

The average number of recommending high school grades was 10.7 for NYA employees and 5.3 for other women.

Eighteen of the women now working on NYA have stenography as their ambition, 14 aspire to be teachers, and the rest to enter various fields, including law, medicine, art and religion.

"On the whole," said Miss Turner, "the survey has shown that women employed on NYA are probably more interested in obtaining an education than are most of those without financial handicaps to overcome."

STANFORD ENTRANCE APPLICATIONS 20TH

For the benefit of students interested in entering Stanford University, the application and aptitude test will be held in San Francisco on Saturday, March 20, at 9:00 a.m., in Room 207, Lowell High School. Applications and credentials of candidates for admission to Stanford University for 1937-38, should be filed with the registrar of Stanford in accordance with the following schedule:

	Lower Division	Upper Division
Autumn Quarter	May 1	Sept. 10
Winter Quarter	Dec. 1	Dec. 10
Spring Quarter		March 10
Summer Quarter	June 1	June 10

Women students are advised to apply earlier in order to secure precedence in housing accommodations.

ITS YOUR TURN NOW

During the past two weeks a certain group of students have been subjected to certain modes of undignified treatment at the hands of another group of students. They have been forced to wear funny little hats, bow to their superiors, forego conversational tete-a-tetes with members of the opposite sex, and "assume the angle" whenever requested.

As a group the underdogs have been good sports about the whole affair, although certain ones have been doing the usual share of complaining. Everyone, the good sports and the bad, will have a chance to turn the tables this Friday at the Frosh Brawl.

The Men's Club has prepared a program of exciting events and the Freshmen are expected to turn out in full force as it will be their only chance to avenge their honor. If they win they are set for the rest of the semester, but if they lose they are liable to be set upon!

Consequently, it is to their advantage to gather all their little friends together and descend upon the Sophomores with all the pent up fury they have been amassing since the beginning of the semester.

Here's wishing them luck. They'll need it!

THANKS!

Appreciation is hereby extended, through The Guardsman, to William Patterson, proprietor of the San Francisco Junior College Book Store, for his generosity in donating the mezzanine floor of his store to the college library.

The removal of the library to the Extension Building made it necessary for more space than the building provided and Patterson, who has always been willing to help the college whenever possible, once more solved the situation to the advantage of the college.

WRITE IT DOWN!

In almost any Junior College, one can find a group of chronic complainers whose one joy in life is finding fault with things. "This is all wrong," they wail. "That should be done away with." It matters but a little what the issue at hand happens to be. They are certain to take the negative side and rave for hours to all who will listen.

They are always ready to come to the Editor and demand that an editorial be written on this or that subject, but refuse to take care of the matter through the simple process of writing their complaints down on paper, addressing it to the Ram's Horn and handing it in at The Guardsman office.

This failing is usually due to pure laziness but in rare cases the student feels that an editorial on the subject will garner more attention than a personally-written letter. Here, he is wrong. Just as many (or perhaps more) read the Ram's Horn as read the Editorial columns. (This is not modesty on the part of the Editor but merely the result of personal experience.)

Exert the energy you use in making a lot of noise in a more profitable way. Write your complaint on paper and turn it in. If it is worth printing it will be printed. If it asks a question an attempt will be made to answer this question. If you take exception to something somebody else writes, write your side of the story. Journalistic ability is not demanded although the letter should be typed and spelling and punctuation should be within reason.

To quote somebody or other, "Don't think it, write it." Hand your "writings" into The Guardsman office, across the hall from Room 261 at Galileo, or place it in The Guardsman mail box, located in the office across from 211.

Remember, it's your Ram's Horn, so go ahead and blow it!

STILL WAITING

Looking back to February of last year, we find an article in The Guardsman in which the Balboa Park site in the Ingleside district is definitely selected as the permanent home of the San Francisco Junior College. Ground plans for the college buildings and the surrounding campus are presented and the announcement is made that facilities for approximately 3,000 students are to be ready by January, 1937.

A glance at the calendar reveals that this is February of 1937 and the students of the college are still without any definite mooring place. True, a site has been selected, plans have been drawn, and even an architect's model completed, but, getting down to concrete facts, when will actual building activity commence and when will buildings be ready for our occupancy?

Being buffeted about from pillar to post, while at first something of a novelty, has become more or less monotonous. Traveling from one institution to another has ceased

We sympathize with the gal who signed up for Lee Eisan's Hygiene class, for we pulled the same stunt when we first entered junior college. Being a logical soul, we naturally assumed that Hygiene 1 came before Hygiene 2, and couldn't figure out why women couldn't take the number 2 course.

Right after our own heart is the guy (or gal) who bats out a column called "Rats In The Hold" for Ventura J. C.'s Pirate Press. In his (or her) introductory column, the author says that it is intended to be "entirely void of such stuff as good English, good journalism, good manners and Hearstism".

Ah, Utopia!

The first week of classes found several self-appointed welcome committees handing it out in large doses to all unsuspecting Freshmen who were willing to swallow. Foremost among these helpful (?) creatures was one Mister Preovolos, known in the better college circles as "Griego Jimmy", whose smooth line and charming manner so deceived the lamblets that they swallowed, bones and all, the woiks. Among the most valuable information handed out by Mister P. was that Sophomores could easily be distinguished because they would wear spats, dink hats would have elastic under the chin to prevent their blowing away on a windy day, and that all students would be requested to bring skiis to school on rainy days so that they could slide down the Powell Street hill with greater ease. Last reports have it that Jimmy is sitting up nights thinking up more information to pass on to the younger set.

While on this track, how about Tony Scarfani and Jimmy Fahn, who offered, free of charge, to help entering Freshmen make out their programs. The only thing they insisted on was that said Freshman be female, blonde, tiny and good looking!

With the hope that you, my readers, (both of you) have managed to live through our first column, we would like to present a little poem. While not entirely original, it is appropriate.

Hush little Freshman, don't you cry,
You'll be a Sophomore, by and by.
Then, no' more paddles, no more "dink"
That's worth waiting for, don't you think?

The basketball team seems to be knocking over everything in sight with their lightning fast shooting. We always thought that lightning never strikes twice in the same place.

Then there's the Freshman who has his girl friend's comb hanging on the wall over his bed. He must hate to part with it!

After listening to the Editor holler about getting our column in on time, we are thinking of calling her "She Moan, She Moan."

For some weeks, now, a battle has been raging between the exponents and the opponents of the "dinks" system. We are rigidly neutral on the question, but, like a voice crying from the wilderness, would like to inquire why such measures should be confined to the hapless male. Hasn't the Rally Committee heard about Woman Suffrage? It seems to us that the freshman co-eds should be required also to wear some badge of distinction, such as a red ribbon rakishly tied around one galosh, or tying one's hat securely on one's head, which last suggestion is especially practical in view of the unusual weather. Entering co-eds might also carry scarlet smudge-pots on which to warm their toes when travelling on the one-man cars.

Another voice from the wilderness has just reminded us that the "dinks" system has always been for men only. To this scoffer, we heatedly reply that our alma mater should pioneer a movement of "dinks for dames". Is the spirit of Note: Some of the above suggestions for "badges of distinction" are, we admit, somewhat fantastic, but our brain children pale into conservatism when contrasted with a tale with which a well-known campus playboy was recently holding a number of freshmen spellbound. According to this genial goof, the freshman students are required to wear dinks, but the sophomores must sport red and white spots, with which to "keep the Powell Street wind off their ankles"!

CURTAIN

With Battle Hymn, the current production at the Columbia, the Federal Theatre Project has definitely made for itself a position of importance in the theatre. If this play can be taken as a standard for the group, the public is assured of legitimate productions of high merit. It has certainly earned a position of importance in the community and requires only a wider recognition before it can be called an established institution.

The play, written by Michael Blankfort and Michael Gold, is an excellent piece of work. In it they capture the unrest and the struggle that preceded the Civil War. Besides being an interpretative picture of the times, it is a brilliant character study, for against the background of Ohio and Kansas in 1854, the stirring figure of John Brown rushes wildly to his destiny. George Bratt, in the role of John Brown, does a splendid job. We see a peaceful, religious, farmer, who is violently opposed to slavery, change into a fanatical abolitionist who sweeps across Kansas in a reign of terror.

A feature of the play, which was particularly effective, was the use of prologues. A prologue was given before each act in which a chorus and several speakers set the scene and struck the mood. Symbolically they represented Congress. The situation was thus strikingly presented, and a vivid picture given of the clash of interests between the free industrial North and the slave South.

This powerful drama, conceived as an epic of sorts, is the biggest thing that the Federal has yet done. Requiring unusually long preparation it consists of three acts, ten scenes, prologues, and close to 100 actors. Though credit goes to director W. E. Watts for capably handling this monstrous creation, this reviewer believes that the play did not achieve importance by its size alone. A simple production could have easily been made just as effective.

SPOTLIGHT

By Don Mix

After a few futile attempts at resistance, the low freshmen have apparently decided to act like good little lambs (perhaps we should say Rams) and are reported to be submitting without a struggle to the various indignities inflicted upon them by their upper class brethren. We, along with other lusty paddle wielders, have found that hazing loses most of its appeal when the object of your attentions simply refuses to get perturbed and just considers your "plagin' him" to be a necessary but rather childish evil. This, however, my dear neophytes, does not mean that there will be any cessation of vigilance on the part of the club swingers, because many of the lads have not yet wearied of the sport.

So, even if the mere phrase "school spirit" causes you to be filled with a righteous wrath, I would suggest that for the safety of life and limb you allow yourself to be persuaded by the aggressive hat salesmen.

We wish we could find the dull witted freshman, who, when asked to raise his right hand, inquired when was the best time of the year to plant it.

The top personality in the news this week seems to be the effervescent head of the Rally Committee, Deming Smith. It was this lad along with President Jim Neal, who planned the student meet of last week which was the biggest and most successful thing of its kind in the history of the college, the "vets" around here tell us.

Bill Schoenfeld has been inviting all the scenery that form at the Galileo gates every afternoon to an o-pun house . . . we know it's no good, but we didn't think you'd read this far.

Prexy's Prattle

Thanks goes to Mr. Preston of the Galileo High School for handling the spotlight at our rally last Wednesday. When it comes to stage activities, he has always been willing to help.

Our loud applause showed how much we think of Eddie Fitzpatrick and his group of entertainers. Miss Griffith and "Big" Bill Wallace almost brought down the house. If you liked the rally last Wednesday, let's see you turn out at the next one.

Congratulations Don Mix! The Men's Club couldn't have picked a more capable man for Prexy. Lots of luck to your administration. We're looking forward to the Freshman Brawl next Friday afternoon.

Class elections will be held tomorrow at 2:15 P. M. at the Galileo High School. The Low Frosh will meet in the Assembly, High Frosh in the cafeteria, Low Sophomores in room 458, and the High Sophs in the little theatre. Faculty advisers have been appointed and will meet with their respective classes. Candidates will be nominated from the floor. The campaign managers of the various candidates will give their nomination speeches. The election will be held right after the speeches.

Class officers to be elected will be a President, Vice-President and Secretary.

Let's see a big turn-out at every meeting.

We of the Associated Students wish to express our sincere appreciation to the Faculty and the Administration of the school for their ever willing spirit of co-operation and good will, especially in giving us time out from our classes last Wednesday for our Rally.

the Ram's Horn

Pro and Con

Dear Editor:

When they handed out brains they must have given that "Independent Irishman" his with an eyedropper. Of all the super colossal gall, and nerve; blaming San Mateo Junior College for these TROUBLE MAKERS, ROWDIES, and the BEST NUISANCES. It so happens that I spent my low freshman semester at San Mateo J. C., and there was the nicest bunch of fellows and girls there to be found on any campus. I will admit that there were a few "BUMS", but they are to be found anywhere, even in the best of clubs. He talks of the Joe College boys, and I certainly agree that there are a few who go to college to imitate what they see in the movies. There is a larger sprinkling of "Joe College Boys" at Marin Junior College than at any other institution that I know of. There was not as much violence at S. M. J. C. as at Marin J. C. I have it on good authority, that a fellow I know had to play custodian to a DUCK for a while, during his freshman hazing week. To do this, he had to sit in class with a long string leading out of the window to a pond where the duck enjoyed himself during the period. If this doesn't "smack" of Joe College I don't know. At first I did not think that the compulsory buying of these "Dinks" was fair, but seeing that they are Rooter's Caps and not SILLY looking Dinks such as the kind at San Mateo my mind has changed. It is a good idea to pep up this institution with a little spirit even if it is forceable. Students have been moping around this so-called campus. This forceable school spirit is all right as long as it is kept out of the hands of the Joe College Tramps.

A FIFTH TERMER.

Dear Editor:

May I use the Rams Horn to give a bit of advice to the Freshmen? Here it is:

Cultivate the gift of gab and save yourself much pain and embarrassment. If you can talk, and talk fast, the next "white topped" pest who accosts you will be nonplussed by your quite evident superiority. Not only will he "assume the angle" for your edification but before departing he will probably ask coyly if you have a hypotenuse or two which he can square. Remember, newcomer, noise is one of the "soundest" of physical principles. Apply this principle to the nearest "Soph" and watch him wilt.

Soph-isticated.

Dear Editor:

Being as how I am too a believer in school spirit, the Ram's Horn letter last week is very unnice. People which think such bad things should be not let to any more go to our school.

The dinky hats are very cute, and seeing them wearing makes me feel so thrilled that I am going to a real college. And the big boys with the paddles are so collegiate—just like Joe Penner and his duck.

I do wish the boys wud really haze, bucaws I read once upon a time they sometime make them propose to we girls. Ohhoooo, I do hope so!

Having reading Mr. Irishes colyum a second time, the street car jumped and my pretty red and white cap fell off of me where a puppy dog grabbed it and chewed it all to pieces, if momma won't give me some more money to again buy a new one I will be broken heart.

I do hope sum kind teacher will take the unhappy student in hand which wrote that letter and teach him to be better becaws or else he will land up in jale.

CONLANMEN MEET MARIN TOMORROW

. . SPORTS . .

THEY TOOK REVENGE ON SANTA ROSANS

These are some of the basketball men who are doing their best to steer the college to another conference championship.

SANTA ROSANS LOSE, WIN ONE IN SERIES SET

Franciscans Get 38 - 28 Victory Saturday After Droping 26-17 Thurs.

After suffering a severe 26-17 defeat at the hands of the Santa Rosa Junior College basketball team on last Thursday evening, the Ram quintet came back strong in Saturday's contest to whip the Cubs 38-28 and even up the series between the two colleges.

The initial encounter, played in Kezar Pavilion, found the highly favored Rams completely bewildered by the fast breaking and brilliant defensive work of the Santa Rosans. It was five minutes before a score was chalked up for either team and then it was the men from the north getting the buckets.

Before the Conlanmen could get set they found themselves trailing a squad that had yet to win a conference game this season.

Being unable to find the hoop, the San Francisco men were successful in chalking up but one lone field goal in the first half of the game.

Score at half time stood Santa Rosa 12, San Francisco 4.

The second half of the contest was a complete replica of the opening period. Both fives went scoreless for a long period and then Egan, playing at the guard position for the Rams, broke the ice to open the scoring and give the San Francisco squad their second field goal of the night.

It looked like Coach Conlan's men were out to overtake the Cubs, but bad ball handling by the locals, and 30-foot field goals by forwards Tedford and Pedersen of the visitors ruined the squad's chances of making a comeback. The men from the northern village pulled away again and were leading 18-4 with but 14 minutes to play. Nice shots by Egan and Kotta pulled the score up for the Rams but the handicap was too great to overcome. The defending champions had lost their first conference game of the season.

Egan led the scorers with eight points, while Pedersen topped the Santa Rosans with seven markers.

Playing at Santa Rosa on Saturday evening, the Cubs found an altogether different basketball team playing against them. It was not the squad they had drubbed 26-17 at Kezar, but a group of young men that were out to win that old ball game and stay in the league race.

The San Francisco team, led by Bill Phelan and Gus Kotta, got off to an early lead that was never headed by the Cubs. Dividing the markers quite evenly the Powell Street men had plenty of shots at the bucket and connected frequently on this rainy evening.

The Conlanmen played a different type of basketball in this second meeting of the colleges. Passes were surer, shots were better, and the defense was always set. The Rosans had no chances as in the previous encounter to "get hot."

Score at half time was San Francisco Junior College 23, Santa Rosa Junior College 15.

The opening of the second half found the Rams still out to avenge the defeat of Thursday evening. Brilliant shots by Phelan, Kotta, Egan and Loustalot helped keep the S. F. J. C. quintet nicely in the lead.

Pedersen, Rosa forward, kept the home team in the game with looping field goals but it was to no avail.

Last year's champions showed that they still were tops and that the first meeting of the two teams may have been a slight mistake.

22 fouls were called in the game, 16 of them on the San Francisco team. The Rams sank 4 out of the 6 free throws allotted them.

Pedersen, Santa Rosan, led the teams for scoring honors, making 13 points, as Bill Phelan, center, hit the basket for 10 points.

In Thursday's preliminary contest, Coach Tom Wilson's 145-pound quintet whipped the Mission High School varsity 23-21 in a closely fought battle. The victory was the first for the Ram babes.

LAMB'S RAMBLINGS

By Lambert Meyer

The Ram 145-pound basketballers have finally found themselves. The men were successful in defeating the Mission High varsity quintet 23-21 last Wednesday evening at Kezar. Chalk up the 145's first win this season.

* * *

George Bedrosian, newcomer on Coach Conlan's quintet, is a former two-year, all-city basketball player from our neighboring city of Oakland. George was outstanding in prep circles while attending University High.

* * *

Willie Cardane, tiny coxswain of the crew, is practicing up on his aquatic form these days. Win or lose, the crewmen toss Willie into the icy waters. It even happens in practice. What a life for a coxswain.

* * *

The Modesto, Marin basketball teams set some sort of a sports record in basketball circles in their recent clash. The Modestans defeated the Mariners 41-36, but in the contest no less than 42 personal fouls were called by the officials. 27 of these fouls were called on the men from Marin County and the team was forced to finish the encounter with but three men on the hardwood. The Ram five is seriously thinking of digging up the laid away gridiron costumes.

* * *

Most ardent fan and rooter seen this season: Johnny Fitzgerald, junior college baseball player. Never misses a basketball game whether played in San Francisco or out of town. Knows every play and player. "Never break a winning streak by talking to yourself," says Fitz. "A person who mumbles to himself throughout the game is putting the hex on his club's chances." Maybe it's good advice.

* * *

Our four famous gym coaches must have become a bit jealous of the gridiron warriors and their loud leather jackets. Today we see the four horsemen attired in smart, gray jackets that are a little easier on the eyes of onlookers.

* * *

We feel sorry for those poor, innocent freshmen that have classes on Powell Street at 10:00 o'clock and unawares signed up for tennis classes at 11:00 o'clock at the Palace of Fine Arts courts. It takes a great deal more than ten minutes to journey from Powell Street to the courts.

* * *

Coaches Jack Gaddy and Louis Conlan looked like a couple of Major Bowes amateurs at the recent Associated Students rally. "Dutch" wowed the crowd with his impersonation of Pete Jambruno, and Gaddy had the audience in the aisles with his characterization of an incoming freshman. Dean Browne was the closest to Robert Taylor of the trio.

* * *

Bill Cohen, former football trainer at the University of San Francisco, is now attending the junior college. Bill operates a chain of San Francisco drug stores and has hopes of becoming a doctor. He's that very fine looking fellow with the dark moustache.

* * *

Ernie Loustalot, forward on the Ram quintet, has a hobby of playing that nerve-wracking game of ping-pong. Ernie and basketball manager Harvey Glassenberg study the game in their spare moments. Wouldn't Ernie look queer dribbling a ping-pong ball on the basketball court?

* * *

Dave "King Kong" Smith, junior college heavyweight champ, was the standout of the evening in the P. A. amateur boxing bouts at Dreamland Auditorium last week. Smith, in the "thriller" of the evening, decisioned Phil Martinovich in the first round of the tournament. The J. C. heavy had his opponent on the canvass in both the first and third rounds.

Kay Griffith, pretty singer and actor, stood the block men on their heads with her melodious voice at the rally last Wednesday. The men were actually speechless while Miss Griffith sang her numbers.

* * *

Coach Russell Sweet's trackmen have abandoned Kezar Stadium to do their gallivanting at the Commerce High School oval. The men work out daily, although the first meet is not until early in March.

* * *

Smiles adorned the faces of Coaches Lee Eisan and Jack Gaddy upon viewing the classy turnout of baseballers at Funston Field last week. Returning are a host of letter men and a flock of brilliant regulars.

* * *

It seems as if the planned boxing bouts between State and San Francisco Junior College have been forgotten since "Slugger" Maury Schwarz dropped unexpectedly out of college. The slugfest would have been something out of the ordinary.

RAM FIVE READY TO MEET STATE IN TRADITIONAL

Kezar Pavilion Scene of Annual Basketbal game as Gators Are Favored

Ready to "shoot the works" the Ram basketeers will meet the strong quintet of the San Francisco State College next Tuesday evening, February 16, at 8:00 o'clock in Kezar pavilion. The junior college team, fresh from its conference battles, will be out to win the "Big Game" from Coach Dan Farmer's Gator five.

This contest, which has become a real rivalry between the two institutions, will mean something more than just another basketball game. All of the former clashes betwen the Rams and the Staters have been close, and junior college men and women just cannot forget that infinitesimal 2-0 score chalked up four months ago in a gridiron battle between the two colleges. They want revenge and Tuesday's the night. It's the Ram's chance to skin the Gator.

STATE WINS MANY

The State squad has had a very successful season, winning 11 out of 13 contests. It has on its defeated list Menlo Junior College, Eureka J. C., Chico State, California Aggies, and the strong Fresno State College hoopsters.

This will be the third basketball meeting of the two colleges. Last year, as they will this year, the fives of Conlan and Farmer split a two-game series, the Powell Street men upsetting the State outfit in the initial meeting and the Gators coming back two weeks later to even the score.

With hopes of gaining an early lead, Coach Farmer will probably start his first string line-up of forwards, Bill Hammond and Kennie Wilkes; center, Cy Atkinson, and guards, Bill Plutte and Ken Johnson.

The State basketballers feature a fast break, with the forward combination of Hammond and Wilkes getting plenty of set-up shots at the bucket. Atkinson is high point man of the squad, and is outstanding on follow-up shots.

Other capables are Notch De Bischopp, Cecil Huse, and Dick Hurst.

JUNIOR COLLEGE FAVORED

The Conlanmen, slight favorites to win the fray because of more experience, have been aiming for the Gators and will be out to cop the opening game of the split two-week series. A win over this well-formed quintet will establish the Rams as standouts for the Northern California Junior College Conference honors. A victory or a defeat will not change their league standing.

No starting line-up has been announced by the J. C. mentor, but the combination of Loustalot and Kotta at forwards, Phelan at center, and Mordecai and Maas at guards will probably prevail.

The second clash of the two teams will be on Wednesday evening, February 24. Game time is set at 8:00 p.m. with the Ram 145's meeting the State lightweights in the preliminary contest. Admission is by Associated Students card.

Stiff Practices Prepare Crew Men For Race on Washington's Birthday

Coach Jack Gaddy's crew men have been going through stiff practice sessions during the past week in preparation for their first appearance this semester in the Washington's birthday regatta on February 22. Although the entry lists include many of the colleges in the newly formed rowing conference, this race will not affect the league standings. A silver cup will be presented to the winning boat in this event, Gaddy said.

An incomplete entry list showed that the Galleys that will oppose the Ram bladedippers in the struggle for the trophy are San Mateo J. C., University of San Francisco Freshmen, Oakland Poly, and the Wheel Club.

Gaddy announced that he was very pleased with the performance of the freshmen sweep swingers. Elmer Hubacker from Balboa, Tom "Cho-cho" Caratto from Galileo, and Verne Morse from Burlingame, seem to be the best of the new talent, according to Gaddy.

The line-up — starboard: Ed Craig, stroke; Bill Schoenfeld, number 5; Joe Kissel, number 4; Lou Delera, number 3; Art Nelson, number 2; and bow, Joe Wagstaff; Port: stroke, Elber Hubacker; Tom Caratto, number 5; Will Dolman, number 4; Sims Hamilton, number 3; Carl Brogger, number 2; and Verne Morse, bow; Willie Cordana, coxswain, and "Red" Wright, pilot.

AROUND THE BASES WITH BERTOLUCCI

It is very seldom that Coaches Lee Eisan and Jack Gaddy will wait for any one man to put in an appearance before starting baseball practice, but all this week they have been patiently waiting.

The old man who is so expectantly awaited is Old Man Sol. For the past week he has played hide-and-seek behind the clouds while the Ram baseball team sat around idly, trying to get in a few practice sessions before facing their tough schedule of thirty-four games.

Only one good workout was had before the college nine engaged Commerce High School last Monday. But in that one practice, both mentors were surprised by the snap and hip-to-diddy shown by the players. All of the men looked to be in

SAN FRANCISCO QUINTET IN CRUCIAL ENCOUNTER AT KEZAR PAVILION

Hoopsters Must Defeat Mariners to Stay in the Conference Race; Kentfield Men Underdogs to Drop a Double Bill to Local Casabamen

Entertaining great expectations of toppling the San Francisco Junior College Rams, the basketball team of the Marin Junior College will clash with the San Francisco quintet Thursday and Saturday evenings, February 11 and 13, in a split series to be played at both Kezar and Kentfield pavilions.

The first game of the double header will be played in Kezar pavilion, with the San Francisco five journeying to Marin on Saturday evening for the second encounter.

PIRATES TRIM MARINERS

After dropping a twin series to the powerful Modesto Pirates, the Mariners will be out to sink the Rams on both evenings, as a win will place the Marin County men back in the league race and will also put the San Francisco squad out of the running.

The Mariners are strong and well-balanced, and their loss at the hands of the undefeated Modestans is no criterion of their basketball ability. Both contests were rough, and in the second meeting between the two teams Marin was forced to finish the fray with only three men because of excessive fouling. Forty-two fouls were called in the game, 27 of them on Marin.

RAMS SERIOUS

Coach Conlan's sharpshooters are a bit pessimistic about the outcome of the week-end contests, and have said that there will be no fooling around with the Kentfield five. The San Francisco quintet has been practicing diligently for the encounter and will be out to get those needed points from the opening whistle till the closing whistle.

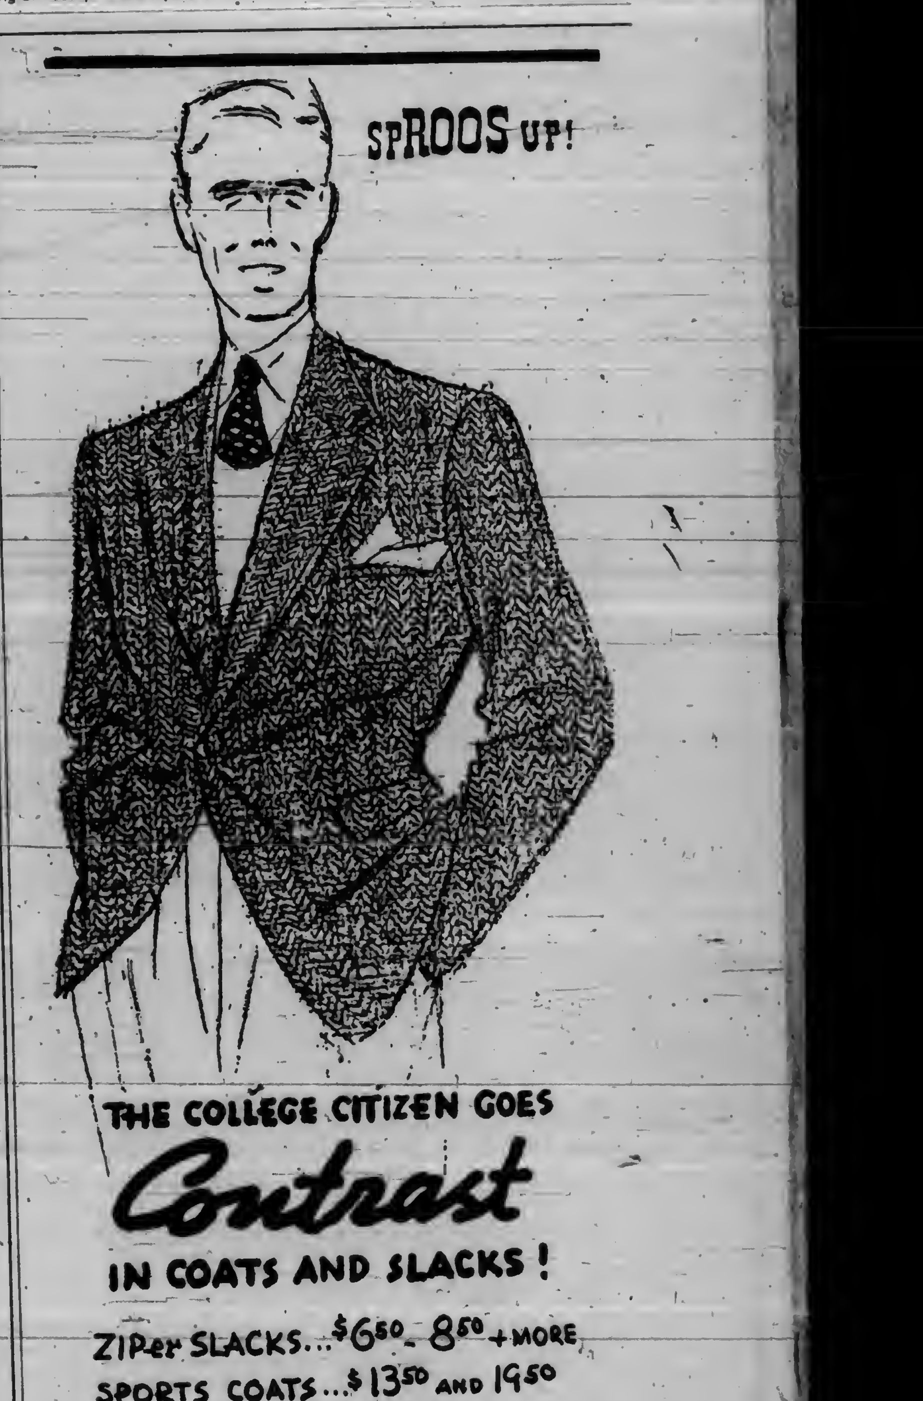
The Mariners, under the expert coaching of "Scoop" Carlson, are a tricky outfit with a variety of fast plays coupled with an iron clad defense.

Carlson will probably start the five of Glen Tovani and Jack Mullen at forwards; Herb Anderson at center; and Bud Smith and Johnny Allen at the guard posts. Anderson is the star of the team, having scored 23 points against the strong Stanford freshmen, and netting himself 24 against the Royce Athletic Club quintet.

LOCALS FAVORED

The visitors have lost four league basketball games to date, and also split a two-game contest with the University of San Francisco freshmen. The Rams, successful in dumping the Don babes in a practice game at Kezar, will be favorites to win both games tomorrow and Saturday evenings.

No official starting line-up has been announced by "Dutch" Conlan, but the first eight players, Kotta, Loustalot, Caine, Phelan, Mordecai, Maas, Egan and Rippon will be sure of entering the battle.



The starting whistle sounds at 8:00 p.m. Admission is by Associated Students Card. Tickets for outsiders can be secured at the Kezar pavilion ticket office.

MARINES AGAIN WINNERS OVER COLLEGE RIFLE

But Locals Shoot Highest Score of Eight Matches; Second Team Takes Tilt

The Marines still had the situation in hand, but only loosely, when their rifle team defeated the college first team by six points in the match fired at their home range, 105 Market Street, on Tuesday, February 2. Both aggregations were shooting their best, the final score being Marines 916, College 910, the latter total the highest attained by the local shooters in eight matches.

In the match Tuesday night, Bill Hancock and Dick Pitman shot their usual high scores of 187 and 185, closely trailed by Max Brewen, Ed Rundstrom, and George Dieser, with 181, 179, and 178, respectively. Don Smith, who usually places in the first five for the team, missed by one point this time, with a score of 177.

High match score of 191 was shot by E. G. Pacheco of the Marines, only one point under his record score for this league. Good scores of 189 and 184 by I. N. Kelly and C. Petersen helped the Marines' total.

Individual and team scores for the match were as follows:

S.F.J.C.—First

Hancock	*187	Pacheco	*191
Pitman	*185	Kelly	*189
Brewen	*181	Petersen	*184

Kermit Wright, shooting 48 out of a possible 50 in the offhand position, and amassing high match score of 178, led the second rifle team to victory over the shooters representing Battery "E" 250 Coast Artillery, on the eighth match of the Golden Gate Bridge League, fired at Galileo range last Friday night. Total team scores were, Second Team 838, Battery "E" 795.

Wright's outstanding offhand score is the best fired by any member of either Junior College team to date, Bill Hancock, executive officer of the Rifle & Pistol Club, and team coach, announced. His score of 178 would have been high enough to place on the first team in their match against the Marines, in which their highest total for the season was fired, Hancock added.

This win places the local Second Team in a favorable position to emerge as winners of the cup awarded by the League to the team with the fewest losses for the season. So far only one match has been lost to the Pacific Rod & Gun Club; and with matches against Post No. 99, American Legion and the Municipal Railroad remaining to be fired, both return engagements, the local shooters have good chances for the gold medals to be presented to the winners.

Individual and team scores for the match last Friday were as follows:

PRE MEDICOS ELECT OFFICERS AT MEET

Pi Mu Gamma, pre-medical students' club, held its first meeting of the spring semester Thursday, February 4. Election of officers was held, and the following students were chosen to lead the activities of the society: President, Jo Walsh; vice-president, Dolores Davies; recording secretary, Marie Hogert; corresponding secretary, Harold Zimmerman; treasurer, Mictbel Garakian; sergeant at arms, Stuart Kingsley; publicity agent, Charlotte Zeir.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

Of course it's a little early in the year to break forth with loud cheers to express our opinion about the progress the WAA is making; but we think they are doing some grand work.

Here's something which should create a stampede for the tennis sign ups . . . The tennis club is planning three play days with San Mateo, Marin, and State, with a possibility of Santa Rosa. All women students should be interested in the intra-school tournaments, and there's your chance, boys! the mixed doubles tournaments. Drag out your current flame, girls, and let's make this really interesting.

When signing up for WAA tennis, please state days and hours on which you will be able to play, including Saturday.

With a number of our baseball stars taking the lead, the baseball club will endeavor to put over several games with other schools. We wonder how the opposing teams will fare against the amazons who will make up our aggregation. Here's wishing them a good scrap. All women students interested in going out for baseball should sign up, stating days and hours on which they will be able to play. Come on gals, we want a big turnout.

Oh, yes, those tricky little triangles with the S. F.'s on them that you see lor don't you? on some of our WAA women are the first team awards. They receive a small triangle for each first team, and these are fixed on the large emblems.

Incidentally, the three charter members of the new Women's Block Society will shortly make their appearance in their new block jackets . . . watch for them and regard them with awe.

The rumor comes to us that the women would like to make baseball rougher, or rather rough tsk tsk. They play with a soft ball, but, of course, they can throw over hand . . . if that's any consolation. Tough luck, but never mind, you should be able to liven it up a little in other ways.

Correction . . . the sign-ups will be from February 15 to 19 in Gym B.

Have you noticed the posters in Gym A advertising the WAA activities? We're quite taken by the pictures and inscriptions on several of them. Nice going, girls.

We hear that there will be demonstrations of all the sports for the benefit of new students. Well . . . it sounds like a very good idea. We envy the lucky person who is chosen to demonstrate restricted . . . we'd like the job ourselves.

Here's a challenge. The basketball group of WAA will play any other team that wishes to organize with or without coaches. You may sign up with Miss Spencer for days and hours for the use of the gym.

The basketball club will sponsor a tri-sport play day with one of the neighboring junior colleges. There is a probability that the two other sports will be swimming and recreational games.

CLASSES AT GIRLS' HIGH PROVING O.K.

Transfer of several business classes to the Girls' High School, in order to avoid the distractions of a down-town site and the over-crowding of the Extension building, has proved successful, according to Ward Nichols, instructor there, and the quality of the students' work has shown marked improvement since the removal of classes from the former noisy, congested locations.

Classes are held at Girls' High in the morning from 8:25 o'clock to 12:00 noon, thanks to the co-operation of the principal and the head of the business department of Girls', who generously loaned equipment to the college. New equipment is being purchased by the college and will be installed shortly.

Approximately fifty-five girls are enrolled in these classes, which include business classes, Zoology, and Botaany. Ruth Gavin, Margaret Flournoy, Mrs. G. Nowell, Henry Ralston, Kenneth Hobbs, Michael Zarchin, and Nichols are the instructors in charge.

BASEBALL SQUAD MEETS STANFORD FROSH TOMORROW

Sports Writer Says Team Has Better Prospects Than That of Year Ago

perfect condition, and in that rare, mid-season form.

It's a very good thing for them that they are in such good form, because tomorrow afternoon they will be thrown to Bobby Grayson and his Stanford Freshman nine down on the Farm.

The Indian Babes have had considerably more practice than the Rams, and have already engaged in several tussles. This fact will make them a decided favorite over the Red and White from San Francisco.

Last year the Red Raiders were lucky to eke out a 6-5 victory over Stanford. The local nine, however, has a decidedly better team this year, especially in the pitching department, and will keep the Freshman on edge throughout the game. The contest starts about 3 o'clock on the Stanford diamond.

Coach Lee Eisan was asked to pick a team that would probably start the Stanford game, and gave the following nine, with a comment on all positions. "Wee Lee" wants it understood that the men that will start tomorrow will not necessarily make up the first team, but that they are men who played last season, and who are known by him.

There is not a man out for the team who can be sure of his position from week to week, with such competition that will be given him from several unknowns.

For the outfield, the probable starters will be Bruno Lucchesi at left field, Joe Andaras at center, and Bob Fex in right. But John Fitzgerald, Jack Berutich, and Paul Hjort will see considerable action in the nine innings.

The infield will be composed of Milton Berman at first, Tony Scafani at second, Dave Johnson at short-stop, and Joe Futernich on third. Dick Holmes, a veteran of the 1936 campaign, will work in at either short or third base, with most of the infielders being switched around to balance the team.

The only position that is pretty certain is that of the backstop, in which Ed Arvedi seems to have a good hold, with John Fitzgerald being called in from the outfield for any assistance he needs.

Of the four pitchers on the squad, George Hughes seems to be the favorite to take the stand in the starting role. Behind him will be Les Larson, the left-handed chucker from Oakland, Larry Wilgus, and Joaquin Martinez, both from previous nine. No matter who starts, however, it may be that all of the members of the mound staff will get a chance to show their wares.

If the pitchers can hold off the opposing batters, the Rams may upset the dope with a victory. Their fielding will be hard to beat, and their stick-wielding will be above the average. At least six of the men in the starting line-up are good hitters, with Lucchesi as the second leading hitter on the Ram team last year with an average well over .400.

Lack of Spirit Blamed on Wind Swept Corners, Odd Buildings to be "a glorious adventure," and the addition of certain classes at Girls' High has only tended to add to the burden.

True, we have been granted every courtesy by the administration of the University of California, which has made it possible for us to occupy the Powell Street Extension Building, and the San Francisco Board of Education, who made possible the use of the Galileo, Mission, and now, Girls', high school buildings. But it's not the same! Things will never be entirely satisfactory until we can leave our homes in the morning, attend our classes, and return home at night, without having visited every section of San Francisco.

San Francisco Junior College has been questioned by some for a lack of "school spirit." We all know that it is almost useless to try and obtain spirit, without some portion of "school pride," and who can manage to stir up pride in a miscellaneous assortment of odd buildings and several wind-swept corners?

San Francisco Junior College has well earned the title of "Public Step-Child Number One" and it is about time that some fairy godmother waved the magic wand and made it possible for the step-child to come into its own.

HIGHEST AWARDS GO TO 3 WOMEN OF WAA

For the first time since the opening of San Francisco Junior College, women students were presented with the highest award possible for them to receive —the block.

The three charter members of the new Women's Block Society, Helen Davis, Ruth Johnson, and Taneko Amemiya will wear white flannel jackets which have been chosen by a committee for the purpose. The block will be worn on the side of the jacket.

Qualifications for the blocks were met by the three women, according to the award committee composed of Bertha Keller, Verrel Weber, Vera Spencer, and Lorraine Kuhn, members of the women's coaching staff.

The following were the requirements:

1. Every candidate must make two first teams, or one first and one second team in two different sports.

2. Service to WAA which includes service committees and the holding of office.

3. Attitude towards women's sports.

4. Personal appearance, which includes posture and neatness.

5. Sportsmanship.

Cinder Practice Goes Despite Rain On Field At Commerce Hi Track

By Dick Simpers

Despite the delay in practice caused by the rain last week, the track team is rounding into shape rapidly under the critical eye of Coach Russ Sweet. Practice is now held every day from 12:00 noon to 1:00 p.m. at Commerce Field. A change from Kezar because of that field's inconvenient location, was made.

Prospects for a successful season are becoming steadily brighter, according to Captain George Warren, and the team should be in the best of shape for its initial meet with Stanford Frosh, on March 6.

The strongest events, at present, are the distance and middle distance races, the hurdles, and the pole vault. No outstanding prospect has yet appeared in the sprints or the weight events, but Coach Sweet is in hopes that some talent will be found among the newcomers to the squad.

At present, the mainstays of the team appear to be Jim Fahn and Bob Gerughty in the hurdles, Jim Fitzsimmons in the pole vault, and Warren and Wilson Camp in the distance races.

Time trials for the cindermen are being held every Saturday.

42 ENROLL IN RIFLE CLASSES

Classes in Rifle Marksmanship, with accompanying Physical Education credit, have enrolled 42 students so far this semester, it was announced by Verrel Weber and James Hughes, instructors in charge.

Through the cooperation of the Rifle and Pistol Club, rifles and instructional materials are provided for the class members' use. Student Body funds have been allocated to defray partially the cost of ammunition for students engaged in this activity.

Among the 13 women already learning to "hold 'em and squeeze 'em" are Virginia Kwiatt and Betty Hyde, both members of the college second rifle team, which seems to be headed for the championship in its league. Other students in the Monday and Wednesday section are: Mary Ellen Cook, Diana Duncan, Helen Elliott, Bette Hamerton, Jane Higgins, Marygail Kenkel, Ann Liddell, Esther Litchfield, Kathryn Loucks, Helen Norman, Janet O'Neill.

The men's section includes in its membership 35 students, among them John Benton, George Dieser, Sydney Farley, Dick Pitman, Don Smith, Fred Wright, John Stewart—all members of the first and second rifle teams. Others enrolled are: Joe Bomgardner, William Carroll, Alfred Coffman, Newman Comfort, John Duemler, Archie Erickson, Gordon Fiano, Clyde Kushnik, William Lafrery, Bailey Lang, Robert Levin, Leo Michaels, Benjamin Miller, Frank Parra, Alfred Plate, Guest Ricketts, Martin Roback, Max Sarver, T. RAMS DEFEAT STATEMEN

AWS OFFICIALS ARE INSTALLED AT TUES. LUNCH

Helen Davis Hands Rein to E. Dominguez Along with Achievement Talk

Associated Women Student officers for this semester were formally installed Tuesday, February 9, at a luncheon held in the Galileo Cafeteria at noon. Past President Helen Davis handed over the reigns of office to her successor, Elaine Dominguez, with a speech recalling the achievements of her term and thanking the AWS members for their cooperation.

High spot of the affair was the acceptance speech made by Miss Dominguez, during which she outlined AWS plans for this semester. "Women students may expect an eventful spring semester," she said. "We are working for a more closely-knit relationship among the members, and a greater participation of the AWS in student affairs. These objectives can be achieved only if each woman student does her part."

It was decided, at the informal discussion held while the luncheon was in progress, that the first business to be taken up by the AWS was a campaign to rent an art gallery on Sutter Street, near the Extension building. The gallery, which has a small outdoor patio boasting plants and a fountain as its most attractive feature, would be handed over to the students of the college as an informal gathering place, supplementing the AWS social hall for women students.

According to Dean of Women Eugenie Leonard, a series of art exhibits obtained from the Federal Art Project and other sources will be held in the gallery but all students may feel free to use it as a place of amusement as well as esthetic entertainment. It is hoped that this attractive meeting place will be used by all students during the time it is rented.

Another interesting event taking place during the luncheon was the presentation to the AWS of two silver platters and two silver creamers and sugar bowls. The attractive silverware is to be added to the silver tea service purchased by the AWS last semester.

Vice-president Barbara Latz stated after the affair that she expected this semester to be the most active in AWS history. "I wish to say," she said, "that I will support Miss Dominguez to the best of my ability, and assist her in every possible way."

BENTON, HYDE LEAD RIFLE CLUB TO WIN

Taking first place with a score of 176 out of a possible 200 points, John Benton led the Junior College Rifle Team Seconds to a win over Post No. 99 of the American Legion, at the match fired last Wednesday night, February 10, at the Balboa High School range. The aggregate score of the Junior College team totpled 838, over the 762 of the American Legion five.

The Junior College team on the whole shot well, Betty Hyde taking second place with a score of 174 and Kermit Wright taking third with 166. Charlie Doudiet, the newest addition to the team, is keeping up among the first five shooters, with a score of 158 in this last match.

Literary Gems to be Compiled by Forum Club

Mimeographed Book Planned Through Support by Contributions

Issuing a call for any original literary pieces by members of the college, the Forum club announces its intention of publishing and editing a magazine at the end of the term which will contain selections of literary efforts culled from the college.

The publication will consist of approximately forty mimeographed pages and is financed by the Forum club. Contributions by members, constitute the present source of revenue.

The enterprise, decided upon by the club last Friday, is to be the first strictly literary organ of the school.

A staff has been chosen from among the members of the club consisting of Jane Kiddie, Betty Brown, Betty Deming, Fred Vast, Nairn Borup, John Healy, Sibil Huming, and Donald Flash.

Original material of any subject whatsoever may be submitted for consideration. Such types as short stories, dramas, poetry, essays, and articles which may be factual, descriptive, satirical, humorous, and reviews on stage, book, or screen, are desired. The length for short stories and dramas must not exceed 1500 words and that for articles should be approximately 1000 words or less. Factual articles may consist of 1500 words, however.

All material may be submitted to any member of the staff or to the club's faculty advisers, Dorothy Mercer and William Goss. The tentative deadline date is set for April 21, but contributions will be welcomed earlier.

Keep Out of War, Cries Last Assembly Speaker

"Keep America out of war", and "keep war out of the world", was the keynote struck upon by Rowland L. Miall of England in his recent address at the Powell Street Lecture Hall, given in behalf of the Emergency Peace Campaign.

Miall, presented by chairman Malcolm Longaker of the San Francisco Junior College Forum Club, proved extremely interesting. His Oxford accent plus his smooth style of talking, made the address doubly effective from the listeners' standpoint.

He appealed directly to his audience pleading with them, "To keep the United States out of all future European wars". America, he claims, is the ideal leader for this Peace Movement and has a wonderful start by already creating peace between our western hemisphere neighbors.

The purposes of the Emergency Peace Campaign are to educate people about war, to create legislation that will make war unprofitable for monied powers, and most important of all, to organize groups of students all over the world who will cooperate to down war.

The futility of conflict was impressed upon the audience when Miall declared "If we had something worth while to fight for we would be willing to risk our lives, but when millions of people give up their lives, only to have foreign entanglements become more muddled it is time to quit fighting".

Wilsonites Banging 'Em For Tournaments Soon

In preparation for the coming intercollegiate tennis season, the junior college racquet wielders under the watchful eye of Coach Tom Wilson are warming up with intramural tournaments in both singles and doubles matches.

Coach Wilson will endeavor to select his varsity net team from the long list of men who have entered the singles tournament, the second round of which was to have been completed yesterday. The third round will end February 19, followed by the semi-finals, February 25.

After the conclusion of the tournament Wilson will name a tentative squad for the Menlo matches on March 20. This team will not necessarily constitute the varsity, however, according to the tennis mentor.

EVEN MOTHER WOULD DISOWN THEM NOW

Dragged from the showers after the official brawl was finished last Friday afternoon, Freshmen, sans clothes, had to battle for their honor in a sea of mud on the Galileo field. Here, an unknown near-nudist is just about to plaster Upperclass Heckler with half-a-ton of mud. Left to right, the mud bathers are Herm Hexstrum, Neal, Near Nudist, Deming Smith, and Walt Odone.

SCIENCE VS. RELIGION DISCUSSED BY FORUM

Outstripping past records for attendance, the Forum club, at its meeting last Friday night in the room of Betty Brown, was attended by thirty-one persons for the discussion of "Is Science Taking the Place of Religion?"

Although no one definite conclusion was reached, the club nevertheless achieved its purpose, members said. The open forum makes possible the presentation of many different views on the subject, thus giving its participants a wider, if not a more comprehensive, picture.

The topic to be discussed at the next meeting on Friday, February 26, will be "Education". The discussion will consider the merits of education that attempt to aid the maturation of the individual as against the education that prepares him only for specialized fields of work. Defending these two sides will be Nairn Borup and Patricia Matz respectively.

Due to the increase in attendance it will be necessary for anyone who is interested in the club but has not been at past meetings, to see Jane Kiddie or Dorothy Mercer, or William Goss.

BACK TO RIGHT, IS EDICT FOR TRAFFIC

Force of habit will once more predominate over re-education with the change of traffic regulations in the Powell Street building, the past custom of keeping to the left being regarded as impracticable by Paul M. Pitman, assistant to President Cloud.

Students will now walk the American way, although the European method is found to be more practical—in theory. The Extension Building is designed in a manner which is ideal for left-side walking. In the past, students were supposed to enter by the mezzanine door, exit by the main entrance, and by keeping to the left, avoid any unnecessary congestion.

Left-side walking, however, runs decidedly against American convention, Pitman discovered. Students, now and old, found habit difficult to combat. Converts who abided by college traffic rules were constantly colliding with those followers of conventional regulations. The larger classes, brought about by the increased enrollment at the college, added to the confusion.

Pitman, therefore, decided that the attempt "just wasn't worth it," and expressed hope that the change would prove more satisfactory. All students are requested to get out of the line of traffic to converse, in order to prevent jamming in the hallways.

Schlaepfer Teaches Selection of Site, Budgeting, Analysis

Besides being Executive Vice-President of the Bureau of Hotels, Restaurants, and Purveyors and Secretary of the San Francisco Restaurant Association, J. J. Schaepfer is also conducting the Statistical Analysis of Hotel and Restaurant Operation course this semester at San Francisco Junior College, according to J. Graham Sullivan, manager of the college cafeteria.

"Under Schaepfer's instruction," Sullivan said, "members of the class are becoming acquainted with the problems of Hotel Management, which involves the selection of location, budgeting expenditures, and methods of analyzing and interpreting the data essential to hotel and restaurant operation."

Students enrolled in this course made a tour through the Palace Hotel, Monday, February 8, and were able to observe the actual procedure of management in the various departments of the hotel.

Under the direction of Chef Joseph Beyl, food preparation students are learning the responsibilities involved in the six departments of kitchen operation, namely: Roast Cook, Second Cdok, Carte Manager, Pastry Chef, Butcher, and Vegetable Cook.

During this semester the following students are holding responsible positions in the kitchen departments: Victor Robelet, Roast Cook; Stewart Kingsland, Pastry Cook; Charles Doudiet, Carte Manager; Walter Scott, and Edmee Bergues, heads of short order service; Lawrence Wong, Student Chef; Richard Purdy, Pantryman, and Wenzel Peck, Second Cook.

Assistant cooks who are responsible for the preparation of food served to S. F. J. C. students are: Warren Gok, Marion Johnson, and Ralph Cummings.

RIFLE CLUB HOLDS GENERAL MEETING

To all members of the Rifle and Pistol Club:

There will be a general meeting of the Rifle and Pistol Club, Thursday, February 18, at 5:30 P.M., at the Galileo Rifle range. All officers are required to be present; all members are requested to attend.

According to John Stewart, President of the Club, there will be an important discussion on the status of those women who will be taking rifle practice as a W. A. A. activity.

CLERICAL FEE PENDS AFTER FEBRUARY 15

Beginning Monday, February 15, students are reminded that a clerical fee of twenty-five cents will be charged for any program changes made after this date. No changes may be made without the consent of the Registrar and a student enrolled in any course which does not appear on his official program recorded in the Registrar's office will not receive any credit for the course.

Those students who receive incompletes for work during the fall semester and wish a grade higher than "D" must see that the incomplete is removed from their record on or before February 24. Otherwise, they will receive a "D" in the course. If no grade at all is recorded later in the semester the student will automatically receive an "F" for the course.

Any student who expects to graduate in June is urged to file his petition for graduation as soon as possible in order that his record may be checked, and if any changes are necessary they may be made at once. Petitions may be secured in room 262 at Galileo.

ADMINISTRATORS GO TO SOUTHERN MEETS

President Archibald Cloud, Dean of Women Eugenie Leonard, and NYA Director Helene Turner have left San Francisco to attend two college faculty conferences, which are to be held in New Orleans and Dallas, the Administrative Offices have announced. The conclave at New Orleans is to be held next week and is a meeting of the National Department of Superintendents, a division of the National Educational Association.

The Dallas meet is a gathering of faculty heads of junior colleges throughout the country who come together annually to discuss the problems which confront this type of institution.

Dean Leonard and Miss Turner left for the East last Saturday morning and the College President boarded his train yesterday. The conferences will last for about three weeks so these faculty members should return to San Francisco early in March.

President Cloud said that, the experience which he will gain in comparing his college to others of the same classification should be an invaluable aid in enabling him to better this institution. Plans for the handling of various difficulties which junior college curriculum present to the student preparing to go on to higher educational centers.

HARD FOUGHT TUSSLE IN 'FEUD GAME' GIVES WIN BY LARGE SCORE, 49-31

Conlanmen Go Wild At End of First Half; As Rams Score Four Goals In One Minute of Play; Make Gator Squad Appear Definitely Sick in Second

Revenge was sweet last night at Kezar pavilion, as the San Francisco Junior College basketball team evened the football disgrace of last fall by defeating San Francisco State hoopsters 49-31.

Half-time saw the Rams leading 20-16, as, with one minute remaining before the mid-way-gun, Gus Kotta, Doug Maas, and Ernie Loustalot raised the score from 12 points to 20 so fast that the Staters were left hopeless. Loustalot started the fireworks by scoring a field goal shortly after the game opened, but immediately Bishop of State evened things by sinking a bucket.

The game see-sawed back and forth, then, with the Rams playing a "hot" game, but not scoring much. The Staters were poor on passing and their shooting was even worse, if possible. Every time they had the ball on their side of the center, they heaved at the bucket, so by the law of averages a few points came their way.

MAAS SCORES LONG

Maas was the scoring sensation for the junior collegians during the first half, scoring eight points from long shots. Bishop led the Gators, with six to his credit at half-time.

The Conlanmen, playing with a revamped lineup, dominated the play in these opening minutes, but State's lanky Cy Atkinson began to perform in his expected style and his fine floor work slowed down the Ram attack. The latter's defense began to tighten as the first half wore on, and they were forcing the junior college five to take shots from way out. It was this type of play that allowed the purple clad State quintet to gain the lead that they held until the Reds went wild in that last furious minute.

STARTERS ARE TOPS

Captain Carlyle Caine and George Bedrossian, newcomers to the starting lineup, performed in top style to give the Conlan hoopsters the best defense they have shown this season. Bedrosian was continually intercepting passes which ruined the timing in the fast breaking Gator offence.

The opening of the second half saw the Conlanmen continue the dizzy pace they had set in the closing seconds of the first period. Led by high point man Kotta, who tanked seven field goals, the Rams began to hit the hoop from all angles, while the bewildered Staters didn't dent the scoring column until the second half, was five minutes old. Conlan juggled his first line-up by adding Egan and Sattery to the quintet, and both men continued to aid in the swamping of the now fast-sinking Staters.

145'S VICTORIOUS

As evidence of comparative shooting ability, State sank only one out of thirteen foul throws, while the Rams dropped seven out of ten.

Before the game was over, Confident Conlan was able to get two complete teams on the floor.

Another last-minute wild man, Monte Mordecai scored four points—two field goals—in the last minute of the game.

In the preliminary game, locals were again victorious, for Tom Wilson's 145-pound team defeated State's lightweights, 31-23. It was an all around victory night for San Francisco Junior College.

Following is the summary for the varsity game:

Ty McHugh Elected Upper Class Pres.; Mills for Low Soph

With the most active campaigning yet seen at the college in evidence, the students chose their class officers at the elections held on Thursday, February 11.

Tyler McHugh, past president of the Associated Men Students and a candidate for Student Body President in the recent Associated Students elections, was chosen to lead the High Sophomores, defeating Bob Neal and Joe Kissel by a substantial majority. Walter Odone, Block SF member, won in the balloting for the vice-presidency of this group, while Jimmie Fahn, also an athlete, was selected for the post of secretary-treasurer.

MILLS TO LEAD LOW SOPHS

Don Mills, an active participant in the political activities of the college, was swept into the office of president of the Low Sophomore class over his lone opponent, Kamig Khenchilian. A prominent forensic personality, Isabel Sherratt, gained the position of vice-president over Julie Pressey. Caroline Ogonio, member of the Social Committee, was victorious over Bill Schoenfeld and Alan Voorsanger in the balloting for the secretary-treasurer post.

BOB ANDERSON WINS PRESIDENCY

Bob Anderson, former student editor at Balboa High School and member of the Block society, eked out a close win over Wilson Camp and Tony Valerio in a spirited contest for the High Frosh presidency. Fern Mulheim topped Meadusa Rygel and Mildred Faulker in the struggle for the second post. Bill Ravetto, grid star, was the choice for secretary-treasurer of this class.

The Low Freshmen put on the most violent campaign of any of the four classes when they elected the former Lowellite, Hugh Waite, to lead their class through the term. Waite defeated Bob Wilson, Bob Apparius, Howard Markowitz and Frank Paris. Joquel Kramer led the women candidates to win the vice-presidency of the neophyte group. Ted White gained the nod over John Julius in the race for the secretaryship of this class, while Dick Woods was unopposed for treasurer's job.

Block SF Has Swelling List; Well, So Claimed

Gathering momentum with every stride, the Men's Block S. F. Society swept aside all opposition and with a swelling list of performers in their possession, they are busily preparing what might well be the greatest social event in the history of the college.

Due to the flood of applications, tryouts will be held to but the group down to workable size. However the lists are still open for talent. Most of the early signers have had little or no experience, so everyone has a splendid chance for making the grade.

Jimmie Fahn, of track and soccer fame, is the originator of the theme which in itself promises a night of fun and frolic. Fahn will take charge of the tryouts. Ed-Fredianni will act as Production Manager, and will work under instructions from Tony Scafani who is in charge.

WHAT IS THE USE?

The following editorial, appearing recently in San Jose State's Spartan Daily, under the title, "Why Bother," seems rather timely in view of the class elections held in the college recently. One cannot help agreeing that it serves effectively to point out "the futility of it all."

"An anachronism, if it ever had any life in it, is the organized college class. A new quarter opens. Half a dozen students meet, elect themselves listlessly to office; then proceed with three months' futile effort to stir up that phantom something vaguely designated as class spirit.

"It ought to be apparent to the most naive freshman that the class as a whole isn't interested, that the most herculean efforts cannot make it interested. Possibly it is apparent; but no one, from freshman to president, has ever thought to act on the obvious conclusion that the only sensible thing to do is to bury class spirit, with fitting honors, of course, and forget the useless struggle.

"Perhaps there might be erected in the Quad to its memory a marble shaft around which class orators could sentimentalize. At least, that would take the hot air out of freshman and senior orientations where students are forced to yawn through elections which anyone can see are boring to 99 out of 100.

"And there is every reason that it should be boring. Unlike the student body government, the class government has no vital functions to perform. As for the alleged chance it gives for developing friendship and opening a channel for participating in an activity—well, why bother to pick flaws in that argument when nobody cares, anyhow..

"Would it be too much to hope that some day a class will just quietly neglect to elect a president?"

Need anything more be said?

GROW UP

Now that the brawl is over and the Freshman class has been welcomed warmly at receptions, dances and other special entertainments, the bigger boys may put away their paddles and Frankie Freshman can turn his hat inside out and relax.

Carried out correctly, this process of relaxing should turn Frankie into a normal, ordinary student who attends classes with a fair amount of regularity, who manages to maintain at least a C average and who finds time to take part in as many extra-curricula activities as he finds necessary to his well being and general state of happiness.

On the other hand, Frankie may not want to relax. In this case he will probably become one of the many so-called "Peter Pan boys" of the college. Everyone knows at least one of these creatures. He is the fellow who absolutely refuses to grow up. He must have his fun at any cost and if it calls for disrupting an entire class with his wise cracks, he goes ahead and wise cracks. His main reason for coming to college is to waste time and he is not at all particular just whose time he happens to waste.

The main trouble with the "Peter Pan boy" is that he has an idea that he is funny. "Anything for a laugh" is his motto and he usually gets one but, alas, does not realize that it is usually at his expense. Real humor is priceless but the forced brand indulged in by this imitation funny man, is decidedly prepish and for that reason, if no other, has no place in a junior college.

TRIBUTE

Each year, when February arrives, tribute is paid to two of the greatest of American heroes—George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Last Friday was Lincoln's birthday and next Monday will be that of Washington, so it is once more time for suitable commemoration.

There is little to be said about either of these two that the average Junior College student does not already know. Away back in the days of grammar school, teachers held their charges spellbound with thrilling tales of how Washington "did it with his little hatchet" and how Honest Abe Lincoln sat for hours reading borrowed books by the light of an open fireplace.

As students grew older and studied United States History, they began to go through a disillusioning stage. Their heroes, it developed, were not super-men but mere ordinary human beings who were not above making mistakes.

With it all, however, even in the realization of their weaknesses, a certain amount of respect will always be present. As monotonous as tales of their great deeds may grow, one cannot possibly deny the fact that these two were great men and truly deserve the many tributes paid them.

MENTAL MUTTERINGS

By FEM

We hope that Edna St. Vincent Millay won't mind a parody on her lovely "Candle at Both Ends" poem, but we just couldn't resist:

I chew my pencil at both ends
I know it's not polite,
But ah my foes, and oh my friends,
It helps me when I write.

* * * *

While on the subject of foes and friends, we'd like to take this opportunity to bid a fond farewell to our pal George Warren who has taken himself off to the far north where he will play football and track for the University of Idaho. (Yeah, we know you don't "play" track but we like to annoy certain sports writers.) Anyway, so long George, and don't forget to write and tell us all about life among the Vandals!

* * * *

Because of the many inquiries received from entering students, as to who, what and why is W. J., we offer a brief but comprehensive outline of its history, causes and results.

Originally intended as a place where members of the editorial staff of The Guardsman could do their work, W. J. soon developed into a combination waiting room, parking lot and store house. Everybody, and his little cousin Annie, sooner or later heads for W. J. Some come just to park their books for the day while others meet their friends or wait for street cars.

It doesn't matter particularly who you are or even IF you are. No such thing as class prejudice exists. All that is necessary to gain admittance is that you know someone who knows someone who is married to the fifth cousin of someone who knows a guy what works on The Guardsman staff.

Trying to get any work done in there might well be compared with trying to tie a shoe lace in a revolving door. It's just one of those things that can't be done. Do drop around some Monday (that's the day nobody's there) and bring your own lunch. We used to serve tea at four but, strangely enough, this practice had to be discontinued for it drew the riff raff of the college and after all, W. J. is a respectable jernt and if youse guys think you can muscle in and make a dive out of it, you're off your trolley!

Marionettes At Federal

For almost two months Ralph Chesse's marionettes have played at the Federal Theatre, 960 Bush Street, in a dramatization of the Irish classic The Crock of Gold, by James Stephens. Continuing until the end of February their presentation will be given every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings.

The Crock of Gold is a simple little Irish tale with an equal portion of fairies, philosophy, and humor mixed together. Revolving around the theft of a crock of gold belonging to the Leprecauns, one of the many groups of Irish fairies, the story includes such things as a young girl falling in love with the god Pan, and an old philosopher finding that there is love in the world as well as wisdom. Naive complications are caused by the revenge of the angered fairies.

The theme of the play is built on a little elementary philosophy which shows itself in the fact that the wise, yet loquacious philosopher was made to see that love and emotion are just as important as cold logical reasoning. Philosophy is at its high peak during the scene in which the superiority of mind over matter is pitted against the hedonistic god Pan, and even this high peak is actually very low.

Suffice it to say, then, that the play is, on the whole, naively simple, yet entertaining if taken in the right spirit.

The marionettes stand about a foot and a half high and perform on approximately a twelve-foot stage. The manipulation, for the most of it, was skillful. However there were some cases of very poor handling that does no credit to the production.

The settings and lighting were quite good, and there were many clever innovations. In fact the sets and the witticisms of the philosopher were probably the most outstanding parts of the production.

SPOTLIGHT

By Don Mix

After last week's furore of activities which included the class elections, the Brawl, and the Student Body Dance, a dearth of news has apparently hit the college. We thoroughly milled through this short shift intellect of ours but can't seem to discover even one subject with which to start an argument. So, with the news marts in such a deplorable condition, we'll have to turn our spotlight into the dark corners which have been neglected during the epic making period of the "Dink Debate" and the colossal battles (entirely verbal) which surrounded it.

Some random observations show that all the gridmen admit that the various athletic activities in which they indulge during the spring months such as crew, baseball, and track are merely "conditioners" for their glorious labors next fall.

A few of the frosh confessed that the fellow they hope they will be like after a couple of years at college is Pete Jambruno. That foreign air that Pete seems to have is really genuine because the football captain is a real native of Daly City.

For no reason at all we've put our head in the noose by selecting the five best dressed lads around the Ram campus (no cracks, wiseguy). The Beau Brummels we've noticed are Ty McHugh, Wilson Camp, Al Coffman, Karnig Khenchilian (which, by the way, is quiet a handle) and Willie Cordana.

Sims Hamilton's deep devotion to that lovely little brunette is the number one heart affair of the week, we were told.

Tony Scafani, like his illustrious ancestor, Columbus, is a maker of history. The pee-wee star is the first three letterman in the history of the college.

It seems to us that everyone has forgotten a word of praise for a fellow who turned in a swell performance at the presidential post last term, Bob Sisco. Those who know say that Bob's work was an invaluable aid in furthering the interests of the entire student body. Bob is still with us, but, politically at least, we can play taps over an earnest executive and "good head."

Let's take a short peep at your new class officers:

Ty McHugh . . . former AMS head . . . blue eyes, brown hair . . . very sincere . . . experienced in management of college affairs . . . reputed to have a contagious grin.

Don Mills . . . tall, dark and dashing . . . habitant of Goat Hill . . . pride and joy of the Service Society . . . seems to be good "winter book" bet for Student Body president.

Bob Anderson . . . was Student prexy at Balboa . . . was one of the main reasons we won the soccer championship . . . is vaguely reminiscent of the movie hero, Jimmie Cagney.

Hugh Waite . . . used his "puny" name to advantage in extensive campaign . . . steely eyed and very official looking . . . led his class to a heroic defeat in the Brawl.

365 Days Ago Today

Sophomore warriors defeat frosh in annual brawl by taking four out of the six events . . . there were no freshmen initiations prior to the brawl in those good old days.

Attilio Ferrari elected president of Pre-Legal Society at first meeting of spring semester. Election held under the direction of Dean Edwin C. Browne.

Women's Service Society initiate new members to organization. A banquet and formal initiation was held in the evening at the Women's City Club . . . Pam Spaulding headed the group.

By Ardell White

We have received quite a few inquiries of late from freshman co-eds asking about clubs and other organizations in the college, which ones to join, how to do so, qualifications, dues, and general information. Believing that this topic is one of interest to the average woman student, we will present, each week, information about one or more women's organizations and clubs admitting women students.

The first organization to take the spotlight, then, is WAA. This is not a New Deal agency, as its initials would lead you to believe. No, sir, (or madame) its full name is Women's Athletic Association. But don't be fooled; WAA activities are of as much interest to the very UN-athletic type of girl as to her more active sister. Why? Well, would you call some of the sports offered, such as recreational games or archery, athletics? Perhaps, but they certainly require skill rather than strength on the part of the player. But you may also sign up for more active sports—tennis, basketball, swimming, riding, fencing, golf—as well as dancing (tap or modern). Many of these, such as swimming, tennis, golf and riding, are expensive to learn from professionals but nevertheless constitute a distinct social advantage if you can do them well. Here at the college, under WAA, instruction in any or all of the activities offered, and participation in club affairs are your rights as a matter of course.

WAA is run on an individual club basis, a club for each sport, thus giving greater social benefits to the members. You merely sign up this week for the club in which you are interested. There are no fees or other dues beyond those, if any, involved in participating in the activity chosen. Further information about WAA may be found in the women's sports column.

ODDS AND ENDS

Groans filled room 202 at Powell Street when the Poly Sci 1A class found itself being seated alphabetically. Congenial A's and T's found themselves on opposite sides of the room and sitting next to utter strangers. Oh, well, it's a good way to get acquainted. . . . Fashion flash! Style-wise co-eds turned out for the Marin game last Thursday in raincoats, "gou-lashes," umbrellas, and newspapers. Rubber and cellophane were the materials favored—paging Petey duPont! . . . And we have heard it stated on good authority that this institution boasts a greater number of attractive women students than almost any other you could name, including Yale, Harvard, and Princeton . . . And now that the coaches have blossomed out in those attractive black-and-gray jackets, why don't the athletes take the tip and go in for quiet, elegant attire? It's a thought, anyway . . . The fashion "colyums" inform us that our spring formals will be copied after the gowns of that mighty pert heroine, Scarlett O'Hara. What we want to know is, can you buy 'em with Confederate money?

Dirt Column Wanted, Commuter Likes Saturday

Dear Editor:

Congratulations on your fine papers and particularly the interesting and lively columns. But The Guardsman still needs a good gossip column. Of course it would probably masquerade under some fancy name but how about somebody dishing a little dirt?

I'll bet everyone would go for it and don't give us that old answer—"We'll print it if you write it."

E. A.

Who's giving any answer?—Ed.

* * * *

Dear Editor:

May I blow the Ram's Horn to voice an appeal to the Student Council? Thank you.

I am writing this appeal on behalf of the students who commute. Our complaint is "Why don't you arrange some of the activities so that we may participate in them too?" After all, we, the commuters consist of practically half of the Junior College and we too would like to attend all of the college functions.

I don't imagine that any of you realize the trouble that we go through to attend some of the Junior College functions. Most of us have no one to stay with in San Francisco and, therefore, we either stay in the city after school and go to the game, dance, etc. in our school clothes, or we have to go home, have dinner, change clothes and come over again. You can readily see why we feel as we do about the matter.

I know your argument will be that after all, the games can't be changed. Well, we realize that too and won't mind staying over to go to a game. But can't you do something about the dances and social affairs. If we can go half-way can't you go the other half?

Our suggestion to you is that you try to arrange social activities for Saturday, even if it is only once in awhile, instead of Friday. I am sure that this will be agreeable for everyone concerned.

After all, if we are not able to attend the social functions how can we recommend S. F. J. C. as a social college as well as an educational one?

Just a Commuter.

How about this situation, Mister Neal, can anything be done?—Ed.

Your Pres. Says—

By James Neal

The Freshman heaves a sigh of relief. The two weeks of angle assuming and initiation are over—his time will come next semester.

We hope by now that he's over the effects of the Brawl. It is one of those cases that even if you win, you lose. A lot of spirit was shown and we are proud of you.

The next meeting of the Executive Council will be held tomorrow in Room 204. It is imperative that all Associated Student Officers and you newly elected representatives be there. So far the only officers who haven't been elected are a representative from the Forensic Council and Dramatic Council. Get busy.

It looks like the rifle team is bringing home the bacon. The rifle team tells me that they would stack "Wild Bill" Hancock up against the best of the old boys of '49.

Our next big rally is to be a night co-rally with our old arch rival San Francisco State. We are the hosts so on the night of February 23 at 8 p.m. let's turn out and show those Staters a thing or two. Will anyone with any talent please see Deming Smith or myself and we'll fix it so you can star at the rally.

DIARY COMING

NOTE: In response to simply scads of requests from devoted friends and admirers. Elvira again takes up the art of diary writing. However, before next week's episode begins, Elvira's mama would like to explain to freshmen and other new students who may be unfamiliar with the diary that her daughter, Elvira Blotz, is a member of The Guardsman staff and a student at San Francisco Junior College. Also a student is Elvira's boy friend, Templeton McQuiddle, who has recently superseded one Robert Saylor in her affections. Elvira has not learned the object lesson so vividly taught by Mary Astor. She writes down everything that happens to her in her diary, and the results then appear each week herein. Watch for it next week.

RAMS SPLIT WITH MARINERS IN TWO ROUGH MEETINGS

Locals Show Edge In Winning Game 38-28; Stall To Lose 2nd Game

By L. M.

After scoring a decisive 38-28 win over the powerful Marin Junior College quintet last Thursday evening at Kezar, the Ram basketball team, playing at Kentfield on Saturday evening, suffered a 41-39 defeat by the Mariners in one of the roughest contests of the present junior college hoop season.

The first contest was a nip and tuck affair with the San Francisco team getting off to an early lead only to be caught by the strong Mariner outfit. Successive field goals by Kotta and Loustalot of the Rams, and Smith and Smersfelt of the visitors, kept the score well knotted.

PHELAN INJURED

The Conlanmen suffered a loss, when, but five minutes after the opening whistle, center Bill Phelan left the fray with a twisted ankle. He was replaced by Doug Maas.

Both squads were good defensively and very ragged on the offense. Fine guarding under the basket for both the locals and the visitors offset the sloppy ball handling of the casabamen. Passes were wild, causing consternation and excitement among both fives.

HALFTIME SCORE LOW

It was a low-scoring contest with quite a few personal fouls being called by the officials. Neither club could take a commanding lead over its opponent and the score at half time stood San Francisco 13, Marin 11.

The second half of the game found the Conlanmen out for victory. They were a rejuvenated group of men whose passes were true, guarding was excellent and shots were not wasted.

RAMS INCREASE LEAD

Led by forwards "Chubby" Kotta and Paul Rippon, the Rams sought to increase their two-point lead. Buckets by Kotta, Rippon, Mordecai and Loustalot gave the Red and White a nice lead and the spectators something to yell about. With Rippon sinking eight points in just about that many minutes, and Mordecai and Phelan tanking set-up shots the San Francisco quintet looked like themselves once again.

The Marin men were playing against a team they couldn't beat this half and baskets by forwards Smith and Nieric failed to close the gap. The gun ended the contest with a ten-point margin between the two fives.

Twenty-four fouls were called in the game, eleven on the local team. The Mariners were aces on the foul shots, sinking eight out of eleven chances.

Playing at Kentfield on Saturday evening it took 32 fouls and four men ejected from the floor for the basket-thirsty Mariners to eke out a 41-39 win over the championship-defending Rams.

TIED AT HALF

It was rough going throughout the ball game with the Powell Street five trailing throughout the first half, only to hit their stride and tie the score with field goals by Kotta and Mordecai with but two minutes left to play.

Thirty-foot field goals by Allen, Marin negro guard, and Tovani, fast forward, kept the Marin outfit in the lead.

At the end of the first half the Mariners had collected eight points on fouls, the Ram-five sinking four free shots. These personals were well divided among both teams.

Halftime score stood at S. F. J. C. 20, Marin 20.

CONLANMEN MAKE MISTAKE

The second half of the encounter found the Rams getting "hot" and then proceeding to lose their own ball game.

With ten long minutes to play the San Francisco five was holding a commanding 27-20 lead, due to the efforts of Paul Rippon and Ernie Loustalot. Then suddenly getting ideas of freezing the ball the boys apparently proceeded to stall, satisfied with a seven-point lead and a long ways to go in the contest. Fouls broke up the tiresome pastime but the shots were wide and the Mariners recovered off the backboard, proceeding to get basket after basket. With four minutes to play the score stood at Marin 34, S. F. J. C. 33.

ROUGH CONTEST

The eagle-eyed officials let nothing get by and in the short time of three minutes Loustalot of the Rams, and Allen, Mullin and Anderson of the Mariners were put out of the game because of excessive fouling. With each squad getting free throws and the onlookers going wild the score see-sawed until with but one minute to play, Johnson, substitute forward, the only man left on the bench for the Marin outfit, dribbled through the center of the Ram quintet to give his team a large-looking four-point lead.

A field goal by Kotta with ten seconds to go gave the men hopes, but the cause was lost. The gun—and Marin 41, San Francisco 39.

Plenty of fouls and the loss of Bill Phelan at center, because of injury, lost for the Rams.

Sixteen fouls were called on each team, the Mariners sinking 13 of them for precious markers. The Conlanmen dropped eight of their 16 tosses through the net.

The scorers were led by Kotta and

LAMB'S RAMBLINGS

By Lambert Meyer

The Ram baseball team has started off the season with a bang. The San Francisco nine polished off the Commerce High School team last week to the tune of 9 to 2. Larry Wilgus and Les Larson split the pitching assignment, with Johnny Fitzgerald and Ed Arvedi handling the backstop position.

* * *

George "Whizzer" Warren, track captain and quarter miler has left the junior college to run for the University of Idaho. George was given a scholarship to the northwest institution. So long George, and lots of luck.

* * *

The crewmen are out to win the silver cup being offered to the winning boat in the annual Washington's Birthday Regatta at Yacht Harbor. It will be the first race for the J. C. men.

* * *

Men's boxing classes are being held at the Funston Field gymnasium under the direction of Coach Jack Gaddy. The groups are filled to capacity to learn the points and rules of the Marquis of Queensbury.

* * *

Ever since the defeat of the Ram hoopsters by the Santa Rosa Cubs, (we know we should have forgotten about it but it seems to pop up in our memory), the men have taken their practice seriously. There is no more horseplay between the squad members. Maybe that slight debacle did them some good after all.

* * *

That enormous paddle carried around by Tony Scafani last week had some of the frosh turning slightly milky in color upon viewing Scafani's work of art. The wooden implement was easily as tall as Tony and nearly as wide.

* * *

Sorry to have seen Dave Smith lose out in the semi-finals of the P. A. amateur tournament. Dave was defeated by William Radurich of San Jose State College. Even Joe Amori, sitting in the sixth row ringside couldn't help with his moral support.

* * *

The recent rainfall hasn't helped Coach Russ Sweet's trackmen. Rain means no practice, and no practice means a longer training season in which to get into condition. Some of the cinderpounders work out in the Galileo gymnasium as much as possible.

* * *

A flock of posies to Howard Barker, former University High of Oakland footballer for coordinating with the block men of the college. Howard's habit of wearing his letter around the campus didn't go so well with the Block S. F. gentlemen. Finally, after getting enough stalwarts together to kindly ask Barkor to please refrain from future wearing of the emblem were they surprised when the tall fellow with block "U" answered by ripping off his high school symbol in front of the bewildered J. C. men. That's real spirit.

Divot-diggers are now practicing under the eagle eye of Coach Sweet at Funston Field. The men have use of the putting greens and the driving pits. A formidable golf team should be formed from the many men students interested in this sport.

* * *

Herb Pedersen, high scoring Santa Rosa Junior College forward, joins Olsen of Menlo as one of the outstanding players of the Ram's conference opponents. Pedersen led the scorers in the second contest with 13 points and collected seven markers in the first meeting of the two teams. Has a deadly eye and is fast on the break. A strong cog in the Cub basketball machine.

* * *

A hand to Harvey Glassenberg, Louie Bertolucci, and Tony Scafani, managers of the various athletic outfits. These men, in charge of equipment and other necessities really work and are for the most part unheard of around the college.

* * *

The rifle and pistol organizations are really going places this semester. To date 42 students have enrolled in these classes under the able direction of faculty members James Hughes and Verrel Weber. The range is open at 5:30 p.m. daily and men and women can still enroll.

* * *

Junior College faculty members are polishing up on their tennis playing for the coming faculty tennis tournament scheduled for February 24. Paul Mohr, last year's winner is the favorite to cop the championship.

* * *

"Gentleman" Jack Welch, former S. F. J. C. golfing star is now employed in one of the downtown banks. We always thought that Jack with his neat appearance would end up in the financial district. Wonder if he would recognize his old college buddies.

* * *

Gym Shorts—George Clarke, trying without success to sink a bucket from 15 feet out; Jim Fahn having his daily workout to keep that schoolboy complexion; Bill Weinstock, dribbling the length of the court, taking a new type of set-up shot—and making it.

. . SPORTS . .

SPILLS AND STRETCHES, BUT WE WON

This leaping was to no avail, as Loustalot misses making two points for the Rams. Allen, Marin guard (14) takes the ball off the backboard, and Mullin (11) and Smith (12) of Marin, with Ram men Phelan (center) and Kotta (left) look on. Upper left: Caulderwood, Marin, goes for an aerial ride as he trips over Gus Kotta, who stopped short to try to sink one from right under the bucket.

BASEBALL TEAM OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER COMMERCE HIGH

Victim number one: Commerce High School.

Score: 8-2.

So goes the beginning of the Ram baseball season. A good start which, it is hoped, will continue in victories and culminate in their first N. C. J. C. conference title.

The battling Bulldogs of Commerce were no match for the Red and White. Coach Eisan used almost all available men with several discoveries made and other facts confirmed.

First and most important the Rams showed they will have plenty of strength on the mound. Veteran Larry Wilgus started the game and in the three innings he pitched, didn't allow a single hit besides sending 4 batters to the bench via the strike-out route.

Les Larsen, who took over the chucking duties in the fourth frame, finished the game with only three hits to mar his record. Six strike outs were on his record. Les also got one of the five hits made by the Rams, a clean single to left field.

Little Joe Ardanaz lived up to his reputation as a good hitter, leading the team with 3 singles in five attempts. He looks to be the best man in the outfield to date.

John Fitzgerald, who worked behind the plate several innings, looked to be an able assistant to Arvedi. Joe Futernick on third, Babe Lucchesi in left, and Paul Hjort in left field also performed up to snuff.

The Commerce nine would have been more decisively defeated were it not for the fact that Rugger Ardezoia was doing the pitching for them. The Rams were only able to collect two runs on two hits off of him in the 3 frames he worked. He had to be taken from the game in the third inning when he sprained his ankle sliding into a base.

The teams will play a return engagement on Tuesday at Southside Park starting at 3 o'clock.

AROUND THE BASES WITH BERTOLUCCI

By LOUIE BERTOLUCCI

It may be that man cannot live without water but it's sure enough obvious that the Ram nine can do wihout it on their practice sessions for the past week, the continuous downpour of rain intervened to stop the scheduled tussle with the Stanford Freshmen last Thursday down on the Farm. However, another game is in the making and the probable date will be known very soon.

* * *

We had a talk with the erstwhile grider, Ray Engelhofer, the other night at the basketball game. When asked why he hadn't shown up for skull practice on Thursday, Bubblenose replied, "I'm not out for crew, I'm out for the baseball team".

* * *

Coaches Lee Eisan and Jack Gaddy expect to work the team together as much as possible. Besides having practice games each week with other schools, they plan to have games between themselves once or twise a week. The first of these games was played last Tuesday with several finds uncovered.

One of these unknowns was Gene Kiley who was the hitting star of the day. It looks like they will have to make room for him in that first team. Of the five hits his side made, Gene made three of them, a double, triple and single.

Kiley hails from Berkeley and plays both the infield and outfield. Because of the great number of outfielders, he will probably be used in the infield at short or third.

* * *

After a week of practice and games, the material on the squad is pretty well known. The best looking team right now seems to be as follows:

1st—Milton Berman.
2nd—Joe Futernick.
3rd—Paul Hjort.
Short—Gene Kiley.
Left—Bruno Lucchesi.
Center—Joe Ardanaz.
Right—Jack Berutich.
Pitcher—George Hughes, Les Larsen or Larry Wilgus.
Catcher—Ed Arvedi.

The above team would probably contain the best hitters on the squad. Paul Hjort is mainly an outfielder but is also an infielder and his hitting would be an asset to the nine. The outfield of Lucchesi, Ardanaz and Berutich is a combination hard to beat. All are good hitters, with good throwing arms and an uncanny judgment of fly balls.

Either one of the three pitchers could take the starting assignment and turn in a creditable performance. George Hughes seems to be the most likely choice.

All in all this is probably the best team that could be put on the field. Each player is a potential hitter and, all being members of semi-pro teams during the winter season, are wise in the ways of baseball.

TRACKSTERS HALTED FROM EARLY SEASON WORKOUTS BY RAIN

With the rainy season descending upon the bay area, Coach Russ Sweet's trackmen have been forced to take to the gymnasium in order to have their daily workouts.

The squad had obtained the use of the Commerce High School oval but because of San Francisco's over-dose of liquid sunshine the runners, jumpers, and weight men endeavor to unlimber tight muscles in the Galileo gym by doing exercises and playing basketball.

"We have a well-balanced cinder outfit and it's really too bad that the men who are willing to practice diligently are kept indoors because of the weather," Sweet said.

With a team of veterans including Jim Fahn, George Compas, "Mudder" Gibeau, Ty Barr, Bill Fitzsimmons, Bob Fex and Ernie Loustalot coupled with a host of newcomers the cinderpounders look to a successful track season.

New arrivals to the team are Joe Garcia, prep sprint ace; Bill Dillon, 880 man; Richard Cory, broadjumper; Donald Bryant, 440; James McGrure, hurdles, and Don Brain and Wilson Camp in the weights.

Gridders turning out for the squad include Walt Loving, Duke Worsham, Bill Ravetto, and Pete Jambruno.

A new captain will be selected by the trackmen because of the unexpected departure of Captain George Warren, middle distance star of high school and college fame, who has taken up his studies and sprinting at the University of Idaho.

Because of the wet weather information in individual runners and jumpers is not available.

Time trials, scheduled for last Saturday afternoon were called off because of the rainstorm.

CONLAN HOOPSTERS MEET DOWNTRODDEN SOLONS IN TOMORROW NIGHT'S GAME

Twice-Beaten Reds Must Win Series With Foes To Stay In Title Race

Eager to maintain their high position in the Northern California Junior College Conference race, the Ram basketball team will clash with the strong Sacramento Junior College five Thursday and Saturday evenings, February 18 and 20 at both Kezar pavilion and at Sacramento.

On Thursday evening, as in the past, the teams will meet on the San Francisco court, and on Saturday night the Rams journey to Sacramento for the second encounter of the two squads.

FINE PAST RECORD

Coached by Glen Mercer, the Panthers have never in their basketball history finished lower than third in the final league standings. Although the Solon quintet has been defeated this season at the hands of both college and non-conference opponents, the Sacramento outfit will be pressing to win this contest from the defending champions from San Francisco, as a win over the high scoring Conlan five will not only raise their team standings but will ease the 27-0 football defeat handed to them by Coach Russ Sweet's Ram gridders last season. Last year the Panthers were the thorns in "Dutch" Conlan's championship aggregation as they defeated the locals in the Galileo gymnasium in the first game of the double-header giving the S. F. J. C. men a conference loss and a second place standing.

With hopes of rambling over the men from Sacramento, the Rams, fresh from their win over the Marin hoopsters have high aspirations of a double victory in the split-city series. That single loss to the Santa Rosa Cubs two weeks ago still rings clear and true and everyone knows that another defeat means nothing better than a second place rating at the end of the basketball season.

PANTHERS WELL BALANCED

The Mercer men feature a fast breaking offense and an air-tight defense that has kept the enemy scoring rather low in all of the previous contests.

The outfit is composed of forwards, Forbes and Irwin; center, Watson, and guards, Campbell and Lopez. Watson is the star of the team, a veteran of last season, measuring 6 feet 4 inches in height and a standout for all conference honors. In every game this season the lanky pivot man has averaged 12 points. Irwin, fast forward, is another individual that will bear watching by the Rams, especially on the Panthers' fast break.

The alternate squad is made up of forwards, Dickinson and Addy; center, Elliot, and guards, Cannon and Colla.

RAMS FAVORED

Because of their defeats by the U. S. F. and St. Mary's freshmen teams the Panthers from the capital city will be the underdogs in both contests, but the word favorites means nothing to the San Francisco quintet. They recall that as favorites they were soundly drubbed by the Sacramentans in a previous clash, and already this year as favorites they have had a severe setback.

No official starting line-up has been announced by Coach Conlan but it will probably be the five of Ernie Loustalot and "Chubby" Kotta at forwards, Bill Phelan at center, and Warren Egan, and "Monk" Mordecai at the guard positions. Other probable starters are Doug Maas, Carlyle Caine, and Paul Rippon.

The starting whistle sounds at 8:15 o'clock with the Ram 145 pounders playing the preliminary against a local outfit.

Admission to the game is by Associated Students Card.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By PAT MADDEN

WAA tennis enthusiasts have been seen stroking the old tennis ball at the Palace of Fine Arts although tennis hasn't officially started as yet. We must say with such returning players as Dorothy Canavan, Helen Davis, Olive Reed, Mary Fraitas, and Caroline Orginos, the turnout looks promising.

* * *

Prospective tennis material doesn't have to wait to practice. The tennis courts are open now, and many women are taking advantage of the opportunity to get in some extra practice. We notice some new faces on the courts such as Faith Thomas, Kathleen Faulkner, and Lily Phillips. That is what is needed. If some new material would show up for every sport it would make things much more interesting.

* * *

Practice times for baseball will be at 2:30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Women may start at two and practice until 3:15. The play-offs will be at some other time. Everyone who wants to sign up for WAA baseball may come out on Thursday even if she has not signed up by then.

* * *

We drifted out to the baseball field last Tuesday and noticed that there were quite a few women who had the early practice idea. Not a bad turnout we'd say.

* * *

This week is, as most of you know, official sign-up week. It might get tiresome if we keep on repeating this but never mind, only one more week.

* * *

All women who can't go out for an outside sport may sign up for the club that their gym class represents. This isn't a bad idea. Most women take as their gym class the sport they like best, this way they're killing two birds with one stone because they're entering into an outside activity also.

CREWMEN HAVE FIRST RACE TEST ON FEB. 22

With their first race but four days away, Coach Jack Gaddy's crewmen have been going through extensive practice drills in order to turn in a victory in their initial start. The Gaddymen will meet the boats from San Mateo J. C., Marin J. C., U. S. F. and Oakland Poly in a mile and a quarter contest on the Aquatic Park course on next Monday, February 22. The starting time has not yet been announced.

Gaddy said that because of the number of inexperienced men in the lineup he has been forced to hold practice on Saturday morning. These extra sessions have produced good results, according to Gaddy, and he expects to put a strong boat in the water for the race on Washington's Birthday.

The coach is still undecided as to which combination will pull the sweeps in the opening engagement but disclosed that the following lads stand an excellent chance of being his choice. He expects to have Elmer Hubacker, rowing stylist from Balboa, handling the stroke position on the port side while the veteran Ed Craig will perform the same duties on the starboard. Two other veterans from last year's crew, Bill Schoenfeld and Joe Kissel, will work at starboard spots number 5 and 4 respectively. Sims Hamilton, husky but a little green, is considered a possibility at starboard number 3. On the port side Gaddy expects to have Tom (Cho-cho) Caratto, stroke on the Galileo title winning boat, at number 5 and Verne Morse a seasoned veteran in club competition, at the number 4 slot. Bill Wagstaff is slated to row in the port bow but the other back position is still wide open. It is upon this skeleton lineup that Gaddy bases his hopes for a championship, since the men who will handle the other positions are not, at present, the same caliber of boatmen as those named above.

The men who are battling to be in the opening race are Lou De Lera, capable but only weighing 130 pounds, Carl Brogger, chubby galley man from Lowell, Art Nelson, considered good material but rather inexperienced, and Merv Weiner, also a "diamond in the rough".

Gaddy has had the crew working on racing starts and expects to use a long stroke if the weather is good on the day of the race but if the bay is rough he will have his lads use a short, powerful stroke that will allow them to recover quickly. The boat will be rather heavy with such giants as Hamilton, Schoenfeld, Caratto, and Morse but it is hoped that they will give the galley "lots of push."

Willie Cordana, able and experienced coxswain, will call the strokes while "Red" Wright will pilot the boat.

The new uniforms, consisting of red pants and a red and white sweatshirt, will make their first appearance at this race, it was disclosed.

STATE RIVALRY TO EXTEND TO BOXING FIELD

Mix and Schwartz Making Negotiations For Fistic Feud Soon

Anxious to renew their heated rivalry on sport fields, S. F. J. C. and San Francisco State are trying eagerly to arrange an inter-college boxing and wrestling team match.

Don Mix, of football and crew fame, will handle our end of the deal as he is president of the Associated Men Students. Maury Schwarz former S. F. J. C. Student Body President, and quite a leather pusher himself, will negotiate for State.

For the enlightenment of all new students, a sketch of the men who will probably represent our institution against State, follows:

S. F. J. C. BOXING CHAMPIONS

Heavyweight DAVE SMITH . . .

Rugged, hits well with both hands, can absorb punishment; and is a fairly good boxer for his heft.

Lightheavyweight RAY GREENWOOD.

Looked good in winning finals. As yet untested against a good man.

Middleweights WILSON CAMP . . .

Fast, throws punches from start to finish. A tough man to stop but will undoubtedly find the going hard against a clever boxer.

155 pounds TY BARR . . .

Appeared to be the cleverest fighter on the team. Has mastered the art of rolling with punches. Is not an aggressive fighter, but a good counter puncher.

Welterweight JACK REYNOLDS . . .

Reynolds carries a sleeping potion in his right glove and a clever hook in his left. Reputed to be the best all around man on the squad.

Lightweight RAY SAUNDERS . . .

Won his final match by virtue of a good left jab. Lacks experience but is game and fast.

Featherweight DICK MOON . . .

Once this boy starts he can throw leather faster than any man on the team. Has a deceptive style.

S. F. J. C. WRESTLING CHAMPIONS

Lightheavyweight JACK SERGUSON . .

Strong, rawboned. The best grappler on the squad. Has a world of speed and stamina.

Middleweight FRANK KNOWLTON . .

An experienced man. Can absorb punishment and still keep going.

Welterweight DEMING SMITH . . .

Deceptive. Is wiry and strong. Won the championship with a taped side and an upset stomach.

145 DEFEATS MARIN BABES; SCORE 46-14

Rippon of the Rams, and Smith of the Mariners. All had 11 points.

In the preliminary contest the Ram 145-pound team ran rampant over the Marin Babes, 46-16, in another rough tussle.

FROSH LOSE BRAWL; WIN OR LOSE, THEY COULDN'T WIN!

Although the Sophomores amassed a big lead in the scoring list, the blood, bruises and black eyes were distributed about equally in the semi-annual Soph-Frosh Brawl which was held in the Galileo Gym last Friday afternoon, February 12. The upperclassmen won five out of the six contests scheduled but received just as many bumps and bruises as they gave to the untutored but definitely enthusiastic newcomers.

Before a crowd that packed the gymnasium, the two classes battled in a series of six events that kept the throng on its feet and the combatants in a condition bordering between good will and actual anger.

SOPHS WIN FIRST

The Sophs started their long string of wins in the first contest, "jump the long horse" when Pete Jambruno, Walt Odone Jimme Fahn and company forced Hugh Waite and his Freshman cohorts to give way in the second round of jumping. The Waitemen vigorously protested the verdict which gave the win to the Sophs but it was to no avail.

The next event, a so called "tie up" saw the lads actually mix it up on the hard gym floor for a space of some three minutes with the muscle-bound sophs in the persons of Andy Oddstead, Bob Neal, and Bill Wagstaff gaining the verdict over the frosh whose main source of hope was in the person of the gigantic Pete Youdall. One freshman, displaying the intelligence characteristic of his class, forgot which side he was one and did a neat job of tying up one of his own team mates.

EGG DUEL

The sophomores continued their winning ways when egg duelists Ed Frediani and Joe Buckham proved too clever for their freshmen foes and put the third victory in the upperclass column.

The lone victory for the freshmen was scored in the basketball game which turned out to be a condensed version of football and a gang fight. The sophomores seemed to land the most punches but the frosh gamered all the buckets to win with ease. Joe Manning and Pete Youdall started a wrist slapping tussle over in the corner, which was promptly stopped by Referee Joe Amori who put both of the lads out of the game. The most spectacular incident in this event was when some ambitious freshman clipped Deming Smith and sent him sprawling across the length of the gym. Smith shook off the blow in good style but the freshman had to be carried from the floor.

The tire race produced lots of laughs as the angle assuming freshmen found themselves completely outwitted by their torturers. Small fellows like Ed Frediani had no trouble shoving themselves through the tire while the newcomers placed their hopes on such big lads as Ed Canapi, whose generous shoulders barely fitted through the opening. Art Nelson almost spoiled the chances for his upperclass team mates when he got his bull neck twisted around the torso of his opponent and needed about three minutes to get untangled.

BEEF TRUST

The final event on the program was the traditional tug of war. The sophomores, anchored by Bill Schoenfeld, numbered such beefy specimens as Merv Weiner, Sims Hamilton, Ray Brunn, Pete Jambruno, Duke Worsham, Jim Gibbons, Bob Neal and Wilson Camp.

It was rumored that an unscheduled event which consisted of taking freshmen from the showers and rolling them in the mud was held after all the official contests had been completed. The sophomores, it is said, were victorious.

The affair was very capably handled by Faculty Advisor Joe Amori, who had Don Mix, Don Mills, Ty McHugh and Bob Sisco working under him in the role of assistants.

Despite the sophomore victory, the upperclassmen decided to halt the hazing of freshmen in consideration of the fine spirit the frosh displayed during the Brawl.

DABATE SCHEDULED WITH COALINGA J. C.

Lloyd Luckmann, college debate mentor, has announced the scheduling of a debate with Coalinga Junior College on Friday, February 26. The scene of the debate has not yet been selected, Luckmann said.

The subject to be discussed will be, Resolved, that Congress be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours. San Francisco will uphold the affirmative, and will be represented by Morris Rabinowitz, veteran forensic competitor, and Bradley Schwartz, new member of the society.

The same question will probably be debated later in the semester with Modesto Junior College, and, in addition, a panel discussion will be held on the same subject, according to Luckmann.

Classes Moved To Club Building On Mason St.

Two classes will be moved from the Extension building to the Grizzly Bear Club in the Native Sons Building, Mason, near Post Street, commencing today.

Lowell Hollingsworth's math 14B class, 9:00 daily, and Lee Eisan's hygiene class, 10:00, Monday and Wednesday, were moved by Charles A. Roberts, chairman of the house committee, in order to make room for new sections in French A and C.

Pre-Medical Instructor Is Father of Daughter

Pre-medical instructor Glenn Noble is now the proud father of a charming daughter, it was disclosed recently. The young lady, born on Tuesday, February 2, displayed Amazonian tendencies toward huskiness with a record of eight pounds on her first weigh-in. Her distinguished father confided that she has been named Sylvia, and that her arrival has been the occasion for much rejoicing among friends of her parents.

WOMEN WANTED

Women are wanted for work in the women's gymnasium at Galileo on Mondays and Wednesdays from 2:30 to 3:30, and in the rest room daily from 2:30 to 5:30. Applicants should see Helene Turner, NYA director, immediately.

SP LOSES TILT TO COLLEGIATES IN RIFLE MEET

Don Smith, High Pointer For Locals, But Tied By Railroad Shooter

After a hard fought battle, the Junior College First Team came out with a 6 point win over the Southern Pacific shooters in the rifle match, last Thursday evening, February 11, at Galileo Rifle range. The total scores were 893-885.

High point man for the Junior College team was Don Smith, who surprised everyone by his score of 186 shooting considerably higher than he has heretofore. Jack Shaw, of the Southern Pacific team, tied Smith for high man of the evening, also shooting 186.

Frank Doupnik and Max Brewen shot scores of 179 each, tying for second place for the J. C. team. The majority of the shooters of both teams shot well within the 170's.

Individual and team scores for the match were as follows:

CLUB CELEBRATES HOTEL MANAGER'S 30TH ANNIVERSARY

Celebrating Charles W. Green's thirtieth anniversary of active hotel work, and electing officers for the ensuing semester, members of the student Hotel and Restaurant Managers Club met at a luncheon in the Hotel Stewart last Saturday. Green is at present manager of the Stewart Hotel.

Richard Purdy was elected president of the club; Cynthia Richardson, vice-president; Narcisa Rhodes, secretary; and Victor Robelet, treasurer.

Those seated at the speaker's table were J. Jacques Schlaepfer, secretary of the San Francisco Restaurant Association, and instructor in statistical analysis for the college hotel and restaurant division; J. Graham Sullivan, head of the junior college-Galileo cafeteria; William Rawson, former editor of The Guardsman; Green, of the Hotel Stewart; John Gifford, coordinator for the hotel and restaurant division; Harry Troupe, of the Hotel Greeters Association, and Joseph Beyl, head chef at the college.

Dearth of First Tenors Disconcerts Glee Club

Shades of Caruso and Crooks!

Youthful as the college is, charter members of the Male Glee Club are at this time engaging in reverie about the "good old days when". Reason?—Practical extinction of the rare species known as "first tenor".

To quote Miss Flossita Badger, instructor, on the state of the group: "It is quite peculiar that although the A Capella Choir is well stocked wih people desiring to sing, the Men's Glee is woefully anaemic in all departments!"

Proposed activities of the club, providing a boost in membership is affected, include several public appearances and the climaxing of the season with a trip to Stockton this spring to compete in the state junior college music festival.

Membership braintrusters Iijima, Grant, and Huson of the organization, embarked on a current drive to swell the rolls, urge all men having the irresistible impulse to sing under showers, breaths, balconies, etc., to please contact the society which convenes in the Lecture Hall on Wednesday and Friday mornings at eleven.

Newman Club Now Ready To Admit New Members

All those who are interested in joining the Newman Club for the Spring semester should be present at the next meeting on Tuesday, February 23, at St. Mary's Cathedral, at 8:00 p.m., Pete Jambruno, president of the Club, announced. Jambruno said that this group of Catholic students were planning a series of dances to be held at the conclusion of the Lenten season and that an increased membership would insure the success of these affairs.

GREAT AGGREGATION WILL FEATURE BAY'S EXPOSITION

From an educational point of view, the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, will be the greatest aggregation of its kind ever held within the borders of the United States. Eleven Western States —for that matter, the whole world—will participate in the pageant. The World's Fair will open on February 18, 1939, and will continue for 288 days to December 2 of the same year.

The theme, in its broadest scope, is dedicated to the modern developments in Transportation and Communications, as symbolized by the completion of the world's two largest bridges spanning San Francisco Bay; by the trans-Pacific and transcontinental air routes; by the network of Western highways and streamlined rail services, and the progress in the arts and sciences of cinema, radio and television.

The site of the Fair is a man-made island situated in San Francisco Bay, midway between San Francisco and Metropolitan Oakland. At present, a large fleet of giant United States Army dredges is working night and day to complete construction. The site, to be known as Exposition Island, will be one square mile in area, and will be surrounded by a 16,000-foot sea wall. The reclamation will be completed in August of 1937, but already the construction of the buildings has been undertaken.

After the exposition in 1939, the land will be cleared for a 400-acre municipal airport. The base will be approachable via the Bay Bridge either from San Francisco or Oakland in ten minutes. Some of the buildings now under construction will be permanent, and will be used eventually for the great air terminal.

These structures, however, will serve as Exposition administration buildings and exhibition palaces. Many more will be built around this central group, which will be solely used for the celebration. The Fair, in its entirety, will cost $40,000,000.

This exposition is being designed with scientific understanding of the movement of vast crowds of people. Because its very ground is being manufactured, it is possible to plan the Fair so that every one of its vast units will lie virtually at hand's reach. This is important, not only to the visitor who will walk through its stately courts and magnificent palaces, but to the exhibitor and concessionaire, whose displays will be easily reached by throngs from any point within the grounds.

Visitors to the Fair will be able to reach the grounds by airplane, ferryboat, bus, automobile, electric train, and afoot. There will be a provision for the parking of 20,000 automobiles. No matter how large the crowd is, traveling facilities will not be taxed to its capacity.

The Exposition palaces will combine the beauty and pageantry of the Occident and the Orient. The exhibit buildings form two main axes, running at right angles, with the 350-foot Exposition Tower dominating the central court. Foreign and State buildings are grouped around the World's Fair lagoon, setting for marine spectacles. All exhibit palaces are artificially lighted and air-conditioned.

Thousands of floral specimens are now being grown in Balboa and Golden Gate Parks, for transplanting to Exposition Island.

President Roosevelt has sent invitations to all other countries, especially those bordering the Pacific Ocean to participate in the pageant.

The Fair, sponsored by the business men of the Bay Area, will not, in any way, conflict with the one now being fostered by New York, to be held at the same time, according to Exposition Officials. On the contrary, the two will work in harmony to better the modern mode of living, science, amusement and education. Thus, if everything lives up to par, the San Francisco Golden Gate International Exposition will go down in history as the greatest spectacle of its kind.

WEEK'S SHORT STORY TELLS OF STUDENT'S DISTRESSING ERROR

The dismal drapery of San Francisco's doleful dawn cast a pall of gloom around the solitary scurrying figure. In the distance could be heard the soulful, appealing wail of a bull-throated fog-horn. Its appeal, however, held no interest for Jim on this morning. Rather it but served to deepen his depression. He shuddered, and pulled his coat tighter around his shivering body. Was this the price he must pay for his brief moment of indecision? If the adage were true that "opportunity knocks but once" was he to infer that his was a lost cause? No! It wasn't! It couldn't be! Clamping his jaws firmly together, he stepped onward with tense determination. His footsteps led him finally to a stolid unattractive building. Taking the cold gray steps four at a time he sprang to the landing and shoved mightily at the huge plate glass doors. Locked! Wait, that was what he would do, wait until the doors would be opened . . .

An hour later, Jim Banks was in the main office determined to repair the damage caused by his fatal indecision. He was demanding to be transferred from his 8 o'clock "misery" class into that more comfortable class at 12 o'clock, which his hesitation at early registration had closed to him.

CLASS PLANNING TO SEE HAMLET ON WED.

Shakespeare's "Hamlet" will become a reality to English 1B students when Edward Sandys' class goes to see the current production at the Curran theater, Wednesday, February 24, at two-thirty o'clock, according to Sandys.

"The performance will aid the students in understanding the play, which we are reading in class and I will then be sure they know what it's all about," Sandys said.

Sandy's English 1A classes are writing letters to each other but sign them with fictitious names. "This gives them good practice in writing," Sandys explained.

ARCH RIVALS MEET AGAIN

SOCIAL GROUP IN MEETING TO SET SOPH DAY DATE

March 5 Is Selected By Sophmores; Commtitee Also Plans More Dances

With representation from the high sophomore class and the Men's Block S. F. Society, the Social Committee held its first meeting last Wednesday afternoon, February 17, according to Helen Davis, Associated Student vice-president and Social Committee head.

"The High Sophomores suggested that a High Sophomore day be held on March 5," Miss Davis said, "and the Social Committee agreed to the suggestion. On this day the High Sophomore students will wear some sort of special attire and the day will be climaxed by a dance sponsored by the committee. This affair should prove very interesting, as it will be the first event of its kind ever held in the college.

"Another suggestion," she continued, "was that the committee give some kind of a costume dance and although no definite plans will be made until the next meeting, it was decided that the dance will be held outside of the college and will feature a barn, baby day or poor taste theme unless the committee hits upon some more novel idea. The Social Committee hopes to give more dances outside of the college and to stir up the interest that has been lagging during the past few semesters. From the size of the crowd at our last dance, I am quite certain that future dances will be well attended, and that the students are willing to cooperate in every way."

Household Arts Group Will Meet on Friday

Formally opening its second spring semester of activity, the Household Arts Association will hold a meeting on Friday, February 26, at 2:10 o'clock, in room 317 at Galileo, according to Jo Jordan, president of the organization. "All women students taking household arts courses are invited to join the association," Miss Jordan stated, "and we urge both old and new members to attend the meeting, as plans for the semester will be discussed."

Miss Jordan said that among the subjects taken up will be the semi-annual HAA fashion show, a tea, and a proposed theater party to see the performance of Madame Butterfly by the San Carlo Opera Company at the War Memorial Opera House.

"Dues for the semester will be payable at the meeting," the president continued. These are 25 cents for one semester's membership, with a 10 cent initiation fee for new members.

"Women students planning to attend the meeting should offer ideas for social affairs to be sponsored by the HAA," Miss Jordan concluded.

LOCAL ART WORKS GO TO MILLS EXHIBITION

Art classes of the junior college plan to send twelve exhibits to an exhibition to be held at Mills College, according to Richard M. Allman, instructor of art. The twelve pieces of work will include landscapes, oil and water color painting, and figure sketches.

The department of art at Mills College is sponsoring the exhibition, which is to be composed solely of the work of junior college students. The purpose is to encourage interest in art in the junior colleges of the state.

The exhibition is from March 7 to April 4 inclusive. Three awards are to be given for the best exhibits. The first prize is a scholarship at Mills College summer session in art, with residence and tuition paid.

IS IT GOOD MATERIAL?

Women students enjoyed a lecture on Customs and Costumes of Japan, sponsored by the Household Arts Association. Above, Miss M. Sannomiya, lecturer and graduate of the University of California, is seen showing one of the quaint Japanese costumes to Louise Corica, HAA member.

CAP AND MEG CALLS FOR MORE MEMBERS; LIVE WIRES WANTED

Issuing a call for new members, Deming Smith, college yell leader and head of the Cap and Meg Society, announced a number of openings in the membership of the society.

"We are looking for prospective members who are live wires," said Smith. "The purpose of this society, which was formerly known as the Rally Committee, is to promote friendship and pep among the students of the junior college."

"Any applicant who would like to belong to the Cap and Meg Society may submit his name to any member of the group," said Smith. "A list of the prospective members will be presented at the next meeting."

With the exception of the office of president, which is automatically filled by the head yell leader, there are no other elective offices. Bob Neal, secretary and assistant to the president, has been appointed by Smith.

Names of prospective members may be suggested to any of the following students:

Service Society Plans Tea for New Prospects

As first activity of the Women's Service Society for the semester, a tea for prospective members will be given February 27 from 4 to 6 p. m. at the home of Helen Davis, Associated Students vice-president, Parnel Brown, service group head, has announced.

Approximately 25 women students will be invited to the tea, but not all of these will become members of the society, Miss Brown said. Prospective members are voted upon, and, if favored, put on four months' probation, the president disclosed, after which a second vote is taken to decide if the probationary period has been passed satisfactorily.

Court Room Thought To be Background of Block SF Dramatists

Plans are progressing rapidly for the long anticipated stage show to be presented in the near future by the Block Society, according to directors Ed Frediani and Tony Scafani. The theme of the production has not been definitely decided upon as yet but they are working on a scheme to have a series of sketches with a court room as the background, it was announced.

There are numerous potential performers who have signed up for the show, but tryouts will be held during the next week in order to thin the lists. It is at these tryouts, when the producers can see just what type of entertainers they have, that the final plans will be decided upon, Frediani said.

Prominent among the talent that will be tested at the tryouts is Bill Camp, who is reputed to possess a fine tenor voice, Louis De Lera, singer of Spanish ballards, and Irving Amstrup, a tap dancer.

Among the skits that hope to win a place in the final production is a presentation of George Kauffman's "If Men Played Cards As Women Do". Bill Schoenfeld is in charge of this thespic effort and seems optimistic as to its success.

The directors have also been attempting to get Joe Amori to recite one of his famous monologues at the show, it was said.

The Blockmen, headed by President Pete Jambruno, will hold a meeting shortly to determine the admission charge for the affair.

SAN FRANCISCO BOYS SHOW SPEED SOUTH

La Verne College students are beginning to wonder what strange power these San Francisco boys have over women.

Charles "Red" Brickley, Jack Telesmanic and Bud McSweeney, former students here, were recently seen dashing up and down the lady's hockey field, surrounded by several co-eds, learning the finer points of hockey as it shouldn't be played.

Jack "G-Man" Telesmanic retired from the game, remarking, "I'm going to stick to football, you can't get hurt so much"—he proudly displayed several bulges upon his manly shins.

SPIRIT SOARS AT JOINT RALLY OF RAMS, STATEMEN

Introduction of College Song Is Highlight On Last Night's Program

With a large number of students in attendance from both colleges, the joint San Francisco Junior College — San Francisco State rally, held last evening in the Galileo High School auditorium, proved, according to those in charge, to be even more entertaining than the similar affair held last semester.

State's contingent, led by head yell leader Bud Decker, presented a program which featured impersonations by Harold Jacobs, a monologue by Rita Sadler, and piano selections by Tom Thurpe.

Also on the State program was an act by the Tovey twins and an acrobatic dance by Audrey Steward, State's famous flip-flopping co-ed yell leader.

LED BY MISS BADGER

The high spot of the Rams' portion of the rally was the introduction of a new college song which was written by Kathleen Evelich and Salvode Bellicie, students of the college. Flossita Badger's Glee Club led the assemblage in the singing of the song.

Ted White, secretary of the Freshman class, played several numbers on his torrid trumpet and Lloyd Brockwell, junior college pianist, rendered two groups of piano selections.

Other performers representing the junior college were Dan Hoctor, professional tap dancer, Eugene Blumenthal, and Assistant Dean of Men Edwin C. Browne, who played a selection on his banjo, accompanied by Jerry Lindes.

PLEASURE EXPRESSED

Deming Smith, head yell leader and chairman of the Cap and Meg Society, which was in charge of arrangements for the rally, expressed his pleasure at the fine turnout.

"I believe," he said, "that the success of this rally has only served to strengthen the ties between State and our own junior college. I wish to thank the State people for coming out here, and also to thank Miss Badger of the music department for her cooperation in presenting our new rally song. I only hope we can have many more similar affairs."

AMORI PLANS SECOND EUROPEAN JOURNEY

As the Pacific Coast Representative for the Student International Traveling Association, Joe Amori, member of the college faculty, is again organizing his annual tour to Europe.

The year of the inception of the tours found 35 young people from this country, taking advantage of the SITA'S low traveling prices. In 1936 250 people from the United States traveled through Europe in the Association's conducted tours.

This year there are trips to all parts of the European Continent, with prices ranging from $368 to $448. The amount includes steamship fare, all transportation on the continent, board, room, and even spending money for incidentals. On the trips the travelers are taken to shows, museums, and historic parks with their admission paid for.

The itinerary of the trip that Amori will lead is principally in Italy, with a short time spent in France and Switzerland. The Boulogne, France; Paris, France; Marseilles, France; the towns along the Riviera, including Monte Carlo, are the French cities that are visited. In Italy Genoa, Rapello Livorno, Cecina, Orbetello, and Rome, the capital of Italy, are on the list of stopping places.

Several days are spent in Venice with its world famous canals. The entire trip including the ocean voyages to and from New York will take ten weeks.

The traveling is done by boat and train, with bicycle on the land as the main means of transportation. However, Mr. Amori explains that the bicycle is used to show customs and the people.

Democracy Settles Question Of Alleged Noises In Study Hall

Paul M. Pitman Conducts Survey, Has Students Decide Issue for Themselves; Division of Basement Final Decision

Democracy has spoken! The study hall in the Extension building basement shall never attain the cloistered silence of a monastery (or morgue).

And why not? Because 525 students out of 549 asked decided that they did not want the sepulchral silence, according to Paul M. Pitman, in charge of Extension building classes, who conducted a two-day survey, at peak hours of 10 and 11 a. m., of the study hall situation.

TOO MUCH NOISE

A few complaints had come to him, lamenting the noise to be found in the so-called study hall. Pitman investigated, never found conditions sufficiently bad to distract anyone who really wanted to study.

Deciding to settle the matter once and for all, last week he asked students using the study hall to decide for themselves how they wanted it to be conducted.

Three choices were given, namely, (1) let it continue as heretofore; (2) strict faculty supervision, with no talking whatsoever; (3) division of the hall into two parts, that nearest the entrance to be used by students wishing to study together or visit quietly, and that against the after wall for those seeking absolute silence for individual study.

Needless to say, Choice Number 2 went thumbs down in no uncertain manner, with only 22 quavering votes in its favor. Number 1 was considered satisfactory by the 527 students, but it was agreed that number 3 offered a decided improvement, and somewhat of a compromise for the 22 instinctive hermits.

And so shall it be, Pitman said.

"Democracy has spoken. Students have decided for themselves, and wisely, and so shall it be," Pitman chuckled in announcing the results of his survey.

And why did he chuckle? Because, truth known, Pitman loves to see students exercising democracy for themselves, deciding and solving their own problems.

"This is the students' college," he has often said.

SILENCE SOMETIMES!

The 527 were, however, in complete accord with the 22 in one respect—that complete silence should be enjoined during the mid-terms and finals.

For the benefit of the 22, Pitman is asking the University Extension Division for permission to use any class rooms that may be empty during the course of the day.

College of Pacific Entertainers Sing At Assembly Thurs.

Music and comedy will be furnished local students tomorrow morning at a 9 o'clock assembly in the third floor auditorium of the Extension building by entertainers from the College of the Pacific, Paul M. Pitman, in charge of morning classes, has announced.

The Stockton entertainers are making a "good-will" tour of northern California, Pitman said.

Arrangements for this assembly were made by President Archibald J. Cloud prior to his leaving for the educational conference at New Orleans, according to Pitman.

Rifle Club Teams Win In Bay Bridge League; Medals To Be Awarded

Outshooting the Telephone Company men in the match fired last Tuesday evening, February 16, the College first rifle team kept itself in second place in the Bay Bridge League of the San Francisco Rifle Association. The match was held at the range at 445 Bush Street, with the junior college team totalling a score of 880 and the Telephone Company scoring 869.

According to Coach William A. Hancock, the junior college team deserves much credit for taking second place in this league, as some of the best rifle teams in the bay area were entered in the match and the competition was strong.

Dick Pitman again shot high for the junior college team with a total of 191. Bill Hancock shot 188, taking second place, and Don Smith followed with 180.

Individual and team scores were as follows:

S.F.J.C. First Team		Telephone Co.
Pitman	191	Kuhn	178
Hancock	188	Johnson	177
Smith	180	Lambert	177
Brewen	169	Bowes	169
Stewart	152	Barton	168
	880		869

Winning its last match for this season put the college rifle team seconds in first place in the Golden Gate Bridge League, thus making the awarding of gold medals to the members of the team possible. The San Francisco Rifle Association will present these medals at an assembly to be held sometime within the next three weeks.

The college team shot to victory in this last match over the Municipal Railway team February 17, at the Penthouse Range, 1975 Mission Street, with a total score of 856 to 842.

Charles Doudiet of the college shooters took first place with a score of 176. John Benton and Kermit Wright followed with scores of 175 and 171, respectively.

Hancock expressed his appreciation of the efforts of the individual members of the group in winning the league matches this season.

Individual and team scores were as follows:

S.F.J.C. First Team		Municipal Railroad Team
Doudiet	*176	Leydecker	*181
Benton	*175	Anderson	*169
Wright	*171	King	*167
Kwiatt	*169	McDonald	*163
Farley	*165	Grey	*162
Hyde	162	Lawson	159
Ogilvie	157	Murphy	149
		Seymore	135
		Garnett	134
	856		842

TONIGHT'S GAME SEES NEW FEUDS

State College Thinks It Can Stage Comeback to Avenge Complete Loss

Arch rivals will meet again tonight, as San Francisco State College will endeavor to reverse the basketball drubbing they took last week in Kezar Pavilion at the hands of the San Francisco Junior College Rams, who defeated the Gators 49-31.

Opinions by some are that the Staters really do have a fairly good team, but when Coach Louis "Dutch" Conlan's men went "hot" last week, even Hank Luisetti and his Indians would have had trouble in stopping them.

STATE READY

The Gater team after winning 12 out of 14 games and whipping such strong quintets as Fresno State, Chico State and Humboldt State Colleges were heavy favorites to bowl over the small Junior College five, but walked off the court at the final whistle far behind the sharpshooting Conlanmen. They had been completely outsmarted and outplayed in every stage of the game and once the red and white started moving down the hardwood they were never headed.

The State fans say that tonight's game will tell a different story and the players will be out to hand the Rams a defeat that they will not forget quickly.

So the contest is another natural—with the San Francisco five set for another victory and the Gaters out to trim their traditional rivals.

CONLON EXPERIMENTS

Last week Coach "Dutch" Conlan experimented with his players and seemed to have hit on a scoring combination with the starting line-up of Rippon and Caine at forwards; Loustalot at center; and Bedrosian and Maas at the guard positions. These men were backed up by high point man Gus Kotta, "Monk" Mordecai, and Warren Egan. Practically all of the men on the team had a part in the contest and all played brilliant ball.

The State quintet coached by Dan Farmer, will be led by lanky, pivot man Cy Atkinson. Atkinson, high scoring basketballer was held to two buckets throughout the contest, the least he has made in any game this season. The rest of the starting line-up will probably include Hammond and DeBischopp, forwards, and Wilkes and Plutte, guards. This combination has a great deal of height and once it gets "hot" it is sure to be effective against the diminutive Ram outfit. Notch De Bischopp led the Gater team in scoring with nine markers in the last meeting.

Because of the constant switching of players by Conlan there will be no official starting line-up for the Rams.

LIGHTWEIGHTS WANT REVENGE

The preliminary contest between the 145 pound teams of both institutions should also be worth viewing. Although Coach Tom Wilson's men defeated the State babes last week, the Buchanan Street lightweights looked to be a well-balanced five. This squad will also be out for revenge on the Ram 45's.

Game time is set for 8:15 o'clock with the lighter outfits taking the floor at seven o'clock.

Whiskerino Silliness Again Pops Up; Wise Up

Those lads who are always complaining of having tough beards and tender faces will have a chance to make their weakness pay dividends if the proposed plans for the Men's Club Whiskereeno are found to be satisfactory. The officers from this organization hope to have the beard growing marathon in conjunction with the Hi-Jinks some time in April. It was said, however, that it will be necessary to be sure that such a contest would be supported by the students before final arrangements are made.

TRIUMPH OF DEMOCRACY

Student decision triumphed last week, settling definitely a question that for three semesters has now and then come into the focus of the spotlight of discussion, favorable and otherwise.

Paul M. Pitman, assistant to President Archibald J. Cloud, and head of morning classes, noted for his strong desire to see students think logically for themselves, is the man responsible for the concrete settlement of the erst-while problem.

Occasionally some long-haired student or overly conscientious member of the faculty has made complaint of the alleged volume of noise created in the Extension building study hall. On page one of this issue of THE GUARDSMAN is a news story dealing with the settlement.

It may be that students have become imbued with the psychology that teaches the value of study and concentration under adverse distracting conditions. Perhaps eager to develop thusly, they have decided that conditions currently existent in the study hall are quite satisfactory.

Those who have actually stopped to analyze the matter, however, and who have taken observation of study hall conditions, have found that the noise has seldom been such that it would distract anyone with an average ability at concentration.

There is a strong possibility, also, that the majority of students does not wish to indulge in full-time, intense studying in the hall. Strictly speaking, the bulk of the studying should be done at home. Many of those who study in the hall are those who wish to do in the last minute an assignment that should have been done previously, but was not so done because of that always-present human trait —procrastination.

It is useless to say that students have satisfactory places to meet for ordinary, friendly conversation; and that conversation is one of the desirable parts of college life. If, then, it can be carried on in a comfortable, sanctioned place, a noteworthy point has been accomplished.

One warning comes, however: Let no one hereafter complain about the noise. The majority has spoken. Let the majority abide by its own decision, and the minority by that of the majority.

For the minority, incidentally, Pitman is endeavoring to provide rooms of suitable quiet. All owe that man a debt of gratitude for his endeavors to satisfy all—minority and majority alike—in such a manner that Aesop's famous fable will find exception.

KEEP MOVING

Shakespeare once said, "How poor are they who have no patience," but Shakespeare was never faced with the problem of controlling a group of twentieth century junior college students.

Patience, though it is indeed a virtue, is inclined to wear down when it is taxed too much. When the same request is made time after time, only to be ignored, patience is liable to be lost altogether.

Take, for example, the problem of the congestion on the steps of the Extension Building. Again and again students have been asked to use the front steps only when they are leaving the building. The mezzanine floor entrance, it has been pointed out, is to be used for entering the building. Students also have been requested to keep moving on the steps and to save their conversational tete-a-tetes until they have reached the sidewalk.

So far these requests have been almost entirely ignored. Between classes the steps resemble an election convention with people surging from both directions and, at the same time, trying to sidestep the many little groups that gather on the steps to talk over the events of the day.

There is no excuse for this situation to exist. If students would obey the simple rules laid down for them—use the front steps when leaving the building, the mezzanine floor entrance when entering, and keep moving—the situation would be alleviated in no time at all.

COOPERATE

It has often been pointed out that cooperation is one of the most important elements in any undertaking. Little is ever accomplished without it. Most bridges, canals and other great engineering feats would never be completed without the wholehearted cooperation of a group of men all working toward the same goal and exerting the same amount of energy.

Cooperation is also necessary in the building of a junior college. This does not mean merely the material operations involved, but includes the spiritual side as well.

MENTAL MUTTERINGS

In spite of the fact that it may be a little early to talk of Spring, the following is dedicated to all those, who like yours truly, are suffering from their first attack of Spring Fever.

When your books seem extra heavy
And routine gets in your hair,
And you fall asleep in classes,
You know Spring is in the air.
When you're longing for a holiday,
And time goes dragging by,
And you feel so good-for-nothing,
Though you cannot figure why.
When the casual little quizzes
Seem too much for you to bear,
You can bet your bottom dollar,
That old Spring is in the air.

It is a sure sign of Spring when the ladies start blossoming out in corsages of daphne as has been the case of late. We've always had a soft spot in our heart for this lovely bloom but especially since one of our pet writers, Marshall Maslin, wrote a glowing tribute to it in one of his recent columns. Maslin has a gift for seeing beauty in the most common place things and his grand sense of humor allows him to see the funny side of everything, even his own characteristics, which is certainly a commendable trait.

It is certainly amusing to radio fans, to watch the way every comic on the air is trying to break in on the Benny-Allen feud. Cantor, Bernie, Berle, Burns and Allen, Jolson, and even Walter Winchell, who should know better, have managed, at some time or another, to make mention of this caustic contest. Rather typical, isn't it, that when one person gets an original idea everyone else has to tag right along and do his darndest to scoop up some of the glory? Despite the fact that the whole thing started out as a publicity gag, and a good one at that, these "would-be-helpfuls" have succeeded in taking the real kick out of the battle by trying to "muscle in." But then, this isn't supposed to be a radio column, is it? (Or is it?)

DANCE PRAISED, FORUM IS LAUDED

Dear Editor:

Do you like lifesavers? I do, especially if they are the good, tasty, peppermint kind. But there is another kind that I appreciate even more, and they are the ones like the J. C. Semi-formal held at the Residence Club last week. That was the answer to a prayer, or "sumpin'," for I certainly needed saving, and that came to my rescue.

But the question in my mind is: Why do we not have more such dances? To my way of thinking that was a very good dance . . . good orchestra, good dance floor, good management, and a grand crowd!

Since I first entered this junior college I have heard little else than that "We are the Argonauts, the Pioneers, we must cut our way through and blaze our own trails" —in other words, we must build our own foundation, and start our own traditions. What better tradition could we advance than that of providing a real schedule of honest-to-goodness, lively social activities —in the form of dances—for our students, giving them a better chance to get acquainted, and thereby build up that elusive "school spirit" without having to revert to "Joe College" tactics (you will say that we have already started, so we have, but we have not gone far enough).

SPOTLIGHT

By Don Mix

We, with a group of other wags, were discussing the athletic, scholastic, and social position of the junior college student as compared with the scholar at the four-year institution. Most of us can't decide whether to affect the attitude of the true collegian or that of some educational misfit.

The athletic angle was the one that seemed to interest this group most. The argument centered on the possibilities the junior college star has of succeeding in a university. The average junior college team is somewhere on the level of the Big School freshman squad; it was agreed, but it seemed impossible to determine how the individual junior college muscle merchant—who is usually ignored by the newspapers, compares with his highly publicized university brethren.

This group of horizontal debaters dismissed the scholastic question without much discussion, but we seemed united in the belief that we can never be certain as to how our courses compare with supposedly parallel courses at universities. We are beginning to wonder if there is any truth in the constant confession of most professors who are always announcing, as they hand us examination papers, "I'm giving you a C but if you were over at California you would surely get an 'F'."

In the social section every one seemed to admit that whenever we happen to meet some former prep school classmate who is now attending what he coyly terms a "regular college," he will smile with pity when you disclose you are going to a junior college. The discussion ended with everyone inquiring "what are we?" I'm sure I dunno.

Various college "characters" are limbering up their thespic powers in anticipation of the Block SF Hijinks in the near future. There's bound to be a lot of laughs in this affair, because even if you don't laugh with the performers, you can always laugh at them. The numerous claimants to the Robert Taylor profile (Hiyah Rosie) will have a chance to trot their talent before the entire college.

DIARY OF A CO-ED JOURNALIST

TEMPLETON GETS TOUGH

February 8, 1937—I am writing this after dinner, dear diary, as I look back on the events of the day; surprising events, but is not Life one long surprise? Yes, dear diary, it is, and this was certainly brought home to Templeton and me today.

Dear Templeton and I were strolling down Powell Street, Templeton carrying a paddle with which to chastise unsuspecting freshmen. Suddenly he spied a youth who was not wearing a dinky hat. This boy, a handsome blonde, looked about as old as Templeton.

"Hey, Elvira," said Templeton to me, "there's a freshman who hasn't got a dink yet."

"How do you know he's a freshman?" I replied very sensibly. "He might be an upper-classman."

"He IS a freshman. I know, because I saw him in the cafe the day the freshmen were registering."

"Now, Templeton," I admonished, "don't do anything harsh. Remember the Golden Rule—do unto others—"

"Quiet," he rudely interrupted, and then, utterly disregarding my advice, yelled, "Hey, freshman, where's your dink?"

The blonde student, however, merely glanced at Templeton and did not reply. This annoyed me, but it made Templeton furious. He swaggered up to the silent one and shouted, "Speak when an upperclassman talks to ya. Some crust you got!"

"Aw, nuts," said the other, in a thrilling baritone. "What kind of a stunt are you trying to pull? Better leave, kid, or you'll find yourself in trouble."

"That's the last straw," yelled Templeton, "calling an upperclassman 'kid.' Assume the angle!" (What could this mean?)

"Who's gonna make me do it?"

"Me!"

"You and which army?"

"Just me!" And with that Templeton aimed for the other's chin, but missed. But—oh, the horror of it all!—the blonde also aimed for poor dear Templeton's jaw, and he connected! Templeton hit the ground with a sickening thud, but jumped up again. At this point I intervened. "Oh, sir," I pleaded, "I entreat you not to let this awful bloodshed go any farther. Please, please, cease!"

"All right," said this handsome stranger. Then, to Templeton, "I am letting you go for the lady's sake, kid."

"Okay," replied Templeton, "but you gotta stop calling me 'kid.' You're only a freshman, even if you have got a lucky punch."

"But," replied this wonderful man, "I am not a freshman. I am Abernathy Jones of the faculty and if you have signed up for any of my courses I advise you to drop them."

Ah, dear diary, I wonder what he teaches?

If you liked the rally last night, tell us so and we'll try to have more of them.

On to Kezar will be the watch word tonight. Let's all turn out at 8:00 o'clock to see a great basketball game.

If you have any good ideas about one thing or another, don't be bashful. Let's hear them.

To the commuter in last week's Rams Horn—thanks for the suggestion. We'll try to have a dance on Saturday. However, the next dance has already been tentatively scheduled by the High-Soph class for Friday, March 5.

All day Friday, March 5, we are told will be High-Soph Day. The High-Soph women will wear loud apparel and the High-Soph men will wear loud bow ties.

You tennis enthusiasts: Today we have a match with San Mateo at 2 p.m. and on Saturday there is one scheduled with Salinas at 10 a.m. Both these events will take place at the Palace of Fine Arts.

The Executive Council will meet in Room 204 at 2:15 p.m. every Thursday. These meetings will be open to the school. Let's take advantage of this chance to see how our Ex-Council works.

A word of commendation goes to the Forum Club for their efforts in the line of student publications.

ARCHIE, THE PROBLEM CHILD

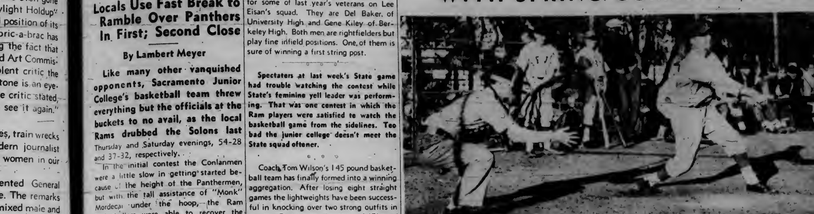
"Archie's done it again, Archie's done it again!" Chief Deputy Superintendent of Schools John E. Brady ran around the Third and Townsend depot, jerking open the doors on every taxi cab he could find.

Pinned down, he lamented that President Archibald J. Cloud, in characteristic fashion, had forgotten his brief case—left it in the taxi, and the train scheduled to pull out for New Orleans in a few minutes.

A few minutes later, the taxi driver, having noticed the brief case in the back of his car, returned to the depot with the missing object. Superintendent of Schools Joseph P. Nourse took possession, grimly declaring that from then on there would be no further delays.

Slowly the train began to move. Brady leaped from the steps to the ground.

"Where's Archie?" was his agonized cry this time.



Archie was found calmly leaning against a post, having a pleasant conversation with some stranger, apparently not the least concerned over the fact that his train was leaving.

Archie was hurried on the still moving train. We haven't heard yet, however, whether or not his companions reached New Orleans safely with their hair the same color it boasted when they left San Francisco. Yes, Archie is their problem child.

SOLONS BOW TO RAM QUINTET IN ROUGH CONTESTS

Locals Use Fast Break to Ramble Over Panthers In First; Second Close

By Lambert Meyer

Like many other vanquished opponents, Sacramento Junior College's basketball team threw everything but the officials at the buckets to no avail, as the local Rams drubbed the Solons last Thursday and Saturday evenings, 54-28 and 37-32, respectively.

In the initial contest the Conlanmen were a little slow in getting started because . . . the height of the Panthermen, but with the tall assistance of "Monk" Mordecai under the hoop, the Ram basketballers were able to recover the wild shots of the Sacramentans.

Wyn Rippon and Kotta ranking goal getter and Loustalot lending a helping hand, the first half was a happy one for the local quintet. They kept the ball away from the Panthers and the few times that the Sacramentans did get their hands on the leather, they had to stop and look at it a few seconds to make sure it was real.

RIPPON, KOTTA HOT

The second half was a runaway, with the fast breaking forward combination of Rippon and Kotta running wild to get point after point.

The Sacramento five got desperate, and with their recklessness came fouls and more fouls. Within six minutes, three first string men were ejected. The Rams kept their heads, however, and had only seven personals called during the entire ball game.

Panther forwards, Dickinson and Eddy, worked hard for the cause but they just couldn't stop the fast breaking, sharpshooting men from the big city.

"Chubby" Kotta and Paul Rippon topped the scorers with 16 points apiece, getting more than the entire Solon outfit.

SECOND GAME "THRILLER"

The second meeting of the two teams at Sacramento was one which this writer hopes he never has to sit through again.

Playing in a small gymnasium with a partisan crowd as a background, the Solons were out to win the ball game and nearly turned the tables on the Rams.

The first five minutes of play found the locals putting up a fine defense and taking a commanding 5-0 lead, but in a few minutes the Sacs were ahead 7-5 and getting hotter every second. Buckets by Rippon closed the gap and with four minutes to go in the half, Addy, Panther forward, broke loose to give his college a 15-12 handicap.

Mordecai, entering the game, tanked a bit-fouter and swishers by Loustalot and Rippon put the San Francisco club in the lead once again.

With the Sacramento rooters yelling for action and points, the half ended with San Francisco leading 19-17.

SCORING TIGHTENS

Opening the second period found both quintets playing even ball, with the home team a little faster under the hoop. Looping shots by Panther forward Irwin, and guard Dickinson, brought the score up to S. F. J. C. 23, Sacramento 22 after about five minutes of play.

SOLONS TAKE LEAD

The ball changed hands and Kotta sank a bucket to make it 29 for the visitors and 30 for the Panther team.

Numerous long shots were hurled at the basket by both outfits, and fouls began to occur with two minutes to go in the fray.

The Panthers widened their lead to 32-29 and it looked mighty gloomy for the men from San Francisco. Rippon got in a hook shot for two points and with one short minute to play, the score stood at Sacramento 32, San Francisco 31.

RAMS SHOW ABILITY

Then it happened! Doug Maas let one of his long 30-foot shots float through the air, dropping it through the hoop without touching the rim. 33 to 32. But that wasn't enough. Gus Kotta, living up to his high scoring reputation, let two shots fly that ended the ball game and widened the lead to five points. In the remaining 15 seconds, the Solons were too closely guarded to do any damage, and that five-point margin looked plenty good to the tired Ram cagers.

The score does not tell the dramatic story of the last few minutes of the closest basketball game of the present hoop season.

Rippon, Ram forward, led the scorers with 11 points. Addy, Panther forward, was high point man for the home team with 10.

LAMB'S RAMBLINGS

By Lambert Meyer

Two eastbay baseballers are proving their ability and making it plenty tough for some of last year's veterans on Lee Eisan's squad. They are Del Baker, of University High and Gene Kiley of Berkeley High. Both men are nightfielders but play fine infield positions. One of them is sure of winning a first string post.

Spectaters at last week's State game had trouble watching the contest while State's feminine yell leader was performing. That was one contest in which the Ram players were satisfied to watch the basketball game from the sidelines. Too bad the junior college dance's meet the State squad oftener.

Coach Tom Wilson's 145 pound basketball team has finally formed into a winning aggregation. After losing eight straight games the lightweights have been successful in knocking over two strong outfits in a row. First it was the Marin 145's and last week the Gatel babes. Here's wishing them luck this evening.

* * * *

The recent Marin-San Francisco basketball game played at Marin tried to surpass the Marin-Modesto fouling record. In the Modesto-Marin series 41 personals were called but the Rams and the Marin County men only could accumulate a measly 32 fouls. Sixteen fouls were called on each quintet, four men being ejected from the floor.

* * * *

Hopes for a championship tennis team ride high with Coach Wilson. Two outstanding players from Lowell High School are now attending the junior college. They are Rod Rogavay and Al Altfield both spectacular net men. These individuals coupled with returning veterans should constitute a powerful tennis outfit.

* * * *

Junior college students upon traveling to Marin for the S. F. J. C.-Marin basketball game were red at the idea of having to pay the sum of twenty-five cents (with student body) to watch their own team play. It really wasn't quite right as after all the contest was played in the Marin Junior College gymnasium.

The baseball squad and the crewmen not to be outdone by the basketball team with their new silk uniforms are to be equipped with new athletic garments in the very near future. The athletic department of the college is really doing things up in a big way.

"An apple a day," is the motto of "Monk." Mordecai, 6'4 basketball man. Monk's lunch wouldn't be complete without a nice shiny apple. We've been wondering how the professors have been treating the tall guard.

With the first league baseball game less than two weeks away Coach Lee Eisan has scheduled plenty of practice games for his ball hawks. Both the basketball and baseball teams are in the same predicament, a winning combination must be found before it is too late. The baseball team opens its season March 6, playing the Sacramento nine at Sacramento.

What a small wager will do. One of our high scoring Ram forwards had a little bet with a pretty co-ed on the outcome of the State contest last Tuesday evening. She took the Gaters and he collected a kiss besides getting a goodly collection of baskets. This should be encouraged among all the players. Those 49 points weren't hard to take.

* * * *

Seen and heard in the press box: The State scorer with Kotta shooting: "It was 30 now it's 32." With Maas shooting long: "Does he ever miss?" "Gosh, that's three for three." Watching Johnny Fitzgerald trying very hard to keep the official scoring book and chat with the blonde State yell leader at the same time. Listening to Tony Scafani ask, "How much time?"

* * * *

Up to this time it looks as if swimming classes have been abandoned. Classes in the aquatic sport were to be held under the direction of Coach Sweet but limited time and untantisfactory water facilities have closed down on the sport. With such capable swimming stars as we have in the college a swimming team or club should be formed.

Around the Bases

By LOUIE BERTOLUCCI

The Ram twirlers were given a taste of major league baseball pitching last week. It was the pitching of the great little Italian ball-player of the Chicago White Sox, Italo Chelini, which was tested by the college nine.

Getting in a little practice before reporting for official training, Italo worked out at Funston park about the time Lee Eisan had his boys in practice togs. He tossed over a few balls as the boys took their batting practice. Imagine the nerve of the Junior College boys using a major league pitcher for batting practice.

* * * *

Milton "Dizzy" Berman got up to bat against Italo Chelini and started to hit the ball around the lot. Finally, the White Sox twirler told Berman he was going to throw him a curve ball. The Ram first-sacker set himself for the pitch that he never got within a yard of.

* * * *

Berman swung five times at pitches he knew would be curves and each time he widened the gap between the ball and the bat. Maybe he has a weakness for curve balls? ? ? ?

* * * *

Next week the nine takes on Commerce High School in a return engagement. Last time out the Red and White turned back the Bulldogs by a score of 8-2. With more practice under their belts, the Rams are going pick-to defeat them again but this time by a larger score. The game is set for Tuesday, February 23 at 3 o'clock on the Southside diamond.

* * * *

Third baseman Joe Futernick turned in the best performance against the Bronco nine last Thursday. Joe showed his running ability, beating out two hits and stealing the only base of the day for the locals. Several base-runners were thrown out by the Broncs but little Joe was too fast to be caught. But Futernick's performance wasn't limited to base-running. He slammed out two singles and one triple in five times at bat, getting on base two other times on errors. On the field, Joe played both third and second bases and turned in a sparkling performance.

Gaddy's Navy In Washday Victory

Opening their season in an impressive fashion, Coach Jack Gaddy's boatmen pulled their way to a win over U. S. F., Oakland Poly, and the Wheel Club in the feature race of the Washington's Birthday Regatta at Yacht Harbor last Monday. The Gaddy men took the lead at the start and were never headed during the entire race, finishing almost two lengths ahead of the University of San Francisco boat, which ended in second place.

Gaddy announced that he was pleased with the showing made by the Ram Navy, although some of the men in the race showed evidence of being inexperienced. The College boat made use of a long stroke which allowed them to finish in good condition, although the men have been practicing only three weeks. The timing seemed fairly good for an early season race, but some of the spots, notably the port number 2, seemed rather slow on recovery. Gaddy hopes, however, to work out these weaknesses before the opening of the conference races.

The Ram lineup consisted of Ty McHugh at starboard stroke, Carl Brogger number 5, Ed Craig number 4, Art Nelson number 3, Harry Wagstaff number 2, and Jim Smith bow. On the port side they lined-up with Elmer Hubacker at stroke, Bob Carroto number 5, Tom Buckley number 4, Sims Hamilton number 3, Don Mix number 2, and Bill Schoenfeld bow.

Baseball Team Loses to Santa Clara Frosh 6-4

The first blotch on the Ram baseball record was applied by the Santa Clara Freshman team last Thursday on Ryan's field at Santa Clara. The final count was 6-4 but the score only tells half the game.

Without taking away any of the credit due the Freshman team, it can be said that the locals did not turn in the game that they were capable of producing. Errors, bad throws, "boners" and free trips to first base were in great evidence.

An eighth inning rally came near settling the issue for the Rams. Trailing the Bronchos 6-3 the Red and White connected for two baseshits. A walk and hit on an error tallied one run, closing the gap slightly.

With three men on and one down, the Rams' hopes went soaring. But this brief period of hope went glimmering when Arvedi went down via the strike-out.

TWIN VICTORIES WOULD TIE RAMS FOR FIRST PLACE

Pirates Undefeated Yet In Conference Games; Two Dropped by Locals

The championship title will be weighed on the conference scales Friday and Saturday nights at Modesto, with San Francisco Junior College's twice defeated basketball team on one balance, and the still undefeated one of Modesto Junior College on the other.

Fresh from two victories over Sacramento—one overwhelming and the other close—the Rams should be in prime condition for the Pirate clash. The Modestans, on the other hand, apparently have been in prime all season, with never a let-down.

PIRATES UNDEFEATED

The Pirate team coached by Jack Gaddy has yet to lose a game either in or out of the conference race and will be gunning for the San Francisco quintet on both evenings. Practically all of their games have been won by overwhelming scores, the closest being by a five-point margin.

Gardner has a team composed of men with past junior college basketball experience that know how to handle themselves in and out of the clinches.

The Pirates boast of high scoring guard, Frank Triano, mythical captain of last year's all-star junior college conference team. Triano measures 5 feet 10 and is the most spectacular player on the team.

Veteran Quintet

Other strong hoopsters are forwards, Nat Morton, Charlie Mangaracina, and Harry Feingold—centers, James Eckert, who has averaged nine points a game, and Bruce Ek, and guards, Otis Perry, Gene McNulty and Bob Norman.

The probable starting line-up for the Modestans will be Mangaracina and Morton at forwards, center, Rickett, and guards Norman and Triano. Every one of these men has been mentioned on all

DONATION HELPS FORUM CLUB IN FINANCING BOOK

Anonymous Contributor Is Thanked for $20; 40 Pages Comprise Work

With an anonymous donation of twenty dollars and small contributions from members, the publication of the Forum Club's literary magazine, Forum is assured, according to staff members.

"We are grateful to the individual who was so kind to be of financial assistance to us," club officers announced, "and now that tha money problem is out of the way, we can go full steam ahead."

Some contributions have already been received by the Forum staff. Any member of the college may make contributions. Material submitted may be of any type or subject. It may be a poem, an article, a drama, short story, or some other form of writing. It may be about current affairs, philosophy, social science, or other subjects.

Length is limited to 1,500 words. Contributions will be judged upon interest, literary value, authenticity, and timeliness. A general and balanced selection of material will be the aim of the publications. The deadline for all copy has been tentatively set for April 21. Tha Forum will come out at the end of the semester, and will consist of approximately 40 mimeographed pages.

Three Runs in Seventh Give Broncos Victory

nick. A fly ball by Paul Hjort tallied the first run of the game.

Santa Clara came back in the second inning to tally three times on 2 hits, one a long triple by the pitcher, Albanese. Only 2 of the runs were earned, the third coming after two batters were struck out but advanced to first base on errors by the catcher.

Scoring in the third, fifth and eighth innings, the Rams came close to the opposing nine but faltered in the seventh frame when they allowed the Broncos to put over three runs to take the game. All three of the runs came after two men were down, on two hits, two walks and an error on the third baseman.

George "Sherry" Hughes took the mound for the collage nine for the first time this season. Sherry only allowed eight hits, and, but for two bad innings and several errors, might have won the tussle.

Intramural Tennis Goes Into Third Round Series This Week

Intra-mural tennis swings into the third round this week, although a number of second round matches have not been played. Nine representatives in the singles and twelve teams in the doubles are ready for the third bracket.

Already victorious in the third round are tha teams of Chandler Ennis-Al Altfield and Jack Christ-Tim Ross. Altfield, one of the favorites in the tournament, also won his way into the third round of the singles, as did Ennis.

A thriller was provided when Dimitri Gorbatenko collided with Bob Bush. Gorbatenko came out on top 6-3, 6-8, 9-7, and will meet George Floroff this week. The only other third round match which is definitely bracketed pits Jack Christ against Robert Lazare.

Players who have advanced into the third round are Harold Mitchell, Chandler Ennis, George Karsant, Al Altfield and Bill Cardinal.

The second round was not completed when THE GUARDSMAN went to press, with the following matches yet to be played:

Singles: Tim Ross vs. Walter Guibini, Richard Lum vs. Bob MacGuire, William See vs. Tony Valerio, Jim Mull vs. Eugene Prisenco, Kay Lyman vs. Robert Lam, Robert vs. Al Nagahashi, James Parker vs. Rod Rogaway.

Doubles: Mitchell-Parker vs. Grobe-Benbow, Wilson-DuBain (bye, Prisenco-Hart vs. Pearson-Lee, Platt-Levy vs. Telesmanic-Wunderling, Lyman-Allen vs. Lazare-Rogaway.

Changes in Fees, Dues Discussed by Pre Meds

Several suggestions for changing the amount of the present initiation fee and monthly dues were made at the last meeting of the Pi Mu Gamma Society, Thursday, February 11.

Joe Walsh, president of the society, proposed that the regular initiation fee of $3.00 be changed to $1.50, and that the monthly dues be 25 cents instead of 50 cents. This suggestion is being considered, and will be discussed further at the next meeting of the club, Thursday, February 25.

All students who are enrolled in any of the pre-medical courses are eligible to become members of Pi Mu Gamma, and they are welcome to attend the meetings of the society, which are held every other Thursday. Glen Noble, club sponsor, has announced.

Ram's Horner Offers Suggestion for Dance

All right, I've raised a question, so I'll make a suggestion: One semi-formal a month, at, shall we say, $1.00 per couple, or thereabouts; and an occasional sport dance (like the one at the Century Club last term) sandwiched in between the semi-formals, for a nominal amount per couple. I don't mean all dances to be directly under the Social Committee, for the Beta Phi and Newman Club dances last term were very good ones. But, by all means, have them well managed (as they were last term, and so far this term) and not all within a couple of weeks, but well spaced throughout the term.

S. O. S.

P.S.—Signature signifies that, to all probabilities, I'll be in need of some more rescuing this term, and probably very soon . . . help! Come to my rescue; LET'S DANCE (with the school)!

Dear Editor:

Many aspirants to literary fame were decidedly pleased to read about the publication planned by the Forum Club. No doubt there are many erstwhile Kiplings, Stevensons, etc., floating around the junior college halls just waiting for an opportunity to parade their talents. Well, more power to them, and may the publication prosper.

Wedding is Valentine For Eileen Faulconer, Now Mrs. Arnald Rue

Valentine's day, traditional holiday of romance, was chosen by Eileen Faulconer, college supervisor of attendance and guidance, as the all-important date of her wedding, held at the First Presbyterian Church on Van Ness Avenue near Sacramento Street. The informal morning ceremony, at which only the bride and groom, and their immediate families were present, took place at 9:30 o'clock a. m.

Miss Faulconer, now Mrs. Arnold Rue, surprised her friends among the members of the faculty, according to Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar. "We were under the impression that she had taken a short vacation," stated Miss Learnard, who added that Mrs. Rue returned to work Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rue, according to Miss Learnard, are so fond of San Francisco that they spent their honeymoon in the city, but will take a trip during the summer.

The bride is a well known faculty member of the college, where she has served in her present capacity since its establishment two and a half years ago. She intends to continue working in the registrar's office, Miss Learnard said.

Tennis Team Makes Its Debut Tomorrow: Palace

Tom Wilson's racket wielders make their season tennis debut tomorrow afternoon when they meet San Mateo J. C. netmen at the Palace Courts.

The Ram squad presents a host of new names this season, but Wilson is confident it will equal or better the performance of last year's team, which split with the Bulldogs.

The Ram team is composed of Kay Lyman, Rod Rogaway, Al Altfield, Bill Cardinal, Chandler Ennis, and Harold Mitchell.

Their peninsula opponents will be Paul Livesay, Ellsworth Ellis, Al Stanich and Hal Wright, who will take the Rams on for four singles matches and four doubles matches.

As a special event, Coach Tom Wilson of the locals and Coach Bayshore of San Mateo will meet Rogaway and Ennis in a doubles match.

The Rams return to the wars Saturday, when they tackle the net team of Salinas Junior College.

SPANISH STUDENTS PLANNING BANQUET

Arrangements are being made for the banquet of the combined Spanish classes which is to be held at Flor D'Italia on Wednesday, March 3. The affair is under the direction of faculty sponsors Dora Garibaldi and Thomas Gabbert and all students who are interested in the Spanish language are invited to attend. A committee headed by Lou De Lera has promised to provide entertainment for the dinner in the form of songs and skits which will be presented in Spanish.

The attendance at this function will give an indication of student interest in this type of organization and determine the possibilities of having a permanent group, it was said.

HANCOCK PROMOTED TO 2nd LIEUTENANT

Keynoted by a review of its first year's achievements by Sponsor James S. Hughes, the College Rifle and Pistol Club swung into session last Thursday at 5:30 p. m. in the Galileo Range. Order of business dictated the introduction of new members to superior officers of the club.

An inscribed gavel, presented by T. Gordon Sollman, found its head smashed to the board time and again by John Stewart, president. Enthusiasm abounded! Unruly? No—, Happy? Yes! Cause?

A first year's tenacious competition completed on Wednesday night had netted the first team second place, and the second team first place in their respective rifle leagues of the San Francisco Rifle Association!

Roaring bursts of applause greeted the announcement that Bill Hancock, coach and range officer of the team, had, after Wednesday night's competition, been promoted to a lieutenancy in the California State National Guard.

With a brilliant offense and a snug defense the country boys have run rampant over all opponents but this does not scare the Ram squadmen. To both teams it is not just another ball game but a chance to complete a very successful hoop season.

The dancing club is planning to attend the recital given by Trudy Schoupe. Preceding the recital the entire group will go to dinner. We haar that some of the modern dance group will take part in the festival held by the dance council of San Francisco. Vera Spencer, Instructor of dancing at the college, Narin Borup, Josephine Tobin, and Dorothy Moore will appear soon in the dance group under the supervision of Veronica Pataky, teacher of modern German technique at the Veteran's Auditorium.

Practice for badminton and table tennis will be on Fridays at 2:30 o'clock. And here's a chance for the men to join their girl friends. Mixed doubles practice will be on Fridays also with tournaments planned for the participants.

It is rumored that the archers aren't making as many bull's eyes as usual. It seems, according to some of the stars on the field, that when they hit the middle of the target the arrows break in half, so in order to save their arrows they avoid the middle. Hm . . .

Any women who would like to play basketball may form a team with or without a coach. The WAA basketball club will play any of the teams that would like to play them.

Interclass competition will be on Mondays and Wednesdays at 4:30, and Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3:30 o'clock.

He Started Something! Now We Have Our Love Picketers

Curious on-lookers clustered around three college Lotharios gleefully picketing the Lecture Hall last Tuesday, February 16, at 11 a. m. Apparently having taken their cue from the recent successful exploits of a young romancer, described in the nation's newspapers, these Romeos bore placards bewailing pitiful condition of "love's labor lost" upon one lady fair: Rosella.

Bleeding hearts were splashed across the signs, tearfully telling of "Wally-Rosella," "Bluebeard Rosella," "Do not love Rosella," and "Unfair to Romance," and other graphic phrases revealing a trail of bent and broken hearts!

Blase times, these. Yes. But girls still blush! Witness attest to the fact that when "Rosella, the fair; Rosella, the loveable; Rosella, the lily-maid of"—came from her 11 o'clock Lecture Hall class and saw the signs, her blood ran high, her feet fast, and the pickets on a par in speed.

Beleaguered lady, attended by flying skirts and twinkling toes, hied herself to the women's lounging room. The amourously panting pickets lingered awhile, then hung their signs on the iron grill work and went to dinner.

Irony—yes—They were trying to bargain for a three-way meal as partial hush-money. THEY BOUGHT THEIR OWN!

Bullet Goes Between Window shopping Co-eds

Fate smiled benevolently the other day on two San Francisco Junior College co-eds. One of the bullets fired at a policeman by a beserk negro narrowly missed Annabelle Tyler and Verna Cames. The two students were window shopping at the City of Paris on tha corner of Stockton and O'Farrell Streets when a fuselade of shots rang out and a stray bullet whizzed between them and embedded itself in the show window, in which they were looking, shattering the glass in its flight. The madman fled, leaving behind a seriously wounded police officer, a wounded truck driver and at least two frightened people.

Forum Club Discusses Education Next Meeting

Jabber on Yell Leader Vote Occupies Council

Pressure of college business, mainly the consideration of an amendment to the effect that future yell leaders be allowed to vote in the Executive Council, eliminated deliberation of the proposed budget for the spring semester, at the first Executive Council meeting of the semester, February 18.

The budget was presented by the Budget Committee which includes Dean Edwin C. Browne, Paul Pitman, assistant to President Cloud, Ward Nichols, college comptroller, and President Cloud.

NEW WOMEN'S REST ROOM

A new rest room is now located in the west library at Galileo High School for the benefit of women students of the college, Bertha Keller, of the physical education department, has announced.

There will be an NYA student on duty in this room at all times, Miss Keller said, and comfortable couches and other equipment will be at the disposal of all women who wish to rest there.

HOTEL EMPLOYES TAKE COURSE AT JUNIOR COLLEGE

National Recognition Is Given Division Through New York Publication

Several employees of San Francisco hotels are enrolled in the Restaurant Accounting course at San Francisco junior college. They are Albert Bevans, El Cortez Hotel; Tillman Brown, Geary Hotel; and Milton Redford, Washington Hotel.

This course is being conducted by Mr. Turner, Mr. Sullivan, and Mr. Gifford, and about thirty junior college students ara enrolled in the class, which meets five days a week.

Records from the junior college cafeteria are used and a complete set of books beginning with the opening accounts, including the study of the necessary daily records for adequate food control; sales analysis; cost distributions; analysis computation of daily cost records; problems of receiving and checking merchandise, control stores; closing entries; trial balance; profit and loss and monthly statement; analysis of percentage costs and comparative ratios, are kept by each student.

National recognition was given the San Francisco Junior College Hotel and Restaurant Management Division in an article printed in the "Hotel Manager," a magazine published monthly in New York and distributed to every hotel manager in the United States.

Underneath the caption, "Who's Who" appeared an outline of the program followed by the department. Pictures of President Cloud and Mr. Beswick, Chief of the Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education, were included in the article.

The work of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division is steadily gaining a fine reputation, according to J. Graham Sullivan. This is proven by the fact that two students from the junior college, Edmee Burgess, and Jean Gahard, are employed as Chief Cretux at the St Francis Hotel.

Another student, Rosalind Kissel, who is a high freshman, has been appointed Restaurant Statistician. Her work is compiling operating figures and making graphical presentations of the eating habits of junior college students.

EX COUNCIL BUSY WITH IMPORTANT WEIGHTY MATTER

Misappropriations Plus Black-board Portraits Occupy Official Minds

Holding their third meeting of the semester, a momentous gathering of the Executive Council of the college was staged last Thursday afternoon, February 25. The political personages of the institution wrangled back and forth in a negligible manner for the space of some 60 minutes and accomplished nothing other than a unanimous approval of a large appropriation to be used to give the committee pins.

Marie McKnight, recording secretary, opened the meeting with the reading of the minutes of the preceding gathering, at which the approval of the budget had been shelved because of the pressure of other business—namely, whether or not the yell leader should have a vote in the council. A discussion was then held on the possibility of incorporating the offices of corresponding secretary and recording secretary, but since no one in the group seemed to understand the fine points of the constitution concerning such matters, President James Neal hit upon the brilliant idea of avoiding the issue by appointing a committee to study the constitution.

"LIKE IT"

Hugh Waite, Low Frosh president, asked the Council to approve a 10 dollar appropriation for a dance to be given by his class. After some discussion on the question, someone discovered that the Council has no power in the allotment of funds for social functions, but Waite asked the group to vote on the matter nevertheless "just to see if they like it".

Approval of the budget was laid on the table because of the absence of Dean Edwin C. Browne and other members of the Budget Committee.

"GET ALL WE CAN!"

In an Informal manner, the Council unanimously decided to request a sum of 30 dollars in order to buy members of the Body Executive pins. The only argument on the matter was on the question of whether to ask for 20 dollars or 30 dollars, but the issue was settled with all admitting that they "should get all they possibly could".

Deming Smith, head yell leader, then held forth at great length on the possibility of selling red and white book covers to the students at a price which would allow considerable profit to be made. Everyone agreed with Smith that it was a fine scheme, but none of the representatives of the various college organizations who were present seemed to want the responsibility of handling this enterprise. After being soundly upbraided by Smith for their lack of initiative, members of the Council suggested that the Cap and Meg, headed by Smith, be allowed the privilege of managing the book cover sale. Smith then decided that the matter should be postponed until a future date because, as he said, "Perhaps no one will buy book covers, anyhow".

REST FOR TIRED BRAINS

Tyler McHugh, leader of the High Sophs, had interrupted the meeting several times with motions for adjournment, and it was finally decided, at his request, to close the meeting.

Following adjournment, the members of the Council participated in an informal get-together during which the principal entertainment was the development of pictures on the blackboard. Members agreed that the pastime effectively provided relaxation from the strenuous mental labors of the afternoon.

MUSIC CLUB HOLDS MEETING TONIGHT

To complete organization, the initial meeting of the Music Club will be held at the home of Flossita Badger, music Instructor and club adviser, this evening.

All students interested in music are urged to become members whether they are enrolled in the college music courses or not, Miss Badger said, genuine interest being the single prerequisite.

The club, which first met as such last fall, plans to enlarge its membership and follow program of musical activities which will be highlighted by participation in the April Music Festival of the College of the Pacific.

College Enters Statewide Art Exhibit at Mills

Scholarship Offered Winner of Three Week Showing March 7 to April 4

Entering their first competition, students of the college art department will send ten selected pieces of their work to Mills College next week for exhibition from March 7 to April 1 inclusive.

Sponsored by the art department of Mills College, the competition will be composed only of the work of junior colleges throughout the state, and includes landscapes, oil and water color painting, and figure sketches. Three awards are offered, the first prize to be a scholarship in art at Mills College summer session, with both residence and tuition paid.

Richard Allman and Evans Ecke, college art instructors, selected the ten outstanding drawings from among those offered by students enrolled in art classes, and supplied titles.

Featured in the final selection was an insect's eye view of between the cabbage leaves in the garden, "Grasshoppers" by la Celeber. Local inspiration resulted in "Wharf In San Francisco" by Jack Miles, and "Fisherman's Wharf" by Ward Cox. More formal sketches were "Flamingoes" by George Cox, "Thatched Hut" and "Vegetable Garden" by Robert Bettencourt, "The Beetle" by Miss Celeber, "Swans" by Doris Michels, and "Figure Sketch From Life" and "Temple Garden" by Louis Martucci.

Student achievement in the art department follows quickly on the haels of recognition by local critics of the work by both Allman and Ecke. In the last gallery conducted by the San Francisco Art Association, drawings by the instructors were preferred by local newspaper critics to those named by the judges.

Emilia Hodel, of The San Francisco News, classed Ecke's paintings, "Approaching Storm" and "Carnival" as the two most sensitive and beautiful in the show, writing:

"Here is art in the best sense—deepfelt emotion passed through thought and fixed in technically perfect form. Such are these strong, individual paintings with their rich mood and fine color."

Of Allman's work, Alfred Frankenstein, of The San Francisco Chronicle, said:

"It would not be a bad idea for some-one to donate an annual 'average' prize . . . to be awarded to the one picture which seems to strike a balanca between the various tendencies and directions represented, and which therefor symbolizes the total value of the year's display. If I were to pick such a work, I should choose R. M. Allman's 'Truck Farm', for its neat and skillful handling of the medium, its intelligent understanding of the architectura of the California landscape, and its sensitivity to the color and atmosphere of the local scene."

Ten New Members Taken To Fold By Fraternity

Installation of ten new members featured the meeting of Beta Phi held on Monday, March 1, at the fraternity house on Jackson Street. President David York announced that the following men are now officially members of the organization: Serge Olferieff, Sylvester McAttee, Ted White, Hugh Waite, Bruce Bolton, George Harmon, Eddit Canepa, Howard Markowitz, Everett Abar, and Nick Vaughin. The ceremonies were presided over by the president, assisted by Vice-President Alfred Coffman, and Treasurar James Neal.

On next Monday, March 8, the fraternity will hold its semi-annual banquet to welcome the new members. The affair will be held at the Veneto Cafe at 6:30, and will have President Archibald Cloud and Paul Pitman as guests of honor. Other faculty members who will be present include Alden Smith, Edward Sandys, and Henry Soule, fraternity sponsors.

PETITIONS MUST BE FILED IMMEDIATELY

Urging that all High Sophomore students file petition for graduation as soon as possible, Mary Jane Learnard, assistant ragistrar in the collage, announced that these petitions may be filed in the Junior Collage offica at Galileo high school between tha hours of 9 and 5 o'clock.

"These patitions," Miss Learnard said, "should be turned in today if possible."

PRES. CLOUD NAMED TO PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK COMMITTEES

Again called to active participation in educational celebration, President Archibald Cloud has been named to the committee for San Francisco's Public School Week, April 26 to 30.

James Halley, Chairman of the Citizens Committee which will sponsor the recognition by parants of the progress of schools and education, has also named as members of the School Co-operation Committee, Genevieve Carroll, principal of the Jean Parker School and President, San Francisco Taachers' Association; Bertha Roberts, Deputy Superintendent of Schools; Mary Sweeney, President Classroom Teachers' Association; Mabel Sykes, Principal Alamo School; Carl Anderson, Principal Presidio Junior High School; Edgar Anderson, Principal Humbolt Evening School; Robert F. Gray, Director of Adult Education; Hon. C. Harold Caulfield, President, Board of Education; and Superintendent of Schools Joseph P. Nourse.

Blockmen's Theatrical Dreams Still Unformed

Busily preparing the theme and background of the San Francisco Block Society's night Vaudeville Show, Tony Scafani, head of the affair and his committee have takan several new membars into their organization. Lou Garcia, a student of the college who has had experience in writing stage and radio skits, will aid in the preparation of the script.

Those men and woman who have already signed up to try out for tha affair, will be given tha date of the trials, through the Guardsman, in the near future.

"Although we have a large number of people signed up to try out, we would still appreciate any further talent," Scafani declared. "Also," he said, "it is not absolutely necessary to sign up, just watch the bulletin boards and your paper for the date of the trials, make an appearance at the designated place and you will be givan a chance to display your wares."

Chemistry Club Blows Self To Weiner Roast

Activities for the coming semester have been planned by the Chemistry Club, to include a wiener roast and a dance at Sigmund Stam Grove on April 9, according to the president, Eugene Brady. A committee consisting of Anita McKay, Virginia Kwiatt, and Herbert Ward, is making the necessary arrangements, and Milton J. Polissar, instructor of Chemistry, is the faculty member in charge.

John E. Booher, chemistry instructor, has arranged a field trip for his Chemistry classes to the Standard Oil Company in Richmond, sometime during the first two weeks of March.

The club has been attempting to get Otto Heinrichs, noted criminologist, to speak at one of the college assemblies.

Chicago University Man Visits College On Library Surveys

Visiting the college last Friday in connection with a study being made by the Carnegie Corporation Advisory Group on Junior College Libraries, Dr. William Randall of the University of Chicago, studied the conditions of the collage library.

The advisory group of which Randall is a member, was formed in 1934 for the purpose of studying the development of junior college libraries while they are in a formative state, and reporting on them to the Carnegie Corporation. Members of the group are active in education and library work in the United States. The members include Dr. W. W. Bishop, Librarian of the University of Michigan, Chairman; Dean J. B. Edmonson, of the University of Michigan School of Education; Professor W. C. Eells, of Stanford University's School of Education; Superintendent W. W. Haggard, Joliet Junior College; Professor L. V. Koos, University of Chicago School of Education; C. H. Milam, Secretary of the American Library Association; C. E. Rush, Associate Librarian, Yale University; Dean L. R. Wilson, Graduate Library School, University of Chicago, and President J. M. Wood, of Stephens College.

Thus far, since its inception, the advisory group has collected, compiled, and analyzed statistics from over 300 junior college libraries. A suggested list of books for all junior college libraries is now in the process of publication.

As one result of its activities the group hopes to be abla to formulate a statement of standards for junior college libraries. In order to obtain a more complete picture of junior colleges than that merely drawn from statistics, the Group has sent out five trained and experienced librarians to visit and study a selected number of junior collages. San Francisco Junior College was included in the list of those designated to be visited.

TEAMS COMPETE IN EXAMINER'S SHOOT

Participation in the San Francisco Examiner's three-day rifle matches will be the next activity of the Junior College rifle teams. The matches are to take place at the National Guard Armory range, 14th and Mission Streets, Friday evening, March 5, and all day both Saturday and Sunday, March 6 and 7.

Three men's teams will be selected by the coach to shoot in the match; each team is to be composed of five men. A women's team, also consisting of five shooters, is being coached especially to enter the Ladies' matches. In these, the girls will be required to shoot twenty shots prone, to qualify for the awards being given. The men will shoot five shots in each position in order to compete in their classes.

Coach Hancock also plans to have some of the men on the junior college teams enter the individual matches, during the competition.

COLLEGE OF PACIFIC GOOD WILL SINGERS ENTERTAIN LOCALS

For the purpose of creating good will between the two institutions, students from the College of Pacific, at Stockton, California, entertained members of the San Francisco Junior College Associatad Students with music and skits, in an assembly at the Extension Building Lecture Hall last Thursday morning, February 25.

The affair was well attended by the junior college, with standing room at a premium. Piano solos, a woman soloist, and a new interpretation of an old skit was offered on the program.

Dean Robert Burns, of tha College of Pacific, arranged the performance, with Mr. Pitman handling the junior college's end of the transaction. From here the entertainers traveled to San Mateo Junior College, in order to put on a similar performance for them.

Because of the lack of complete organization in the dramatic and musical departments of the junior college, Dean Browna said that this institution would not be able to reciprocate immediately. He hopes howevar, that in the very near future a group from San Francisco Junior College will be able to go on a similar good will tour.

FRENCH, POLY SCI. INSTRUCTORS ADDED

Swelling the number of collega faculty members close to the hundred mark, two new instructors were officially appointed by the Board of Education last week to positions in the junior college division.

Christian Larsen, already known to the college through his service as a substituta instructor, will continue to conduct the classes of Franklin Sewell of the political science department, now absent on leave and undertaking special research work at Pomona College. Ubaldo Maggetti joins the French department, relieving the over-crowded condition in the beginning classes.

Huson, Tyler Named To Head A Capella Group

Members of the A Capella choir have chosen the following student officers for the spring semester. Willis Huson, president; Annabelle Tyler, vice-president; Rosella Retallick, secretary, and Jane Ferguson, Librarian.

Under the direction of Flossita Badger, music instructor, the choir is preparing musical selections which it will present at the Western Music Supervisors' Concert, March 23.

Another musical organization, the Men's Glee Club, also sponsored by Miss Badger, is busy planning a program of activities for the spring semester. However, they need more members to complete their plans.

Tentatively under consideration by the choir is participation in a musical program which will represent San Francisco Junior College at the Stockton Junior College Music Festival in April.

Traditions See Light in Sophs' Friday Frolic

Class Officials Promise Fun, Gaiety, Laughter With Epochal Festival

Taking further steps in the process of creating tradition in the college, the High Sophomore class will hold a High Sophomore Day on Friday, March 5, Walter Odone, vice-president of the group, said yesterday.

"On this day," Odone said, "High Sophomore fellows will be expected to wear bright bow ties to school and the girls will wear large bright colored hair bows. We had hoped to have some kind of a 'Kiddy Day' affair but our lack of a campus makes this impossible. By starting the idea of a 'High Sophomore Day,' we feel that we have at least built a foundation that future classes may add to as time goes on and opportunities increase."

Odone announced that the feature of tha day will be a dance which will be held in the women's gymnasium at Galileo between 2:30 and 5:30 o'clock. All holders of Associated Student cards are invited to attend and there will be a prize dance with the winner receiving some sort of a cup.

The committee for the affair, other than Odone, Includes Ty McHugh, High Sophomore president, Maria Walker, Ed Talavera, Annabelle Tyler and Verna Cames.

This semester's graduating class is the largest in the history of the college, according to official records. Most of the members have spent their entire two years of junior college at San Francisco, in direct contrast to former graduates most of whom were transfers from other institutions.

Service Members To Be Hostesses At Tea Sat.

Officially described as its first social affair of the semester, the Women's Service Society will hold a formal tea for prospective members on Saturday, March 6, from 4 to 6 o'clock p.m., at the home of Helen Davis, according to Pat Madden, WSS vice-president. About 14 women students have been invited to the affair. Mary Perry, secretary in the registrar's office, and Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar, will pour tea, and the WSS members will act as hostesses.

The nine co-eds belonging to the organization are as follows: Parnel Brown, WSS president; Ruth Johnson, WAA president; Helen Davis, vice-president of the Associated Students; Hermine King, Associated Students recording secretary; Elaine Dominguez, AWS president; Pat Madden, AWS treasurer; Barbara Latz, AWS vice-president; Florence Murphy, editor of The Guardsman; and Norma Parent, AWS secretary.

Democracy vs. Dictator Subject of Forum Club.

Choosing for its topic for discussion "Would dictatorship be better suited to modern society than democracy?" the Forum Club will meet Friday, March 12, at 1520 Florida Street. Carmino Garcea will present the argument favoring dictatorship, and Bill Simonds will advocate democracy. The "Forum" staff will meet immediately preceding the regular session.

The last meeting of the group was featured by a discussion of "Education". Club mambership is subject to application to Dorothy Mercer and William Goss, faculty advisers, or to student officers of the organization.

Rifle Club To Sponsor Assembly; Plans Dinner

Plans for an assembly and a dinner, both to be held sometime in the second week of March, were the main topics discussed under new business, at the Rifle Club Board of Control meeting, last Tuesday afternoon, February 23, at the rifle range. The entire student body of the junior college is welcoma at the assembly according to club officers.

The Rifle Club has purchased two new pistols, which will be used in the Friday afternoon practice sessions, according to Coach William A. Hancock. This practice section is open to anyone interested in learning to shoot a pistol, and will be conducted every Friday afternoon, from 4:30 to 5:30, at the Galileo rifle range.

WAA WELCOMES WITH LUNCHEON THURSDAY NOON

New Officers To Assume Formal Leadership; Ruth Johnson President

For the purpose of installing new officers and welcoming new members, the Women's Athletic Association will hold a luncheon tomorrow in the Galileo Cafeteria at 12:30 o'clock.

"The luncheon will be in the form of an initiation for both old and new members," said Ruth Johnson, president of the organization. "The managers will describe the sports they supervise for the benefit of those who are interested in a sport but do not participate because they feel that they do not know enough about it. Some of the plans and aims of the WAA will be discussed and the procedure for the obtaining of awards given by the WAA will be explained. There are many women in the college who do not understand the system by which awards are issued, and it is hoped this explanation will clear up some of the difficulty."

Officers to be installed and formally introduced include: Miss Johnson, president; Hermine King, vice-president; Margaret Wormell, secretary, and Phoebe Watwood, treasurer. The team managers for the semester are: archery, Junerose Bellew; hockey, Barbara Latz; baseball, Isabel Sherratt; golf, Gertrude Daniels; basketball, Parnel Brown; tennis, Halen Davis; fencing, Dorothy Fidiam; recreational games, Jean Cassinelli; swimming, Eleanor Roache; riding, Gloria Swicegood, and dancing, Nairn Borup.

"Completing plans for the luncheon, the committee in charge of arrangements expects a large group, if the sign-ups for the affair are any indication," Miss Johnson added.

The committee, chairmanned by Josephine Tobin and composed of Olive Reed, Taneko Amemiya, and Miss Johnson, has made arrangements for a large special table in the faculty cafeteria at Galileo. The luncheon, which will cost 30 cents, will precede the formal meeting.

Definite plans for a large tri-sport play day to be held some time in April or late March with Marin, Santa Rosa, San Mateo, and State may be announced at the luncheon, if arrangements now pending are completed.

NETMEN HOLD HOPES FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Prospects of the tennis team for an unbeaten season culminated by the conference championship are bright at presant, following the defeat of three strong opponents, San Mateo, Salinas, and Modesto, in practice matches.

The Modesto netsters went down to defeat on February 20 at the hands of the Ram squad by a score of six matches to four, and on the following Thursday San Mateo receipted for an eight to two pasting.

HAA MEMBERS HEAR MADAM BUTTERFLY

Fifteen members of the Household Arts Association attended a performance of "Madame Butterfly" by the San Carlo Opera Company at the War Memorial Opera House last Monday evening, according to Jo Jordan, HAA president. A block of seats was purchased for the event, the Japanese atmosphere of the opera coming as an aftermath of the lecture on "Customs and Costumes of Japan" recently presented by the organization.

FACULTY SUPERVISION FOR FEW WHO WANT IT

Supervision under another name or moral support for the defeated minority appeared today to be the concluding outcome of the decision made last week by student survey to divide the Extension Building study hall into social and academic parts.

With a completed schedule in hand, Paul Pitman, assistant to the president, named a group of faculty members to counselor service from 9 to 1 o'clock daily in the study hall. Their aim, Pitman said, will be purely and simply toward advice and assistance when and if it is wanted by members of either group of college students.

"IF THE SHOE FITS—"

Any possible stranger who may have attended last week's pre-game rally must have left with a very high opinion of the good sportsmanship of junior college students.

The conduct of the majority of these students was inexcusable. Instead of coming to the rally full of the spirit of friendly rivalry, they were, to say the least, rude and antagonistic in their attitude.

An excellent program was provided with first class talent from both colleges taking part. Accepted in the proper manner, this program would have been, without doubt, a huge success. Instead, the rally went down as "a flop", and merely because certain selfish and impolite people couldn't resist the temptation to show off.

The main culprit on this occasion, and on many previous occasions, were a group of the so-called "heroes" of the college. This group of overgrown high school lads occupies a certain section of the auditorium at all rallies, which might well be called "the hooting section."

Block men, most of them, their experiences on the athletic field should have taught them the fundamentals of good sportsmanship. Not one of these hecklers, if he were taking part in a basketball game, would think of booing a member of the opposing team who was trying for a basket. There is no reason why performers on the stage should not be given the same consideration. Maybe some are "not so hot". At least they have the courage to get up before a group of the severest critics and try.

It is not fair that the majority of junior college students should be judged by this small minority. This is, however, the case. State people carried home the information that San Francisco Junior College students are "a bunch of rowdies", and they were perfectly justified in forming this opinion.

"If the shoes fits" an old saying goes, "wear it", but the tag of rowdyism and poor sportsmanship is one shoe that the loyal students of the college do not care to wear.

TIME'S A-WASTIN'!

Sloth, like rust, consumes faster than labour wears.

—Benjamin Franklin.

In a week or two it will once more be time for mid-term examinations to begin.

"Students" who have been neglecting their studies will begin a frantic search for their missing books.

They will start burning the midnight oil in an attempt to match the more ambitious members of their classes who have had the foresight to follow their assignments from day to day and who are prepared for the "sudden" falling of the educational axe.

With all this, the question "Why?" again arises. Why wait until the last two days to study for mid-terms? Why not keep up with classes as you go along? Why not begin right now to make up for lost time by foregoing a dance or a show now and then and doing at least part of that piled up home work?

You have little to lose and everything to gain. Remember, "sloth, like rust, consumes faster than labour wears."

SLUGGARDS

Meant, perhaps, as an attempt as facetiousness, the University of San Francisco FOGHORN recently carried the following definition of a committee:

"A committee is a gathering of important people who, singly can do nothing, but together can decide that nothing can be done."

This is not nearly so amusing as it sounds. It is, when one stops to analyze existing conditions, pretty close to the truth. Committees are the most useless cog in the present day college machine.

There is something that must be done. "Who wants to be on a committee?" leaders ask. Nearly everyone volunteers. Sure, it's great stuff. "I'm a big shot. I'm on the whoosis committee to take charge of the whatsus."

Then the work begins. Where are the "Johnny-on-the-spots" who were so anxious to take part? They, it develops, have other things to do. The bulk of the work then falls upon the chairman, the faculty adviser, and one or two conscientious people who cannot seem to avoid doing their duty.

It would seem simpler and more logical to eliminate the committee in the first place, appoint a chairman and let him do all the work. He'll do it anyway so why not dispense with the committee entirely and save that much more time?

If, however, the committee system continues (and it undoubtedly will) something should be done about eliminating the drift-wood. Get rid of the hangers-on. Limit membership to those who are known to be workers, not those who claim the distinction.

As the weeks roll on and midterms approach (we would bring that up), it comes time to start turning over new "leafs". There's more truth than poetry in that one, for a great many of us will be digging out the brand new, never-been-opened text books for a little last minute studying. Speaking of mid-terms brings up thoughts of finals, and, this should cheer you, there are still about four months left before finals!

Not that any of this has anything to do with any of the rest of it, but you were warned, now, weren't you?

Prowling around the halls, the other day we heard this one. A young man leaving his English class inquired of a passing friend: "Have you seen Hamlet?" "No!" replied the other lad, who was either hard of hearing or a wise cracker of the first water, "I don't think he has any classes this morning." (That's what we get for prowling around the halls!)

Elsewhere on this page (free ad) you will find reference to that most mysterious and glamorous of creatures, the "femme fatale". Gosh, does that bring back memories! Once, and not so long ago, we tenderly nursed dreams of becoming one of them thar things. We even awoke in the middle of the night and planned an extensive campaign which was to include at least two or three broken hearts and any number of shattered ones. Alas, we had an early class the next morning, overslept, had to run for a street car, and arrived at school looking, feeling, and acting more like a spoiled two-year-old than any sort of a heart breaker. Before we could launch upon another attempt, a well meaning friend blasted every hope by kindly telling us that we just "weren't the type".

We wanted to include a poem in this week's column, but several gentle (!!!) hints convinced us that maybe we'd better not. However, what's to prevent a little blank verse? Here it is:

We hope the Vice-President doesn't forget the plea of "Miss Commutor" for a Saturday night dance.

Women of the College are doing things this semester. For example, the Women's Athletic Association is giving a luncheon tomorrow in the Galileo Cafeteria at 12:30 o'clock. Last week the Household Arts Association heard Miss Sannomiya lecture on Japanese costumes and customs. More power to the women if they keep the good work up.

If you are interested in art you should visit the exhibition being sponsored by the art classes. This is something different and our support would be appreciated.

SPOTLIGHT

By Don Mix

Now that the fire of early semester enthusiasm has died down somewhat, and things are beginning to assume their normal position in the scheme of college life, we wonder what all the campus politicians, who campaigned so hard and promised so fervently, are going to do to keep their name in the public eye. They could wear loud ties or affect an Oxford accent to keep people talking about them, but that is bound to wear off in time. There is, of course, the untried alternative of some intelligent activities which would serve to keep the political demagogue upon his pedestal . . . . but I suppose that such action is entirely foreign to this college, and for that reason would be branded as radicalism.

If the florist on the corner hasn't closed our account, we would like to send a potted geranium to Deming (Rah Rah) Smith for his fevorish endeavors in the organization of his beloved Cap and Meg. Despite any criticism of the worthiness of this action, you must admit that "at least he tried hard".

Oh, yes, the hats that are worn by those peppy (perhaps we should say preppy) youngsters on the Rally Committee. Well, they're made of good material, anyhow. (We mean the hats.)

Jerry Flamm, who haunted the halls of the college last semester, is now studying Spanish and playing "futbol" down in Mexico City. Jerry admits that his Irish temperament allows him to accustom himself quickly to the life of the caballeros.

If not the best, certainly the most versatile athlete in the college is Bob Fex. Bob really works at baseball, but he also finds time to dabble in football, basketball, and track.

We would certainly make no pretense of defending those loud mouthed lads who were so very obnoxious with their noise at the State game, but we will rise to say that we believe there was nothing malicious in their actions. Despite the fact that many people may disagree, we don't think that such a minor offense will cause the college to be branded as a group of unsufferable rowdies.

Everybody is heading south for the Ram exotus to San Mateo on Friday. Nov shish ka pop, my fran.

HEADACHES

If you are subject to severe headaches, it may mean that you can begin bragging to your friends about your brains, according to a current number of a nationally known medical magazine. After several months of study, the specialists at the University of Illinois Research Hospital, have come to the conclusion that these headaches, called migraine, are peculiar to the intelligentsia. It has also been discovered that Julius Caesar and Napoleon the members of the university staff said: "It is a disease of the Intelligentsia, and for that reason, persons afflicted should have a measure of ancestral pride, for it is hereditary."

Really, however, we had credited our police officers with more originality than this.

Many, many, years ago, a fiery Italian orator grated on the ears of his listeners with the oft-repeated urge: "Carthago delenda est". Times have changed in sunny Italy, but, unfortunately, not the morals. The ghost of Cato still haunts Rome. His words now, however, are not an urge, but a command uttered through the medium of his representative on earth, Mussolini. Il Duce, moreover, takes in a much greater area. HIS words are, "Civilization must be destroyed".

Second in our series of articles about women's organizations in the college, the Household Arts Association now comes to the front. This club, made up of women who are taking courses in household arts, is one of the most active that we know. Last semester, the HAA gave a tea, a big fashion show, and several other social affairs, and the club is planning another full social calendar for the spring term.

To join the HAA, you must take at least one course in household arts. We understand that a large percentage of women students does, so that this is not a very stringent qualification. The organization, in fact, is very cordial about inviting new members into the fold, and if all the members are as thoroughly gracious as those whom we have met, you'll have a pleasant stay there.

Dues are 25 cents for each semester, plus a 10 cent initiation fee for new members. The first meeting of the semester was held last Friday, but you may still join, and get in on the affairs planned for this term: a theater party to see "Madame Butterfly" at the Opera House, another tea, and a fashion show (this is now a semi-annual classic). Simply ask Jo Jordan, HAA president, Miss Cuneo, or Miss Daugherty for further details.

WHAT THEY THINK

Girl-i-gigs was conspicuous by its absence last week. In order to gain a census of opinion on the disappearance of our little brainchild, we gathered the following list of comments from various well-known characters:

Florence Murphy: "That's what you get for not making deadlines."

Louie Bertolucci: "Its absence improves the entire tone of the paper."

Eddie Frediani: "Wasn't it in?"

Unidentified co-ed: "Girl-i-WHAT?"

As some forgotten author once stated, "There's nothing like a faithful and adoring public for encouragement."

ODDS AND ENDS

Just as we were getting over a slight attack of the giggles caused when a too, too naive frosh co-ed asked us how you go about joining the AMS, because she heard that they have a lot of fun, some kind friend brought over the February edition of the California Pelican, the cover of which every basketball fiend should see . . . Since the administration has discovered that W. J. is a convenient storehouse, we have the A Capella Choir gowns, mimeographing equipment, and the new WAA hockey sticks with us. The last named articles are useful to the more athletic members of the staff; last Friday, Madden, while waiting for the typewriter, practiced her hockey technique; Frediani brushed up on his golf, and Mix tried out his crew strokes.

Lois Long of The New Yorker says that you ought to look "comradely and charming by day, and very femme fatale at night". Sounds nice, but we think that those gals who can look "femme fatale" ought to do so by day as well as by night.

Guess We're Wrong; Study Hall Matter Not Q.E.D. To Some

Somewhere in S. F.

Sometime in Feb. '37.

The Editor of the "Guardswomen":

Evidently a few of our FRESHMEN here do not believe in the notices on the bulletin board or maybe they do not know about the bulletin board. For their benefit Mr. Pitman says (quote) that there will be no faculty supervision in the study hall but that it will be divided into two parts—the study section and the social section, but—how can anyone study when a woman student is reciting something to her friend in a voice that could be heard the full length of the hall and when an overgrown youngster comes banging in the "swing" doors and hollers "HEY, BUTCH, why aren't you studying?" in a voice that could be an excellent fog-horn. Not only are there things like that but some dumb Freshwoman at my table could not add —12 and +12 and 0, so she had to bother the whole table about it.

I would suggest that the study hall remain a study hall in nice weather and then those students who want to have a friendly chat can go down to Union Square. In rainy weather the study hall could become a social hall and the students who wish to study will have to do their best in the turmoil, but even if this does sound crazy, with midterms only a week away something should be done and If those "high school-children" still need a faculty member to stand over them, give us a good "policeman".

Hoping that something happens,

VERY ANNOYED

Dear Editor:

How could you!! After rousing our hopes and whetting our appetites in your first issues, you deliberately eliminate that feature of the paper which you yourself had inaugurated. Yes, I mean the joke column. True, it was rather small, and perhaps not very good, but at least it was, unmistakably, a joke column. Give it back, won't you?

Even when it's not funny, we all read it, and the page seems barren without it. To think that you could dismiss so integral a part of the student publication without a pang. Pshaw!

RAMS DROP TWIN BILL TO PIRATES; DECISIONS FATAL

San Francisco's reign over Northern California Junior College basketball came to an end last Friday and Saturday evenings when a powerful, undefeated Modesto quintet handed the Rams a double beating by scores of 33-29 and 41-38, both games being played at Modesto.

PIRATE DEFENSE GOOD

In the initial contest the country gentlemen had an air-tight defense that kept the Rams away from the basket, and with three minutes having elapsed from the opening whistle the Gardner men had a 5-0 lead.

Long shots by forward, Norman, and center, Rickert, raised the Pirate score and at one time in the first half the Modesto team was ahead of the San Francisco squad 14-4.

The Conlanmen had a good chance to get points but the basket semed invisible and their foul throws were wide. Field goals by Maas and Caine helped a little but every time the Rams got going the home team retaliated with a bucket.

Half time score was Modesto 19, San Francisco 12.

RAMS COME BACK

The second half found the San Francisco players with a surer eye for hitting the basket and they began to creep up on their undefeated rivals. Shots by guards, Bedrosian and Mordecai that swished through the net looked mighty sweet to the Ram five.

Never able to close the gap the visitors could get no closer than two points to their opponents and the final gun sounded with the Pirates winning by four points, 33-29.

Rickert, Modesto center, led the scorers with eight points. Norman and Morton, Pirate forwards, had seven apiece.

SECOND GAME CLOSE

Playing in the same pavilion again on Saturday evening the tall Modesto combination kept the ball away from the small Ram forwards and started off the festivities by taking a 9-4 lead in the opening five minutes of play. But their defense had been solved by the fast breaking Conlanmen and splendid shots by forward, Caine, and guard, Bedrosian, brought the score up until there was a one-point difference between the two squadrons.

The contest see-sawed back and forth with the Rams getting their points on hard field goals and the Pirates coming back to sink their very frequent foul shots. Two points by San Franciscan Rippon was matched by the free throw ace, centerman Rickert of the Pirates. Rickert had six for eight in the official scorebook.

POINTS COME FAST

With but five minutes to play in the first half the score stood at 16 all with the Modesto team always holding the lead when points had to be gained. Two minutes to play, and a goal by Triano Pirate guard, was duplicated by Bedrosian, Ram guard, and the score was 18 to 18. Then the home outfit got lucky and "hot." A field goal by Rickert and a bad personal called on Loustalot that neither rooters liked changed the complexion of the game. The fouled man put in both his free shots for two markers and made the score 22 for Modesto and 18 for the Rams at half time.

LOCALS TAKE LEAD

In the opening minutes of the second half the San Francisco quintet took the lead for the first time in the whole contest, but failed to hold it as Pirate center, Rickert, was given three free throws in about three minutes and that "never-miss" man had three more markers to his credit and his team was two points in the lead once again.

Nice shots by Kotta, Loustalot, and Rippon of the Rams were matched by buckets by Triano and Mangiaracina of the Pirates and the scoring was kept quite even, the Modestans always at least one point ahead.

MODESTANS STILL UNDEFEATED

With two minutes to go the score was tied at 36-36, and then with one minute to play it was 38-38. A field goal by Pirate forward, Norman, made it 40-38 and the game was cinched as a foul was called on a Ram player and was dropped by Modestan Triano for his 14th point and his fourth good foul shot of the night. Modesto 41, San Francisco 38 and the gun sounded—Modesto having won its tenth consecutive victory in league play and becoming undisputed champions of the N.C.J.C.C.A.

SPRING SHINDIGGING PRACTICE ANNOUNCED

An attempt is being made to organize prospective members of next semester's San Francisco Junior College Soccer Team, for the purpose of holding a short spring practice. Walt Odone, member of last year's conference champs, is handling the organization of the practice.

Any one who played soccer in high school and intends to try out for the team, should contact Odone for full particulars concerning the time and place that these practice sessions will be held.

"Fellows who haven't had any experience in playing the game, but would like to try the sport, are welcome to attend the practice periods," said Odone. "Last year there were several men on the varsity championship squad who had never played the game before, so everyone who comes out has an even chance to become a good player."

LAMB'S RAMBLINGS

By Lambert Meyer

Congrats to the crewmen. The stalwarts won their first race this season in the annual Washington's Birthday regatta at Yacht Harbor. They won easily over the U. S. F. Dons, the San Mateo crew and the favored Oakland Poly boat.

We add Bill Dickinson, Sacramento forward, to our list of outstanding conference basketball players. In the two game series with the Rams he netted himself 14 points. He's very fast and has a deadly eye. Started the Solons on a scoring spree upon entering the contest at Sacramento.

George Bedrosian, Ram guard, is the basketball team's biggest consumer of eatables. When George sits down at the table there's no stopping him. He really spends more time eating than he does (bum) joke telling . . . . and that's a lot.

Junior College golfing men are doing right well for themselves in the present San Francisco Golf Championships at the various courses. Coach "Dutch" Conlan qualified for the championship flight at Sharp's Park with a smashing 81. Coach Russ Sweet took an 85 at the same course. Joe Futernick of baseball fame shot a smooth 88 at Lincoln, Ed Frediani, had an off day with a 106 at Harding, and Bill Retallick led them all with a smashing 74 at the Ingleside Golf Links. The second rounds were played last week-end but dope was not available.

The tennis team looks forward to a successful season after thumping the Modesto tennismen 5-4 at Modesto last week. All of the contests were close with the heavy wind making playing difficult. It looks like a victorious semester for the various San Francisco sport teams.

Lee Eisan's baseball team suffered a severe loss when Joe Futernick, Ram third sacker left school and signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. Joe will leave for Riverside this week to report for spring practice. Our outstanding athletes seem to be leaving for various parts of the country to compete for well-known sporting outfits. Hate to see Joe leave but it looks as if he's in the big time. The sports staff wishes him all the luck in the world.

The junior college track squad under Russ Sweet will make its spring debut when it encounters the Stanford freshmen cinder-pounders at Palo Alto on Saturday, March 6. From then on it's a strenuous track season with meets with various colleges weekly.

Former students "Red" Brickley, Jack Telesmanic and Bud McSweeney seem to be hitting it off O.K. at La Verne College in the southland. The three bruisers (who know absolutely nothing about the game of women's hockey) daily show the pretty co-eds how the sport should be played. What a life.

For the first time since the organization of baseball at the junior college the Ram team succeeded in holding an opponent to a no-run, no-hit ball game. It happened last Tuesday when the local ball hawks defeated Commerce High 3-0 at Funston Field. The fine twirling assignment was neatly turned by Larry Wilgus and "Lefty" Martinez. The team opens its conference season Saturday against the Sacramento nine at Sacramento.

It's too bad that it had to take a woman State yell leader (and a blonde at that) to keep the fellows quiet at the night rally last week at Galileo. What is this strange power these golden haired lassies have over the beeg strong athletes.

A man's golf team is attempting to get organized under "Dutch" Conlan. Any golfers interested in joining the divot diggers should get in touch with Conlan as soon as possible.

It's rumored that Bob Fex, Ram forward, tanked nine field goals in a row in practice the other afternoon. Robert can not seem to live down those two pitiful attempts at the basket in the first State game. Bob is sincerely hoping for another chance to redeem himself. Maybe we should fix it up with the San Mateo team this Friday or Saturday evening.

• • •

Setting some sort of a record, for San Francisco basketball team scoring, Paul Rippon netted himself the tidy sum of 21 points in the State Game last Wednesday evening. Ripp collected 15 in the first half, and six in the second.

• • •

One of the freak plays of the hoop season occurred in the second State game, when "Chubby" Kotta, dribbling in for a shot, was fouled by two Gator men at the same time, thus drawing two free throws. That's something we've never seen before in basketball competition.

Follow the basketball team down to San Mateo this Friday and Saturday evenings and watch two good contests. These ball game have turned into real traditionals between the two junior colleges.

BASEBALLERS IN NO HIT, NO RUN WIN OVER COMMERCE HI

Larry Wilgus and Joaquin Martinez entered baseball's exclusive Hall of Fame last Tuesday when they pitched a no run, no hit game against the Commerce Bulldogs, winning 3-0. The game goes on record as being the first perfect baseball game of its kind in the college history.

What makes the performance more remarkable is the fact that the game was played with most of the first team players on the bench. Coach Lee Eisan expected to get a line on his second team and also give them some practical experience.

Joaquin Martinez, a member of last year's mound staff, started the game and worked for four innings, allowing only two men to reach first base. Both of these batters got on the first sack when they were hit by pitched balls.

The fifth inning found "work-horse" Wilgus on the rubber, continuing the mowing down of Bulldog batters. Larry pitched the last three innings and only allowed three men on base, two getting as far as third base.

San Francsco started its scoring in the fourth inning. Bruno Lucchesi singled to center, Johnson walked and both runners were batted in on Ray Egelhofer's single to right-field.

It wasn't until the sixth frame that the Rams tallied again. Although no hits were made, the Red and White put together a walk and hit-on-error to send Johnson across the plate for their third run.

Ray "Bubblenose" Englehofer turned in a good game on the initial sack, never missing a ball. He saved the "perfect game" for Martinez in the fourth frame when he made a nice catch of a ground ball ten feet off first base and made the throw

The Ram nine opens the 1937 N. C. J. C. Conference race this coming Saturday against the league favorites, Sacramento. Although the Capitol City team is only a newcomer in baseball competition, it is reported that they are the team to beat for the title.

The Panther nine has always boasted a strong squad, made up of former American Legion ball-players. Last year they knocked over several of the conference teams in practice games, including the league champs, Modesto.

One of their ace pitchers to date is a former Lowell boy, Henry Fields. He has won three games for the Panthers this season and has yet to be beat in Junior College competition. When Henry is "right" he is hard to beat.

The success of the Red and White in the conference will depend largely on the outcome of their first series. If they can stand up well against "Hack" Applequist's flychasers, they may go on to greater glory.

COLLEGE CREW JOINS ROWING CONFERENCE

San Francisco Junior College was officially admitted to the California Oarsmen's Association at a meeting held on the Whitcomb Hotel last Saturday, February 27. The league includes crews from San Mateo Junior College, University of San Francisco, Marin Junior College and the Polytechnic College of Engineering.

Presided over by Commissioner Bill Lenhart, the group discussed plans for the coming season and drew up a schedule of conferences races. It was also disclosed that there is a possibility afoot of having the Associated Oil Company broadcast the important contests.

TRACK SCHEDULE

March 6—Stanford Frosh at Stanford.
March 20—San Mateo at San Mateo.
April 3—Sacramento at Sacramento.
April 17—California Frosh at California.
April 24—Santa Rosa at Santa Rosa.
May 1—San Francisco State at San Francisco.
May 8—Conference Meet at Marin.
May 15—Fresno Relays at Fresno.
All meets are on Saturday.

BASKETBALL TEAM ENDS SEASON WITH TWO GAMES AT SAN MATEO PAVILION

Looking forward to an undisputed second place rating in the Northern California Junior College Conference Basketball League the Ram cagers, after losing to the champion Modesto Junior College outfit last week-end, will be out to defeat the down trodden San Mateo Bulldogs Friday and Saturday evenings, March 5 and 6 in the peninsula pavilion.

The Bulldogs, coached by Marius McFadden, have had a rocky season at the hands of strong opponents and will be out to knock off their powerful rivals from San Francisco in the last series of this year's conference.

If the Rams should drop a game they still have hopes of the mighty Modesto team getting upset by the wild shooting Sacramento quintet this week-end and keeping the Conlanmen on the top of the ladder. But the local team will not worry about the Solon-Pirate contest and will focus all attention on the San Mateo ball game.

MATEANS WELL-BALANCED

The Conlanmen have scouted the McFadden hoopsters in previous encounters and cannot figure how this team resting in fourth position in the college ratings has been whipped so easily. The team led by high scoring forward, Higgins, has height and is fast on the break. Higgins, a smart player with a deadly eye, tanked 15 points in the second Modesto contest.

Other members of the Bulldog team include Kahn, forward, Bogiss, at the center position, and Clarke and Bodwell at guards.

Students will remember the fine passing and shooting of forward Kahn in last year's series. He was easily the most aggressive man on the hardwood.

PENINSULA GYM SMALL

The San Francisco team, with their fast break, may find difficulty in playing in the very small San Mateo gymnasium. In the past opponents home courts have been a jinx to the local squad. They dropped one to Marin and luckily eked out a five point victory over the Sacramento hoopmen.

The annual series means plenty of both clubs and neither team will let down for a second between the opening whistle and the closing gun.

Starting the game for the Rams probably will be the combination of Kotta and Rippon at forwards, Loustalot at center, and Bedrosian and Mordecai at the guard posts. Egan, Maas, and Caine will also see action.

TRACKMEN HOLD TIME TRIALS FOR OPENER

In preparation for a dual meet with Stanford Freshmen at Stanford next Saturday, Russ Sweet's tracksters ran time trials at Commerce Field last Saturday. Considering the small number of practice sessions that the cinder pounders have had, there were several impressive performances. Joe Rocktoff, quarter miler, ran his race in 53 seconds flat. The Commerce track is shorter than the ordinary oval, so that three turns had to be negotiated in the quarter. On a regulation track the time would have been close to 51 seconds. Bill Deffelson pressed Rocktoff the whole distance, and this duo coupled with George Cassin and George Compas or Jim O'Neill will make a formidable quartet in the mile relay.

Leading the junior college sprinters is Joe Garcia, formerly of Mission High School, and behind Garcia are a fast trio of runners, Ralph Youngdale, Bill Dobson, and Bob Gerughty, all capable of giving him plenty of support in the short races.

In the hurdles, both high and low, Jimmy McGruer and Joe Sanderson dominate the field, but their times were not exceptionally good for the barrier races. At the half mile distance George Cassin, a brother of Jimmy Cassin, star U. S. C. quarter miler, appears to be a good man, running the distance in 2 minutes 5:7 seconds, which is good time on the Commerce track.

George Woodland, miler, breezed thru a mile in close to five minutes with Charlie Keyer on his heels the whole race. Neither runner let himself out and they are both capable of better time.

The high jump will be covered by Ernie Loustalot and Ty Barre, with Youngdale, Bill Ravetto, Ed Bryant, and Kawaguchi performing in the broadjump.

In the weight events will be Walter Loving, George Bedrosian, Don Brain, and George Rosenzweig, with Luke Worsham and Randy Osborne tossing the javelin.

MARKET AT STOCKTON

AFTER DARK

BY John Ward

Leslie Howard is a sincere and honest actor working for the best. His attitude towards Shakespeare proves this. Whether you agree with him in this or not, his San Francisco performance did have a good deal more life than many others; his company had more freshness than any ever seen before on the west coast. He has the good theatre sense and the appreciative mind to realize that Shakespeare is not dated, just slow to a twentieth-century audience. He realized, as any ardent theatre lover will, that Hamlet is a glorified melodrama that has as much appeal to our day as it did to his.

But audiences of today are not apt to sit three hours for an uncut version that was originally written for a noisy, coming and going Elizabethean audience. Today the average intelligence of the crowd in "the pit" is comparatively high—a thought told once remains in the memory. Thus: the much ado over the poisoned sword is cleft in two and the play gains. Thus, as well: Hamlet's scene with his mother is kept within proportion, retaining its sting but losing its length. So, many other scenes gain, also.

By way of setting, Mr. Howard's was in spirit as well as good taste. It lent itself readily to quick and imaginative scenes. And, in the editing, short scenes that follow on one and another, were occasionally run together in one set. The play gained again, the pace was steady and smart. The costumes were in spirit with today. Ophelia was no longer draped in white nor carried flowers in her madness. There was a black gown to fit the occasion so in keeping with the action, that you wondered why it had not been done before.

Mr. Howard seems to have built his whole production around two aims: Shakespeare for today—but Shakespeare! He had his music to fit the occasion and the historical period by Virgil Thomson, a ripe and generous talent; a mime by Agnes de Mille, for the play within the play—a musical bit of speech and movement. And Leslie Howard, himself, gave the title role an injection of the same modern spirit.

There were faults to be found by this writer—mainly in Mr. Howard. But, as Mr. Howard added in a curtain speech, "we might talk about Hamlet all night and yet not agree." What appeared as out of spirit with both the character and the play was his reading of the "Now I am alone" speech. It suggested more of a separate reading than a part with the play. Yet, if one found fault with this speech, the "To be, or not to be" was faultless. He spoke it with such intent and consideration that it really seemed "the speaking of his mind."

As to those impressive New York critics who so wrongly labeled Mr. Howard's production with several crude adjectives, it is interesting to note that plans are afoot to open new plays in San Francisco and then take them to New York. It would appear that New York has lost its sense of discrimination!

Tennis Men Warming On Fine Arts Stove

Two more warm-ups, one against the California and one one against the Stanford frosh; will be played before the opening of the conference season on March 17, on which date the Rams collide with Menlo at the Palace of Fine Arts courts.

San Francisco is fortunate in having what is probably the best balanced team in the league. The squad is composed of seven men, and at present it would be difficult to select any one of them as outstanding, so high is the calibre of tennis played by each.

Two veterans of last season, Rod Rogaway and Bill Cardinal, are back again, and five newcomers, Al Altfield, Chandler Ennes, Bob Lazzeri, Harold Mitchell and Kay Lyman, all star performers in high school, make up the balance of a strong aggregation.

The players are being matched against each other this week, in order to obtain an official ranking for each.

There are seven teams in the conference this year: San Francisco, Menlo, San Mateo, Marin, Armstrong, Sacramento, and Modesto. All the Rams' matches, with the exception of that with San Mateo, will be played at the courts of the Palace of Fine Arts. Each meet is composed of six matches, four singles and two doubles.

Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

THE FLEET'S OUT (ELVIRA)

Feb. 23—Ah, dear diary, Washington's Birthday has come and gone. And who should be more patriotic on this day on which we honor the father of our country than the Blotzes, scions of one of the most aristocratic families of old Virginia? History records that a Blotz, Septimus by name, was deck steward when the Mayflower made her fateful voyage sometime between 1600 and 1700. (I forget the exact date, dear diary, but will look it up and let you know soon.)

On this historic holiday of February 22, when I woke up about 10 a. m. to face a sunny day, but no plans as to how to spend the lovely spring afternoon. Templeton had, alas, been drafted by his Boy Scout troop to give a cooking lesson to the younger members of the organization, and this left me with a long, empty day to face. Ah, me!

While I was in this reverie, however, something happened that completely changed the situation. A phone call from Ysabelle Twirp, my dearest friend, informed me that she and several other girls were going to visit the battleships in the harbor and asked if I would like to accompany them.

"I shall be charmed, dear Ysabelle," I cordially replied. As a Blotz, I felt it my duty to visit our great fleet, and mayhap to comment favorably to the admiral on his splendid organization.

Accordingly, I met Ysabelle and three other charming girls, Welcome, California, and Willie Sue by name, at Ysabelle's delightful residence, and off we started to spend a simply charmingly delightful afternoon in the healthful sunshine.

At the waterfront a nice-looking young man dressed in a natty sailor's uniform told us there would be a boat to take us out to the ship we wanted to see.

"But why," I asked, "can't we simply walk onto the ship?"

"Because it's pretty far out in the bay," he replied.

"Oh," I said. "Anyway, I thing it's just terribly nice of you navy men to have a boat ready just for us."

The nice young sailor smiled. "Think nothing of it," he answered. "But would you mind if those people rode in your boat?"—referring to a crowd of people standing near Ysabelle, Welcome, California, Willie Sue, and me.

The Blotzes have always been a family, which though aristocratic, believes in, as dear old Great-Uncle Ezekiel Blotz used to say, "Treating everyone you meet as if they was almost as good as a Blotz." My traditions of sterling democracy, instilled at an early age, therefore rose to the fore. "By all means," I replied in a gesture of generosity. "And please see that the dear people are given every comfort."

"Sure," he replied. "I'll speak to the admiral about this, miss, and I wouln't be surprised if he sent you a bid for the next Navy Ball."

At this point a boat drew up to the dock. The great moment had arrived! We were about to visit a great battleship! What would befall us while we were on board?

(TO BE CONTINUED)

What, indeed? Will the Navy get seasick? Will Elvira meet the admiral? Will the Marines land? These and many other burning questions will be answered next week in the second and last installment of "The Fleet's Out," Elvira's patriotic adventure.

Frightened! But Co-ed Rescues Drowning Girl

Plunging into the local Y.W.C.A. swimming tank last Wednesday, February 24, Jane Ferguson, junior college co-ed, effected a dramatic rescue of a drowning Japanese girl.

The near-tragic event took place in the 1 o'clock women's physical education class when the unidentified girl, attempting to master the tank's length, aparently tired and began to disappear.

The accident was unnoticed until Miss Ferguson, realizing the gravity of the case, slashed into the pool.

When questioned as to particulars the rescuer stated:

"I was standing on the side of the tank when I noticed the girl bobbing for what I thought was the third time. I dove into the tank and in about eight strokes I was by her side. Spinning her around I hoisted her up to catch the spring board and from there she accepted the rescuing hook from Miss Spencer, our instructor. Frightened? I was too scared to be frightened!"

"We Want Recognition" Shouts Shooting Club

Clamoring for recognition as a minor sport of the college, the Pistol and Rifle Club met last Thursday, February 26, in the Galileo Range.

John Stewart, president, presented a letter to be forwarded to Dean Edwin C. Browne and the Athletic Council asking for an official status.

Supporting the move, Bill Hancock, Range Officer, said: "Why shouldn't we be recognized as a minor sport? We can be our own politicians and say 'look at the record'. Our first year was excellent as to results, and we've caused the budget little bother. Stanford, California and many eastern colleges give their rifle teams recognition, why shouldn't we?"

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By PAT MADDEN

Here's lots of luck to Margaret Wormall who was elected to fill the office of secretary to the WAA which was left vacant when Dorothy Barber transferred to UC.

There seems to be quite an assemblage out for baseball. They aren't bad at all; if they miss or fall down occasionally, put it down to sun in their eyes.

Two baseball teams will be chosen next week for a practice tournament. Either team will play any outside nine that is interested enough to form a team. The games may be played at 2:30 o'clock on Tuesday or Thursday, or at 9:00 o'clock on Saturday.

All members of tha WAA should sea about tickets to the initiation banquet which will be held on Thursday, March 4th at 12:30 o'clock in the Galileo cafeteria. The banquet is for both old and new members, and is for the purpose of introducing the officers to those who do not know them. Any one who would like to go may sign up with Olive Reed or sign up in tha gym. The luncheon will be 30 cents a plate.

Josephine Tobin, committee chairman in charge of the arrangements for the affairs, is being assisted by Ruth Johnson, Olive Read, and Tanoko Amemiya.

And another thing that is so devastating . . . those fetching fencing masks the coeds wear which would be so suitable for a hallowe'en masquerade.

One of the ideas discussed by the tennis club which met last Saturday was a plan for the mixed doubles tournament. Here is a chance for every woman and her current heart beat to shown team work. Any one interested should start practicing very soon for the matches. Play offs for the Guardsman Cup, which is given to tha winners, (and a right nice cup, too) will ba in late April or early May.

There is always the standing offer of eight matched tournament arrows which will be given to the coed who makes six bull's eyes with six consecutive arrows. What we mean is six bull's eyes at one time. So far there has been but one coed who has received this coveted prize. She is Edith Rand who was a beginner last semester, so we guess there is a chance for every one who has enough patience to perfect his technique.

We trundled out to see the golf turn out at Lincoln Park. They're doing all right by themselves. Rivalry seems to be keen among various members of the team. With such stars as Barbara Latz, Gertrude Daniels, Ann Brocoto, Joan Smith, Frances Kauffman, and Elaine Romieke, we expect to see at least ONE champion.

Tha baseball team challenges Daan Browne! When last seen they said: "Wa challenge you and your volley ball stars to a game of baseball, but it must be left-handed absolutely."' If the dare is accepted the gama will be played some time in May. Give tha girls a chance to practica, after all . . .

Play days seem to be in the air. We hear about several. San Francisco's sound interesting, as plans are being made to invite three or four other junior colleges as guests. There will be a regular program with each hour filled, and lunch for all participants. Mighty nice . . . .

In an article in the Modesto Junior College paper we noticed mention of a women's ski class, and a very nice picture of a girl all done up in a ski costume. Our only comment is . . . wa wonder how it would look to see girls in ski costumas wandering around like the ones do who take riding . . . or don't wo make our selvos clear?

trouble for the Red and White and for this reason 6'4 "Monk" Mordecai will probably see plenty of action. He especially will be needed to take those shots off the backboard. George Bedrosian, beefy guard, will also be of valuable assistance.

So there it is. It's the traditional junior college series between San Mateo and San Francisco. A win means everything to both squads and spectators at either tussle are assured of a good battle.

Starting time for both games has been set at 8:15 o'clock in the San Mateo gymnasium.

Gala Banquet To Follow Army, Navy Club Initiation

Formulating plans for membership initiation into the society March 12, the college Army-Navy Club swung into its second session of the year last Wednesday, February 24, at Galileo's room 260 at 4:30 P. M.

Featured business, in conjunction with the initiations, was the vocal preparation of a gala banquet to be held immediately following the ceremonies, at a local night spot. Exact location is not determined yet, but, according to club representatives, choice centers around the Riviera, or Fawn clubs.

"We intend to go 'en masse' to the colorful Army Day celebrations to be held in the historic Presidio on April 6. Among other functions, we plan to make several trips to places of military interest such as the Mare Island Navy Yard, Hamilton Field, etc."

Allegedly Strong Gator Team Proves Pushover to Ram Quint

Not expected to be even a faint breeze by the State basketball team, a Powell Street windstorm broke with murderous ferocity last Wednesday at Kezar pavilion and blew a completely dazed and dejected quintet of Statesmen, together with their ardent rooters, right out of the pavilion on the very, very, short end of a 53-38 score.

It was the most devastating exhibition of concentrated offensive power ever turned on by a Ram basketball team and approximately 500 spectators sat absolutely stunned at the terrific sharpshooting spectacle.

The State team meeting its arch rivals for the second time this season was supposed to be out to reverse the first 49-31 drubbing that they had taken the previous week but they faced a combination of junior college forwards that collected basket after basket and wouldn't let up for a second after the starting whistle had blown.

RIPPON LEADS SCORERS

The Ram team was not hot, it was sizzling. Twenty-one large looking points by forward, Paul Rippon topped seasons scoring honors and kept the Conlanmen far out in the lead throughout the contest. Rippon shot from every available angle and with every fling of the ball there was a swishing of the net. Twenty-one points, 15 in the first half and six in the second.

Carlyle Caine, in the game for 12 minutes before leaving on fouls collected nine markers while "Chubby" Kotta let loose a barrage of shots that had the Gater players paralyzed. Kotta, playing at the forward position netted himself a measly 13 in the official scorebook.

RAM FORWARDS "DEADEYES"

The game opened with the junior college hoopsters taking a commanding 9-0 lead. It was Rippon and Caine, Caine and Rippon. They couldn't miss that hoop. When Caine left the contest it was Kotta lending a hand with long shots that kept the Rams well ahead of their traditional rivals. These three men are the story of the first half of the encounter although shots by State's lanky pivot man, Cy Atkinson, and forward. Notch De Bischopp, helped the Gater cause.

Score at half time stood at Rams 30, Gators 15, or it could have been Rippon 15, State 15 as that was Ripp's total for the opening period.

SECOND HALF ROUGH

The second half of the game found the Buchanan Street college starting off with three fast buckets but their comeback hopes were shattered as Kotta, Rippon, and Mordecai brought the score back into its original margin.

Center, Cy Atkinson, playing his last game for State fought hard and succeeded in getting a host of baskets, but that still wasn't enough to stop the point-a-minute Ram casabamen.

Two State players left the game on fouls and the men in red and white cashed in on practically every free throw, Rippon accumulating five for six.

RAMS TOO FAST

"Tiny" Hammond, Gator forward, shooting in an underhand style netted himself eight points in about that many minutes, but Warren Egan and Monte Mordecai, local guards, dropped baskets to close the gap. There was forever a 10 point margin between the two rival outfits.

The Rams, displaying a fast break with Ernie Loustalot as the center man traveled down the hardwood like lightning to catch the tall but slow State team flatfooted. Although Ernie couldn't buy a basket he was the spark that kept the squad at its terrific pace.

WILD SHOTS MISS

Outstanding for the State squad were Hammond and Atkinson. Both tried hard to stop the deadeye junior college players but it was to no avail. The Statesmen tried desperately in the closing minutes to move ahead with wild tosses at the bucket but constant missing with "Monk" Mordecai taking the ball off the backboard proved too much for the highly touted opponents.

Gus Kotta gets credit for being a party to the screwiest basketball play of the season. In the course of dribbling the length of the floor he was fouled by two opponents at the exact same time thus drawing a double foul but by separate men.

ALLIGATORS SKINNED

Give the victory to Paul Rippon, Carlyle Caine, Bill Phelan, Doug Maas, George Bedrosian, Warren Egan, Gus Kotta, Monte Mordecai, and Ernie Loustalot, all played fine ball to make a successful basketball season a sad one for the State College quintet.

It's two in a row, 49-31 and 53-38, the not-forgotten gridiron score is evened and the Ram supporters are jubilant.

Rippon led all scorers with 21 points, while Atkinson topped the rest with 16 markers.

In the preliminary game the State 145 pound team took the measure of Coach Tom Wilson's Lambs 35-27 to even the babe series.

REFEREES BAD

The two referees, McFarland and Jones, were none too popular with the Ram players and it seemed as if "home town" officiating had won the games for the Modestans.

Twenty-nine fouls were called in the contest, 19 on the visiting team.

Frank Triano, Modesto guard, led the scoring with 14 points.

Ernie Loustalot and Paul Rippon topped the Ram players with nine markers apiece.

BERUTICH CROWDING OUTFIELD MEN FOR FIRST STRING SPOT

Rams last Tuesday? Maybe they're preparing early for Easter by putting all their eggs in one "box-ket".

(Notice: The following is a paid advertisement.)

It won't be long now before Jack "Kewpie" Berutich will be crowding the outfielders for the first-string positions. Last week Jack turned in several pretty plays against the Commerce nine.

In the sixth inning, Kewpie took a long fly in deep centerfield and made a perfect throw to cut down a runner at third base. The prospective "base-stealer" was thrown out by about two feet.

The former All-City Balboan slammed out the longest hit of the day when he connected for a triple in the first inning.

Just when the Ram infield seemed to be set for the season the St. Louis Cards stepped in to sign-up the man who was expected to make them click. Flashy Joe Futernick, Ram second and third baseman, was the man who will start a career in the major leagues.

Following his spectacular playing last Sunday in the Class AA championship game, Joe was beset with several scouts who were anxious for his signature on a contract. He was finally signed by the Cards of the National League and was sent to Riverside, California, where spring practice opens next week.

Futernick has everything that makes up for a major league player including speed, natural ability, hitting prowess and a good throwing arm. We wish him all the luck in the world and hope he stays on top.

* * *

The first no run, no hit game in the history of the Junior College was pitched by two of last year' veterans, Larry Wilgus and Joaquin Martinez. Both boys twirled good ball and really mowed down the Bulldog nine, winning by a score of 3-0.

This was Martinez's first game of the season and he seemed to be an improved player over the Martinez of last season. Their fine showing will bolster the pitching staff, which has been a decided weakness in the team.

THE END.

COUNCIL AFFECTS EFFICIENCY ERE SCRIBE AWAKES

Official Rendezvous with Spring Realms Business Rudimentary Phantasy

Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, It might have been.
—John Greenleaf Whittier

The Executive Council of the college welcomed the coming of Spring in fitting fashion by staging another of its epic gatherings on last Thursday, March 5. This was the fourth in the series of his-toric meetings held by this semester's student officers who are reported to be struggling valiantly in an effort to approve the budget before the first of June. They are doing this, they announced, because they realize that the college can have no official expenditures until this measure has been passed upon.

The arrival of your scribe preceded that of any of the members of the Council, so he entered Room 204, seat of student government, and selectad a chair in the rear in order to cover the momentuous debates without being too conspicuous. It was a warm spring day, and while the scribe was gazing out the window, admiring the blue sky, the room suddenly became filled with bright-eyed student executives, all of whom seemed unusually eanest and businesslike. Your correspondent, whose sole experience in watching the affairs of school governing bodies had been confined to those of high schools, was able to detect a certain maturity and sense of responsibility in these college men and women that contrasted strongly with the frivolous and adolescent attitude displayed by the prep institutions in their attempts to stage an intelligent meeting.

PINS STILL STICK

President James Neal, looking very official indeed, called the meeting to order with an impressive smash of his gavel. He instructed Secretary Marie McKnight to read the minutes of last week's gathering, at which several noteworthy measures were inaugurated, including the much discussed budgetary appropriation for Council pins.

Under old business, Chairman Neal called for a report of the various committees that he had appointed during the past weeks. The group that had been studying the yell-leader question reported, in a comprehensive and intelligent fashion, that its study of the constitution disclosed that Deming Smith was now an official member of the Council. All members expressed pleasure at this solution because, as the chairman announced, there would be no need to worry about any lack of official sound effects so long as Smith was a permanent fixture in the body.

THEY LISTENED ATTENTIVELY!

The committee appointed to consider the revision of the constitution reported lengthily concerning its findings, and made numerous suggestions for amendment. All members of the Council listened attentively to the sugestions, and promised to give them careful consideration so that they could present an intelligent discussion when the issues were to be voted upon at a later meeting.

The problem of the budget was then presented, and the Council spent the next hour in considering, and either approving or rejecting, each appropriation. It was noted during these considerations that every member of the group possessed a profound knowledge of the specific requirements of each organization making a request for funds.

PERPLEXITIES!

When the allotment for the college newspaper came under consideration, President Neal announced that he thought The Guardsman, by continually heckling some college activities, had failed in its original purpose of building "School Spirit," and should therefore be discontinued. This idea seemed about to meet general approval by the Council, until Florence Murphy, Editor of The Guardsman, rose and inquired, "Where can you print your column, Mr. President, if there isn't any paper?"

This unforeseen development staggered Neal, and he finally announced, "Well, every college has a newspaper, and we might as well keep the one we've got, bad as it is".

EVEN DONS AWARE

The Council was functioning on all cylinders at this point, and it was noticed that Tyler McHugh was refraining from his usual adjournment tendencies, and the two Dons, Mills and Mix, were actually making serious efforts to follow what was being said.

Pete Jambruno, then arose, and announced that the Block Society had decided upon drastic measures in order to curtail the activities of the "hooting" section, and had purchased muzzles which they would demand that every letterman wear during all college affairs including classes.

SAD AWAKENING!

At this stage the reporter found himself being shaken rudely, and discovered that he was blinking under the gaze of Elaine Dominguez' official looking orbs.

"What are you doing here," she inquired sweetly, "yah dope."

"Pardon me," says he, "I came here to cover a meeting of the Ex Council, and I guess I fell asleep."

"The Ex Council didn't have a meeting today," she announced, " 'cause nobody showed up."

It was a lovely dream, anyway, though the constitution and an approved budget were suddenly no more than ephemeral fantasy.

HOW LONG, O LORD, HOW LONG?

—George Bernard Shaw

These daily crowds that congest traffic and worry San Francisco police will soon be relogated to the past, if "construction begins in the very near future" on the new college building, as Walter C. Schmidt, assistant superintendent of schools, hopes it will.

Top: looking down Powell Street toward Market, with usual morning crowd in front of Extension building; middle, Doug Dowd, Jack Miles, and Art Nelson "hop a cablo"; bottom, the customary 2:15 p. m. traffic jam on Francisco Street, Galileo.

Anticipation will be mingled with small degree of regret, however, for those students and faculty members to whom down-town San Francisco, Nob Hill, and environs mean other things besides mere unsatisfactory academic educational facilities.

SHOOTERS FROM COLLEGE ENTER WEEK-END MEET

Co-Eds Make High Score In Three Days' Firing at National Guard Armory

High scores were turned in last week-end by marksmen from San Francisco Junior College, as the three day rifle matches sponsored by the San Francisco Examiner, and held in the National Guard Armory, drew to a close.

Making a score of 192, Dick Pitman placed himself high in the running in the individual matches at 50 meters. In recent local league competition, Pitman has consistently been one of the highest scorers.

With scores of 191, Betty Hyde and Virginia Kwiatt tied in the prone matches for women and juniors, and will probably be listed in the upper brackets when final results are computed.

Also among the high pointers were Helen Eltoff and Gail Hanna, who turned in scores of 188. These women had only three weeks of firing practice before entering the Examiner matches.

Priscilla Smith, another entry from the college's rifle team, amassed her best score to date, 180.

Two teams among the 86 entered in the tournament, the collage first and second squads completed their firing on Friday night. The firsts achieved a fairly good score of 850, while results of the second squad's firing have not yet been recorded.

Individual results were as follows:

FIRST TEAM		SECOND TEAM
Pitman	180	Farley	170
Benton	180	Doudiat	157
Doupnik	175	Michaels	154
Smith	168	Dieser	*

JANE KNIGHT HEADS MUSIC CLUB OFFICERS

Election of officers featured the last meeting of the college music club, held at the home of Flossita Badger, faculty adviser, March 3.

Jane Knight and Morris Gardner were elected president and vice president, respectively, and these two new officers ruled that future meetings will be held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Discussion of routine business involved a proposal to adopt felt emblems for the club, but action on the matter was deferred until further investigation.

After the business meeting, Miss Badger entertained members with excerpts from the opera Manon. Elliott de Witt sang the prologue from Pagliacci, and Rosella Retallick and Annabelle Tyler gave a duet, Where My Caravan Is Resting.

Miss Knight announced the next activity of the group as an en masse attendance at the San Carlo opera, L'Aracola, on March 13, and invited prospective members to "get into the fold" before that time.

TEST REVISED

Revision of the Stanford Binet intelligence test has been completed after a decade of work supervised by Dr. Lewis M. Terman and Dr. Maud Merrill James, also its authors. The new revision contains 129 tests, and one of the new features is the alternative form which allows the test to be re-given without involving any transfer of learning.

APR. 2 DEADLINE OF COURSE DROPPING

Granting ample time for procrastinating students, Registrar J. Paul Mohr set April 2 as the last day for officially dropping courses.

Except in unusual cases, students will not be permitted to drop courses after that date, Mohr warned, and those unofficially dropping them—i. e., by plain failure to attend—will receive grades of "F".

WALTER SCHMIDT PROMISES ACTION ON COLLEGE SITE

Strong possibility that the new San Francisco Junior College, now under construction at Balboa Park, will be ready for occupancy next spring was announced by Walter C. Schmidt, assistant to Joseph P. Nourse, superintendent of schools, in an interview with a Guardsman reporter last week. Schmidt disclosed that the grounds have been cleared and leveled in anticipation of the starting of final construction plans, which are scheduled to begin in the near future.

"I see no reason," Schmidt said, "for placing the date of actual completion of the new college further ahead than the opening of the spring term of 1938."

Schmidt's statement collaborated with that of President Archibald C. Cloud who, in an address to the incoming freshmen at the beginning of this semester, also said that the new college would be finished within the year, if some unforeseen difficulty did not arise.

Schmidt said that the reason for such urgent haste in the matter was realization of the many handicaps that the students now in attendance at the junior college are forced to bear.

"The superintendent's office deeply regrets the present arrangements, which force the student to spend half his day traveling from one class to the other, and intends to rectify them as soon as possible by having no delays in the present construction plans," Schmidt declared.

Another unsatisfactory factor in the present arrangement is the use of the Extension building for morning classes. The congested metropolitan area is not conducive either to safety or quiet study.

"Powell Street is certainly not the ivy covered campus of every collegian's dreams, and we realize that such an atmosphere hampers the establishment of any tradition surrounding our college," said Schmidt.

"The new college," he continued, "will provide ample facilities for the enlargement of all types of activities by having a large athletic field and gymnasium, a swimming pool, an adequate auditorium and special rooms designed for club meetings."

The laboratory equipment for the college will be of the best and most modern design, and will allow for an enlargement in the curricula of the scientific department with special provisions being made for science majors. All these laboratory divisions may not be completed at the planned opening next Spring, but they will be in complete readiness for the following semester, if present plans are followed.

Schmidt said that the superintendent's office was in no way responsible for the failure of the city to live up to the earlier plans for the construction of a junior college which would have had the buildings completed at the beginning of this semester, but blamed lack of adequate funds. Appropriations from various civic and federal sources have insured the city that the present plans will not be halted for the same reason, according to Schmidt.

"The pressing need for a junior college in this community has been shown by the rapid growth of your institution," Schmidt declared, "and the city officials realize that it would be no waste of money to build such a school."

Although most of the students in attendance at the col-

People Come, People Go, San Francisco Still Claims Greatest

San Francisco will again play the host to the entire world as she did in 1915. The past celebration proved a great success, but the one to be held in 1939 is expected to be far greater, because of the marked advancements and improvements of mankind in the last twenty-five years. As Kathleen Norris once said "There are only three story cities in the world—New York, New Orleans, and best of all, San Francisco." The coming events will be the foundation and background of many famous stories, as was the great Exposition held in 1915.

Some twenty-five years ago, the Panama Canal was opened to world traffic. In celebration of the completion of the world's largest canal, an exposition was held in San Francisco from February 20 to December 4, 1915.

The exposition was the third of its class ever held in the United States, and the San Francisco location, near the Presidio, was decided by Congress in 1911, with New Orleans a close contender.

In order to finance the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, the citizens of San Francisco raised $7,500,000 by popular subscription. The State of California was able to collect an additional $5,000,000 by a special tax. The total expenditure amounted to $50,000,000 as compared to $40,000,000 for the 1939 Exposition.

Just within the Golden Gate on the San Francisco water front, a plot of land 635 acres was selected for the Fair. It was three miles long and from one-third to one-half miles wide, and two miles from the business center of the city. The grounds were divided into three sections. In the center, there were eleven great exhibit palaces, and Festival Hall. On the West there were the pavilions of Foreign Nations and of the States of the Union. There was also a Live Stock Exhibit Building, a race track, covering 65 acres, an aviation field, and drill grounds. On the East there were pavilions for amusement

COLLEGE OFFERS ART EXHIBIT IN HOWELLS' SHOP

Fed. Project Collection Acquired as Nucleus for Future Student Gallery

Currently sponsoring a Federal Art Project exhibition, which went on display yesterday at John Howell's Book Shop, 434 Post Street, the college invites all students to visit the gallery free of charge, every day except Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Helene Turner, college NYA director, announced yesterday.

Exhibitions will include a group of modern water colors, several oil paintings, and some etchings and lithographs collected by the Federal Art Project, under the supervision of the United States Government.

Local artists, whose efforts will be on exhibit, include Paul Julias, George Post, Don Kingman, and other well known San Franciscans. All have donated their time for the project and their paintings are property of the United States Government.

Richard M. Allman, art instructor at the junior college, said of the exhibit:

"The Federal Government has made it possible for tho college to procure paintings from the exhibition that will form the nucleus of a permanant collection. I do not believe that we shall be able to buy the paintings outright, but by paying a small amount to cover the material used, we shall be abla to rent them for an indefinite period."

This particular exhibit, which is the first of a series, will last at least three months, or as long as student interest continues. The rest of the series will probably have a duration of from two to three weeks.

"Those displays will be a benefit to tha art students of tha junior college, giving them a chance to study the works of local contemporary artists," Allman said. "This is tho first time that tha National Government has subsidized art to such a great extent, and the rasult will be worth watching."

While on the subject of art, Allman said:

"There is a fine fresco being done by Lucian Lebault, director of the California School of Design, at the Beach Chalet. This fresco is in a surealist style, but is not the extreme type of surealism."

BUILDING BUGABOO BANS BUDDING BAND

The old bugaboo of lack of a building preventing certain activities again came to the foreground last week, when Edwin C. Browne, dean of men, announced that the second attempt to form a college band had been doomed to failure through lack of a satisfactory place in which to practice.

"When we obtain our own building, however," said Browne, "I am certain that we shall have an excellent band."

'Time and tide wait for no man'—but the college waits for a building.

TRACED TO LACK OF CONSIDERATION

Editorials, it seems, must find fault with something that is existing and suggest a possible remedy. As weeks pass, it becomes increasingly difficult to find things of which to complain, but there is one great fault which seems to be possessed by almost every junior college student, and, despite any number of suggested remedies, it will continue to exist unless curbed by the individual himself.

This fault is lack of consideration. Practically every major difficulty arising in the junior college may be traced, directly or indirectly, to this failure to think of others, a fault which is prevalent among college students.

Consider, for example, the difficulty of conducting a class in those rooms at the Extension building that happen to overlook Powell Street. Certain students gather in front of the building and proceed to shout as loudly as they possibly can, making it impossible for instructors to conduct their classes. It is hard enough to cope with the noise of cable cars, trucks and similar necessary disturbances, without having the added difficulty of student manufactured furor.

In defense of the accused, it might be said that there are not many other places where they may gather between classes. Even so, there is no reason why they cannot conduct themselves as civilized college students, instead of as members of a pack of wild Indians or a group of over-developed Tarzans.

Ordinary conversation does not make itself heard on the top floor, but blood curdling cries and lusty salutations do. For the sake of the instructor who is trying to hold the attention of a class, and any student who may be trying to learn as much as he can of a subject, those responsible for distractions should try to control their abundant supply of energy or else to exert the energy to better advantage.

Think of the other person. Develop consideration for the rights of others, and remember that the Golden Rule is still a good one to follow.

TON OF TALK vs. ACTION

"A ton of talk weighs less than nothing if it isn't backed by action."
—Theodore Roosevelt.

On page one of this week's Guardsman, there is a story telling of the latest developments in San Francisco Junior College's struggle for a suitable campus.

In one of the earlier issues of The Guardsman, it was pointed out, editorially, that a building had been promised for January, 1937. Now, it develops, there will probably be a building by January, 1938.

This sounds very fine on paper, but, as the boy in the old fable discovered, one is inclined to become skeptical when "Wolf" is called too often.

It is one thing to talk about having a building in a year's time. It is another to have real down-to-earth, concrete developments.

Theodore Roosevelt's saying is apropos. We have had the ton of talk. Let us now see the action.

M. Y. O. B.

Somewhere, sometime, someone said something that sounded like, "Please God, help me keep my nose out of other people's business." Most junior college students, apparently, have never heard this plea, or, if they have, prefer to ignore it, for The Guardsman is still besieged with requests for that most lowly of journalistic atrocities, the so-called, "dirt column".

Last year a column called It Comes Out Here appeared in The Guardsman. For the first two or three issues the column was read with vulture-like interest, for putrid as was its essence, it constituted a short-lived novelty. The same names, however, began to appear, week after week. The space appealed only to a certain group of students, and those who were not interested began to bombard the Ram's Horn with requests that the column be discontinued. Popular opinion triumphed, and the column returned to its home, the garbage dump. ("From the great deep, to the great deep—".)

Now the same old Lena-Pry-cries for another such column of carrion are commencing again. "Look at the millions of people who read Walter Winchell," say these embryonic (or is it professional?) key-hole peepers.

Quite frankly, The Editor regards those who make these requests as nosey busybodies who have not yet learned that everyone, even a college student, has a right to live his own private life. The only ones who are anxious for a dirt column are those who already know the scandal that may exist. For this reason alone, it would be futile to devote any space to such trivialities. Those who do not know what is going on, do not particularly care, for after all, "What you don't know doesn't hurt you."

MENTAL MUTTERINGS

By FEM

With the perfectly luscious weather that has been floating about of late, it looks as if our discovery of two weeks ago, that "Spring is here", is about to be confirmed.

Every newspaper in the city has expounded, at great lengths, on the affects, effects, and defects of Spring, but the best of them all, to our knowledge, was the following gem that appeared in The Daily News:

"Robins twittered in The News editorial rooms today. Big mama robins brought fat juicy worms and stuffed them down the throats of the little baby robins sitting in the copy desk, while proud papa robins stood by and smirked. Acacias dripped their golden honey into the files of clippings. Tulips sprouted out of typewriters. Snowdrops bobbed from the ears of the telephone operators. The telephones caroled meadow lark tunes.

"A fountain sprang out of the middle of the floor, and reporters tossed aside their superfluous garments and scampered in and out, splashing the librarian, who splashed right back. Her hair turned platinum blonde and she hummed some swing music and did a bit of truckin'.

"There were little bright green leaves sprouting out of the wire basket for copy, and when you touched the copy paper, it turned into anemones and bloomed.

"Ferns uncurled from the spittoons, and a couple of lambs gamboled out of the cloak room, where gambling is said to take place quite frequently anyhow. But this time there were lambs, and great green fields unfolded before them, and down by the brook there were pussywillows.

"A couple of yellow butterflies hovered over the puussywillows, and they chimed with the daffodils that were clustered just beyond. But you could hardly see, for the petals from the peach trees that kept snowing into your eyes.

"All you could do was listen to the blooming of the little blossoms, the music of the leaves as they budded along the branches, and bask in the brightness of the songs of the birds.

"Pan was seen loitering in the lobby.

"The head rewrite man left his desk, stood by the windows and stared at a steam shovel across the alley.

" 'I,' he said, 'have the worst case of spring fever in history'."

What! You didn't like it? Well, you'll have to admit, it's a change from the usual stuff we hand out every week, and besides, we think it's pretty good. Can't quite explain why, but somewhere in this buzzing brain there lurks the thought that there is a lot more in the article than meets the eye. Or do you get the same feeling? If you don't, we don't blame you, after all, it is Spring and anything is liable to happen in the spring, or in the summer.

After careful investigation, the Forum Club seems to take first prize among the various organizations of the college for generosity. Any and all students may join, and there are no dues except occasional voluntary contributions for the proposed Forum yearbook.

If you are at all interested in current events, the Forum Club is your organization. The meetings, which are held about every two weeks at the pleasure of the members, are in the nature of discussions. Usually a few members are instructed to present the various sides of the topic to be taken up, but no conclusions are reached. Members are left to reach their own conclusions.

Perhaps you have by now made up your mind that it might be a good idea to join the club. If you have, and we hope you have, here are a few more things that you will enjoy: a chance to help in the compilation of the Forum, a literary year book, several lectures by well-known speakers, and an opportunity to keep up with the times, not only in the field of current events, but also in the realm of literature and art.

the Ram's Horn

With Huff & Puff—Wolves Threatening Extension Building

Dear Editor:

Apropos of "Commuter's" recent letter, many of us who live in San Francisco would be pleased if some of the student functions were scheduled for week-ends. So far the writer has been unable to attend a single basketball game, rally, or other affair because they are all scheduled for week nights. When instructors announce quizzes to be given the day after a student function, it's pretty hard to go to the game, or whatever, and prepare for the ex. If you miss the social stuff, you lose a good time, and if you neglect to study you are letting yourself in for a lot of hell and high water.

Frustrated Florabelle.

Dear Editor:

What can be done to put a stop to the howls of delight and the shouts of the morbid pack of wolves that adorn the sidewalk in front of our Powell Street institution of learning on a rainy day, waiting for the innocent motorist to skid on the tracks, burn off their tires, and crash into parked cars? What sport! These radiator athletes delight in the suffering of their fellowmen. Why not organize these villains into a First Aid Squad for Skidding Motorists, and have them push all stalled cars up the hill (with a smile). Then perhaps we will no longer hear their mocking cries ringing out, and we may spend our time "peacefully studying?"

Dear Editor:

Last week in the women's sport column there appeared a very nasty crack concerning the appearance of students in riding habits. Now, this remark seems to be somewhat of a feline nature and I don't think it was necessary. If seeing women students in riding habits around school annoys the young lady so, perhaps she can offer a suggestion to remedy the matter. I am sure the women who are interested in riding would appreciate one so they won't have to ride around on street cars and attend classes in their outfits.

Dear Editor:

Three cheers for that editorial on the poor sportsmanship shown by certain junior college students at the last rally! It certainly hit the nail on the head. Elsewhere on the same page I noted that there was a slight disagreement concerning the opinion of the general public after witnessing such a demonstration. The writer thinks that such a minor offense (as he calls it) would not influence the public's opinion. I would like to remind him that this is not the first demonstration of rowdiness on the part of certain students. If the students are sincere in their desire to make San Francisco Junior College the best in the West, they should do their part by cooperating and showing the public that they are made of the stuff that goes to make up a fine student body and a finer junior college.

LAMB'S RAMBLING

By LAMBERT MEYER

With the sport of basketball fading away from junior college activities, we now turn thought to baseball, track and tennis. The basketball men started off their season as a terrific threat in the junior college league, but just couldn't keep the pace although they finished on the upper section of the conference ladder. The baseball team is well organized, and should do big things this year. In practice the men have shown good hitting and fielding ability. Coach Russ Sweet's trackmen are in form, and will be out to run over their rival college cinderpounders. The tennis team has yet to drop a conference tilt. All three outfits are strong, and should bear watching. So it's baseball, track and tennis for the next three months as the major sports of the college.

* * * * *

A few of Lee Eisan's ball hawks traveled to Modesto for the basketball series recently, and had the good luck to scout the Pirate nine in a game with the California Aggies. Maybe it wasn't such good fortune, for what the men saw caused them to open their blinkers just a little wider. The Modestans played a no-run, no-hit contest with the Aggies, handing them a decisive 4-0 drubbing.

* * * * *

The San Francisco Golf Championships now being played spelled victory for one of the junior college coaches and defeat for another. In the second round of play Coach Russ Sweet took his opponent 7 and 6 at Sharps Park, while Louis "Dutch" Conlan dropped a 3 and 2 decision to his man. "Dutch" was probably too sleepy to walk around the links after driving all the way from Modesto the previous evening.

* * * * *

It's four in a row for the junior college netmen. The racketeers have taken the measure of Modesto, Salinas, San Mateo and the strong University of San Francisco team, and are now favorites to cop the N. C. J. C. C. A. tennis championship.

* * * * *

Maybe we were a little wrong in getting the idea that the Marin Junior College basketball team was none too clean when it played Modesto in that 47 foul contest. As the game was played on the Modestans home court, they may have had the same breaks that befell the high-riding Ram quintet. There were 30 fouls in the San Francisco-Modesto game, and half of them could not be seen by the spectators. Why not take pictures of basketball crucials, so conference officials can see just what fouls should have been called, and what bodily contact was hard but clean? Of course this suggestion is next to impossible, but still we think it would solve plenty of arguments.

* * * * *

Herb Brotman, junior college swimming star, earned another medal for himself at the recent Pacific Amateur Association championships held at the Fairmont plunge. Herb won the 100 yard free style event for senior men in the time of 0:55.9. The field was made up of outstanding college and local club aquatic mermen.

After being upset by the Mission High baseball team last Tuesday afternoon at Funston Field, Lee Eisan had no mercy on his baseballers at the following afternoon's practice session. A stiff workout took place. Does any of you remember how warm it was last Wednesday afternoon?

* * * * *

Following the second Modesto basketball game, your correspondent entered a milk-shakery (the only one in town, but a good one) and upon taking a seat became absorbed in conversation with a Modesto Junior College co-ed. After finding out that her acquaintance was from the big city, her first question was, "Say, who is that grand looking player with uniform number ten on your team?" Of course most of you know the answer, but for non-basketball fans, center, Bill Phelan, is the masculine individual with suit number ten. The pretty co-ed wanted Bill's address, but that "info" was not available. Maybe it would be a good idea to list addresses and phone numbers in the programs . . . . when we get programs.

* * * * *

Perry, Modesto guard, and Norman, Pirate forward, were the outstanding Ram opponents in that crucial series. Both played a hard game of basketball, and were sure on their passes. One or both of them should make the mythical all-conference team.

* * * * *

The Ram soccermen seem to be out to win another league championship in the fall semester. Already the defending champs have sent out a call for all interested to turn out for a short spring practice. Some of last year's veterans are lost by graduation, but the returning men, plus new arrivals, should form a well-balanced outfit with which Coach Tom Wilson may work.

* * * * *

The trackmen have a rest this week-end, as the next cinder meet is not scheduled until Saturday, March 20. On this date, Coach Sweet's tracksters encounter the strong San Mateo Junior College squad at the peninsula oval.

* * * * *

Crewmen are all enthused over getting the bid to compete in the preliminary boat race to the California-Washington contest late in April. After those San Francisco bay races, the Oakland estuary will seem like an enclosed swimming pool.

DOUBLEHEADER GOES TO SAC'TO SATURDAY

The Sacramento Panthers upset the "smoke dreams" of the Ram baseball team last Saturday in the Capitol City by taking two convincing victories in the conference opener for both teams, 5-3 and 8-0.

Although the twin defeat mars somewhat the record of the Red and White, chances in the league are still bright. In a conference where each team must go through a season of 20 games, it is hardly possible for any one nine to come through unscathed. Besides, San Francisco will have a chance to get back at the Panthers on May 1 when they meet again in San Francisco.

Although the locals made more hits than the Panthers in the nine-inning affair, 10-8, they fell short of the greater number of runs and that is what they still pay off on in the great American pastime. The Rams spread out their scoring, tallying once in each of three innings, the second, fifth and eighth.

Joe Ardanaz, Paul Hjort and Milt Berman led the Ram attack, each garnering two safe swats. The Solons' short-stop, De Gregorio, led all batters, hitting a triple, double and single in four trips to the plate.

The hot Sacramento sun sapped the strength of the visiting nine in the second tilt. They were only able to collect two hits in seven innings and never threatened the Panther lead. Sacramento made one run in the second and third frames and held this slight lead until the fifth when the Rams blew up and yielded three runs.

The pitcher on the mound for the Rams in the second tilt was George Hughes, who pitched good ball for the five innings he worked. He gave up only eight hits but six errors again enhanced his mound-work. Few of the eight runs were earned.

Only Joe Ardanaz and Dave Johnson were able to touch the opposing pitcher, each nicking him for one hit. The Ram stick-work was far below standard. In the two game series, Joe Ardanaz led the team with a 375 average, getting 3 hits in eight tries.

Roosevelt, Mussolini Battle It Out Friday

Forum Club will meet this Friday evening at the home of Patricia Matz at 1520 Florida Street. Under discussion will be the question, Would dictatorship be better suited to modern society than democracy?.

Advocating democracy will be Bill Simonds, while Carmino Garcea will present the argument favoring dictatorship. Following the talks there will be the usual informal discussion by the group as a whole.

Because of a constantly increasing membership of the club, application for membership must be made to Dorothy Mercer or William Goss, faculty advisers.

The time of the meeting is set for eight o'clock with staff meeting of the FORUM scheduled for seven o'clock.

Ken Sato, prominent Japanese educator, may be the speaker at an assembly soon according to Edwin C. Browne, dean of men.

Sato has been sent by Japan to foster better relations between his country and the United States. Creating a better understanding will probably be the subject of the talk.

The assembly will be sponsored by the Forum Club. This is a continuation of the policy of bringing prominent personages to the college to speak on timely topics.

CONLAN HUNCHERS IN HOOP TOURNAMENTS

Hunch tournaments will make up the program of Coach "Dutch" Conlan's afternoon gymnasium classes for the next few weeks.

The basketball teams are made up of four men each, and the game is played on one basket.

The groups are divided into lightweight and heavyweight classes, each squad playing a series of games wtih its opponents.

Rules, as set by Director Conlan are as follows:

1. One court is to be used.
2. Not more or less than four men allowed on a team.
3. No free throws after two points have been made.
4. When a team makes a basket, the rival outfit takes the ball outside.
5. Twenty-one points and a field goal win the contest.
6. Boundaries to be fixed according to the size and shape of the basketball court.

Around the Bases

By LOUIE BERTOLUCCI

San Francisco supporters will get their first view of the Ram nine in league competition this Saturday afternoon at Funston park, when the Red and White tangles with Marin in a double-header beginning at 12:15 o'clock.

Marin, possessing one of the stronger teams in the league, has a slight edge over the locals. The Black and Yellow men, although losing several of last years' players, have back with them their all-conference pitcher, Bob Creighton. Bob didn't confine his ability to pitching only—he also led all pitchers in hitting in the conference.

Aiding Creighton in the chucking assignment will be a lad named McGuire, who displayed his wares with the Sausalito semi-pro team this last winter. The two will go to form one of the best set of twirlers in the loop.

Those who saw the Marin-S. F. football and basketball games will remember the colored lad who gave great performances in both contests. He is Johnny Allen of Berkeley and is reported to be even better in baseball than in the other sports. If so, fans will see plenty of him in the short-patch and at the plate.

Coach Lee Eisan has put his squad through strenuous practice all week, and the boys are in pretty good condition. They appear to be a little weak at the plate so far, but when they do snap out of their lethargy with the willow, there'll be no holding them in check.

The Rams may be without the services of their ace chucker, Georgie Hughes, who has had an offer to play in Vancouver. If he accepts the offer, things will be somewhat dark for the college, as Joe Futernick was lost last week.

The baseball players are going first class this season. They have just received several dozen new bats to torment (????) opposing pitchers.

Their uniforms have been cleaned, and new red and gray caps adorn their heads. Red and white sox complete the outfits. For warm-up jackets, the Rams will sport white coats with red lettering on the back.

Everything seems to be according to Esquire with these boys.

In between "Pairing off", Johnny Fitzgerald did a little scouting at Modesto last week-end. Fitz looked over the Modesto nine in its game against the Cal Agies, which the Pirates won 3-0, in a no-run, no-hit game.

Contrary to reports from the country town, the Modestans seem to have a team capable of retaining its championship or of making trouble for any one attempting to spirit it away.

Coach Jack Gardner has only one veteran from last year, but several newcomers look good and will make up quite a team.

Babe Lucchesi will have to do some hustling this season if he expects to stay on the first string. Although voted a place on last years' All-Conference team, the competition in the outfield is so strong this season that he is not sure of his place.

To top thing, Babe is having some trouble with his eyes and has been forced to miss practice several times. If you've seen him lately, you'll notice he now wears spectacles.

The Rams lost their second game of the season last Tuesday, when they dropped a 6-1 verdict to the Mission High tossers. Four errors were the obstacles that beat the Powell streeters.

Les Larson, who threw for the college, allowed only 5 hits, most of which came in the first and second frames when all the runs were scored. The only Ram tally was made in the first inning.

College Swimmers Break World's Relay Record

Four San Francisco Junior College swimming stars, Herb Brotman, Ward Cox, George Winberg and Henry Johnson, are being hailed as world record holders, after swimming the 400 yard breast stroke relay in 40.7 seconds last Tuesday evening in the Elks Club pool.

G. H. Rissman, aquatic commissioner for the Pacific Amateur Association, viewed the fast race and acknowledged the new record.

These men, with Dick Simon, Bob Shine, and Bill Forte, will make up a strong San Francisco Junior College swimming team that will compete with college freshmen outfits in the future.

In the event that swimming is given a budget by the college, the water squad, coached by Russ Sweet, will begin its activities soon.

Cox is the present Junior Pacific Association champion for the 100 yard free style swim, and Brotman is a member of the world record holding 150 yard medley relay team.

Any men students interested in joining the team should contact Russ Sweet or Herb Brotman as soon as possible.

RAMS RUN RAMPANT TO DEFEAT SAN MATEANS; HOOP SEASON AT END

Making their final appearance of the 1937 basketball season, the San Francisco Rams outplayed and overpowered the hoopsters of San Mateo Junior College in a double header last Friday and Saturday evenings when they tasted Bulldog meat to the joyful tunes of 42-29 and 37-33. The two-game victory broke the third place deadlock between the rivals, and put the Conlanmen into an undisputed third position in the final league standings.

Both contests, one a runaway, the other close, were played in the tiny San Mateo pavilion, but even the "match box" gymnasium couldn't stop the locals from ringing that old hoop time and time again.

SECOND GAME CLOSE

Playing again on Saturday evening, the game was much closer and near the end was a real "thriller".

The scoring was knotted at five all when the peninsula quintet, led by forward Bodwell, stepped out and took a large looking 12-9 lead. This was extended to 14-10 and then 16-10, with baskets by Ram center, Loustalot, and guard, Bedrosian, keeping the visitors in the running.

RAMS COME BACK

The second half opened with a flurry of shots by forward, Kotta, center, Phelan and guard, Egan. Two beauties by Kotta made the score San Mateo 23, Rams 22 in the opening minutes and then long shots by Phelan and Egan put the Rams in the lead for the first time of the evening 26-25. From here on in they were pressed but never headed.

Stanford's ski team is demanding recognition for having skiing as a minor sport. They based their arguments on the fact that the team placed fourth in competition against 11 schools at Yosemite.

Track Team Loses Tilt To Stanford Frosh By Lopsided Score, 88-33

Scoring only one first place in the 440 yd. dash, and a tie for first in the pole vault, the Ram Trackmen were forced to garner the rest of their 33½ points by means of seconds and thirds, in their dual meet with Stanford Frosh at Palo Alto last Saturday. The Stanford Team annexed 12 first places and a grand total of 88½ points.

FUN!

AFTER DARK

BY John Ward

With a list of some 25 operas to be given within a month, the San Carlo Opera company arrived in San Francisco two weeks ago for its fourth recent season. Fortune Gallo's "dollar" opera is a comparatively old and seasoned institution: Its history is quite long and occasionally brilliant. This is the twenty-sixth season of its existence. It was in 1910 that Gallo gathered up the stranded remains of an opera company in St. Louis and brought them to California for his first season. From then on, he has worked with his "find" until he is now in a position to ask guest stars, many times from the Metropolitan, to tour for a season.

His company has long been a training school for future opera singers. Many famous names have been found in his roster first, and many fine singers are always to be found in his regular company. It is the record of his 26 years in the business to boast of only one season with a deficit, and that was the second. "Fortune Gallo is its board of directors, its guarantee fund, its artistic director, and the delight of its press agent."

There is usually a list of some 300 performances to be given each year. The man who has his hand in all 300 is Carlo Peroni, the only conductor for the company. He has some 5000 performances to his credit, and has not missed an entrance in 15 years. He is one of the few conductors who does not find it impossible to conduct three operas in a day. Bianca Saroya is one of the fine sopranos of the company, to whom all the more dramatic and important roles are entrusted season after season. Dimitri Onofrei, the Rumanian tenor, who turns to Verdi as easily as to Wagner, is again here. The other important tenor with the company is Aroldo Lindi, well remembered for his fine Othello. There is Mario Valle, a fine actor whose voice is not what it used to be. The first season the San Carlo was here, four years ago, he was the best voice of the lot. But time is a cruel and fast-working element on the voice.

Along with Hizi Koyke, the Japanese soprano, these singers make up the backbone of Gallo's opera company. This season, besides the good old favorite operas, Gallo is presenting Miss Koyke in the one act opera, L'Oracolo, a little-heard work of Franco Leoni. Miss Koyke has made Madame Butterfly so much her own that it is to be hoped the Leoni work proves worthy of future repetition. Of special interest is the fact that the scene of this one-act melo-drama about an attempted kidnap, is set in San Francisco's Chinatown.

So, Fortune Gallo has set up business in the Memorial Opera House with his many singers and many operas. It needs only be added that his performances are remarkably worthwhile, and excellently done. For opera and for those who wish acquaintanceship with the gentle art, there is no better stamping-ground. For those whose standards are just a little too high—stay away. There is nothing more necessary or less valuable than an opera repertory company such as Gallo has. And, after all, the music is the thing!

features. In contrast, the 1939 Fair will be set out in a quadrangle.

Actual construction began on October 14, 1911, when President Taft turned the first spadeful of dirt. In the main group there were eight large exhibit palaces forming a rectangle. In the center the Court of the Universe, 700 feet long, was located, with sunken garden in the center of the building. On the extreme East of the group was the Arch of the Rising Sun, and on the extreme West was the Arch of the Setting Sun. East of the Court of the Universe was the Court of Abundance. West of the center Court, was the Court of the Four Seasons. The most spectacular piece of architecture in the entire Fair was the 433 foot Tower of Jewels, which stood at the South entrance to the grounds. The Tower was brilliantly illuminated, and the hand-cut glass jewels were dazzling to the eyes. The Palace of Fine Arts flanked the extreme West of the group. It was 1100 feet long and guaranteed fireproof. Many other buildings were also included in this rectangle, such as exhibition buildings and those solely dedicated to pleasure.

The Fair was opened by President Wilson from the White House by an electric signal, at noon February 20, 1915. This day was celebrated as a legal holiday throughout the State of California. Thirty-nine Foreign nations, 37 states and three territories participated in this great event. However, because of the tense political situation in Europe, not all nations were able to send delegates. In the 1939 Exposition it is expected that every civilized nation in the world, that is on friendly terms with the United States, will send its delegate. In 1915, most of the countries that participated in the Fair, were those in the Pacific Area.

In comparison, both expositions were conceived in completion of great scientific and mechanical structures—The Panama Canal, and the Golden Gate and San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridges. The past Exposition had buildings erected temporarily, while the future one will eventually be turned into one of the world's largest airdromes.

Local AWS Women To Attend Alta Conference At San Mateo Apr. 16, 17

For the second time in the history of the college, Associated Women Student executive officers will be represented at the Alta and Central California AWS Conference, according to Elaine Dominguez, AWS president.

"The meeting this year will be held at San Mateo Junior College on April 16 and 17," Miss Dominguez said. "The Conference, which is composed of AWS executive officers from California junior colleges, will have as its major purpose a discussion of organization problems and their solutions and will also attempt to organize a Women's Athletic Association unit of the AWS."

This college will be represented by Eugenie Leonard, dean of women; Miss Dominguez; Barbara Latz, AWS vice-president; Norma Parent, secretary; Pat Madden, treasurer; and Ruth Johnson, Women's Athletic Association president.

"At the last convention of the conference held at Sacramento Junior College," Miss Dominguez said, "AWS officers received suggestions for improving the organization. A vital change, this time, will be the establishment of the WAA as a separate unit. Each college will formulate WAA problems and plans before the convention, and will take them up at the meeting."

New System Announced For NYA Time Reporting

With time slips due March 29, NYA Director Helene Turner, requests that all NYA students use the following system of fractions in making out their reports: 5 minutes, .1; 10 minutes, .2; 15 minutes, .3; 20 minutes, .4; 25 minutes, .4; 30 minutes, .5; 35 minutes, .6; 40 minutes, .6; 45 minutes, .7; 50 minutes, .8; 55 minutes, .9.

"In the past students have handed in their time slips with the number of minutes marked on them. This has made more work for those compiling the time reports as they have had to convert these minutes into fraction."

MILITARISTS BAG 4 MEN FOR INITIATION

Four new members were voted into the organization, when the junior college Army and Navy club assembled Wednesday, March 3, at the home of T. Gordon Sollman, president.

Members looking forward to the initiation Monday, April 5, are George Deiser, Dave Moonie, Edmund Solomon, and Fred Wright. Following the initiation talk, plans were made for the semi-annual banquet to be held in the evening, after the club rituals.

Round table discussion was led by Lieutenant James S. Hughes, U. S. A. R., sponsor, and a visit to the United States Army lighter-than-air-base at Sunnyvale was scheduled for Sunday, March 21. Other places to be visited are the Army Day celebration, at the Presidio of San Francisco, April 6, and the air base at Hamilton Field, Marin County, in June. Efforts are being made to combine an outdoor social event with each trip, according to John Stewart, club public relations head.

Administrators Guests At Beta Phi's Banquet

With several faculty representatives and ten new members as official guests, the Beta Phi fraternity held its semi-annual banquet at the Veneto Cafe, last Monday evening, March 8.

Short talks were given by President Archibald J. Cloud, Paul M. Pitman, Alden W. Smith, Edward E. Sandys, and Henry D. Soule, faculty members in attendance at the affair.

May 1 was selected as the date for the fraternity dance. A committee consisting of Al Coffman, Bob Harless, and Will Camp will decide upon the site for the dance. It was disclosed that the fraternity is sponsoring an auction on Wednesday, March 31, to be held at the Extension Building.

Stanford Aptitude Exam Scheduled for Lowell 20th

Stanford University's aptitude examination will be given at Lowell High School March 20, at 9 o'clock, according to Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar.

All students applying for admission to Stanford for the fall semester, 1937, should report for this examination, for which a $5.00 fee is assessed, Miss Learnard advised.

Warning Against Athletic Dances At Galileo Cited

To ensure freedom of the hall, organizations planning afternoon dances in the women's gymnasium are requested by the college administration to check with Bertha Keller of the women's physical education department, lest the projected affair become, by prior occupation, inculcated with the feminine athletic element of the college.

Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

The sailor ushered us all into the boat, which was open, and which was maneuvered by two other sailors. Ysabelle, Welcome, California, Willie Sue, and I took seats next to the sides of the boat. A lovely breeze coming from either the North, South, East, or West, was blowing across the blue waters of the bay, Ah, spring!

Well, dear diary, the boat moved, and in no time at all we had arrived at the side of a huge ship. It was so large that it frightened poor little me, but I screwed up the courage of the Blotzes and faced it unafraid, a true heroine. There were some people walking on a sort of shelf on the side of the ship, and California told me that it was called a deck. I was puzzled and remarked to one of the sailors who was tying the boat to the side of the ship with a big piece of rope, "It isn't much like a bridge deck, is it, my good man?"

"No, my good woman," he replied, "but sometimes we get a dummy on it."

At this point I noticed that the boat passengers were beginning to climb up to the so-called deck. Now in order to do this they had to climb up a little ladder about four feet high that was nothing but a few wooden sticks, and in spite of my courage I was frightened at the prospect of trying to reach the top of this ladder. This was because I was wearing my new spring shoes, which had very high heels. What if I should trip and fall into the water below, and drown before I could be rescued, victim of a cruel, cruel fate?

There were two men standing at either end of the ladder. The first one noticed my hesitation. "Gosh," he said, "you can't climb in those shoes. Hold still, now!"

And before I could cry out, he had picked me up and had—oh, dear diary, I was never so frightened in my life—TOSSED ME UP TO THE DECK, WHERE THE SAILOR ON DUTY THERE CAUGHT ME JUST AS IF I WERE A BASEBALL!!! But that's not all—dear diary, the wonderful man who caught me was no ordinary sailor! He wore a lovely dark outfit with brass buttons and a cap with a little blue brim. What if he were the admiral?

After he put me down, and I had rejoined the rest of the girls, I inquired of a passing sailor, "Tell me, sir, is that gentleman over there the admiral?"

"Not that I know of," he replied. "He's a Marine."

"But what is a Marine," I asked.

"A Marine is a poor imitation of a landlubbing sailor," he answered, and with that moved on. So I decided to find out for myself just what a Marine was. I approached the gentleman.

"Pardon me, sir, but are you a Marine?" I inquired politely.

But he answered my query with a question. "Pardon me, madame," he asked, "but are you Elvira Blotz?"

Dear diary, could anyone be more surprised? "Of course I am, sir," I gasped, "but how did you know?"

"I recognized you," he replied. "You see, I've seen your picture. Allow me to introduce myself. I am Montmorency von Slagg, Templeton McQuiddle's cousin. Just call me Monty!"

So we had a long talk, and dear Monty showed us all over the great big, wonderful battleship, that even has some airplanes in its basement. BUT—dear diary, I just remembered—I forgot to ask Monty what a Marine is!

HIGH SHOOTERS TO GET MEDALS AT ASSEMBLY

Medals will be awarded members of the college's victorious second rifle team, and to individual high scorers, at an assembly scheduled for 9 a. m., March 18, according to plans drafted at a meeting of the rifle club's Board of Control last week.

Invitations to the rifle club's proposed banquet, to be held March 19 at the Veneto restaurant, have been mailed to members, Marygail Konkel, club secretary, reported.

The second team recently completed its season by winning first place in the Golden Gate division of the San Francisco Rifle Association's league tournaments.

Midnight Sun Shines at Movie Thurs. Afternoon

In collaboration with Galileo High School, the college will sponsor an animal show, motion picture, and lecture in the Galileo auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, admission price to be 15 cents.

Through the medium of an eight reel motion picture, students will be transported on a 12,000 mile journey through the land of the midnight sun. Captain G. Clements and Beverly Dobbs, arctic explorers, spent 18 years gathering the data to make this picture, and the result is educational and entertaining, according to the program's promoters.

The feature of the animal show will be Monty, the famous Alaskan dog who took the place of Rin-Tin-Tin in motion pictures. Monty will be accompanied by three of his friendly enemies, Mickey Rat, Fluff, the rabbit, and Pickle Puss, the cat.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds from the program are to be divided between the college and Galileo High School.

Younger Generation Scored by Sun Sitter

"I can't see what this younger generation is coming to!" ejaculated benign, middle-aged Alexander Rice, who, with his charming wife, take their post each sunny afternoon in the sloping entrance to the Galileo manual training shop, at corner of Van Ness and Francisco streets, the better to sun themselves and to comment upon the passing mass of high school and college students.

"The way those students skip classes to sit in their machines and gab is a sin. And how come these parents now-a-days allow their kids to drive cars to school? Now in my day—"

And so on and on. One might ask why Rice doesn't seek sunshine and pure air in more favorable places.

"To tell the truth, I feel better when my feet are safely planted on the ground. And now that you have wrung a confession out of me, you can be on your way. I don't usually confess to anyone! God bless you!"

HOUSEHOLD ARTS HAS SPRING TONIC MAR. 18

Heralded by weather suitable for the occasion, the theme for the Household Arts Association's semi-annual picnic has been announced by Jo Jordan, group president, as "Spring Tonic". The picnic will be held March 18 from 2 to 4:30 p. m., Miss Jordan said, and will feature a treasure hunt and an Easter egg roll for various prizes.

Tickets for the picnic may be purchased from any HAA member for 25 cents, and women students planning to attend may be excused officially from afternoon classes, according to Miss Jordan.

Doc No See Human Skin, Mohr No Give Sheepskin

Physical examinations for men are now being held daily in room 201, Galileo, according to Dr. R. Duffrey Friedlander, college physician.

These examinations may be taken at the students' convenience, Friedlander said, instead of by individual appointments, as was the case last semester.

Urging that men students take the necessary examination as soon as possible, Friedlander reminds prospective graduates that the physical check-up is a requisite for status as an alumnus.

Constructional Details Promised Shortly

lege at the present time are doing academic work, strong provisions will be made to enlarge the curriculum of the commercial courses in an effort to attract students who do not intend to finish at the university, officials have announced.

Schmidt concluded the interview by promising to give more complete details within the next few weeks in regard to the date when work on the buildings will actually start.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By PAT MADDEN

One of the interesting items that made up the panorama of the WAA banquet was the presentation to the organization of a wooden-covered book in which the official record of membership will be kept. After each initiate repeats the oath she signs her name on the roster thus establishing herself as a regular member of the WAA.

Ideals and the purposes of the Women's Athletic Association were the subjects on which Vera Spencer, faculty sponsor of the group, spoke. The ideals of the Associated Federation of College Students as applied to San Francisco Junior College, were explained, and the non-competitive type of women's sports were heralded as important.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the entire affair was the candle lighted tables. The electric lights were extinguished leaving only the soft flicker of candle light.

Beginning their activities for the year, the riding club practice their newly acquired technique on Sunday morning, March 4, at Milbrae. This, according to the group, is the first of a series of such expeditions. A moonlight ride, to which both men and women will be invited, is to take place very soon after the first ride, depending on the turn of the moon.

Representatives from WAA are to be at the AWS conference which will be held at San Mateo, April 16 and 17. Ruth Johnson, president of WAA, and possibly a lower classman will be the delegates to make the trip. The purpose of the conference is to discuss activities of the different organizations and to suggest new ideas for a more successful WAA year.

Members of the Women's Block Society have received their block jackets, and hope to have the block very soon. Designs for the insignia were submitted by various students of the college, and from these the WAA council chose the one to be worn.

* * *

Team captains for the baseball club have been chosen, and will lead their various groups for the remainder of the sport's season. Norma Gattavara will captain one team while the other will be lead by Junerose Bellew. Having received new equipment, the baseball group will practice with greater interest, taking pride in their new bats, mitts, and softball mask, according to Bertha Keller, faculty sponsor of the club.

Replacing Marin Borup, former manager of the dancing club of WAA is Josephine Tobin another member of the group.

Pedestrian Underpass Now Under Construction

Long a hazard to safety, the pedestrian crossing between Galileo building to the Men's gym on Bay Street is in the process of elimination, as PWA workers are constructing an underpass for students.

In order to tunnel under the street, workers are now raising the various pipes located just beneath the surface.

The Board of Education approved an appropriation for the construction of the underpass in the early Spring of 1936, and actual construction began last week.

ARCHITECTS WORK DRAFTING PLANS FOR NEW PLANT

Cost Set at $1,250,000; Actual Construction to Commence in April

Architects are definitely at work on the new $1,250,000 college buildings, and the plans will be turned over to the Board of Public Works for actual construction within two or three weeks at the most, according to a statement released by President Archibald J. Cloud.

Interviewed by a Guardsman reporter, upon his return from the south where he had been attending an educational convention, President Cloud enthusiastically pointed out that "the architects have a fine conception of educational buildings that will be a great asset to this city."

A swimming pool, scientific and gymnasium facilities, as well as ample room for club meetings and activities are included in the plans as put forth in last week's Guardsman by Walter C. Schmidt, assistant to the superintendent of schools.

The buildings are being financed jointly by city and federal funds. The local money, $500,000, having been already allotted and passed by the Board of Education, lies in wait for the contractors to start work at Balboa Height Park, President Cloud disclosed. However, no word has been received from Washington concerning the remainder of the money.

Since the Board of Public Works has been notified over two months ago, it is understood that they will be ready to start construction immediately after the plans are released.

COUNCIL UNANIMOUS IN BUDGET APPROVAL

Unanimous approval of the Associated Students' budget was the main business that occupied the attention of the Executive Council of the college in a meeting held last Thursday, March 11. The budget was presented by Dean Edwin C. Browne, and each item was discussed and approved by various organization heads present.

The budget presented no startling deviation from those of past semesters with each of the large organizations receiving appropriations comparable to those received previously. The liberal recommendations for funds for the various spring athletic activities were passed through the council without a dissenting vote, and the allotment for the art exhibit was approved after some discussion.

It was also announced at the meeting that The Guardsman would give $500 of its semester's appropriation in order to facilitate the financing of a sophomore class journal that is to be published at the conclusion of the semester. The staff of The Guardsman was giv[illegible]k of preparing this book, wh[illegible]McHugh, High Sophomore President, was appointed to handle all outside arrangements.

Pete Jambruno, representing the Athletic Committee, announced that his group recommended that Council approve the recognition of the Rifle and Pistol Club as a minor sport and that the members be awarded circle blocks. After some discussion, this recommendation was approved, but it was later discovered that the Athletic Committee had not held a formal meeting, and the recommendation was declared unconstitutional.

Helen Davis, vice-president of the Associated Students, said that the student officers were planning a dance to be held on April 10, and that they were attempting to obtain the Western Women's Club for the event.

On the recommendation of Student President James Neal, the council decided that all members who were absent from a meeting must present a written excuse for the approval of the body. The excuses will be placed in the permanent files of Council.

It was also decided that since the pressure of early semester business was now past, the Council would not hold weekly meetings but would gather instead on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

How Small Fish Grow Intrigues Student Mind

Approximately 50 students of the Zoology 1B classes, under the instruction of Glenn A. Noble, will visit the aquarium at Golden Gate Park on March 17 and March 21.

The purpose of the trip is to allow the student scientists to obtain a first-hand view of how small fish grow, according to Virginia Morgan, zoologist extraordinary.

Verbal Meeting With Modestans Climaxes Week

Minimum Wage, Maximum Hour Question is Talk Subject

Climaxing an active week of debating, San Francisco will play host to Modesto Junior College's forensic team at two verbal frays this Friday, March 19, at 3:30 p. m. in room 304 Galileo, and at 8 p. m. at the Lafayette school, Thirty-sixth Avenue and Anza Street, marking a total of five debates for the college in the past week. Resolved: That Congress should fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry, will be the question for debate.

In the afternoon at Galileo, Bredley Schwartz and Jim McKanny, speaking for San Francisco, will uphold the affirmative. Gene Blumenthal, veteran debater, and James Neal, Associated Students president, will present the negative in the evening before a public forum at Lafayette school. Mrs. Rose Hazlette, director of public forums, will preside.

Later in the evening, Edwin O. Smith's two debating teams will be entertained at the Frosh barn dance at Galileo.

U. S. F. HERE YESTERDAY

Schwartz and McCanny, representing the junior college, debated with University of San Francisco yesterday afternoon at Galileo in a non-decision meet on the same question. They upheld the affirmative.

First in the week's series of debates found Coalinga Junior College traveling to San Francisco for two forensic contests on the minimum wage and maximum hour question, held at the Extension building on Friday evening, March 12.

MUTUALLY COMPLIMENTED

Morris Rabinowitch and Neal upheld the affirmative, against Ethel MacCumber and June Lewis of Coalinga. James Shorb and William Lauren of San Francisco took up the cudgels for the negative against Charles Collins and Jane McKenzie. Blumenthal and Isabelle Sherrat of San Francisco presided.

Mutual compliments were bandied between Wallace Hall, Coalinga coach, and Lloyd Luckmann, local mentor.

"Coalinga Junior College has a fine team," Luckmann said, "and we are glad to have been able to debate with it. Its members were well prepared, and gave us keen competition.

"We are happy to have had the opportunity to return the hospitality accorded us last year when we were guests of Coalinga."

CHALLENGES ISSUED

Challenges have been sent to Marin, Menlo, and San Mateo junior colleges and to San Francisco State College for debate on the proposed reform of the Supreme Court.

The women's teams will meet those of the University of California, San Francisco State, and the San Francisco College of Women on the same question in April and May.

Block Tryouts Reveal Hidden Student Talent

Following the tryouts for the Block SF vaudeville show last Wednesday, Tony Scafani emerged from the Galileo auditorium with definite information on the show.

"The tryouts," said Scafani, "were very successful. We have three excellent pianists, Bob Coratto, Bob Aparius, and Paul Reid, who will all appear in the performance."

Aparius and Coratto have arranged a duet of current hits, and Reid has perfected imitations of well-known pianists which he will present.

"As for as vocalists are concerned, we are well supplied," Scafani said. "Walt Loving, of last year's football team, Wilson Camp, college boxer, and Chason Tucker, of the Guardsman staff, have all been accepted, but our prize find is Kay Lyman, junior college student and crooner deluxe."

"What we need now is a first class magician, a few saw players and a good imitator," said Jimmy Fahn, ex-yell leader, who is helping with the show.

"The committee is still open for suggestions for skits and gags, that is funny ones," said Fahn. "We also need one more girl soloist, to sing with the orchestra, so any girl who is desirous of trying out please come out to the Galileo Auditorium this afternoon."

THEY GET SHOOTING MEDALS TOMORROW

Above is the first rifle team, which took second place in its shooting league; below is the second team, which finished its season with top honors.

With Pangs in Heart, Tears in Eye, Paper Announces Year Book

Complying with the pressing sentiments of the sophomore class, The Guardsman staff has agreed to forfeit the rotogravure edition in order to handle the publication of a class journal which is planned for the end of this semester. It was decided that a limited edition of copies will be printed, and that they will be sold to students at the price of 50 cents.

Students are advised to secure their tickets before the end of April, because, unless they place orders early, they will be unable to secure copies, insomuch as the edition will be limited to 750 numbered books, of which only 700 will be for general sale, with high Sophomores given preference.

Tentative plans for the annual include the individual pictures of the graduating class, pictures of various college organizations, an athletic review, and a brief history of the junior college.

Tyler McHugh, president of the high sophomores, will act as coordinator between the sophomore class and The Guardsman staff, and will direct the sale of the books.

Holiday Friday Turns Tables On Instructors

Heartfelt sympathies are extended by the students to the faculty members of the San Francisco Junior College.

While students are enjoying an extra day in their week-end holiday, their instructors will be attending Institute, which will be held at the Everett Junior High School, Friday morning, March 19, at 9:30 o'clock.

In addition to a longer week-end, students will have a one week Easter holiday beginning Monday, March 22.

Gifford to Speak About Local Course on Hotels

Speaking of the curriculum in hotel and restaurant management, John P. Gifford, coordinator of hotel and restaurant management in the college, will take part in the fourth annual California Conference on Business Education.

The convention, which is sponsored by the State Department of Education, will be held in Fresno, California, on March 20.

CALLOUS INSTRUCTOR REDUCES CLASS TO TEARS

Not since the court executioner of King Henry the VIII has there been such a merciless and callous man as Instructor Kenneth L. Hobbs, say his tearful Zoology 10 students.

The class meets during the noon hours —11 to 1 o'clock— just when mental faculties turn from desmognathi and eanthropi to ham and eggs.

Instructor Hobbs takes keen zeal in telling his class how much the cross section of a worm looks like a nice juicy sirloin steak, or how foraminifera skeletons in fossil formations remind him of a club sandwich with chicken.

If you like oysters fried in butter be sure they are will done, or you'll find a platyhelminthis (flat worm) cavorting about in their insides.

To set the class at ease he closes with the statement that mock turtle soup always makes him think of green algae floating about a stagnant pool.

It can be said that there are more sylph-like figures in the Zoology 10 class than any other class, all attributed to Instructor Hobbs' treatises on "Zoology versus The Viewpoint of the Civilized Epicurean."

LOW SOPHS TO MEET

So that definite plans for the semester may be made, the Low Sophomore class will hold a meeting this afternoon at 2:15 p. m. in Room 205 at Galileo.

Don Mills, class president, urges all members of the class to attend this meeting.

"To Strike, or Not to Strike"—Forum Ponders

Next in the series of discussions at the regular meetings of the Forum Club will be the question "Is the student strike for peace of value?" to be considered Friday evening, April 2, at the home of Don Flash, 2430 Twenty-third Avenue.

Charles O'Gara will speak for the strike, and Attilo Ferrari against it, with general discussion following. The Forum Club is sponsoring a meeting in the Extension building lecture hall on April 22 at 11 o'clock, the same time as the annual national student strike occurs.

A lively discussion of Democracy vs. Fascism was held at the last meeting of the Forum, according to members.

"Because attendance has reached a maximum number we can take into people's homes, membership is closed for the semester," Malcolm Longaker, Forum chairman, announced.

Plans for securing club rooms to accommodate a larger membership were discussed, but no definite action was taken.

After the Hunt, Comes the Feast; Veneto Fri.

With the main purpose of the gathering being to honor its victorious teams, the San Francisco Junior College Rifle and Pistol Club will hold a dinner at the Veneto Restaurant, Friday evening, March 19, according to John Stewart, president of the organization.

"The dinner will begin at 6:30 o'clock, and will be followed by dancing," Stewart said. "Members will be given a chance to get better acquainted, and a surprise in the way of entertainment has been promised by the social committee."

Guests of honor will include President and Mrs. Archibald J. Cloud, Colonel and Mrs. D. P. Hardy, Louis Landeville, secretary of the San Francisco Rifle Association, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. F. Grant Marsh, T. Gordon Sollman and Miss Sollman, William Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hancock, and Mr. and Mrs. James S. Hughes.

Culture Dawns; Many Students See Exhibition

Allman Lauds Displayal of Federal Project by College Fund

That junior college students have shown a gratifying interest in the Federal Art Project exhibition which the college is sponsoring at John Howell's Book Shop, 434 Post Street, was demonstrated the opening day, when more than 140 students visited the exhibit.

Richard Allman, college art instructor, expressed his pleasure in the exhibit in a letter to Mrs. Beatrice Judd Ryan, supervisor in charge of exhibitions for the WPA project. In this letter, Allmen said:

WONDERFUL BEGINNING

"The water colors are as excellent as any other contemporary water colors I have seen. There are several lithographs we should like to have as a nucleus for our permanent collection. I think this is a wonderful beginning of a project invaluable to our student body as a whole."

In addition to the water colors mentioned by Allman, the exhibit includes prints, sculpture in wood, and hammered copper plaques. Among the outstanding work is a head entitled Mother of Races, by Benjamino Buffano, creator of the statue of St. Francis which will soon be placed on Twin Peaks. Also worthy of notice is a statue by Eugenia Everett, which is carved entirely of redwood.

MYSTIC TOUCH ADDED

Two copper plaques, Girl's Head and Mother and Child, by Beryl McCarthy are particularly attractive and two modernistic paintings by Ben Berlin named Planet Forming and Dream Structure, respectively, have added a mystic touch interpretation at the moment is fast becoming a matter of important critical conjecture.

The main purposes of the Federal Art Project, as outlined by the directors, are, to employ needy artists, to provide young artists of promise an opportunity to work as assistants to master artists, to create a closer relationship between the artist and the public, to give valuable aid to socially useful agencies, and to promote the widely accepted view that cultural interests are becoming more necessary to the public.

Probationers Selected For Service Society

Twelve probationers have been selected from the group of women students who attended the tea given for prospective members at the home of Helen Davis, Associated Students' vice president, on March 6.

These probationary members are Madeline Brodie, Dorothy Canavan, Ann Coulam, Jean Fonticilla, Norma Gatavera, Gail Hanna, Jean Kinison, Jacqueline Kramer, Lilly Phillips, Barbara Randall, Cynthia Richardson, and Marion Yeager. They attended their first meeting, which was held at the home of Barbara Latz, AWS vice-president, last Monday evening.

Pamel Brown, Service Society president, said that the next event on the semester's program is a motion picture, "Love On A Bet," with Geno Raymond and Wendy Barrie. This movie will be held on Wednesday, April 11 at 2:15 o'clock, in the Galileo Auditorium.

"All students having tickets," Miss Brown said, "will be excused from their 2:30 classes. Tickets may be purchased from Service Society members or from members of the Block SF Society. They will cost 15 cents, and whatever money we make will be used to start a scholarship fund."

OPERATIC STAR SINGS BEFORE MUSIC CLUB

Offering selections from three different operas, Gerald Pelosi, of the San Francisco Opera Company, entertained members of the college Music Club at its last meeting, March 16, according to Bud Gardner, head of the organization's social committee.

"Mr. Pelosi," Gardner said, "is well known in operatic circles, and possesses a fine tenor voice. He was accompanied at the piano by his wife, and we of the Music Club felt honored at having them attend our meeting."

Gardner said that the Music Club's meetings are held on the first Wednesday and third Thursday of each month, and anyone interested in music is welcome to attend.

RIFLE MARKSMEN GET AWARDS AT THURS. ASSEMBLY

Noted Speakers Present Medals; Music Offered; Classes Excused 9 A.M.

Climaxing an unusually successful season of competition in rifle marksmanship, awards of medals will be made to 15 members of the College First and Second Rifle Teams at an assembly to be held tomorrow, Thursday, at 9:00 a. m. in the third floor lecture hall at the Extension building.

Under the auspices of the College Rifle & Pistol Club, a program of music and speaking has been arranged, including selections by the A Capella Choir, directed by Flossita Badger, music instructor, talks by Hughes Richardson, National Small Bore Promotional Manager for the Lyman Gun Sight Company, Louis Landreville, treasurer of the San Francisco Rifle Association, President Archibald J. Cloud of the junior college and presentation of medals to the team members by Lieutenant Colonel D. P. Hardy, deputy superintendent of schools. John Stewart, club president, will preside, and William Hancock, range officer and coach of the teams, will introduce the speakers.

All students are invited to this Assembly, and arrangements have been made with many instructors to excuse their classes at the 9:00 o'clock hour, with full attendance anticipated.

ENVIABLE RECORD BOASTED

The local marksmen, although representing the college in organized competition for the first time, completed the season's firing with an enviable record. The first team, entered in the Bay Bridge League of the San Francisco Rifle Association, emerged in second place, with eight wins and two losses. Both matches lost were to the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve team, league winners, by close scores. Members of the team will be awarded silver medals by the Association.

LOST BUT ONE MATCH

Gold medals go to the members of the second rifle team, signifying their attainment of first place in the Golden Gate Bridge League competition. In this league, also a division of the San Francisco Rifle Association, the college "shooters" lost only one match to the Pacific Rod & Gun Club, prominent local organization of marksmen.

Although many of the second team members started firing only last semester, their rapid advancement under the instruction of Coach Hancock made possible successful completion of the shooting season.

INDIVIDUALS REWARDED

In addition to recognition for league placements, medals will be presented to individual team members for high seasonal aggregate scores, including in the ratings the six best match scores fired by each competitor. In the Bay Bridge League, the gold medal for highest aggregate total score goes to Hancock, S. F. J. C., with the silver medal for second place going to Sgt. I. N. Kelly, U. S. M. C., Dick Pitman, S. F. J. C., was third in the rankings.

Gold and silver medals, with honorable mention for third place will also be awarded for high aggregate scores in each of the four positions; prone, sitting, kneeling, and offhand, which are fired in each match. Kelly, Hancock, and Pitman finished in that order for the prone position awards.

HANCOCK, PITMAN HIGH

In the sitting position totals, C. Peterson, Marine Corps, won the gold medal, with Hancock and Pitman finishing second and third. Kneeling scores showed Pitman first, P. G. Pacheco, Marine Corps, second, with Hancock third. The offhand totals showed Pacheco first, Hancock second, and Pitman fifth for the league. One hundred competitors fired in the season's matches, thus becoming eligible to compete for these medals.

In the Golden Gate Bridge League, with the same number of eligibles, John Benton, junior college, placed third in aggregate total scores, with Kermit Wright in the ninth position. Dallace Ogilvie of the local team won the gold medal for first place in the prone competition, with Wright fourth, Benton fifth, and Syd Farley sixth. In the sitting position totals, Benton was second, thus winning the silver medal. Benton was also fourth in the offhand competition.

BRONZE FOR MEMBERS

Members of the first team and second team will also be awarded bronze medals for their high scores in the individual matches, 10 of which were fired by each team—in addition to the medals awarded to the team members for their final places in the league standings. Gold medals go to the following students, winners of the Golden Gate Bridge League: Benton, Wright, Farley, Ogilvie, Betty Hyde, Vir-

AFTER DARK

BY John Ward

With a list of some 25 operas to be given within a month, the San Carlo Opera company arrived in San Francisco two weeks ago for its fourth recent season. Fortune Gallo's "dollar" opera is a comparatively old and seasoned institution. Its history is quite long and occasionally brilliant. This is the twenty-sixth season of its existence. It was in 1910 that Gallo gathered up the stranded remains of an opera company in St. Louis and brought them to California for his first season. From then on, he has worked with his "find" until he is now in a position to ask guest stars, many times from the Metropolitan, to tour for a season.

His company has long been a training school for future opera singers. Many famous names have been found in his roster first, and many fine singers are always to be found in his regular company. It is the record of his 26 years in the business to boast of only one season with a deficit, and that was the second. "Fortune Gallo is its board of directors, its guarantee fund, its artistic director, and the delight of its press agent."

There is usually a list of some 300 performances to be given each year. The man who has his hand in all 300 is Carlo Peroni, the only conductor for the company. He has some 5000 performances to his credit, and has not missed an entrance in 15 years. He is one of the few conductors who does not find it impossible to conduct three operas in a day. Bianca Saroya is one of the fine sopranos of the company, to whom all the more dramatic and important roles are entrusted season after season. Dimitri Onofrei, the Rumanian tenor, who turns to Verdi as easily as to Wagner, is again here. The other important tenor with the company is Aroldo Lindi, well remembered for his fine Othello. There is Mario Valle, a fine actor whose voice is not what it used to be. The first season the San Carlo was here four years ago, he was the best voice of the lot. But time is a cruel and fast-working element on the voice.

Along with Hizi Koyke, the Japanese soprano, these singers make up the backbone of Gallo's opera company. This season, besides the good old favorite operas, Gallo is presenting Miss Koyke in the one act opera, L'Oracolo, a little-heard work of Franco Leoni. Miss Koyke has made Madame Butterfly so much her own that it is to be hoped the Leoni work proves worthy of future repetition. Of special interest is the fact that the scene of this one-act melo-drama about an attempted kidnap, is set in San Francisco's Chinatown.

So, Fortune Gallo has set up business in the Memorial Opera House with his many singers and many operas. It needs only be added that his performances are remarkably worthwhile, and excellently done. For opera and for those who wish acquaintanceship with the gentle art, there is no better stamping-ground. For those whose standards are just a little too high—stay away. There is nothing more necessary or less valuable than an opera repertory company such as Gallo has. And, after all, the music is the thing!

features. In contrast, the 1939 Fair will be set out in a quadrangle.

Actual construction began on October 14, 1911, when President Taft turned the first spadeful of dirt. In the main group there were eight large exhibit palaces forming a rectangle. In the center the Court of the Universe, 700 feet long, was located, with sunken garden in the center of the building. On the extreme East of the group was the Arch of the Rising Sun, and on the extreme West was the Arch of the Setting Sun. East of the Court of the Universe was the Court of Abundance. West of the center Court, was the Court of the Four Seasons. The most spectacular piece of architecture in the entire Fair was the 433 foot Tower of Jewels, which stood at the South entrance to the grounds. The Tower was brilliantly illuminated, and the hand-cut glass jewels were dazzling to the eyes. The Palace of Fine Arts flanked the extreme West of the group. It was 1100 feet long and guaranteed fireproof. Many other buildings were also included in this rectangle, such as exhibition buildings and those solely dedicated to pleasure.

The Fair was opened by President Wilson from the White House by an electric signal at noon February 20, 1915. This day was celebrated as a legal holiday throughout the State of California. Thirty-nine Foreign nations, 37 states and three territories participated in this great event. However, because of the tense political situation in Europe not all nations were able to send delegates. In the 1939 Exposition it is expected that every civilized nation in the world, that is on friendly terms with the United States, will send its delegate. In 1915, most of the countries that participated in the Fair were those in the Pacific Area.

In comparison, both expositions were conceived in completion of great scientific and mechanical structures—The Panama Canal, and the Golden Gate and San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridges. The past Exposition had buildings erected temporarily, while the future one will eventually be turned into one of the world's largest airdromes.

Local AWS Women To Attend Alta Conference At San Mateo Apr. 16, 17

For the second time in the history of the college, Associated Women Student executive officers will be represented at the Alta and Central California AWS Conference, according to Elaine Dominguez, AWS president.

"The meeting this year will be held at San Mateo Junior College on April 16 and 17," Miss Dominguez said. "The Conference, which is composed of AWS executive officers from California junior colleges, will have as its major purpose a discussion of organization problems and their solutions and will also attempt to organize a Women's Athletic Association unit of the AWS."

This college will be represented by Eugenie Leonard, dean of women; Miss Dominguez; Barbara Latz, AWS vice-president; Norma Parent, secretary; Pat Madden, treasurer; and Ruth Johnson, Women's Athletic Association president.

"At the last convention of the conference held at Sacramento Junior College," Miss Dominguez said, "AWS officers received suggestions for improving the organization. A vital change, this time, will be the establishment of the WAA as a separate unit. Each college will formulate WAA problems and plans before the convention, and will take them up at the meeting."

New System Announced For NYA Time Reporting

With time slips due March 29, NYA Director Helene Turner, requests that all NYA students use the following system of fractions in making out their reports. 5 minutes, .1, 10 minutes, .2; 15 minutes, .3; 20 minutes, .4; 25 minutes, .4; 30 minutes, .5; 35 minutes, .6; 40 minutes, .6; 45 minutes, .7; 50 minutes, .8; 55 minutes, .9.

"In the past students have handed in their time slips with the number of minutes marked on them. This has made more work for those compiling the time reports as they have had to convert these minutes into fraction."

MILITARISTS BAG 4 MEN FOR INITIATION

Four new members were voted into the organization when the junior college Army and Navy club assembled Wednesday, March 3, at the home of T. Gordon Sollman, president.

Members looking forward to the initiation Monday, April 5, are George Deiser, Dave Moonie, Edmund Solomon, and Fred Wright. Following the initiation talk, plans were made for the semi-annual banquet to be held in the evening, after the club rituals.

Round table discussion was led by Lieutenant James S. Hughes, U. S. A. R., sponsor, and a visit to the United States Army lighter-than-air-base at Sunnyvale was scheduled for Sunday, March 21. Other places to be visited are the Army Day celebration, at the Presidio of San Francisco, April 6, and the air base at Hamilton Field, Marin County, in June. Efforts are being made to combine an outdoor social event with each trip, according to John Stewart, club public relations head.

Administrators Guests At Beta Phi's Banquet

With several faculty representatives and ten new members as official guests, the Beta Phi fraternity held its semi-annual banquet at the Veneto Cafe, last Monday evening, March 8.

Short talks were given by President Archibald J. Cloud, Paul M. Pitman, Alden W. Smith, Edward E. Sandys, and Henry D. Soule, faculty members in attendance at the affair.

May 1 was selected as the date for the fraternity dance. A committee consisting of Al Coffman, Bob Harless, and Will Camp will decide upon the site for the dance. It was disclosed that the fraternity is sponsoring an auction on Wednesday, March 31, to be held at the Extension Building.

Stanford Aptitude Exam Scheduled for Lowell 20th

Stanford University's aptitude examination will be given at Lowell High School March 20, at 9 o'clock, according to Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar.

All students applying for admission to Stanford for the fall semester, 1937, should report for this examination, for which a $5.00 fee is assessed, Miss Learnard advised.

Warning Against Athletic Dances At Galileo Cited

To ensure freedom of the hall, organizations planning afternoon dances in the women's gymnasium are requested by the college administration to check with Bertha Keller of the women's physical education department, lest the projected affair become, by prior occupation, inculcated with the feminine athletic element of the college.

Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

The sailor ushered us all into the boat, which was open, and which was maneuvered by two other sailors. Ysabelle, Welcome, California, Willie Sue, and I took seats next to the sides of the boat. A lovely breeze coming from either the North, South, East, or West, was blowing across the blue waters of the bay. Ah, spring!

Well, dear diary, the boat moved, and in no time at all we had arrived at the side of a huge ship. It was so large that it frightened poor little me, but I screwed up the courage of the Blotzes and faced it unafraid, a true heroine. There were some people walking on a sort of shelf on the side of the ship, and California told me that it was called a deck. I was puzzled and remarked to one of the sailors who was tying the boat to the side of the ship with a big piece of rope, "It isn't much like a bridge deck, is it, my good man?"

"No, my good woman," he replied, "but sometimes we get a dummy on it."

At this point I noticed that the boat passengers were beginning to climb up to the so-called deck. Now in order to do this they had to climb up a little ladder about four feet high that was nothing but a few wooden sticks, and in spite of my courage I was frightened at the prospect of trying to reach the top of this ladder. This was because I was wearing my new spring shoes, which had very high heels. What if I should trip and fall into the water below, and drown before I could be rescued, victim of a cruel, cruel fate?

There were two men standing at either end of the ladder. The first one noticed my hesitation. "Gosh," he said, "you can't climb in those shoes. Hold still, now!"

And before I could cry out, he had picked me up and had—oh, dear diary, I was never so frightened in my life—TOSSED ME UP TO THE DECK; WHERE THE SAILOR ON DUTY THERE CAUGHT ME JUST AS IF I WERE A BASEBALL!!! But that's not all—dear diary, the wonderful man who caught me was no ordinary sailor! He wore a lovely dark outfit with brass buttons and a cap with a little blue brim. What if he were the admiral?

After he put me down, and I had rejoined the rest of the girls, I inquired of a passing sailor, "Tell me, sir, is that gentleman over there the admiral?"

"Not that I know of," he replied. "He's a Marine."

"But what is a Marine," I asked.

"A Marine is a poor imitation of a landlubbing sailor," he answered, and with that moved on. So I decided to find out for myself just what a Marine was. I approached the gentleman.

"Pardon me, sir, but are you a Marine?" I inquired politely.

But he answered my query with a question. "Pardon me, madame," he asked, "but are you Elvira Blotz?"

Dear diary, could anyone be more surprised? "Of course I am, sir," I gasped, "but how did you know?"

"I recognized you," he replied. "You see, I've seen your picture. Allow me to introduce myself. I am Montmorency von Slagg, Templeton McQuiddle's cousin. Just call me Monty!"

So we had a long talk, and dear Monty showed us all over the great big, wonderful battleship, that even has some airplanes in its basement. BUT—dear diary, I just remembered—I forgot to ask Monty what a Marine is!

HIGH SHOOTERS TO GET MEDALS AT ASSEMBLY

Medals will be awarded members of the college's victorious second rifle team, and to individual high scorers, at an assembly scheduled for 9 a. m. March 18, according to plans drafted at a meeting of the rifle club's Board of Control last week.

Invitations to the rifle club's proposed banquet, to be held March 19 at the Veneto restaurant, have been mailed to members, Marygail Konkel, club secretary, reported.

The second team recently completed its season by winning first place in the Golden Gate division of the San Francisco Rifle Association's league tournaments.

Midnight Sun Shines at Movie Thurs. Afternoon

In collaboration with Galileo High School, the college will sponsor an animal show, motion picture, and lecture in the Galileo auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, admission price to be 15 cents.

Through the medium of an eight reel motion picture, students will be transported on a 12,000 mile journey through the land of the midnight sun. Captain G. Clements and Beverly Dobbs, arctic explorers, spent 18 years gathering the data to make this picture, and the result is educational and entertaining, according to the program's promoters.

The feature of the animal show will be Monty, the famous Alaskan dog who took the place of Rin-Tin-Tin in motion pictures. Monty will be accompanied by three of his friendly enemies, Mickey Rat, Fluff, the rabbit, and Pickle Puss, the cat.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds from the program are to be divided between the college and Galileo High School.

Younger Generation Scored by Sun Sitter

"I can't see what this younger generation is coming to!" ejaculated benign, middle-aged Alexander Rice, who, with his charming wife, take their post each sunny afternoon in the sloping entrance to the Galileo manual training shop, at corner of Van Ness and Francisco streets, the better to sun themselves and to comment upon the passing mass of high school and college students.

"The way those students skip classes to sit in their machines and gab is a sin. And how come these parents now-a-days allow their kids to drive cars to school? Now in my day—"

And so on and on. One might ask why Rice doesn't seek sunshine and pure air in more favorable places.

"To tell the truth, I feel better when my feet are safely planted on the ground. And now that you have wrung a confession out of me, you can be on your way. I don't usually confess to anyone! God bless you!"

HOUSEHOLD ARTS HAS SPRING TONIC MAR. 18

Heralded by weather suitable for the occasion, the theme for the Household Arts Association's semi-annual picnic has been announced by Jo Jordan, group president, as "Spring Tonic." The picnic will be held March 18 from 2 to 4:30 p. m., Miss Jordan said, and will feature a treasure hunt and an Easter egg roll for various prizes.

Tickets for the picnic may be purchased from any HAA member for 25 cents, and women students planning to attend may be excused officially from afternoon classes, according to Miss Jordan.

Doc No See Human Skin, Mohr No Give Sheepskin

Physical examinations for men are now being held daily in room 201, Galileo, according to Dr. R. Duffrey Friedlander, college physician.

These examinations may be taken at the students' convenience, Friedlander said, instead of by individual appointments, as was the case last semester.

Urging that men students take the necessary examination as soon as possible, Friedlander reminds prospective graduates that the physical check-up is a requisite for status as an alumnus.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By PAT MADDEN

One of the interesting items that made up the panorama of the WAA banquet was the presentation to the organization of a wooden-covered book in which the official record of membership will be kept. After each initiate repeats the oath she signs her name on the roster thus establishing herself as a regular member of the WAA.

Ideals and the purposes of the Women's Athletic Association were the subjects on which Vera Spencer, faculty sponsor of the group, spoke. The ideals of the Associated Federation of College Students as applied to San Francisco Junior College, were explained, and the non-competitive type of women's sports were heralded as important.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the entire affair was the candle lighted tables. The electric lights were extinguished leaving only the soft flicker of candle light.

Beginning their activities for the year, the riding club practice their newly acquired technique on Sunday morning, March 4, at Milbrae. This, according to the group, is the first of a series of such expeditions. A moonlight ride, to which both men and women will be invited, is to take place very soon after the first ride, depending on the turn of the moon.

Representatives from WAA are to be at the AWS conference which will be held at San Mateo, April 16 and 17. Ruth Johnson, president of WAA, and possibly a lower classman will be the delegates to make the trip. The purpose of the conference is to discuss activities of the different organizations and to suggest new ideas for a more successful WAA year.

Members of the Women's Block Society have received their block jackets, and hope to have the block very soon. Designs for the insignia were submitted by various students of the college, and from these the WAA council chose the one to be worn.

Team captains for the baseball club have been chosen, and will lead their various groups for the remainder of the sport's season. Norma Gattavara will captain one team while the other will be lead by Junerose Bellew. Having received new equipment, the baseball group will practice with greater interest, taking pride in their new bats, mitts, and softball mask, according to Bertha Keller, faculty sponsor of the club.

° ° °

Replacing Narin Borup, former manager of the dancing club of WAA is Josephine Tobin another member of the group.

Pedestrian Underpass Now Under Construction

Long a hazard to safety, the pedestrian crossing between Galileo building to the Men's gym on Bay Street is in the process of elimination, as PWA workers are constructing an underpass for students.

In order to tunnel under the street, workers are now raising the various pipes located just beneath the surface.

The Board of Education approved an appropriation for the construction of the underpass in the early Spring of 1936, and actual construction began last week.

ARCHITECTS WORK DRAFTING PLANS FOR NEW PLANT

Cost Set at $1,250,000; Actual Construction to Commence in April

Architects are definitely at work on the new $1,250,000 college buildings, and the plans will be turned over to the Board of Public Works for actual construction within two or three weeks at the most, according to a statement released by President Archibald J. Cloud.

Interviewed by a Guardsman reporter, upon his return from the south where he had been attending an educational convention, President Cloud enthusiastically pointed out that "the architects have a fine conception of educational buildings that will be a great asset to this city."

A swimming pool, scientific and gymnasium facilities, as well as ample room for club meetings and activities are included in the plans as put forth in last week's Guardsman by Walter C. Schmidt, assistant to the superintendent of schools.

The buildings are being financed jointly by city and federal funds. The local money, $500,000, having been already allotted and passed by the Board of Education, lies in wait for the contractors to start work at Balboa Height Park, President Cloud disclosed. However, no word has been received from Washington concerning the remainder of the money.

Since the Board of Public Works has been notified over two months ago, it is understood that they will be ready to start construction immediately after the plans are released.

COUNCIL UNANIMOUS IN BUDGET APPROVAL

Unanimous approval of the Associated Students' budget was the main business that occupied the attention of the Executive Council of the college in a meeting held last Thursday, March 11. The budget was presented by Dean Edwin C. Browne, and each item was discussed and approved by various organization heads present.

The budget presented no startling deviation from those of past semesters with each of the large organizations receiving appropriations comparable to those received previously. The liberal recommendations for funds for the various spring athletic activities were passed through the council without a dissenting vote, and the allotment for the art exhibit was approved after some discussion.

It was also announced at the meeting that The Guardsman would give $500 of its semester's appropriation in order to facilitate the financing of a sophomore class journal that is to be published at the conclusion of the semester. The staff of The Guardsman was given the task of preparing this book, while Ty McHugh, High Sophomore President, was appointed to handle all outside arrangements.

Pete Jambruno, representing the Athletic Committee, announced that his group recommended that Council approve the recognition of the Rifle and Pistol Club as a minor sport and that the members be awarded circle blocks. After some discussion, this recommendation was approved, but it was later discovered that the Athletic Committee had not held a formal meeting, and the recommendation was declared unconstitutional.

Helen Davis, vice-president of the Associated Students, said that the student officers were planning a dance to be held on April 10, and that they were attempting to obtain the Western Women's Club for the event.

On the recommendation of Student President James Neal, the council decided that all members who were absent from a meeting must present a written excuse for the approval of the body. The excuses will be placed in the permanent files of Council.

It was also decided that since the pressure of early semester business was now past, the Council would not hold weekly meetings but would gather instead on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

How Small Fish Grow Intrigues Student Mind

Approximately 90 students of the Zoology 1B classes, under the instruction of Glenn A. Noble, will visit the aquarium at Golden Gate Park on March 17 and March 21.

The purpose of the trip is to allow the student scientists to obtain a first-hand view of how small fish grow, according to Virginia Morgan, zoologist extraordinary.

Verbal Meeting With Modestans Climaxes Week

Minimum Wage, Maximum Hour Question is Talk Subject

Climaxing an active week of debating, San Francisco will play host to Modesto Junior College's forensic team at two verbal frays this Friday, March 19, at 3:30 p. m. in room 304 Galileo, and at 8 p. m. at the Lafayette school, Thirty-sixth Avenue and Anza Street, marking a total of five debates for the college in the past week. Resolved: That Congress should fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry, will be the question for debate.

In the afternoon at Galileo, Bradley Schwartz and Jim McKanny, speaking for San Francisco, will uphold the affirmative. Gene Blumenthal, veteran debater, and James Neal, Associated Students' president, will present the negative in the evening before a public forum at Lafayette school. Mrs. Rose Hazlette, director of public forums, will preside.

Later in the evening, Edwin O. Smith's two debating teams will be entertained at the Frosh barn dance at Galileo.

U. S. F. HERE YESTERDAY

Schwartz and McCanny, representing the junior college, debated with University of San Francisco yesterday afternoon at Galileo in a non-decision meet on the same question. They upheld the affirmative.

First in the week's series of debates found Coalinga Junior College traveling to San Francisco for two forensic contests on the minimum wage and maximum hour question, held at the Extension building on Friday evening, March 12.

MUTUALLY COMPLIMENTED

Morris Rabinowitch and Neal upheld the affirmative, against Ethel MacCumber and June Lewis of Coalinga. James Shorb and William Lauren of San Francisco took up the cudgels for the negative against Charles Collins and Jane McKenzie. Blumenthal and Isabelle Sherrat of San Francisco presided.

Mutual compliments were bandied between Wallace Hall, Coalinga coach, and Lloyd Luckmann, local mentor.

"Coalinga Junior College has a fine team," Luckmann said, "and we are glad to have been able to debate with it. Its members were well prepared, and gave us keen competition.

"We are happy to have had the opportunity to return the hospitality accorded us last year when we were guests of Coalinga."

CHALLENGES ISSUED

Challenges have been sent to Marin, Menlo, and San Mateo junior colleges and to San Francisco State College for debate on the proposed reform of the Supreme Court.

The women's teams will meet those of the University of California, San Francisco State, and the San Francisco College of Women on the same question in April and May.

Block Tryouts Reveal Hidden Student Talent

Following the tryouts for the Block SF vaudeville show last Wednesday, Tony Scafani emerged from the Galileo auditorium with definite information on the show.

"The tryouts," said Scafani, "were very successful. We have three excellent pianists, Bob Coratto, Bob Aparius, and Paul Reid, who will all appear in the performance."

Aparius and Coratto have arranged a duet of current hits, and Reid has perfected imitations of well-known pianists which he will present.

"As far as vocalists are concerned, we are well supplied," Scafani said. "Walt Loving, of last year's football team, Wilson Camp, college boxer, and Chason Tucker, of the Guardsman staff, have all been accepted, but our prize find is Kay Lyman, junior college student and crooner deluxe."

"What we need now is a first class magician, a few saw players and a good imitator," said Jimmy Fahn, ex-yell leader, who is helping with the show.

"The committee is still open for suggestions for skits and gags, that is funny ones," said Fahn. "We also need one more girl soloist, to sing with the orchestra, so any girl who is desirous of trying out please come out to the Galileo Auditorium this afternoon."

Above is the first rifle team, which took second place in its shooting league; below is the second team, which finished its season with top honors.

With Pangs in Heart, Tears in Eye, Paper Announces Year Book

Complying with the pressing sentiments of the sophomore class, The Guardsman staff has agreed to forfeit the rotogravure edition in order to handle the publication of a class journal which is planned for the end of this semester. It was decided that a limited edition of copies will be printed, and that they will be sold to students at the price of 50 cents.

Students are advised to secure their tickets before the end of April, because, unless they place orders early, they will be unable to secure copies, insomuch as the edition will be limited to 750 numbered books, of which only 700 will be for general sale, with high Sophomores given preference.

Tentative plans for the annual include the individual pictures of the graduating class, pictures of various college organizations, an athletic review, and a brief history of the junior college.

Tyler McHugh, president of the high sophomores, will act as coordinator between the sophomore class and The Guardsman staff, and will direct the sale of the books.

Holiday Friday Turns Tables On Instructors

Heartfelt sympathies are extended by the students to the faculty members of the San Francisco Junior College.

While students are enjoying an extra day in their week-end holiday, their instructors will be attending Institute, which will be held at the Everett Junior High School, Friday morning, March 19, at 9:30 o'clock.

In addition to a longer week-end, students will have a one week Easter holiday beginning Monday, March 22.

Gifford to Speak About Local Course on Hotels

Speaking of the curriculum in hotel and restaurant management, John P. Gifford, coordinator of hotel and restaurant management in the college, will take part in the fourth annual California Conference on Business Education.

The convention, which is sponsored by the State Department of Education, will be held in Fresno, California, on March 20.

CALLOUS INSTRUCTOR REDUCES CLASS TO TEARS

Not since the court executioner of King Henry the VIII has there been such a merciless and callous man as Instructor Kenneth L. Hobbs, say his tearful Zoology 10 students.

The class meets during the noon hours —11 to 1 o'clock— just when mental faculties turn from desmognathi and eanthropi to ham and eggs.

Instructor Hobbs takes keen zeal in telling his class how much the cross section of a worm looks like a nice juicy sirloin steak, or how foraminifera skeletons in fossil formations remind him of a club sandwich with chicken.

If you like oysters fried in butter be sure they are well done, or you'll find a platyhelminthis (flat worm) cavorting about in their insides.

To set the class at ease he closes with the statement that mock turtle soup always makes him think of green algae floating about a stagnant pool.

It can be said that there are more sylphlike figures in the Zoology 10 class than any other class, all attributed to Instructor Hobbs' treatises on "Zoology versus The Viewpoint of the Civilized Epicurean."

LOW SOPHS TO MEET

So that definite plans for the semester may be made, the Low Sophomore class will hold a meeting this afternoon at 2:15 p. m. in Room 205 at Galileo.

Don Mills, class president, urges all members of the class to attend this meeting.

"To Strike, or Not to Strike"—Forum Ponders

Next in the series of discussions at the regular meetings of the Forum Club will be the question "Is the student strike for peace of value?" to be considered Friday evening, April 2, at the home of Don Flash, 2430 Twenty-third Avenue.

Charles O'Gara will speak for the strike, and Attilo Ferrari against it, with general discussion following. The Forum Club is sponsoring a meeting in the Extension building lecture hall on April 22 at 11 o'clock, the same time as the annual national student strike occurs.

A lively discussion of Democracy vs. Fascism was held at the last meeting of the Forum, according to members.

"Because attendance has reached a maximum number we can take into people's homes, membership is closed for the semester," Malcolm Longaker, Forum chairman, announced.

Plans for securing club rooms to accommodate a larger membership were discussed, but no definite action was taken.

After the Hunt, Comes the Feast; Veneto Fri.

With the main purpose of the gathering being to honor its victorious teams, the San Francisco Junior College Rifle and Pistol Club will hold a dinner at the Veneto Restaurant, Friday evening, March 19, according to John Stewart, president of the organization.

"The dinner will begin at 6:30 o'clock, and will be followed by dancing," Stewart said. "Members will be given a chance to get better acquainted, and a surprise in the way of entertainment has been promised by the social committee."

Guests of honor will include President and Mrs. Archibald J. Cloud, Colonel and Mrs. D. P. Hardy, Louis Landeville, secretary of the San Francisco Rifle Association, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. F. Grant Marsh, T. Gordon Sollman and Miss Sollman, William Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hancock, and Mr. and Mrs. James S. Hughes.

Culture Dawns; Many Students See Exhibition

Allman Lauds Displayal of Federal Project by College Fund

That junior college students have shown a gratifying interest in the Federal Art Project exhibition which the college is sponsoring at John Howell's Book Shop, 434 Post Street, was demonstrated the opening day, when more than 140 students visited the exhibit.

Richard Allman, college art instructor, expressed his pleasure in the exhibit in a letter to Mrs. Beatrice Judd Ryan, supervisor in charge of exhibitions for the WPA project. In this letter, Allman said:

WONDERFUL BEGINNING

"The water colors are as excellent as any other contemporary water colors I have seen. There are several lithographs we should like to have as a nucleus for our permanent collection. I think this is a wonderful beginning of a project invaluable to our student body as a whole."

In addition to the water colors mentioned by Allman, the exhibit includes prints, sculpture in wood, and hammered copper plaques. Among the outstanding work is a head entitled Mother of Races, by Benjamino Buffano, creator of the statue of St. Francis which will soon be placed on Twin Peaks. Also worthy of notice is a statue by Eugenia Everett, which is carved entirely of redwood.

MYSTIC TOUCH ADDED

Two copper plaques, Girl's Head and Mother and Child, by Beryl McCarthy are particularly attractive and two modernistic paintings by Ben Berlin named Planet Forming and Dream Structure, respectively, have added a mystic touch interpretation at the moment is fast becoming a matter of important critical conjecture.

The main purposes of the Federal Art Project, as outlined by the directors, are, to employ needy artists, to provide young artists of promise an opportunity to work as assistants to master artists, to create a closer relationship between the artist and the public, to give valuable aid to socially useful agencies, and to promote the widely accepted view that cultural interests are becoming more necessary to the public.

Probationers Selected For Service Society

Twelve probationers have been selected from the group of women students who attended the tea given for prospective members at the home of Helen Davis, Associated Students' vice president, on March 6.

These probationary members are Madeline Brodie, Dorothy Canavan, Ann Coulam, Jean Fonticilla, Norma Gatavera, Gail Hanna, Jean Kinison, Jacqueline Kramer, Lilly Phillips, Barbara Randall, Cynthia Richardson, and Marion Yeager. They attended their first meeting, which was held at the home of Barbara Latz, AWS vice-president, last Monday evening.

Pamel Brown, Service Society president, said that the next event on the semester's program is a motion picture, "Love On A Bet," with Gene Raymond and Wendy Barrie. This movie will be held on Wednesday, April 11 at 2:15 o'clock, in the Galileo Auditorium.

"All students having tickets," Miss Brown said, "will be excused from their 2:30 classes. Tickets may be purchased from Service Society members or from members of the Block SF Society. They will cost 15 cents, and whatever money we make will be used to start a scholarship fund."

OPERATIC STAR SINGS BEFORE MUSIC CLUB

Offering selections from three different operas, Gerald Pelosi, of the San Francisco Opera Company, entertained members of the college Music Club at its last meeting, March 16, according to Bud Gardner, head of the organization's social committee.

"Mr. Pelosi," Gardner said, "is well known in operatic circles, and possesses a fine tenor voice. He was accompanied at the piano by his wife, and we of the Music Club felt honored at having them attend our meeting."

Gardner said that the Music Club's meetings are held on the first Wednesday and third Thursday of each month, and anyone interested in music is welcome to attend.

RIFLE MARKSMEN GET AWARDS AT THURS. ASSEMBLY

Noted Speakers Present Medals; Music Offered; Classes Excused 9 A.M.

Climaxing an unusually successful season of competition in rifle marksmanship, awards of medals will be made to 15 members of the College First and Second Rifle Teams at an assembly to be held tomorrow, Thursday, at 9:00 a. m. in the third floor lecture hall at the Extension building.

Under the auspices of the College Rifle & Pistol Club, a program of music and speaking has been arranged, including selections by the A Capella Choir, directed by Flossita Badger, music instructor, talks by Hughes Richardson, National Small Bore Promotional Manager for the Lyman Gun Sight Company, Louis Landreville, treasurer of the San Francisco Rifle Association, President Archibald J. Cloud of the junior college and presentation of medals to the team members by Lieutenant Colonel D. P. Hardy, deputy superintendent of schools. John Stewart, club president, will preside, and William Hancock, range officer and coach of the teams, will introduce the speakers.

All students are invited to this Assembly, and arrangements have been made with many instructors to excuse their classes at the 9:00 o'clock hour, with full attendance anticipated.

ENVIABLE RECORD BOASTED

The local marksmen, although representing the college in organized competition for the first time, completed the season's firing with an enviable record. The first team, entered in the Bay Bridge League of the San Francisco Rifle Association, emerged in second place, with eight wins and two losses. Both matches lost were to the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve team, league winners, by close scores. Members of the team will be awarded silver medals by the Association.

LOST BUT ONE MATCH

Gold medals go to the members of the second rifle team, signifying their attainment of first place in the Golden Gate Bridge League competition. In this league, also a division of the San Francisco Rifle Association, the college "shooters" lost only one match to the Pacific Rod & Gun Club, prominent local organization of marksmen.

Although many of the second team members started firing only last semester, their rapid advancement under the instruction of Coach Hancock made possible successful completion of the shooting season.

INDIVIDUALS REWARDED

In addition to recognition for league placements, medals will be presented to individual team members for high seasonal aggregate scores, including in the ratings the six best match scores fired by each competitor. In the Bay Bridge League, the gold medal for highest aggregate total score goes to Hancock, S. F. J. C., with the silver medal for second place going to Sgt. I. N. Kelly, U. S. M. C., Dick Pitman, S. F. J. C., was third in the rankings.

Gold and silver medals, with honorable mention for third place will also be awarded for high aggregate scores in each of the four positions; prone, sitting, kneeling, and offhand, which are fired in each match. Kelly, Hancock, and Pitman finished in that order for the prone position awards.

HANCOCK, PITMAN HIGH

In the sitting position totals, C. Peterson, Marine Corps, won the gold medal, with Hancock and Pitman finishing second and third. Kneeling scores showed Pitman first, P. G. Pacheco, Marine Corps, second, with Hancock third. The offhand totals showed Pacheco first, Hancock second, and Pitman fifth for the league. One hundred competitors fired in the season's matches, thus becoming eligible to compete for these medals.

In the Golden Gate Bridge League, with the same number of eligibles, John Benton, junior college, placed third in aggregate total scores, with Kermit Wright in the ninth position. Dallace Ogilvie of the local team won the gold medal for first place in the prone competition, with Wright fourth, Benton fifth, and Syd Farley sixth. In the sitting position totals, Benton was second, thus winning the silver medal. Benton was also fourth in the offhand competition.

BRONZE FOR MEMBERS

Members of the first team and second team will also be awarded bronze medals for their high scores in the individual matches, 10 of which were fired by each team—in addition to the medals awarded to the team members for their final places in the league standings. Gold medals go to the following students, winners of the Golden Gate Bridge League: Benton, Wright, Farley, Ogilvie, Betty Hyde, Vir-

AERE PERENNIUS

As announced elsewhere in this issue of The Guardsman, arrangements have been made to publish the first annual in the history of the junior college.

There has been a desire for this type of publication since the first semester of organization. Now that definite steps have been taken, it becomes necessary to demand the complete cooperation of everyone interested in facilitating the success of the project. This means that work must begin immediately after the Easter vacation.

While the staff of The Guardsman is looking forward to a new venture in the college publications, its interest is mingled with some regret and definite dubiety in the substitution of the annual for the rotogravure sections with which The Guardsman has previously closed each semester.

At a time of tradition founding in the college, The Guardsman is breaking one which has brought it national recognition in the field of Graphic Arts.

In an experimental spirit, the staff of The Guardsman recalls the experiences of the people of some European countries who recently bowed to the loud voice of the few.

GET IT SETTLED

A recent meeting of the Executive Council was followed by a heated discussion as to whether or not the college Rifle and Pistol Club should be recognized as a minor sport, and, as such, receive the minor sport award of a circle "S. F."

Supporters of the movement claim that the Rifle and Pistol Club is just as much a sport as any other athletic group in the college. The marksmen take part in competitive meets and have managed to bring honor to the college by winning the highest places in the San Francisco Rifle and Pistol League.

"Granted!" cry the dissenters, "But why should they receive the same sort of an award as the athletes of the college? Why not give them a cloth insignia with crossed rifles?"

These people do not seem to realize that what the group desires is not some sort of a decoration. They want actual acknowledgement by the college, and the only way in which they can secure this is by gaining recognition as a minor sport.

The Guardsman does not wish to take either side in the controversy. It does, however, advocate that the Athletic Council hold a legitimate meeting and decide, once and for all, just what activities in the college may be classed as minor sports. This would definitely settle the argument and avoid any further altercation on the matter.

COME OUT IN THE OPEN!

The Guardsman has recently received several letters which were, to say the least, anything but complimentary to the paper, the staff or the Editor.

When these letters fail to appear in the Ram's Horn column, the paper is accused of being one sided. "You can't take it!" the hecklers taunt. "You only print the compliments you get and omit the slams entirely."

Could the Editor take this opportunity to tell these people just why their letters have not been printed?

Because, my friends, frank and fearless as you have been, as ruthlessly as you have attempted to tear down everything we have tried to build up, you lacked the intestinal fortitude to put your signature at the end of your critical drivelings.

Come out in the open! If you have a legitimate complaint to register, there is no reason for being ashamed of it. Names will be printed in the paper only if the writer so desires, but it is necessary for the Editor to know your identity before the letters can be used.

VACATION

Commencing Friday, March 19, and continuing for one week, students of the college will enjoy their annual Easter vacation.

For some, this week will be a true vacation with relaxation as their most strenuous exercise. Some more ambitious individuals will spend the week working in various types of outside employment, while others will diligently bury themselves in their text books in an attempt to get ahead (or is it—"catch up?") with their classes.

Most of us, however, will toss our books into a corner, and proceed to indulge in one solid week of enjoyment. Imagine the luxury of sleeping until noon with no worry about making 8 o'clocks!

The Guardsman's wish is that everyone enjoy himself thoroughly, and that no one fails to return Monday, March 29.

MENTAL MUTTERINGS

By FEM

Saint Patrick's Day is here again.
(Or maybe you have heard.)
The Kellys and the Calahans
Have surely passed the word.
So don your green-ist neck tie,
Your derby and your spats,
And join the celebration
With the Michaels and the Pats.

Sure 'n we wouldn't be after doin' right by the Irish in us, if we neglected, entirely, to inject just a wee bit of the spirit of Saint Patrick's Day into our column. With a little encouragement, we would have had the whole paper printed in green ink with a border of shamrocks, but for some strange reason, we failed to get the encouragement, but then, having green paper is a lot better than omitting entirely the "Spirit of Old Erin!"

* * * *

Maybe a bit of Saint Patrick's Day spirit is just what we need right now, seein' as how we have several, well developed, feuds on our hands. The fighting spirit has been dying out a bit of late, but decked out in a green dress, with a green bow in the hair and a green glint in the left eye, we're all ready to sail forth and meet any and all comers.

* * * *

This year's hand painted Easter egg goes to Louie Bertolucci, (the Ghost of WJ) who, if things work out as planned, will be the first, honest-to-goodness, genuine, registered Junior Reporter on The Guardsman staff. Louie sent away a tin strip from a can of a certain brand of coffee, and expects to receive his badge any day now. Congratulations, Louis, and may we be the first to have your autograph?

* * * *

Easter vacation will probably find everyone having a grand time shopping for Easter bonnets, catching up on lost sleep, and rolling the elusive Easter egg. Speaking of eggs reminds us to give a certain columnist a mental kick in the shins for a little item appearing in his last week's column. Shame on you, what is supposed to be a gentleman, for revealing publicly the secrets of a poor defenseless lady! Aint nothin' sacred?

During the past few months, every clear-thinking person in the nation has mulled this question over in his mind. Columnists have had a go at it too.

Looking at the question purely from a non-partisan angle, it can be seen clearly and unmistakably that the American public has been sidetracked from the main issue. One might just as sensibly ask, "Is a dog big?"

Of course, some men can't reason clearly at the age of 70; neither could they at the age of 40, or for that matter, at 20. Age has little or nothing to do with logical thought.

It's time to choose your Easter outfit!—the phrase seems strange, coming, as it does, hard on the heels of a very cold winter. But if you need any further convincing to put you into a mellow springtime, clothes-choosing mood, consider the budding and blossoming trees, the little red leaves that have made their appearance on the rose bushes, and the balmy weather that comes and goes intermittently, and there you are, ready to trot downtown and shop.

Easter Sunday is only a scant week and a half away, but when confronted with this disturbing news, please don't rush to the nearest dress shop and buy the first white elephant you see. Instead, carefully consider the most important types of outfits, decide what you want, and go shopping for it in a calm and unhurried manner. For your convenience, we have made a list of the kinds of costumes that we think appeal most to fashion-wise co-eds:

1. The "litle" dress, printed or plain, worn with a jigger coat.

2. The bolero dress. This may be printed, with a plain bolero worn over it, or vice-versa, or you may have a matching skirt and bolero with a contrasting blouse. The bolero outfit usually is either Dalmatian or Spanish in feeling.

3. The tailored suit. Look for dark gray or navy hard-finished men's-wear fabrics, straight, slim skirts with pleats or slits for walking room, nipped-in jackets with neat single-button closings rather than the link-button style of last year. And—be sure it fits perfectly!

4. The dressmaker suit. The second type of springtime suit is made of lightweight woolen in a soft color (beige, gray, azure blue, Gauguin pink, Coronation gold). Some are worn with blouses and others with gilets.

Be sure to choose the correct accessories for your costume, and be sure to choose the costume itself in a becoming color.

Here are some smart color combinations intended to bring out your own hair and complexion: turquoise with copper, navy and green, or black and white for blondes and redheads, Gauguin pink and brown, beige and navy, and navy and red for medium brunettes, and black and lipstick red, black and aqua, and beige and Coronation blue for the raven-haired. These are merely suggestions, but they may give you an idea for your own Easter color scheme.

Picking out the right accessories is the most disturbing part of choosing an Easter outfit. Hats and shoes are the bane of a shopper's life, but if you can take these hurdles with honors, the results are well worth a little extra time and effort spent on them. Here are some tips that may help you: buy the new open-toed or open-heel shoes only if you have at least one other pair that you can wear with your new clothes, for, worn continuously, they soon lose the virtues of fit and comfort. If you have bought a bolero dress styled along Spanish lines, stifle the impulse to get an off-the-face hat to wear with it, but choose instead a large, rolling-brimmed Breton to carry out the Latin theme.

Don't be afraid of mad hats, but be sure that the one you buy is supremely becoming. If you are proud of your ankles, get some of the new very sheer stockings with black or navy heels, or if you have bare-back shoes, mesh heels. Pin three or four ice-box water lilies at the neck of an organdy blouse. At any rate, be a new and different you, and step out smartly in the Easter parade!

AFTER DARK

BY John Ward

This by way of preface to the coming Igor Stravinsky concert of March 23 in the Civic Auditorium:

It has long been the pet hobby of many to shout about modern music. It should be everyone's, especially all those youthful artists of today. After all, it is the product of this age. Sometimes one may follow false gods, after those who dash one's hopes to the ground in their search for sensation. But, with a sane eye and ear, one may, with experience, sense what is great in this day.

The cheap is obvious, the insincere wears away so quickly! Be assured, greatness never hides itself with shambles. No eager creator of today has entered into art and created in the style of the classic masters. There is no art that lives for tomorrow that does not speak its philosophy in a new language, with a fresh interpretation.

Igor Stravinsky is not only a key figure in the music written since 1900, but, like Pablo Picasso, he is a great creator as well. To discuss his music thoroughly would take much more space than this column allows.

Of the three periods in which his compositions range themselves, The Symphony of the Psalms, which he is to conduct in San Francisco, belongs to the third. The Ballet Russe, recently here, did one of the ballets from the first period, Petrouchka. Of the second period the Pro Arte Quartet, here last summer, played a set of three pieces for strings. The Symphony is the best, if not the greatest work of Stravinsky. It calls for an orchestra without first or second violins, and a large chorus. It is in three movements, each movement having a goodly portion of choral music. The first movement is a Prelude using verses 13 and 14 of the Psalm 38 of David. The second movement is a double fugue, the orchestra having one theme, the chorus a second. The last movement is an Allegro Symphonique using Psalm 150.

In his autobiography, Stravinsky explains why he used Latin words for the chorus. The language, being a comparatively "dead" one, caused Stravinsky to feel he could treat it quite freely in his musical treatment. And those who have heard or will hear the work when it is done here, must realize that in it Stravinsky has attempted a religious work of the highest order.

There is a sense of that unspoken ardour that one feels when entering a church—that sixth sense that is more fear than thrill. Stravinsky leaves unsaid that which it would be impossible to say. Thus results a work which satisfies by leaving unsounded that which may be only aroused silently in the individual. An amazing example is found in the second movement when a brief passage for piano fills up a deep abyss of gloomy feeling. Surely, if Stravinsky had written nothing more, this symphony would stand him well beside the masters!

And you will find that in his doing away with the violins he obtains a stark richness and color that would have been impossible with the regular symphony orchestra.

LAMB'S RAMBLING

By LAMBERT MEYER

It seems only fitting, now that the basketball season is at an end, that we show appreciation to Coach "Dutch" Conlan and his hoopsters for the fine showing that they made in and out of the conference race. Although finishing in third position, the team had a successful season in defeating all of their independent rivals on their southern excursion and also taking the measure of the high-riding San Francisco State quintet twice in a row. The only losses outside of the league race were at the hands of Stanford and U. S. F. Nineteen wins out of 25 contests is a commendable average for the Ram cagers.

To those men who played their last games for San Francisco, namely, Gus Kotta, Ernie Loustalot, Paul Rippon, Carlyle Caine, Monte Mordecai, Doug Maas, Warren Egan and Bob Fex, we send our last tribute and wish them the best of success wherever they may go from here. We also salute George Bedrosian, Bill Phelan, Treacy Slattery, and Mike Maniscalco, all first year men, for their accomplishments this semester. These individuals should give Mentor Conlan much to work with in the future.

Thanks, "Dutch," for an exciting basketball season, and one championship out of two chances is really something to be proud of for a new college.

Kohn, San Mateo Junior College center, looked easily to be the toughest pivot man that the Rams have faced all season. He plays with an easy motion and has a good shooting eye. Never gets rattled and always gets his passes to his team mates at the best possible time. A great chance to make all-conference basketball honors. The San Francisco players liked him, too.

Coach Russ Sweet's cindermen after dropping their first meet of the season to the Stanford freshmen have ideas of upsetting the well-balanced San Mateo Junior College squad this Saturday, March 20. The Bulldogs will be favorites because of their undisputed victories over both the California and Stanford frosh teams.

* * * *

Looking over past junior college basketball records (there was only one record) we came upon a roster of the 1936 Ram championship aggregation and noticed that the team carried a total of 13 players throughout the cage season. That very unlucky number didn't seem to hurt the team in that never-to-be-forgotten victorious hoop semester. Maybe the Rams should have had one more man on the club this year.

Baseball Coach Lee Eisan performed a noble sporting gesture on his part in the Ram-Sacramento series at Sacramento. A Pirate player was without a baseball uniform and the league ruling prohibits men to participate in any activity without the regular squad suit. Coach Lee said that he had no objection to the Solon playing in the double header in street clothes, and if the opponents do not object the man in question may take the field. As it always happens that certain Sacramentan proved to be one of the main factors in the twin victories for the capital city men.

We remember when Coach Conlan allowed a St. Marys forward to remain in the contest after four personals had been called on him, and he, as per usual, proceeded to get "hot" and win the old ball game for the Gael quintet.

The San Francisco Junior College's newly-formed swimming team is made up of a group of men students that could give any college freshmen team one swell battle. The mermen dropped their first meet to the California freshmen 38 to 37 because they had no men to compete in the diving competition, and it was the first time the team had gotten together in real competition. The team consists of Herb Brotman, member of the world record holding 400 yard medley relay team and also a member of the 400 yard breast stroke relay team. Ward Cox, present Junior Pacific Association champion for the 100 yards, Dick Simon and Bob Shine, high school record holders, and Howard Forte, Bill Reinert, Bob Toracelli, and Bob "Windbag" Winberg. The team will add more members this week. The college should be proud and should take notice of this fine aquatic aggregation. Any swimmers interested please see Coach Russ Sweet at once.

A big feed is coming up gratis either for the baseball or basketball team. Because they took a third position in the league race the basketeers have taken about all they can stand from the jeering diamonders. So the men asked the baseballers if they thought they would finish any higher in the junior college baseball conference. The answer was "we're a cinch." The argument led to a wager and now Lee Eisan's men have agreed to treat the basketball team to an eight-course dinner if they fail to end the season in less than third position. If they are successful in finishing the conference in third place or better, the "eats" are on the casabamen. Here's wishing the baseball team success as everybody (except the Ram cagers) would like to see them in the lead at the end of the schedule.

It's a big afternoon down the peninsula this Saturday. Both the track and baseball squads have engagements with the San Mateo Bulldogs and the junior college tennis team has a conference meeting with the Menlo Junior College. We stick out our neck and make some predictions. A win for the San Mateo cindermen. The baseballers to split a double header with the Bulldog nine, and an easy win for Coach Tom Wilson's racketmen.

STRENUOUS DAY AT COMMERCE FIELD

Coach Russ Sweet's trackmen are shown in preparation for their dual meet with San Mateo next Saturday. Upper left shows hurdlers Ty Barre (left) and Bob Gerughty going over the barriers. Left, center, the sprinters are (left to right) Barre, Joe Sanderson, George Compas, Don Brain, and Joe Rocktoff. Lower left, the veteran Vaulter Jimmie Fahn is clearing the bar, while in the upper right George Shardin, who tied for first in the Stanford meet, is going through the same performance. The potential Frankenstein in the right center is Larry Corchet, discus thrower. The much photographed Ty Barre appears again, this time as a high jumper, in the lower right.

DAVID, GOLIATH MEET SATURDAY AT SAN MATEO

Rams Rated Underdogs in Peninsula Cinder Clash With Strong Farmermen

David vs. Goliath. That's the set-up Saturday afternoon, March 20, when the tracksters of the San Francisco Junior College clash with the powerful, undefeated cinder-pounders of the San Mateo institu-tion at the peninsula oval.

The San Mateo Bulldogs are in the Goliath role, having taken the measure of such strong cinder outfits as the Stanford and California freshmen teams. The Cardinal babes were mowed under by an overwhelming 79-43 score while the Bear squad pressed the Mateans a little, but were put to shame by the score of 69-33.

RAMS DEFEATED

Coach Russ Sweet's Rams have met only one opponent this season, that being the Stanford group. In that meet the Indians came back after their San Mateo defeat to give the San Francisco team a terrific 88¾ to 33¼ walloping. The loss was attributed to the lack of practice and this week after 12 days of workouts the red and white will have no excuses to offer if they are defeated. But the underdogs are out to hit the mighty Goliaths right smack between the eyes Saturday afternoon.

Looking at comparative times and performances the Bulldogs look too strong for the Rams as the times, distances, and heights of the Mateans are much better than those of the Sweetmen.

CENTURY CLOSE

The initial race, the 100 yard dash, should furnish plenty of excitement between Joe Garcia, Ram ten flat sprinter, and Ted Ellison, Bulldog speedster who took a fast 9.9 in the California meet. Both men are consistent ten second runners. The two will also meet in the 220 yard dash, Ellison having a neat 21.6 in the Bear encounter.

Arnold Wirz, 51 flat 440 yard sprinter from the peninsula, and Bill Rocktoff of San Francisco will offer an exciting duel in the quarter mile, as will Darold Young and Ram "Ace" Mitchell in the 880 yard event.

The mile should go to the Bulldogs as the locals have not turned in any fast times as yet. Cecil Cole ran a fast 4.23 in the Stanford meet for the San Mateo team.

The country opponents are very strong in the hurdle events with such standouts as Will Dod, Bill Smith and Al Johnson. Dod ran 15.6 against the Cal frosh while Johnson took the highs in the time of 25.1. San Francisco's hopes lie in Jim McGruer, Ty Barre, Joe Sanderson and Bill Gerhughty. Gerhughty and McGruer took second and third respectively against the Card team although the times were rather slow.

BULLDOG WEIGHTMEN GOOD

In the field events the Bulldogs should garner plenty of points, especially in the weights. They have in the shot Bill Wohle, holder of the National Collegiate shot put record and in the discus there is Bill Talcott, capable of tossing the platter 135 feet. No Ram weightmen have come up to these distances as yet. Sweet has faith in Walt Loving, George Bedrosian and "Rosy" Rosenwieg to upset the old dope bucket.

Close competition is expected in the high jump with the locals having a slight edge. As yet no San Mateo jumper has topped 5 feet 8½ inches. Ernie Loustalot, consistent six foot jumper, will not be ready to compete for the Rams because of too much basketball, but Ty Barre looks like a real comer.

FIELD EVENTS TOSSUP

The pole vault is a tossup with Jim Fahn and Al Schardin of the red and white jumping against Bill Cooley of the Bulldogs. All three have reached the 11.6 height.

Broad jumpers for either team have not come up to expectations and the javelin should be all San Mateo with Norman Raffe winning in a walk. Raffe, a 160 foot tosser, is also backed up by Johnny Hicks, another consistent thrower.

The San Francisco team is expected to show a big improvement in their second track encounter and they are conceding nothing to the Mateo favorites.

Around the Bases

By LOUIE BERTOLUCCI

The San Francisco Junior College nine leaves its home grounds again this week-end to travel to San Mateo to engage the local team in a two-game series this Saturday.

San Mateo, with only two men back from last year's squad, is not rated much in the league race, but then the Ram squad hasn't shown much to date to rate more than an even chance.

The two Mateans returning are Gleim, a third baseman, and Quinn, a catcher. Both boys played on the first team in 1936, and will be in the starting line-up again on Saturday.

In their only local appearance, the Bulldogs dropped a close contest to the Polytechnic nine, losing a 3-2 contest. However, this was an early season game and the Blue and White are really better than their record shows. You can depend on Coach "Tag" Taggert to field a team worthy of consideration.

The old stand-by, Larry Wilgus, will probably work the first tilt for the Rams. Either Les Larsen or Joaquin Martinez will toe the mound in the shorter, seven inning game.

If the Red and White receives a double set-back, it can sit back and watch the rest of the teams battle for the title. In other words, the Rams' future standing in the loop depends on the outcome of the San Mateo games. A convincing victory in both tilts will put the Eisan lads back in the select class.

* * * *

Before encountering the San Mateans in the conference games Saturday, the Rams play a return game with the Santa Clara Freshmen tomorrow at Ryan's Field in Santa Clara.

The Freshman nine put one over on the locals in its first meeting, taking a 6-4 verdict. Errors and bad-play threw away a possible win for the junior collegians.

Santa Clara's first year team is reputed to be a better squad than the varsity. It has yet to lose a game, and it will take a smart, hard-hitting team to set them back.

Coach Lee Eisan will be minus two of the players that faced the yearlings the first time out, Pitcher George Hughes and Second-baseman Joe Futernick. Both of these boys kept the Red Raiders in the game with sterling performances, and it's hard to see how San Francisco can turn back the Frosh.

* * * *

Spectators may see a revamped team on the field Saturday against the San Mateo baseball team. Coach Lee Eisan is dissatisfied with the performance of the team so far this season.

In an effort to get more power at the plate, Lee has switched left-fielder Paul Bjort to third base and has moved Bruno Lucchesi back to his old position. The Rams have really appeared weak with the willow, but with the new set-up, Coach Eisan expects added strength.

* * * *

Things looked pretty bad for Pitcher Larry Wilgus at the beginning of the season, what with the two new moundsmen on the squad. But apparently Coach Eisan still looks on "Ole Work-Horse" as his Number One chucker.

Larry started the first game against Sacramento, and really looked good. The victory should have been his, but bad support robbed him of a win. You can be sure Larry will chalk up a number of wins for S. F., and probably will rank as one of the leading twirlers in the conference.

TENNIS DEBUT TODAY AT FINE ART PALACE

With hopes raised high by a successful practice season, the tennis team makes its conference debut this afternoon at the Palace of Fine Arts against Menlo. The men have finally been arranged in an official rating and will play in the order agreed upon.

First man is the veteran Kay Lyman, whose brilliant play so far has earned him the position by a narrow margin over Bill Lazzeri. Holding down the number three spot is the former Lowell star, Chandler Ennes, while the rest of the team is composed of Harold Mitchell, Alvin Altfield, Rod Rogaway, and Bill Cardinal, in that order. The first doubles team is made up of Lyman and Lazzeri, Ennes and Altfield compose the second, and Mitchell and Cardinal the third. Seven singles and three doubles matches are played.

The peninsula school is reputed to boast a strong squad, but the San Francisco aggregation, on the basis of its imposing record, will probably rule favorite. Salinas, Santa Clara, San Mateo, Modesto, State, and U.S.F. have already fallen before the unbeaten Rams. In the latter match Lyman defeated the Hilltoppers' highly touted Lang, 6-2, 6-3, Lazzeri won out after a hard battle, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, and Rogaway scored an upset by beating Kane, 7-5, 7-5. The final score was nine matches to two in favor of Coach Tom Wilson's squad.

SMART BOYS

A non-existing man was granted a diploma last year at Yale University. The phenomena was worked out by four wealthy undergraduates who rented a room for their "friend," planned his courses, wrote his term papers, and did all the things that they did in their college activities.

Mermen Lose to Cal. By Margin of 1 Point

After losing by a lone point to the California freshmen, the newly formed San Francisco Junior College swimming team is endeavoring to schedule a series of swimming meets with high school and college freshmen squads in the near future.

The Ram-Bear encounter held at Berkeley last Tuesday evening was the closest aquatic meet of the present season. The slim margin of 38-37 spelled victory for California and defeat for the San Franciscans. More experience won for the Berkeley mermen and as this was the junior college's first meet of the season such a fine showing was not expected.

The summaries:

Medley Relay—Won by San Francisco. Team of Winberg, Cox, and Toracelli. Time, 3.37.

50 Yard Free Style—Won by Brotman (S.F.J.C.); second, California; third, California; fourth, Simon (S.F.J.C.). Time, 24.3.

220 Yard—Won by California; second, Forte (S.F.J.C.); third, Shine (S.F.J.C.); fourth, California. Time, 2.32.

150 Back Stroke—Won by California; second, California; third, Higgins (S. F. J. C.); fourth, Toracelli (S.F.J.C.).

Breast Stroke—Won by Winberg (S.F. J.C.); second, Cox (S.F.J.C.); third, California; fourth, California. Time, 2.00.

100 Free Style—Won by Brotman (S.F.J.C.); second, California; third, California; fourth, Shine (S.F.J.C.). Time, 58.8.

440 Yards—Won by California; second, Reinert (S.F.J.C.); third, Forte (S.F.J.C.); fourth, California.

400 Yard Relay—Won by San Francisco, Team of Winberg, Cox, Forte, Brotman.

WINE, WOMEN, SONG BANNED FOR PUGIES

Issuing a request that all prospective contestants start conditioning themselves, Don Mix, president of the Men's Club, announced that April 14 has been set as the date for the semi-annual college boxing and wrestling tournament. The Verdi Club has been selected as the site for the battles and the usual engraved gold medals will be presented to the winners, Mix said.

The victors in these matches will comprise the college boxing and wrestling team, and will meet other collegiate squads in proposed contests during May, if present plans culminate satisfactorily.

Most of the divisions present a wide open opportunity for all classes of leather-pushers and armbenders. The former heavyweight champ, Dave Smith, has left college and possession of his crown will be contested by a group of unknowns. In the light-heavyweight boxing division, last year's winner, Ray Greenwood, returns to defend his laurels, but might be upset by a clever boxer. Wilson Camp, who heads the middleweight division, is also rugged, and possesses a kayo punch, although he may find trouble when confronted by a strictly orthodox opponent. The title holders in both welter and lightweight classes have left the college, so both these crowns will be put on the block for any ring personality to claim. Dick Moon, the fast and clever featherweight king, should provide an interesting evening for any contestants at his poundage.

Jack Segurson is the only wrestler who is slated to return to defend his honors, and will meet all-comers in the light-heavy division. Charlie Brickley, heavyweight grappling king, has gone to La Verne, while Deming Smith and Frank Knowlton are both reported unable to defend their crowns because of injuries.

Scribes Get Splinters Picking Myth Squads

After much head scratching and wrangling, a consensus of opinion among sports writers of The Guardsman is that the following players deserve a place in the mythical all-conference basketball team for the past hoop season.

This year the conference was close, and it was difficult to choose an outstanding team. The sport staff expects to receive comments pro and con about these selections, as every fan sees a player from a different angle. To select an all-conference squad a group must have seen every team in the league in combat, and The Guardsman sports writers have done this very thing. Ten other people will probably pick ten other teams, but these men have been the most prominent on the hardwood in the eyes of The Guardsman staff.

The quintet follows:

Forward—Gus Kotta....San Francisco
Forward—Bob Norman........Modesto
Center—Jim Rickert..........Modesto
Guard—Otis Perry..............Modesto
Guard—Ray Soekland......Santa Rosa

The selection of a second team was just as difficult, and after serious thought, the following quintet was chosen.

Forward—Paul Rippon..San Francisco
Forward—Herb Pedersen....Santa Rosa
Cent.—Ernie Loustalot..San Francisco
Guard—Frank Triano..........Modesto
Guard—John Allen..................Marin.

TRI-SPORT DAY SCHEDULED FOR YWCA APRIL 3

Announcement of a women's tri-sport play day to be held April 3 at the YWCA, 620 Sutter Street, was made by Vera Spencer, Women's Athletic instructor in the college. Invited to participate in the event are Marin and Santa Rosa Junior Colleges who will send basketball, badminton, and swimming teams.

It is estimated, according to Miss Spencer, that the college will enter 30 women in the play day. This number will be made up, first, of the members of the three clubs involved, and second, other women who are interested in those sports.

Tentative schedules for the day are as follows:

10:30-11:30 will feature doubles badminton matches and table tennis.

11:30-12:30 basketball. First game San Francisco versus Marin, second game San Francisco versus Santa Rosa, third game winners of the first two.

12:30-1:30 swimming meet, which will include as events 40 yard free style race, 60 foot racing backstroke, novelty relay, medley relay, and diving.

1:45 luncheon will be served in the YWCA cafeteria featuring speakers from each school, who will describe some of the new activities of their colleges.

Committee heads for the occasion include Parnel Brown, toastmistress, Eleanor Roche, manager of swimming who will head the decoration committee, and Jean Cassenilli who will chairman the committee for registration and sign-ups.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO SPRING TONIC PICNIC FOR HAA TOMORROW

With "spring tonic" as its theme, the semi-annual Household Arts Association picnic will be held tomorrow afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock at Sigmund Stern Grove, Jo Jordan, HAA president, has announced. All women students are invited to attend the affair, tickets for which may be purchased from any member of the organization for 25 cents.

"I would like to urge all women students to get their tickets today as early as possible," Miss Jordan said, "as it is the last day on which they will be sold."

"Food, fun and prizes" will be the motto of the outing, which will feature an Easter egg roll and a treasure hunt. Hostesses will be President Jo Jordan, Vice-President Anita de Martini, Secretary Tomeko Takahashi, Treasurer Louise Corica, and Faculty Sponsor Claire Cuneo.

Chairmen of the committees taking charge of the picnic are Marion Howard, games; Marjorie Delhi, ways and means; Caroline Originos, refreshments, and Anita de Martini, business.

Miss Jordan requested that HAA members selling tickets turn in ticket receipts and unused tickets to Miss de Martini not later than 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Men Students Wanted Now for NYA Positions

Two NYA positions are open for men students, according to Helene H. Turner, NYA head.

One man is needed for work Monday and Wednesday from 1 to 3:30 p. m. and on Tuesday and Thursday from 12 to 2:30 p. m. Another position is open for a man to work from 12 to 2:10 p. m. on Mondays and Wednesdays.

All applicants should report to Miss Turner in 210 Galileo, as soon as possible.

NYA TimeSchedulesCut to Meet Reduced Funds

Because of a cut in NYA funds, Helen Turner, NYA director, instructed all NYA students to keep their time down to 31½ hours a month until further notice.

"I think there will be sufficient funds to last until the end of the term, and as there are only 18 days of school in June, the students will be able to work as many hours as they would ordinarily in any regular month, and make up for the smaller pay checks for the next three months," Miss Turner said.

Food Preparation Class Visits Schweitzer Plant

Members of the food preparation class of the hotel and restaurant management division of the college inspected the plant of Schweitzer and Company, wholesale butchers, Saturday, March 6.

Chef Jacques Beyl, instructor, Victor Robelet, Ralph Cummings, Wenzel Peck, Lawrence Wong, Charles Doudeit, Stuart Kingsland, H. Johnson, H. Gaak, and S. Purdy were among the group.

Chemists Visit Standard

For the purpose of observing how laboratory processes which students learn in the classroom are applied on a large scale in industry, the Chemistry classes of John E. Booher visited the Standard Oil Refinery at Richmond, California, yesterday.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By PAT MADDEN

Mention has been made before of the offer of a matched set of tournament arrows to be given to the archer—or should it be archee—who made six consecutive bull's eyes. The sympathy of the entire archery class was extended to Helen Davis last Thursday when she made five consecutive bull's eyes, and just missed the last one by the fraction of an inch. This is quite a feat as is evidenced by the fact that so far there has been only one woman in the college who has been able to acquire the coveted prize. She is Edith Rand.

* * *

Margaret Wormell, WAA secretary, has been chosen to accompany Ruth Johnson, WAA president, to the joint AWS-WAA conference to be held April 16 and 17 at San Mateo.

* * *

Sign-ups for the mixed doubles tennis tournament have begun, and will continue until next Wednesday. Play will start the following weekend at the Palace of Fine Arts.

One of the requirements to be met for eligibility for a WAA award was decided at the council meeting held last Thursday. According to the council it will be necessary for every woman to attend 22 out of 24 class meetings for every sport in which she is signed.

* * *

A play night will be held by San Francisco State, Thursday night, to which WAA members of San Francisco Junior College have been invited. Sign-up sheets for the event will be in Gym A and Galileo, and the office at Powell Street. Women who wish to go should sign up. Regular gym clothes will be worn. State promises much in the way of excitement and hopes to have a large number of guests.

* * *

Tennis is forging ahead with the singles elimination tournament. The first round was completed last Saturday, the second round to be played by March 20. This tournament appears interesting in that it will prove which woman is the outstanding tennis player in the college.

* * *

Managers who do not take part in the sports which they head will resign in favor of the team captains. This was necessary because of the difficulty of keeping records of the sports, and of the amount of activity of the women who participate in them. This change will apply in baseball and hockey. Taneko Amemiya will head baseball. The hockey captain has not yet been chosen.

* * *

Various WAA clubs have been fortunate this semester in acquiring much new equipment. The baseball club now possesses a bat called "Louisville Slugger," of which they are justly proud, a number of balls, a catcher's mask, and mitts. The hockey club has received new hockey sticks, shin guards, and balls. The shin guards for the "goalie" have extra padding, and are larger and longer than those for the rest of the team. Injuries should be very few, according to the hockey club, with these new buffers. Fencing also has acquired new equipment and is now able to outfit a larger number of women than before. The tennis teams have a new locker at the Palace of Fine Arts in which they will keep their racquets and other tennis equipment.

Same Old Story; Sign Events on Calendar of Esoteric Affairs Body

Urging that all college organizations, planning activities, submit their selected dates to the Social Committee, Helen Davis, vice-president of the Associated Students, and Social Committee head, said that these organizations must have a petition signed by their adviser before any activity may be entered on the social calendar.

Miss Davis requested that all organizations send a representative to the Social Committee meetings which are held every Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the office of Eugenie Leonard, college vice-president and dean of women.

"By having these representatives present," Miss Davis said, "it will be possible to avoid any possible conflict in dates that may occur, and it will also make for better cooperation among the various organizations."

Camp To Be Auctioneer of Beta Phi's Lost and Found, Strayed, Stolen

Final arrangements for the auction to be sponsored by Beta Phi on Wednesday, March 31, have been completed, according to David York, fraternity president. The affair will be held at the Extension building between 11 and 12 o'clock, and will feature Bill Camp as auctioneer. The type of articles to be auctioned was not disclosed, but fraternity officials asserted that they would all be valuable and worth-while.

"Beta Phi asks the support of the entire student body in this auction, since all the funds realized in the sales will be used for a worthwhile cause," York said.

Sunny Day for SPCA As Cloud Entertains

Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, was host to a group representing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, at luncheon in the college dining room yesterday. President Cloud has been a member of the board of trustees of the society for several years.

Luncheon was prepared and served by the members of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the college.

ARE YOU WORTHY?

Prospective members of the Cap and Meg Society will be chosen this week, according to Deming Smith, president of the group.

"Students who would like to join the society must submit their names, class, and grade average to the society," said Smith. "From the group who follow instructions will be chosen approximately five new members. The choice will be made according to the interest the applicants show in the work of the group, which is to promote all athletic, social events, and assemblies."

Federal Government Wires for Helene Turner's Survey of NYA

That the survey compiled by Helene Turner, college NYA administrator, has been sent to Washington, D. C., in response to a request received from the White House was announced last week. Thomas Neblett, of the NYA Advisory Committee, has said that the survey will be used in a study of whether or not the youth program should continue.

The report compares achievements of women students working on the college with non-working women students. The NYA women, according to the test, proved to be definitely superior in scholarship and intelligence, and received more favorable scores in the Thurston psychological test, although they were outranked in physical health.

"I am particularly interested that the survey was requested at this time," said Miss Turner. "Since it so definitely shows a need for an NYA program here at San Francisco Junior College, it should be of some help in evaluating the achievements of the youth aid program."

Miss Turner gave a talk covering the vital points embodied in the report at the National Convention of Deans of Women recently held in New Orleans. The lecture attracted favorable comment in the East and served further to acquaint Eastern educators with NYA administration in California junior colleges.

Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

March 12—It was early yesterday afternoon, dear diary, when I entered the little closet called WJ that we use for a newspaper office. The sole occupant of this wee journalistic retreat was the editor herself, Madame Murphy.

"Ah, Elvira," she greeted me, "I have an assignment for you. Go to the offices of the Board of Education and ask them to put a good-sized newspaper office in our new building."

"Of course, dear Florence," I unhesitatingly replied. "How heart-warming it is to realize that you have at last recognized my superior diplomatic ability!" But where were these offices? I asked a passing student, and he said the City Hall.

I did not know where the City Hall was, but, as Cripes Squeedunk, editor-in-chief of the Hickville Union High School Monthly "Hick" used to say, "A good journalist don't ask no questions, see?" So, determined to find out for myself just what and where the City Hall was, I left.

I boarded a number 19 car outside the building. The motorman, who seemed to be the conductor also, was punching car-tickets with his teeth, making change with his hands, and running the car with one foot while the other opened and shut the doors that always seemed to be stuck. I waited until he took the punch out of his teeth and saw me. "Some way to make a living, huh?" he asked.

I said it was and asked where the City Hall was located. "I'll tell you when we come to it," he said.

So I sat down and waited. We rode and rode, but finally the motorman-conductor called out "She Hah!" So I thought maybe he meant the City Hall and got off.

The building before which the street car had stopped was a great big white structure resembling the Hickville County Hospital. I walked up the steps and in one of the doors and there was an elevator! The man who ran it was a little old man about 80 years old with an ear trumpet. "Where are the Board of Education offices?" I asked him.

"What say?" he replied.

I repeated my request. "Sixth floor," he answered, shutting the doors, and up we shot. Before you could say "Hickville forever," we had come to the sixth floor. Ah, dear diary, this is truly an age of speed!

The old gentleman opened the doors and said, "Second door to your right." I found this door, but it was locked and besides, it said on the front: "Board of Construction and Observation. J. Hepple-White Gotterdammerrung, Chairman." So I went to the next door, which said, "Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, National Guard, and ROTC, H. Smythe Smith, Scoutmaster." I cautiously opened it and there was a man in a lovely Army uniform shooting small pellets at the window with a bean shooter.

"Pardon me, sir," I said, "but you should not brandish dangerous militaristic weapons about in such a light-hearted manner."

He looked up, surprised, and then grew angry. "Oh," he said, "another Communist! Calling a brave red-blooded American citizen a militarist! Get outta here!"

I quickly shut the door, but he evidently wanted me to leave the building as well, for he ran after me, rang for the elevator, and hustled me out. I protested, but he paid no attention, not even when I asked him to tell the Board of Education to put a large newspaper office in our new building. But there must be something wrong with the City Hall, because I asked one of the janitors who the rude Army man was, and he said that he was Napoleon, and the janitor was Marshal Ney.

College Instructors Attend Frat Banquet

Forty neophytes of the University of California and Stanford were initiated at the annual meeting and banquet of Phi Delta Kappa at the Masonic hall, on March 6.

Junior college instructors attending were Dean Edwin C. Browne, Ward Nichols, Comptroller of Finance, Aldrich Smith, English instructor, and George Green, Geology instructor.

MAY ANNOUNCED AS PUBLICATION DATE OF FORUM

With literary contributions being received by the FORUM, the literary year book of the Forum Club, the editors announce that plans are successfully being put into operation, and that the mimeographed magazine will be published during the last week of May.

"Short stories, plays, articles, essays, and poetry have been coming in at a more or less constant rate, although the greatest amount of material is yet to be received," according to Donald Flash, editor. "The period following Easter vacation will probably see a greater and much more satisfactory flow of student literature."

The staff of the FORUM suggests that students use the vacation period for the purpose of writing articles or any form of literature, or for retouching some material which they may have done in the past. With the deadline set for April 21, only five weeks from today, writers are advised to avoid letting the time slip by without notice, and thus losing for themselves a chance for publication of their literary efforts.

Since the publication will consist of about 40 pages, with each page being 8½ by 11 inches in size, and elite type used, the mimeographed magazine will afford space for a large percentage of the total available material. The editorial policy consists of selecting the best the college has to offer in the way of literature, and at the same time choosing varied types of material so that a balanced and general selection may be attained.

LOVE ON A BET TO BE SHOWN AT GALILEO TODAY

Proceeds for Scholarship; Ticket Holders Excused From All 2:30 Classes

That money may be raised for their newly formed scholarship fund, the Women's Service Society will present a motion picture this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Galileo Auditorium, according to Parnel Brown, WSS president.

Love On a Bet, with Gene Raymond and Wendy Barrie, is the feature to be shown and tickets may be secured from Service Society members for 15 cents. All students having tickets will be excused from their 2:30 classes, Registrar J. Paul Mohr has announced, but as the movie is scheduled to last just one hour, students should attend their 3:30 classes and the last two hours of their three hour laboratory courses.

Speaking of other WSS activities for the semester, Miss Brown said that members had participated in a Spring clean-up of the AWS lounge during the Easter vacation.

"During the remainder of the semester" she said, "Service Society members will serve as hostesses in the women's lounge. There will be someone on duty every hour of the day and all women who have not visited the lounge as yet should come around and get acquainted."

Service Society women have also been invited to act as hostesses at the Northern California Junior College Conference to be held on April 17.

AMORI LECTURES ON VENEREAL DISEASES

Recently lecturing before a group of public health authorities at the University of California, Joe Amori, hygiene instructor here, spoke on the control of social diseases. He stressed the part education can play in the movement.

Amori will conduct a survey of all California junior colleges to determine the type of hygiene instruction offered, working with Dr. J. S. Force, chairman of the department of hygiene, University of California.

The State of California has definitely contributed two million dollars for the checking of these diseases, according to Amori, who said there will be free clinics and other institutions to give treatment. Education of the public with signs and pamphlets will play a large part in waging this campaign, he said. Speaking of the legislation that has been advocated by some to compel a thorough examination of all persons applying for a marriage license and, if either person is contaminated, to require him or her to go to a clinic for treatment, before permitting marriage.

VIRGINIA KWIATT TO FILL CLUB VACANCY

To fill a vacancy on its Board of Control made by the withdrawal of Marygail Konkel from college, Virginia Kwiatt was appointed by the Rifle and Pistol Club at its last meeting to the position of secretary. Priscilla Smith was appointed to Miss Kwiatt's former position, to keep board membership equal.

Three members of the teams have entered the National Rifle Association's individual matches, according to Coach William A. Hancock. These are Don Smith, Miss Kwiatt, and Betty Hyde, who shot their targets during the Easter week of vacation. No official scores have been turned in yet.

OPERA SINGER SOLOS AT MUSIC CLUB MEET

Solos by Gerald Pelosi of the San Francisco Opera Company, will be the feature of this evening's meeting of the music club, to be held at 1701 Broadway, Apartment 3, at 8 o'clock.

Pelosi will sing Santa Lucia; Rimpianto Serenade, written by Toselli; Aria of Opera Rigoletto, La Donna e Mobile, written by Guiseppi Verdi. Pelosi will be accompanied by his wife.

Dorothy Roberts, a member of the A Capella Choir, will sing Il Bacio, written by Ardit, Blue Moon, written by Logan; Ich Liebe Dich, written by Grieg.

Mayor Presented With Blue Prints For New Building

Construction of Central Unit Becomes First Concern Of School Board

In model and blueprint form, plans for the college buildings were formally presented to Mayor Angelo Rossi before a joint meeting of the Board of Education and Recreation Commission last Monday afternoon.

As previously outlined in The Guardsman, the building program is based on a unit conception, with the erection of the central unit building, costing approximately $700,000, the immediate concern of the Board of Education.

CENTRAL UNIT ON HILL

A three story, reinforced concrete building of new design, the central unit will be set on the highest point on the 27 acre site at Balboa Park, Ocean and Phelan Avenues, and will be easily accessible to carlines and campus. It will stretch 450 feet from north to south, 80 feet above the street level at San Jose Avenue. To the east and upon a sloping terrace will be four companion buildings of one story design, grouped at artistic angles forming the centerpiece for a long roadway entrance from the eastern approach.

Apart from the central buildings in the ultimate plan will be two separate groups bordering on Ocean Avenue, one comprising men's and women's gymnasiums, separated by a large athletic field from an auditorium, library and music building.

Representing months of work by architect Timothy L. Pflueger, the completed models and blueprints won enthusiastic support from President A. J. Cloud, members of the Board of Education, and the superintendent's office.

PLAN ECONOMICAL

Commenting on the models, C. Harold Caulfield, president of the Board of Education, said the plan as presented by Pflueger prescribes one of the most economical, complete and striking school plants yet designed, is highly artistic, and by reason of being set on a hill, will be one of the most imposing public buildings in San Francisco.

SIX ACRES SOUGHT

Actual ground breaking depends upon speed with which municipal machinery will move to transfer about six additional acres from the Recreation Commission to the Board of Education. This is necessary in order to square out the present "L" shaped site to provide a building scheme that will meet wind conditions in that area.

This drama is entitled, "What a salad can do to the unsuspecting!"

The scene is set in the kitchen of the Hotel and Restaurant Management class, where a beautiful salad concoction called "Maiden Blush" is being prepared. THUNDERBIRD CAPTURES THE WHALE

Like John Keats, Julius Twohy, young full blooded Ute Indian has found himself famous overnight.

A mural artist, his work is attracting wide attention at the current college sponsored exhibit of Federal Art work in the gallery of John Howell's Book Shop.

The young Indian painter was discovered grinding paints for one of the artists on the Washington SERA project by Joseph A. Danysh, regional advisor for the Federal Art Projects Administration.

The simplicity of the young Indian's designs impressed Danysh, and he submitted several of them to the directors of the Tacoma Indian Hospital. As a result Twohy has now nearly completed a group of paintings which will decorate the walls of the Children's Refectory in the Tacoma Indian Hospital.

In his murals Twohy uses the traditional symbols of the Northwest Indians as the basis of his designs. In his works he has woven them into an entirely individual pattern in which he interprets the progress of the Thunderbird legend, which is found in one form or another in hundreds of North American Indian tribes.

The artist shows how the legend, depicting a highly formalized thunderbird capturing a whale, has been gradually modified without losing the essential quality as it spread from tribe to tribe, the whale going through various stages of transfiguration, moose, elk, deer, mountain goat, to plains buffalo.

Some of his works are on display now with the junior college-sponsored Federal Art exhibit at 434 Post Street.

Julius Twohy at work transforming legend to mural, drawings of which are part of the current college sponsored FAP exhibit.

ARMY NAVY CLUB TO JAUNT ACROSS NEW GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

To discuss arrangements for the attendance of Army Day exercises on April 3, in the Presidio, the college Army and Navy Club gathered at the home of T. Gordon Sollman, president, Tuesday evening, March 30, at 8 o'clock.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce had secured fifteen reserved seats in the Presidio for club members to watch the colorful spectacle of marching troops and military maneuvering.

Another development taking place in the routine business of the club was the setting of the postponed March 21 trip to Moffatt Field and Sunnyvale to Sunday, April 11.

John Stewart, public relations, approached in regard to other action along the Army-Navy "front," said:

"After we visit Sunnyvale we intend to slow up a bit and see if we can't go across the Golden Gate Bridge for our trips into Marin County. Oh yes, we have two more new members, Tim Ross and Al Burr who'll take part in our initiation and our banquet at the Florence Restaurant on Montgomery Street on April 5. What with several social events in May and June, we've got a well stocked calendar."

City Prepares for Colossal Days To Celebrate Bridge Opening

San Francisco, on May 27, will begin a full week of festivity, ending June 2, to commemorate the completion of the Golden Gate Bridge, the highest and one of the longest bridges ever built by man.

In order to do justice to such a tremendous engineering achievement, San Francisco has prepared an elaborate celebration that promises to bring joy and delight to its citizens and hundreds of thousands of visitors.

BEAUTY TO REIGN

The most beautiful girl in 17 counties will be selected as queen, and many others as her attendants. She will be crowned on Tuesday night, May 25, and will reign throughout the Fiesta.

The Fiesta was postponed one week to enable the entire Pacific Coast Fleet to participate in the celebration. There will be approximately 70,000 officers and men taking part in the largest peace-time naval demonstration ever witnessed in an American port. Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Naval Operations, said that he would be able to send 150 warships to aid in the dedication. Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet, radioed from aboard his flagship, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, at sea, to the Fiesta Committee:

"Please be assured that I am very happy in finding a mutually agreeable solution to the problem of having the Fleet present during the bridge opening Fiesta. The Fleet will look forward to the occasion with great pleasure."

"FROM NORTH, FROM SOUTH"

The Fiesta Committee has sent commissioners to Canada, Mexico, San Salvador and Guatamala to obtain the cooperation of those countries in forming

Second FAP Exhibit Features Designs for Murals Mosaics

Expressing her delight at the splendid reception accorded the first college sponsored Federal Art Project exhibit, Dr. Eugenie A. Leonard, vice-president and dean of women, announced that the second exhibit, now on display, will continue until April 15.

"Although I considered the first exhibit very well balanced as to the type of material displayed," Dr. Leonard said, "I consider the second, which consists of designs for murals, mosaics and frescoes, to be unusually interesting. This is mainly because of the human interest involved, and because the designs shown are especially effective and beautiful. The whole exhibit represents, to my mind, a wonderful accomplishment, particularly because of the splendid cooperation existing among the artists who worked on the various design projects."

STUDENTS TO JUDGE

Dean Leonard announced that a committee of ten junior college students, five to be art students chosen by Richard Allman of the art department, and five to be named from the general student body, will be permitted to select the displays for future exhibits. This committee will be headed by Jerome Vloeberghs, junior college student. It was suggested that anyone interested in serving on this committee see Helene Turner, NYA director, as soon as possible.

"The most thrilling thing about the whole affair," Dean Leonard continued, "is that every student in the college will be able to vote on the three pictures he likes best at each exhibit. Voting cards will be left with the attendant, and those pictures receiving the most student votes will be used to form the nucleus of a permanent art collection for our new building."

MOTHERS INVITED

Exhibits scheduled for the remainder of the semester include: April 16-30—lithographs and prints. May 1-15—water colors and oils. May 16-31—a group of originals by Charles H. Suydam, taken from the books on San Francisco, New Orleans, and other interesting cities, which he has illustrated.

May 9 will be Mother's Day at the exhibit, and Dean Leonard urges that all students bring their mothers with them to help in the selection of favorite pictures.

TUBERCULIN TESTS OFFERED AGAIN APRIL 19, 20

Opportunity will be given to students of the college to take the tuberculin tests offered by the Department of Public Health on April 19 and 20, according to Doctor R. Duffrey Friedlander, college physician. The tests are not compulsory, but are given free of charge as a safeguard against tuberculosis infection.

The tuberculin test is a simple skin test similar to the Schick test for diphtheria. The purpose of the test is to determine if there is any trace of tuberculosis germs in the body.

Those interested in taking the test can obtain a blank from any of the hygiene instructors. These forms must be filled out and given to Dr. Freidlander before taking the test. A blank form will be found on page 4. All students under 21 years of age must obtain parent's signature before they will be allowed to take the test.

After taking the test, the student must return for a reading given in two days. If the test is positive, X-rays of the chest will be given.

PROTEST DISCUSSED

Discussion of the annual student protest against war, with Dick Criley, chairman of the first group protest at the University of California, and at present American Student Union organizer, giving first hand information, was featured by the Forum Club at their last meeting, Friday, April 2.

Mon., Wed., Fri., Tue., Thurs. NYA Job Open

Announcing that a position is open for a woman student, Helene Turner, NYA director in the college, urges that applicants see her as soon as possible.

Working hours for this position will be from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 1 p.m. or 2:30 p.m., Miss Turner said.

Ex Council Awards Rifle Team Emblem

Recognition was given the Rifle teams, and any other like organizations, which may develop in the future, by the Executive Council at its last meeting. A third award classification has been set up, which makes awards other than blocks or circles possible. The rifle teams will be the first to receive these awards.

An emblem, with a large white S in the background and a small red F on top and crossed rifles over these, has been selected by the teams as their choice of emblem. This has been approved by the Executive Council, according to John Stewart, president of the rifle club.

Saturday Night Dance For East Bayers; Informal No Stags Allowed

With the Social Committee as sponsors, the High Freshmen will be hosts at an informal dance to be held at the Western Women's Club next Saturday evening, April 10, according to Bob Anderson, class president. Dancing will be from 9 P. M. to 1 A. M. and admission is free with Student Body Cards, it was announced. There will be no stags admitted.

"We urge all students to attend this affair," Anderson said, "especially those who live in the East Bay. The dance will be held on Saturday instead of Friday in order that those who live across the bay may take part in this type of student sponsored activity. We sincerely hope that they will avail themselves of this opportunity."

Anderson has appointed a floor committee to handle the actual staging of the dance while the Social Committee is in charge of all arrangements. The floor committee is somewhat of an innovation at college affairs and its duties will be the regulation of conduct. The committee appointed by Anderson includes Preston Worsham, William Ravetto, Harold Mitchell, Henry Anderson, Fern Mulhime, Norma Parent, Claire Daly, Lorraine Hoftemeyer, and Robert Burrows.

The orchestra has not been selected as yet but it will be either that of Eddie Murphy or Billip-Richards. Both of these orchestras are well known to San Franciscans, so good music is assured at the affair.

This is the first informal dance sponsored by the college since early last semester and if it proves popular more affairs of this type will be held in the future, according to Helen Davis, head of the Social Committee. It was in acquiescence to strong demand that this High Frosh dance was changed to an informal affair after the original plans were for a semi-formal.

Music Group Appears In Merrymaker's Program

Making their first radio appearance of the semester, the A Capella Choir of the college was heard over the Merrymaker's program on Monday, March 22. Shortly following this performance the group was heard on the stage of the Fairmont Hotel and sang four songs which were recorded by the Sherman and Clay Company.

Flossita Badger, choir director, has announced that the Music Club is anxious to obtain new members. All those interested in joining this type of organization should attend a meeting this evening at 1720 Broadway.

B AVERAGE REQUIRED BY OMICRON PHI PI

Any student who has received an average of B plus or better in six units of economic principles, history, or business economics, is elegible for membership in the Economics Honor Society of the college according to John Buoncristiani, Omicron Phi Pi president.

Any one interested in joining the society is requested to communicate with Michael M. Zarchin, faculty adviser of the group, as soon as possible.

Dean Browne Awarded Degree For Paper On College Problems

Pursuing a comparatively new subject, that of the place of the junior college in educational systems, Dean Edwin C. Browne has released to The Guardsman the thesis that brought him last week the degree of Master of Arts, awarded by the University of California.

Entitled "Factors Affecting the Size and Type of the San Francisco Junior College", the thesis is based on and directed at the college specifically, with consideration for problems relating it to other California Junior Colleges. Because it appears at a time when the college has reached an appreciable development within two years of organization, the study suggests itself as an invaluable aid to guide further development and construction of college buildings.

ENROLLMENT INCREASES

In his thesis, Dean Browne has gathered figures proving that more San Francisco high school graduates are receiving the advantages of higher education than would have been able to do so had not the Junior College been established here.

Although San Francisco has a smaller percentage of students in junior college than Los Angeles, this percentage has grown steadily during the past two years, and, Dean Browne believes, will grow still more when San Francisco Junior College has the advantages of a new and modern building.

MOST IN INDUSTRY

A survey of all those employed in San Francisco showed that more than 20 per cent were in manufacturing industries, with trade and transportation also ranking high. Browne contends, therefore, that these are the fields for which most of the students should be prepared.

U. S. F. SPONSORS SCHOLARSHIP FOR SOPHOMORE MEN

Second Year Students Of 'B' Average Eligible For Award, Says Father Ring

Two scholarships, one for two years and one for one year, to the College of Liberal Arts at the University of San Francisco, have been offered the students of the junior college, Rev. Harold E. Ring, S. J., president of the University, announced this week.

"On behalf of the University of San Francisco," Father Ring said, "I am pleased to offer two scholarships to students of the San Francisco Junior College. It is my sincere hope that these awards will promote sound scholarship, and aid in developing a closer bond of friendship between San Francisco's oldest and San Francisco's youngest institution of higher learning."

SOPHOMORES ELIGIBLE

Men students who are completing their third or fourth semester, and who have maintained an average of B or better in University grade studies, are eligible. There will be no discrimination because of race or religious belief, Father Ring said.

A written examination will be given on May 15 at the University to test students' preparation in English composition and and literature, current events, sociology, American national government, hygiene, public speaking, philosophy, and economics. The two students with the highest grade in the examination will receive the scholarships, which are not transferable. They will be awarded by Archibald J. Cloud, Junior College President, at the annual commencement.

DECISION FINAL

The University of San Francisco scholarship committee will conduct the examination and grade the papers its decision to be final. The committee is composed of John Selig, chairman, Francis Colligan, Lloyd Luckmann, John Gaddy, and Mary Jane Learnard, all Junior College faculty members.

"The committee members will be pleased to consult with interested students concerning the content of the examination and the offerings of the University," Selig announced.

GIFFORD PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT CONFAB

Three instructors from the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the San Francisco Junior College, John Gifford, Chef Joseph Beyl, and J. Graham Sullivan attended the Federated Business Teachers Conference, which was held at the Hotel California, Fresno, California, Saturday, March 20.

The conference was divided into two sessions, which were conducted by Ira W. Kibby, Chief of the Bureau of Business Education. Consumer Education was the topic of the morning session, and Vocational Education was the subject for the afternoon discussion.

Gifford was one of the principal speakers. He presented the plan of organization of the hotel and restaurant management division here and described the results obtained through the curricula installed at the junior college.

RIFLE CLUB ENJOYS BANQUET AT VENETO

And a good time was had by all! This seemed to be the consensus of opinion of those Rifle Club members and guests who attended the club dinner held at the Veneto Restaurant, March 19. After dinner, speeches were short and sweet. The teams showed their appreciation of the efforts of Coach Wm. A. Hancock in guiding them through this semester by presenting him with a leather bill-fold. Ruth Peterson, professional vocalist, sang three numbers, accompanied by Walter Ullner on the guitar.

Chemistry Club to Hold Weiner Roast on April 9

Under the sponsorship of the Chemistry Club, a weiner roast and dance will be held at Sigmund Stern Grove on April 9 at 8 P. M. Tickets may be purchased from Anita McKay, Virginia Kwiatt, Bert Ward, or Eugene Brady. Price of admission is 25c a couple, or 15c apiece.

"We promise plenty of fun and weiners for everyone," said Brady, who is president of the club.

TRI-SPORT DAY SCHEDULED FOR YWCA APRIL 3

Announcement of a women's tri-sport play day to be held April 3 at the YWCA, 620 Sutter Street, was made by Vera Spencer, Women's Athletic instructor in the college. Invited to participate in the event are Marin and Santa Rosa Junior Colleges who will send basketball, badminton, and swimming teams.

It is estimated, according to Miss Spencer, that the college will enter 30 women in the play day. This number will be made up, first, of the members of the three clubs involved, and second, other women who are interested in those sports.

Tentative schedules for the day are as follows:

10:30-11:30 will feature doubles badminton matches and table tennis.

11:30-12:30 basketball. First game San Francisco versus Marin; second game San Francisco versus Santa Rosa, third game winners of the first two.

12:30-1:30 swimming meet, which will include as events 40 yard free style race, 60 foot racing backstroke, novelty relay, medley relay, and diving.

1:45 luncheon will be served in the YWCA cafeteria featuring speakers from each school, who will describe some of the new activities of their colleges.

Committee heads for the occasion include Pamel Brown, toastmistress, Eleanor Roche, manager of swimming who will head the decoration committee, and Jean Cassenilli who will chairman the committee for registration and sign-ups.

Cloud to Participate in Scholastic Meeting Wed.

As secretary-treasurer of the group, Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, will take an active part in the annual meeting of the Western Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, to be held at the St. Francis Hotel on Wednesday, March 24.

Counseling practices in the high schools of California will be discussed at the meeting, and the report of the commission on counseling practices in the higher institutions of California will be given.

Terminating the meeting, David Elton Trueblood, professor of Philosophy at Stanford University, will speak on Dynamic Education for Peace.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO SPRING TONIC PICNIC FOR HAA TOMORROW

With "spring tonic" as its theme, the semi-annual Household Arts Association picnic will be held tomorrow afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock at Sigmund Stern Grove, Jo Jordan, HAA president, has announced. All women students are invited to attend the affair, tickets for which may be purchased from any member of the organization for 25 cents.

"I would like to urge all women students to get their tickets today as early as possible," Miss Jordan said, "as it is the last day on which they will be sold."

"Food, fun and prizes" will be the motto of the outing, which will feature an Easter egg roll and a treasure hunt. Hostesses will be President Jo Jordan, Vice-President Anita de Martini, Secretary Tomeko Takahashi, Treasurer Louise Corica, and Faculty Sponsor Claire Cuneo.

Chairmen of the committees taking charge of the picnic are Marion Howard, games; Marjorie Delhi, ways and means; Caroline Originos, refreshments, and Anita de Martini, business.

Miss Jordan requested that HAA members selling tickets turn in ticket receipts and unused tickets to Miss de Martini not later than 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Men Students Wanted Now for NYA Positions

Two NYA positions are open for men students, according to Helene H. Turner, NYA head.

One man is needed for work Monday and Wednesday from 1 to 3:30 p. m. and on Tuesday and Thursday from 12 to 2:30 p. m. Another position is open for a man to work from 12 to 2:10 p. m. on Mondays and Wednesdays.

All applicants should report to Miss Turner in 210 Galileo, as soon as possible.

NYA Time Schedules Cut to Meet Reduced Funds

Because of a cut in NYA funds, Helen Turner, NYA director, instructed all NYA students to keep their time down to 31½ hours a month until further notice.

"I think there will be sufficient funds to last until the end of the term, and as there are only 18 days of school in June, the students will be able to work as many hours as they would ordinarily in any regular month, and make up for the smaller pay checks for the next three months," Miss Turner said.

Food Preparation Class Visits Schweitzer Plant

Members of the food preparation class of the hotel and restaurant management division of the college inspected the plant of Schweitzer and Company, wholesale butchers, Saturday, March 6.

Chef Jacques Beyl, instructor, Victor Robelet, Ralph Cummings, Wenzel Peck, Lawrence Wong, Charles Doudeit, Stuart Kingsland, H. Johnson, H. Gaak, and S. Purdy were among the group.

Chemists Visit Standard

For the purpose of observing how laboratory processes which students learn in the classroom are applied on a large scale in industry, the Chemistry classes of John E. Booher visited the Standard Oil Refinery at Richmond, California, yesterday.

WOMEN'S SPORTS PARADE

By PAT MADDEN

Mention has been made before of the offer of a matched set of tournament arrows to be given to the archer—or should it be archee—who made six consecutive bull's eyes. The sympathy of the entire archery class was extended to Helen Davis last Thursday when she made five consecutive bull's eyes, and just missed the last one by the fraction of an inch. This is quite a feat as is evidenced by the fact that so far there has been only one woman in the college who has been able to acquire the coveted prize. She is Edith Rand.

* * *

Margaret Wormell, WAA secretary, has been chosen to accompany Ruth Johnson, WAA president, to the joint AWS-WAA conference to be held April 16 and 17 at San Mateo.

* * *

Sign-ups for the mixed doubles tennis tournament have begun, and will continue until next Wednesday. Play will start the following weekend at the Palace of Fine Arts.

* * *

One of the requirements to be met for eligibility for a WAA award was decided at the council meeting held last Thursday. According to the council it will be necessary for every woman to attend 22 out of 24 class meetings for every sport in which she is signed.

* * *

A play night will be held by San Francisco State, Thursday night, to which WAA members of San Francisco Junior College have been invited. Sign-up sheets for the event will be in Gym A and Galileo, and the office at Powell Street. Women who wish to go should sign up. Regular gym clothes will be worn. State promises much in the way of excitement and hopes to have a large number of guests.

* * *

Tennis is forging ahead with the singles elimination tournament. The first round was completed last Saturday, the second round to be played by March 20. This tournament appears interesting in that it will prove which woman is the outstanding tennis player in the college.

* * *

Managers who do not take part in the sports which they head will resign in favor of the team captains. This was necessary because of the difficulty of keeping records of the sports, and of the amount of activity of the women who participate in them. This change will apply in baseball and hockey. Taneko Amemiya will head baseball. The hockey captain has not yet been chosen.

* * *

Various WAA clubs have been fortunate this semester in acquiring much new equipment. The baseball club now possesses a bat called "Louisville Slugger," of which they are justly proud, a number of balls, a catcher's mask, and mitts. The hockey club has received new hockey sticks, shin guards, and balls. The shin guards for the "goalie" have extra padding, and are larger and longer than those for the rest of the team. Injuries should be very few, according to the hockey club, with these new buffers. Fencing also has acquired new equipment and is now able to outfit a larger number of women than before. The tennis teams have a new locker at the Palace of Fine Arts in which they will keep their racquets and other tennis equipment.

Same Old Story; Sign Events on Calendar of Esoteric Affairs Body

Urging that all college organizations, planning activities, submit their selected dates to the Social Committee, Helen Davis, vice-president of the Associated Students, and Social Committee head, said that these organizations must have a petition signed by their adviser before any activity may be entered on the social calendar.

Miss Davis requested that all organizations send a representative to the Social Committee meetings which are held every Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the office of Eugenie Leonard, college vice-president and dean of women.

"By having these representatives present," Miss Davis said, "it will be possible to avoid any possible conflict in dates that may occur, and it will also make for better cooperation among the various organizations."

Camp To Be Auctioneer of Beta Phi's Lost and Found, Strayed, Stolen

Final arrangements for the auction to be sponsored by Beta Phi on Wednesday, March 31, have been completed, according to David York, fraternity president. The affair will be held at the Extension building between 11 and 12 o'clock, and will feature Bill Camp as auctioneer. The type of articles to be auctioned was not disclosed, but fraternity officials asserted that they would all be valuable and worthwhile.

"Beta Phi asks the support of the entire student body in this auction, since all the funds realized in the sales will be used for a worthwhile cause," York said.

Sunny Day for SPCA As Cloud Entertains

Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, was host to a group representing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, at luncheon in the college dining room yesterday. President Cloud has been a member of the board of trustees of the society for several years.

Luncheon was prepared and served by the members of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the college.

ARE YOU WORTHY?

Prospective members of the Cap and Meg Society will be chosen this week, according to Deming Smith, president of the group.

"Students who would like to join the society must submit their names, class, and grade average to the society," said Smith. "From the group who follow instructions will be chosen approximately five new members. The choice will be made according to the interest the applicants show in the work of the group, which is to promote all athletic, social events, and assemblies."

Federal Government Wires for Helene Turner's Survey of NYA

That the survey compiled by Helene Turner, college NYA administrator, has been sent to Washington, D. C., in response to a request received from the White House was announced last week. Thomas Neblett, of the NYA Advisory Committee, has said that the survey will be used in a study of whether or not the youth program should continue.

The report compares achievements of women students working on the college with non-working women students. The NYA women, according to the test, proved to be definitely superior in scholarship and intelligence, and received more favorable scores in the Thurston psychological test, although they were outranked in physical health.

"I am particularly interested that the survey was requested at this time," said Miss Turner. "Since it so definitely shows a need for an NYA program here at San Francisco Junior College, it should be of some help in evaluating the achievements of the youth aid program."

Miss Turner gave a talk covering the vital points embodied in the report at the National Convention of Deans of Women recently held in New Orleans. The lecture attracted favorable comment in the East and served further to acquaint Eastern educators with NYA administration in California junior colleges.

Diary of a Co-ed Journalist

March 12—It was early yesterday afternoon, dear diary, when I entered the little closet called WJ that we use for a newspaper office. The sole occupant of this wee journalistic retreat was the editor herself, Madame Murphy.

"Ah, Elvira," she greeted me, "I have an assignment for you. Go to the offices of the Board of Education and ask them to put a good-sized newspaper office in our new building."

"Of course, dear Florence," I unhesitatingly replied. "How heart-warming it is to realize that you have at last recognized my superior diplomatic ability!" But where were these offices? I asked a passing student, and he said the City Hall.

I did not know where the City Hall was, but, as Cripes Squeedunk, editor-in-chief of the Hickville Union High School Monthly "Hick" used to say, "A good journalist don't ask no questions, see?" So, determined to find out for myself just what and where the City Hall was, I left.

I boarded a number 19 car outside the building. The motorman, who seemed to be the conductor also, was punching car-tickets with his teeth, making change with his hands, and running the car with one foot while the other opened and shut the doors that always seemed to be stuck. I waited until he took the punch out of his teeth and saw me. "Some way to make a living, huh?" he asked.

I said it was and asked where the City Hall was located. "I'll tell you when we come to it," he said.

So I sat down and waited. We rode and rode, but finally the motorman-conductor called out "She Hah!" So I thought maybe he meant the City Hall and got off.

The building before which the street car had stopped was a great big white structure resembling the Hickville County Hospital. I walked up the steps and in one of the doors and there was an elevator! The man who ran it was a little old man about 80 years old with an ear trumpet. "Where are the Board of Education offices?" I asked him.

"What say?" he replied.

I repeated my request. "Sixth floor," he answered, shutting the doors, and up we shot. Before you could say "Hickville forever," we had come to the sixth floor. Ah, dear diary, this is truly an age of speed!

The old gentleman opened the doors and said, "Second door to your right." I found this door, but it was locked and besides, it said on the front: "Board of Construction and Observation. J. Hepple-White Gotterdammerrung, Chairman." So I went to the next door, which said, "Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, National Guard, and ROTC, H. Smythe Smith, Scoutmaster." I cautiously opened it and there was a man in a lovely Army uniform shooting small pellets at the window with a bean shooter.

"Pardon me, sir," I said, "but you should not brandish dangerous militaristic weapons about in such a light-hearted manner."

He looked up, surprised, and then grew angry. "Oh," he said, "another Communist! Calling a brave red-blooded American citizen a militarist! Get outta here!"

I quickly shut the door, but he evidently wanted me to leave the building as well, for he ran after me, rang for the elevator, and hustled me out. I protested, but he paid no attention, not even when I asked him to tell the Board of Education to put a large newspaper office in our new building. But there must be something wrong with the City Hall, because I asked one of the janitors who the rude Army man was, and he said that he was Napoleon, and the janitor was Marshal Ney.

College Instructors Attend Frat Banquet

Forty neophytes of the University of California and Stanford were initiated at the annual meeting and banquet of Phi Delta Kappa at the Masonic hall, on March 6.

Junior college instructors attending were Dean Edwin C. Browne, Ward Nichols, Comptroller of Finance, Aldrich Smith, English Instructor, and George Green, Geology instructor.

MAY ANNOUNCED AS PUBLICATION DATE OF FORUM

With literary contributions being received by the FORUM, the literary year book of the Forum Club, the editors announce that plans are successfully being put into operation, and that the mimeographed magazine will be published during the last week of May.

"Short stories, plays, articles, essays, and poetry have been coming in at a more or less constant rate, although the greatest amount of material is yet to be received," according to Donald Flash, editor. "The period following Easter vacation will probably see a greater and much more satisfactory flow of student literature."

The staff of the FORUM suggests that students use the vacation period for the purpose of writing articles or any form of literature, or for retouching some material which they may have done in the past. With the deadline set for April 21, only five weeks from today, writers are advised to avoid letting the time slip by without notice, and thus losing for themselves a chance for publication of their literary efforts.

Since the publication will consist of about 40 pages, with each page being 8½ by 11 inches in size, and elite type used, the mimeographed magazine will afford space for a large percentage of the total available material. The editorial policy consists of selecting the best the college has to offer in the way of literature, and at the same time choosing varied types of material so that a balanced and general selection may be attained.

Proceeds for Scholarship; Ticket Holders Excused From All 2:30 Classes

That money may be raised for their newly formed scholarship fund, the Women's Service Society will present a motion picture this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Galileo Auditorium, according to Pamel Brown, WSS president.

Love On a Bet, with Gene Raymond and Wendy Barrie, is the feature to be shown and tickets may be secured from Service Society members for 15 cents. All students having tickets will be excused from their 2:30 classes, Registrar J. Paul Mohr has announced, but as the movie is scheduled to last just one hour, students should attend their 3:30 classes and the last two hours of their three hour laboratory courses.

Speaking of other WSS activities for the semester, Miss Brown said that members had participated in a Spring clean-up of the AWS lounge during the Easter vacation.

"During the remainder of the semester" she said, "Service Society members will serve as hostesses in the women's lounge. There will be someone on duty every hour of the day and all women who have not visited the lounge as yet should come around and get acquainted."

Service Society women have also been invited to act as hostesses at the Northern California Junior College Conference to be held on April 17.

AMORI LECTURES ON VENEREAL DISEASES

Recently lecturing before a group of public health authorities at the University of California, Joe Amori, hygiene instructor here, spoke on the control of social diseases. He stressed the part education can play in the movement.

Amori will conduct a survey of all California junior colleges to determine the type of hygiene instruction offered, working with Dr. J. S. Force, chairman of the department of hygiene, University of California.

The State of California has definitely contributed two million dollars for the checking of these diseases, according to Amori, who said there will be free clinics and other institutions to give treatment. Education of the public with signs and pamphlets will play a large part in waging this campaign, he said. Speaking of the legislation that has been advocated by some to compel a thorough examination of all persons applying for a marriage license and, if either person is contaminated, to require him or her to go to a clinic for treatment, before permitting marriage.

VIRGINIA KWIATT TO FILL CLUB VACANCY

To fill a vacancy on its Board of Control made by the withdrawal of Marygail Konkel from college, Virginia Kwiatt was appointed by the Rifle and Pistol Club at its last meeting to the position of secretary. Priscilla Smith was appointed to Miss Kwiatt's former position, to keep board membership equal.

Three members of the teams have entered the National Rifle Association's individual matches, according to Coach William A. Hancock. These are Don Smith, Miss Kwiatt, and Betty Hyde, who shot their targets during the Easter week of vacation. No official scores have been turned in yet.

OPERA SINGER SOLOS AT MUSIC CLUB MEET

Solos by Gerald Pelosi of the San Francisco Opera Company, will be the feature of this evening's meeting of the music club, to be held at 1701 Broadway, Apartment 3, at 8 o'clock.

Pelosi will sing Santa Lucia; Rimpianto Serenade, written by Toselli; Aria of Opera Rigoletto; La Donna e Mobile, written by Guiseppi Verdi. Pelosi will be accompanied by his wife.

Dorothy Roberts, a member of the A Capella Choir, will sing Il Bacio, written by Arditi; Blue Moon, written by Logan; Ich Liebe Dich, written by Grieg.

Mayor Presented With Blue Prints For New Building

Construction of Central Unit Becomes First Concern Of School Board

In model and blueprint form, plans for the college buildings were formally presented to Mayor Angelo Rossi before a joint meeting of the Board of Education and Recreation Commission last Monday afternoon.

As previously outlined in The Guardsman, the building program is based on a unit conception, with the erection of the central unit building, costing approximately $700,000, the immediate concern of the Board of Education.

CENTRAL UNIT ON HILL

A three story, reinforced concrete building of new design, the central unit will be set on the highest point on the 27 acre site at Balboa Park, Ocean and Phelan Avenues, and will be easily accessible to carlines and campus. It will stretch 450 feet from north to south, 80 feet above the street level at San Jose Avenue. To the east and upon a sloping terrace will be four companion buildings of one story design, grouped at artistic angles forming the centerpiece for a long roadway entrance from the eastern approach.

Apart from the central buildings in the ultimate plan will be two separate groups bordering on Ocean Avenue, one comprising men's and women's gymnasiums, separated by a large athletic field from an auditorium, library and music building.

Representing months of work by architect Timothy L. Pflueger, the completed models and blueprints won enthusiastic support from President A. J. Cloud, members of the Board of Education, and the superintendent's office.

PLAN ECONOMICAL

Commenting on the models, C. Harold Caulfield, president of the Board of Education, said the plan as presented by Pflueger prescribes one of the most economical, complete and striking school plants yet designed, is highly artistic, and by reason of being set on a hill, will be one of the most imposing public buildings in San Francisco.

SIX ACRES SOUGHT

Actual ground breaking depends upon speed with which municipal machinery will move to transfer about six additional acres from the Recreation Commission to the Board of Education. This is necessary in order to square out the present "L" shaped site to provide a building schema that will meet wind conditions in that area.

Walter Scott Fails To Make Maiden Blush—Tsk!

This drama is entitled, "What a salad can do to the unsuspecting!"

The scene is set in the kitchen of the Hotel and Restaurant Management class, where a beautiful salad concoction called "Maiden Blush" is being prepared. To give one an insight into the intricacies of salad making here is repeated this recipe designed for men. It contains sliced pineapples, pears, oranges, bananas, celery, Bar le duc (currant jelly) and strawberries, etc. This delight is garnished with dressing containing whipped cream, jelly, and

THUNDERBIRD CAPTURES THE WHALE

Like John Keats, Julius Twohy, young full blooded Ute Indian has found himself famous overnight.

A mural artist, his work is attracting wide attention at the current college sponsored exhibit of Federal Art work in the gallery of John Howell's Book Shop.

The young Indian painter was discovered grinding paints for one of the artists on the Washington SERA project by Joseph A. Danysh, regional advisor for the Federal Art Projects Administration.

The simplicity of the young Indian's designs impressed Danysh, and he submitted several of them to the directors of the Tacoma Indian Hospital. As a result Twohy has now nearly completed a group of paintings which will decorate the walls of the Children's Refectory in the Tacoma Indian Hospital.

In his murals Twohy uses the traditional symbols of the Northwest Indians as the basis of his designs. In his works he has woven them into an entirely individual pattern in which he interprets the progress of the Thunderbird legend, which is found in one form or another in hundreds of North American Indian tribes.

The artist shows how the legend, depicting a highly formalized thunderbird capturing a whale, has been gradually modified without losing the essential quality as it spread from tribe to tribe, the whale going through various stages of transfiguration, moose, elk, deer, mountain goat, to plains buffalo.

Some of his works are on display now with the junior college-sponsored Federal Art exhibit at 434 Post Street.

ARMY NAVY CLUB TO JAUNT ACROSS NEW GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

To discuss arrangements for the attendance of Army Day exercises on April 3, in the Presidio, the college Army and Navy Club gathered at the home of T. Gordon Sollman, president, Tuesday evening, March 30, at 8 o'clock.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce had secured fifteen reserved seats in the Presidio for club members to watch the colorful spectacle of marching troops and military maneuvering.

Another development taking place in the routine business of the club was the setting of the postponed March 21 trip to Moffatt Field and Sunnyvale to Sunday, April 11.

John Stewart, public relations, approached in regard to other action along the Army-Navy "front," said:

"After we visit Sunnyvale we intend to slow up a bit and see if we can't go across the Golden Gate Bridge for our trips into Marin County. Oh yes, we have two more new members, Tim Ross and Al Burr who'll take part in our initiation and our banquet at the Florence Restaurant on Montgomery Street on April 5. What with several social events in May and June, we've got a well stocked calendar."

Second FAP Exhibit Features Designs for Murals Mosaics

Expressing her delight at the splendid reception accorded the first college sponsored Federal Art Project exhibit, Dr. Eugenie A. Leonard, vice-president and dean of women, announced that the second exhibit, now on display, will continue until April 15.

"Although I considered the first exhibit very well balanced as to the type of material displayed," Dr. Leonard said, "I consider the second, which consists of designs for murals, mosaics and frescoes, to be unusually interesting. This is mainly because of the human interest involved, and because the designs shown are especially effective and beautiful. The whole exhibit represents, to my mind, a wonderful accomplishment, particularly because of the splendid cooperation existing among the artists who worked on the various design projects."

STUDENTS TO JUDGE

Dean Leonard announced that a committee of ten junior college students, five to be art students chosen by Richard Allman of the art department, and five to be named from the general student body, will be permitted to select the displays for future exhibits. This committee will be headed by Jerome Vloeberghs, junior college student. It was suggested that anyone interested in serving on this committee see Helene Turner, NYA director, as soon as possible.

"The most thrilling thing about the whole affair," Dean Leonard continued, "is that every student in the college will be able to vote on the three pictures he likes best at each exhibit. Voting cards will be left with the attendant, and those pictures receiving the most student votes will be used to form the nucleus of a permanent art collection for our new building."

MOTHERS INVITED

Exhibits scheduled for the remainder of the semester include: April 16-30—lithographs and prints. May 1-15—water colors and oils. May 16-31—a group of originals by Charles H. Suydam, taken from the books on San Francisco, New Orleans, and other interesting cities, which he has illustrated.

May 9 will be Mother's Day at the exhibit, and Dean Leonard urges that all students bring their mothers with them to help in the selection of favorite pictures.

TUBERCULIN TESTS OFFERED AGAIN, APRIL 19, 20

Opportunity will be given to students of the college to take the tuberculin tests offered by the Department of Public Health on April 19 and 20, according to Doctor R. Duffrey Friedlander, college physician. The tests are not compulsory, but are given free of charge as a safeguard against tuberculosis infection.

The tuberculin test is a simple skin test similar to the Schick test for diphtheria. The purpose of the test is to determine if there is any trace of tuberculosis germs in the body.

Those interested in taking the test can obtain a blank from any of the hygiene instructors. These forms must be filled out and given to Dr. Freidlander before taking the test. A blank form will be found on page 4. All students under 21 years of age must obtain parent's signature before they will be allowed to take the test.

After taking the test, the student must return for a reading given in two days. If the test is positive, X-rays of the chest will be given.

PROTEST DISCUSSED

Discussion of the annual student protest against war, with Dick Criley, chairman of the first group protest at the University of California, and at present American Student Union organizer, giving first hand information, was featured by the Forum Club at their last meeting, Friday, April 2.

Mon., Wed., Fri., Tue., Thurs. NYA Job Open

Announcing that a position is open for a woman student, Helene Turner, NYA director in the college, urges that applicants see her as soon as possible.

Working hours for this position will be from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 1 p.m. or 2:30 p.m., Miss Turner said.

Ex Council Awards Rifle Team Emblem

Recognition was given the Rifle teams, and any other like organizations, which may develop in the future, by the Executive Council at its last meeting. A third award classification has been set up, which makes awards other than blocks or circles possible. The rifle teams will be the first to receive these awards.

An emblem, with a large white S in the background and a small red F on top and crossed rifles over these, has been selected by the teams as their choice of emblem. This has been approved by the Executive Council, according to John Stewart, president of the rifle club.

City Prepares for Colossal Days To Celebrate Bridge Opening

San Francisco, on May 27, will begin a full week of festivity, ending June 2, to commemorate the completion of the Golden Gate Bridge, the highest and one of the longest bridges ever built by man.

In order to do justice to such a tremendous engineering achievement, San Francisco has prepared an elaborate celebration that promises to bring joy and delight to its citizens and hundreds of thousands of visitors.

BEAUTY TO REIGN

The most beautiful girl in 17 counties will be selected as queen, and many others as her attendants. She will be crowned on Tuesday night, May 25, and will reign throughout the Fiesta.

The Fiesta was postponed one week to enable the entire Pacific Coast Fleet to participate in the celebration. There will be approximately 70,000 officers and men taking part in the largest peace-time naval demonstration ever witnessed in an American port. Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Naval operations, said that he would be able to send 150 warships to aid in the dedication. Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet, radioed from aboard his flagship, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, at sea, to the Fiesta Committee:

"Please be assured that I am very happy in finding a mutually agreeable solution to the problem of having the Fleet present during the bridge opening Fiesta. The Fleet will look forward to the occasion with great pleasure."

"FROM NORTH, FROM SOUTH"

The Fiesta Committee has sent commissioners to Canada, Mexico, San Salvador and Guatamala to obtain the cooperation of those countries in forming

High Frosh Jig Women's Club April 10 9 PM

Saturday Night Dance For East Bayers; Informal No Stags Allowed

With the Social Committee as sponsors, the High Freshmen will be hosts at an informal dance to be held at the Western Women's Club next Saturday evening, April 10, according to Bob Anderson, class president. Dancing will be from 9 P. M. to 1 A. M. and admission is free with Student Body Cards, it was announced. There will be no stags admitted.

"We urge all students to attend this affair," Anderson said, "especially those who live in the East Bay. The dance will be held on Saturday instead of Friday in order that those who live across the bay may take part in this type of student sponsored activity. We sincerely hope that they will avail themselves of this opportunity."

Anderson has appointed a floor committee to handle the actual staging of the dance while the Social Committee is in charge of all arrangements. The floor committee is somewhat of an innovation at college affairs and its duties will be the regulation of conduct. The committee appointed by Anderson includes Preston Worsham, William Ravetto, Harold Mitchell, Henry Anderson, Fern Mulhime, Norma Parent, Claire Daly, Lorraine Hoffemeyer, and Robert Burrows.

The orchestra has not been selected as yet but it will be either that of Eddie Murphy or Billip-Richards. Both of these orchestras are well known to San Franciscans, so good music is assured at the affair.

This is the first informal dance sponsored by the college since early last semester and if it proves popular more affairs of this type will be held in the future, according to Helen Davis, head of the Social Committee. It was in acquiescence to strong demand that this High Frosh dance was changed to an informal affair after the original plans were for a semi-formal.

Music Group Appears In Merrymaker's Program

Making their first radio appearance of the semester, the A Capella Choir of the college was heard over the Merrymaker's program on Monday, March 22. Shortly following this performance the group was heard on the stage of the Fairmont Hotel and sang four songs which were recorded by the Sherman and Clay Company.

Flossita Badger, choir director, has announced that the Music Club is anxious to obtain new members. All those interested in joining this type of organization should attend a meeting this evening at 1720 Broadway.

B AVERAGE REQUIRED BY OMICRON PHI PI

Any student who has received an average of B plus or better in six units of economic principles, history, or business economics, is elegible for membership in the Economics Honor Society of the college according to John Buoncristiani, Omicron Phi Pi president.

Any one interested in joining the society is requested to communicate with Michael M. Zarchin, faculty adviser of the group, as soon as possible.

Dean Browne Awarded Degree For Paper On College Problems

Pursuing a comparatively new subject, that of the place of the junior college in educational systems, Dean Edwin C. Browne has released to The Guardsman the thesis that brought him last week the degree of Master of Arts, awarded by the University of California.

Entitled "Factors Affecting the Size and Type of the San Francisco Junior College", the thesis is based on and directed at the college specifically, with consideration for problems relating it to other California Junior Colleges. Because it appears at a time when the college has reached an appreciable development within two years of organization, the study suggests itself as an invaluable aid to guide further development and construction of college buildings.

ENROLLMENT INCREASES

In his thesis, Dean Browne has gathered figures proving that more San Francisco high school graduates are receiving the advantages of higher education than would have been able to do so had not the Junior College been established here.

Although San Francisco has a smaller percentage of students in junior college than Los Angeles, this percentage has grown steadily during the past two years, and, Dean Browne believes, will grow still more when San Francisco Junior College has the advantages of a new and modern building.

MOST IN INDUSTRY

A survey of all those employed in San Francisco showed that more than 20 per cent were in manufacturing industries, with trade and transportation also ranking high. Browne contends, therefore, that these are the fields for which most of the students should be prepared.

U. S. F. SPONSORS SCHOLARSHIP FOR SOPHOMORE MEN

Second Year Students Of 'B' Average Eligible For Award, Says Father Ring

Two scholarships, one for two years and one for one year, to the College of Liberal Arts at the University of San Francisco, have been offered the students of the junior college, Rev. Harold E. Ring, S. J., president of the University, announced this week.

"On behalf of the University of San Francisco," Father Ring said, "I am pleased to offer two scholarships to students of the San Francisco Junior College. It is my sincere hope that these awards will promote sound scholarship, and aid in developing a closer bond of friendship between San Francisco's oldest and San Francisco's youngest institution of higher learning."

SOPHOMORES ELIGIBLE

Men students who are completing their third or fourth semester, and who have maintained an average of B or better in University grade studies, are eligible. There will be no discrimination because of race or religious belief, Father Ring said.

A written examination will be given on May 15 at the University to test students' preparation in English composition and and literature, current events, sociology, American national government, hygiene, public speaking, philosophy, and economics. The two students with the highest grade in the examination will receive the scholarships, which are not transferable. They will be awarded by Archibald J. Cloud, Junior College President, at the annual commencement.

DECISION FINAL

The University of San Francisco scholarship committee will conduct the examination and grade the papers. Its decision to be final. The committee is composed of John Selig, chairman, Francis Colligan, Lloyd Luckmann, John Gaddy, and Mary Jane Learnard, all Junior College faculty members.

"The committee members will be pleased to consult with interested students concerning the content of the examination and the offerings of the University," Selig announced.

GIFFORD PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT CONFAB

Three instructors from the Hotel and Restaurant Management Division of the San Francisco Junior College, John Gifford, Chef Joseph Beyl, and J. Graham Sullivan attended the Federated Business Teachers Conference, which was held at the Hotel California, Fresno, California, Saturday, March 20.

The conference was divided into two sessions, which were conducted by Ira W. Kibby, Chief of the Bureau of Business Education. Consumer Education was the topic of the morning session, and Vocational Education was the subject for the afternoon discussion.

Gifford was one of the principal speakers. He presented the plan of organization of the hotel and restaurant management division here and described the results obtained through the curricula installed at the junior college.

RIFLE CLUB ENJOYS BANQUET AT VENETO

And a good time was had by all! This seemed to be the consensus of opinion of those Rifle Club members and guests who attended the club dinner held at the Veneto Restaurant, March 19. After dinner, speeches were short and sweet. The teams showed their appreciation of the efforts of Coach Wm. A. Hancock in guiding them through this semester by presenting him with a leather bill-fold. Ruth Peterson, professional vocalist, sang three numbers, accompanied by Walter Ullner on the guitar.

Chemistry Club to Hold Weiner Roast on April 9

Under the sponsorship of the Chemistry Club, a weiner roast and dance will be held at Sigmund Stern Grove on April 9 at 8 P. M. Tickets may be puchased from Anita McKay, Virginia Kiwatt, Bert Ward, or Eugene Brady. Price of admission is 25c a couple, or 15c apiece.

"We promise plenty of fun and weiners for everyone," said Brady, who is president of the club.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS!

Educationally minded students who are interested in furthering their pursuit of knowledge, but who lack necessary funds, will soon be given a chance to compete for scholarships.

Two scholarships of free tuition at the College of Liberal Arts of the University of San Francisco are being offered to junior college men who are completing their third and fourth semesters here.

Sincere appreciation is to be extended to Rev. Harold E. Ring, S. J., president of the University who is mainly responsible for the offering of these scholarships, and to junior college faculty members John Selig, Francis Colligan, Lloyd Luckmann, John Gaddy and Mary Jane Learnard, who compose the committee in charge of the competitive examination involved.

It is noteworthy that this opportunity is being offered to San Francisco Junior College students alone.

The second opportunity is of an entirely different nature, but of equal importance from the viewpoint of the average student.

The Women's Service Society will offer two 50 dollar scholarships to students within the college. This money is to be used for continuance of junior college education and both men and women students are eligible. Recipients will be determined by a committee of Service Club members and faculty advisers. The exact date when applications will be available will be announced in a future edition of The Guardsman.

Students should be grateful for these opportunities that someone or some organization should have offered long ago. The Service Society is one of the few student activities to offer something worthwhile to the college—and worthwhile offerings by San Francisco Junior College organizations are, sadly enough, even fewer. Whatever other shortcomings the Service Society may have, its latest accomplishment alone justifies its existence.

ARTE POR EL ARTE

Horace once said, "Nothing is beautiful from every point of view." For that reason, the decision of the administration to allow students to select the objects of art they, personally, would prefer for the junior college's permanent collection, is particularly commendable.

Aside from the fact that a committee of five art majors and five "just plain students" is to select and to arrange the various college sponsored art exhibits, each and every individual student in the college will have the privilege of voting for the work he likes best at each display.

Because of this, everyone is urged to visit these exhibits. A complete schedule may be found elsewhere in this issue of The Guardsman. All students should make it a point to attend all future displays so that they may feel that they have had a part in the selection of the objets d'art that will have a place in the new junior college building.

FOR YOUR OWN GOOD

As has been pointed out in the editorial Opportunity Knocks, the Women's Service Society is soon to offer two 50 dollar scholarships to students of the college.

Before such scholarships can be given, it is necessary that a certain amount of money be raised. The first step toward the raising of this money is the presentation of the motion picture the Society is giving this afternoon in the Galileo Auditorium.

As the students of this college are the ones who will receive such benefits as may be derived from the gate receipts of the affair, it seems only natural that every one who can possibly do so should purchase a ticket and attend the show.

WHEN IS A SPORT?

With the Rifle Club-Block SF controversy just cleared up and with the present agitation by various minor sports, such as crew, for inclusion in the major sport category, it seems necessary to decide just what constitutes a major sport. In a college of this type, the income at the gate should be no factor, because the only athletic activity that comes close to being self-supporting is football. Tennis, baseball, soccer, basketball, and track are major sports also, but they have no means of bringing in any gate receipts. Thus the ever present argument of lack of self-support or spectator interest is not a factor in the classification of athletic activities in this college.

There is only one true definition of a major sport. It is whatever sport any student body makes a major sport. The distinction is that those who meet the requirements in a major sport win the block letter while the minor sports competitors are awarded a letter with a circle around it. Major sports and minor sports should be whatever the students say they are, with whatever awards they, through their student officers, determine to offer.—DON MIX

By FEM

Coming back after vacation, students were surprised to find the sidewalk in front of the Powell Street building covered with sand.

"Oh," thought those who think, "we have a nice little beach all our own! What fun! What good times we can now have!"

"Yep," said college wags, "all we need is an ocean and," (significantly patting the head of the nearest curly haired tot) "we already have the waves!"

Our country cousins, having reluctantly left Podunk Hollow to return to classes, clapped their hands with joy at the sight of a bit of country in the center of the city, and the social calendar was crammed full of plans for weenie roasts and moonlight swims.

Then came the dawn! (O.K., the next day if you must be practical.) During the night somebody came along and removed all of our beautiful beach, revealing brand new, super-super, non-skid sidewalks! Surprised? Well, don't feel self-conscious, we all were.

Despite the fact that non-skid sidewalks have their points, no one could help but mourn the loss of what would have been perhaps the most unusual campus in the world, and tears flowed freely for days.

Ah, well, cheer up, kids, remember, it might have been just a tiny bit hard trying to explain just how there happened to be sand all over your shoes when you'd been at school all day!

* * * *

Personal: Will the person or persons who wrote that anonymous letter to Pay Dirt Author Jack Campbell, please send the gal who "doesn't d............, s............ or play around, and never has" to W. J. some day soon? Jack, it seems, would like to look her over!

(Ed. Note: Censorship!)

* * * *

We don't know his name, but here's a great big hand to the young man who recently detached himself from a Powell Street bull session long enough to offer his arm to an elderly lady who was having a difficult time making her way down the wet, slippery hill. After seeing her safely to the corner, he returned to his friends and, strangely enough, not one wise crack ensued. It's rather heart warming to find that good old-fashioned courtesy has not died out completely.

Just take a look westward on the next foggy day. Do you see the Golden Gate Bridge? Oh, but it IS there!

If TWO ships, traveling at about ten miles per hour, and in lanes upward of a half a mile in width, collide in the fog, what's going to happen to TWO HUNDRED cars speeding through the same mist five times as fast in ten-foot lanes, with the wind sitting in the game of bridge at a hundred miles an hour? It looks as though North and South traffic would be vulnerable.

* * *

Here's a suggestion, horrible perhaps, but apropos: Why not paint the Golden Gate Bridge auto lanes red? Then our Health Department won't have to bother removing bloodstains, which would be "off-color" on paintless roads.

And now, a prediction: There will be at least six major accidents, with ten people killed and five more seriously injured, in the first foggy week after the opening of the new bridge.

For your information: The auto ferries to Marin will still be located at the foot of Hyde Street.

SPOTLIGHT
By Don Mix

"He's a block man." . . . These magic words can transform the most insipid appearing individual into a worship inspiring personage before the eyes of almost any junior college student. We use the word "almost" advisedly, because to some students of this college the mere intimation of any physical activity more strenuous than chess causes them to view that person in the same manner they look at a beautiful horse—rather impressive looking, but not very useful.

We personally cannot agree with either of these two very common attitudes. We find it rather difficult to pretend that block wearers are some sort of a race of super-men, and yet we cannot allow ourselves to agree with those warped persons who think that intellect is an impossibility to an athlete. A block is certainly a mark of distinction, but it seems that relatively too much importance is placed upon it by many students.

To wear an "SF" is a very fine thing, but it surely shouldn't be the sole objective of athletic participation. We know that many of you will scoff at this opinion, but that is merely because our present day collegiate athletic system has given the amateur sportsman a distorted sense of values in regard to the true benefits that are to be derived by "playing the game". The physical advantages of any sport and the undefinable satisfaction that comes with successful competition, whether it be a grid championship or a pickup game of "hunch" in one of the gym classes, are in themselves sufficient reward for the expenditure of our time and energy. Those of us who lack the ability to make a varsity team, or who participate in one of the unglorified minor sports, or who merely cavort in a required physical ed period, have perhaps gained as much from our competition as the fellow who wears the coveted 40 cent block sewed on his sweater. We can hear all the lads remarking that "Mix is punchy" when they read this, but, in defense, we say that aside from the fact that we think these impressions on the current block situation at the college are fundamentally sound, they also have the advantage of being the basis of a very comfortable philosophy for all of us would-be athletes . . . so, strange as it may seem, we actually believe all these ideals about which we have been blathering.

Junior College night at the Palace Hotel held last Friday night was one of the most successful affairs of this kind that the College has had. Rumor has it that there will be a San Francisco Junior College and San Francisco State dance there in the near future.

April 10—the big High Frosh informal dance will be held at the Western Women's Club. The affair promises to start at 9 o'clock. No stags allowed. Price of admission will be one student body card per couple. Feeling prevails that this will be one of the most successful dances of the year. We'll see you all there.

The Beta Phi Auction will be held today between 11 A.M. and 1 P.M. Some really good articles will be sold to the highest bidder. Drop around and see.

The men will have their first big affair of the year at the Verdi Club on April 16. Trials for the fights will be held soon. Plenty of action and good time to be had by all is guaranteed by the Committee in charge. Women are invited.

Good luck to our Baseball team in their game with Santa Rosa at Santa Rosa next Saturday.

Don't forget the Beta Phi Spring Dance on April 30 at the Century Club.

The students appreciated the sheet last year. Men and women scribes take a much-needed rest.

A newcomer to the feminine world of fashion and beauty is the charm school, which is now well established beside the beauty shop, the couturiere, and the health club as a vendor of commercialized loveliness. You see pupils of the best-known institutions of "personality development" posing for pictures in the papers (guess which papers) in a photographic demonstration of the right and wrong ways to hold a teacup. Tucked away in the same paper, look hard and you'll find an advertisement gushing: "Learn to live ZESTFULLY! Annabelle Axe will help you! Poise, grace, personality development, etiquette taught. Course, $25."

Now one might inquire if she can become a siren, a smoothie, or even an ordinarily attractive female for 25 dollars. At first it might seem possible, at least to some degree. But on thinking through the matter logically, Miss Axe's argument doesn't hold. If it did, the ladies of this world who can afford to keep up the "better dress shops," the beauty salons, and the charm schools that crowd the shopping districts would have it all over the girls who do their own hair and nails, buy their clothes in moderately priced department stores and hope for the best. Most of them, however, are no more fortunate or unfortunate than we are, which should explode the theory that you can buy charm, along with hair and complexions, in tin cans.

Of what value, then, is Miss Axe's academy? It is, of course, helpful to be familiar with the rules of etiquette and even more helpful to know how to walk gracefully and how to radiate self-confidence. But these are qualities that any enterprising girl can develop herself. As for instruction in the art of making conversation, such instruction is all too likely to make the eager student a stilted and affected talker. You know the bridge-party guest who trills, "Lo-ovely pahty, isn't it, de-ah!"

However, here's a suggestion to the ladies who run the magnetism colleges: If you want to do mankind a service (and we hope you do), try to instill into your students a genuine and sincere interest in the other fellow, in other words, discourage the self-centered attitude. AND—try to humanize and otherwise reform that scourge of the campus, office, high school and business college, the catty, maneuvering female.

AFTER DARK

Alexander Woollcott is one of America's better wags. Proof of this is to be had each Tuesday and Thursday on the Columbia broadcasting system. Promptly at 9:30 of an evening, the Woollcott better English wafts its amicable way along the ether waves. And you may be assured that America's most amazing radio audience automatically draws up its chair each evening, for the Woollcott voice and the Woollcott personality "hath charms" aplenty.

Alexander, as everyone who reads his books or listens to him feels free to call him, is a quaint conglomeration of everything American: an example of a well-educated and well-informed college graduate who enjoys any and all good books, takes in the plays and cinema, likes to know lots and lots of people of all kinds, and loves to eat. Practically all of the pleasant vices of the "All-around" American. In 1917-18 he did his bit for his country, and from then on has enjoyed a delightful existence full of everything Americans like to do.

At an early age, Mr. Woollcott would undoubtedly have retired to a comfortable position in an office and reminisced about old times and trophies—but he happens to have a flair for telling a good yarn. If you should happen to disagree or doubt this, find a volume called While Rome Burns, and read one section with special purpose entitled It May Be Human Gore. And if it were not for Alexander's ability to be an up-and-coming-at-'em fellow, he might yet have retired a few years ago as an American "classic".

But not Alexander Woollcott. He happens to know what keeps the pot boiling. For instance: at one of the one-act play sessions of Noel Coward now current on Broadway, Mr. Woollcott perambulated, so the story goes, up the center aisle, politely late, and seated himself in the middle of the first row. All would have been forgiven if Mr. Woollcott had not previously provided himself with Harpo Marx's blond wig and even now had it on.

The Woollcott popularity with a certain enormous intellectual group in this country is one of the phenomenon of present day radio. Aside from the tremendous number of his personal friends, Alexander has made many more with those who only know his books and hear his broadcasts. It is common knowledge that when he likes a book well enough to tell his radio audience about it, the publishers put on night-shifts: they know the demand that will follow. Woollcott helped to make "best sellers" of The Forty Days of Musa Dagh and Good-By, Mr. Chips. And when he asks his listeners to contribute to some worthy cause, the matter is taken care of generously.

All of which only proves more conclusively Mr. Woollcott's right to a place in the ranks of America's admirables. If it weren't for them, this would be a sparkless age. There has always been an appropriate sophistication and sentimentality; without it an era has no spirit. As to its historic and permanent merit—that is not important. It is important that you, as participants in this century, must appreciate them, or you will have lost the essence that is your era.

To enjoy and to understand the talent and even genius that goes into this contemporary world is to know Helen Morgen's singing of My Bill, Igor Stravinsky's music, Lotte Lehman's lieder singing, Fred Astaire's dancing, Woollcott's selected books, and those of Donald Peattie. Such as these gives you a wide and full understanding of what your age has produced, and what it has to offer the ages to come.

LAMB'S RAMBLING
By LAMBERT MEYER

"Rain, Rain, Go Away" was the theme song of the San Francisco coaches and athletes during the Easter holidays, but that wet weather just wouldn't let up to allow the various teams time to practice or participate in competition. It wasn't raining Pennies From Heaven (special permission of the copyright owners), but just plain ordinary liquid sunshine that had the athletic department gnashing its teeth from Monday till Saturday.

First the San Mateo-Ram baseball game and track meet were called off because of too much Jupiter Pluvius. Then practice was halted from Saturday until Wednesday in all sports because of more dew drops. The Lowell-San Francisco game was forgotten, but on Thursday the baseball men had a chance to play and lost to Galileo. A double header scheduled with Compton Junior College on Saturday got under way at 2 o'clock at Funston but the first game ended in the sixth inning as more water began to fall in torrents. By this time Lee Eisan and his men were ready for padded cells. A game of water-polo would have been more appropriate.

Coach Sweet's trackmen had absolutely no chance to make use of the Commerce facilities. The Mateo meet may never take place.

We're wondering if the baseball team will ever wind up its conference schedule. The team is down on paper to play 20 contests, and up to now the Eisanmen have met but one ball club. SUNNY CALIFORNIA!

With the addition of three new junior colleges to the Northern California Junior College Basketball Conference, it looks like a tough hoop season for all concerned. The new entrants, Salinas, Placer, and Armstrong, have been clamoring to be taken into the loop for a long while. All have boasted fine basketball teams in the past and are sure to cause the coaches plenty of consternation. A 14 game schedule for the Ram quintet means a hard fight to stay on the upper part of the league ladder. The Ram basketeers will have stiff competition next season, as they play all their old rivals with the exception of Santa Rosa. The Cubs' place is taken by the Salinas quintet.

Perhaps the wrong time to chat basketball, but we're sure mentor Conlan's thoughts are not running in different channels. Eagle-eye "Dutch" is always on the lookout for outstanding cage material.

Our gallant crew men resting on their laurels, are now taking part of their workout on the basketball court. The overgrown stalwarts are a pretty sight to behold on the hardwood, dribbling and passing the ball around with all the agility of baby elephants. "Blubber" Schoenfeld and Don Mix at the starboard (we mean forward) positions handle the pellet with all the grace of ballet dancers. In all, the rowers as basketball stars are darn good crewmen.

Coach Gaddy's oarsmen, after their victories over the Balboa and St. Ignatius boats, are looking forward to their race with the California Freshmen on April 17 on the Oakland Estuary.

No meets on tap this week-end for Coach Russ Sweet's cindermen. The runners, jumpers and weightmen get a two week layoff until they meet the California freshmen team on April 17 at Berkeley. The squad suffered a loss when Bill Rocktoff, ace quarter miler, left the college. Workouts are still held daily at the Commerce oval. John Dissmeyer, new track manager, will aid Sweet in having the track and field equipment fit and ready at all times.

More medals and honors were heaped upon San Francisco's swimming star Herb Brotman during the past two weeks. If Herb keeps winning races at this dizzy pace, it won't be long before his string of aquatic titles takes up most of this column. Right now Brotman is the Pacific Association 100 yard champion, 50 meter champion, Northern California 100 meter champion, and world record holder in the 50 yard and 50 meter breast-stroke. Besides these titles, he is a member of the world record holding 150 yard medley relay trio and the 400 yard relay squad.

Two weeks ago, the bronzed swimmer annexed the 100 meter men's senior

Around the Bases

If there are any hitters on the Ram baseball team, here is their chance to win a beautiful permanent trophy for their efforts. The Guardsman will offer to the leading batter a silver statuette, standing about five inches high.

The award, depicting a baseball player in the motion of swinging a bat, will be given annually to the player with the highest conference batting average. This will not include games with junior colleges or schools not in the N. C. J. C. conference.

At the present time, rules are being worked on by Baseball Coach Lee Eisan and this correspondent as to who will be eligible. In order to be fair to players who do not play on the first team or in every game, it is expected that almost all men will be eligible. A pinch hitter, although he plays but a short while, may be as valuable to the team as the man who plays in every game for nine innings.

So, all you willow wielders, start pasting that ball around. Let's see who'll be the first man to take the trophy.

While slumming through the exchanges the other day, we came across an item in one of the State school papers called the Golden Gater. The bold headlines shouted: "GATER SQUAD TROUNCES RAMS ON DIAMOND." The Alley-Gaters are the inhabitants of the fire-trap located on Haight and Buchanan Streets.

Knowing that the baseball game with the Stumbling Staters had been called off on account of wet grounds, the item interested us. It seems that the press had been set up for a State victory way before the day of the contest. When the game was cancelled, they thought it would look pretty nice to have news concerning a Purple and Gold victory over the Rambling Rams streaming in headlines.

If you remember, earlier this season the Ram basketball team won two of its easiest games from State, running the score up to 50 in both contests. Lately the Red and White tennis team trounced a highly publicized, but that's all, State Squad. So that makes the score for the year 1937—S. F. J. C., 3; State, 0.

Well, the Haight Street Crocodiles can chalk up another victory.

Although this is the fourth week of the baseball season, only three series have been played, Modesto engaging in two of them. The Pirates are leading the league, having scored double victories over Santa Rosa and splitting a series with Marin.

Sacramento, with two wins over the Rams, is in second place, while Marin, with one victory, is third. The race is running in pre-season form, with the favored Sacramento and Modesto nines still the tops.

The Mariners showed they will have to be reckoned with when they defeated the Pirates in one game. Their All-Conference pitcher, however, Bob Creighton, went down in the first game, which may mean that he isn't so good as last year when he was able to go through a whole season with only one loss, which came in the last weeks of the play.

Saturday, Marin tackles Sacramento at the Capitol City, while Modesto meets San Mateo at Modesto.

During the recent Bay Region rainy spell, at least six games had to be cancelled because of wet grounds. This period of inactivity has left the nine with little practice under fire.

Games with Lowell, Sacred Heart and Compton, which was called in the sixth inning, were postponed during the Easter vacation. The past week saw the scheduled California Frosh tilt washed out.

The prices of haircuts and shaves have gone up, but Jack "Barber" Berutich will give both for his same low price of 25 cents. Jack is the official barber of the baseball team, and any time you feel like having an arm or leg talked off of you, just look him up.

Santa Clara Freshmen made it two straight over the Rams on March 18 when they put over their second 6-4 victory. Like the first game, most of the yearling's runs were unearned. Al Giddings, who took the mound for the locals, threw good ball up to the fourth frame when he was batted out of the box.

Al wasn't responsible, for the onslaught for 3 errors on the field when the side should have been retired, put him in a bad hole. At the time, the Red and White was leading 4-0, but after the fatal fourth, the Frosh were ahead, 5-4. One more run in the fifth brought the final count to 6 runs for the home team.

Tony Scafani and Jack Berutich, with two hits apiece, led the Junior College attack. A long triple in the initial canto by Joe Ardanaz led to the first Ram tally.

We received a letter from Walter Mails, the Seals publicity man, inviting all junior college students to come out to Seals Stadium this season and enjoy the great National pastime which got under way on the Pacific Coast last Saturday.

The students will receive a special rate of 10 cents for the bleacher seats and 25 cents for grandstand seats. Free days for the kiddies are on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

EISANMEN TAKE TWIN BILL FROM BUC HORSEHIDE

A slashing single to right-field by slugging Joe Ardanaz in the twelfth inning broke up a thrilling contest and gave the Ram nine its first conference win and a 10-9 victory over Modesto in the opening game of the series. San Francisco came back to take the seven inning affair by one run, 5-4, to make the day complete.

Both teams were held scoreless in the tenth and eleventh, but the Rams missed a chance to end the tilt in the latter inning. Tony Scafani, the lead-off man, got on base on a walk and was brought around to second by his team-mates. With two down, Paul Hjort connected for single to center, giving Tony a chance to scamper home. However, Tony was held up at third base when he would have surely scored as the Modesto throw to home was wild.

Again in the twelfth and final frame the Red and White had to come from behind to win. The Pirates had scored one run in their time at bat and looked to be the winners. The first man to the plate whiffed, and Holmes, a pinch hitter drew a walk. Larry Wilgus hit one over short to bring the runner to third.

Tony Scafani came to bat to attempt to squeeze the man in and in so doing missed a ball that jumped out of the glove of the catcher, giving Holmes a chance to reach the plate safely. The tally brought the score up to 9-9.

Uneasiness ruled the grandstands and the Ram bench as the next batter struck out. But little Joe Ardanaz was now up and he hit one of the pitcher's offerings into right-field to send Wilgus across the plate with the winning run.

The Ram offense was at its best and hammered the Buccaneer pitcher for 16 basehits. Joe Ardanaz gathered a home-run and two singles, Michey Berman four singles and Paul Hjort three blows to lead the attack.

The victory in the first game restored the dwindling Ram spirit and they came on to take an easy seven inning contest. Coach Lee Eisan's boys took the lead in the second inning and held the upper hand throughout.

Scoring started early with Modesto tallying once in the first. San Francisco tied it up at 1 apiece and in the second scored again to go out in front at 2-1.

Things started popping in the third when the Pirates put three hits together for two runs and went ahead at 3-2. But the Eisanmen also managed to get three bingles and climbed ahead to stay.

It was San Francisco's first series victory in the conference and puts them in a percentage tie for first place with two wins and two losses. The victory itself was impressive but the fact that they beat the high-riding Modesto outfit makes it more important.

SWEET MAKES HOLE IN ONE AT HARDING PARK

Coach Russ Sweet is today a member of that world famous "Hole in One Club," as a result of his brilliant ace on the 194 yard eighth hole last week at Harding Park.

Sweet selected a number two iron to take the memorable shot and banged the pellet straight as an arrow into the tiny six-inch cup 194 yards away.

As he stood on the tee and watched the ball disappear from view, Sweet was not sure whether his eyes were deceiving him or not. It was his idea that the pill had rolled behind the pin sticking in the cup.

"What a thrill to look down into the hole and see that white ball grinning at you," said Sweet.

Witnesses to the unusual shot were Roy Mort Sr., father of the Mission Reds' first baseman, and "Scotty" Heron, crack professional championship player.

Yes, Russ will give full details, with gestures, free for the asking.

CAMERA STOPS ARROW IN FLIGHT

"Quick, Henry, the target!" is the call at Funston Field these days, as junior college Dianas (above) report for their daily work out. Archery has become one of the most popular sports in the women's Physical Education department and there are more women participating this semester than at any previous time.

All-Conference Selection Finds Way Into Guardsman

Because of the Easter vacation, the Guardsman sport staff has been a trifle late in presenting the Northern California Junior College All-Conference basketball team as chosen by coaches of each college at the annual meeting a few weeks ago.

Ernie Loustalot, San Francisco player, was named as forward on the mythical team, the only man on the Ram quintet to take a position.

Modesto Junior College places two players on the team, while Marin and Santa Rosa had one each.

The All-Conference team:

Forward......Ernie Loustalot, San Francisco
Forward..........Robert Norman, Modesto
Center..............James Rickert, Modesto
Guard............Roy Soekland, Santa Rosa
Guard..........................John Allen, Marin

Paul Rippon and Gus Kotta, Ram high scoring forwards received honorable mention. No second squad was chosen.

This quintet was very close to the five men picked by the staff of the Guardsman. The scribes selected Norman, Rickert, and Soekland, but differed when they selected Perry of Modesto as a guard and Kotta of San Francisco as a forward. Nevertheless the Guardsman's second squad was made up of Loustalot and Allen.

At the meeting it was decided to add three new members to the Junior college basketball circuit, Salinas, Placer, and Armstrong. Each basketball team will play 14 conference games instead of 12 as was the case in 1937.

Following is the probable 1938 San Francisco hoop schedule as drawn up by the Conference Committee.

January 14-15....San Francisco vs. Menlo
January 21-22.....San Francisco vs. Yuba
January 28-29....San Francisco vs. Salinas
February 4- 5....San Francisco vs. Marin
February 11-12..........S. F. vs. Sacramento
February 18-19.............S. F. vs. Modesto
March 4-5....San Francisco vs. San Mateo

This schedule is subject to change.

Because of the repeated questioning of the final conference standings, The Guardsman offers the final league ratings once more.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Modesto	12	0	1.000
Marin	9	3	.750
San Francisco	8	4	.667
San Mateo	6	6	.500
Sacramento	3	9	.250
Santa Rosa	3	9	.250
